61 I. C. 836 : 2 P. L. T. 78 :
A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 286.

———S. 107—Knowingly aiding in disposal of stolen property, if abettor.

A person who knowingly aids in the disposal of stolen property falls under the third definition under S. 107 and is an accomplice. Maruthalayan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 633 :
155 I. C. 74 : 1934 M. W. N. 1140 :
67 M. L. J. 693 : 40 L. W. 873 :
58 Mad. 86 : 7 R. M. 544 :
A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 721.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 107—Omission to prevent beating, whether abetment.

To constitute abetment, there must be under S. 107, Penal Code, either (1) instigation, (2) conspiracy, or (3) actual aid either by an act or an illegal omission. The mere fact that the accused was sitting by when another person was beating a third, and did not interfere, is not sufficient to constitute abetment. Emperor v. Chanda.

26 Cr. L. J. 470 :
85 I. C. 150 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 126.

———S. 107—Speaker singing revolutionary song at meeting—President, if abettor.

Where a person sings a revolutionary song at a meeting, the President is not guilty of abetment. Simply doing nothing is not an act, and unless there is a duty to do something, there is no illegal omission. Emperor v. Bepin Behari.

33 Cr. L. J. 699 :
138 I. C. 763 : 36 C. W. N. 191 :
I. R. 1932 Cal. 519 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 549.

———S. 107—Licensed driver permitting unlicensed driver to drive—Latter driving rashly or negligently—Former whether guilty of offence of abetment.

A licensed driver permitting an unlicensed one to drive a motor vehicle cannot for that reason alone be charged with abetment of the offence of rash or negligent driving by the latter, under S. 107, though he may be guilty of an offence under Motor Vehicles Act. The charge of allowing an unlicensed man to drive a motor vehicle is not included logically in the charge of abetting his driving rashly and negligently. Mahomad Jamal v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1077 :
119 I. C. 536 : I. R. 1929 Sind 216 :
A. I. R. 1930 Sind 64.

———Ss. 107, 109—Abetment by omission.

It is not an abetment of the offence for the master to omit to give information to his servant, unless the omission were illegal, that is to say, in disobedience of an obligation imposed upon him by law. Emperor v. Cooverji.

5 Cr. L. J. 176 :
9 Bom. L. R. 161.

———Ss. 107, 109, 182—Cases under S. 182—Applicability.

Ss. 107 and 109, Penal Code, apply to cases under S. 182. Person instigating another to make a false report can be convicted under S. 182 read with S. 109. Dawar Singh v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 102 :
172 I. C. 23 : 1937 A. L. J. 881 :
10 R. A. 383 : 1937 A. W. R. 865 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 755.

———Ss. 107, 111—“Abetment,” includes conspiracy and aiding.

The definition of abetment in S. 107 includes not merely instigation, which is the normal form of abetment, but also conspiracy and aiding. Sonappa Shina Shetty v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 481 :
187 I. C. 464 : 42 Bom. L. R. 205 :
12 R. B. 488 : A. I. R. 1940 Bom. 126.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 107, 114—Abetment, when constituted.

Where four persons combine to attack with lathis their common enemy, each is abetting the conduct of the other within the meaning of S. 107, Penal Code, and when each one of them is present, S. 114, Penal Code, fully applies. The test is whether, in the circumstances of a given case, grievous hurt should have been foreseen as the probable result of their concerted action. The case may be different where the surrounding circumstances, including the comparatively harmless character of the weapons used by the assailants, did not make it probable that grievous hurt would result, though it did in the course of the assault through accident or some act of one of the assailants which had not been contemplated by the others. Jaimangal v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 864 :
163 I. C. 848 : 1936 A. L. J. 462 :
9 R. A. 86 : 1936 A. W. R. 298 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 437.

———Ss. 107, 120-B—Abetment by conspiracy—Option of prosecution to proceed under S. 107, or S. 120-B.

Where an offence is committed in conspiracy, it is optional for the prosecution to proceed either under S. 107, for abetment of the offence by conspiracy, or under S. 120-B of the said Code as amended by the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1918, for the conspiracy as a substantive offence. Udhasing Tahsil Singh v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 366 :
35 I. C. 670 : 10 S. L. R. 69 :
A. I. R. 1916 Sind 95.

———Ss. 107, 120-B—Charge—Criminal conspiracy—Commission of offence which is the object of conspiracy—Conspiracy amounting to abetment—S. 120-B, charge under, should not be framed.

Where a criminal conspiracy amounts to an abetment under S. 107, it is unnecessary to invoke the provisions of Ss. 120-A and 120-B because the Code has made specific provision for the punishment of such a conspiracy. Where the offences which are alleged to have been the object of the conspiracy were in fact committed, the conspiracy amounts to abetment and hence additional charges under S. 120-B, Penal Code, should not be made. Jageshwar Singh v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 893 :
164 I. C. 86 : 15 Pat 26 :
17 P. L. T. 234 : 2 B. R. 702 :
9 R. P. 84 : A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 346.

———Ss. 107, 124-A—Abetment of sedition—What amounts to.

Government sanctioned the prosecution of two persons S and G for sedition under S. 121-A, Penal Code. The Prosecuting Inspector, after formally charging them with the said offence in pursuance of the order of Government, put in a supplementary complaint charging G with abetment of the action of S in the matter of the alleged seditious speeches by the latter. Objection was taken on behalf of C that the supplementary complaint was not covered by the sanction of Government: Held, that the sanction order of Government was intended to cover all offences punishable under the stated sections and committed in connection with the delivery of all the speeches referred to in it, and that as the offence of the abetment of sedition was punishable under S. 124-A, I. P. C., the supplementary complaint was within the terms of the authority of Government. In re: V. O. Chidabaram Pillai.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

9 Cr. L. J. 130 :
1 I. C. 36 : 5 M. L. T. 16 :
32 Mad. 35.

-----Ss. 107, 376 Kidnapping—Abetment of, what constitutes.

The evidence against the accused in connection with a charge under S. 366, I. P. C., was to the following effect: B and his wife L lived in Malda District. B who was at Dinajpore came back to Malda and told his wife that he had got work at Dinajpore and wanted to take her with him to cook for him and in that way induced her to leave Malda for Dinajpore. When they got to the station they were met by S and went to the house of K. When L enquired why she was brought there she was told by K that B had sold her to S for Rs. 150 and that S would make her happy. S was also said to have asked her to come and live with him: Held, that the question was whether the offence of the husband under S. 366 was abetted by S and K under S. 107, and not whether S had made immoral proposals to her or that K was a brothel keeper, and there being no evidence of such abetment, the verdict convicting S and K could not be upheld. Basanta Kumar Gossain v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 108 :
99 I. C. 236 : 44 C. L. J. 317.

-----Ss. 107, 420, 511—Attempt to cheat—Abetment of—What is—False claim against Insurance Company—Conspiracy—Attempt and preparation, distinction between.

Accused No. 1 effected insurances of his stock of paddy said to be lying at a mill belonging to accused No. 2, with three insurance companies. The mill and the paddy were subsequently burnt. Accused No. 1 gave notice of the fire to the insurance companies and followed this up by loss claims in which a much larger quantity of paddy was stated to have been destroyed by the fire than could possibly have been stored in the godowns of the mill. In the inquiry which followed, accused No. 2 supported the statement of accused No. 1 as to the quantity of paddy which had been destroyed, although he must have known that the quantity destroyed was considerably less: Held, (1) that act of accused No. 1 in sending in a claim to the insurance companies which was false to his knowledge amounted to an attempt to cheat the companies and was not merely a preparation to cheat; (2) that accused No. 2 was guilty of abetment of the offence committed by accused No. 1 under the second clause of S. 107, Penal Code. Maung Po Hmyin v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 1175 :
82 I. C. 39 : 3 Bur. L. J. 1 :
2 Rang. 53 : A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 241.

-----S. 107 (1)—Instigation, what amounts to.

Instigation necessarily indicates some active suggestion, or support or stimulation to the commission of the act itself, and advice can become an instigation only if it is found that it was an advice which was meant actively to suggest or stimulate the commission of an offence. The fact that a person advises another to do a thing, does not necessarily mean that he "instigates" that other to do that thing within the meaning of S. 107 (1), Penal Code. Raghunath Dass v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 213 :
54 I. C. 997 : 1 P. L. T. 60 :
1920 Pat. 76 : 5 P. L. J. 129 :
2 U. P. L. R. Pat. 70 :
A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 502.

-----S. 107, Cls. (2) (3)—Abetment of murder—What is.

In order to secure a conviction for abetment of murder under S. 107, it is essential for the prosecution to prove that the accused knew that the actual murderer did intend to commit the murder. Where, therefore, the only evidence against the accused was that he was found within a few yards of the scene of the murder but no weapon was found on him and no overt act was alleged tending even remotely to facilitate the commission of the crime: Held, that he could not be convicted of abetment of murder. In re: Nennur Rami Reddi.

17 Cr. L. J. 175 :
33 I. C. 665 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 351.

-----Ss. 107 (3), 121, 121 (a)—Waging war—Abetment.

Cl. 3 of S. 107 relates only to intentional aiding. Where it is not proved that accused's intention in omitting to report plot, under S. 44, Cr. P. C., was with a view to aiding the waging of war, the accused cannot be convicted of the offence of abetment of waging war. Goman Saya v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 610 :
21 I. C. 658 : 6 Bur. L. T. 153.

-----S. 108—Abetment of abetment of offence, if punishable.

Abetment of an abetment of an offence is punishable under the Penal Code. Ghazi Khan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 278 :
152 I. C. 890 : 7 R. Pesh. 64 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pesh. 110.

-----S. 108—Act abetted need not be committed.

Act abetted need not be committed for an offence of abetment. D. P. Minwalla v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 877 :
156 I. C. 189 : 7 R. S. 226 :
A. I. R. 1935 Sind 78.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 108—Principal and abettor, joint trial of—Principal, acquittal of—Abettor whether entitled to acquittal.

As a general rule, an offence or abetment necessarily falls through if the principal offence is not substantiated, but there can be cases where the rule is not applicable. Where, for instance, there is a confession, retracted or otherwise, by the abettor, on which the Jury can find against him, the abettor is not necessarily entitled to an acquittal if there is no other sufficient evidence to support a conviction against the principal. Umadas Dasi v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 11 :
83 I. C. 491 : 40 C. L. J. 143 :
28 C. W. N. 1046 : 52 Cal. 112 :
A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 1031.

———S. 108—Use of motor car for abduction, owner, if abettor.

Allegation of use of motor car for abduction—Owner of car when an abettor stated. Maung Bu Yow v. Ma Illa Kin.

35 Cr. L. J. 52 :
146 I. C. 402 : 6 R. Rang. 96 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 297.

———S. 108, Expl. 3—Applicability.

Explanation 3 to S. 108 is not confined to abetment by instigation but applies also to abetment by intentional aiding. Emperor v. Dinkar Rao.

34 Cr. L. J. 623 :
143 I. C. 661 : 1933 A. L. J. 1481 :
I. R. 1933 All. 306 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 513.

———Ss. 108, 135, 511—Abetment of desertion of persons supposed to be regimental sepoy, if offence.

Where the accused helped a regimental sepoy, a Head Constable and a gharriwala, believing the latter two also to be regimental sepoys, to desert their regiment : Held, that they were guilty of attempting and abetting the desertion of sepoys in the army under S. 135 read with Ss. 108 and 511 and it made no difference that the regimental sepoy never intended to desert and had offered to do so only to entrap the accused. Salch Mahomed v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 431 :
38 I. C. 991 : 10 S. L. R. 159 :
A. I. R. 1917 Sind 28.

———S. 108-A—Child marriage celebrated outside British India—Its abetment, if abetment within meaning of section.

The word "offence" in S. 108-A, Penal Code, denotes an act or acts made punishable under the Penal Code, which a child marriage celebrated outside British India is not, and hence its abetment is not an abetment within the meaning of S. 108-A. Haider v. Isa Syed.

39 Cr. L. J. 651 :
175 I. C. 615 : 11 R. N. 2 :
A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 235.

———S. 109.

See also (i) Admission.
(ii) Calcutta Suppression of Immoral Traffic Act, 1923, Ss. 6, 6 (1).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

(iii) Cr. P. C., 1808, Ss. 117, 179, 423, 439 (4).

(iv) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 40, 107, 120-A, 182, 300, 302, 320, 301, 457, 407, 485, 486, 496.

(v) Stamp Act, 1809, S. 69-(a) (b).

———S. 109—Abetment by omission, when offence.

Abetment by omission is punishable only if the omission is an illegal omission. The owner of a motor car cannot, therefore, be held guilty of abetment in merely omitting to give information to his employees as to the rules framed under the Bombay Motor Vehicles Act, 1904. Emperor v. Cooverji.

5 Cr. L. J. 173 :
9 Bom. L. R. 159.

———S. 109—Abetment of murder—What is.

Any person who instigates a raider, or leader of the raid in which death has been caused, is guilty of abetment of murder. Sarjya Kumar Sen v. Emperor. (F. B.) 35 Cr. L. J. 334 :
147 I. C. 32 : 6 R. C. 304 :
A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 221.

———S. 109—Abetment, what amounts to.

Where two persons set out to accomplish a particular act and agree that, if the necessity should arise, they would resort to the use of fire-arms, with which they provide themselves, and on the necessity arising, one of them indulges in shooting, the other must be treated as having abetted the shooting, as this takes place in pursuance of the common intention which inspired the two persons. Sushil Chandra v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 465 :
51 I. C. 449 : 6 O. L. J. 210 :
A. I. R. 1919 Oudh 160.

———S. 109—Abetment—What is.

The mere fact that an accused was actually standing by the side of a man who ultimately turned out to be a thief without any evidence to show that he was engaged in any conspiracy with the principal offender for the doing of the theft, does not entitle a Court to conclude that he was guilty of abetting the theft. Govind Mahto v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 30 :
64 I. C. 510 : 1921 Pat. 96.

———S. 109—Accompanying murderer to place of murder and aiding him in flight afterwards, if abetting.

There is no reason for saying that a man must be absent in order to abet under S. 109, Penal Code. An accused by instigating the unknown murderer by accompanying him to the place and by aiding him in his flight afterwards, may abet the murder under S. 109, Penal Code, even if he is not present at the murder; his presence there would make him liable for the murder under S. 114. Emperor v. Nirral Kanta Roy.

15 Cr. L. J. 460 :
24 I. C. 340 : 18 C. W. N. 723 :
41 Cal. 1072 : A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 901.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 109—Aiding and abetting actual preparation of crime at time of its commission comes under S. 109.

A person who aids and abets the actual preparation of the crime at the very time when it is committed, is a principal of the second degree and comes under S. 109, Penal Code. Brinchipada Dasadar v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 964 :
177 I. C. 929 : 67 C. L. J. 45 :
11 R. C. 296 : A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 625.

———S. 109—Applicability.

The fact that S. 171-D, Penal Code, specifically provides for an abetment of the offence of double voting does not prevent the applicability of S. 109 of the Code for abetment of an offence under S. 55 (1), Madras Act V of 1920, and render it chargeable and punishable only under S. 171-D. It is open to a complainant to proceed under S. 55, Madras District Municipalities Act, read with S. 109, Penal Code, and in such a case, no sanction is necessary under S. 190, Cr. P. C. Sesha Aiyar v. Venkatasubba Chetty.

25 Cr. L. J. 442 :
77 I. C. 730 : 19 L. W. 201 :
1924 M. W. N. 268 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 487.

———S. 109—Applicability.

Where, however, the abduction was never committed, S. 109 can have no application. Maung Ba Yone v. Ma Hla Kin.

35 Cr. L. J. 52 :
146 I. C. 402 : 6 R. Rang. 96 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 297.

———S. 109—Applicability.

Where the accused while grappling with the deceased, calls out to her son, who thereupon comes with a lathi and in the fight the accused gives a lathi blow on the head of the deceased, the accused is guilty of abetment but it is S. 109, and not S. 114, which is applicable to the case. Mumtaz Ali v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1201 :
157 I. C. 312 : 1935 O. L. R. 470 :
1935 O. W. N. 909 : 8 R. O. 21 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 473.

———S. 109—Dacoity, abetment of.

A person who meets the band of dacoits just prior to the commission of the dacoity and brings them food, is guilty of abetment. Nga Pyaung v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 863 :
148 I. C. 1064 : 6 R. Rang. 273 :
A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 30.

———S. 109—Evidence — Conspiracy, inference of.

Mere evidence of association is not sufficient to lead to an inference of conspiracy. Pran Krishna Chakravarty v. Emperor. (S. B.)

36 Cr. L. J. 1322 :
158 I. C. 176 : 39 C. W. N. 188 :
8 R. C. 166 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 580.

———S. 109—Interpretation.

The words "illegal omission" in connection with the definition of abetment have reference to an intention of "aiding the doing of a thing." Jagadish Narain Tewary v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 36 :
140 I. C. 550 : 36 C. W. N. 722 :
56 C. L. J. 231 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 8 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 36.

———S. 109—Madras Gaming Act—No person found to have committed offence under S. 4 of Act—Conviction for abetment under S. 109, Penal Code, legality of—No particular person found guilty under S. 4 (ii)—Conviction of accused under S. 109, Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), read with S. 4 (ii), Madras Gaming Act, propriety of.

Where no particular person is found to have committed the offence under S. 4 (ii) of the Act, which the accused could be said to have abetted, his conviction under S. 109, I. P. C., read with S. 4 (ii), Madras Gaming Act, as necessary either before or after the betting is wrong. In re : C. Kanniah Maistry.

41 Cr. L. J. 181 :
185 I. C. 385 : 1939 M. W. N. 1003 :
1939, 2 M. L. J. 618 :
50 L. W. 769 : 12 R. M. 565 :
A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 976.

———S. 109—Scope.

A man who makes a theft or robbery feasible by giving another person money for that person to be robbed, cannot be said to have abetted the robber with whom he has never had any communication. J. W. Atkinson v. S. W. H. Xavier.

37 Cr. L. J. 723 :
162 I. C. 988 : 8 R. Rang. 603 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 242.

———Ss. 109, 114—Abetment, what amounts to.

In order to convict a person of abetting the commission of a crime, it is not only necessary to prove that he has taken part in those steps of the transaction which are innocent, but it is absolutely necessary to connect him in some way or other with those steps of the transaction which are criminal. Rajmal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1069 :
88 I. C. 13 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 372.

———Ss. 109, 114—Applicability.

When a person is present and abets another to commit an offence, S. 114, Penal Code, is not applicable to the case. When a person who abets the commission of an offence is present and helps in the commission of the offence, he is guilty of the offence and not merely of abetment except in a few cases like rape or bigamy where the person committing the offence alone can be guilty of the offence. S. 114 applies to a case where a person abets the commission of an offence some time before it takes place and happens to be present at the time when the offence is committed, and is not applicable to a case where the abetment is at the time when the offence takes place and the abettor helps in the commission. Active abetment at the time of committing the offence is covered by S. 109 and S. 114 is clearly intended for an abetment previous to the actual commission of the crime, any time, that is, before the first steps have been taken to commit it. A person was on his way home in the evening when he was waylaid by M and B along with J at whose instigation M and B inflicted certain injuries on that person. M and B were convicted under Ss. 324 and 325, Penal Code, respectively, and J was convicted under Ss. 324 and 325, read with S. 114: Held, that it might have been more correct to convict J under S. 109, but he on either view was liable to exactly the same punishment, and therefore, the interests of justice did not require any interference on what can only be regarded as a technical ground. Jadunadan Jha v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 790 :
169 I. C. 489 : 3 B. R. 582 :
10 R. P. 24 : 18 P. L. T. 628 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 317.

———Ss. 109, 114, 467, 471—Abetment of forgery—What amounts to.

Where a party to a judicial proceeding relies on a forged document in support of his case, a witness who states that he saw the execution of the document by the person by whom it purports to have been executed, intentionally aids by his deposition the using of the document as genuine and is liable to prosecution for an offence under S. 471 read with S. 109 of the Penal Code, although he could not be charged with abetment of the forgery itself. Emperor v. Gajadhar Prasad.

26 Cr. L. J. 1567 :
90 I. C. 447 : 2 O. W. N. 707 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 610.

———Ss. 109, 147—No evidence of actual words used in abetment—Conviction is unsafe.

In the absence of any definite information as to what the words actually used by the accused in abetting an offence were, the other circumstances referred to by the Judge upon which he has relied to base his conviction, lose much of their force and it is not safe to convict him for abetment of the offence. Hari Prasad v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 90 :
165 I. C. 952 : 3 B. R. 109 :
9 R. P. 238 : A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 608.

———Ss. 109, 161—Bribery, abetment of—What is.

Per Curiam.—The offer of a bribe to a public servant to lay a trap for him and expose his dishonesty and bring him to justice, constitutes the offence of abetment of bribery under Ss. 109 and 161, Penal Code. In re : Lakshminarayana Aiyar.

19 Cr. L. J. 29 :
42 I. C. 989 : 22 M. L. T. 373 :
6 L. W. 677 : 1917 M. W. N. 831 :
A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 732.

———Ss. 109, 161—Public servant—Illegal gratification—Abetment.

A person cannot be convicted of abetment of an offence of taking a gratification by a public servant as a reward or motive to forbear to do any official act if, when the bribe is said to have been offered, it was not within the powers of the public servant to show any favour to him. Shamsul Huq v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

23 Cr. L. J. 1 :
64 I. C. 369 : 33 C. L. J. 379 :
A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 344.

———Ss. 109, 280 and 304-A—Abetment of—What amounts to—Causing death by rash and negligent act.

The second accused was convicted of offences under S. 280, Penal Code, (rash and negligent navigation) and S. 304-A (causing death by a rash and negligent act), and the first accused was convicted of abetment of those offences. The second accused was only a servant acting under the directions of the 1st accused, and he was not found guilty of any negligent act: Held, that in the circumstances, the conviction of the 1st accused for the abetment of the said offences could not stand. He was, therefore, directed to be retried for an offence under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Sangili Nandan v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 495 :
12 I. C. 215 : 1911, 2 M. W. N. 170.

———Ss. 109, 302—Abetment of conspiracy to commit murder—Absence of evidence as to who inflicted fatal blow—Conviction for abetment.

Where the two accused along with a third person conspired to commit theft and in pursuance of that conspiracy to kill another in order to commit theft, and committed theft and murder, but there was no evidence to show who actually struck the fatal blow: Held, that both the accused could be convicted of abetment of murder under S. 302 read with S. 109, Penal Code. Sheo Barhi v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 5 :
127 I. C. 566 : 11 P. L. T. 520 :
I. R. 1930 Pat. 710 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 164.

———Ss. 109, 302—Abetment of murder—Person ordering his men to beat his opponents—Death caused by beating—Liability for abetment of murder.

A person who comes with a number of men armed with deadly weapons to meet his opponents and on a quarrel ensuing, orders his men to beat the latter, will be guilty of abetment of murder if, in consequence of his order, his men beat the opposite party and some of them are killed as a result of the beating. Nawabali v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 621 :
116 I. C. 372 : I. R. 1929 Cal. 468 :
A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 752.

———Ss. 109, 325—Abetment of causing grievous hurt—What amounts to.

An altercation having ensued between the parties, T told his son K to beat S, whereupon K gave S one swinging sideways blow with his lathi thus causing a rupture of the liver of S and a fracture of his eighth and ninth ribs, as a result of which he died shortly afterwards: Held, (1) that as K did not lift his lathi above his head with both hands and bring it down on the head of the deceased, and there was no evidence that he intended to rupture the liver of S, or even knew that he was likely to do so, he was not guilty of culpable homicide; (2) that under the circumstances, K must have had the intention of causing grievous hurt. Karan Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 1145 :
81 I. C. 969 : 11 O. L. J. 563 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 135.

—Ss. 109, 342, 366, 368—Abduction—Principal offenders acquitted under S. 342 but convicted under S. 366—Abettors convicted under S. 368 read with S. 109—Legality of conviction.

Where in a case of abduction the principal offenders were acquitted under S. 342, Penal Code, but convicted under S. 366, and the abettors were convicted under S. 368 read with S. 109, Penal Code: Held, that as the principal offenders had been acquitted under S. 342 and there was no conviction or even accusation against them under S. 368, the conviction of the abettors under S. 368 read with S. 109 was illegal. Todbul Hussain v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 646 :
124 I. C. 326 : 33 C. W. N. 891 :
A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 767.

—Ss. 109, 352—Abetment — Inducing others to beat.

A person who merely says "beat" but does not take any part himself, can only be convicted of abetment of an offence under S. 352, Penal Code. In re : Mir Hyder Sahab.

16 Cr. L. J. 456 :
29 I. C. 88 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1038.

—Ss. 109, 362—Abduction, abetment of.

Certain persons conspired together to induce by deceitful means a girl of eighteen to leave her home and accompany them to another place with the intention of making her over to S for the purpose of being married to his brother. When the girl was made over to S she refused to accompany him and the latter caught hold of her hand and dragged her: Held, that S was not guilty of abetment of abduction but of abduction. Sundar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 695 :
86 I. C. 71 : 12 O. L. J. 27 :
2 O. W. N. 17 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 328.

—Ss. 109, 363—Kidnapping, charge for—Abetment, conviction for.

A person charged with an offence under S. 363, Penal Code, cannot be convicted of an offence under that section read with S. 109 where he was not charged with that offence. Sheoradni v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 44 :
54 I. C. 252 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 512.

—Ss. 109, 379 — Procedure—Charge for theft—Conviction for abetment.

A person charged with an offence under S. 379, Penal Code, cannot be convicted of abetting that offence, where he is not charged with such abetment. Darbari Choudhury v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 311 :
60 I. C. 999.

—Ss. 109, 379—Theft—Accused convicted of theft—Whether can be convicted for abetment of theft.

Where an accused person is charged with and convicted only for theft, it is illegal for the Appellate Court, while quashing the conviction for theft, to alter the conviction into one for abetment of theft under Ss. 379 and 109, Penal Code. In re : Varayal Krishnan Nair.

13 Cr. L. J. 223 :
14 I. C. 319.

—Ss. 109, 379—Theft, conviction for—Modification of conviction by Appellate Court into one of abetment—Legality of.

Where a person has been convicted under S. 379, Penal Code, of theft, it is not competent for an Appellate Court, while finding the accused to be not guilty of theft, to modify the conviction into one of abetment of theft. Singaraveln Pillay v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 203 (b) :
14 I. C. 203.

—Ss. 109, 379, 381—Theft, abetment of, what constitutes.

To sustain a conviction of abetment of theft, it must be shown that the accused was engaged in a conspiracy with the principal offender for committing the theft, the mere fact that he was standing by the principal offender is not sufficient. Govind Mahton v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 270 :
66 I. C. 334 : 3 P. L. T. 127.

—Ss. 109, 405—Abetment of criminal breach of trust by instigation—What is.

A practice in the Corporation treasury of Madras of cashing cheques was alleged to have been availed of by A for the purpose of using Corporation money for his own profit by having the use of Corporation money from time to time. The modus operandi followed was as under: A used to issue cheques himself, though sometimes they were issued by his friends, and the cheques were presented for encashment at the Corporation treasury either by himself or by his servant, and thereby moneys were obtained from the Corporation treasury even when the persons who drew the cheques had no funds to meet those cheques and many of the cheques so cashed, were dishonoured subsequently. This money which was obtained from the Corporation treasury was taken for the purpose of A's private business. Besides A, the collection manager C was charged with abetment of criminal breach of trust. There was nothing to show that C had anything to do with the payment of the cheques and it could not be said that he had done anything which facilitated the cashing of cheques nor was there anything to show that he had instigated any one to make the payment: Held, that O was not guilty of abetment of criminal breach of trust. A, however, was guilty of the offence of abetment of the criminal breach of trust, the abetting being by instigation and the case was covered by S. 109. In re: G. Ananthachari.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 302 :
179 I. C. 971 : 1938 M. W. N. 908 :
48 L. W. 471 : 11 R. M. 640 :
1938, 2 M. L. J. 574 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 996.

———Ss. 109, 467—Abetment of forgery—Dishonest intention, necessity of.

A person cannot be convicted of abetment of forgery where there is no evidence to prove any dishonest or fraudulent intention on his part. Khuda Bakhsh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 1031 :
112 I. C. 359 : 10 L. L. J. 369.

———Ss. 109, 467—Abetment of—Forgery—What is.

A and B, who were partners, conspired to make a false khata. In furtherance of the conspiracy, B went to a professional forger, C, who prepared the false khata. A and B were both tried for abetment of forgery. B was acquitted on the ground that the only evidence against him was the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice. A was convicted under Ss. 467, 109 of the Penal Code. On appeal, A contended that as B had been acquitted, the charge of conspiracy failed and A was entitled to an acquittal: Held, that the charge against A was that he abetted C's offence of forging the khata, and, if that abetment is proved against A, he must be convicted of that charge, even although the prosecution were not successful in establishing the particular means or instrument selected by A, for the abetment of C's offence. Emperor v. Chhotalal Babar.

13 Cr. L. J. 542 :
15 I. C. 814 : 14 Bom. L. R. 567.

———Ss. 109, 467, 120-B—Abetment of conspiring to forge valuable security—Charges framed under S. 120-B-467 and S. 467-109—Charge under S. 120-B-467 cancelled for want of sanction under S. 196-A, Cr. P. C., (Act V of 1898)—Accused, if can be convicted under S. 467-109.

Where accused are charged under S. 120-B, 467, I. P. C., with the offence of conspiring to forge a valuable security and subsequently an additional charge is framed of abetment under S. 467-109, I. P. C., and after recording all the prosecution evidence the charge under S. 120-B-467 is cancelled for want of sanction required by S. 196-A, Cr. P. C., the Court can convict the accused under S. 467-109. Yavar Bakht Chowdhury v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 719 :
189 I. C. 173 : I. L. R. 1940, 1 Cal. 531 :
71 C. L. J. 181 : 44 C. W. N. 474 :
13 R. C. 73 : A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 277.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 109, 469, 471—Conviction of abettor for using forged document as genuine, legality of.

An abettor of the forgery of the document cannot be convicted of the offence of using it as genuine. In re: Authoor Valappil Syed Ahmad Musaliyar.

15 Cr. L. J. 568 :
24 I. C. 976 : A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 144.

———S. 110.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.

———S. 111.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 107, 302.

———S. 111—Abetment of assault by servant.

Master ordering servant to chastise or beat deceased—Servant holding deceased but master murdering deceased—Servant is only guilty of abetment of assault. Girja Prasad Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 438 :
153 I. C. 999 (2) : 1935 A. L. J. 54 :
1935 A. W. R. 64 : 7 R. A. 655 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 346 (2).

———S. 111—Applicability.

The main provision of S. 111 is applicable only when the act done is a probable consequence of the abetment. Mumtaz Ali v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1201 :
157 I. C. 312 : 1935 O. L. R. 470 :
8 R. O. 21 : 1935 O. W. N. 909 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 473.

———S. 111—Burden of proof.

Act committed different from act abetted—Burden of proof that act committed was probable consequence of instigation is on the prosecution. Girja Prasad Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 438 :
153 I. C. 999 (2) : 1935 A. L. J. 54 :
1935 A. W. R. 64 : 7 R. A. 655 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 346 (2).

———S. 111—Conviction under—Legality of.

Use of spear-head not probable consequence of anything said or done by instigator—Conviction of abettor for abetment of murder cannot be sustained. Girja Prasad Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 438 :
153 I. C. 999 (2) : 1935 A. L. J. 54 :
1935 A. W. R. 64 : 7 R. A. 655 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 346 (2).

———S. 111—Conviction under—Legality of.

When the act done is different from the act instigated, an abettor is only liable for such a different act if it was a likely consequence of the instigation or if it was an act which the instigator could reasonably have been expected to foresee might be committed as a result of his instigation. Girja Prasad Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 438 :
153 I. C. 999 (2) : 1935 A. L. J. 54 :
1935 A. W. R. 64 : 7 R. A. 655 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 346 (2).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 111—Liability.

A and B conspiring to assault C—B inflicting grievous hurt on C's companion during assault and without any instigation from A—A is not liable under S. 111 for causing grievous hurt to C's companion. Sonappa Shetty v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 481 :

187 I. C. 464 : 42 Bom. L. R. 205 :

12 R. B. 488 : A. I. R. 1940 Bom. 126.

—S. 111—Picketing, when offence.

Advocating picketing cannot be held to be a lawful act merely because picketing could be done lawfully. Ganesh Prasad v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 478 :

130 I. C. 269 : I. R. 1934 Pat. 173.

A. I. R. 1931 Pat. 52.

—S. 111—Picketing, when offence.

Peaceful picketing is not an offence but picketing becomes an offence if it is carried on by criminal means. Ganesh Prasad v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 478 :

130 I. C. 269 : I. R. 1931 Pat. 173 :

A. I. R. 1931 Pat. 52.

—S. 111—Scope.

S. 111 refers to the abetment of a criminal act. Ganesh Prasad v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 478 :

130 I. C. 269 : I. R. 1931 Pat. 173 :

A. I. R. 1931 Pat. 52.

—S. 111—(Illustrations)—Scope.

Per Grucr, J.—The illustrations to S. 111, Penal Code, show that it contemplates cases not only where a different act is done but also where a different person is attacked in pursuance of the conspiracy. Mangta v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 628 :

168 I. C. 748 : 9 R. N. 269.

—Ss. 111, 114—Intention to do certain act—Act done different one—Liability, how determined.

There may be cases where the common intention is to do one act and then different act is done. When this is so, and there has been prior abetment, each abettor is liable as an abettor for the crime actually committed, provided the conditions specified in S. 111 have been fulfilled. That of course applies when the abettor is not actually present at the crime. But when he is there, S. 114 comes into operation and makes him liable for the crime for which he would have been punishable "as an abettor" if he had not been there. In offences of this nature each person is liable for all crimes committed in furtherance of the common intention. What that intention was and whether each accused shared it are questions of fact which must be determined afresh in each case, with reference to the circumstances which exist there. When, however, offences are committed which travel beyond the common intention, then each is still liable for these other offences, provided there has been prior abetment and provided he would have been liable as an abettor under S. 114, if he had not been present. Mangta v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 628 :

168 I. C. 748 : 9 R. N. 269.

—Ss. 111, 114, 302—Conspiracy to obtain girl by force—Homicide committed by one accused—Abetment.

H and S in pursuance of a conspiracy to obtain a certain girl by show of force went to her mother's house and asked her to give up the girl. The mother refused to do so, and H thereupon fired a gun loaded with hankar at her. The mother died from the wounds inflicted by the shot : Held, that S was not guilty of abetting the death of the mother, inasmuch as the death was not a probable consequence of the conspiracy, and was not caused under the influence of the instigation or with the aid or in pursuance of the conspiracy which constituted the abetment. Sukha v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 235 (b) :

43 I. C. 827 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 97.

—Ss. 111, 114, 304 (2)—Abetment of causing death.

Woman carried away by her husband—Her father and brothers going out with lathis to fetch her by overbearing opposition, if any—Fight invited by abusing husband's brother who dying as result of blows received—Right of self-defence—Offence held committed. Mangta v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 628 :

168 I. C. 748 : 9 R. N. 269.

—S. 114.

See also (i) Abetment.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 102, 233, 236, 237, 239 (d).

(iii) Evidence.

(iv) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 105, 109, 215, 304-A, 323, 397.

(v) Registration Act, 1877, S. 82 (c) and (d).

—S. 114—Abetment and being present at commission of offence.

S. 114, Penal Code, does not apply to any person who would not be punishable as an abettor if he were absent. A person who would be so punishable is, if present at the crime, punishable not as an abettor but as a principal. Emperor v. Pha Laung.

5 Cr. L. J. 414 :

3 L. B. R. 264.

—S. 114—Applicability—Abetment during commission of offence—Abettor present at commission of offence—Liability of abettor, nature of.

S. 114, applies to a case where a person abets the commission of an offence sometime before it takes place and happens to be present at the time when the offence is committed, and is not applicable to a case where the abetment is at the time when the offence takes place and the abettor helps in the commission of the offence. In such a case, the person is guilty of the offence itself and not merely of abetment except in cases like rape or bigamy where the person committing the offence alone can be guilty of it. In re : Jogali Bhaigo Naiks.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 1198.
97 I. C. 958 : A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 97.

————S. 114—Abetment of offence—
Presence and instigation, whether sufficient to constitute abetment.

To come within S. 114, Penal Code, the abetment must be complete apart from the presence of the abettor. The accused was present at the occurrence of an offence under S. 326, Penal Code, and it was found that the assailant inflicted a blow at the instigation of the accused. There was no evidence to show that there was any conspiracy between the accused and the assailant prior to the occurrence: Held, that the accused could not be convicted under Ss. 326 and 114, Penal Code, for abetment of the offence under S. 326. In re : Vijayaranga Naidu.

29 Cr. L. J. 72 :
106 I. C. 584 : 26 L. W. 649 :
53 M. L. J. 760 : 39 M. L. T. 589 :
51 Mad. 263 : A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 1115.

————S. 114—Abettor present—Effect.

Abettor, if present when the act for which he will be punishable as abettor, shall be deemed to have committed that act. In re : Pandurang Mudali.

34 Cr. L. J. 90 :
140 I. C. 767 : 63 M. L. J. 906 :
1932 M. W. N. 1357 : I. R. 1933 Mad. 35 :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 123.

————S. 114—Accused punishable under
S. 114, Penal Code—Sentence of whipping, legality of.

If a person is convicted of an offence under a particular section of the Penal Code read with S. 114, and if the offence under the particular section of the Code renders the offender liable to whipping in lieu of, or in addition to, any other punishment either under the Whipping Act or under Burma Act, VIII of 1927, the person so convicted is punishable with whipping in lieu of, or in addition to, any other punishment. Emperor v. Maung Pu Kai.

30 Cr. L. J. 961 :
118 I. C. 637 : 7 R. A. 329 :
I. R. 1929 Rang. 285 :
A. I. R. 1929 Rang. 203.

————S. 114—Applicability.

Abetment to come under S. 114, must be one which is prior to the commission of the offence and complete by itself and not an abetment which is done immediately before or at the time of the commission of the offence, for, in the latter case, the abettor would not have committed the abetment if he had not been present and would not, therefore, have been liable to punishment as an abettor. Sital v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1151 :
157 I. C. 370 : 1935 O. L. R. 467 :
1935 O. W. N. 902 : 8 R. O. 18 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 468.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 114—Applicability.

S. 114 does not apply where abetment alleged consists solely of things done at the time of the commission of the offence. Emperor v. Ahmed Hasham.

34 Cr. L. J. 559 :
143 I. C. 273 : 35 Bom. L. R. 240 :
57 Bom. 329 : I. R. 1933 Bom. 264 :
A. I. R. 1933 Bom. 162.

————S. 114—Applicability.

In order to bring a case within S. 114, Penal Code, the abetment must be complete, apart from the presence of the abettor. Mian Gul v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 564 :
138 I. C. 191 : 33 P. L. R. 679 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 422 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 483.

————S. 114—Applicability—Offence committed in presence of abettor.

S. 114, Penal Code, only applies where the abetment having been made beforehand, the abettor is also present when the offence abetted is subsequently committed. Tha Mya v. Emperor.

8 Cr. L. J. 472 :
4 L. B. R. 271.

————S. 114—Applicability—One accused not joining in attack with same intention as the other, S. 114 cannot be applied.

Where it is not shown that accused M joined the attack on the deceased with the same intention or knowledge as G, another accused, S. 114 is not applicable to him and he can be held liable only for the injury that he caused. Gandu v. Emperor.

5 L. L. J. 414 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 170.

————S. 114—Applicability.

S. 114 applies to those cases only in which the accused, if absent, would be liable to be punished as an abettor. Mumtaz Ali v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1201 :
157 I. C. 372 : 1935 O. L. R. 470 :
1935 O. W. N. 909 : 8 R. O. 21 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 473.

————S. 114—Applicability.

The act of abetment must have taken place at a time prior to the actual commission of the offence and it is only when the abettor happens to be present at the time of the commission of the offence itself, that the operation of S. 114 would be attracted. Basharat v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 308 :
153 I. C. 222 : 36 P. L. R. 37 :
7 R. L. 407 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 813.

————S. 114—Charge—Defective charge, effect of.

A charge against an accused ran thus:—
“You.....abetted by being present, in the commission of the offence of mischief..... and thereby committed an offence under Ss. 114 and 430, I. P. C.” No acts were alleged on the part of the accused which related to a point of time previous to the commission of the offence. At the trial the case sought to be made out against him was that he was at the place where the offence was committed and instigated the other accused to commit the offence at the time they committed it. On revision against the conviction: Held, that the accused must be held to have been misled by the nature of the charge and that the error had occasioned a failure of justice. Annavi v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 1254 :
82 I. C. 262 : 21 L. W. 19 :
A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 364.

—S. 114—Charge of principal offence—Conviction for abetment of that—Legality of.

Accused charged with offence itself—Fact justifying conviction for abetment—Accused can be convicted for abetment. Mitho v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 53 :
151 I. C. 976 : 28 S. L. R. 12 :
7 R. S. 70 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 89.

—S. 114—Charge under—Necessity of.

An accused person cannot be convicted under S. 114 when no charge has been framed against him under that section. Emperor v. Profulla Kumar Mazumdar.

24 Cr. L. J. 763 :
74 I. C. 267 : 50 Cal. 41 :
A. I. R. 1923 Cal. 453.

—S. 114—Instigation—Meaning of.

Instigation necessarily connotes some active suggestion or support or stimulation to the commission of the act itself. Nazir Ahmad v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 313 :
100 I. C. 537 : 25 A. L. J. 149 :
A. I. R. 1927 All. 730.

—S. 114—Liability—Nature of.

A person, who is punishable under a particular section of the Penal Code read with S. 114, is punishable not as an abettor but as a principal and is guilty of the substantive offence and not merely of abetment of that offence. Emperor v. Maung Pu Kai.

30 Cr. L. J. 961 :
118 I. C. 637 : 7 Rang. 379 :
I. R. 1929 Rang. 285 :
A. I. R. 1929 Rang. 203.

—S. 114—Murder, abetment of—Persons giving moral support.

Persons who are present at the time of a murder and have given their moral support to, and abetted the deed, even if they did not take part in the actual murder, are under S. 114, Penal Code, deemed to have committed the offence. Tulli v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 450 :
85 I. C. 130 : 22 A. L. J. 1075 :
47 All. 276 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 185.

—S. 114—Presumption under.

The effect of S. 114, Penal Code, is that if a man is present at a commission of an offence, he is to be deemed to have committed it and not that he has committed it. Emperor v. Kashia Antoo.

7 Cr. L. J. 32 :
10 Bom. L. R. 26 : 3 M. L. T. 122.

—S. 114—Scope—Abetment of murder.

Whether the charge is framed in terms of S. 302, Penal Code, read with S. 114, or in terms of S. 302 alone, the offence denoted is substantially the same. As the two charges overlap each other, they cannot be regarded as implying two separate offences. Mrs. M. F. Rego v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 505 :
143 I. C. 17 : 29 N. L. R. 251 :
I. R. 1933 Nag. 153 : A. I. R. 1933 Nag. 136.

—S. 114—Scope.

S. 114 deals with a person, who would be guilty of abetment independent of any act done at the time of the offence, that is to say, a person whose abetment is complete apart from his presence. The section defines the liability of such a person if he happens to be present when the offence is committed. Annavi v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1254 :
82 I. C. 262 : 21 L. W. 19 :
A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 364.

—S. 114—Scope.

S. 114 is a provision which is only brought into operation when circumstances amounting to abetment of a particular crime have first been proved, and then the presence of the accused at the commission of that crime is proved in addition. The section is evidentiary not punitive. Barendra Kumar Ghose v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 431 P. C. :
85 I. C. 47 : 29 C. W. N. 181 :
1925 M. W. N. 26 : 26 P. L. R. 50 :
27 Bom. L. R. 148 : 6 P. L. T. 169 :
23 A. L. J. 314 : 41 C. L. J. 240 :
48 M. L. J. 543 : 1 O. W. N. 935 :
52 Cal. 197 : 52 I. A. 40 :
A. I. R. 1925 P. C. 1.

—S. 114—Scope.

S. 114 is evidentiary not punitive. The presumption raised by S. 114 brings the case within the ambit of S. 34. Nga Po Kyow v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 41 :
146 I. C. 392 : 11 Rang. 354 :
6 R. Rang. 93 : A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 236.

—S. 114—Scope.

S. 114, Penal Code, is evidentiary and not punitive because it establishes a presumption which is irrebuttable that actual presence plus prior abetment means participation. Where persons are charged under S. 406, Penal Code, and others under S. 114, a complaint under S. 108, is necessary. In re : Muhammad Looai.

32 Cr. L. J. 1116 :
134 I. C. 57 : 1930 M. W. N. 694 :
I. R. 1931 Mad. 809 :
A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 247.

—Ss. 114, 199, 466—False declaration—Abetment of—What is.

Where some persons personated P. S. before the Mohammedan Registrar of Marriages and thus obtained the registration of P. S.'s divorce from his wife and the appellant told the Registrar that the man before him was P. S.: Held, that as neither under Act I of 1876 nor under any other law was the Mohammedan Registrar of Marriages bound or authorised to receive the statement of any person in evidence, S. 199, I. P. C., did not apply to the case, though S. 466 was applicable: Held further, (1) that whether the appellant was guilty of abetment would depend chiefly on whether he knew that the man personated was not P. S. or at least had no knowledge whether he was or not; (2) that the evidence on this point was fairly put to the Jury. Yasin Sheikh v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 8 : 9 C. W. N. 69.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 114, 302—Abetment of murder—Abetment must be complete apart from presence of abettor.

A conviction for murder under S. 302, Penal Code, read with S. 114 cannot stand where the only abetment charged necessarily required the presence of the accused, for to come within S. 114, the abetment must be complete apart from the presence of the abettor. Ram Ranjan Roy v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 170 : 27 I. C. 554 : 19 C. W. N. 128 : 42 Cal. 422 : A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 545.

—Ss. 114, 302—Abetment of murder, what constitutes.

An accused person who was sitting near the scene of a quarrel urged his co-accused to kill their opponent telling them that if the latter survived he would get them into trouble, and the victim was murdered: Held, that the accused's conduct amounted to abetment of murder and that he could rightly be convicted under Ss. 302 and 114. Dhani v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 85 : 99 I. C. 117 : 8 L. L. J. 509 : 27 P. L. R. 716.

—Ss. 114, 307—Illegal order to fire—Firing in obedience to orders, if offence.

A Police party in charge of a Head Constable who were escorting a number of prisoners arrived in a village and demanded food and water. As they did not receive the attention to which they thought themselves entitled, the Head Constable lost his temper and struck one of the villagers. At this a number of villagers assembled and a row started between the Police and the villagers. The Head Constable ordered one of the constables to fire on the villagers, and after repeated orders the constable did so and wounded one of the villagers: Held, (1) that the Head Constable was guilty of an offence under Part II of S. 307, read with S. 114, Penal Code; (2) that the constable was not protected in that he had obeyed the orders of his superior officer, for the constable and the Head Constable had the same opportunity of observing what the danger was, and judging what action the necessities of the case required, and that the order which the constable had obeyed being illegal, he must suffer the consequences of his illegal act; (3), that, therefore, the constable also was guilty of an offence under S. 307, Part II of the Penal Code. Allah Rakho v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 142 : 83 I. C. 762 : 17 S. L. R. 182 : A. I. R. 1924 Sind 33.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 114, 330—Stimulating commission of offence by remarks and suggestions, if abetment.

While some persons were voluntarily causing hurt to another, the accused who was standing by expressed his approval of the conduct of the assailants and suggested that the victim should be given a sound beating. It was found that blows were inflicted after the accused's remarks: Held, that the accused stimulated the commission of the offence and, therefore, was guilty of abetment. Nazir Ahmad v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 313 : 100 I. C. 537 : 25 A. L. J. 149 : A. I. R. 1927 All 730.

—Ss. 114, 342—Wrongful arrest and confinement—Abetment—Liability of instigator.

A person who is instrumental in getting a wrongful arrest made, and after the arrest is made, instigates the Bailiff to wrongfully confine the person arrested in spite of a valid protection order in his favour, cannot, in answer to a charge under S. 342/114, Penal Code, put forward the defence that he was not present at the actual arrest. Tiruvengkatachariar v. Chockalinga Chetty. 25 Cr. L. J. 138 : 76 I. C. 234 : 18 L. W. 167 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 31.

—Ss. 114, 363—Abetment of kidnapping.

Where the finding is that a person took part in the actual removal of the girl immediately after she was taken out of the house of her guardian, his conviction under S. 363 read with S. 114 is correct. Reekha Rai v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 820 : 104 I. C. 436 : 6 Pat. 471 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 159.

—Ss. 114, 377—Evidence.

Conviction under Ss. 114 and 377—Commission of offence and presence of abettor must be established. D. P. Minwalla v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 877 : 156 I. C. 189 : 7 R. S. 226 : A. I. R. 1935 Sind 78.

—Ss. 114, 379—Theft committed in presence of alleged abettor in prosecution of common object of unlawful assembly—Alleged abettor taking no part in commission of theft—Conviction as abettor, legality of.

Whereas accused person was a member, and in fact, the leader of an unlawful assembly, the common object of which was to commit trespass and theft, and theft was actually committed by certain members of this unlawful assembly, but it was not proved that the accused had himself committed any theft by removing any property; nor was it proved that the accused had made any previous preparation for committing any theft or aiding any one in the commission of theft: Held, that the conviction of the accused under S. 379 read with S. 114, Penal Code, was illegal. Hansa Pathak v. Banshi Lal Dass.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 449 :
8 C. W. N. 519.

—Ss. 114, 406—Abetment of criminal breach of trust.

A jewel was entrusted to A who gave it to B for being pledged to some person. C, who was aware that the jewel did not belong to B, took B to a money-lender and induced him to give a loan to B on the pledge of the jewel. Both B and C acted at the instance of A; C was charged with and convicted of the offence of criminal breach of trust: Held, (1) that C was not guilty of the offence of criminal breach of trust under S. 406, Penal Code, read with S. 114, as the latter section applied only where the act, at the doing of which the abettor was present, would itself amount to an offence; (2) that though C was charged with the offence of breach of trust, he could be convicted of abetment of criminal breach of trust. Yediltha Subbaya v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 453 :
15 I. C. 85 : 1912 M. W. N. 725 :
12 M. L. T. 203 : 23 M. L. J. 722.

—Ss. 114, 447—Criminal trespass—Persons inciting—Liability as principal offenders.

In view of S. 114, a person who incites another to commit criminal trespass and is present when the offence is committed, is guilty of criminal trespass even though he does not actually enter upon the land concerned. Patilbawa Raojibala Gavli v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1153 :
97 I. C. 737 : 28 Bom. L. R. 1029 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 512.

—S. 115.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.

—S. 115—Applicability.

S. 115 applies only when the abetment is not punishable under another provision of the Code. Santa Singh Kamal v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1207 :
146 I. C. 222 : 6 R. L. 187 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 660.

—S. 115—Instigating at meeting, offence punishable with death, if comes within Ss. 115, 117.

Where persons who gathered together at a certain meeting by speeches and resolutions instigated to commit an offence punishable with death, the offence falls under S. 115 as well as under S. 117. Emperor v. Dwarika Nath Goswami.

34 Cr. L. J. 164 :
141 I. C. 578 : 60 Cal. 427 :
37 C. W. N. 91 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 138 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 47.

—S. 115—Scope.

Under S. 115 the abetment of the commission of an offence by any particular person against any particular persons, is not necessary. Emperor v. Dwarka Nath Goswami.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 164 :
141 I. C. 578 : 60 Cal. 427 :
37 C. W. N. 91 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 138 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 47.

—Ss. 115, 117, 109—Abetting commission of murder by public.

Accused abetting commission of murder by public—Whether should be sentenced under S. 115 or S. 117—Such murder committed—Appropriate section of such offence is S. 109. Emperor v. Lavji Mandan.

41 Cr. L. J. 183 :
185 I. C. 413 (2) : 41 Bom. L. R. 980 :
12 R. B. 253 : A. I. R. 1939 Bom. 452.

—S. 116.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 161.

—S. 116—Offence under—What is.

S. 116 makes an abortive attempt at giving a bribe an offence from the point of view of the person who offers it. Rahimullah v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 626 :
154 I. C. 910 : 7 R. Pesh. 91 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 26.

—Ss. 116, 114, 494—Abetment of bigamy.

Persons abetting the celebration of a bigamous marriage to which the woman does not consent, should be convicted under S. 116 and not under S. 114, Penal Code, inasmuch as the offence of bigamy is not fully completed without the consent of the bride. Sanwan v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 478 :
39 I. C. 318 : 10 S. L. R. 171 :
A. I. R. 1917 Sind 14.

—Ss. 116, 161—Offer of bribe to officer functus officio—Offence, whether committed.

No offence under S. 161, Penal Code, is committed where the public servant to whom the bribe is offered is at the time when the offer is made functus officio as to the matter in respect of which the bribe is offered. In re : Venkata-rama Naidu.

30 Cr. L. J. 1055 :
119 I. C. 315 : 30 L. W. 235 :
57 M. L. J. 239 : 1929 M. W. N. 695 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 955 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 756.

—Ss. 116, 161—Offering bribe to public servant for showing favour.

Where a person offers a bribe to a public servant for showing some favour in the exercise of his official functions, he will be guilty of an offence under S. 161, Penal Code, even though the public servant is not in reality in a position to show such favour. Ajudhia Prasad v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 67 :
113 I. C. 179 : 1929 A. L. J. 153 :
51 All. 467 : I. R. 1929 All. 107 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 752.

—Ss. 116, 161—Tender of bribe to Head Constable to drop case against another person—Abetment.

Tender of a bribe to a Police Head Constable to drop an offence committed by another under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 161, Penal Code, falls within the first part of S. 116, Penal Code, and not under the second part of the section inasmuch as an offence under S. 161 is not cognizable by the Police and a Head Constable cannot be regarded as a public servant whose duty it is to prevent the commission of such an offence, within the meaning of the second part of S. 116. Puran Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 601 :
109 I. C. 681 : 10 L. L. J. 364 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 840.

-----Ss. 116, 161, 107—Public servant—Illegal gratification—Abetment.

The accused called on C, a Municipal Commissioner, to express acknowledgments for the withdrawal of objections against a building which a cousin of his wished to erect. In the course of the conversation the accused enquired if he should put in a tender for some cement about which the Municipality had advertised, remarking that it was no good putting in a tender unless one had influence. After this the accused said to C "when shall I see you again." C replied that there was no need. The accused again said: "shall I see you here or elsewhere." C said, "what about." Accused said, "about that Rs. 5,000." C enquired, "what Rs. 5,000." Accused replied, "my cousin wishes to give you Rs. 5,000." C became suspicious and called a colleague K who was in the adjoining room and told him that the accused had offered him a bribe. The accused in the presence of the colleague admitted that he offered the money on behalf of his cousin. When asked to leave the office, the accused was profuse in his apologies and reluctantly withdrew. The accused was charged under S. 116, Penal Code, for the abetment of an offence under S. 161. He stated in his defence that the sum offered was for certain charities in which C was interested, and that C did not allow him to make himself clear. As a matter of fact C was interested in certain charities and had requested many gentlemen to subscribe to them. The accused was acquitted at the trial. The Government appealed: Held, that the words "my cousin wishes to give you Rs. 5,000," did not legally amount to an offer, but they indicated a state of mind on the part of the cousin that, if asked, he might give the sum, that the words were an instigation stimulating C towards making an attempt to get the amount and that even if it was assumed that the accused was instigating C to get the sum for one of his funds, that would amount to no more than a mitigation of the offence since under S. 161 gratification was not restricted to pecuniary gratification or to gratification estimable in money. Emperor v. Amiruddin Salebhoy.

23 Cr. L. J. 466 :
67 I. C. 818 : 24 Bom. L. R. 534 :
A. I. R. 1923 Bom. 44.

-----S. 117.

See also (i) Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1908, S. 17 (1).
(ii) Salt Act, 1882, S. 9.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 117—Abetment by leaflets.

Abetment by leaflets—Public should have read them or leaflets should be exposed to public gaze. Parimal v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 78 :
140 I. C. 787 : 36 C. W. N. 982 :
I. R. 1933 Cal. 44 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 760.

-----S. 117—Abetment—Offence under Salt Act.

An abetment of an offence under the Salt Act can be punished under S. 117, Penal Code, if the offence falls within the scope of that section. Ganesh Vaman Joshi v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 471 :
130 I. C. 25 : 55 Bom. 353 :
33 Bom. L. R. 56 :
I. R. 1931 Bom. 233 :
A. I. R. 1931 Bom. 140.

-----S. 117—Inciting audience to murder Englishmen and Government officials, if offence within scope.

Where the accused in a speech incites to murder Englishmen and Government officials, the accused is liable under S. 117, read with S. 302, or S. 115 read with S. 302, in the alternative. Santa Singh Kawal v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1207 :
146 I. C. 222 : 6 R. L. 187 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 660.

-----S. 117—Joint trial—Validity of.

Where one person is arrested with revolutionary leaflets in one place and another person for distribution of leaflets of the same kind in a different place, there is no objection to introduce a charge under S. 120-B, to justify a joint trial. Tarapada Mitra v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1073 :
145 I. C. 814 : 37 C. W. N. 426 :
6 R. C. 138 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 603.

-----S. 117—Offence under —What is.

Instigating workers to lie on rails during strike, constitutes offence. S. Subramania Ayyar v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 524 (1) :
143 I. C. 107 (1) : 1932 M. W. N. 1153 :
I. R. 1933 Mad. 269 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 279 (1).

-----S. 117—Procedure.

Abetment of offence triable as summons case is a summons case. Narasinha Narayan Chaudur v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 718 :
131 I. C. 472 : 33 Bom. L. R. 353 :
I. R. 1931 Bom. 296 : A. I. R. 1931 Bom. 199.

-----S. 117—Scope.

Section covers all offences and is a general provision for abetment by any number of persons exceeding law. Emperor v. Dwarka Nath Goswami.

34 Cr. L. J. 164 :
141 I. C. 578 : 60 Cal. 427 :
37 C. W. N. 91 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 138 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 47.

-----S. 117—Sentence.

An accused person who is guilty of having instigated more than ten persons to commit an offence under the Madras Salt Act is liable under S. 117, for 3 years' imprisonment and not merely to 6 months under S. 74, Salt Act. In re : Konda Satyavallamma.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 1131 :
134 I. C. 187 : 34 L. W. 92 :
1931 M. W. N. 494 : 61 M. L. J. 987 :
55 Mad. 90 : I. R. 1931 Mad. 843 :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 371.

-----S. 120.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.

-----S. 120-A—Charge—Particulars of—Conspiracy to do series of acts—Charge, nature of—Specification of acts contemplated together necessary.

Where the accused are charged under S. 120-A, Penal Code, of having conspired to do or cause to be done a series of illegal acts, it is not necessary that the charge should state in all its details the actual specific acts which the conspirators are alleged to have agreed to do or to cause to be done. Htin Gyan v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 555 :
109 I. C. 491 : 6 Rang. 6 :
I. L. T. 40 Rang. 41 : A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 118.

-----S. 120-A—Conspiracy—Evidence.

To prove conspiracy, there need not be evidence of direct concert nor even of any meeting together of the conspirators. The agreement can be inferred from collateral acts but these acts must show a common plan so as to exclude a reasonable possibility of the acts of the conspirators having been done separately and connected only by coincidence. Nitai Chandra Jana v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 852 :
170 I. C. 201 : 10 R. C. 98 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 433.

-----S. 120-A—Conspiracy—Meaning of.

The gist of the offence of conspiracy lies in the forming of the scheme or agreement between the parties. It is not the act done in pursuance of the conspiracy but the place where the conspiracy was formed or made which determines the jurisdiction of the Court. Gokaldas v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 585 :
148 I. C. 135 (2) : 27 S. L. R. 392 :
6 R. S. 180 : A. I. R. 1933 Sind 333.

-----S. 120-A—Conspiracy—Proof.

In order to establish a charge of conspiracy, it is only necessary to show that the party charged entered into an agreement to do an unlawful act. Moti Lal Roy v. Emperor. (F. B.)

37 Cr. L. J. 999 :
164 I. C. 779 : 39 C. W. N. 754 :
9 R. C. 298.

-----S. 120-A—Conspiracy—Proof.

In most cases question of criminal conspiracy has to be inferred from acts of persons concerned done in pursuance of an apparent criminal purpose in common between them. Punjab Singh Ujjagar Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 322 :
147 I. C. 2 : 35 P. L. R. 51 :
15 Lah. 84 : 6 R. L. 339 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 977.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 120-A—Conspiracy—Proof of one conspiracy and not a series of conspiracies is essential—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 239—Unrelated conspiracies—Misjoinder.

For a charge of conspiracy to succeed, there should be one conspiracy and not a series of conspiracies and criminal acts unconnected by unity of intention. An accused not shown to be a member of that conspiracy is entitled to demand an acquittal, however bad his record may be and however much he may be suspected of this or that offence. Consequently, if only a number of unrelated conspiracies were proved, the trial would be found to be bad for misjoinder of parties under S. 230, Cr. P. C., although prima facie on the prosecution case as alleged the joinder was quite legal. Muhammad Ismail v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 106 :
165 I. C. 913 : 9 R. N. 101 :
I. L. R. 1936 Nag. 152 :
A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 97.

-----S. 120-A—Conspiracy to commit murder—Proof.

In a charge of conspiracy to commit murder it is not necessary that there should be express proof of conspiracy. It is not necessary to prove that two or more persons came together and actually agreed in terms to have the common design and to pursue it by common means and so carry it into execution. Benoyendra Chandra Pandey v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 394 :
161 I. C. 74 : 40 C. W. N. 432 :
63 Cal. 929 : 8 R. C. 472 :
A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 73.

-----S. 120-A—Conspirators—Who are—Each accused not in agreement to do some illegal act—Whether parties to same conspiracy.

In order to constitute the offence of conspiracy as defined in S. 120-A, Penal Code, it is only necessary for the prosecution to show that the persons concerned had agreed to do or cause to be done an illegal act, or an act which is not illegal, by illegal means, and the "explanation" given in S. 120-A states that it is immaterial whether the illegal act is the ultimate object of such agreement, or is merely incidental to that object. Where it is not possible at any rate except by straining the language to say that every one of the accused was in agreement to do the same illegal act or cause the same illegal act to be done, they cannot be held to have been parties to one and the same conspiracy within S. 120-A. Rash Behari Shaw (Handa) v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 545 :
168 I. C. 657 : 41 C. W. N. 225 :
9 R. C. 853 : A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 753.

-----S. 120-A—Criminal conspiracy—Proof.

In order to justify the inference of guilt, the inculpatory facts must be incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt. Where there is a charge of conspiracy, particular facts are proved to show that one or more of the defendants took part in it after general evidence of the existence of the conspiracy is first given. To admit evidence under this head, however, the other acts tendered must be of the same specific kind as that in question, and not of a different character and the acts tendered must also have been proximate in point of time to that in question. The term "unlawfully and maliciously," in the sense in which it is familiarly used in the criminal law of England, signifies "not for a lawful object and intentionally, without justification or excuse or claim of right." Amritlal Hazra v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 Cr. L. J. 497 :
29 I. C. 513 : 21 C. L. J. 331 :
19 C. W. N. 676 : 42 Cal. 957 :
A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 188.

———S. 120-A—Jurisdiction—Jurisdiction of Court where conspiracy is found at one place and offence in pursuance thereof committed at other place.

Conspiracy is a substantive offence in itself. It is not given in one of the illustrations to S. 180, Cr. P. C., as one of the offences which is an offence because of its relation to another offence such as abetment which would give the Court jurisdiction either where the principal offence or the connected offence was committed, nor can it be brought within the meaning of the section itself. The gist of the offence of conspiracy lies in the forming of the scheme of agreement between the parties. Conspiracy is generally a matter of inference deducted from certain criminal acts of the parties accused with a common criminal purpose. In certain cases it may, therefore, be difficult for the Courts to decide whether a particular agreement which forms the basis of a criminal charge was made or concluded at a particular time or at a particular place. But it does not follow therefrom that the scope of the conspiracy would determine the place where the conspiracy or part of it occurred. It is not the act done in pursuance of the conspiracy but the place where the conspiracy was formed or made which determines the jurisdiction of the Court and it has been consistently held that in an indictment for conspiracy the venue should be laid where the conspiracy was and not where the result of such conspiracy was put in execution. Emperor v. Perumal Gerimal.

39 Cr. L. J. 630 (b) :
175 I. C. 620 : 10 R. S. 298 :
A. I. R. 1938 Sind 108.

———S. 120-A—Offence, gist of—Agreement to commit offence, if sufficient—Overt acts, proof of—Whether necessary.

The gist of the offence under S. 120-A, Penal Code, consists in agreement and when the conspiracy alleged is to commit an offence, the agreement itself amounts to criminal conspiracy under the proviso. Although it is not essential to prove overt acts where the conspiracy is to commit an offence, still in many cases, it is only by means of overt acts that the existence of the conspiracy can be made out. Muhammad Ismail v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 106 :
165 I. C. 913 : 9 R. N. 101 :
I. L. R. 1936 Nag. 152 :
A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 97.

———S. 120-A—Proof.

Proof of case should not depend on absence of explanation by accused. Benoyendra Chandra Pandey v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 394 :
161 I. C. 74 : 40 C. W. N. 432 :
63 Cal. 929 : 8 R. C. 472 :
A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 73.

———Ss. 120-A, 107—Conspiracy, if can be abetted.

A conspiracy is not "an act committed" which can be abetted. S. Jone Bin v. A. Manual.

164 I. C. 522 :
9 R. Rang. 107 : 14 Rang. 597 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 358.

———Ss. 120-A, 120-B—Applicability.

Where the matter has gone beyond the stage of mere conspiracy and offences are alleged to have been actually committed in pursuance thereof, Ss. 120-A and 120-B are wholly irrelevant. In re : Mallimoggala.

39 Cr. L. J. 266 :
173 I. C. 26 : 46 L. W. 709 :
1937, 2 M. L. J. 862 : 1937 M. W. N. 996 :
10 R. M. 515 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 130.

———Ss. 120-A, 420—Conspiracy to cheat—Conviction under—Legality of.

A Provident Fund Society issued certain pamphlets, containing certain misrepresentations regarding the directors and management of the company. The real man behind this was some third person; the accused being mere servants, having no sufficient education, knowledge or experience to understand what was being done in their names; and due to the misrepresentations contained in the pamphlets, some persons were induced to deliver money to the Society. The pamphlets contained an impracticable and highly speculative scheme. The accused were convicted of conspiracy to cheat: Held, that as they had no association with false statements, the accused could not be convicted, they being unable to understand what was being done in their names and that there was no mens rea which was necessary for conviction. Parsram v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 651 :
168 I. C. 827 : 9 R. S. 248 :
A. I. R. 1937 Sind 58.

———S. 120-B—Abetment by conspiracy—Evidence.

The accused, a loading officer of a Railway Company, fraudulently endorsed shorter weights on the back of consignment notes, whereby the Railway Company were defrauded and the consignees were benefited. It was proved that the firm of the consignees was in negotiation with the accused about something and that the firm had, through its dealings with some leading officer of the Railway Company, been able to defraud the company of considerable sums and the name of the accused signed by himself appeared in one of the note-books of the firm and there was positive evidence that it was the duty of the accused to make out the weights on the consignment notes: Held, that under S. 10, Evidence Act, the note-books and jama kharch of the firm could be used as evidence of abetment by conspiracy against the accused. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Mohan Roy. 17 Cr. L. J. 439 : 35 I. C. 999 : 20 C. W. N. 292.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 120-B—Acts done in pursuance of conspiracy, if offences.

Conspiracy to obtain money by false pretences from public—Acts in pursuance of, are offences. Dur Mahomed v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1337 : 151 I. C. 494 : 28 S. L. R. 119 : 7 R. S. 55 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 57.

————S. 120-B—Applicability.

S. 120-B, Penal Code, only applies where no offence has been actually committed. In re : Mallimoggala Venkataramaiah.

39 Cr. L. J. 266 : 173 I. C. 26 : 46 L. W. 709 : 1937, 2 M. L. J. 862 : 1937 M. W. N. 996 : 10 R. M. 515 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 130.

————S. 120-B—Burden of proof.

Burden is on prosecution to prove conspiracy—Groups of persons in constant communication—Single activity—Defence must give satisfactory explanation. Bhabesh Chandra Hazra v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 7 : 152 I. C. 285 : 7 R. P. 165 : 1 B. R. 23 : A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 575.

————S. 120-B—Charge.

A charge against certain accused, of having "conspired with each other to commit an offence punishable under S. 420, Penal Code, to wit to cheat the Government of India of large sums of money in respect of the supply of linseed oil, turpentine, and water-soluble oil, and of having thereby committed an offence punishable under Ss. 120-B and 420," though not clearly worded, is capable of being interpreted as alleging one general conspiracy to commit an offence or offences under S. 420, the three transactions mentioned constituting overt acts, from which the conspiracy might be inferred; and the defect in the charge is not fatal if the accused are fully aware of the charge being of one general conspiracy and not of three different conspiracies. Billinghurst v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1313 (b) : 82 I. C. 545 : 27 C. W. N. 821 : A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 18.

————S. 120-B—Charge.

An acquitted person, after his acquittal of a particular offence, can be charged with an offence of conspiracy, only the evidence on which he has been acquitted cannot be received at a subsequent trial on a charge of conspiracy. Ram Das v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 1349 : 151 I. C. 442 : 1934 A. L. J. 852 : 7 R. A. 163 : A. I. R. 1934 All. 61.

————S. 120-B—Charge, form of.

A charge of conspiracy in respect of but one agreement between several accused persons to cheat such members of the public as they could defraud by deceitful means is not a bad charge. Kishanchand v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 243 : 92 I. C. 419 : 20 S. L. R. 18 : A. I. R. 1926 Sind 171.

————S. 120-B—Charge, form of.

The fact that a charge for conspiracy does not specify the persons who were parties to the conspiracy is a mere irregularity which can be cured by S. 537, Cr. P. C. Samo v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 426 : 101 I. C. 458 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 161.

————S. 120-B—Charge, form of.

The inclusion in a charge of conspiracy to cheat of certain specific offences relied on by the prosecution in proof of the substantive offence of cheating does not render the charge illegal as being in respect of different offences specified therein. Kishenchand v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 243 : 92 I. C. 419 : 20 S. L. R. 18 : A. I. R. 1926 Sind 171.

————S. 120-B—Charge framed—Trial.

Once a charge of conspiracy is framed, anything done in pursuance of the conspiracy can be tried at the trial for conspiracy. Abdul Salim v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 657 : 69 I. C. 145 : 35 C. L. J. 279 : 26 C. W. N. 680 : 49 Cal. 573 : A. I. R. 1922 Cal. 107.

————S. 120-B—Charge—Irregularities in.

There is not the same objection to the joinder of a number of charges in a conspiracy trial that there might be in other cases since, even if the accused had not been charged, the offences alleged to have been committed in pursuance of the conspiracy could have been proved to support the charge of conspiracy. This being so, there is no irregularity or an improper exercise of discretion in putting in the form of charges the specific acts specially relied on against each individual accused to show that they joined in the conspiracy. Abdul Salim v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 657 : 69 I. C. 145 : 35 C. L. J. 279 : 26 C. W. N. 680 : 49 Cal. 573 : A. I. R. 1922 Cal. 107.

————S. 120-B—Charge—Overt act.

Conspiracy is a substantive offence and has nothing to do with abetment. Although an overt act may be specified in the charge, yet this is not (except when the end of the conspiracy is not to commit an offence) necessary. The overt act or acts is or are introduced not as partially constituting an offence but as giving information and example as to what the conspiracy was. The offence is conspiracy. Nor is there any limit to the number of overt acts which can be given in the charge. Chandiran v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 286 : 92 I. C. 462 : 20 S. L. R. 140 .

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A. I. R. 1926 Sind 174.

———S. 120-B—Charge—Practice of adding charge under, where necessary, is condemnable.

The practice of adding a charge under S. 120-B in cases where it is not necessary, with the result that the jurors sit in the same trial as assessors is condemnable. Abdul Gafur Kotwal v. Emperor.

178 I. C. 637 : 11 R. C. 383 :

I. L. R. 1938, 1 Cal. 636 :

A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 658.

———S. 120-B—Charge.

There is no objection to charge under both Ss. 117 and 120-B. Tarapada Mitra v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1073 :

145 I. C. 814 : 37 C. W. N. 426 :

6 R. C. 138 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 603.

———S. 120-B—Complaint under S. 476, Cr. P. C., when necessary—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 195 (1), 476—Civil suit—Commitment of offence by party in conspiracy with strangers—Prosecution of party and stranger—Complaint or sanction of Local Government, necessity of.

In a civil suit the Judge found that certain offences referred to in S. 195, Cr. P. C., had been committed by the defendant along with another. He wrote to the Police asking them to investigate into the matter. The Police discovered that seven persons including the defendant had acted in conspiracy and instituted proceedings against them for certain offences falling under S. 195 and for an offence under S. 120-B, Penal Code, without obtaining the sanction of the Local Government, and the accused were committed to the Sessions: Held, that the commitment was illegal inasmuch as the defendant, who has a party, could not be prosecuted without a complaint under S. 476, Cr. P. C., and the others could not be prosecuted without either the sanction of the Local Government or a complaint by the Judge. Bishambar Das v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 589 :

123 I. C. 847 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 785.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Circumstantial evidence.

In a prosecution for conspiracy direct evidence of conspiracy will seldom be forthcoming and it is necessary to look at the circumstances to see whether the conspiracy actually existed. Gour Ohandra Das v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 475 :

115 I. C. 359 : 32 C. W. N. 1004 :

I. R. 1929 Cal. 359 :

A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 14.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Circumstantial evidence.

In respect of a charge of conspiracy, direct evidence is naturally difficult to obtain and such a charge must depend largely on circumstantial evidence. Mohammad Hadi Husain v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV-OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 983 :

112 I. C. 103 : 5 O. W. N. 281 :

3 Luck. 494 : A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 277.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Circumstantial evidence, sufficiency of.

A charge for conspiracy may be established either by direct evidence of an agreement between the conspirators which is hardly ever adduced, or it may be established by evidence from which the Court may raise a presumption of a common concerted plan to carry out an unlawful design. Samo v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 426 :

101 I. C. 458 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 161.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Circumstantial evidence, sufficiency of.

A charge of conspiracy may be proved by evidence of circumstances from which the Court may presume the conspiracy and though general evidence of the existence of the conspiracy may first be given before particular facts are proved to show that one or more of the accused took part in it, it does not mean that conspiracy cannot be proved by circumstantial evidence only and that general evidence must be given. Abdulla v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 421 :

101 I. C. 453 : A. I. R. 1928 Sind 73.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy, gist of, offence of.

The gist of the offence of criminal conspiracy to commit offences lies in the agreement or common intention of the accused and the question whether such an agreement or common intention exists, is a matter of inference to be deduced from the facts of the case and the acts of the accused proved in evidence and alleged to have been committed by them in pursuance of such agreement or common intention. If between the dates of different matters alleged as overt acts amounting to criminal conspiracy of the accused, there are transactions by them which are not false or fraudulent, they are not inconsistent with the existence of a general conspiracy. Billinghurst v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1313 (b) :

82 I. C. 545 : 27 C. W. N. 821 :

A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 18.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Meaning of.

It is not necessary in a case of criminal conspiracy for one conspirator to be aware of all the acts of his fellow conspirator committed in pursuance of the conspiracy. Dur Mohammad v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1337 :

151 I. C. 494 : 28 S. L. R. 119 :

7 R. S. 55 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 57.

———S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof of.

Evidence of association to be of any value must suggest something suspicious. Inference one way or another cannot be drawn by casual meeting or conversation in public place. Bachcha Babu v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 684 :

155 I. C. 369 : 1935 A. W. R. 1 :

7 R. A. 908 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 162.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

For conspiracy to fabricate evidence to obtain capital conviction, all conspirators should know that charge is false. Dwarka Nath Varma v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 322 :

142 I. C. 335 : 37 L. W. 584 :
64 M. L. J. 466 : 1933 M. W. N. 409 :
10 O. W. N. 522 : 37 C. W. N. 514 :
57 C. L. J. 177 : 14 P. L. T. 305 :
1933 A. L. J. 645 : 35 Bom. L. R. 507 :
I. R. 1933 P. C. 65 P. C. :
A. I. R. 1933 P. C. 124.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

If persons are to be held guilty not only of committing an offence but of conspiracy to commit it, there must be evidence not only of the commission of the offence but of the conspiracy. Bala Huddar v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 594 :
148 I. C. 157 : 6 R. N. 167 :
A. I. R. 1933 Nag. 252.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

In looking to the evidence of the conspiracy, one does not expect to find direct evidence of the plotting and planning by which a movement of this kind is instigated and strengthened. The strongest possible evidence is, however, afforded by the conduct of those who attended the meetings, the speeches they delivered and the behaviour of their associates subsequent to hearing them. Than Pa Sein v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 801 :
169 I. C. 668 : 10 R. Rang. 31 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 161.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

It is immaterial if all the accused had concocted the scheme of the conspiracy or that all of them should have originated it. It is sufficient if it originated with some of them and the others had subsequently joined the original conspirators. Kishanchand v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 243 :
92 I. C. 419 : 20 S. L. R. 18 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 171.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

Police officers taking bribes from both sides—This act does not afford evidence of conspiracy with one side. Dwarka Nath Varma v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 322 :
142 I. C. 335 : 37 L. W. 584 :
64 M. L. J. 466 : 1933 M. W. N. 409 :
10 O. W. N. 522 : 37 C. W. N. 514 :
57 C. L. J. 177 : 14 P. L. T. 305 :
1933 A. L. J. 645 : 35 Bom. L. R. 507 :
I. R. 1933 P. C. 65 P. C. :
A. I. R. 1933 P. C. 124.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

Proof of one offence of dacoity or robbery is not sufficient to support a charge of conspiring to commit robberies and dacoities. Jagan v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 796 :
148 I. C. 929 : 11 O. W. N. 208 :
6 R. O. 470 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 106.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof.

The conspiracy may be proved either by direct evidence or by proof of circumstances from which the Court may presume the conspiracy. Kishanchand v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 243 :
92 I. C. 419 : 20 S. L. R. 18 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 171.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy—Proof of.

When the main charge is one of conspiracy, it is not possible always to have proof of direct meeting, of combination, or that the parties have been brought into each other's presence. To establish a charge of conspiracy, the agreement is very often to be inferred from circumstances raising a presumption of a common concerted plan to carry out the unlawful design. C. E. Ring v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 65 :
120 I. C. 340 : 31 Bom. L. R. 545 :
53 Bom. 479 : A. I. R. 1929 Bom. 296.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy relating to overt acts—Overt acts amounting to offence—Proper procedure.

Where proof of the conspiracy is sought to be rested on proof of participation in an overt act which itself amounts to an offence, the proper course is to put the accused on trial for that offence. It is not right in such a case to charge with conspiracy on the off-chance of being able to secure a conviction for the overt act. That would lead to a misuse of the provisions of S. 120-B, Penal Code, which the Courts have always deprecated. It would, in fact, offend against a well-settled rule that when evidence at the disposal of the prosecution is insufficient to secure a conviction for the crime committed, it is inexpedient even though it may be lawful, to prosecute the accused for a conspiracy, the proof whereof really rests on the establishment of the very crime. Goloke Behari Takal v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 161 :
173 I. C. 65 : 66 C. L. J. 25 :
42 C. W. N. 129 : 10 R. C. 441 :
I. L. R. 1938, 1 Cal. 290 :
A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 51.

—S. 120-B—Conspiracy to murder—Presumption—Agreement—Liability.

In a case where the prosecution allege that there was an agreement between the accused persons and others to commit murder and to abet the commission of murder, but being unable to give direct proof of any such agreement, ask the Court to deduce the existence and nature of the agreement from the fact that certain members of the conspiracy actually did commit a murder : Held, that if the facts alleged are established, it would be a fair and justifiable inference that the alleged agreement between the parties accused did in fact exist, that each and every member of the conspiracy is responsible for an offence committed in pursuance of the conspiracy, and that it is not necessary to show that a particular member actually concerted the offence with the member who committed it. Balmokand v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 354 :
28 I. C. 738 : 11 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
17 P. R. 1915 Cr. : 246 P. L. R. 1915 :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 16.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 120-B—Charge—Conspiracy to possess fire-arms—Proper charge.

Where two or more persons conspire to possess fire-arms without a licence, they are guilty of an offence under S. 120-B, Penal Code, read with S. 19 (f), Arms Act, and it is not necessary for the prosecution in such a case to specify in the charge or to prove that the accused conspired to possess any particular arms or that any such fire-arms were actually in existence. Nirmal Chandra De v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 241 :
100 I. C. 113 : 31 C. W. N. 239 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 265.

———S. 120-B—Conspirators—Who are.

It cannot be said that temporary residence in a house containing explosive articles, even with the knowledge of their existence there, is possession within the meaning of S. 5, Explosive Substances Act. Conspiracy to possess connotes some act of possession or attempted possession. Hari Narayan Chandra v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 49 :
106 I. C. 545 : 46 C. L. J. 368 :
A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 27.

———S. 120-B—Conspirators—Who are.

Where there is no means of discriminating between the cases of various persons found at a place of a criminal conspiracy, and the circumstances point to the conclusion that every person found in the house was a member of the conspiracy, absence of proof that a particular person was there innocently leads to the conclusion that no one's presence was innocent. Hari Narayan Chandra v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 49 :
106 I. C. 545 : 46 C. L. J. 368 :
A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 27.

———S. 120-B—Constructive liability—Proof.

Court viewing that there was conspiracy to cause explosions in various places on a certain date—To hold any person constructively liable, it must be shown that he was actually privy to the plot. Jahangiri Lal v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1180 :
150 I. C. 1056 : 7 R. L. 58 :
A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 230.

———S. 120-B—Criminal conspiracy, gist of.

The gist of the offence of criminal conspiracy is the agreement itself, and where the object of the agreement is to do an unlawful act and not to do a lawful act by unlawful means, it is sufficient to specify the unlawful object without specifying the means adopted by all or any of the conspirators to gain that object. Samo v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 426 :
101 I. C. 458 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 161.

———S. 120-B—Criminal conspiracy, what is.

An offence under S. 120-B, Penal Code, consists in the conspiracy without a reference to the subject-matter of the conspiracy. Criminal conspiracy consists in the agreement of two or more persons to commit an offence punishable by law. It is true that the law does not take notice of the intention or the state of mind of the offender and there must be an overt act to give expression to that intention. The overt act in a case of conspiracy, however, consists in the agreement of the parties, and in the case of an agreement to commit an offence, it is not necessary in order to constitute the offence of conspiracy that the agreement should be followed by some act. A person may be guilty of criminal conspiracy even though the illegal act which he has agreed to do, has not been done, for the crime of conspiracy consists only in the agreement or confederacy to do an illegal act by legal means or a legal act by illegal means. Nirmal Chandra De v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 241 :
100 I. C. 113 : 31 C. W. N. 239 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 265.

———S. 120-B—Duty of prosecution.

Prosecution must prove agreement between two or more persons to do some illegal act. If agreement is other than one to commit an offence, prosecution must prove some act in pursuance of agreement. If agreement is to commit offence, no overt act need be proved though proof of overt act will help to prove agreement. Bachcha Babu v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 684 :
155 I. C. 369 : 1935 A. W. R. 1 :
7 R. A. 908 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 162.

———S. 120-B—Essentials of offence.

Agreement to do illegal act being in itself criminal conspiracy—Offence continues so long as parties to conspiracy remain in agreement. Abdul Rahman v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 982 :
156 I. C. 678 : 62 Cal. 749 :
8 R. C. 21 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 316.

———S. 120-B—Evidence, weighing of.

On the evidence of witnesses who were aware of the conspiracy and of the objects of the same, and who were merely tools in the hands of the leaders of the conspiracy for a certain time, and had nothing to do with the control and possession of fire-arms, the main charge against the accused persons cannot be viewed with suspicion. Narain Chandra Biswas v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 445 :
161 I. C. 289 : 63 C. L. J. 191 :
8 R. C. 508 : A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 101.

———S. 120-B—Ingredients.

The ingredients of the offence of conspiracy are:—(1) that there should be an agreement between the persons who are alleged to conspire; and (2) that the agreement should be:—(i) for doing of an illegal act, or (ii) for doing by illegal means an act which may not itself be illegal. Chandiran v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 286 :
92 I. C. 462 : 20 S. L. R. 140 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 174.

———S. 120-B—Interpretation.

The words "where an express provision has been made in the Code for the punishment of such a conspiracy" appearing in S. 120-B, Penal Code, do not mean that where there is proof of an abetment of an offence, the charge should be for such abetment. It is optional for the Crown to proceed for abetment of an offence committed in pursuance of the conspiracy or of the offence of conspiracy. Kishan Chand v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 243 :
92 I. C. 419 : 20 S. L. R. 18 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 171.

———S. 120-B—Interpretation.

The words "where no express provision has been made in this Code for the punishment of such a conspiracy" in S. 120-B, do not mean that when there is proof of an abetment of an offence, the charge should be for such an abetment. They only include cases where there is express provision for the punishment of the particular conspiracy alleged and the only such case in the Penal Code is that under S. 121-A. Udhasing Tahsing v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 366 :
35 I. C. 670 : 10 S. L. R. 69 :
A. I. R. 1916 Sind 95.

———S. 120-B—Jurisdiction.

Facts within S. 121-A—Still Government can proceed under S. 120-B. Maganlal Bageli v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1097 :
150 I. C. 623 : 30 N. L. R. 269 :
7 R. N. 10 : A. I. R. 1934 Nag. 71.

———S. 120-B—Liability of conspirators—Conspiracy between two persons—Acquittal of one and conviction of the other, legality of.

Where two persons are accused of a conspiracy between themselves under S. 120-B, Penal Code, and one of them is acquitted, the other cannot be convicted of that conspiracy. Kasem Ali v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 449 :
101 I. C. 481 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 949.

———S. 120-B—Liability of conspirators.

Conspiracy is one form of abetment, and where an offence is alleged to have been committed by more than two persons, such of them as actually took part in the commission should be charged with the substantive offence, while those who are alleged to have abetted it by conspiracy should be charged with the offence of abetment under S. 100, Penal Code. In re : Mallimoggala Venkataramiah.

39 Cr. L. J. 266 :
173 I. C. 26 : 46 L. W. 709 :
1937, 2 M. L. J. 862 : 1937 M. W. N. 996 :
10 R. M. 515 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 130.

———S. 120-B—Liability of conspirators.

Where a charge of conspiracy is based upon the fact that only three persons participated in the conspiracy, and two of those persons are acquitted of the charge, the third must necessarily be acquitted also, inasmuch as a charge of conspiracy cannot stand against a single individual. Prafulla Kumar Roy v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 147 :
91 I. C. 883 : 30 C. W. N. 94 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 345.

———S. 120-B—Proof.

It is not sufficient, in order to convict a person under S. 120-B, to merely prove that he had been associating with the other accused at a certain place, and on his arrest, endeavoured to extricate himself from being accused of something connected with the conspiracy. Rakhal Chandra Das v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 399 :
129 I. C. 619 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 235 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 647.

———S. 120-B—Sanction for prosecution:

It is only in cases where no crime has been committed in pursuance of a Criminal conspiracy, that sanction to initiate proceedings is necessary as some safeguard against frivolous prosecution. In re : Mallimoggala Venkataramiah.

39 Cr. L. J. 266 :
173 I. C. 26 : 46 L. W. 709 :
1937, 2 M. L. J. 862 : 1937 M. W. N. 996 :
10 R. M. 515 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 13.

———S. 120-B—Sanction for prosecution, necessity of.

Obiter—The consent of the Local Government under S. 100-A, Cr. P. C., is necessary in the case of persons who are not parties to the proceedings but who may have conspired with such parties to commit an offence mentioned in Sub-s. (1), S. 105, Cr. P. C., which merely applies to the parties to the proceedings. Bishanbar Das v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 589 :
123 I. C. 847 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 785.

———S. 120-B—Sanction under S. 196-A, Cr. P. C., if necessary.

Sanction of District Magistrate under S. 190-A, Cr. P. C., is necessary. Bhikhari Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 17 :
152 I. C. 282 : 15 P. L. T. 523 :
13 Pat. 719 : 7 R. P. 16 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 561.

———S. 120-B—Sanction under S. 196-A—Necessity of.

S. 190-A, Cr. P. C., only renders sanction necessary where the prosecution is for criminal conspiracy punishable under S. 120-B, Penal Code. It does not alter the former law that a prosecution for abetment by way of conspiracy punishable under S. 109, Penal Code, requires no sanction. Abdul Salim v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 657 :
69 I. C. 145 : 35 C. L. J. 279 :
26 C. W. N. 680 : 49 Cal. 573 :
A. I. R. 1922 Cal. 107.

———S. 120-B—Scope.

S. 120-A and 120-B did not find a place in the Penal Code before the 27th March 1913, when Act VIII of 1913 became law, and, therefore, persons accused under S. 120-B cannot be convicted unless the prosecution establishes that the accused were members of a conspiracy after the 27th March 1913. Amritlal Hazra v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 497 :
29 I. C. 513 : 21 C. L. J. 331 :
19 C. W. N. 676 : 42 Cal. 957 :
A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 188.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 120-B—Section not in force—Conviction under S. 109—Permissibility.

A conviction under S. 120-B, Penal Code, cannot stand if the offence was committed before that section came into force but the accused can be convicted of abetment under S. 109, Penal Code, as abetment includes abetment by conspiracy. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Mon Mohan Roy. 17 Cr. L. J. 439 : 35 I. C. 999 : 20 C. W. N. 292.

————S. 120-B—Sentence.

For an offence under S. 120-B, punishment is provided by S. 109 if an offence has been committed, but if an offence has not been committed, punishment is limited to the extent provided by S. 116. Perhaps, strictly speaking, in the former case, there should not be a conviction for conspiracy but for abetment of an offence, for conspiracy followed by an act done to carry out the purpose of the conspiracy amounts to abetment. Harsha Nath Chatterjee v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 9 : 26 I. C. 313 : 21 C. L. J. 201 : 42 Cal. 1153 : 19 C. W. N. 706 : A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 719.

————S. 120-B—Sentence.

Where the accused have been sentenced separately for the several acts constituting a conspiracy, separate sentence for an offence under S. 120-B is not called for. Punjab Singh Ujagar Singh v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 322 : 147 I. C. 2 : 35 P. L. R. 51 : 15 Lah. 84 : 6 R. L. 339 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 977.

————Ss. 120-B, 109.

Abetment by conspiracy—Evidence Act (I of 1872), S. 10—Appeals, criminal, in connected cases—Cross-reference to evidence and judgments in cases by Appellate Court—Irregularity. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Mon Mohan Roy. 17 Cr. L. J. 439 : 35 I. C. 999 : 20 C. W. N. 292.

————Ss. 120-B, 109, 116—Sentence—Punishment for conspiracy—Act done in furtherance of conspiracy, when can be separately punished.

The punishment for the offence of conspiracy under S. 120-B, Penal Code, depends upon whether the illegal act has or has not been carried out. In the former case, the punishment will be in accordance with S. 109, i. e., it will be the same as for the offence itself. In the latter case, it will be in accordance with S. 116. Where in a case, proof is given that the illegal acts were done in furtherance of the conspiracy, the offence under S. 120-B, is punishable under S. 109 and not under S. 116. But acts done in pursuance of the conspiracy cannot be separately punished unless these acts are separately charged and particularized as required by the Code. Emperor v. Karamalli Gulamalli. 40 Cr. L. J. 118 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

178 I. C. 706 : 40 Bom. L. R. 1092 : 11 R. B. 184 : I. L. R. 1939 Bom. 42 : A. I. R. 1938 Bom. 481.

————Ss. 120-B, 115—Sentence.

In inflicting punishment, a distinction must be drawn between the case of a person who joins a conspiracy before the actual crime, which is the object of the conspiracy, is committed, and the case of a person who joins it subsequent to the commission of such a crime. Therefore, where two persons A and B conspire to commit murder, and B subsequently does commit murder, A is punishable as if he had abetted that murder but if B has already committed a murder before A conspires with him to commit murder, A is liable to be punished only to the extent provided in S. 115, Penal Code. But in every such case the offence committed by a member or members of the conspiracy prior to the entry of A into the conspiracy, would be a relevant fact as indicating the nature and objects of the conspiracy. The fact that a member of the conspiracy was not admitted to the full dignity of membership of the committee but was treated more as a tool than as a colleague, is no ground for showing leniency in punishment to that member. Balmokand v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 354 :

28 I. C. 738 : 11 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. : 17 P. R. 1915 Cr. : 246 P. L. R. 1915 : A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 16.

————Ss. 120-B, 296, 412—Conspiracy—Proof.

The offence of conspiracy under S. 120-B, I. P. C., is one which requires detailed and specific proof against each of the accused that he individually participated in a particular design to do a particular criminal thing. Emperor v. Aftab Mohammad Khan. 41 Cr. L. J. 647 :

188 I. C. 649 : 1940 A. L. J. 206 : 13 R. A. 55 : A. I. R. 1940 All. 291.

————Ss. 120-B, 302—Conspiracy to murder—Evidence—Inference from mere presence.

Per Cuming, J.—Though conspiracy cannot often be proved by direct evidence, conspiracy to murder cannot be inferred from the mere fact that the accused were seen at the house of the deceased on the night when the deceased is alleged to have been murdered. Emperor v. Yunus Ali. 30 Cr. L. J. 820 :

117 I. C. 680 : 32 C. W. N. 783 : I. R. 1929 Cal. 568.

————Ss. 120-B, 384—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 196-A—Conviction under Ss. 384 and 120-B without sanction of Local Government, legality of—Conviction under S. 381, whether can be separated and maintained.

Where two accused persons were convicted under S. 384 and S. 384 read with S. 114, Penal Code, respectively, and both were convicted also under S. 120-B, Penal Code, without obtaining the sanction contemplated by S. 196-A, Cr. P. C.: Held, (1) that as the object of the conspiracy was to commit an offence under S. 384, which is a non-cognizable offence, the Court could not take cognizance of the offence under S. 120-B, Penal Code, without sanction of the Local Government or the District Magistrate in that behalf; (2) that the trial held on charges which did not require sanction along with such as required sanction could not be separated and the convictions were wholly illegal. Bhattacharyya v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 995 :
126 I. C. 272 : 33 O. W. N. 834 :
57 Cal. 99 : A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 754.

—Ss. 120-B, 404—Sanction under S. 196-A, Cr. P. C., if necessary.

A Court is not competent to take cognizance of an offence under S. 404/120-B, Penal Code, without the sanction required by S. 196 (A) (2), Cr. P. C. Sukumar Chatterjee v. Mufiz-ad-Din Ahmed.

22 Cr. L. J. 455 :
61 I. C. 839 : 25 C. W. N. 357 :
A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 561.

—Ss. 120-B, 409—Conspiracy to commit criminal breach of trust by public servant—Ingredients.

Without the slightest evidence of any money having been received by a public servant, he can be convicted of criminal breach of trust by a public servant, under S. 409, and of conspiracy under S. 120-B, Penal Code, when property under his control disappears and his connection with the conspiracy is brought home to him. Hdy v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1217 :
88 I. C. 833 : 28 O. C. 203 :
2 O. W. N. 469 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 469.

—Ss. 120-B, 420—Appeal to gambling instinct, whether per se cheating—Accused held not guilty of cheating or conspiracy to cheat.

An appeal to the gambling instinct of humanity does not per se amount to cheating. That in starting an insurance scheme which was calculated to confer money benefits on the policy-holders in the share of twelve times the money invested by each, the accused were not guilty of either cheating or conspiracy to cheat, as upon a fair reading of the prospectus, it could not be said that it contained any fraudulent or deceitful representations though it might appear too absurd for such schemes to work with success. Radha Ballav Pal v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 600 :
181 I. C. 918 : 11 R. C. 872 :
43 C. W. N. 388 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 327.

—S. 121.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 239.

—S. 121—Abetment of offence.

Accused an influential man in village which was hot-bed of rebellion—Also President of body resisting tax—Assisting rebels after battle and recruiting rebels: Held, he was guilty of abetment of offence under S. 121. Nga Po Ai Gyi v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 715 :
169 I. C. 218 : 9 R. Rang. 389 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 118.

—S. 121—Charge, contents of.

Under Ss. 221 and 222, Cr. P. C., there is no duty on the prosecution to mention the fellow conspirators by name. Manabendra Nath Roy v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 768 :
148 I. C. 833 : 6 R. A. 772 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 498.

—S. 121.

Essentials of offence stated. Nga Aung Pa v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 929 :
145 I. C. 251 : 6 R. Rang. 32 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 116.

—S. 121—Liability of retiring conspirator.

If a conspirator has formed the intention to leave conspiracy and ceases to be a conspirator by his own act and intention when the other conspirators wage war, he cannot be held guilty under S. 121, Penal Code. Goman Saya v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 610 :
21 I. C. 658 : 6 Bur. L. T. 153.

—S. 121—Waging war—What amounts to—Conspiracy to overthrow Government—Attack on officers.

Where there was a conspiracy to overthrow the British Government in Burma, and the conspirators attacked and fought the Township Officer's party which had come to arrest them: Held, that the attack constituted the act of waging war; it was not riot but the culminating act of a deeply laid plot to overthrow the Government of the country. Pan Thin v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 514 :
20 I. C. 646 : 9 Bur. L. T. 146.

—S. 121—Waging war—What amounts to.

Rebels recruiting people with object of overthrowing existing Government and punishing those refusing to join them—This amounts to waging war. Nga Aung Pa v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 929 :
145 I. C. 251 : 6 R. Rang. 32 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 116.

—S. 121—Waging war—What amounts to.

The accused published a book of poems. A spirit of blood-thirstiness and murderous eagerness directed against the Government and white rulers ran through the poems; the urgency of taking up the sword was conveyed in unambiguous language, and an appeal of blood-thirsty incitement was made to the people to take up the sword, form secret societies, and adopt guerrilla warfare for the purpose of rooting out the demon of foreign rule: Held, that an instigation to wage war was conveyed by the poems and that the accused committed the offence of waging war punishable under S. 121, Penal Code. Emperor v. Ganesht Damodar.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 264 :
5 I. C. 854 : 12 Bom. L. R. 195.

———S. 121-A—Ban on views.

The law does not prohibit a person from forming any views however extreme they may be, if the accused confines himself to an academic discussion. Mandbendra Nath Roy v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 768 :
148 I. C. 833 : 6 R. A. 772 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 498.

———S. 121-A—Charge of one conspiracy—Accused if can be found guilty of another.

Where several persons are charged with the same conspiracy, it is a legal impossibility to find some guilty of one conspiracy and some of another. Any accused not shown to be a member of a particular conspiracy, is entitled to demand an acquittal however bad his record may be and however much he may be suspected of this or that offence. Emperor v. Noni Gopal.

12 Cr. L. J. 286 :
10 I. C. 582 : 15 C. W. N. 593 :
38 Cal. 559.

———S. 121-A—Conspiracy—Illegal act or omission as overt acts of conspiracy, if should be established.

Under the law as contained in S. 121-A, Penal Code, conspiracy itself is a crime and it is not necessary to establish any illegal act or illegal omission as overt acts of the conspiracy, the existence of which has to be established. The illegal acts or omission, if established, support the case of the existence of the conspiracy itself, the offence being complete even though two persons conspiring together go no further than the original agreement. There cannot be, strictly speaking, direct evidence of the inception of a conspiracy, if any of the conspirators themselves do not choose to speak to the same. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

———S. 121-A—Conspiracy—Overt acts by members, value of.

Where there are overt acts on the part of the members of the conspiracy, they are to be looked at as evidence of the existence of a concealed intention. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

———S. 121-A—Conspiracy—Proof.

Conspiracy in existence and accused member with intention to use violence, if necessary—Possession of weapons—It is immaterial whether he used them in acts of aggression or resistance. Surjya Kumar Sen v. Emperor. (F. B.)

35 Cr. L. J. 334 :
147 I. C. 32 : 6 R. C. 304 :
A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 221.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 121-A—Conspiracy, proof of.

Where the members of the conspiracy are members of different organisations, it is not necessary to establish that the different organisations were connected with one another. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

———S. 121-A—Criminal conspiracy—Offence, when complete.

The offence of criminal conspiracy is complete as soon as two or more persons agree to do or cause to be done an illegal act, or an act which is not illegal by illegal means. The agreement itself is enough to constitute the offence as contemplated by S. 121-A, Penal Code, it not being necessary that any act or illegal omission shall take place in pursuance of the conspiracy. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

———S. 121-A—Conspiracy to wage war—Dacoities committed as part of conspiracy—Conviction, acquittal and discharge, effect of.

The principal charge against several persons was under S. 121-A, Penal Code, of conspiracy to wage war against His Majesty the King Emperor. As a part of the conspiracy, it was alleged by the prosecution, that many crimes, e. g., dacoities were committed and that these formed the subject of judicial investigation which resulted in some of the accused being convicted, and others being acquitted or discharged: Held, that, where there was an acquittal, it was conclusive, for a judgment of not guilty fully establishes the innocence of an accused. The convictions also were similarly conclusive. As to those who were discharged, no steps were taken to have the order of discharge set aside, nor was further evidence adduced, but on the contrary, some evidence which was adduced before the Magistrate and which was favourable to the accused, was not even adduced; that the guilt of these accused had not been proved, nor had any connection been established between the dacoity and the alleged conspiracy. Emperor v. Noni Gopal.

12 Cr. L. J. 286 :
10 I. C. 582 : 15 C. W. N. 593 :
38 Cal. 559.

———S. 121-A—Conviction under—Legality of.

Accused since released from internment, plotting against Government and plans vigorously being put into operation—Accused personally responsible for death of innocent persons: Held, he was rightly convicted under Ss. 121 and 121-A. Surjya Kumar Sen v. Emperor. (F. B.)

35 Cr. L. J. 334 :
147 I. C. 32 : 6 R. C. 304 :
A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 221.

———S. 121-A—Essence of offence.

The essence of an offence under S. 121-A, Penal Code, is the agreement to do fall or any of the unlawful acts mentioned in the section. It is not necessary that any act or illegal omission should take place in pursuance of the agreement. Emperor v. Nila Kanta.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

13 Cr. L. J. 305 :
14 I. C. 849 : 1912 M. W. N. 207 :
22 M. L. J. 490 : 35 Mad. 247.

———S. 121-A—Evidence.

Direct evidence that accused entered into agreement to conspire need not be given. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

———S. 121-A—Evidence, sufficiency of—Question of fact.

The question whether the evidence is sufficient to establish a charge of conspiracy laid under S. 121-A, Penal Code, is a question of fact, because the solution of the question depends upon the view which the trial Court takes of the evidence adduced before it and of the inferences reasonably to be drawn from that evidence. Purnananda Das Gupta v. Emperor. (F. B.)

40 Cr. L. J. 199 :
179 I. C. 506 : 68 C. L. J. 206 :
11 R. C. 557 : 1 L. R. 1939, 1 Cal. 1 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 65.

———S. 121-A—General evidence of existence of conspiracy—Whether can be given.

In a trial under S. 121-A, general evidence of the existence of a conspiracy can be given before particular facts are proved to show that one or more of the accused took part in it. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

———S. 121-A—Holding communist views, if per se offence.

Mere holding of communist beliefs or doctrines is not punishable per se. Jhabwala v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 967 :
145 I. C. 481 : 1933 A. L. J. 799 :
6 R. A. 65 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 690.

———S. 121-A—Jurisdiction.

Where it is evident that a place was one of the centres of a conspiracy and the accused frequently wrote letters at that place, the Sessions Court at that place has jurisdiction. Manabendra Nath Roy v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 768 :
148 I. C. 833 : 6 R. A. 772 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 498.

———S. 121-A—Liability of communists from abroad.

Members of Communist Party in Great Britain sent to India and carrying on activities in India are liable to the same extent as members of Communist Party of India for conviction of offence under S. 121-A. Jhabwala v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 967 :
145 I. C. 481 : 1933 A. L. J. 799 :
6 R. A. 65 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 690.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 121-A—Necessary element.

A charge of conspiracy to wage war against His Majesty the King-Emperor under S. 121-A, Penal Code, may, to the lay mind, imply a political situation of the gravest character, and it is partly for this reason that the Legislature has prescribed that a charge of this description should not be entertained except upon complaint made by order of Government. The provisions of the law, however, are comprehensive and no very formidable elements, either in men or means, are required to satisfy its definition of a conspiracy to wage war. No act or illegal omission is necessary; the agreement of two or more will suffice, so that the determination by a Court that a conspiracy to wage war has been established would not imply the existence of a serious menace to the constitution or the stability of constituted authority in India. Emperor v. Nont Gopal.

12 Cr. L. J. 286 :
10 I. C. 582 : 15 C. W. N. 593 :
38 Cal. 559.

———S. 121-A—Object of Communist Party in India, if offence.

Objects of Communist Party in India stated—They are liable to conviction under S. 121-A. Jhabwala v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 967 :
145 I. C. 481 : 1933 A. L. J. 799 :
6 R. A. 65 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 690.

———S. 121-A—Offence under—Proof.

For the purpose of S. 121-A it is not necessary that any act or illegal omission shall take place in pursuance of the conspiracy. The agreement in itself is enough to constitute the offence. Jhabwala v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 967 :
145 I. C. 481 : 1933 A. L. J. 799 :
6 R. A. 65 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 690.

———S. 121-A—Omission of names of members of revolutionary society—Effect of.

Where, in a sanction, the persons to be prosecuted are named and the sections under which they are alleged to have committed offences as also the period of their activity are specified, the mere circumstance that they are not described as members of the revolutionary society, the existence whereof was sought to be established at the trial, does not affect the validity of the sanction as being vague. An indictment for conspiracy must contain a statement of the facts relied upon as constituting the offence, in ordinary and concise language, with as much certainty as the nature of the case will admit. Lathi play by itself is perfectly harmless, and standing alone, it cannot be treated as evidence of a conspiracy to wage war. Pulin Behary Das v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 609 :
16 I. C. 257 : 15 C. L. J. 517 :
16 C. W. N. 1105.

———S. 121-A—Participating in Trade Union activities, if offence.

Accused not belonging to party adopting programme of Communist International—Mere taking part in Trade Union activities raises no presumption of their having entered into conspiracy under S. 121-A. Jhabwala v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 967 :
145 I. C. 481 : 1933 A. L. J. 799 :
6 R. A. 65 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 690.

—S. 121-A—Proof.

Conspiracy to deprive King-Emperor of Sovereignty in British India is enough. Whether conspiracy is expected to succeed in the lifetime of the present King-Emperor or his successor is immaterial. Jhabwala v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 967 :
145 I. C. 481 : 1933 A. L. J. 799 :
6 R. A. 65 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 690.

—S. 121-A—Sentence—Considerations in passing sentence.

The linking up of politics with treason, revolution and murder cannot serve to minimise the offence charged against the accused. In awarding sentence, the prevention of crime, the protection of the State, the society and the public, as also the reformation of the offender, have to be kept in view. In the case of political offences, arising out of beliefs of the accused, severe sentences defeat their object. But a distinction must be drawn between political offences of the nature of sedition or spread of ideas of communism and socialism charged under S. 121-A, Penal Code, and offences against the State and society involving treason, armed rebellion and murder, in connection with which the name of politics is used. The sentence passed in a case which is required to be deterrent must be in proportion to the gravity of the offence committed. In awarding sentences, the complicity of each of the individual accused person, and the part played by him as a member of the conspiracy in furtherance of the aims and objects of the conspiracy, must be carefully considered. Jitendra Nath Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

38 Cr. L. J. 818 :
169 I. C. 977 : 10 R. C. 69 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 99.

—S. 121-B—Views of accused—Relevancy of.

The Court may take cognizance of the fact that accused does hold certain views, for as a guide to his conduct and intention, these views are more relevant consideration. Manabendra Nath Roy v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 768 :
148 I. C. 833 : 6 R. A. 772 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 498.

—S. 121-A—Waging war against King—Conspiracy with person known and unknown—Persons not named in petition of complaint but named in sanction of Government—No jurisdiction to try.

Where the accused were charged with having conspired with one another and other persons known and unknown to wage war against His Majesty : Held, that the charge could not be sustained if the known persons were not mentioned in it. Where one of the accused was not named in the petition of complaint though his name was mentioned in the sanction of the Government authorizing the prosecution : Held, that the accused must be discharged. Emperor v. Lalit Mohan Chakravarti.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 2 :
8 I. C. 1059 : 15 C. W. N. 98.

—S. 121-A—Waging war—What amounts to.

Institute attacked as persons using it were expected to be Government supporters. Mere fact that only one man present was an official will not make raid anything less than waging war. Surjya Kumar Sen v. Emperor. (F. B.)

35 Cr. L. J. 334 :
147 I. C. 32 : 6 R. C. 304 :
A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 221.

—Ss. 121-A, 517—Disposal of property used for commission of offence.

When a person has been convicted for carrying out the policy of the Communist International by writing articles, books used for the purpose of committing the offence cannot be returned to the accused but books produced by the defence on which prosecution did not rely for proof of offence can be returned. Philip Spratt v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1389 :
151 I. C. 735 : 4 A. W. R. 550 :
1934 A. L. J. 425 : 7 R. A. 195 :
A. I. R. 1934 All. 207.

—S. 123—Charge, form of.

A charge under S. 123, Penal Code, can be legally joined with one under S. 121-A and may be tried at one trial. Pulin Behary Das v. Emperor.
13 Cr. L. J. 609 :
16 I. C. 257 : 15 C. L. J. 517 :
16 C. W. N. 1105.

—S. 124.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 225.

—S. 124—Disaffection.

Reciting seditious poem in public meeting held, an offence. Lachhman Das v. Emperor.
32 Cr. L. J. 588 :
130 I. C. 655 : 31 P. L. R. 918 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 335 : A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 52.

—S. 124—Sedition, what is.

An article which attributes base, improper and dishonourable motives to the Government comes within the mischief of S. 124-A, Penal Code. Gopal Lal Sanyal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 900 :
105 I. C. 228 : 46 C. L. J. 156 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 751.

—S. 124-A.

- Attempt to publish sedition.
- Bail, grant of.
- Bona fide comments.
- Boycott of British goods.
- Charge.
- Complaint.
- Construction.
- Criminal conspiracy.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

- Criticism attributing indifference to welfare of people, if and when offence.
- Disaffection.
- Evidence.
- Exhortation to join Communist or Bolshevik party, if sedition.
- Fair comment.
- Gist of offence.
- Government established by law in India, meaning of.
- Hatred and contempt.
- Intention.
- Jurisdiction.
- Keeper of press.
- Offence under.
- Principles of construction.
- Printer.
- Proprietors of papers responsibility.
- Sedition.
- Seditious articles.
- Seditious document.
- Seditious literature.
- Seditious speech.
- Sentence.
- Trial for sedition.
- Waging of war.

----- S. 124-A—Attempt to publish sedition—When complete.

An attempt to commit an offence is punishable under the Penal Code. All that is necessary to constitute such an attempt, is some external act, something tangible and ostensible of which the law can take hold as an act showing progress towards the actual commission of the offence. It does not matter that the progress was interrupted. An attempt to publish a seditious article is complete for the purposes of law when copies of the magazine containing the article are sold. It is nonetheless an attempt because something external happens which prevents a perusal of the article by the buyers of the magazine or any other member of the public. Ganesh Balwant Modak v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 180 :
5 I. C. 612 : 12 Bom. L. R. 21.

----- S. 124-A—Bail, grant of.

The offence under S. 124-A is a non-bailable one punishable with transportation for life. So the accused should not be released on bail at all. Giani Meher Singh v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 138 :
185 I. C. 249 : I. L. R. 1939, 2 Cal. 42 :
43 C. W. N. 639 : 12 R. C. 349 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 714.

----- S. 124-B—Bona fide comments—Limits of.

Every one has the right to comment upon the action of any particular individual or set of individuals. But the way in which the comment is put forward has to be considered and if the article read as a whole is likely to bring the Government into hatred or contempt or is liable to excite disaffection, the writer will be guilty of an offence under S. 124-A. Jagat Narain Lall v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 213 :
113 I. C. 696 : 9 P. L. T. 784 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 88 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 10.

----- S. 124-A—Bona fide comment, if offence.

A writer is entitled to express his opinion on the Reform Scheme, and the mere fact that he states that the scheme is not a genuine reform or not a genuine measure of constitutional progress, cannot be seditious. Mon Mohun v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 667 :
8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

----- S. 124-A—Boycott of British goods.

The mere preaching of the boycott of British goods does not amount to sedition. Jagan Nath Luthra v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1172 :
134 I. C. 486 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 934 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 7.

----- S. 124-A—Charge of sedition defective—Objection taken late—Effect.

A charge of sedition is defective if it does not set out the speeches or the passage in the speeches which the prosecution alleges to be seditious, but this defect does not vitiate the charge, especially where no objection is taken by the accused till a very late stage in the proceedings and he is not misled by the omission and no failure of justice has been occasioned by such omission. In re : Subramania Siva.

9 Cr. L. J. 108 :
3 I. C. 22 : 5 M. L. T. 1 : 32 Mad. 3.

----- S. 124-A—Charge, requirements of.

If an offence under S. 124-A is committed by words spoken, the requirements of the law are satisfied if the charge gives such a description of the words used as is reasonably sufficient to enable the accused to know the matter with which he is charged, that is, if the charge states the words used with substantial, though not absolute, accuracy. Even if the words, or the substance of the words used, are not entered at all in the charge, this will amount only to an irregularity and will not afford ground for reversing a conviction unless the accused has, in fact, been misled by the omission, and it has occasioned a failure of justice. In re : Krishnasawmi.

9 Cr. L. J. 456 :
2 I. C. 33.

----- S. 124-A—Complaint—Requirements—Defective complaint—Irregularity.

There is no informality in a complaint for sedition which does not set out the speeches or the alleged seditious words which forms the subject-matter of a subsequent charge. A complaint is not intended to give information to the accused. Even if a complaint for sedition is defective in that it does not set out the dates of the speeches and the nature of the alleged seditious matter, this is at most an irregularity within S. 537 (a), Cr. P. C., and a conviction cannot be set aside on this ground unless the irregularity has in fact occasioned a failure of justice. In re : Subramania Siva. 9 Cr. L. J. 108 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

3 I. C. 22 : 5 M. L. T. 1 : 32 Mad. 3.

———S. 124-A—Construction.

In order to decide whether or not a speech constitutes an attempt to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection, it would be viewed from the standpoint of the type of persons to whom it is primarily addressed. On the one hand, their limitations, if any, must be taken into account; on the other, the fact that the words may convey to them a literal meaning must not be lost sight of. The time and the place are also factors which should be considered. The Court ought not to look to a sentence or an isolated expression, but should take the speech as a whole and give due weight to every part of it and undue weight to none, and give it a full, free and generous consideration. Udamadja v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 842 :

74 I. C. 954 : 1 Rang. 211 :
A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 212.

———S. 124-A—Construction.

The expression "attempts to bring into hatred or contempt or excites or attempts to excite disaffection" must, as a rule of construction, be very narrowly construed so as to interfere as little as possible with the liberty of the subject and the freedom of speech. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 723 :

103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Construction.

The word "written" includes "printed". S. 7 of Act XXV of 1867 makes the printer of a newspaper responsible for seditious Articles printed in the newspaper, whoever may be the writer of those Articles. The burden of proof that he is not responsible for such Articles lies on him. Absence in good faith and without knowledge of the seditious Articles, when these were printed, would be sufficient to discharge the burden. But if he knew before absenting himself that such Articles will be printed in his absence, his absence will not relieve him of his liability. Emperor v. Phandera Nath Mitter. 8 Cr. L. J. 438 :

35 Cal. 945.

———S. 124-A—Construction.

It is a sound and fair rule, especially in the case of oral speeches that they should be read as a whole in a fair, free and liberal spirit. Kidar Nath Sahgal v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 603 :

123 I. C. 865 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 817.

———S. 124-A—Construction.

S. 124-A is in such wide terms that unless it is strictly and narrowly construed, there is real danger that legitimate criticism may be stifled altogether. Gopal Lal Sanyal v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 900 :

105 I. C. 228 : 46 C. L. J. 156 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 751.

———S. 124-A—Construction.

The words 'Government established by law

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

in British India', include the executive power in action. Khitish Chandra Roy v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 690 :

138 I. C. 766 : 59 Cal. 1197 :

36 C. W. N. 510 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 513 .

A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 547.

———S. 124-A—Criticism attributing indifference to welfare of people, if and when offence.

Criticism attributing indifference to the welfare of the people would not always amount to sedition. If the criticism is couched in language which imports corrupt or malicious motives, the writer cannot escape. But if it aims to draw attention to a weak point in the administration in the hope that the criticism may lead to the redress of grievances or the removal of a disability, the writing cannot be condemned. Annic Besant v. Government of Madras. 18 Cr. L. J. 157 :

37 I. C. 525 : 1916, 2 M. W. N. 385 :

5 L. W. 1 : 39 Mad. 1085 :

21 M. L. T. 124 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 1210.

———S. 124-A—Disaffection—Exhorting audience to change Congress creed into one of violence—If sedition.

To advise a person to persuade others to adopt violence as a means of attaining a political goal is no less objectionable than advising that person to commit violence himself for that purpose. In either case, the advice is to pursue a course of action which is calculated to disturb the tranquillity of the State. A speech which exhorts the audience to attempt to convert the Congress policy of non-violence to one of anarchy, is within the mischief contemplated by S. 124-A. Anand Kishore v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 201 :

121 I. C. 76 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 306.

———S. 124-A—Disaffection.

To make a charge of gross partiality against Government, such as that Government was siding with Capitalists is to inspire feelings of enmity and disaffection against Government. Maniben Liladhar Kara v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 231 :

141 I. C. 780 : 34 Bom. L. R. 1642 :

57 Bom. 253 : I. R. 1933 Bom. 153.

A. I. R. 1933 Bom. 65.

———S. 124-A—Evidence—Admissibility in evidence of articles other than one complained of.

In order to use other articles than that complained of as seditious for the purpose of showing the meaning of certain expressions used in the article complained of and also to show the intention of the writer, it is necessary to show who the writer was and that all the articles produced were by the same hand. Mon Mohan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 667 :

8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

———S. 124-A—Evidence.

In considering whether an article published in a newspaper is seditious or not, it is not proper to allow articles subsequently published in the newspaper to be admitted in evidence. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :
103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Evidence—Police Officer's notes, admissibility of—Other speeches, admissibility of, to prove intention of speaker.

Where certain speeches form part of a series of speeches or lectures on one topic delivered within a short period of time; any of such speeches or lectures are admissible, under S. 14 as evidence of the intention of the speaker in respect of the speech which form the subject of prosecution. In a prosecution under S. 124-A in respect of a speech delivered by the accused, notes of the speech taken by a Police Officer at the time of the speech can be admitted in evidence. It is not necessary that the officer should be made to testify orally after referring to those notes. Om Parkash v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1182 :
127 I. C. 209 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 867.

———S. 124-A—Evidence—Relevancy of other articles.

Articles other than those which are the subject of the charge, taken from the same issue of a newspaper and which show the style of the paper are relevant and admissible to show that there was a deliberate intention of preaching sedition. Emperor v. Phanendra Nath Mitter.

8 Cr. L. J. 438 :
35 Cal. 945.

———S. 124-A—Evidence—Relevancy of other speeches.

In a prosecution under S. 124-A in respect of a speech delivered by the accused, it is not open to the Court to admit evidence of other speeches alleged to have been made by the accused on other occasions for the purpose of determining the guilt or otherwise of the accused or even for the purpose of determining the sentence to be awarded. Indra v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1187 :
127 I. C. 218 : 31 P. L. R. 625 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 870.

———S. 124-A—Evidence—Sedition, trial for—Evidence of previous sedition, whether admissible.

As a general rule in sedition cases, evidence of previous sedition is inadmissible. But it is open to the prosecution where the accused himself tries to show that he is a well affected man, because he has been particularly making loyal speeches, to prove that he has been in the habit of making seditious speeches also. The speech, the subject of charge, may be of such a character that its meaning is not patent. It may contain obscure political, social or historical references, elucidation of which may be sought from previous speeches of the same accused. In such a case, previous speeches would be admissible. Emperor v. Govindanand.

26 Cr. L. J. 304 :
84 I. C. 448 : 16 S. L. R. 156 :
A. I. R. 1921 Sind 199.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Evidence—Written statement of accused—Relevancy of.

The written statement filed by the accused in a sedition case does not affect the intention of the accused, which is to be derived from a construction of the speech itself. Nevertheless it is a matter to be taken into consideration, and shows how the accused is minded. Jnananjan Niyogi v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1114 :
126 I. C. 768 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 363.

———S. 124-A—Exhortation to join Communist or Bolshevik party, if sedition.

The speech which amounts to an exhortation to his hearers to join the Communist or Bolshevik party, is not in itself objectionable within the meaning of S. 124-A, Penal Code. Sodhi Pindi Das v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 930 :
177 I. C. 707 : 40 P. L. R. 872 : 11 R. L. 357 :
A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 629.

———S. 124-A—Fair comment.

A journalist may comment expressing disapprobation of the measures of the Government with a view to obtain their alteration by lawful means, but he must do so without attempting to excite hatred and disaffection. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 702 :
138 I. C. 790 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 526 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 758.

———S. 124-A—Fair comment.

A reasonable criticism of the action of Government in a particular matter without attempting to create hatred or contempt of Government is not sedition within the meaning of S. 124-A, I. P. C. Emperor v. Phanendra Nath Mitter.

9 Cr. L. J. 438 :
35 Cal. 945.

———S. 124-A—Fair comment—What is.

A speech which attributes evil motives to the Government and indulges in a wholesale denunciation, is not a mere criticism of the policy of the Government. Kidar Nath Sahgal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 603 :
123 I. C. 865 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 817.

———S. 124-A—Fair comment.

Where the accused in a speech delivered by him stated that though matters were bad under other Kings who ruled before the British, the Indians were never in worse plight than now; that the British had sucked the blood of Indians and that the British Government had only given education to fit the people for clerks allowing trades and handicrafts to be ruined and referred to various incidents of material law days: Held, that the speech, on the whole, exceeded the limits of fair comment and brought the accused within the purview of S. 124-A, Penal Code. Sham Das v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1169 :
127 I. C. 147 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 874.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 124-A—Gist of offence—Intention—Intention, how gathered.

The gist of the offence under S. 124-A lies in the intention of the writer. That intention has to be gathered not from isolated or stray passages here and there, but from a fair and generous reading of the article in respect of which the charge has been laid, and in gathering that intention, allowance must be made for a certain amount of latitude to writers in the public press. Gopal Lal Sanyal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 900 :
105 I. C. 228 : 46 C. L. J. 156 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 751.

—S. 124-A—Gist of offence—Intention of writer, how gathered.

The gist of offence under S. 124-A lies in the intention of the writer which is not to be gathered from isolated or stray passages here and there but from a fair and generous reading of the article as a whole. In gathering the intention, allowance must be made for a certain amount of latitude to writers in the public press. Ram Chandra v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 381 :
108 I. C. 372.

—S. 124-A—“Government established by law in India”, meaning of.

The “Government established by law in British India,” means the various governments constituted by the Statutes relating to the Government of India now consolidated into the Government of India Act, 1915, and denotes the person or persons authorised by law to administer executive government in any part of British India. Bal Gangadhar Tilak v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 567 :
39 I. C. 807 : 19 Bom. L. R. 211 :
A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 9.

—S. 124-A—“Government established by law in British India,” meaning of.

The “Government established by law in British India” is a concrete phrase which applies to such Government, whatever form that Government takes and is as much applicable to it after the Government of India Act, 1919, as when it was enacted. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 313 :
121 I. C. 749 : 56 Cal. 1085 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 220.

—S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt against particular form of Government.

An attempt to excite hatred or contempt against the Government would fall within the purview of S. 124-A even though it is only an attempt to excite hatred or contempt against the particular form of Government obtaining for the time being. In the matter of : Sajani Kanla Das.

31 Cr. L. J. 1147 :
127 I. C. 73 : 34 C. W. N. 277 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 244.

—S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt—Holding up admired character as a cloak to vilify the British by contrast—Sedition.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

It is one thing to hold up an admired character as a pattern, and quite another to vilify the British by contrast; but a speaker cannot be allowed to use the former as a cloak for the latter if the result of what he says in fact be to inspire his audience with hatred and disaffection towards Government. Jnananjan Niyogi v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1114 :
126 I. C. 768 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 363.

—S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt—Imputing base motives to Government—Exciting hatred and disaffection—Sedition.

Though it is open to a writer to criticise any policy of the Government as permitted by the explanations to S. 124 A, Penal Code, if he proceeds to attribute base motives to Government and accuses Government of having deliberately ruined the subjects, etc., he is liable to be punished under S. 124-A of the Code. Arjan Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 694 :
124 I. C. 348 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 186.

—S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt.

Test to determine intention of accused charged under, for making seditious speech—Entire speech showing spirit of revolt against established Government in India—Bringing Government into hatred and contempt : Held, speech attracted provisions of S. 124-A.

37 Cr. L. J. 1077 :
164 I. C. 1071 : 40 C. W. N. 607 :
63 Cal. 588 : 9 R. C. 324 :
A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 524.

—S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt—Attempt to excite hatred against Government of attacking religion—Sedition—Sentence—Matters to be considered—‘Tahzirat-i-Hind’, meaning of.

The accused in a speech said that a subject race cannot be said to have any religion, that there was no religion in India but slavery and that the Indian Penal Code contained an attack on every religion : Held, that the speech was clearly an attempt to bring into hatred or contempt or to excite disaffection towards the Government and the accused was guilty under S. 124-A, Penal Code. Amir Alam v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 199 :
129 I. C. 20 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 100 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 885.

—S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt.

Where another article contained the following passage: “Under their rule the English have displayed such acts of oppression, high-handedness, excesses, tyranny, repression and dishonesty as are making the world civilization feel ashamed. English rule in India depends upon those bad characters of number 10 of England who have become notorious for their folly, barbarity and hard-heartedness. Such cruel, unmannerly and foolish persons are sent as officers of this country as might be considered burdensome for England’s soil. This is the reason why the general massacre of Jallianwala Bagh, the bloody field Guru-ka-Bagh and the Karbalas and bloody scenes of Nankana Sahib and Jaito are being seen in India": Held, that the object of the article was evidently to bring the Government of India into hatred and contempt and the publisher was guilty of sedition. Lachhman Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 734 :

124 I. C. 681 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 156.

———S. 124-A—Hatred and contempt.

While a very large amount of latitude is and must be allowed to writers in the public press, the interests of the State must at the same time be not lost sight of, and writers cannot under the guise of criticism of public affairs be allowed to indulge in attributing base, improper or dishonest motives to those who carry on the work of the Government of the country. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :

103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :

A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Intention, determination of.

In judging the question of the intent of the accused, he must be deemed to intend that which is the natural result of the words used having regard among other things to the character and description of the part of the public who are expected to read the words. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 850 :

117 I. C. 834 : I. R. 1929 Cal. 594 :

A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 277.

———S. 124-A—Intention—How gathered.

The intention of a person in making a speech has to be gathered from the speech itself and the effect it is likely to produce upon the audience. Kidar Nath Sahgal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 603 :

123 I. C. 865 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 817.

———S. 124-A—Intention—How gathered.

The intention of a writer or a speaker, however, has to be gathered from the language used in the particular article or speech which is the subject-matter of the charge. When a man is charged in respect of anything that he has written, the meaning of what he wrote must be taken to be his meaning and that meaning is what his language would be understood to mean by the people to whom it is addressed. The offending article must be read as a whole in fair, free and liberal spirit. One should not pause upon an objectionable sentence here or a strong word there but the article as a whole should be dealt with in a spirit of freedom. It should not be viewed with an eye of narrow and fastidious criticism but should be viewed in a free, bold, manly and generous spirit towards the accused. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :

103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :

A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Intention.

In considering whether a book is seditious, the preface, though written by a third person, which throws light upon the intention of the writer, cannot be ignored. Kirpal Singh v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 649 :

131 I. C. 219 : A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 106.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Intention—Inference.

The essence of the crime of sedition consists in the intention with which the language is used. But this intention must be judged primarily by the language itself. Intention for this purpose is really no more than meaning. When a man is charged in respect of anything he has written or said, the meaning of what he said or wrote must be taken to be his meaning, and that meaning is what his language would be understood to mean by the people to whom it is addressed. Emperor v. Bal Gangadhar Tilak.

8 Cr. L. J. 281 :

10 Bom. L. R. 848.

———S. 124-A—Intention—Presumption.

A man is presumed to intend the reasonable consequences of his own acts, and if he chooses to print and publish a seditious document, the intent to excite disaffection is to be presumed. Braja Behari Burman v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 742 :

131 I. C. 671 : 53 C. L. J. 182 :

A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 349.

———S. 124-A—Intention.

Intention is an essential ingredient of the offence under S. 124-A, and a person accused under that section cannot be attributed the requisite intention if he was not even aware of the contents of the seditious publication. Chuni Lal v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 681 :

131 I. C. 273 : 12 Lah. 483 :

32 P. L. R. 740 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 401 :

A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 182.

———S. 124-A—Intention—Sedition, ingredient of offence—Intention, how determined—Direct evidence—Presumption.

The question whether a certain article in a newspaper is or is not seditious, depends upon whether it was or was not intended to bring the Government into hatred or contempt. Intention is a state of mind which may be gathered from the surrounding circumstances and may well be presumed from the conduct of the writer or the publisher which would include also the character of the language employed by him. Intention is an essential element in the offence of sedition but it is not necessary for the prosecution to prove the intention directly by evidence. The law will presume the intention—whether good or bad—from the language and conduct of the accused, and it will be then for him to show that his words were harmless and his motives innocent. Jiwan Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1342 :

82 I. C. 574 : 6 L. L. J. 379 :

A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 16.

———S. 124-A—Intention—Similar articles.

Articles published in the same issue of a paper and forming the subject-matter of one or other of the charges may be admitted to prove intention. Satyendra Nath Majumdar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 758 :
131 I. C. 566 : 34 C. W. N. 1095 :
53 C. L. J. 256 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 454 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 337 (2).

———S. 124-A—Intention—Speech urging strike directed against millowners and not Government.

Where a speech was made at a meeting to pass a resolution of sympathy with a strike which was directed against the millowners and not against the Government and no act was suggested in the whole speech to be done against the Government or against any of its officials: Held, that the speech did not come within the four corners of S. 124-A, Penal Code. Arjun Arora v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 662 :
168 I. C. 947 : 1937 A. L. J. 261 :
1937 A. W. R. 189 : 9 R. A. 688 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 295.

———S. 124-A—Intention.

The Court must also look to the intention and spirit of the article. The Court has to decide whether the general tendency of the article is such as to show an intention to excite the feelings of disaffection as explained in the section. The amount or intensity of the disaffection is absolutely immaterial. Nageswar Prasad Sharma v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 78 :
83 I. C. 638 : 1924 Pat. 283 :
A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 99.

———S. 124-A—Intention.

The essence of the crime of sedition consists in the intention with which the language is used and although in inferring the intention the principle that a man must be presumed to intend the natural and reasonable consequences of his action must be applied, the articles should be read in a fair, free and a liberal spirit and if any doubt should arise in regard to the intention, the benefit of that doubt should be given to the accused. Satyendra Nath Majumdar v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 758 :
131 I. C. 566 : 34 C. W. N. 1095 :
53 C. L. J. 256 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 454 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 337 (2).

———S. 124-A—Intention.

Under S. 124-A, as it now stands, the offence of sedition is independent of intention. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 31 :
1 P. R. 1905 Cr. : 6 P. L. R. 259.

———S. 124-A—Jurisdiction.

The Magistrate of the place where the seditious matter is printed has jurisdiction to try the offence under S. 124-A, Penal Code, even though such matter may not have been published there. Chellam Pillai v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 707 :
117 I. C. 49 : I. R. 1929 Rang. 161 :
A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 276.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Keeper of press—Knowledge of contents of pamphlet—Presumption.

For the purpose of S. 124-A, knowledge by a printer of the nature of the matter printed is a question to be determined on the particular facts of each case. In the case of a small pamphlet, the title page of which contains seditious matter prominently displayed, and which is printed in a small press, the knowledge of its contents by the keeper of the press may be presumed. Ram Saran Dal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 302 :
84 I. C. 446 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 298.

———S. 124-A—Offence.

Article read as a whole referring to British Government—Evidence as to how readers would regard it—Whether necessary—Conviction for sedition, held proper. Jagannath Tripathi v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 310 :
142 I. C. 293 (2) : I. R. 1933 Cal. 254 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 141.

———S. 124-A—Offence under.

An agreement between two or more persons to do all or any of the unlawful acts mentioned in S. 124-A is an offence, and the fact that the purpose was not immediate would only be material in so far as it might bring the matter within the saving operation of S. 95, Penal Code. Barindra Kumar v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 453 :
7 I. C. 359 : 37 Cal. 469.

———S. 124-A—Offence, what is.

The matter in question was headed: "Condition of Political Prisoners in Midnapore Jail. Petition for interview with Mr. Subhas Bose." The allegation made therein was not against the Government at all, but against the jamadar and others who were in charge of the accommodation. A Press Communique was issued denying the suggestion or allegations made in this composition. This Press Communique was also immediately published in full: Held, that insinuations of this character published as they were, in the form of news item could not fairly be construed as calculated to excite disaffection towards the Government established by law. If the language used could bear any such construction, in view of the immediate publication of the Government Communique, a sentence of fine would be sufficient punishment for any offence which might have been committed. Satyendra Nath Majumdar v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 630 :
182 I. C. 115 : 12 R. C. 1 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 270.

———S. 124-A—Principles of construction.

Historical article—Comments inflaming public opinion—Article consistently one-sided suppressing anything going in favour of Government—Article comes within S. 124. Satyendra Nath Majumdar v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 758 :
131 I. C. 566 : 53 C. L. J. 256 :
34 C. W. N. 1095 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 454 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 337 (2).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Principles of construction.

Speech should be looked at as a whole to gather intonation of speaker. Maniben Liladhar Kara v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 231 :

141 I. C. 780 : 57 Bom. 253 :
34 Bom. L. R. 1642 :
I. R. 1933 Bom. 153 :
A. I. R. 1933 Bom. 65.

———S. 124-A—Principles of construction.

The question whether a particular speech offends against S. 124-A or S. 153-A is not a mere question of fact. A speech has to be read as a whole and a fair construction must be put upon it and more attention should be paid by the Court to the general facts than any isolated words or passages. Secretary, High Court Bar Association v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 831 :
139 I. C. 696 : 33 P. L. R. 911 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 606 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 559.

———S. 124-A—Printer and proprietor's responsibility.

Where it is sought to incriminate the printer for seditious articles published in a newspaper, the prosecution need not give any evidence that he is the printer or publisher. It is enough to produce the declaration made by him under S. 7 of Act XXV of 1807. But in the case of a person incriminated as proprietor, it is necessary first of all to prove that he is the proprietor. The question of what presumption, if any, will arise from such proof, will depend on circumstances. Harisarvothama Rao v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 506 :
2 I. C. 193 : 5 M. L. T. 415.

———S. 124-A—Printer and publisher's liability.

The fact that a person makes a declaration as printer of a newspaper, under S. 7, Printing Presses and Newspapers Act, raises a presumption of his liability as printer and publisher for seditious articles published therein, and if that presumption is not rebutted, his guilt is conclusively established. Harisarvothama Rao v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 506 :
2 I. C. 193 : 5 M. L. T. 415.

———S. 124-A—Printer—Absent keeper of press issuing objectionable pamphlet, if guilty.

Absent keeper—Where the declared keeper was absent from the place when pamphlet was printed and there was no evidence of his knowledge : Held, he could not be convicted under S. 124-A. Chuni Lal v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 681 :
131 I. C. 273 : 12 Lah. 483 :
32 P. L. R. 740 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 401 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 182.

———S. 124-A—Printer.

Printer cannot pretend that he has no knowledge of contents of publications printed and issued by him where there is prima facie evidence against him, he can lead evidence to show he was away and had no knowledge. If he does not call such evidence, he can be convicted. Braja Behari Burman v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 742 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

131 I. C. 671 : 53 C. L. J. 182 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 349.

———S. 124-A—Printer, liability of.

The Assistant Manager of a Press who causes to be printed certain seditious matter in the Press is liable to be dealt with under S. 124-A. But the mere fact of the accused being Assistant Manager of the Press where such matter is printed does not ipso facto make him liable for the offence. To bring the offence home to him, it must be established by evidence that he had knowledge of such printing. There is no presumption that because a man is the Assistant Manager of a Press he has knowledge of every bit of job printing. Therefore, no onus is cast upon such a person to prove that he had no knowledge of the seditious matter having been printed at the Press. Chellam Pillai v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 707 :
117 I. C. 49 : I. R. 1929 Rang. 161 :
A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 276.

———S. 124-A—Proprietor of paper's responsibility.

In the case of a large paper with a separate editor, who is responsible for the selection and publication of literary matter, no presumption can prima facie be made that the proprietor authorised the publication of seditious matter appearing in it. Nor can such presumption be made in the case of an absentee proprietor. But such presumption in favour of the proprietor can be rebutted by proof, direct or inferential, that the proprietor did, in fact, authorise the publication. In the case of a petty paper, with no separate editor responsible for the literary matter and published under the eye of the proprietor, the presumption that the proprietor authorised the publication of seditious articles appearing in it might be an eminently reasonable one, though of course, it would be open to the proprietor to rebut it and prove that the publication was, in fact, not authorised by him. Harisarvothama Rao v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 506 :
2 I. C. 193 : 5 M. L. T. 415.

———S. 124-A—Publication of seditious pamphlet—Authorship, proof of—Name appearing on title page, whether sufficient.

In the absence of any other evidence the mere fact that the title page of a pamphlet bears a certain name, does not justify the conclusion that a person bearing that name and nobody else, could be the author and publisher of the pamphlet. The prosecution must prove by evidence that the accused is the author or publisher of the pamphlet. Ranjit Singh Tajwar v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1124 :

88 I. C. 356 : 2 Lah. Cas. 27 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 569.

———S. 124-A—Advocating rebellion—Abuse of officialdom, whether abuse of Government.

Advocating any form of rebellion is not a necessary element in an offence under S. 124-A. It is possible by the abuse of Government officials as officials, to make an endeavour to bring into hatred or contempt the Government established by law in British India. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 313 : 121 I. C. 749 : 56 Cal. 1085 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 220.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Bona fide comment of Government.

A man may comment upon any measure or act of Government, whether legislative or executive, and freely express his opinion upon it. He may express the strongest condemnation of such measures and he may do so severely; and even unreasonably, perversely or unfairly. So long as he confines himself to that, he will be protected by the explanation. But if he goes beyond, and, whether the course of comments is upon measures or not, holds up the Government itself to the hatred of his readers—as for instance, by attributing to it every sort of evil and misfortune suffered by the people or dwelling on its foreign origin and character, or imputing to it base motives or accusing it of hostility or indifference to the people—then he is guilty under S. 124-A and the explanation will not save him. Mon Mohan v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 667 : 8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Boycott of foreign goods.

Where the accused in one of his speeches advocated the boycott of foreign goods, not as a means for helping industries but to get rid of the English from India and followed it up by imprecations as to the presence of the English in India as a curse to the country: Held, that it amounted to sedition punishable under Ss. 124-A and 153-A, I. P. C. In re : V. O. Chidambaram Pillai. 9 Cr. L. J. 140 : 1 I. C. 42 : 19 M. L. J. 81, 5 M. L. T. 24.

———S. 124-A—Sedition by writing, ingredients of.

The publication of a seditious matter is not a necessary ingredient of the offence of sedition by writing. Chellam Pillai v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 707 : 117 I. C. 49 : I. R. 1929 Rang. 161 : A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 276.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Construction of article—Article in newspaper, construction of.

In order to decide whether an article is such as to bring it within the purview of S. 124-A, the Court must not look to single sentences or isolated expressions but take the article as a whole and give a full, free and generous consideration and amply deal with it in a fair and liberal spirit, not picking out objectionable sentences or strong words used, nor should undue importance be given to inflated and turgid language. Nageswar Prasad v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 78 : 83 I. C. 638 : 1924 Pat. 283 : A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 99.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Conviction on abstracts from speech.

An accused prosecuted for an offence under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 124-A, Penal Code, can be convicted on the basis of the short abstracts taken down from his speech, if the portions taken down are of seditious character. Krishna Chandra Pangoria v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 972 : 170 I. C. 874 : 1937 A. W. R. 401 : 1937 A. L. J. 365 : 10 R. A. 191 : A. I. R. 1937 All. 466.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Criticism of Ministry.

No comment expressing disapprobation of the measure sponsored by a Ministry with a view to obtain its alteration by lawful means without exciting or attempting to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection, would amount to an offence under S. 124-A of the Penal Code. Dhirindra Nath Sen v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 82 : 178 I. C. 536 : 42 C. W. N. 1150 : 11 R. C. 371 : I. L. R. 1938, 2 Cal. 672 : A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 721.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Criticism of Police.

A criticism of the acts of the Police, which represents one of the chief agencies of the Government, will fall within the purview of S. 124-A if the natural effect of the words used is to infuse hatred or contempt of the Government. Whether the words are such as to create hatred or contempt against the Government is a question of fact. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 850 : 117 I. C. 834 : I. R. 1929 Cal. 594 : A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 277.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Duty of prosecution.

In a charge under S. 124-A, Penal Code, the prosecution must prove to the hilt that the intention of the writer or the speaker, whoever he may be, is to bring or attempt to bring into hatred or contempt or excite or attempt to excite disaffection towards the Government established by law in British India. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 723 : 103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, essence of.

An intention to incite people to violence is no element of the offence of sedition, the offence is committed if the words used are sufficient to bring into hatred or contempt or excite disaffection against the Government. Satya Pal v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 266 : 121 I. C. 425 : 31 P. L. R. 11 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 309.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, essence of.

The essence of the crime of sedition consists in the intention with which the language is used and what is rendered punishable by S. 124-A is the intentional attempt, successful or otherwise, to rouse as against Government the feelings enumerated in the section; a mere tendency in an article to promote such feelings is not sufficient to justify a conviction.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :
103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, essentials of.

The essence of the crime of sedition consists in the intention with which the language is used. But this intention must be judged primarily by the language itself. Hatred, contempt or disaffection towards the Government is usually created by words or writings imputing to the Government base, dishonourable, corrupt or malicious motives in the discharge of its duties, or by writings or words unjustly accusing the Government of hostility or indifference to the welfare of the people or by abusing the Government or its officials. Arjun Arora v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 662 :
168 I. C. 947 : 1937 A. L. J. 261 :
9 R. A. 688 : 1937 A. W. R. 189 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 295.

———S. 124-A—Sedition — Exhortation to attain Swaraj.

Where the petitioner in the course of a speech asked the audience to secure Swaraj; Held, that the word Swaraj does not mean Government of the country to the exclusion of the present Government. Its literal meaning is "self-government" and its ordinary acceptance is "home rule" under the Government. Looking at the substance of the speech and the exact words, there was nothing that would bring the petitioner under S. 124-A. Puni Bhisan Roy v. Emperor.

6 Cr. L. J. 297 :
11 C. W. N. 1050 : 6 C. L. J. 699 :
I. L. R. 34 Cal. 991 : 34 Cal. 991.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Expression of hatred and contempt against Civil Service.

All Governments established by law act through human agency, and the Civil Service in India is the principal agency of the Government for the administration of the country in time of peace. Therefore, criticisms of the Civil Service en bloc, in words, the natural effect of which is to infuse hatred of the Civil Service, amount to infusing hatred or contempt of the established Government whose accredited agent the Civil Service is. Bal Gangadhar Tilak v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 567 :
39 I. C. 807 : 19 Bom. L. R. 211 :
A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 9.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Fair comment.

If a party publishes any matter in a newspaper and it contains no more than a calm, dispassionate and quiet discussion showing possibly a little feeling in the man's mind, that will not be sedition; but if the article goes beyond and attributes improper and dishonest or corrupt motive and thereby is calculated to excite tumult, then it is sedition. Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :
103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Sedition.

'Government established by law in British India', meaning of—Article in newspaper expressing law to be used as weapon of tyranny and viewing executions with pleasure held, seditious. Kshitish Chandra Roy v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 690 :
138 I. C. 766 : 59 Cal. 1197 :
36 C. W. N. 510 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 513 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 547.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Ingredients of the offence.

Changes in policy and changes in measures are liable to criticism, and to criticise and urge objections to them is a special right of a free press in a free country. But any effort which aims at impairing the confidence with which the public is entitled to look to Government, and at producing an unwillingness to accept the intervention and protection of the Government, for the purposes for which Governments exist, is within the mischief contemplated by S. 124-A even though there be no intention to excite a rising or actual violence of any kind. Emperor v. Bhaskar.

4 Cr. L. J. 1 :
8 Bom. L. R. 421 : I. L. R. 30 Bom. 421.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Intention.

Intention is a necessary ingredient in the offence punishable under S. 124-A. But the intention has to be gathered from the expressions used by the accused. Indra v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1187 :
127 I. C. 218 : 31 P. L. R. 625 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 870.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Liability of writer, printer and publisher.

The writer may be guilty of exciting or attempting to excite feelings of "disaffection", as that term is used in S. 124-A, no matter how guardedly he may attempt to conceal his real object, but the printer and publisher cannot be punished if the concealed object is not established by evidence on the record. Mon Mohan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 667 :
8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—"Liberties", meaning of.

A writer in a newspaper called upon the Nationalist Party to "once more assume their legitimate place in the struggle for Indian liberties": Held, that the use of the word "liberties" in the plural would not prima facie point to liberation of the country from foreign rule, but to certain specific liberties, and that the words were not seditious. Mon Mohan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 667 :
8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Nature of article, determination of.

The question of publication and the question of the seditious character of article are questions of fact, which have to be determined on the evidence and by the light of surrounding circumstances. Ganesh Balwant Modak v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 180 :
5 I. C. 612 : 12 Bom. L. R. 21.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Publication of life-sketch of a revolutionary, when amounts to sedition.

If the subject-matter of a publication is likely to bring Government into hatred or contempt or excite disaffection towards it, and if it has been published with the intention of producing such an effect, it would be immaterial for the purposes of S. 124-A, Penal Code, whether the publication assumes the form of a life-sketch or a poem, or an allegory or some other form. The crucial point for decision in such cases is the intention of the writer and his intention has to be gathered from the subject-matter of the publication as well as the surrounding circumstances. Arjan Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 720 :
124 I. C. 678 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 153 (2).

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Shouting objectionable slogans.

Shouting objectionable slogans in a meeting, namely "destroy the dishonest Government" and "long live bloody revolution" are objectionable within the meaning of S. 124-A, Penal Code. Sodhi Pindi Das v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 930 :
177 I. C. 707 : 40 P. L. R. 872 :
11 R. L. 357 : A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 629.

———S. 124-A—Sedition.

Speech before Railway Union meeting—Every calamity that falls to the country and people's suffering attributed to Government—Exhortation to people of the Union to bring in the examples of Soviet Russia and Ireland—Offences under Ss. 124-A, 153-A, held made out. Munshi Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 541 :
154 I. C. 671 : 1935 O. W. N. 301 :
7 R. O. 494 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 347.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Speech to be read as whole.

In construing a speech for the purposes of S. 124-A, Penal Code, the question is one of determining its reasonable, natural and probable effect taken as a whole on the minds of those to whom it is addressed. In dealing with it, one should not pause upon an objectionable sentence here or a strong word there. It should be dealt with in a spirit of freedom and not viewed with an eye of narrow criticism. Bal Gangadhar Tilak v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 567 :
39 I. C. 807 : 19 Bom. L. R. 211 :
A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 9.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Suggesting change in form of Government.

There is a sharp distinction between the Government and the form of the Government. To fight against a principle or doctrine is not the same thing as to fight against a Government established by law. To suggest a change in the form of Government is not tantamount to causing disaffection towards the Government established by law. To suggest some other form of Government is not necessarily to bring the present Government into hatred or contempt. Arjun Arora v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 662 :
168 I. C. 947 : 1937 A. L. J. 261 :
9 R. A. 688 : 1937 A. W. R. 189 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 295.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—"Swaraj", meaning of—Whether preaching "boycott" or "strike" is sedition.

The word Swaraj is used in different senses, and the sense in which a speaker employs it, must be judged mainly by the context of the speech in which the word is used. Language advising a "strike" of workmen, or the "boycott" of foreign goods is not itself seditious however misguided or mischievous such advice may be. In re : Subramania Siva.

9 Cr. L. J. 108 :
1 I. C. 22 : 5 M. L. T. 1 : 32 Mad. 8.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Test—Impression created on audience—Impossibility of increasing hatred and contempt, whether excuse.

Whether a speech is seditious or not, depends on the impression which it would create on the mind of the audience. A speech which brings the Government into hatred and contempt cannot be considered to be innocuous because such hatred and contempt cannot be increased from the standard that exists in the mind of the people to whom it is addressed. V. S. Dandekar v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 429 :
122 I. C. 596 : A. I. R. 1930 All. 324.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Test—Right of free speech.

The right of free speech exists throughout British India subject only to the qualification that the freedom is not permitted to degenerate into a licence to provoke breaches of the peace, to stir up disaffection towards the King-Emperor or the Government established by law in British India, or to bring the Government established by law into hatred or contempt. Speeches which are made from a public platform must conform to the law in this and in every other respect, and in considering the intention of those present and addressing the meeting, their words must be taken in their natural meaning unless there is express evidence to show that the natural meaning was neither intended nor understood, and the surrounding circumstances must be taken into consideration. Thakin Ba Sein v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 801 :
169 I. C. 668 : 10 R. Rang. 31 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 161.

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Test.

Whether an article is seditious within the meaning of S. 124-A, Penal Code, depends on whether the article was intended to bring the Government into hatred and contempt and the question of intention in such cases is a question of fact. Ganesh Balwant Moduk v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 180 :
5 I. C. 612 : 12 Bom. L. R. 21.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Sedition—Truthfulness of facts, if defence.

If certain facts are used as a peg on which to hang seditious comments, the truth of the facts does not excuse the seditious commentary. Ram Chandra v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 168 :
120 I. C. 798 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 371.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

A hook which holds up the Government of India to the hatred and contempt of the reader by attributing to it all misfortunes and evils suffered by the people and imputing to it base motives would come within the purview of S. 124-A, even though it is no part of the author's purpose to advocate that India should become entirely independent of the British Empire. In the matter of : Sajani Kanta Das.

31 Cr. L. J. 1147 :
127 I. C. 73 : 34 C. W. N. 277 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 244.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

A journalist wrote : "Until these demands are granted, we shall use the pressure of that refusal of co-operation which is termed passive resistance. The Swadeshi-Buycott Movement still moves by its own impetus. We must free our social and economic development from the incubus of the litigious resort to the ruinously expensive British Court" : Held, that the words were not seditious. Man Mohan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 667 :
8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

A writer wrote the following in a newspaper : "We shall not break the law and, therefore, we need not fear the law. But if a corrupt police, unscrupulous officials or a partial judiciary make use of the honourable publicity of our political methods to harass the men who stand in front by illegal abuses, suborned and perjured evidence or unjust decision : shall we shrink from the toll that we have to pay on our march to freedom ?" Held, that these words did not fall within S. 124-A of the Penal Code. Man Mohan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 667 :
8 I. C. 531 : 15 C. W. N. 141.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

An article in a newspaper which attributes to the Government a deliberate policy of fomenting communal strifes comes within the purview of S. 124-A. Jagat Narain Lall v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 213 :
113 I. C. 696 : 9 P. L. T. 784 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 88 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 10.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

It is not legitimate to use the existence of the non-Indian elements of Government as a means of exciting hatred, contempt and disaffection against Government—as Strachey, J., puts it, to hold up the Government to hatred and contempt by dwelling adversely on its foreign character and origin. It all depends on the manner in which and the object with which the circumstance is used in argument. Annie Besant v. Government of Madras.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 157 :
37 I. C. 525 : 1916, 2 M. W. N. 385 :
5 L. W. 1 : 39 Mad. 1085 :
A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 1210.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

It is sedition to say in a public speech that the Government holds the lives of the people of this country as of no value and is prepared to shoot them down under the pretext of acting in the interest of law and order. Narainjan Das v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 538 :
130 I. C. 431 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 303 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 31 (2).

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is—Sentence.

Newspaper article attributing reckless oppression and free exploitation, to Imperialism—Imperialism need not be interchangeable with Government—Article is seditious—Small circulation of paper and youth and little education of accused held considerations in mitigation of sentence. A. M. A. Zaman v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 309 :
142 I. C. 292 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 255 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 140.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

Speech recommending Bolshevik form of Government as preferable to present form—Speech held, did not come under S. 124-A. Kamal Krishna Sircar v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1370 :
158 I. C. 204 : 39 C. W. N. 1245 :
62 C. L. J. 116 : 8 R. C. 177 :
A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 636.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

To refer to the Mutiny of 1857 as the 'War of Independence' which unluckily failed and to advise the hearers to attain the same object by different means amounts to sedition. Ram Saran Das v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 444 :
129 I. C. 700 : 31 P. L. R. 688 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 220 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 892.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

To suggest some other form of Government is not necessarily to bring the present Government into hatred or contempt. Kamal Krishna Sircar v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1370 :
158 I. C. 204 : 39 C. W. N. 1245 :
62 C. L. J. 116 : 8 R. C. 177 :
A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 636.

———S. 124-A—Sedition.

What was sedition in 1807 may not be so in 1932. In the matter of : The Anrita Bazar Patrika. (F. B.)

33 Cr. L. J. 949 :
140 I. C. 304 : 56 C. L. J. 157 :
37 C. W. N. 166 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 696 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 738.

———S. 124-A—Sedition, what is—Offence.

Where a speaker's theme throughout was that the Government was tyrannical and that

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Englishmen or English rulers were devoid of all feeling of sympathy towards India and Indians and his aim and object was to impress upon the audience the paramount necessity of making a sustained effort for independence and to gain it or to perish in the struggle for it and to turn the Englishmen out of India : Held, that the speech as a whole was seditious and the speaker was guilty under S. 124-A, Penal Code. Satya Pal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 266 :
121 I. C. 425 : 31 P. L. R. 11 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 309.

-----S. 124-A—Sedition, what is.

Where a speaker told the audience that the Government wanted to ruin those people who were trying to set them on the right path, that the Englishmen had come to India to make the people addicted to drink, opium and bhang, that the executive and judiciary are partial to white men and exhorted the audience to resolve not to live under Englishmen : Held, that the speech was calculated to excite disaffection against the Government and to bring it into hatred and contempt. Kidar Nath Sahgal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 603 :
123 I. C. 865 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 817.

-----S. 124-A—Sedition, what is—Hatred and contempt.

Where the editor of a newspaper was convicted under S. 124-A, in respect of an article which contained the following paragraph :—“The English have made a fine move for taking possession of Kabul, by their duplicity. On the one hand, the Afghan King has been made to introduce European fashions in his country, and on the other, the Afghan subjects have been incited to rebel against their King” : Held, that as there was no reference to the Government of India and as the language was not calculated to excite disaffection or hatred, the conviction was illegal. Lachhman Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 734 :
124 I. C. 681 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 156.

-----S. 124-A—Seditious article—Copying from another paper, whether good defence—Question of sentence.

The fact that a seditious article was merely ‘copied’ by the accused from another newspaper in regard to the appearance in which no prosecution followed and that the accused thought that the article was not seditious and did not ‘intend’ to publish anything seditious is no defence to a charge under S. 124-A, but may be taken into consideration in determining the question of sentence. Krishna Gopal Sharma v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 161 :
128 I. C. 605 : 1930 A. L. J. 1215 :
I. R. 1931 All. 77 : A. I. R. 1930 All. 836.

-----S. 124-A—Seditious article in newspaper—Editor’s liability.

If an article in a newspaper constitutes an offence under S. 124-A, the fact that it was not written by the editor would not affect the question of his guilt, whatever effect it may have on the question of sentence. Khushal Chand Khursand v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 1170 :
127 I. C. 148 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 875.

-----S. 124-A—Seditious document—Cumulative effect.

Where the cumulative effect of the statements made in a book is to bring into hatred and contempt the Government established by law in British India, the Government is justified in proscribing the book even though the statement standing alone would not justify the step. Baij Nath Kedia v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 679 :
86 I. C. 55 : 23 A. L. J. 1 :
A. I. R. 1925 All. 195.

-----S. 124-A—Seditious literature—Class of paper and readers—Relevancy of.

The Court has also to bear in mind the class of paper in which the article appears and the class of people among whom it will be circulated, and although the ultimate object of the writer may be unobjectionable, if, explaining that object he uses language which is likely to bring the Government into contempt or to excite disaffection, S. 124-A will apply. Nageswar Prasad Sharma v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 78 :
83 I. C. 638 : 1924 Pat. 283 :
A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 99.

-----S. 124-A—Seditious speech—Essentials.

It is quite possible to express dissatisfaction with the Government without exciting disaffection ; and the speech will have to be judged not by the political views of the accused or his party but by the purpose of the accused in expressing those opinions in the way he does. Fair criticism of the Government is no offence but the question the Court has to decide is whether the speech of the accused indicated an intention to promote hostility and ill-will towards the Government. In re : S. S. Balliwala.

39 Cr. L. J. 938 :
177 I. C. 747 : 1938 M. W. N. 529 :
48 L. W. 170 : 1938 2 M. L. J. 416 :
11 R. M. 375 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 758.

-----S. 124-A—Seditious speech—Whole speech not taken down verbatim by reporter, if conviction, legality of.

Where in a case of sedition in respect of a speech delivered by the accused, the whole of the speech was not taken down by the reporter but there was nothing to show that such portions as were taken down were taken down incorrectly or that the excerpts of the speeches were not a fair representation of the general drift of the speech, and the entire subject-matter of the speech was seditious : Held, that the accused could be convicted under S. 124-A, Penal Code. Sant Ram v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 562 :
123 I. C. 572 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 86.

-----S. 124-A—Sentence.

A lenient sentence may be passed where the speech is not couched in intemperate language and the speaker is an old man.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Shan Das v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 1169 :
 127 I. C. 147 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 874.

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

In imposing punishment for an offence under S. 124-A, each case must be dealt with on its own particular facts and the circumstances and atmosphere of the time when it was delivered must be considered.
Amir Alam v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 199 :
 129 I. C. 20 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 100 :
 A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 885.

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

In awarding sentence for offence under S. 124-A, the test should be whether speech was violent and whether the intention of accused was to excite people to commit violence.
Munshi Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 541 :
 154 I. C. 671 : 1935 O. W. N. 301 :
 7 R. O. 494 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 347.

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

On the question of sentence, the position of printers of such documents is probably worse than that of the authors because the seditious acts of the author would be far less extensive in their operation if it were not for the existence of persons able and willing to print and publish them.
Braja Behari Burman v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 742 :
 131 I. C. 671 : 53 C. L. J. 182 :
 A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 349.

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

The fact that author of seditious book was an inexperienced young man and he did not realize that he was bringing himself within the law by publishing sketches like those that had appeared in some other publications of the same kind against which no action was taken, can be considered in the matter of sentence.
Kirpal Singh v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 649 :
 131 I. C. 219 : A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 106.

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

The fact that an article was written at a time of great public excitement and the writer was penning his article in an exasperated mood will go towards the mitigation of sentence but cannot be held to constitute an excuse.
Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :
 103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :
 A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

Though sedition is a serious offence, many factors have got to be taken into consideration in awarding punishment. The object of the State in instituting prosecution for sedition is not to take vindictive action.
Satyaranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 723 :
 103 I. C. 771 : 45 C. L. J. 638 :
 A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 698.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 124-A—Sentence.

When the general tenor of the newspaper has been good and that the article was published at a time when the editor was otherwise busy and was not able to fully discharge his duties as an editor is an extenuating circumstance and a ground for inflicting a light sentence.
Khushal Chand Khursand v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 1170 :
 127 I. C. 148 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 875.

———S. 124-A—Trial for sedition—Principles rightly understood by Tribunal—Proper application of those principles to case is question of fact—Interference by Privy Council with conclusions arrived at by Courts in India.

Once it appears that in a trial for sedition the principles of the law of sedition have been rightly understood by the Tribunal in India, the question whether those principles have been properly applied to the facts of the case is so much in the nature of a question of fact and depends so largely upon local conditions that it is difficult for the Board to interfere on this ground with the conclusions arrived at by the Court in India.
Kali Nath Roy v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 129 P. C. :
 59 I. C. 641 : 19 A. L. J. 65 :
 33 C. L. J. 124 : 40 M. L. J. 10 :
 13 L. W. 253 : 1921 M. W. N. 49 :
 29 M. L. T. 142 : 2 Lah. 34 :
 25 C. W. N. 701 : 23 Bom. L. R. 709 :
 10 P. W. R. 1921 Cr. : A. I. R. 1921 P. C. 29.

———S. 124-A—Waging of War—Offence, when complete.

Per Shah, A. C. J.—It is not necessary that as a result of the abetment the war should be waged in fact. But the main purpose of the instigation should be the waging of war. It should not be merely a remote and incidental purpose, but the thing principally aimed at by the instigator.
Emperor v. Hasrat Mohani.

24 Cr. L. J. 923 :
 75 I. C. 299 : 24 Bom. L. R. 885 :
 A. I. R. 1922 Bom. 284.

———S. 124-A, Expls. 2, 3—Scope and object—Fair comment, what is.

Expls. 2 and 3 to S. 124-A are intended to protect criticism of Government measures, and of administrative and executive actions of Government, and they give a perfect freedom to journalists, to publicists, to orators and public speakers, to discuss the measures and administrative acts of Government, disapprove of them, to attack them, and to use forcible and strong language, if necessary, and to do every thing legitimate and honest in bringing before the public or the Government the fact that their measures or their actions are disapproved by a section of the public or by that particular speaker or journalist. But no publicist, no journalist, no speaker has any right to attribute dishonest or immoral motives to Government. Criticism, though harsh and uncompromising, must be free from the taint of language which is likely to arouse or calculated to engender feelings of enmity, hatred, or disloyalty against Government. Emperor v. Bal Gangadhar Tilak. 8 Cr. L. J. 281 : 10 Bom. L. R. 848.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 124-A, 17—Construction—Ministers of a Province, whether "the Government" within meaning of S. 124-A and S. 17.

Ministers chosen from the elected representatives of the people of the province cannot be described as "officers subordinate" to the Governor within the meaning of S. 49, Government of India Act, 1935. It follows therefore, that although in popular language, the Ministers may be referred to as "the Government," they are not "the Government" within the meaning of Ss. 17 and 124-A, Penal Code. Emperor v. Hemendra Prosad Ghosh. (S. B.) 40 Cr. L. J. 782 : 183 I. C. 349 : 69 C. L. J. 599 : 43 C. W. N. 950 : 12 R. C. 153 : I. L. R. 1939, 2 Cal. 411 : A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 529.

———Ss. 124-A, 131—Sedition.

Where P in the issue of "India" (a vernacular weekly newspaper) of 25th April 1907, published an article headed: "The British Government's Native Forces, Bande Matram" which purported to be a letter from a sympathiser of Native Soldiers to their address and calculated to seduce soldiers of the Indian Army from their allegiance and their duty to His Majesty, the King-Emperor of India and D abetted the same by printing the article at his Press: Held, that the accused were rightly convicted under Ss. 124-A and 131, Penal Code, and that publishing to broadcast some 8,000 copies of the letter addressed to native soldiers, and which was bound to reach them, is clearly an act amounting to an attempt and: Held, further, that in the case of conviction under the above sections, a Press used for printing a seditious article cannot be confiscated under S. 517, Cr. P. C., 1898. Pindi Das v. Emperor. 6 Cr. L. J. 411 : 2 P. W. R. Cr. 97.

———Ss. 124-A, 153-A—Charge, contents of.

A charge against an accused person under Ss. 124-A and 153-A in respect of certain speeches delivered by him need not set forth which portions of the speeches are within the provisions of each of the sections. A general statement in the charge to the effect that in making the speech the accused attempted to excite disaffection towards Government and to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between classes is a good charge. In re: V. O. Chidambaram Pillai. 9 Cr. L. J. 140 : 1 I. C. 42 : 19 M. L. J. 81 : 5 M. L. T. 24.

———Ss. 124-A, 153-A—Hatred and contempt.

Explanations 2 and 3 to S. 124-A have no application whatever unless the criticisms are concerning the measures of Government or the administrative or other action of Government and that, too, without exciting or attempting to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection. The object of the Explanations is to protect bona fide criticism of public measures and institutions with a view to their improvement, and to the remedying of grievances and abuses, and to distinguish this from attempts, whether open or distinguished, to make the people hate their rulers. Thakin Lay Maung v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 668 : 182 I. C. 361 : 1939 Rang. 239 : 12 R. Rang. 8 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 169.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 124-A, 153-A—Joint trial in respect of two articles.

The accused was charged under S. 124-A in respect of one article, and separately charged under Ss. 124-A and 153-A, Penal Code, in respect of another article: Held, that he could be tried at one trial on both the charges. Emperor v. Bal Gangadhar Tilak. 8 Cr. L. J. 281 : 10 Bom. L. R. 848.

———Ss. 124-A, 153-A—Offences under—Offences, whether can be committed in same article—British Government and people, distinction between.

Attack on the policy of the British Government is not necessarily an attack on the British people, and it is possible to blame one without hating the other. Emperor v. Nabibau. 25 Cr. L. J. 614 : 81 I. C. 102 : 17 S. L. R. 341 : A. I. R. 1925 Sind 59.

———Ss. 124-A, 153-A—Sentence.

Punishments for offences, under Ss. 124-A and 153-A should be deterrent, especially where a peculiarly mischievous conspiracy is proved and an obnoxious pamphlet appears to have been specially prepared to catch the attention and poison the immature minds of students and others of an impressionable temperament. Emperor v. Virumal. 11 Cr. L. J. 583 : 8 I. C. 203 : 4 S. L. R. 55.

———S. 131.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 124-A.

———Ss. 131, 135—"Soldier," meaning of—Definition in Articles of War, scope of.

The word "soldier" in S. 135, Penal Code, must be interpreted as in the Explanation to S. 131 of the Code. The definition of the word "soldier" given in the Indian Articles of War is expressly confined to those Articles and is a very limited one. Sri Nawas v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 511 (a) : 56 I. C. 671 : 102 P. L. R. 1920 : A. I. R. 1920 Lah. 114.

———Ss. 140, 149—"Offence," meaning of.

The word "offence" in S. 149, Penal Code, means only an offence under the Penal Code, and does not include an offence under the Railways Act. Consequently, a conviction under S. 126, Railways Act, read with S. 149, Penal Code, is illegal. Inder Sain v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 418 : 56 I. C. 210 : A. I. R. 1920 Lah. 144.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 141.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 196-A.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 100, 105.

———S. 141—Applicability of.

The phrase "to enforce a right" in S. 141 can only apply when the party claiming the right has not possession over the subject of the right. It has no application to the case of persons who being in possession of a right attempt to maintain that right. Bagh Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 625 :
81 I. C. 113 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 49.

———S. 141—Assembly not unlawful at beginning when becomes unlawful.

An assembly which is not unlawful in its inception does not become an unlawful assembly merely because of its refusal to obey an order to disperse. Girdharu Singh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 5 :
64 I. C. 373 : 4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 11 :
3 L. L. J. 529 : 21 P. L. R. 1922 :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 135.

———S. 141—Charge—Common object, finding as to, different from that stated in charge—Conviction, legality of.

A conviction for an offence involving the membership of an unlawful assembly is not vitiated by the fact that the finding of the Appellate Court as to the common object of the assembly is slightly different from the common object stated in the charge, where the accused knew exactly what the case against them was. Hasan Beg v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 657 :
81 I. C. 145 : 19 N. L. R. 154 :
A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 49.

———S. 141—Charge.

Where the common object in regard to offences under Ss. 149 and 307, Penal Code, was stated in the charge to be "harassing Hindus" and in the prosecution thereof Hindus were attacked with gun and sword: Held, (1) that the language of the charge was sufficient to satisfy the requirements of S. 141, Penal Code, and to give the accused persons a sufficiently clear idea of the charge against them; (2) that the band of harassers being armed with swords and guns, each of them may be credited with the knowledge that murder was likely to be committed in the course of harassing. Parakuzhiyil Ayamad v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 852 :
74 I. C. 1044 : 18 L. W. 350 :
A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 376.

———S. 141—Common object—Conviction for rioting.

To sustain a conviction for rioting, there must be five persons who have a common object. Where two of the five persons convicted were found to have no common object, the conviction as against the rest cannot stand. In re : Vyarpuri Chetty.

11 Cr. L. J. 197 :
4 I. C. 1142 : 5 M. L. T. 295.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 141 Common object.

In a case of unlawful assembly it is necessary that the accused should have reasonably distinct notice of the common object imputed to them and of the manner in which that common object is to be brought with the language of S. 141. Parakuzhiyil Ayamad v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 852 :
74 I. C. 1044 : 18 L. W. 350 :
A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 376.

———S. 141—Common object.

The object of an unlawful assembly must be judged from the surrounding circumstances as it is impossible to look into the minds of men. Lachmi Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 567 :
109 I. C. 503 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 562.

———S. 141—Common object—Time.

For the purposes of S. 141 the "common object" must denote a common object then and there as an assembly to take action, and it cannot be held that there was such a common object because the members of the assembly agreed at some uncertain further date to take individual action. Emperor v. Nga Tun Maung.

27 Cr. L. J. 337 :
92 I. C. 849 : 4 Bur. L. J. 169 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 362.

———S. 141—Compelling person to omit to do his duty.

Where the common object of an assembly is to compel a person by means of force to omit to do a certain act, the assembly will become an unlawful assembly only if the act, the omission of which is compelled, is one which the person so compelled was legally entitled to do. Baif Nath v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 513 :
85 I. C. 353 : 27 O. C. 292 :
1 O. W. N. 588 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 425.

———S. 141—Defending possession by force if unlawful.

In a partition effected between two Kathi Talukdars, the joint account books were agreed to be kept in the possession of the elder brother, and a list of the books signed by that brother was to be handed over to the younger brother. Before the books were handed over, they were kept in a room belonging to the latter, and the key with a servant of the former. Another servant of his, then went to prepare the lists, but, as the Agency Manager of the younger brother, who was a minor, objected to the entry of certain books, alleging that they were the minor's exclusive property, he did not finish his task and left, but returned with a cart to take away the books, when the Manager prohibited the removal of the cart owing to that clerk not having passed a receipt. He then brought armed men, and in spite of the Manager's having posted two policemen with a written order not to allow the removal of the cart containing the books, he removed the books without passing any receipt. These persons were accordingly convicted under S. 144, I. P. C. : Held, that as the elder brother had admittedly the key of the library room and also, as such, was the reasonable interpretation of the partition-deed, the physical possession was with him; that the provision in the deed for lists to be made and the elder brother's receipt to be obtained below one list, was a subsequent provision; that there was no reason to regard it as a condition precedent; that a Criminal Court was concerned, not with title, but with actual physical possession, which was, of course, very different thing from the right to possession; and that, if the elder brother had the exclusive possession, he was not taking possession enforcing the right in possession, but merely maintaining it. Ahmad Kasam v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

3 Cr. L. J. 443.

-----S. 141—Defending possession by force, if unlawful.

Where the common object was not to enforce any right or supposed right, but to maintain undisturbed the actual enjoyment of a right, there is no unlawful assembly. Silajit Mahota v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 471 :

4 I. C. 19 : 13 C. W. N. 801 : 36 Cal. 865.

-----S. 141—Defending possession with force, if unlawful.

A party of men who are not enforcing any right by means of criminal force but are by means of force, maintaining a certain right, for instance, the right to use water, which is being actually exercised by them, cannot be regarded as an unlawful assembly. Baij Nath v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 513 :

85 I. C. 353 : 27 O. C. 292 :

1 O. W. N. 588 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 425.

-----S. 141—Defending possession with force, if unlawful.

The party of the accused having notice that a trespass would be committed on their property assembled on the property, armed with lathis, with the object of preventing the contemplated trespass. The opposite party arrived, similarly armed, and insisted on committing the trespass. A fight ensued and one member of the opposite party was killed and several were injured : Held, that irrespective of the fact who struck the first blow, the party of the accused having assembled to prevent a contemplated wrong were not an unlawful assembly and were not guilty of any offence. Parmeshar Din v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 579 :

81 I. C. 67 : A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 167.

-----S. 141—Enforcing agreement by force.

The leaders of the Hindu and Muhammadan communities of a place entered into an agreement on behalf of the communities by which, inter alia, the latter undertook not to sacrifice cows publicly. The Hindus apprehending sacrifice of cows assembled with deadly weapons, and as a result, a riot ensued and some Muhammadans died : Held, that the object of the assembly fell within the purview of Cl. (4), S. 141, and that the members of the assembly could be charged and convicted for being members of an unlawful assembly. Lachhmi Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 567 :

109 I. C. 503 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 562.

-----S. 141—Enforcing right by force.

An assembly is unlawful, if it consists of a body of men, who are determined to vindicate their rights or supposed rights by unlawful force and when they engage in a fight with men, who, on the other hand, are equally determined to vindicate by unlawful force their rights or supposed rights, as no question of self-defence arises in such a case and neither side is trying to protect itself but each side is trying to get the better of the other. Muhammad Ibrahim v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 38.

112 I. C. 902 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 10 :

A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 43.

-----S. 141—Enforcing right with force.

It is an offence under S. 141 to collect a number of persons to support one's right by show of force. Punni Basava v. Amara Gounden.

10 Cr. L. J. 116 :

2 I. C. 613 : 5 M. L. T. 85.

-----S. 141—Lawful acts exciting unlawful acts if unlawful.

An assembly does not become unlawful by reason of its lawful acts exciting others to do unlawful acts. Muhammad Ibrahim v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 38 :

112 I. C. 902 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 10 :

A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 43.

-----S. 141—Member of unlawful assembly—Who is.

Any person who intentionally joins or continues in an unlawful assembly while the assembly is committing an offence becomes a member of that assembly. Any person who has innocently got into the crowd and is unable owing to pressure of numbers to escape from it, is not a member of the unlawful assembly; but he would have to make out his case on the point. Gendo Uraon v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 79 :

106 I. C. 591 : 6 Pat. 828 :

9 P. L. T. 167 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 115.

-----S. 141—Members of unlawful assembly—Who are.

The actions of a few members of an assembly which has gathered together for a perfectly lawful purpose, cannot by themselves, make the whole assembly an unlawful assembly. The circumstances must be such as at least to justify the presumption that the other persons present associated themselves with the offending members. The mere fact that they are with the offending members at the time does not make them members of the unlawful assembly formed by those members; they must be shown to have joined or continued in that portion of the assembly which has become an unlawful assembly. Maning Oh Kyan v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1186 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

88 I. C. 706 : 4 Bur. L. J. 80 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 243.

———S. 141—Religious procession when unlawful assembly.

The mere knowledge that a religious procession is going to be opposed by force is not in cases sufficient to constitute the members of the procession an unlawful assembly. Each case must be decided on its own facts. Where, however, the members of a procession go out armed for an express purpose of having a fight and a fight ensues as a consequence, the members of the procession are guilty of rioting. Dilli v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1325 :
89 I. C. 269 : 2 O. W. N. 589 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 656.

———S. 141—Resisting execution of law.

Order prohibiting procession lawfully made—Resistance to police trying to execute it, brings it under S. 141. Ramendra Chandra Roy v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 844 :

132 I. C. 174 : 35 C. W. N. 716 :
58 Cal. 1303 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 558 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 410.

———S. 141—Right to use force.

There is no provision of law whatsoever which gives any person or body of persons a right to use force and violence to prevent their feelings being wounded by an illegal act. Emperor v. Bhagga.

37 Cr. L. J. 39 :
159 I. C. 26 : 1935 A. W. R. 1075 :
1935 A. L. J. 1169 : 8 R. A. 409 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 931.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly—Common object, change in.

The common object of an unlawful assembly can change in the course of an occurrence. A crowd may have a common object at one time and may have another common object as things develop, and it may well be that there are various common objects in the course of an occurrence, and these all have to be placed before a Jury for the Jury to decide if any of them has been proved against the accused, and if so, which of them. Abdul Gani v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1386 :
83 I. C. 346 : A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 494.

———S. 141.

Unlawful assembly—Common object—Inference from surrounding circumstances—Going armed—Custom, effect of—Enforcing right by show of criminal force—Offence. Lachhmi Singh v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 567 :

109 I. C. 503 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 562.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly—Crown, right of, to prosecute.

A complaint for rioting or for being a member of an unlawful assembly discloses a non-compoundable offence for which the Crown alone in the interests of public peace and security has a right to prosecute, and a complainant has no independent right to have the guilty persons punished. In re : Malayil Kottadil Koyassan Kutty. 18 Cr. L. J. 329 :
38 I. C. 441 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 494.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly—"Enforcing any right," meaning of.

The true import of the expression "to enforce any right" in Cl. (iv) of S. 141, relates to an initial act when it is done in furtherance of any right and not to an act when it is done to maintain a position already achieved in the lawful exercise of that right. Baij Nath v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 513 :

85 I. C. 353 : 27 O. C. 292 :
1 O. W. N. 588 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 425.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly—Maintaining existing rights.

Where certain persons were merely acting in maintenance of an existing peaceful possession, they cannot be said to have been enforcing any right or supposed right, and therefore, cannot be held to form an unlawful assembly within the meaning of S. 141, Cl. (i). Emperor v. Mohammad Idris.

34 Cr. L. J. 748 :
144 I. C. 262 (1) : 10 O. W. N. 788 :
I. R. 1933 Oudh 228 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 279.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly, use of force.

The mere use of criminal force or show of criminal force by any person to take possession of any property is not sufficient to bring a case within Cl. (5) of S. 141, unless some criminal intent is proved against the persons so using force or show of force. Addaita Bhua v. Kali Das & c.

6 Cr. L. J. 393 :
12 C. W. N. 96.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly, what constitutes.

Persons who form an assembly for the purpose of defending what they are possessed of and bona fide believe they have a right to, whether it be tangible property or such a right as that to a supply of water are not criminally liable. In re : Veerabhadra Pillai.

28 Cr. L. J. 945 :
105 I. C. 657 : 26 L. W. 549 :
1927 M. W. N. 828 : 53 M. L. J. 696 :
51 Mad. 91 : A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 986.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly, what constitutes.

The law does not declare a mere assemblage of men, however large, illegal. In order to be illegal, it must be inspired by an object as specified in S. 141. Sitaram v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 587 :
85 I. C. 731 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 260.

———S. 141—Unlawful assembly—What is.

There was a dispute between the Pallars and Kallars of a village in respect of the right to catch fish in an oorani. The Kallars armed and in large numbers went to the oorani to exercise their right and suddenly ran towards and attacked the Pallars, 20 or 30 in number, who were gathered 200 yards off, and the latter in the course of the attack inflicted injuries on their assailants. They were convicted of offences under Ss. 147, 148, 323 and 325 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Held, (1), that no common criminal intention having been established with regard to this assembly of Pallars, they were not members of any unlawful assembly and were not guilty of the offence of rioting; (2) that in the course of their defending themselves against a sudden and virulent attack by a much larger body of Kallars, the Pallars were entitled to inflict such injuries as they had inflicted, and that consequently, they were not guilty of any offence. Ramaswami v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 108 :
91 I. C. 540 : 1925 M. W. N. 666 :
A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 1213.

S. 141—Unlawful assembly—What is.

Where the members of an assembly merely agree as to what they should individually do, when, in the case of each person separately, a demand is made for the payment of a certain tax, the assembly does not become unlawful assembly. Emperor v. Nga Tun Maung.

27 Cr. L. J. 337 :
92 I. C. 849 : 4 Bur. L. J. 169 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 362.

S. 141—Vindication of disputed right, offence.

The plain object of Cl. 4, S. 141, is to prevent the resort to force in vindication of supposed rights. The mere fact that the accused entertained honestly a claim cannot take the case out of S. 141, if the claim was a disputed claim and not an admitted claim or an ascertained right. Emperor v. Gulam Husein.

10 Cr. L. J. 427 :
3 I. C. 958 : 11 Bom. L. R. 849.

S. 141—What constitutes offence.

Certain land on the north bank of the Sutlej was claimed as their respective property by one Haidar of Montgomery District and one Sajawara of Bahawalpur State territory. Sajawara entered upon the land, cut down trees and crops, and for this, he was convicted by a Magistrate of the first class at Montgomery on two separate charges under Ss. 379-147, Penal Code: Held, that as the accused had resorted to force, he had rendered himself liable to punishment under Cl. 5, S. 141. Sajawara v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 94 :
5 P. L. R. 47.

S. 141—Assembly to enforce right or supposed right and assembly to maintain existing right—Distinction.

There is no distinction between forming an assembly to enforce a right or supposed right and forming an assembly forcibly to maintain an existing right, and it is not necessary for the prosecution to show affirmatively that it was an assembly of the former description and not of the latter. Ghyas-ud-Din Ahmad v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 864 :
139 I. C. 616 : 13 P. L. T. 288 :
11 Pat. 523 : I. R. 1932 Pat. 251 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 215.

Ss. 141, 143—Compelling persons to do what is not their duty—Meeting of association

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Members compelled to take oath by violence—Members not taking part in violence, whether guilty.

Accused was the Secretary of a Wanthanu Society. He convened a meeting of the society, the object of which was to discuss whether certain resolutions should be adopted. It was proposed at the meeting that the members present should take a certain oath. Some of the members objected to the form of the oath, whereupon certain other members who were more than five in number, got up in an angry and threatening manner and in consequence of their attitude, the objecting members took the oath. There was no evidence that the accused in any way associated himself with the show of violence or that he made any speech after violence had been used: Held, (1) that the action of those members who used violence fell within the fifth clause of S. 141 of the Penal Code, and that they, therefore, constituted an unlawful assembly; (2) that there was nothing, however, to show that the accused had become or had continued to be a member of the unlawful assembly and that consequently the accused could not be convicted under S. 143 of the Penal Code. Maung Oh Kyan v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1186 :
88 I. C. 706 : 4 Bur. L. J. 80 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 243.

Ss. 141, 143—Defending possession without violence, if offence.

There is no offence, if in the bona fide exercise of a right, a person resists a trespass by another into his land without resort to violence and even threatens force if the trespass was not desisted from. Punni Basava v. Amara Gounden.

10 Cr. L. J. 116 :
2 I. C. 613 : 5 M. L. T. 85.

Ss. 141, 143—Unlawful Assembly—What is.

A thief who places stolen crops on a part of common threshing floor, does not by that act obtain legal possession of the land so used by him, and an entry by anybody to deprive him of such crops does not amount in law to a trespass. Where in such a case the owner of the crop assisted by a number of persons entered the threshing floor and took away the crop: Held, that they did not constitute an unlawful assembly. Jarha Chamar v. Surit Ram.

7 Cr. L. J. 49 :
3 N. L. R. 177.

S. 141, 143—Unlawful assembly, what is—Common object—Meeting for deliberation.

An assembly cannot be an unlawful assembly unless the common object of the persons composing the assembly falls within one of the five clauses described in that section. Emperor v. Nga Tun Maung.

27 Cr. L. J. 337 :
92 I. C. 849 : 4 Bur. L. J. 169 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 362.

Ss. 141, 143, 149—Unlawful assembly—What is.

An irrigated and unfenced wheat field of the accused having been found newly damaged by beasts, they, on enquiry, either saw the cattle of the complainants close by or jumped to the conclusion that the damage must have been caused by their cattle, and so the accused got hold of the cattle and drove them to the pound either to punish the complainants or to make them vacate the accused's village where the complainants had encamped owing to a drought, in their own. On the complainant's interfering, or on the accused's disregarding their entreaties to desist, a fight took place, in which one complainant was killed, one grievously hurt, and both, the parties received more or less severe injuries. Cross cases were prepared, but the complainants were discharged under S. 253, Cr. P. C., and the accused committed: Held, that, as the removal of the cattle was attempted in the first place by two or three of them, as it was not proved that criminal force was used in pursuance of the common object of removing the cattle, and as the fight was possibly the result merely of an abusive dispute, they were not guilty under Ss. 141, 143 and 149, I. P. C. Emperor v. Vajesing Naranji. 4 Cr. L. J. 271.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 141, 145—Common object—Burden of proof.

It is for the prosecution to show that the common object of a crowd was such, as would constitute it an unlawful assembly under S. 141. Muhammad Ibrahim v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 38 : 112 I. C. 902 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 10 : A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 43.

———Ss. 141, 145, 151—Unlawful assembly.

Fact to be established—Assembly likely to cause disturbance of peace. Girdhara Singh v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 5 :

64 I. C. 373 : 4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 11 : 3 L. L. J. 529 : 21 P. L. R. 1922 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 135.

———Ss. 141, 146, 149—Rioting.

Where five or more persons assemble together armed with lathis and some of them attack their opponents while the others, who at first kept in the background, proceed to assault their opponents' helpers, the legal consequence would necessarily be : (1) that they constituted an unlawful assembly within the meaning of S. 141, Penal Code ; (2) that every one of them was guilty of rioting under S. 146 as soon as one or more of them used violence in prosecution of their common object. Masti v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 274 (b) :

10 I. C. 852 : 9 P. W. R. 1911 Cr. : 3 P. R. 1911 Cr. : 87 P. L. R. 1911.

———Ss. 141, 147—Defending possession with force, if unlawful.

A party assembled on a piece of land, which is in their possession, for the sole purpose of preventing a trespass does not constitute an unlawful assembly within the meaning of S. 141, and if such trespass is committed and the party thus assembled proceeds to resist or prevent it, and in doing so uses force, it cannot be held to be guilty of rioting. Inderjit v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 43 : 83 I. C. 523 : 11 O. L. J. 40.

———Ss. 141, 147, 148, 323, 325, 100—Unlawful assembly—Proof.

For establishing the offence of unlawful assembly which is a necessary element in the offence of rioting, it must be established that the unlawful assembly had a common object by means of criminal force or show of criminal force of doing any of the various things mentioned in S. 141 and the common intention of the unlawful assembly to use criminal force must be established as a fact by legal evidence. Ramaswami v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 108 :

91 I. C. 540 : 1925 M. W. N. 666 : A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 1213.

———Ss. 141, 147, 352—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 238, 535—Prosecution under S. 147—Conviction for assault under S. 352.

A person charged under S. 147, Penal Code, for rioting may be convicted of an offence of assault under S. 352, Penal Code, but on a charge under S. 147, there can be no conviction for abetment of assault. Muthukanakku Pillai v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 206 : 65 I. C. 862 : 1922 M. W. N. 182 : 15 L. W. 583 : A. I. R. 1922 Mad. 110.

———S. 141 (4)—Application—"To enforce any right", meaning of.

The fourth clause of S. 141 has no application to a case where a person in lawful possession of any property proposes to use force in order to maintain his possession. The phrase "to enforce any right" in the fourth clause of S. 141 is not applicable to a party who uses force to defend property in its possession, such a party is not enforcing a right but preventing a wrong. Therefore, a party assembled for the purpose of preventing a trespass cannot be called an lawful assembly. Parmeshar Din v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 579 :

81 I. C. 67 : A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 167.

———S. 141, Cl. (4)—Enforcing right or supposed right—Maintenance of existing peaceful possession with or without title, if offence.

Persons, merely acting in maintenance of an existing peaceful possession, no matter whether the possession was with or without title, cannot be said to enforce any right or supposed right, and therefore, cannot be held to form an unlawful assembly. Sarabawan Singh v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 232 :

23 I. C. 184 : 17 O. C. 21 : 1 O. L. J. 527 : A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 222.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 141, Cl. (4)—Scope.

The fourth clause of S. 141 has no application to a case where a person in lawful possession of any property proposes to use force in order to maintain his possession. The clause speaks of "to take or obtain possession of any property." It does not speak of maintaining possession or resisting an attempt by another to take possession. It has no application to a party who uses force to defend property in his possession. Such a person is not enforcing a right, but preventing a wrong. Inderjit v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 43 :
83 I. C. 523 : 11 O. L. J. 40.

—S. 141 (4), 147.

Religious procession, right to take through streets—Intention to fight—Unlawful assembly—Riot. Dilli v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1325 :
89 I. C. 269 : 2 O. W. N. 589 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 656.

—S. 142—Member of unlawful assembly—Proof—Necessity of.

Prosecution has to prove unlawful assembly and that it committed various offences; then that each accused was a member of the assembly. Then S. 149 applies and every member is guilty of offences committed in prosecution of its common object. Emperor v. Sheo Dayal.

35 Cr. L. J. 360 :
147 I. C. 15 : 55 All. 689 : 6 R. A. 437 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 535.

—S. 142—Unlawful assembly—Presumption from presence—Rebutted.

If the defence is that a particular person was present among the rioters with an innocent intention, then the burden of proving that innocence lies upon the defence. Emperor v. Sheo Dayal.

35 Cr. L. J. 360 :
147 I. C. 15 : 55 All. 689 : 6 R. A. 437 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 535.

—S. 143.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 228, 236, 237, 342, 423 (b) (2), 537.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 105, 120-B.

—S. 143—Defending possession by force, if unlawful—Criminal trespass—Bona fide assertion of grazing right—Unlawful assembly.

A person cannot be convicted of criminal trespass because he asserts a grazing right which has never been declared against him and which he bona fide believes he has, nor can he be said to be a member of an unlawful assembly because he went with his party and protected against the land being ploughed up. Reajaddin Molla v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 725 :
26 I. C. 173 : 18 C. W. N. 1245 :
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 236.

—S. 143—Enforcing established right, if unlawful.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where the accused were put into possession of land and crops by a Civil Court under O. XXI, r. 95, C. P. C., they are entitled to cut the crop standing on it, whether ripe or unripe, and they cannot be convicted under Ss. 143 and 427. Arman Shaik v. Naimuddin Shaik.

37 Cr. L. J. 524 :
161 I. C. 974 (2) : 8 R. C. 553 :
A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 157.

—S. 143—Enforcing right by force.

A headman and 18 villagers conducted a funeral procession along a public road with the object of vindicating their right to use the road, and intending to resist obstruction. It was not proved that the party was armed, but some of its members used threatening language : Held, that the use of threats made the funeral party an unlawful assembly. Nga Kyaw Yaung v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 832 :
U. B. R. 1905 : 1 P. C. 21 :
12 Bur. L. R. 37.

—S. 143—Essentials of.

The essence of the offence under S. 143 is the combination of several persons, united in the purpose of committing a criminal offence and that purpose constitutes in itself an offence distinct from the criminal offence which these persons agree and intend to commit. In re : Mathi Venkanna.

24 Cr. L. J. 114 :
71 I. C. 242 : 17 L. W. 451 : 46 Mad. 257 :
A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 592.

—S. 143—Force.

Held, on facts that there was no force used by crowd which would make it an unlawful assembly and that High Court would not interfere in revision with order of acquittal. Meghu Mahto v. Rampartap Chowdhury.

36 Cr. L. J. 1090 :
157 I. C. 74 : 1 B. R. 709 : 8 R. P. 85 (2).

—S. 143—Four persons, if make unlawful assembly.

Where more than five persons are charged with being members of an unlawful assembly but only four of them are found to have taken any part in the assembly, none of the accused can be convicted under S. 143. Emperor v. Abdul Qadir Kasuri.

32 Cr. L. J. 249 :
129 I. C. 221 : 1 R. 1931 Lah. 157 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 1044.

—S. 143—Membership.

The mere fact that a person applied to be made a member of an association some months before it was declared unlawful, cannot be said to be proof of his membership of the association after it had been declared unlawful. Mela Ram v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1233 :
134 I. C. 782 : 32 P. L. R. 83 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 990 : A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 361.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 143—Obstructing highway, if offence.

The petitioners formed part of Moharam procession and while going on a high road, placed the Tabuts in a line across the road, thereby preventing the mail tonga from passing along. The Magistrate, holding that the act was deliberate, convicted them under S. 143, of being members of an unlawful assembly and certain of the accused of obstructing the highway: Held, that the conviction was right and that the placing of the Tabuts on the road was obstructing the highway, and that though they were entitled to the use of the road, they could not so occupy it to the exclusion of others equally entitled to the use of it. In the matter of: Mruthyuzar Khan Sab. 9 Cr. L. J. 321 : 12 M. C. C. R. 68.

—S. 143—Offence—Sentence.

Where two parties were entitled to joint possession of a property but one party having been out of possession, their servants (the petitioners) with 30 or 40 other persons went armed with lathis to take forcible possession of the property and succeeded in getting possession without having had to use any force: Held, that the petitioners were rightly convicted of an offence under S. 143, but as the masters of the petitioners had a right to possession and as what the petitioners did, though not warranted by law, did not actually lead to a breach of the peace, the sentence ought not to be too severe. Bepin Behari Gulha v. Pranakul Majumdar. 5 Cr. L. J. 19 : 11 C. W. N. 176.

—S. 143—Persons passing by the village of their enemies, if offence.

Persons by simply passing close to the village of their enemies cannot be convicted under S. 143. Radha Kishen v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 476 :
15 I. C. 316 : 7 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. :
67 P. L. R. 1912.

—S. 143—Persons preventing Municipality from realising rent which they have no right to realise—If guilty.

Where certain persons prevent the Municipality from realising rent from stall-holders, which the Municipality has no right to realise either under the statutory or common law, they do not commit any illegal act and cannot be punished as members of an unlawful assembly under S. 143. Dhummon Chowdhury v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 114 :
76 I. C. 178 : 3 P. L. T. 339 :
A. I. R. 1922 Pat. 286.

—S. 143—Resisting order of public servant—What is.

When the procession is taken out in spite of the Police ban, it is resistance to the execution of the law denoting an overt act. Public Prosecutor v. Vadlamudi Satyanarayana.

32 Cr. L. J. 806 :
131 I. C. 844 : 1931 M. W. N. 489 :
33 L. W. 691 : I. R. 1931 Mad. 604 :
A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 484.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 143—Sentence.

Where the accused are charged under S. 143 and S. 341 read with S. 149, Penal Code, there cannot be two separate sentences but only one. Emperor v. Abdul Qadir Kasuri.

32 Cr. L. J. 249 :
129 I. C. 221 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 157 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 1044.

—S. 143—Trespass—Unlawful assembly.

Assuming that trespassers have a right to possession after they have once unlawfully entered, they will be guilty under S. 143, Penal Code, if they, being more than five in number, enforce that right by means of criminal force. Emperor v. Bandhu Singh.

29 Cr. L. J. 99 :
106 I. C. 691 : 6 Pat. 794 :
A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 124.

—S. 143—Unlawful assembly—Accused found together in middle of night in temple with implements of house-breaking—Offence.

Where in the middle of night the accused are found together in a temple with various implements of house-breaking, they must have been there with a common object of an unlawful kind and are guilty under S. 143, Penal Code. The fact that they were there with a common unlawful object is not enough to support a conviction under S. 120-B, Penal Code. Public Prosecutor v. Picha Kone.

39 Cr. L. J. 901 :
177 I. C. 545 : 1938 M. W. N. 593 :
48 L. W. 146 : 11 R. M. 344 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 726.

—S. 143—Unlawful assembly—Unlawful object, necessity of.

A conviction under S. 143, Penal Code, is illegal where it is not proved that the accused had an unlawful object. Dibakar Das v. Sakthidhar.

28 Cr. L. J. 404 :
101 I. C. 180 : 54 Cal. 476 :
31 C. W. N. 527 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 520.

—Ss. 143, 65—Sentence—Imprisonment in default of fine imposed under S. 143—Limit of.

Passing of a sentence of two months' rigorous imprisonment in default of payment of fine imposed for an offence under S. 143 is illegal. S. 65 limits the imprisonment in default to a maximum of one-fourth of the period of six months fixed by S. 143. Goukul Chandra Nandi v. Sribooth Chandra Banerjee.

41 Cr. L. J. 957 :
190 I. C. 598 : 21 P. L. T. 795 :
7 B. R. 58 : 13 R. P. 264 :
A. I. R. 1941 Pat. 48.

—Ss. 143, 144, 379—Sentence—Common object—Theft—Separate sentence.

Where the common object of an unlawful assembly was theft, the members of the assembly cannot be sentenced separately under Ss. 379 and 143 or 144. Prayag Gope v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1276 :
82 I. C. 284 : 1924 Pat. 247 :
5 P. L. T. 571 : 3 Pat. 1015 :
A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 764.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 143, 147.

Lawful assembly, whether becomes unlawful by exciting others to unlawful acts—Rioting—Duty of Court. In re : Mulka Mulhrian.

16 Cr. L. J. 743 :

31 I. C. 343 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1062.

———Ss. 143, 149.

Unlawful assembly—Common object—Evidence as to common object—Opinion of witnesses—Conduct of members—Criminal trial—Omission to examine material witness—Consequences. Jogi Raut v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 906 :

105 I. C. 234 : 9 P. L. T. 260 :

A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 98.

———Ss. 143, 149, 425, 427—Mischief—Unlawful assembly—Intention—Making ditch through Railway—Motive—Letting water run off fields of accused.

The accused, fifty in number, finding their fields flooded, cut a channel through the Railway to let the water run off their fields. Ten or fifteen only of the accused were engaged in digging while all were present: Held, that although the motive of the accused was to free their fields from water, their intention was to make a ditch through the Railway and they were guilty of mischief and unlawful assembly with the common object of damaging the Railway. Deputy Superintendent v. Chulhan Ahir.

13 Cr. L. J. 138 :

13 I. C. 826 : 16 C. W. N. 263.

———Ss. 143, 186—Offence under — When constituted.

Where a District Board decided to replace a bridge across a khal which was out of repair by means of a road with pipes passing underneath for the flow of water and the owners of the bed of the khal objected to the laying of the pipes on the ground that it would obstruct the flow of water and removed the pipes placed there by the District Board Sircar : Held, that the conviction of the owners under Ss. 143 and 186, I. P. C. was bad. Addaita Bhuia v. Kali Das De.

6 Cr. L. J. 393 :

12 C. W. N. 96.

———Ss. 143 426—Offence under—Drainage water from rice mill—Right of owner to empty drainage water in public channel—Obstruction on ground of injury to crops—Offence whether committed—Natural right of drainage, limits of.

Where drainage water from a rice mill flowed into a channel, which in turn, emptied into a main public channel and certain persons obstructed the flow on the ground that the water draining from the mill was polluting the water supply and so damaging the crops and rendering the water unfit for drinking purposes and they were charged under Ss. 143 and 426, Penal Code : Held, that inasmuch as there is no natural right to let out refuse water which has come artificially, on to a public water channel and the accused were acting 'under colour of a right to do so, they were not guilty of any offence. Tatiparti Veeraswami v. Sanom Kankayya. 31 Cr. L. J. 225 : 121 I. C. 159 : 1929 M. W. N. 711 : A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 833.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 143, 426 — Unlawful assembly—What amounts to—Trespass—Unlawful assembly.

The accused entered into a vacant manai, broke down a wall and rebuilt it. The wall belonged to one of the accused : Held, that there could be no unlawful assembly as the accused were there to build their own wall : Held, further, that the accused could not be convicted of mischief. In re : Sarvana Pillai.

11 Cr. L. J. 533 :

7 I. C. 855 : 8 M. L. T. 222.

———Ss. 143, 447—Composition of offence under S. 447—Conviction of accused under S. 143, legality of.

In the case of a house trespass by members of an unlawful assembly, the conviction of the accused under S. 143 is not illegal even though the offence under S. 447 had been compounded. In re : Mathi Venkanna.

24 Cr. L. J. 114 :

71 I. C. 242 : 17 L. W. 451 :

46 Mad. 257 : A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 592.

———S. 144.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 114, 188.

———S. 144—Evidence and onus.

The fact that the accused's party were victorious, does not lead to any inference that they were the aggressors. Ahmad Sher v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 868 :

132 I. C. 381 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 573 :

A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 513.

———S. 145.

See also Police Act 1861, Ss. 30, 30-A, 32.

———S. 145—Charge—Common object.

The failure to specify the common object in a charge under S. 145 would not be fatal to the trial if there was ample evidence to prove what the common object was. Ramchandra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 64 :

134 I. C. 1226 : 33 Bom. L. R. 1169 :

55 Bom. 725 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 10 :

A. I. R. 1931 Bom. 520.

———S. 145—Essentials of offence.

In order to obtain a conviction under S. 145, it is necessary that the prosecution should establish : (1) that there was an assemblage of at least five persons ; (2) that the object of the meeting was any of the five objects mentioned in S. 141 ; (3) that the accused shared that object with at least four others of the meeting ; (4) that the accused intentionally joined the meeting ; (a) having knowledge of the meeting, or ; (b) he continued therein after having had that knowledge ; (5) That such unlawful assembly had been commanded to disperse ; (6) that such command to disperse was in the manner prescribed by law ; (7) that accused joined or continued in such unlawful assembly after it had been commanded to disperse; (8) that he did so knowing that it had been commanded to disperse. Girdhara Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

23 Cr. L. J. 5 :
64 I. C. 373 : 4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 11 :
3 L. L. J. 529 : 21 P. L. R. 1922 :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 135.

———S. 145—Offence under.

Disobedience of duly published order under S. 42, Bombay District Police Act, by forming procession and refusing to disperse when assembly declared unlawful —Persons can be convicted under S. 145. Ramchondra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 64 :
134 I. C. 1226 : 33 Bom. L. R. 1169 :
55 Bom. 725 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 10 :
A. I. R. 1931 Bom. 520.

———S. 145—Resisting execution of legal process—What is.

Disobedience of notification under Police Act is resistance of legal process. Ramchandra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 64 :
134 I. C. 1226 : 33 Bom. L. R. 1169 :
55 Bom. 725 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 10 :
A. I. R. 1931 Bom. 520.

———S. 145—Refusing to disperse, if offence.

Procession—Refusal to obey order to disperse. Object, becomes unlawful. Ambika Charan De v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 814 :
144 I. C. 691 (2) : 6 R. C. 8 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 361.

———S. 146—Force or violence—Brandishing of bamboos, whether amounts to use of force.

It is not necessary for the purpose of S. 146 that the force or violence referred to in the section should be directed against any particular person or object. The brandishing of bamboos and the cutting of a branch of a tree by persons who are members of an unlawful assembly amounts to a use of force under S. 146. Ghani Khan v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 828 :
46 I. C. 844 : 21 O. C. 134 :
A. I. R. 1918 Oudh 171.

———S. 146—Force or violence.

The force or violence mentioned in the definition of rioting under S. 146 may be force or violence directed against an inanimate object. Mir Bayyan Khan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 933 :
156 I. C. 239 : 7 R. Pesh. 120 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 65 (2).

———S. 146—Rioting.

Accused were members of an unlawful assembly, the common object of which was to propagate the temperance campaign by pulling down toddy shop and destroying toddy trees, and in prosecution of the common object, a toddy shop was pulled down and spathes of toddy trees were cut and destroyed : Held, that the accused were guilty of rioting and it was not necessary to show that they were the actual persons responsible for the violence used. In re : Marimuthu Naidu.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 139 :
76 I. C. 235 : 17 L. W. 577 :
32 M. L. T. 315 : A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 606.

———S. 146—Rioting—What is.

Merely coming to the spot even with lathi or other weapon in response to a cry by the accused that he was being killed, can hardly be considered sufficient to make them guilty of rioting. Deodhari Koeri v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 271 :
166 I. C. 726 : 9 R. P. 342 :
3 B. R. 216 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 34.

———S. 146—‘Violence’, meaning of.

In S. 146, Penal Code, violence includes violence against inanimate objects, such as pulling down a man's house. Samaruddin v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 821 :
17 I. C. 565 : 40 Cal. 367.

———S. 146 “Violence,” meaning of.

The word ‘violence’ in S. 146 is not restricted to force used against persons only but extends also to force against inanimate objects. In re : Venkatasubbier.

24 Cr. L. J. 356 :
72 I. C. 356 : 44 M. L. J. 407 :
17 L. W. 535 : 32 M. L. T. 190 :
A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 603.

———Ss. 146, 147, 323, 325—Rioting and hurt—Separate sentences.

Separate sentences for the offences of rioting and hurt are legal in a case in which the common object stated in the charge is not to cause hurt but to commit some other offence and each of the persons separately sentenced is proved to have taken an individual part in the assault. Kapil Mandal v. Rabbani Sheikh.

26 Cr. L. J. 1297 :
89 I. C. 241 : 41 C. L. J. 471 :
A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 1039.

———S. 147.

- Applicability.
- Assault.
- Charge.
- Common object.
- Conviction.
- Entry on land in possession of another.
- Essence of.
- Evidence.
- Evidence and onus.
- Ingredients.
- Joining in unlawful assembly.
- Lawful acts and private defence.
- Members when guilty of rioting.
- Miscellaneous.
- Possession.
- Procedure.
- Resisting attachment of property under illegal warrant, if offence.
- Riot.
- Rioting.
- Sentence.
- Seven persons charged with rioting.
- Single motive.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

- Trial of offence under.
- Unlawful assembly.
- What constitutes offence.
- S. 147.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 35, 106, 195, 222, 235, 236, 238 (1), 239, 423, 537.

(ii) Easement.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 71, 96, 97, 99, 142, 147, 302, 323.

(iv) Railways Act, 1890, S. 127.

———S. 147—Applicability — Assembly of five or more persons—Acquittal of some members of assembly, effect of.

Where it is found by the Court that the number of persons who committed an offence under S. 147, Penal Code, was five or more, the acquittal of some of the accused cannot dispel the application of S. 147 of the Code, to the others. The essential question in such a case is whether the number of persons who took part in the crime was five or more than five. The identity of the persons who were members thereof relates to the determination of the guilt of the individual accused. Feroz Din v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 859 : 111 I. C. 443 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 59.

———S. 147—Assault—Crowd coming to rescue victim—Assailant receiving injuries resulting in death—Common intention of assembly—Liability of members for fatal blow.

Where on A being assaulted by B, a number of persons rush to the scene to rescue A and a fracas occurs in which B is killed, the members of the crowd cannot be convicted under S. 147, Penal Code. In so far as excessive force is used by some members of the assembly, the users of such force alone are liable to be punished for the assaults committed by them and not the other members of the assembly, and in the absence of proof as to who actually dealt the fatal blow to B, the original assailant, no member of the assembly is punishable in respect of that blow. Nawab v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 593 : 109 I. C. 673 : 10 L. L. J. 298 : 29 P. L. R. 727 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 277.

———S. 147—Assault on Police, offence of—Rioting—Warrant, defective execution of.

Two persons were accused under S. 498, Penal Code, of the abduction of one K. The Magistrate, intending to act under S. 90, Cr. P. C., ordered the issue of a warrant for the arrest of K. By mistake, however, the warrant stated that K herself was charged with an offence under S. 498. The officer, to whom the warrant was made over for execution, went with some constables to the village of K, and on her failure to furnish bail, arrested her and had taken her a short distance from the village, when the accused rescued K and inflicted injuries on the Police: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 147, the common object being to rescue K, the causing of hurt to the Police being a necessary incident of the rescue and, therefore, a part of the common object. Attar Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 390 : 44 I. C. 742 : 9 P. R. 1918 Cr. : 14 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. : 57 P. L. R. 1918 : A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 332.

———S. 147—Charge — Common object, omission of—Effect.

The omission to state the common object in the charge does not vitiate a conviction if there is evidence on record to show it. Ekdashi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 107 : 99 I. C. 235 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 85.

———S. 147—Charge—Defect in—If curable—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 106 (3), 423 (1) (b), 537—Rioting—Charge not specifying common object of unlawful assembly—Prejudice to accused, absence of—Irregularity.

Where a person is constructively made liable for the acts of another under S. 147, Penal Code, it is especially necessary to set out in the charge the common object of the assembly. But if the absence of particulars regarding the common object does not prejudice the accused in their defence, the irregularity would be cured by S. 537, Cr. P. C., and the High Court will not interfere. Maharaj Singh v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 760 : 53 I. C. 488 : A. I. R. 1918 Nag. 64.

———S. 147—Charge for rioting, failure of—Conviction for substantive offence.

Even though the charge of having formed an unlawful assembly with the common object of committing an offence fails, the Court can convict one of the accused of having committed a substantive offence. In such a case, a person may be convicted of an offence, even if there has been no charge in respect of it, if the evidence on the record is such as to establish a charge that might have been made. Ghousbux Mahomed Aminkhan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 598 : 154 I. C. 915 : 28 S. L. R. 304 : 7 R. S. 174 : A. I. R. 1935 Sind 34.

———S. 147—Charge.

In a charge of rioting, the common object of which is to enforce a right, or a supposed right, it is necessary for the prosecution only to show that the accused was not in actual possession at the time of the occurrence. Chhakari Shaik v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 567 : 85 I. C. 711 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 439.

———S. 147—Charge.

Once a charge of unlawful assembly fails, a person cannot be convicted in respect of an injury which is not proved to have been caused by him. Lila v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 538 : 77 I. C. 1002 : 9 O. L. J. 291 : 4 U. P. L. R. Oudh 74 : A. I. R. 1922 Oudh 228.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 147—Charge—Whether should contain words "force or by show of force."

Charge under S. 147 need not include the words, "by force or by show of force," because suggestion of force is contained in the word "rioting" which is to be included in the charge. Suraj Dusadh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 87 :
165 I. C. 945 : 3 B. R. 108 :
9 R. P. 237 : A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 627.

————S. 147—Common object—Appellate Court, whether can invent fresh common object.

When the common object assigned in the charge as framed to support a case under S. 147 cannot be sustained, an Appellate Court cannot invent another common object to support the conviction. Emperor v. Akbar Molla.

25 Cr. L. J. 773 :
81 I. C. 261 : 38 C. L. J. 379 :
51 Cal. 271 : A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 449.

————S. 147—Common object—Difference between common object charged and common object found—Conviction, validity of.

Where the accused were convicted on a charge of rioting committed with intent to dispossess the complainant, and on appeal, the Sessions Judge upheld the conviction but found that the common object was enforcement of their right or supposed right : Held, that although there was a difference between the common object charged and the common object found, the difference was very slight and as both common objects raised the same question of law and the accused had not been in any way prejudiced in their defence, the conviction was not bad. Manir-ud-Din v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 374 :
12 C. W. N. 579 : 35 Cal. 384.

————S. 147—Common object.

If five or more persons go to a place and some of them assault a person there, the presumption is that the assault was committed in prosecution of the common object of assaulting that person. Assuming that assault was not the original common object, it must be presumed that it was formed at the time the assault was committed. Birjubhukan v. Janrao.

23 Cr. L. J. 745 :
69 I. C. 633 : A. I. R. 1923 Nag. 100.

————S. 147—Common object.

In cases of rioting, the common object should be clearly and specifically set out in the charge. In re : Ramasamy Naidu.

16 Cr. L. J. 809 :
31 I. C. 825 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 834.

————S. 147—Common object.

In trial for rioting, the charge is bound to state the common object of the assembly, and if it does not, the omission is not fatal to the conviction, if the accused have in no way been prejudiced, but where, as in this case, it is shown that omission to state in the charge of rioting, the time and place and the common object has prejudiced the accused in their defence, the conviction is liable to be set aside. Gowardhan Das v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

6 Cr. L. J. 446 :
2 P. W. R. Cr. 106.

————S. 147—Common object—Individual acts of rioters.

Where the presence of all the accused at the time of the occurrence is fully proved, it is not necessary for the prosecution to prove in a case of riot what each individual rioter was responsible for. Sundar Lal v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 732 :
144 I. C. 256 : 10 O. W. N. 671 :
I. R. 1933 Oudh 222 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 276.

————S. 147—Common object—Isolated assault—Offence.

Where there is no proof of formation of an unlawful assembly, an isolated or independent assault by some of the candidates and their supporters for an election cannot be considered to be actuated by any common object. Afsal Beg v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 782 :
144 I. C. 518 : I. R. 1933 Lah. 499 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 235 (2).

————S. 147—Common object, meaning of—Proper charge.

Before a conviction can properly be maintained for the offence of rioting, it is necessary that there should be a clear finding as to the common object of the unlawful assembly ; and also that the common object so found should have been clearly stated in the charge so that the accused person might have an opportunity of meeting it. Allah Dad v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 43 :
75 I. C. 731 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 667.

————S. 147—Common object, necessity of—Defect in charge—Effect.

Per Woodroffe and Mookerjee, JJ.—It is essential to sustain a conviction under S. 147 that the persons forming the unlawful assembly should be animated by common object ; and in the absence of such a finding, the conviction is not sustainable and ought, on that ground alone, to be set aside. Where the findings of a Court negative the common object which is not very precisely set out in the charge and the charge is itself defective, and does not specify the property, the taking possession of which is supposed to be the common object of the unlawful assembly, the accused are thereby prejudiced and S. 537, Cr. P. C., should not be taken recourse to, particularly when the specification of the property would alter the whole complexion of the case. If at the time of the occurrence the accused were in possession, their common object could not have been to take possession by criminal force, and when the common object fails and the substantive charge is disbelieved, the accused should be acquitted. It is not proper for an Appellate Court, which disbelieves the alleged common object of an unlawful assembly, to find out a different common object regarding which the accused were never called upon to plead nor tried, and affirm the conviction. Parcs Nath Sircar v. Emperor. 3 Cr. L. J. 153 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

2 C. L. J. 516 : I. L. R. 23 Cal. 295.

—S. 147—Common object—No express finding—No question as to common object—Prejudice.

Where the common object of an unlawful assembly is clearly set out in the charge and there is no question in the lower Courts as to the common object so set out, a conviction for rioting with the object set out is good even though there might be no express finding as to the common object, if the accused has not been in any way prejudiced by the absence of such finding. Dasarathi Mahapatra v. Raghu Sahu. 8 Cr. L. J. 129 :

1 I. C. 794 : 8 C. L. J. 69 :

12 C. W. N. 944 : 36 Cal. 158.

—S. 147—Common object—Omission to state common object, whether necessarily fatal.

Failure to define expressly and accurately the common object with which an unlawful assembly acts is not such an error, omission or irregularity as may not be cured by S. 537, Cr. P. C. In re : N. Venkadu. 31 Cr. L. J. 347 :

121 I. C. 862 : 31 L. W. 236 :

1930 M. W. N. 80 : A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 188.

—S. 147—Common object, proof of.

In order to establish the common object of an unlawful assembly, it is not necessary to prove that its members actually met and conspired to commit an offence ; such intention can be inferred from the circumstances of the case. In the case of a concerted attack by five or more persons upon another, it is a perfectly valid and reasonable inference that they all had a common object and were, therefore, members of an unlawful assembly. Lajja v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 264 :

100 I. C. 232 : 9 L. L. J. 209 :

28 P. L. R. 273 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 193.

—S. 147—Common object—Riot—Omission to specify common object of unlawful assembly in charge—Legality of trial.

In a riot case, the omission to specify the common object of the unlawful assembly in the charge does not vitiate the trial unless such omission has prejudiced the accused or resulted in a failure of justice. Hasanali v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 467 :

115 I. C. 399 : 30 Bom. L. R. 653 :

I. R. 1929 Bom. 303 :

A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 286.

—S. 147—Common object.

Rioting—Common object must be proved—Such common object must be mentioned in the charge. Allahrakhio v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 231 (2) :

152 I. C. 1061 : 7 R. S. 110 :

A. I. R. 1934 Sind 164.

—S. 147—Common object—Rioting.

The omission to set out the common object in all cases in which there is a charge under S. 147, does not necessarily make the conviction bad, except, when the accused have been misled and a failure of justice has been occasioned thereby. Nawab Khan v. Government of Mysore. 9 Cr. L. J. 531 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

13 M. C. C. R. 72.

—S. 147—Common object stated in charge—Common object, non-conviction under—Legality of, established—Maintaining actual enjoyment of right—No unlawful assembly—Right of private defence.

It cannot be laid down as a general proposition of law that a conviction under S. 147 cannot be supported whenever the common object, as stated in the charge, is not precisely made out. The question in each individual case is whether the common object established agrees in essential particulars with the common object as stated in the charge. Where the common object as stated in the charge was to assault the complainant and his men who were cutting the paddy of their land and thereby forcibly ousting them from the land, and the common object established upon the evidence was to maintain possession of the land by the accused persons : Held, that the common object as stated in the charge was not substantially established. Silajil Mahoto v. Emperor. 10 Cr. L. J. 471 :

4 I. C. 19 : 36 Cal. 865 :

13 C. W. N. 801.

—S. 147—Conviction and sentences.

When an offence forms an ingredient of the offence of rioting, the rioters cannot be punished both for rioting and the other offence, so where the common object of an unlawful assembly was to assault, the Police Officers in discharging their duty and hurt was actually caused to some of them, separate sentences under Ss. 147 and 332, I. P. C., were disallowed and sentence under S. 332, I. P. C., only was maintained. Gowardhan Das v. Emperor. 6 Cr. L. J. 446 :

2 P. W. R. Cr 106.

—S. 147—Conviction for rioting, legality of—Free fight—Death caused—Non-liability of accused—First report—Rioting—Murder.

Where in the case of a free fight by exchanging stone missiles between the two parties, the death of a person is caused but there is no conclusive proof by whom the act which caused the death was done, none of the accused can be made liable for the offence committed. Accused persons cannot be convicted of rioting when that offence is neither alleged by the prosecution nor is it proved by the evidence on either side. Fatch Sher v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 593 :

21 I. C. 465 : 318 P. L. R. 1913 :

35 P. W. R. 1913 Cr.

—S. 147—Conviction of accused for two offences—Single sentence—Appcal—Acquittal of the accused as regards one of the offences—No reduction in sentence.

A was convicted by a Second Class Magistrate of offences under Ss. 147 and 379, Penal Code. The Appellate Court acquitted the accused of the offence under S. 379 but maintained the sentence in its entirety and also passed an order for security under S. 106, Cr. P. C.: Held, that in such cases, some reduction of sentence by the Appellate Court must be made unless the Court thinks that the sentence ought not to be reduced, in which case, it should refer the matter to the High Court for enhancement of the sentence. Paramasiva Pillai v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

5 Cr. L. J. 88 :

1 M. L. T. 403 : I. L. R. 30 Mad. 48.

—S. 147—Conviction—Rioting—Assaulting and obstructing public servant—Separate convictions, legality of—Identification.

Several persons were convicted under S. 147 of rioting with a view to attacking and obstructing the Police in the discharge of their duties, and were also convicted under S. 333 of the substantive offence of so attacking and obstructing them: Held, that both convictions could not stand and that the conviction under S. 147 must be set aside. Kallu v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 449 :

67 I. C. 721 : 4 L. L. J. 448 :

4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 95 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 31.

—S. 147—Conviction under.

Accused were convicted of offences under Ss. 147, 323 and 325, Penal Code, the common object of the unlawful assembly being described as "looting crops belonging to the complainant's master." On appeal, the Appellate Court held that it could not be determined which portion of the land in dispute belonged to the accused and which portion belonged to the complainant's master. There was a bona fide dispute with regard to the title to the land: Held, (1) that the title to the land being uncertain and there being a bona fide dispute, there could be no looting of the crops; (2) that, therefore, there could be no conviction under S. 147; (3) that in the absence of an unlawful assembly, only those persons could be convicted under Ss. 323 and 325 with regard to whom it could be established that they had been guilty of acts which fell under those sections. Bhagwat Jha v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 557 :

81 I. C. 45 : 6 Pat. L. T. 310 :

A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 158.

—S. 147—Entry on land in possession of another—If unlawful assembly and rioting.

The petitioners went with three ploughs on land to which the complainant had the right of possession and of which he was in possession till such entry, and began to plough up the land, to uproot some castor plants and throw them away. While they were thus in actual but temporary occupation, the complainant and his party went on the land and tried to unyoke the cattle, whereupon a riot took place: Held, that the petitioners were not justified in entering on the land, in ploughing it, uprooting the plants and throwing them away, that they were members of an unlawful assembly, the common object of which was to enforce a right or supposed right for the exercise of which they were prepared to use force, and that their action in beating the complainant's party was not justified by the fact of their having obtained temporary occupation. Jairam Mahton v. Emperor. 7 Cr. L. J. 123 : 35 Cal. 103.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 147—Essence of.

The essence of S. 147, Penal Code, is that the public servant should exercise the power lawfully. Idu Mandal v. Emperor.

6 Cr. L. J. 439 :

6 C. L. J. 753.

—S. 147—Evidence.

Free fight—No evidence showing that accused's party were aggressors—Mark of injuries does not raise presumption of guilt. Ahmad Sher v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 868 :

132 I. C. 381 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 573 :

A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 513.

—S. 147—Evidence.

Held, on evidence and circumstances that charge under S. 147 was not made out. Emperor v. Ram Dal.

34 Cr. L. J. 538 :

143 I. C. 129 : 10 O. W. N. 585 :

I. R. 1933 Oudh 161 :

A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 340.

—S. 147—Evidence—Injuries on body.

Injuries on the body of persons is a sure guide that they took part in the riot. Sadho v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1494 :

152 I. C. 108 : 1934 A. L. J. 640 : 7 R. A. 256 :

A. I. R. 1934 All. 881.

—S. 147—Evidence and onus—Riot case—Enmity between rival factions established.

In a case under S. 147, Penal Code, where the evidence of the prosecution is all interested and where a considerable amount of enmity exists between the factions who are concerned in the affairs, it is necessary to scrutinise the evidence of the prosecution very carefully. Majhi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 685 :

103 I. C. 413 : 9 L. L. J. 369 :

A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 617.

—S. 147—Ingredients.

It cannot be said that any minor offence is included in S. 147. The use of criminal force is a necessary ingredient of that offence, but any particular kind of voluntary use of such criminal force may, and should be separately charged either substantively against the individuals who committed the offence, or for the purpose of using S. 149 against all the rioters. Kanta Naya v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 82 (a) :

9 I. C. 455.

—S. 147—Joining in unlawful assembly—If offence.

R filed a prosecution against K for enticing away his wife A. K claimed to be the husband of A, and denied the marriage of A with R. On the day of hearing, R in company of several others forcibly seized A, put her in the carriage of one H and drove away: Held, that H, the carriage driver, had been rightly convicted under S. 147. He must have seen that the object of the unlawful assembly was to carry off A, and when he drove A off against her wish, he joined the unlawful assembly and assisted the carrying out of the unlawful object for which it had assembled. Imperator v. Haji Baka. 10 Cr. L. J. 208 : 2 S. L. R. 6.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence.

Auction-purchaser given symbolical possession—Obstruction to actual possession by lessee whose crops were standing—Lessee, commits no offence. Laxmanrao Narainrao v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1213 : 150 I. C. 1028 : 7 R. N. 45 : A. I. R. 1934 Nag. 172.

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence.

B bought the disputed land from the guardian of a minor. The minor subsequently sold the same land to S. Thereupon B obtained an ex parte decree declaring his right to the land and secured possession in execution of that decree. In the meantime, the petitioners, who held the land as bhagdars under S, actually cultivated the land and raised the crop which B's bhagdar, the complainant, tried to cut. The petitioners opposed and a riot ensued, and the petitioners were convicted: Held, that as the petitioners actually cultivated the disputed crop and were no parties either to the suit or to the delivery of possession of the land, they were justified in claiming what they had grown and in resisting the action of the complainant when he went to take possession, and that the petitioners were not guilty of rioting. Gojendra Ghorai v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 188 : 13 I. C. 1004 : 15 C. L. J. 80.

—S. 147—Lawful act, a private defence.

Hire-purchase of lorry—Default in payment of instalment by purchaser—Seller having legal right to possession through Court—Agents of seller using force to recover possession—Servants of purchaser in peaceful possession—Altercation—Injury to agents—Servants held entitled to resist. Nawab Raza v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 740 : 148 I. C. 696 : 11 O. W. N. 288 : 6 R. O. 427 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 108.

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence.

In order to establish that a party acted in the exercise of the right of private defence in a riot, it lies upon such party to establish the circumstances under which each blow that caused an injury to a member of the opposite party was inflicted. Hazura Singh v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 838 : 104 I. C. 454 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 786.

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence—Maintaining one's right to ferry against wrongful interference.

A person cannot be convicted of rioting where he merely maintains his legal right to ply a ferry in his own ghat against wrongful interference by rival ferry owners. Anwar Ali v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1291 : 98 I. C. 187 : A. I. R. 1927 Pat. 96.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence.

Party stationed higher up stream obstructing flow—Party on lower level cannot take law in its hands though impulse to breach of peace may be strong. Bachu Singh v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 337 : 180 I. C. 335 : 5 B. R. 384 : 11 R. P. 501 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 314.

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence—Rescue from lawful custody—Arrest on warrant with bail—No intimation that bail was allowed—Arrest whether legal.

Where a warrant allowing bail is being executed by a constable, it is his bounden duty to state that bail would be taken. If the constable did not give the slightest intimation to the person arrested of the fact that bail had been allowed, the arrest would be illegal. The arrested person's people would be justified by the law of private defence, in rescuing him, by committing a common assault upon the constable. Shyama Charan Majumdar v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 590 : 15 I. C. 1006 : 16 C. W. N. 549.

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence—Rioting—Private defence of property—Recourse to public authorities—Offence.

J. R. lawfully and legally obtained possession of certain land and sowed certain crops on it. One B. K. in bad faith and dishonestly with a party of men went upon the land and commenced to cut the crops for the purpose of removing them or at least damaging them. Information of this was sent to J. R. and he in company with a band of men went straight to the spot to protect his property. A fight resulted in which very slight injuries were caused: Held, that J. R. and his party were not guilty of rioting, inasmuch as they were acting in the defence of their property, they did not use any more violence than was absolutely necessary for the protection of the property, and they had no time to have recourse to the protection of the public authorities. Jageshar v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 663 : 40 I. C. 311 : 15 A. L. J. 47 : A. I. R. 1917 All. 119.

—S. 147—Lawful acts and private defence.

S. 147 cannot apply to a case where a person in lawful possession of any property proposes to use force in order to maintain his possession. Emperor v. Mohammad Idris. 34 Cr. L. J. 748 : 144 I. C. 262 (1) : 10 O. W. N. 788 : I. R. 1933 Oudh 228 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 279.

—S. 147—Members, when guilty of rioting.

Where it is found that the accused were members of an unlawful assembly having a common object and made an assault or preparation to use force or violence, in the absence of proof that some members of the unlawful assembly which they joined used force or violence in prosecution of their common object, they cannot be convicted of rioting under S. 147, but can be convicted only of being members of an unlawful assembly under S. 143. Wajid Ali v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 337 :
100 I. C. 817 : 4 O. W. N. 420 :
A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 151.

—S. 147 — Miscellaneous — District Magistrate rescinding order passed under S. 144, Cr. P. C.—It is not a licence to commit trespass or riot.

The order of the District Magistrate rescinding an order passed under S. 144, Cr. P. C., cannot properly be treated as a licence to commit criminal trespass; still less as a licence to riot. Pachu Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 337 :
180 I. C. 335 : 5 B. R. 384 :
11 R. P. 501 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 314.

—S. 147—Possession of the accused — Accused can enforce their right to crops and so cannot be guilty.

Where the accused were in the actual possession of the land, though some years back the land was sold at a rent sale, the accused were held not to be guilty of the charge under S. 147 of being members of an unlawful assembly, their object being to enforce their right to the standing crops. Gajadhar Singh v. Emperor.

A. I. R. 1923 Pat. 299.

—S. 147 — Possession ordered and delivered to accused by Civil Court — Accused must be assumed to be in possession—Duty of prosecution to prove subsequent actual dispossession of accused to secure conviction under S. 147.

Where the accused had actually obtained possession which was ordered to be and was duly delivered to him by the Civil Court, it must be assumed that he was in actual possession, and in order to secure conviction of the accused under S. 147, it is consequently the duty of the prosecution to allege and prove that subsequent to the delivery of possession complainants again dispossessed the accused and began to exercise acts of possession of their own, and it is not open to complainants to allege that they remained in possession notwithstanding the delivery of possession which was affected in their presence without putting forward a case of actual dispossession thereafter. Baburam Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 618 :
181 I. C. 891 : 5 B. R. 700 :
11 R. P. 648.

—S. 147—Possession, what is.

Delivery of possession by the Court passes possession to the party and must be treated as doing so even though the other side may allege the delivery of possession to be of doubtful legality. Karu Mahto v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

33 Cr. L. J. 862 :
139 I. C. 585 : 13 P. L. T. 395 :
I. R. 1932 Pat. 246 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 244.

—S. 147 — Procedure — Cross-cases of rioting—Simultaneous trial.

In trial of two cross-cases of rioting, one case was taken up first, and some witnesses for the prosecution were examined. The other case was taken up on the next day, and certain witnesses for the prosecution in that case were examined. The other sheets showed that on certain days certain witnesses were examined in both the cases, while, on other days, witnesses in one or the other case were examined, and in some instances, some of the accused in one case were examined as witnesses for the prosecution in the other. The charges in the two cases were framed at an interval of four days, but the evidence was completed, and arguments were heard on one and the same day, and two days after both the cases were disposed of by separate judgments: Held, that the trial was not vitiated by reason of the procedure adopted by the Magistrate, nor were the accused in any way prejudiced thereby. Sahadev Ahir v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 199 :
8 C. W. N. 344.

—S. 147—Procedure.

In a charge of rioting where a number of men are accused, the Magistrate should deal with the case of each of the accused separately or discuss the evidence against each of the accused, especially when the evidence against each of the accused is by no means equally strong. In re : Ramasamy Naidu.

16 Cr. L. J. 809 :
31 I. C. 825 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 834.

—S. 147—Procedure—Summary trial.

A Magistrate has no jurisdiction to minimise an offence to enable it to try it summarily, as for instance, a case of rioting as one of hurt under S. 323, Penal Code. Mewa Lal v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 686 :
116 I. C. 789 : I. R. 1929 All. 613 :
1929 A. L. J. 340 : 51 All. 540 :
A. I. R. 1929 All. 349.

—S. 147—Resisting attachment of property under illegal warrant, if offence.

Where in a case in which the accused were charged with rioting with the common object of resisting attachment of a property, it was found that the warrant of attachment was not sealed with the seal of the Court: Held, that the warrant and attachment being illegal, it was not an offence to resist the attachment. Khidir Bux v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 139 :
49 I. C. 171 : 3 P. L. J. 636 :
A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 404.

—S. 147—Riot—Proof—Duty of Court.

In a case of riot which is the result of a party faction in a village where the evidence on either side is liable to be prejudiced, it is necessarily of importance to ascertain the cause of the trouble. Narsingh Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 209 :
185 I. C. 594 : 6 B. R. 215 :
20 P. L. T. 655 : 12 R. P. 431 :
A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 659.

———S. 147—Riot—Proof.

Where the prosecution allege that the riot was the result of the threats and attempts of the accused to prevent the servant of a complainant from working for his employer, the only way the prosecution can prove these threats is by the evidence of some one who heard them uttered. The hearsay evidence of the complainant with regard to what the servant told him that the accused persons had said, is inadmissible unless, possibly, it is impossible to secure the attendance of the servant. It is possible to believe a story of an apparently unjustified attack when it is supported by unambiguous and unimpeachable evidence. But when the evidence tendered is not of that description, it is unsafe to accept it unless it is supported by circumstances indicating its truth. Evidence of previous threat is evidence of such a nature. Narsingh Singh v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 209 :
185 I. C. 594 : 1939 Pat. 659 :
6 B. R. 215 : 20 P. L. T. 655 :
12 R. P. 431 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 659.

———S. 147—Riot—Unlawful assembly—Leader of gang, liability of.

A conviction under S. 147, Penal Code, of the leader of a gang whose common object is to assault passers-by, is not legal. Sujatalli v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 256 :
66 I. C. 192 : 24 Bom. L. R. 110.

———S. 147—Rioting.

Accused assaulting and causing injuries to complainant's men—Conviction under Ss. 147 and 323 is proper. Emperor v. Sahab Raj Singh.

34 Cr. L. J. 1099 :
145 I. C. 913 : 1933 A. L. J. 1178 :
6 R. A. 205 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 819.

———S. 147—Rioting and grievous hurt—Separate sentences.

Where an accused person is convicted of offences under Ss. 147, 452 and 325 and the acts constituting the offence under Ss. 452 and 325, are the specific acts which constitute the object and purpose of the riot, a separate sentence under S. 147 is not justified. Ram Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 568 :
81 I. C. 56 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 160.

———S. 147—Rioting—Attempt by Police to arrest persons not engaged in commission of offence—Resistance to arrest, if rioting.

A party of Policemen, on receiving information that certain persons were waiting near a railway line with the intention of robbing a train, arrived at the scene and found the accused and certain other persons, sitting or roaming about near the railway line. The Police attempted to arrest those present and a fight ensued but the accused were eventually secured and taken to the Police Station. They were subsequently charged with and convicted of an offence under S. 147 : Held, that the Police had no jurisdiction for attempting to arrest the accused and that consequently in resisting the arrest, the accused were not guilty of the offence of rioting. Rampri Ahir v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 1608 :
90 I. C. 712 : 7 P. L. T. 218 :
A. I. R. 1926 Pat. 560.

———S. 147—Rioting.

Common object—Charge, defective—Precaution, if may be taken by party in possession—Aggression—Prejudice—Code of Criminal Procedure (Act V of 1898), S. 537—Failure of justice—Right of private defence. Pures Nath Sticar v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 153 :
2 C. L. J. 516 : I. L. R. 23 Cal. 295.

———S. 147—Rioting—Common object—Evidence—Proof.

The alleged common object of an assembly which renders it unlawful must be established by evidence; it is not a matter that can be inferred. In the absence of a clear finding as to how a fight originated, a conviction for rioting cannot be maintained. Jadubar Singh v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 670 :
52 I. C. 494 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 375.

———S. 147—Rioting—Conviction of less than 5 persons, legality.

The mere fact that 14 out of 17 men charged with being members of an unlawful assembly, are acquitted as they were not satisfactorily identified does not vitiate the conviction of the others for being members of an unlawful assembly. Ekadashi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 107 :
99 I. C. 235 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 85.

———S. 147—Rioting—Damage to property of another, if mischief and rioting.

In a Collectorate partition a certain building which was in the possession of the complainant fell to the share of one A. Subsequently, there was a compromise between A and the complainant whereby the former agreed to give up the building to the latter in exchange for a plot of land. This compromise was filed before the Collector who gave effect to it in the Collectorate partition. Complainant continued in possession of the building. Accused, a servant of A, along with others demolished the building and ploughed up the site asserting that the building belonged to his mother A, and that the compromise was ineffective as no deed of Exchange has been drawn up in accordance therewith : Held, (1) that the compromise having been given effect to by the Collector in the partition, the title in the building had passed to the complainant, (2) that the accused was, therefore, guilty of mischief, and consequently of rioting. Tanak Chaudhry v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 542 :
73 I. C. 158 : 1 P. L. R. 242 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1923 Pat. 361.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 147—Rioting—Duty of court.

Where an assembly lawful in its origin subsequently becomes unlawful and rioting takes place, it is the duty of the trying Magistrate to determine which party was the aggressor and how the riot actually arose. In re: Mukha Muthrian. 16 Cr. L. J. 743 : 31 I. C. 343 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1062.

———S. 147—Rioting, ingredients of—Unlawful assembly—Number reduced below five—Conviction, whether can be maintained.

In order to sustain a conviction under S. 147, it is necessary to find that the person accused of that offence was a member of an unlawful assembly and that he used force or violence in prosecution of the common object of such assembly. Where out of five men alleged to have formed unlawful assembly and committed a riot, two are acquitted as not having been members of the unlawful assembly, the conviction of the remainder under S. 147 cannot be maintained and each of them can be held responsible only for what he himself did. Ala Mahammad v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 494 : 77 I. C. 894 : 5 L. L. J. 475 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 692.

———S. 147—Rioting—Intention—Rioting—Determination to settle quarrel by force—Private defence, right of, whether exists.

Where two parties which are at enmity with each other come to a certain place armed with the full determination to settle their quarrels by force and have a fight, they are both guilty of rioting and no right of private defence exists. Mulla v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1294 : 89 I. C. 158 : 2 O. W. N. 332 : 12 O. L. J. 337 : 29 O. C. 92 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 438.

———S. 147—Rioting—Persons joining assembly after common object ceases to exist, whether guilty.

Accused were convicted of an offence under S. 147, the common object of the unlawful assembly being to assault one K. It was found that some of the accused did not join the unlawful assembly till after K had retired, but that they joined the other accused in beating some other person: Held, that the accused who had joined the assembly after K had retired, could not be convicted under S. 147. Shafayet Khan v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1018 : 81 I. C. 794 : A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 152.

———S. 147—Rioting—Prosecution of members of crowd—Matters to be proved.

In a charge for rioting in the case of a confused riot, all that the prosecution needs to establish is that the accused were voluntarily members of the crowd of rioters who committed the offence alleged. Ramadhan Brahmin v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 963 : 112 I. C. 51 : A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 36.

———S. 147—Rioting—Resistance to illegal attachment—Conviction.

A bailiff, acting under an illegal warrant of attachment, seized the cattle of one of the accused and was proceeding to remove them, whereupon the accused resisted the removal, and in doing so, inflicted slight injuries on the companions of the bailiff: Held, that the accused were not guilty of any offence under S. 147. Allah Dad v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 43 : 75 I. C. 731 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 667.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 147—Rioting—Two parties attacking each other—Justification, absence of—Responsibility of each party.

Where two parties are guilty of rioting, and in the course of the riot, each inflicts injuries on the other, but individual responsibility for the injuries inflicted cannot be fixed upon any one, and neither party is able to establish any justification for its attack upon the other, there is no ground for discriminating between them and both should be dealt with in the same manner. Saadullah v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 983 : 81 I. C. 631 : 6 L. L. J. 170 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 482.

———S. 147—Rioting—Unlawful assembly, finding as to, whether necessary—Conviction, whether maintainable.

In the absence of a finding as to the existence of an unlawful assembly, a conviction under S. 147 cannot be maintained. Mahesh Dutt Singh v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 165 : 54 I. C. 773 : 1920 Pat. 127 : 1 P. L. T. 606 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 244.

———S. 147—Rioting.

Unlawful assembly—Original object only to beat opponents—Rioting assuming serious complexion—Robbing of ornaments of women—Murder of Police Inspector—Wounding of constable—Acts constitute same transaction—One charge and one trial of all in respect of all offences is enough. Bishunath v. Emperor. 153 I. C. 978 : 1935 O. W. N. 145 : 7 R. O. 423 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 190.

———S. 147—Rioting.

Unpremeditated fight as a result of abuse and sudden quarrel: Held, there was no unlawful assembly but accused were guilty of rioting. Machlia v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 301 : 147 I. C. 109 : 6 R. L. 335 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 928.

———S. 147—Rioting—Use of violence, necessity of.

In order to punish the accused for rioting, it should also be made out that force or violence was used by any member thereof, in prosecution of the common object of such assembly. Kuppuswami Mudali v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 598 : 138 I. C. 383 : 1932 M. W. N. 431 : 36 L. W. 407 : 1 R. 1932 Mad. 563 (1) : A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 501.

———S. 147—Rioting, what is.

Assaulting a religious procession with the common object of disturbing it, amounts to rioting. Sengodan v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

13 Cr. L. J. 534 :
15 I. C. 806.

———S. 147—Rioting, what is—Resisting act contrary to decree of Civil Court—If offence.

In a suit for injunction to which the Secretary of State was a party, a decree was made restricting the defendants, including the Secretary of State, from cutting a certain embankment, subject to the condition that if certain works were not carried out by the plaintiff by a certain date, the injunction would be cancelled, and the defendant would be entitled to cut the embankment. On plaintiff's failure to carry out the works mentioned in the decree, one of the defendants made an application to the Collector who passed an order under S. 144, Cr. P. C., directing the plaintiff and the public jointly to abstain from interfering with the cutting of the embankment. The defendants and the Police then proceeded to cut the embankment and the plaintiff and certain other persons resisted such cutting with the result that a riot ensued in which persons belonging to both parties were injured and one of them was killed: Held, (1) that the injunction granted by the Civil Court not having been recalled by that Court was still in force and that, therefore, nobody had any authority lawfully to cut the embankment; (2) that, consequently, the plaintiff and his party in resisting the cutting of the embankment were not acting in pursuance of any unlawful common object and could not, therefore, be convicted of an offence under S. 147. Abdul Jalil v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 279 :
84 I. C. 343 : 28 C. W. N. 732 :
A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 996.

———S. 147—Rioting.

When a number of men who were assembled at a certain place ran away on being attacked by the opposite party, they were not guilty of rioting, and their conviction under S. 147, Penal Code, was bad. Mohammad Ishaq Khan v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 1057 :
1 A. L. J. 602.

———S. 147—Scope.

But S. 147 of the Code creates a substantive offence in itself and makes a person guilty of the offence of rioting as distinct from actually causing any injury or hurt. Chhidda v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 287 :
92 I. C. 463 : 24 A. L. J. 178 :
A. I. R. 1926 All 225.

———S. 147—Sentence—Assault in furtherance of common object—Separate sentences under—Legality of.

Separate convictions are legal under Ss. 147, 353, Penal Code, even when assault is committed in furtherance of the common intention of the unlawful assembly. Gendo Uraon v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 79 :
106 I. C. 591 : 6 Pat. 828 :
9 P. L. T. 167 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 115.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 147—Sentence—Fight not very serious—Slight hurt.

Title to and possession over a certain chur land were claimed by a zemindar and a talugdar under him. The Magistrate issued an order under S. 144, Cr. P. C., on both the parties not to go on the land. The talugdar's party having attempted to go on the land, the fact was reported to the Magistrate and it was prayed that the standing crops might be attached. Accordingly an attachment order was made, and the petitioners, representing the party of the zemindar accompanied a Police Officer deputed to attach the land, and pointed out the plots on which the crops stood. Then the party of the talugdar appeared and there was some sort of fight which was not very serious, as only a few men on both sides received slight hurts. Subsequently, in a decision of the Settlement Court it was found that the zemindar was in possession of all culturable area of the chur: Held, that for the breach of the peace on the part of the zemindar, a small term of imprisonment with fine would amply vindicate the law. Araz Sarkar v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 473 :
24 I. C. 561 : 18 C. W. N. 646 :
A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 797.

———S. 147—Sentences.

In charges for "riot" and "obstruction of the Police" against the accused, which were not proved and which were of a trivial and venial character, all the accused were ordered to undergo 3 years and 9 months' rigorous imprisonment, bound over for a further year in their own bonds of Rs. 200 and two sureties of Rs. 100 each and fined Rs. 100 each, and in default of payment of the fine, they were ordered to undergo 3 months' further rigorous imprisonment: Held, setting aside the convictions, that under the circumstances of the case, these savage sentences were the combined result of erroneous views of the law, unjustifiable and perverse findings of fact and misconduct in procedure. Badri Prasad v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 343 :
35 I. C. 519 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 175.

———S. 147—Sentence.

The accused convicted in a very serious riot case are not entitled to reduction of their sentences in revision on the ground that men on their side sustained a certain number of injuries. Noor Mohammed v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 300 :
35 I. C. 172 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 297.

———S. 147—Seven persons charged with rioting—Four acquitted—Rest, if can be convicted.

For a conviction under S. 147 it is necessary to find that the accused was a member of an unlawful assembly. Where four out of seven accused charged with rioting are acquitted, the rest do not form an unlawful assembly and consequently must be acquitted. In re : Gopalkrishnan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

39 Cr. L. J. 687 (A) :
176 I. C. 40 : 47 L. W. 323 :
11 R. M. 27 : 1938 M. W. N. 224 (1) :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 392.

———S. 147—Single motive — Series of attacks, if one offence, or several.

A continuous series of attacks made with the same common object by the members of a crowd actuated by a single motive, constitutes a single riot and not a number of separate riots, even though the composition of the crowd may vary. Prag v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1169 :
82 I. C. 33 : 11 O. L. J. 693 :
1 O. W. N. 473 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 65.

———S. 147—Trial of offence under—Mode of.

The trial of two cross-cases of rioting simultaneously but separately is not bad unless the accused can show some prejudice. Shafayet Khan v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1018 :
81 I. C. 794 : A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 152.

———S. 147—Unlawful assembly—Charge—Statement of principal common object, necessity of—Common object stated not proved—Acquittal.

In all cases of unlawful assembly, the principal and the prominent common object should form the subject of the charge and not the incidental happenings. Where the charge against the accused in a prosecution under S. 147 was that the accused had formed into an unlawful assembly with the common object of assaulting the accused, and it was found that the common object was to set fire to the accused's house and not to assault him : Held, that the accused should be acquitted inasmuch as the charge, as laid down, was not proved. Aklu Mian v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 390 :
108 I. C. 421 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 405.

———S. 147—Unlawful assembly—Proprietor of land, whether can claim wild animal shot on his land and seizing by force the animal, if offence.

If a person kills a wild animal or wild bird on the property of another person, such dead creature does not belong to the killer but to the proprietor of the property ; and such proprietor either himself or by his duly authorised agent can lawfully demand, and if refused, seize such dead creature from the possession of the killer ; and such persons as help him to exercise his right are doing no wrong ; but, as against any person other than the proprietor of the estate or his duly authorized agent or those lawfully helping the proprietor or his agent, the killer has a right to retain possession of the dead creature which he has thus killed. Emperor v. Arju Rautra.

25 Cr. L. J. 594 :
81 I. C. 82 : 3 Pat. 549 :
A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 564.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 147—Unlawful assembly, what is.

An assembly lawfully exercising their lawful rights would not become unlawful by repelling an attack made on them by persons who had no right to obstruct them nor by exceeding the lawful use of their right of private defence. In re : Mukka Muthrian.

16 Cr. L. J. 743 :
31 I. C. 343 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1062.

———S. 147—Unlawful assembly, what is.

An assembly lawful in itself does not become unlawful merely by reason of its lawful acts exciting others to do unlawful acts. In re : Mukka Muthrian.

16 Cr. L. J. 743 :
31 I. C. 343 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1062.

———S. 147—What constitutes offence—Police Officer wishing to make arrest—Crowd assembling with lathis, if offence.

A Sub-Inspector of Police came to a village to arrest a certain person and effected his arrest. The person arrested, however struggled, got free and ran away. While the Sub-Inspector was thinking of re-arresting him a crowd carrying lathis began to assemble and the Sub-Inspector considered their appearance so formidable that he desisted from his intention of re-arresting the escaped person : Held, that as no force was used, the members of the crowd were not guilty of the offence of rioting. Lalji v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 766 :
86 I. C. 350 : 23 A. L. J. 32 :
A. I. R. 1925 All. 308.

———Ss. 147, 148—Accused armed with lathis—Offence.

Where the accused are found to be armed with lathis, and not with deadly weapons, they can be convicted only under S. 147 and not under S. 148. Ratan Lal v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 45 :
146 I. C. 381 : 10 O. W. N. 557 :
8 Luck. 570 : 6 R. O. 107 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 333.

———Ss. 147 and 148—Rioting where the parties of the complainant and accused engaged in a free fight.

When a body of men go out armed to exercise a right or a supposed right, knowing that they will be resisted by another body of men, in their act, and when the former is engaged in the exercise of that right or supposed right, the latter resisting, a free fight ensues between the rival parties in defiance of the remonstrances of Police constables present on the spot with the result that a man is killed and others wounded, questions of right and who are the aggressors and who are the defending party, do not arise for consideration. Kabir-ud-Din v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 256 :
12 C. W. N. 384 : 35 Cal. 368 :
7 C. L. J. 359 : 3 M. L. T. 385.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 147, 148—Rioting with common object of causing obstruction to measurement of khas mahal land—Burden of proof—Possession of disputed land not affirmatively proved, effect of.

The common object of the unlawful assembly of which the petitioners were said to have been members and for which they were convicted by the lower Court under Ss. 147 and 148 was to cause obstruction to measurement and demarcation of khas mahal land by a Kanungo and a khas mahal Tahsildar. The land in question had lain fallow up to the date of the occurrence, and there was considerable doubt whether the prosecution had established that on the date of the occurrence, actual possession of the land was with the Government: Held, that having regard to the condition of the land and the nature of the acts of possession on which the parties relied, it was not established affirmatively that the land on which the alleged riot took place was in the actual possession of the Government, and that, therefore, the charge as alleged was not proved, and the petitioners were not guilty of rioting with the common object stated in the charge. Panchanon Bose v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 721 (b) :
52 I. C. 881 : 23 C. W. N. 693 :
30 C. L. J. 19 : A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 305.

———Ss. 147, 148, 149—Principles relating to conviction on different charges.

The real test of whether a conviction can be upheld on a charge which was not expressly formulated is whether the facts which it was necessary to prove and on which evidence was given on the charge upon which the accused is actually tried are the same as the facts upon which he is to be convicted of the substantive offence. If they are and if the accused is put to no disadvantage and would have had to adduce no further evidence, then he may be rightly convicted of the substantive offence notwithstanding that the charge was originally framed under Ss. 147, 148 or 149 and the prosecution has failed to prove an unlawful common object. Bhundu Das v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 205 :
113 I. C. 676 : 7 Pat. 758 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 68 : 11 P. L. T. 111 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 11.

———Ss. 147, 148, 149—Seven named culprits alleged to have participated in riot—Three given benefit of doubt—Effect.

Where seven culprits are named but three of them get the benefit of the doubt regarding their participation in the riot, the effect is that such persons are entitled to an acquittal and that their co-accused are entitled to have it found in determining their case that the acquitted persons were not there. In this view of the finding, there are only four persons left and therefore in such a case neither S. 147 nor S. 148 nor S. 149 can be applied. Before S. 149 can come into operation, there must be five or more culprits to constitute an unlawful assembly. Mustqim Jagga v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 874 :
184 I. C. 208 : 12 R. L. 180 (2) :
A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 416.

———Ss. 147, 149—Sentence—Rioting and some other offence committed in its connection—Separate sentences.

Separate sentences may be passed under S. 147 and any other section which becomes applicable to the accused with reference to the terms of S. 149. Mahpal Singh v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 625 :
25 I. C. 633 : 1 O. L. J. 328 :
17 O. C. 184 : A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 205.

———Ss. 147, 149—Separate sentences for rioting and other offences.

As a rule, it is unsound to pass cumulative sentences under S. 147 and some other section of the Penal Code, where the latter of the two sections can only be applied by the aid of the provisions of S. 149. Kure v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 517 :
51 I. C. 677 : 16 A. L. J. 615 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 379.

———Ss. 147, 149, 304, 325—Unlawful assembly—Common intention to cause grievous hurt—Death caused—Members causing death not ascertainable—Liability of members—Offence.

Where the members of an unlawful assembly animated with the common intention of causing grievous hurt caused death and it is impossible to ascertain by which of the members of the assembly death was caused, but it is found that one of them was immediately responsible for one of the deaths caused, that member is guilty of the offences of rioting under S. 147 and of culpable homicide under S. 304, Penal Code, and the remainder are guilty of rioting and causing grievous hurt under S. 325 read with S. 149. Barkau Singh v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 279 :
60 I. C. 679 : 7 O. L. J. 671 :
A. I. R. 1920 Oudh 152.

———Ss. 147, 149, 323—Liability of members of unlawful assembly.

S. 323 creates a distinct offence in itself. Where, therefore, more injuries than one are caused by the members of an unlawful assembly, they can be convicted of offences both under S. 147 and under S. 323, read with S. 149. In such a case, as soon as the first injury is caused to any person, force is used and the offence of rioting is complete. Subsequent injuries though inflicted in pursuance of the same common object would be distinct injuries justifying a conviction under S. 323. Chhidda v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 287 :
92 I. C. 463 : 24 A. L. J. 178 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 225.

———Ss. 147, 149, 323, 325—Riot and hurt—Conviction for both offences.

Where the object of an unlawful assembly is to cause hurt, a member of that assembly, if he is convicted under S. 147, cannot be convicted also under S. 323 or S. 325 read with S. 149, except that such of the accused as are proved themselves to have caused hurt in the riot, would be rightly convicted of the offence of hurt in addition to the offences of rioting. Krishna Ayyar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 145 (b) :
49 I. C. 337 : 24 M. L. T. 96 :
1918 M. W. N. 526 : 8 L. W. 225 :
A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 353.

———Ss. 147, 149, 325—Rioting and causing grievous hurt—Separate convictions and sentences, legality of.

In addition to a conviction under S. 147, Penal Code, an accused who himself caused grievous hurt to the opposite party cannot be separately convicted under S. 325 of the Code. Separate convictions and sentences, therefore, under S. 325 read with S. 149 of the Penal Code and S. 147 of the Code are illegal. Pattu Singh v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 37 :
48 I. C. 677 : 3 P. L. J. 641 :
A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 227.

———Ss. 147, 149, 325—Rioting and hurt—Separate convictions.

Where five men armed with deadly weapons assembled and proceeded to where their enemies were sleeping and caused them injuries which were grievous in the case of two and simple in the case of one: Held, that it was not permissible to convict them all under Ss. 147, 149 and 325, Penal Code, inasmuch as that would be convicting them twice over for the same offence. Bula v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 82 :
120 I. C. 283 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 498.

———Ss. 147, 149, 325—Rioting—Jury, verdict of—Physical condition—Testimony.

In a case under Ss. 147 and 325 read with S. 149, Penal Code, the accused put in a written statement that as he was a man of nearly 75 years of age, infirm and old, he had lost full vigour and was incapable of taking a part in a riot. There were witnesses who proved that the accused had given orders to beat. The Jury saw the physical condition of the accused and came to the conclusion that he was incapable of taking part in a riot and declared him not guilty. Emperor v. Kamar Ali.

6 Cr. L. J. 359 :
6 C. L. J. 253.

———Ss. 147, 149, 325—Separate sentences for rioting and hurt.

Separate sentences cannot be passed for an offence punishable under S. 147, Penal Code, and one punishable under Ss. 149 and 325 or any constructive offence with reference to S. 149 arising out of the same facts, though separate convictions can be made in respect of such offences. In re : Ponniah Lopes.

35 Cr. L. J. 1226 :
150 I. C. 977 : 1934 M. W. N. 8 :
66 M. L. J. 572 : 39 L. W. 566 :
57 Mad. 643 : 7 R. M. 61 :
A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 388.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 147, 149, 325, 352—Conviction and sentence for offences under Ss. 325 and 352—Acquittal under S. 325—Sentence, whether must be reduced—Offence under S. 147, whether necessarily embraces one under S. 352.

Where an accused person is convicted of an offence under S. 325 and also under S. 352 read with S. 149, Penal Code, but on appeal the conviction under S. 325 is set aside, the sentence must be reduced. It cannot be said that an offence under S. 147 necessarily embraces an offence under S. 352, inasmuch as persons may riot without actually committing an offence under S. 352. In re : Srinivasulu Naicken.

29 Cr. L. J. 2 :
106 I. C. 338 : 39 M. L. T. 409 :
A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 21.

———Ss. 147, 149, 326—Rioting and grievous hurt—Separate convictions and sentences, legality of.

It is illegal to pass separate sentences for the offences of rioting and grievous hurt upon persons who are not proved to have individually committed any act which amounts to voluntarily causing hurt. Sahadev Ahir v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 199 :
8 C. W. N. 344.

———Ss. 147, 149, 332—Conviction and sentences—Constable interfering with wrestling match—Assault on members of Police force—Rioting—Sentence.

(One of the constables deputed to keep order at a wrestling match interfered with the wrestling, whereupon several members of the audience set upon the members of the Police force present, hustled them and tore their uniforms: Held, (1) that the assailants of the Constable were guilty of offences under Ss. 147 and 332/149, Penal Code; (2) that in the circumstances of the case, severe sentences were not called for. Miran v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 240 :
92 I. C. 224 : 23 A. L. J. 1027 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 168.

———Ss. 147, 186—What constitutes offence—Assembly of five or more—Common object being resisting process of law.

If there is an assemblage of five or more men with the common object of resisting by force or show of force the execution of processes of law, every one of them is guilty of being a member of an unlawful assembly whether resistance is offered or not. Being member of an unlawful assembly and resisting the process of law are two separate offences though they may be committed in the course of the same transaction. Sheo Ahir v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 71 :
178 I. C. 487 : 19 P. L. T. 665 :
5 B. R. 104 : 11 R. P. 261 :
17 Pat. 680 : A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 548.

———Ss. 147, 296—Separate conviction and sentences.

Where the common object of the members of an unlawful assembly is to insult and attack Tazias and they commit a riot in prosecution of that object, they commit one offence only and not two and are not liable to be punished separately under Ss. 147 and 296. Prag v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1169 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

82 I. C. 33 : 11 O. L. J. 693 :
1 O. W. N. 473 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 65.

———Ss. 147, 304—Common object—Individual act causing death—Liability of others.

Where one member of an unlawful assembly does an act which causes the death of a person and there is not sufficient ground for holding that that act was done in pursuance of the common object, the member who alone caused the death, is guilty of an offence under S. 304, the other being guilty merely of rioting under S. 147. Ranga Koravan v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 124 :
9 I. C. 727 : 1911, 2 M. W. N. 130 :
9 M. L. T. 362.

———Ss. 147, 304, 323—Rioting.

Resistance to attachment under illegal warrant—Common object not unlawful—Offence—Intention, proof of—Grievous hurt—C. P. C. (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, r. 24—Attachment warrant not sealed, legality of—Warrant signed by Shrestadar, legality of—Burden of proof—Evidence Act (I of 1872), S. 114, Ill. (c). Khidir Bux v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 139 :
49 I. C. 171 : 3 P. L. J. 636 :
A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 404.

———Ss. 147, 304-A—Sentence—Rioting—Person armed with gun causing injury.

A person who goes into riot with a gun loaded with a ball cartridge is apt to cause serious injuries to some one person or persons and it is a practice which cannot be looked upon lightly by the Court of Justice when determining the sentence to be passed upon such person. Emperor v. Mofizel Peada.

26 Cr. L. J. 1298 :
89 I. C. 242 : 29 C. W. N. 842 :
A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 909.

———Ss. 147, 323—Sentence—Rioting, charge and conviction of—Appellate Court, power of, to set aside conviction of rioting and convict under S. 323.

Where the accused were originally charged under S. 147 and convicted and sentenced under that section, but on appeal the Appellate Court held that there was no case under S. 147, but that there was a case against them under S. 323, and accordingly set aside the conviction and sentence under S. 147, and convicted the accused under S. 323, although no charge was originally framed against them under that section: Held, that as no charge was framed against the accused of an offence under S. 323, they were not prepared for any defence against that charge; and, unless the facts of the case brought it under S. 236, Cr. P. C., they could not be lawfully convicted of any other offence under S. 237 of the Code. Genu Manjhi v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 704 :
26 I. C. 152 : 18 C. W. N. 1276 :
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 219.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 147, 323—Separate sentences for riot and hurt, legality of.

Separate sentences may be passed for riot and hurt caused during such riot. Fagiria v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 295 :
114 I. C. 331 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 251.

———Ss. 147, 323, 325—Riot and hurt—Joint trial.

Offence under S. 147, Penal Code, is substantive. Accused can be charged in addition to S. 147, under Ss. 323 and 325, Penal Code. Manni Lall v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 341 :
173 I. C. 386 : 1938 O. W. N. 218 :
1938 O. L. R. 117 : 10 R. O. 222 :
A. I. R. 1938 Oudh 95.

———Ss. 147, 323, 71—Separate—Conviction and sentences.

Accused assaulting person—All convicted under Ss. 147 and 323 and separate sentence under each section awarded—Offences under Ss. 147 and 323, held were separate and S. 71 did not apply. Parmeshwar v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 775 :
189 I. C. 648 : 1940 O. W. N. 659 :
1940 O. L. R. 491 : 13 R. O. 101 :
A. I. R. 1940 Oudh 419.

———Ss. 147, 323, 325—Lawful acts and private defence—Right of private defence—Exceeding the right—Unlawful assembly.

The fact of exceeding the right of private defence, which a man has, cannot make him a member of an unlawful assembly, and he can only be convicted and punished for the individual act which he himself has done in excess of the right of private defence. Kunja Bhuniya v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 481 :
15 I. C. 481 : 16 C. W. N. 1053 :
39 Cal. 896.

———Ss. 147, 323, 325—Separate sentences for hurt and rioting, legality.

Under S. 35, Cr. P. C., separate sentences for rioting and hurt are legal although in practice it is better to give a single sentence for all the offences or to order the sentences to run concurrently. Ali Akbar v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 575 :
116 I. C. 216 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 472 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 670.

———Ss. 147, 323, 448—Rioting—Acquittal—Conviction for criminal trespass and hurt, legality of.

Eleven persons were charged with rioting and being members of an unlawful assembly before a second class Magistrate. They were convicted of offences under S. 147, Penal Code. On appeal, the Appellate Magistrate acquitted seven of them and convicted the remaining four of offences under Ss. 448 and 323, Penal Code: Held, that the conviction was illegal and must be set aside. In re : Mongalu Aorodhono Hathi.

18 Cr. L. J. 860 :
41 I. C. 828 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 496.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 147, 324, 325, 342, 149—Separate sentences—Award of separate sentences under S. 147 and Ss. 324, 325 and 342 read with S. 149, is illegal.

The award of separate sentences under S. 147 and Ss. 324, 325 and 342 read with S. 149, Penal Code, is illegal. In re : Mekraj Ali Sahib. 41 Cr. L. J. 17 (c) :

184 I. C. 452 : 1939 M. W. N. 609 :
1939, 2 M. L. J. 36 (1) : 50 L. W. 918 :
12 R. M. 454 (1) : A. I. R. 1939 Mad 787.

—Ss. 147, 325—Conviction for riot and grievous hurt.

In pursuance of the common object of an unlawful assembly, grievous hurt is caused by some members of the party. They are guilty of an offence under S. 325 as also under S. 147. Deoji v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 830 :

95 I. C. 606 : A. I. R. 1926 Nag. 459.

—Ss. 147, 325—Conviction under both sections—Appeal—Judge disbelieving whole of evidence whether can convict under one section.

Accused were convicted by a Magistrate under Ss. 147 and 325. On appeal the Sessions Judge, disbelieving the whole of the prosecution evidence, set aside the conviction under S. 147 but confirmed the conviction under S. 325 : Held, that on the view taken by the Sessions Judge of the evidence, the conviction under S. 325 was illegal. Shcobans Singh v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 37 :

42 I. C. 997 : 15 A. L. J. 350 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 355.

—Ss. 147, 325—Riot and grievous hurt—Separate sentences, whether legal.

Separate sentences under S. 325 and S. 147 are not illegal, but the sentences imposed ought not to be heavier than are justifiable in the circumstances of the case. Ramnath Rai v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 460 :

61 I. C. 844 : 2 P. L. T. 549 :
A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 374.

—Ss. 147, 325—Rioting—Grievous hurt—Implication of innocent persons—First report to Police, whether safe guide.

The first reports made to the Police in riot cases are not safe guides to charge the persons named therein, for friends and relations of the real culprits are more often than not promiscuously implicated. An accused person who bears no injury should be convicted of having taken part in a fight only on very cogent evidence. Bagri v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 450 :

36 I. C. 130 : 107 P. L. R. 1916 :
43 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. : A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 215.

—Ss. 147, 325—Separate sentences.

Where the use of violence and the causing of hurt is the thing which turns an assembly into an unlawful assembly, and that unlawful assembly into a riot, double sentences under Ss. 147 and 325, Penal Code, should not be inflicted. Mangal Singh v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 372 :

38 I. C. 756 : 31 P. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 358.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 147, 325—Conviction and sentences—Rioting and grievous hurt—Rioting not complete without hurt—Separate sentences.

Separate sentences for the offences of rioting and grievous hurt cannot legally be imposed upon a member of an unlawful assembly where the offence of rioting is not itself complete until the grievous hurt is actually inflicted, that is to say, where the causing of the hurt is itself the form of the force or violence which constitutes the offence of rioting. Bishua v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 629 :

73 I. C. 517 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 405.

—Ss. 147, 332—Riot—Constable struck while quieting riot—Discrepant evidence.

Where a public servant is struck with a stick while trying to quiet a riot, but the evidence as to who actually struck him is discrepant, it is not necessary to frame a separate charge under S. 332, Penal Code, against any one of the rioters in particular. Suudar Singh v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 490 :

15 I. C. 92 : 14 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. :
11 P. L. R. 1912.

—Ss. 147, 332—Separate sentences—Legality—Unlawful assembly—Conviction of less than five accused.

Separate sentences under Ss. 147 and 332, Penal Code, are not illegal. Where some of the five persons charged with an offence under S. 147 are acquitted on the ground that it is not proved to the satisfaction of the Court that they were present, the rest may yet be convicted under the section. But in such a case, the Court should give a finding that the persons convicted and others who have been acquitted formed an unlawful assembly. Rahman v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 824 :

95 I. C. 600 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 521.

—Ss. 147, 341, 352, 366, 498—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 238, 297—Rioting with intent to abduct married woman for purposes of forced marriage or illicit intercourse—Conviction based on finding of simple abduction, legality of—Charge to Jury—Misdirection.

Certain persons were charged with an offence under S. 147, Penal Code, and the charge stated that they were members of an unlawful assembly, and in prosecution of the common object of the assembly, namely, to abduct a certain woman with intent that she would be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she would be compelled to marry somebody else against her will, committed rioting and thereby committed an offence under S. 147 of the Penal Code. They were also separately charged with offences under Ss. 366 and 498, Penal Code, in respect of the same occurrence. The Jury found that the accused were not guilty under S. 366 or S. 498 of the Penal Code but they found them guilty of having committed an offence punishable under S. 147 of the Penal Code : Held, that, the provisions of S. 238 of the Cr. P. C. applied to the case and it could not be said that the conviction of the accused under S. 147 of the Penal Code was illegal. Torap Ali v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1314 :

98 I. C. 386 : 53 Cal. 599 :
44 C. L. J. 239 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1059.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 147, 347—Separate conviction and sentences.

Separate convictions and sentences for offences under Ss. 147 and 347 are legal but aggregate sentences should not exceed that for the graver offence. Balisa Singh v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 81 :
140 I. C. 752 : 13 P. L. T. 588 :
I. R. 1933 Pat. 19 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 335.

—Ss. 147, 352—Arrest by Police Officer in good faith and under colour of office—Assault on Police—Offence—Persons attempting to rescue by use of criminal force—Offence.

Where the accused who were arrested by Police Officers in good faith under colour of their office assault them, there is no right of private defence against such an act of a public servant, and accused who attempted to rescue such accused by use of criminal force will unquestionably be guilty under S. 147, I. P. C. Public Prosecutor v. Amirtham Servat.

41 Cr. L. J. 250 :
186 I. C. 103 : 1939 M. W. N. 1004 :
50 L. W. 763 : 1939, 2 M. L. J. 776 :
12 R. M. 611 : A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 18.

—Ss. 147, 353—Procedure—Charge of rioting—Common object wrongly stated, effect of—Acquittal—Conviction under another section, whether sustained—Proper course.

Where in an appeal against conviction for rioting, a Sessions Judge acquits the accused finding that there has been an error or omission in the statement of the common object as set out in the charge, but convicts them of an offence under another section, which the accused were not called upon to answer, he commits a manifest error and the conviction cannot be sustained, as the accused are prejudiced thereby. In such a case, the order of acquittal made by the Sessions Judge should also be set aside and the accused should be ordered to be retried on charges properly framed. Harnarain Sardar v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 42 :
26 I. C. 634 : 18 C. W. N. 1274 :
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 181.

—Ss. 147, 353—Rioting—Separate sentence.

A separate sentence should not be passed upon people convicted of rioting for the offence which is specifically stated to have been the common object of the assembly, unless a specific charge is laid against the individual members of committing such an offence. Therefore, persons who are shown to have committed a separate offence under S. 353, should receive a separate punishment, even although the common object of the riot was to commit that offence. Prakash Chandra Kundu v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 251 :
23 I. C. 203 : 18 C. W. N. 918 : 41 Cal. 836 :
A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 675.

—Ss. 147, 353—Sentence—Separate sentences under, legality.

Separate sentences under Ss. 147 and 353

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

are not permissible where the act which converts the accused into an unlawful assembly is, the same as renders them liable for punishment under S. 353. Manak Chand v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 834 :
95 I. C. 754 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 581.

—Ss. 147, 355—Offences committed in same transaction—Separate sentences, legality of.

In order to carry out a sentence imposed by a private panchayat upon the complainant, the accused blackened the complainant's face and made him ride a donkey round the village. They were convicted of offences under Ss. 147 and 355 and separate sentences were awarded in respect of each offence: Held, that the acts committed by the accused formed part of the same transaction and that, therefore, separate convictions and separate sentences under S. 147 and S. 355 were illegal. Karam Singh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 457 :
67 I. C. 729 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 91.

—Ss. 147, 379—Sentence—No finding as to who removed property—Separate sentences, whether legal.

Where it is found that the common object of an unlawful assembly was to commit theft, but there is no finding as to which of the persons composing the unlawful assembly removed the property stolen, it is illegal to convict them both under S. 147 and under S. 379, Penal Code, and to pass separate sentences for each offence. Chandra Mohan Singh v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 480 :
56 I. C. 512 : 1 P. L. T. 623 :
A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 196.

—Ss. 147, 395—Communal riot—Common object to hurt Hindus and rob their shops and houses—Persons joining disturbance whether guilty both of rioting and dacoity.

Where it is established that the common object of certain Muhammadan rioters was both to hurt any member of the Hindu community whom they might happen to find and to rob the shops and houses of the Hindus, any person who is proved to have taken a part in the disturbance is guilty not only of the offence of rioting but also of the offence of dacoity. Daulat Nai v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 110 :
99 I. C. 238 : 3 O. W. N. 304 Sup. :
2 Luck. 264 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 70.

—Ss. 147, 395—Sentence—Proper sentence—What is.

In awarding sentence in a case of riot and dacoity committed while the accused were smarting with indignation against the outrages upon their sacred places, every allowance should be made for their feelings and a comparative leniency shown, though they must be punished adequately, it being also taken into consideration that the persons injured in the riot and robbed had no share in desecrating the holy places and were made to suffer for the sins of others.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Daulat Nai v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 110 :
 99 I. C. 238 : 3 O. W. N. 304 Sup. :
 2 Luck. 264 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 70.

———Ss. 147, 447—Rioting and trespass—Proper conviction.

Where the accused was convicted under Ss. 147 and 447, Penal Code, and the common object of the accused was to prevent complainant from entering into possession of the land: Held, that the conviction under S. 147 was right. In re: Kesireddi. 11 Cr. L. J. 727 :
 8 I. C. 880 : 9 M. L. T. 167.

———Ss. 147, 447—Rioting and trespass—Separate convictions and sentences, legality of.

Where the accused, who had entered upon the land of the complainant with the common object of cutting crops standing on it, were convicted and sentenced both for rioting under S. 147 and criminal trespass under S. 447: Held, that the common object for rioting and the intention for criminal trespass being substantially the same in this case, separate convictions under both sections were illegal. Bhup Singh v. Emperor. 1 Cr. L. J. 139 :
 8 C. W. N. 305.

———Ss. 147, 447—Rioting—Common object, not trespass—Conviction for trespass, whether legal.

Where the accused were charged only under S. 147 and the common object stated in the charge was to take forcible possession of the complainant's land and to assault him and they were convicted only under S. 447, Penal Code: Held, that the common object did not make out a case of trespass, as the criminal intention necessary to be made out in the case of a trespass was not established, and in the absence of any charge and complaint under S. 447, the conviction of the accused under S. 447 was illegal. Ariff Munshi v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 188 :
 22 I. C. 764 : 18 C. W. N. 992 :
 A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 149.

———Ss. 147, 447—Sentence—Accused entering land for cutting crops—Separate conviction and sentences under Ss. 147 and 447—Legality.

Where accused have entered upon the land with the common object of cutting crops standing on it, their conviction and passing of sentences both under Ss. 147 and 447 separately is illegal as the common object for rioting and intention for criminal trespass are substantially the same. Bhup Singh v. Emperor. 1 Cr. L. J. 139 :
 8 C. W. N. 305.

———Ss. 147, 452—Separate sentences, legality of.

The members of an unlawful assembly formed for the purpose of committing an offence under S. 452, Penal Code, can, where they commit such an offence, be separately sentenced under Ss. 147 and 452, Penal Code. Sheo Nath v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1172 :
 97 I. C. 804 : 3 O. W. N. 92 Sup.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 148.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 162, 297.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 96, 97, 99, 147.

———S. 148—Charge—Contents of.

The Magistrate should state the particular common object in a charge under S. 148, I. P. C., and make its proof a special point of determination in the case, but, where the common object is a matter of inference, which is conclusively supported by all the surrounding circumstances, the point is of no material importance. In re: Koli Moti Hari. 8 Cr. L. J. 41.

———S. 148—Common object—Riot—Unlawful assembly—Charge, omission to state common object in, effect of.

A conviction under S. 148 is not invalidated by reason of the charge containing no specific allegation of any common object, if from the evidence it can be clearly established what the common object was. If two common objects are alleged, and one is clearly proved upon the evidence, then the fact that the other common object has not been proved, will not exonerate the accused from liability. Harinder Singh v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 911 :
 42 I. C. 143 : 2 P. L. J. 541 :
 A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 453.

———S. 148—Conviction.

Only those members of unlawful assembly actually armed with deadly weapons are punishable under S. 148. Fordil v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 296 :
 153 I. C. 132 : 35 P. L. R. 518 :
 7 R. L. 391 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 632.

———S. 148—Conviction—Proof.

In order to maintain a conviction under S. 148, it must be proved that he was carrying a deadly weapon. A crowbar or spade may well be a deadly weapon if used as a weapon for offence, but if it is merely used to destroy a bridge, it cannot be described as a weapon of any sort. Mir Bayyan Khan v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 933 :
 156 I. C. 239 : 7 R. Pesh. 120 :
 A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 65 (2).

———S. 148—Conviction and sentences.

Conviction under S. 326/148—Conviction under S. 148 set aside—They can be convicted under S. 326/149. Nadumogru Ammu Shetty v. Bapa. 35 Cr. L. J. 75 :
 146 I. C. 478 : 65 M. L. J. 797 :
 1933 M. W. N. 109 :
 39 L. W. 63 : 6 R. M. 265 :
 A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 842.

———S. 148—Defence.

A plea of right to possession is no answer to a charge of rioting by making a forcible entry on land cultivated by a trespasser, who is in possession and who opposes the entry. Ali Mohammad Jumo v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 257 :
 147 I. C. 70 : 27 S. L. R. 433 :
 6 R. S. 119 : A. I. R. 1933 Sind 386.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 148—Evidence.

Where there is conflicting and perjured evidence brought before Court, one sure ground for conviction or acquittal is to proceed by marks of injury on person of the accused. Emperor v. Ram Adhin Singh.

A. I. R. 1931 All. 439.

—S. 148—Lawful acts and private defence.

Site belonging to villagers generally and set apart for public purposes—Complainant building walls on it—Removal of walls does not amount to criminal offence. In re : Gollakotta Suryanarayanamurthi.

41 Cr. L. J. 807 :
189 I. C. 827 : 1939 M. W. N. 1254 :
1940, 1 M. L. J. 571 : 13 R. M. 372 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 747.

—S. 148—Rioting—Existence of common object before fight, unnecessary.

To sustain a charge of rioting under S. 148, Penal Code, it is not necessary that all the accused should have had a common object before fighting begins. It is quite enough if some of the accused adopted the object of other accused when they joined the latter. And it is immaterial that the idea of inflicting injury was conceived suddenly after the accused went to the scene of offence. Golla Hanumappa v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 269 :
10 I. C. 372 : 10 M. L. T. 66 :
1911, 2 M. W. N. 106 : 21 M. L. J. 805.

—S. 148—Rioting.

The mere fact that the party which had no right was able to get on the land a few minutes before the rightful owners could get to the spot for protecting their crop; could not make their entry otherwise than unlawful and would not make the defenders other than persons acting in lawful exercise of their right. The taking of possession in these circumstances would not confer any legal right; it would not be possession in the eye of the law. In such a case, it is, therefore, absolutely necessary to determine to whom the crop belonged, and incidentally to determine in whose possession the land was prior to the occurrence, because that would assist the determination of the ownership of the crop. It is the duty of the Court to determine whether as a matter of fact, the land was in possession of the accused and the crop belonged to them, because if that contention were made out, there could be no conviction even for rioting. In re : Mahideen Pichai Rowther.

41 Cr. L. J. 337 :
186 I. C. 525 : 1939 M. W. N. 879 :
50 L. W. 557 : 12 R. M. 671 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 43.

—S. 148—Separate sentences.

Where the convictions are under S. 321, Penal Code, and under S. 148, only one sentence should be passed under either one or the other of the section. Kehar Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 294 :
153 I. C. 198 (1) : 35 P. L. R. 587 :
7 R. L. 396 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 614 (1).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 148—Person disarmed before formation of unlawful assembly—Conviction.

Where an accused is disarmed by a constable, before he forms a member of an unlawful assembly, he cannot properly be convicted of an offence under S. 148, Penal Code. Bansropan Singh v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 2 :
171 I. C. 894 : 18 P. L. T. 760 :
4 B. R. 85 : 10 R. P. 258 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 603.

—Ss. 148, 149—Evidence—Evidence judicially recorded—Judge's duty to believe or disbelieve witness before him—Finding, when irrelevant.

It is the Judge's duty to make up his mind while the witness is before him whether he is a witness of truth or falsehood; and it is only when the Judge sees any reason to distrust his evidence that omissions in a Police record can become of any importance. Such findings as this: "It is not clear whether the name of Mahabir appears in the Police papers or not," are wholly irrelevant. Jang Rai v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 313 :
28 I. C. 649 : 19 C. W. N. 217 :
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 702.

—Ss. 148, 149—Sentence.

Where there has been acquittal of the accused for some of the offences of which they were convicted, there must be a proportionate reduction in the sentences also. In re : Choitano Ranto.

16 Cr. L. J. 446 :
29 I. C. 78 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 788.

—Ss. 148, 149—Unlawful assembly—Deadly weapon carried by member of assembly—Liability of other members of assembly.

Where an assembly is an unlawful assembly, S. 149 makes every one of the members of the assembly guilty of any offence which is committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly. If a deadly weapon is carried by a member of such assembly without the knowledge of the other members of the assembly for his private ends, the other members of the assembly would not be guilty of an offence under S. 148 of the Code. But where the fact is not made out and it is shown that one or more of the members of the assembly carried a deadly weapon, it cannot be said that the weapon was not carried in prosecution of the common object of the assembly, and all the members of the assembly are in such a case, guilty of an offence under S. 148. In re : Mudurupayalagadu.

27 Cr. L. J. 894 :
96 I. C. 158 : 50 M. L. J. 559 :
A. I. R. 1926 Mad. 741.

—Ss. 148, 149—Unlawful assembly—Only one member possessed of gun—Conviction of others.

Where of the several persons charged with rioting armed with a deadly weapon only one is proved to have been possessed of a gun, it is illegal to convict others who had no such dangerous weapon of an offence under S. 149, Penal Code. In re : Chaitano Ranto.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 Cr. L. J. 446 :
29 I. C. 78 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 788.

————Ss. 148, 302—Rioting.

Accused, five in number, assembled at the canal water-head to divert water by force and armed themselves with deadly weapons to strike and vanquish anybody who should stand in their way and prevent them from accomplishing their purpose. The party of the deceased remonstrated with the accused, whereupon the accused assaulted them with their weapons and caused the death of the deceased : Held, (1) that the accused constituted an unlawful assembly and became guilty of rioting when they used their weapons in pursuance of their common object. Hari Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 233 :
92 I. C. 217 : 7 L. L. J. 576 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 4.

————Ss. 148, 325, 149—Conviction and sentences—Separate sentences for hurt and rioting—Member causing grievous hurt, conviction.

Infliction of separate sentences for offences under S. 148, and S. 325, I. P. C., read with S. 149, I. P. C., on all the accused who are the members of an unlawful assembly except the member who causes the grievous hurt, this specific offence being beyond the common object of the assembly, are not according to law. Baldosingh v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 360 :
186 I. C. 681 : 1940 N. L. J. 46 :
12 R. N. 254 : A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 120.

————Ss. 148, 325, 326—Rioting and causing grievous hurt—Prosecution story as to rioting disbelieved—Duty of Court.

Where the Judge of an Appellate Court finds that the case put forward by the prosecution is untrue to the extent that he is not inclined to believe the prosecution story of "rioting and loot," it behoves him to examine the residue of the evidence with care and scrutinise the same with caution for the purpose of considering the criminal responsibility of the accused for injuries alleged to have been inflicted. It is for the Judge acting as a Juror, within his discretion, to determine whether he believes the evidence of the witnesses upon whom he is asked to rely in convicting the accused, even though he may have believed that the prosecution case in substance was partly unfounded. Ramprasad Mahton v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 375 :
50 I. C. 983 : 4 P. L. J. 289 :
1919 Pat. 262 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 534.

————Ss. 148, 326—Sentence—Rioting armed with deadly weapons Grievous hurt—Separate sentences.

S. 35, Cr. P. C., empowers a Magistrate to pass separate sentences in respect of convictions under Ss. 148 and 326 subject to provisions of S. 71. Piru Rama Havaldar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 113 :
91 I. C. 689 : 49 Bom. 916 :
27 Bom. L. R. 1371 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 64.

————Ss. 148, 326—Separate punishments for rioting and grievous hurt.

There can be two separate punishments under Ss. 148 and 326, I. P. C. In re : Koli Moti Hari.

8 Cr. L. J. 41.

————S. 149.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 106, 161-A, 200, 238 (1), 297, 307.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 71, 96, 97, 99, 143, 147, 148, 149, 302, 304, 326, 395, 398.

————S. 149—Applicability—Unlawful assembly armed with spears—Death caused—Offence.

The two parts of S. 149, Penal Code, are quite distinct though the same act may, and frequently does, fall under both. The first class of acts are those committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly. The act may be that of one individual accused, but if it is committed in furtherance of the end which they all have in view, all the accused are liable for it. The second class of acts are those which the accused knew to be likely to be committed in connection with the carrying out of their common purpose. Behari v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 154 :
83 I. C. 714 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 670.

————S. 149—Application of.

The one essential point which must be established before S. 149 applies, is that the act must be an act committed in the prosecution of the common object of the unlawful assembly or must be such as the members knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object. Emperor v. Mahmud-khan.

5 Cr. L. J. 168 :
9 Bom. L. R. 153.

————S. 149—Assault—Death caused by assault—Liability of all.

In an attempt to rescue certain cattle from being driven to the pound, one of the persons of the accused party ordered the others to use their lathis and beat the other party. The lathis were at once used, with the result that one of the opponents died : Held, that the offence was committed in furtherance of the common object of the party and each one of the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 302, Penal Code. Rasul Khan v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 459 :
29 I. C. 91 : 13 A. L. J. 470 :
A. I. R. 1915 All. 281.

————S. 149—Assembly not unlawful—Offence committed by one—Liability of others.

S. 149 does not operate to make all the members of an assembly which is not unlawful, equally guilty of an offence committed by one of them. Mihan Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 Cr. L. J. 60 :
26 I. C. 652 : 26 P. R. 1914 Cr. :
24 P. L. R. 1916 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 557.

———S. 149—Charge—Conviction for different offence, legality of.

Under Ss. 236 and 237, Cr. P. C., where the series of acts committed are of such a nature that it is doubtful which of the offences the facts proved will constitute, the accused may be convicted of an offence under S. 352, Penal Code, if he is found to have committed such an offence even though he was charged with an offence under S. 149, Penal Code, provided the accused has not been misled in his defence. Mallu Gope v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 891 :
118 I. C. 323 : 10 P. L. T. 875 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 515 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 712.

———S. 149—Common object—Inference.

If a mob armed with deadly weapons goes to achieve a particular object by force or show of force, it is reasonable to infer that all the members of the assembly know that grievous hurt, if not murder, is likely to be caused in prosecution of that object. Ambika Thakur v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 191 :
185 I. C. 529 : 18 Pat. 544 :
21 P. L. T. 45 : 6 B. R. 203 :
12 R. P. 389 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 611.

———S. 149—Common object—Liability of rioters.

An assault is a crime except under certain special circumstances. But in one sense criminal force is a continuing wrong and there is a limit where the plea of justification ceases to operate and the liability to punishment revives; if one member in prosecution of the common object of an assembly exceeds that limit, every other member shares with him the guilt of his act. Lalji Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1228 :
82 I. C. 156 : 2 Pat. 595 :
6 P. L. J. 87 : A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 388.

———S. 149—"Common object," meaning of.

The expression 'offence committed in prosecution of the common object' must be confined to something immediately connected with the common object. Ahmed v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 61 :
99 I. C. 93 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 108.

———S. 149—Common object—Presumption.

If a person is found amongst rioters, presumption is, that he shares their common object and intention. If he does not share that common object and intention, onus is on him to prove his innocence. Ramhit v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 919 :
149 I. C. 210 : 4 A. W. R. 191 :
6 R. A. 872 : A. I. R. 1934 All. 776.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 149—Construction.

S. 149, Penal Code, must be construed strictly. Ahmed v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 61 :
99 I. C. 93 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 108.

———S. 149—Conviction of some only.

It is not necessary that all the members of an unlawful assembly should be found guilty of and convicted for, an offence of which the principal offender is convicted or else that all the accused must be acquitted. It is permissible to convict some of them of a minor offence which is included in the offence for which the principal is convicted. Ahmed v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 61 :
99 I. C. 93 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 108.

———S. 149—Evidence.

The opinion or the impression of a witness that it appeared to him from the conduct of a mob that they had appeared for an unlawful purpose is not admissible in evidence to prove the object of the assembly although statements as to what he actually saw and heard are admissible. Jogi Raut v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 906 :
105 I. C. 234 : 9 P. L. T. 260 :
A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 98.

———S. 149—Free fight, inference of—Aggressor not known—Effect.

The fact that equal number of injuries are sustained on either side is not sufficient to show that there was a free fight. Where there is no evidence to justify a finding as to a free fight, the Court should look for evidence to see which party was the aggressor, and in the absence of reliable evidence to arrive at a finding on this point, the accused are entitled to an acquittal. Piran Ditta v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 69 :
146 I. C. 321 : 34 P. L. R. 950 (2) :
6 R. L. 208 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 808.

———S. 149—Interpretation—"Offence", meaning of.

The word "offence" in S. 149, Penal Code, being confined to offences under the Penal Code, the conviction of an accused person under S. 128 of the Railways Act with reference to that section is illegal. In re : Vasudeva Mudali.

30 Cr. L. J. 869 :
118 I. C. 68 : 30 L. W. 108 :
57 M. L. J. 114 : 52 Mad. 882 :
1929 M. W. N. 522 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 756 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 880.

———S. 149—Interpretation—"Knew," meaning of—Unlawful assembly—Liability of rioters.

The word knew in S. 149 indicates a state of mind at the time of the commission of the offence and not knowledge acquired in the light of subsequent events. The offence, for which members of an unlawful assembly can be convicted as being in pursuance of the common object of the assembly, must so probably flow from the prosecution of the common object that each member might antecedently expect it to happen. Imperator v. Khamiso.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

13 Cr. L. J. 776 (a):

17 I. C. 408 : 6 S. L. R. 101.

—S. 149—Lawful acts and private defence—Assembly for exercising lawful right—Some members exceeding right of private defence—Absence of evidence to identify actual culprits—Conviction.

It is not unlawful for five or more persons to assemble together to exercise a lawful right and, if necessary, to resist opposition in the exercise of that right, provided they do not exceed the limits of the right of private defence of their person or property. If, however, some of them exceed that right, but there is no evidence to identify them, no member of the assembly, including the actual culprits, can be held guilty of the offence committed by the latter. Suba Ahir v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1078 :
97 I. C. 54 : A. I. R. 1927 Pat. 27.

—S. 149—Miscellaneous.

Act must be one which, upon the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, appears to have been done with a view to accomplish the common object attributed to the members of the unlawful assembly. Raghuandan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 268 :
153 I. C. 96 : 11 O. W. N. 1456 :
7 R. O. 296 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 52.

—S. 149—Murder committed by unlawful assembly, liability of all.

Several persons armed with weapons gathering with common object of assaulting a person—Death being likely result of assault, all persons are responsible and guilty by virtue of S. 149. Rahman Smail v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 712 :
182 I. C. 900 : 41 P. L. R. 443 :
12 R. L. 83 : I. L. R. 1939 Lah. 77 :
A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 245.

—S. 149—Murder—Liability.

Common object of members of an unlawful assembly—Death ensuing from use of spears—Conviction under S. 302 read with S. 149 is proper. Mehdi v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 250 :
146 I. C. 949 : 35 P. L. R. 238 :
6 R. L. 291 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 661.

—S. 149—Offence—Meaning of.

In S. 149 the word "offence" only covers offences punishable under the Penal Code. Therefore, an offence under S. 126, Railways Act, or S. 7 (c) of the Malabar Martial Law Regulation is not an "offence" within the meaning of S. 149, Penal Code. In re : Pavanur Athamu.

26 Cr. L. J. 747 :
86 I. C. 283 : 20 L. W. 914 :
A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 239.

—S. 149—"Offence," meaning of.

The definition of "offence" in S. 149 does not include offences under special acts, Aydras v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 360 :
72 I. C. 360 : 1922 M. W. N. 800 :
17 L. W. 21 : A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 187.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 149—Riot cases—Conviction of un-injured persons.

In riot cases, there is a tendency for the rival parties to implicate as many members as possible belonging to the party of their adversaries. When there has been a pitched and fierce fight, a Court should be cautious in convicting persons bearing no injuries. Ujagar Singh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 593 :
102 I. C. 769 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 740.

—S. 149—Riot—Liability of individual rioters.

The liability of individual members of an unlawful assembly under S. 149 depends on the intention or knowledge of the members. Bhagwat Singh v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 630 :
162 I. C. 563 : 17 P. L. T. 350 :
2 B. R. 471 : 8 R. E. 549 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 481.

—S. 149—Riot—Murder—Liability of rioters.

A conviction of a principal offender for murder and the other members of an unlawful assembly for grievous hurt is not illegal. Ahmed v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 61 :
99 I. C. 93 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 108.

—S. 149—Riot—Party committing first assault, whether entitled to right of private defence—Death caused by member of party—Liability of other members.

When a quarrel takes place between two parties, the party who starts the fight by striking the first blow has no right of private defence of any kind. Where as the result of the blow or blows inflicted by a member or members of such party, a member of the opposite party is killed, every member of the aggressive party is equally responsible for the death of the deceased under the provisions of S. 149, Penal Code. Gurdin v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 846 (b) :
95 I. C. 766 : 13 O. L. J. 204 :
1 Luck. 180 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 102.

—S. 149—Rioting—Conviction.

Where a number of persons take part in an assault with lathis on a particular individual, then all the persons, taking part in that assault, are equally guilty. Rahat Hussain v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 208 :
146 I. C. 896 : 6 R. A. 370 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 582.

—S. 149—Rioting—Liability of rioters.

Common object to abduct and murder—Injuries inflicted by individual acts of some rioters—Other rioters are not constructively liable for offence under S. 325. Ratan v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 498 (2) :
143 I. C. 55 : 10 O. W. N. 7 :
8 Luck. 301 : I. R. 1933 Oudh 154 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 148.

—S. 149—Rioting and murder—Joint assault—Death—No evidence to prove who dealt fatal blow—Conviction of all for murder.

If the victim of an assault by several persons

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

dies as a result thereof and it is not proved who among the assailants struck the fatal blow, all the assailants are liable to be convicted of murder and not merely of hurt. Kisan Das v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 944 :

118 I. C. 473 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 265 :
A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 325.

———S. 149—Scope.

S. 149, Penal Code, creates no substantive offence in itself. It is merely declaratory of the law and makes a person who has been a member of an unlawful assembly liable for the offences committed by any other member of it. Chhidda v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 287 :
92 I. C. 463 : 24 A. L. J. 178 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 225.

———S. 149—Scope.

S. 149, Penal Code, does not define any definite offence but merely provides that in certain circumstances person may be convicted of an offence under the Penal Code provided always that certain conditions are complied with, and an accused person can be convicted under that section of a substantive offence even though no reference is made in the charge to that section. Ramnaray Ahir v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 648 :
110 I. C. 104 : 7 Pat. 484 :
9 P. L. T. 738 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 454.

———S. 149—Scope of.

Per obiter dicta.—S. 149, Penal Code, creates no offence, but is, like S. 34, merely declaratory of a principle of the common law, and its object is to make it clear that an accused who comes within that section cannot put forward as a defence that it was not his hand which actually committed the offence. A person could not be tried and sentenced under S. 149 alone, as no punishment is provided by the section. Theethumalai Gounder v. Emperor. (F. B.)

25 Cr. L. J. 1297 :
82 I. C. 465 : 47 Mad. 746 : 47 M. L. J. 221 :
20 L. W. 261 : 35 M. L. T. 21 :
A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 1.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Act in prosecution of common object.

After people have formed themselves into an unlawful assembly, and decided upon their common object, preparation towards that common object is prosecution or following up, and if the preparation happens to be an offence, then they are all equally liable. Ramaraju Tevan v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 30 :
127 I. C. 654 : 1930 M. W. N. 377 :
I. R. 1930 Mad. 1038 : 32 L. W. 894 :
59 M. L. J. 945 : 53 Mad. 937 :
A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 857.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Individual liability.

Members of an unlawful assembly may have a common object only up to a certain point and the criminality of each varies according to the information at his command and also to the extent to which he shares the community of object. The effect of S. 149 may be different on different members of the same unlawful assembly. Adil Mohamed v. Emperor. 9 Cr. L. J. 32 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

8 C. L. J. 561.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Individual liability.

Where a number of men make an attack with lathis on certain men and one of the latter is killed, all the men making the attack are guilty under S. 149 and other sections. It is not a matter of importance whose lathi blow actually injures the deceased. Goverdhana v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 85 :
159 I. C. 409 : 1935 A. L. J. 1114 :
1935 A. W. R. 1064 : 8 R. A. 448 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 930.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Individual liability.

Where the principal offender of an unlawful assembly is convicted of one offence, the remaining members of that assembly cannot be convicted of another offence. Ram Parsad Singh v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 65 :

71 I. C. 113 : 1 Pat. 753 : 4 P. L. T. 213 :
A. I. R. 1923 Pat. 50.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Liability of all for offence committed by some.

Where the whole of a party setting out from a particular town must have known that the common intention was to commit dacoity, that the party was going heavily armed, that there was every likelihood of something occurring either on their way or at the scene of dacoity to interfere with their highly criminal plans, and that their deliberate intention was to use their arms whenever necessary, either to effect the object in view or to avoid the risk of capture at any stage in the adventure, every one of them would be liable equally with others for the murders committed for which they were prepared beforehand and which they knew to be likely to occur. Dhian Singh v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 689 :
30 I. C. 737 : 16 P. R. 1915 Cr. :
17 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 418.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Liability of rioters.

Ordinarily if accused persons go armed with spears in superior force intending to carry out by force a purpose which they know others will resist, each of the accused must be taken to have known at least that a death caused by one of the party was likely to be caused. Behari v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 154 :
83 I. C. 714 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 670.

———S. 149—Unlawful assembly—Liability of rioters.

Per Boys, J.—An individual in an unlawful assembly (a) may share a positive common purpose to kill, or (b) may be reckless, whether there is killing or not, without actually intending it, or (c) may reasonably understand that the definite intention is not to cause death. In the first two cases, S. 302 read with S. 149, Penal Code, is applicable; in the third case, if and when established, it is not. Behari v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 154 :
83 I. C. 714 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 670.

—S. 149—Unlawful assembly, what is.

The petitioners assembled in an orchard at some distance from a village with a view to protect the Hindus of that place in case they were attacked by the Muhammadans and remained there from a little after midday to 4-30 p. m. in a defensive manner without committing or attempting to commit any unlawful act, and when the Police Officers and the Deputy Magistrate arrived and assured petitioners that they would protect the Hindus of that village in case any danger arose, the petitioners at once dispersed and retired but one of them was found provoking the mob and directing them not to retire and some of them were seen dancing about and flourishing their sticks and saying something. No other specific overt act of the mob was proved though witnesses gave vague statements that it appeared from the conduct of the mob that the mob had collected for unlawful purposes : Held, that the conduct of the mob was not inconsistent with the lawful object with which they said they had assembled, viz., to protect the Hindus in case of any attack by the Muhammadans and that the members of the assembly could not be convicted under S. 149, Penal Code. Jogi Raut v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 906 :
105 I. C. 234 : 9 P. L. T. 260 :
A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 98.

—Ss. 149, 34—Interpretation.

The words 'common intention' in S. 34 and 'common object' in S. 149 are not synonymous. The object of an assembly as a whole may not be the same as the intention which several persons may have when in pursuance of that intention they perform a criminal act and it may well be that the object of the assembly was lawful whereas the intention common to those of the assembly who jointly committed a criminal act was in itself criminal and the joint criminal act must be equally imputed to all of them. Bhodu Das v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 205 :
113 I. C. 676 : 7 Pat. 758 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 68 : 11 P. L. T. 111 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 11.

—Ss. 149, 34—Miscellaneous sections, if can overlap in some cases.

It is true that S. 34 and S. 149, Penal Code, are not identical in terms but there are cases in which they do overlap. Even where S. 149 is found not to be applicable, yet if the accused are found to have the common intention of 'causing hurt to their victim, and if hurt is caused by any of them, they are all liable under S. 34 for it. Mohammad Nawaz v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 781 :
176 I. C. 678 : 40 P. L. R. 850 :
I. L. R. 1938 Lah. 603 : 11 R. L. 226 :
A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 543.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 149, 34—Unity of criminal behaviour, if essential.

Both under S. 149 and S. 34, Penal Code, a unity of criminal behaviour is essential. Gangabisan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 442 :
167 I. C. 748 : 19 N. L. J. 18 :
9 R. N. 206.

—Ss. 149, 300—Murder committed by unlawful assembly—Proof.

Before any one of the accused could, as a member of an unlawful assembly, be held guilty of a murder alleged to have been committed by any other member or members of that assembly, it is essential in the first place that the act or acts alleged to have constituted the murder should be proved to have been done with an intention such as is specified in S. 300, and that none of the exceptions contained in that section should be applicable to the case. If any member of an unlawful assembly causes death with the intention specified in S. 300, it does not necessarily follow that every member of that assembly will, under S. 149, be guilty of murder. Emperor v. Mahmadvkhan.

5 Cr. L. J. 168 :
9 Bom. L. R. 153.

—Ss. 149, 300, 302, 325—Unlawful assembly—Fatal assault by some members—Common intention—Sudden quarrel—Sentence.

The deceased, a village goldsmith, who was obstructing the view of a proprietor in the village at a wrestling match was abused by the latter and returned the abuse. On this the proprietor asked his relations to kill (mar do) "these goldsmith dogs." On this four of his relations stood up, two out of whom belaboured the goldsmith with dangs causing fatal injuries in the head, of which the goldsmith died the next morning. The other two beat a person who tried to stop the assault. The proprietor continued shouting to his relations but did not strike any blow himself : Held, (1) that when at the behest of the proprietor the four relations arose for the assault, they intended at least to inflict grievous hurt on the goldsmith, and being five in number, including the proprietor, they all were guilty under Ss. 325, 149; (2) that the two relations who struck dangs on the head of the goldsmith were in addition guilty of murder in that their attack on the goldsmith was made either with the intention of causing death or such bodily injury as they knew to be likely to cause death, but that as the elements of preparation and premeditation were absent, the ends of justice would be met by a sentence of transportation for life. Nihal Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 35 :
106 I. C. 451 : 9 L. L. J. 262 :
28 P. L. R. 674 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 516.

—Ss. 149, 302—Assault by less than five persons resulting in death—Accused, whether guilty of murder.

Where it is not proved that five persons took part in an assault resulting in death, the accused cannot be held constructively guilty of murder under S. 149, read with S. 302, Penal Code, because S. 149 only applies where there is an unlawful assembly. Maulu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 531 :
85 I. C. 371 : 6 L. L. J. 434 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 532.

—Ss. 149 and 302—Murder by one member—Liability of others.

Each member of an unlawful assembly is guilty of murder, if murder was committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly. Allah Ditta v. Emperor.

A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 441.

—Ss. 149, 302—Murder—Common object of a mob—Likelihood of murder being committed.

At the annual Sivaratri festival at Kottappa Konda, which was attended by innumerable people, a constable S and the 6th accused got drunk and grew disorderly. Both fell down unconscious. The Sub-Inspector with other constables came to the spot and arrested the 6th accused as a murderer. A crowd collected round them. On the way, constable S was struck with a stick, and he in return, killed one of the crowd with a bayonet. This inflamed the crowd which arrived at the Police Station and demanded the release of the 6th accused which was refused. The 1st accused took a prominent part in the riot from the attack on the Police Station, when he incited the crowd to throw stones and beat the police, to the burning of the tents, the final act in the riot. The constable S then got into the hands of the mob and was murdered and burnt : Held, that the 1st accused was guilty under Ss. 302 and 149 because it was a common object of the mob to take vengeance on S, who had bayoneted one of their number and the 1st accused must be taken to have known that S was likely to be murdered if the mob caught him. Gade Chennappareddi v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 645 : 8 I. C. 399 : 1 M. W. N. 522 : 8 M. L. T. 326.

—Ss. 149, 302—Murder—Expedition to abduct woman—Members of gang armed with shooting weapons—Death caused in effecting abduction—Liability of members.

When a number of persons set out to abduct a woman, and some of them are armed with shooting weapons, the inference to be drawn is that the weapons were intended to be used, if necessary, to overcome any resistance that might be offered. The members of the gang must, in such a case, be presumed to know that murder was very likely to be committed, and if in carrying out the object of the gang a person is killed, the members of the gang are guilty of murder. Mansha Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 763 :
86 I. C. 347 : 7 L. L. J. 51 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 371.

—Ss. 149, 302—Punishment.

Accused saddled with vicarious liability under S. 149—Intention to cause death not clearly established—Accused should be sentenced to transportation for life and not to death. Rahman Smail v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 712 :
182 I. C. 900 : I. L. R. 1939 Lah. 77 :
41 P. L. R. 443 : 12 R. L. 83 :
A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 245.

—Ss. 149, 302—Rioting.

Common object to beat opposite party—Some armed—One member without premeditation killing one member of opposite party—Other members are not guilty of murder. Raghunandan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 268 :
153 I. C. 96 : 7 R. O. 296 :
11 O. W. N. 1456 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 52.

—Ss. 149, 302, 304—Conviction—Unlawful assembly—Individual liability.

Members of an unlawful assembly who are not proved to have had knowledge that it was likely that the offence of murder would be committed in the prosecution of the common unlawful object, cannot be made liable for the acts of other members of the assembly who cause a fatal injury and cannot be convicted of the offence of murder on account of their constructive liability under S. 149. Umed Hussain v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 307 :
114 I. C. 449 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 65 :
A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 14.

—Ss. 149, 302, 304, Part 2, 325, 326—Unlawful assembly—Object—Death of one person by injuries caused—Murder—Death by rash act.

Certain persons who were reaping their crops were assaulted by the accused with sharp-edged weapons and heavy sticks, the object being to prevent the latter by force from carrying away the produce. As the result of the injuries inflicted on the attacked party, one of them died. It was not proved that the intention of the accused was to cause the death of any person or to inflict such bodily injuries as were likely to result in death : Held, (a) that the accused constituted an unlawful assembly, (b) that the offence of causing fatal injury was such as the members of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of their common object, (c) that each of the accused was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 304, Part 2, read with S. 149, Penal Code, (d) that none of the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 302. Wadhawa Singh v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 742 :
17 I. C. 54 : 7 P. R. 1912 Cr.
39 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. : 243 P. L. R. 1912.

—Ss. 149, 304—Unlawful assembly—Gul-pable homicide by one—Conviction of others.

B reported to the Police that she had been assaulted by F and others. The Police declined to take action and referred her to a Magistrate. The accused F and his companions went to B's house to taunt her on her failure to obtain any satisfaction from the Police. A tenant of B, who was in B's house at the time, took up a stick and came out and abused and threatened the intruders but F struck him on the head with a chhavi from which he died. F was convicted under S. 304, Penal Code, and his companions under S. 149 read with S. 304, Penal Code: Held, that F was rightly convicted but that his companions must be acquitted, because none of them took any part in the assault at B's house. Their going to B's house to jeer at her did not make them members of an unlawful assembly. Chimman Lal v. Ghulam Mohi-ud-Din. 12 Cr. L. J. 189 : 10 I. C. 646 : 59 P. L. R. 1911.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 149, 304, 325—Charge of culpable homicide of one person—Grievous hurt caused to other persons—Conviction in respect of grievous hurt, whether can be maintained.

Accused were charged with an offence under S. 324 (ii) read with S. 149, Penal Code, and the charge stated that they had in prosecution of the common object of the unlawful assembly caused grievous hurt to M and others, but the others were not named and the liability of the accused was confined to the causing of the death of M. It was held that the accused had not taken part in the assault on M: Held, that the accused could not be convicted in respect of an assault on other persons, who were mentioned generally in the charge with which they had not been specifically charged. Rohela v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 320 :
86 I. C. 468 : 6 L. L. J. 630 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 286.

———Ss. 149, 304, 325—Riot and grievous hurt—Death resulting from grievous hurt—Conviction, separate for grievous hurt and culpable homicide, legality of.

Accused assaulted the party of the complainants and caused injuries to several members of that party. Some of the injuries were grievous, and in one case, they proved fatal. All the accused were convicted of offences under Ss. 304, 149 and 325/149, Penal Code, and were awarded separate sentences in respect of each offence: Held, that a conviction under Ss. 325/149, was not legal in the face of the conviction under Ss. 304/149, as the major offence included the minor. Qadir Bakhsh v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 132 : 91 I. C. 804 : 7 L. L. J. 368 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 539.

———Ss. 149, 304-A, 325—Separate conviction and sentences—Causing death by rash or negligent act—Grievous hurt—Sentences, separate, legality of.

Accused, members of an unlawful assembly, were convicted under S. 304-A, Penal Code, for causing death by a rash and negligent act in the following circumstances: Armed with lathis they attacked the complainants; in the course of the affray, a little girl, who was near by, received a couple of blows on the head, from the effect of which she died shortly after. The accused were also convicted under Ss. 147 and 323, Penal Code, and for the two offences, were awarded separate sentences to run consecutively: Held, that the conviction under S. 301-A, could not be maintained and that the conviction should have been under S. 325 read with S. 149, Penal Code. Kure v. Emperor. 20 Cr. L. J. 517 : 51 I. C. 677 : 16 A. L. J. 615 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 379.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 149, 304-(ii)—Members of unlawful assembly assailing their victim—One of them causing death—Liability of others.

Where the members of an unlawful assembly assailed their victim, and one of them, a Sikh was wearing a kirpan, unsheathed it and caused a fatal blow: Held, that all the members of the unlawful assembly could not be constructively held liable for the causing of death simply because one of them was wearing a kirpan, a weapon which is carried by most Sikhs as an emblem of their religion and not for the purposes of offence or defence. Gian Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 448 :
122 I. C. 721 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 532.

———Ss. 149, 304 (ii), 325, 342—Attempt to carry away woman by force—Rescue—Death and grievous hurt caused by rescuers—Liability of all members.

Two years prior to the occurrence, the wife of the complainant had been abducted by one of the accused with whom she was living. On the day of the occurrence, complainant organized a raid and arrived with his party at the house of the accused who had abducted his wife and attempted to carry her off by force in the absence of her paramour. She resisted, and one of the party of the complainant struck her and proceeded to drag her away. On hearing her cries the accused came up to her rescue and proceeded to attack the party of the complainant with the result that they killed one of them and inflicted grievous hurts on another. They subsequently proceeded to put the members of the complainant's party in wrongful confinement: Held, (1) that although the accused were justified in attempting to rescue the woman from the party of the complainant, they constituted an unlawful assembly because their common object was to commit an offence, namely, to cause hurt or grievous hurt; (2) that the accused were guilty of offences under Ss. 304 (ii), 325, 342 read with S. 149, Penal Code. Rahman v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 621 :
85 I. C. 845 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 322.

———Ss. 149, 305, 323—Unlawful assembly, individual liability.

Eight persons assaulted the deceased. None of the accused carried lathis and death was caused by the breaking of a large number of ribs through pressure applied on the chest by three of the accused who sat upon the body of the deceased and pressed him down. All the eight accused were convicted under S. 304, Penal Code: Held, that the accused other than the three who actually caused the breaking of the ribs could not be convicted under S. 304 in the absence of evidence on the part of the prosecution to prove that the common object of all the accused was the breaking of the ribs or that the breaking of the ribs was such an act as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed. Jwala v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 903 :
118 I. C. 369 : I. R. 1929 All. 849 :
A. I. R. 1929 All. 575.

———Ss. 149, 306 — Abetment of sati — Belief in divine origin of fire, whether good defence.

To a prosecution for abetment of suicide by committing sati, the mere fact that the accused were expecting a miracle and that there was no evidence to show that any one in particular fired the pyre is not a good defence. Emperor v. Vidyasagar Pande.

29 Cr. L. J. 1035 :
112 I. C. 363 : 9 P. L. T. 683 :
8 Pat. 74 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 497.

———Ss. 149, 323—Rioting—Element of hurt if necessarily included in rioting.

Rioting belongs to the class of offences against the public tranquility, whereas the offence of voluntarily causing hurt falls in the category of offences affecting the human body. Force or violence is an ingredient of rioting, and causing bodily pain is the essential element of hurt. The latter cannot, therefore, be included in the former. Gangabisan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 442 :
167 I. C. 748 : 19 N. L. J. 18 :
9 R. N. 206.

———Ss. 149, 325—Charge—Charge for rioting with common object of causing hurt—Conviction for hurt, legality of—Absence of charge, effect of.

Where the accused were originally charged generally that some one or other of them caused hurt and all were guilty by reason of S. 149 from the fact that they were rioting and hurt was likely to be committed in prosecution of their common object, and the Appellate Court found that they did not riot and had no common object, but convicted them severally of hurt : Held, that the omission to frame a direct charge of hurt must have occasioned failure of justice and the conviction of the accused for hurt was bad. Vonti Kommu Rami Reddy v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1197 :
127 I. C. 298 : A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 631.

———Ss. 149, 325—Grievous hurt caused by some members of assembly—Unlawful assembly, not established.

An old man who was being attacked by the deceased with a stick cried out for help and a large number of persons went to his rescue. Some of them inflicted grievous injuries on the deceased as the result of which he died : Held, (1) that as there was no unlawful assembly, only those persons who had actually inflicted the injuries on the deceased were liable for them ; (2) that as the persons who had actually inflicted the injuries could not be ascertained, there could be no conviction in the case.

Ambika Singh v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 431 :
77 I. C. 607 : 1 Pat. 212 :
A. I. R. 1922 Pat. 498.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 149, 325—Riot and grievous hurt—Separate convictions and sentences.

In a case of rioting resulting in grievous hurt, convictions and separate sentences under S. 325 read with S. 149, Penal Code, are legal against all those accused who actually joined in the assaults, though some assaults resulted in simple hurt and others in grievous hurt. Nga San Min v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1305 :
82 I. C. 473 : 3 Bur. L. J. 49 :
A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 291.

———Ss. 149, 325—Rioting and grievous hurt—Separate convictions.

If an accused person is charged with grievous hurt under S. 325 read with S. 149, he cannot be convicted of the substantive offence under S. 325, such a course not being warranted by the provisions of Ss. 236, 237 and 238, Cr. P. C. Partap Rai v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 439 :
56 I. C. 231 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 260.

———Ss. 149, 326—Acquittal on charge under S. 326 read with S. 149—Accused separately tried under S. 326—Conviction, whether legal.

Petitioners with nine others were charged with an offence under S. 326 read with S. 149, Penal Code, and acquitted, but the petitioners on being separately charged under S. 326 were convicted and the conviction was upheld by the Sessions Judge. They applied to the High Court in revision : Held, that although in the previous case the petitioners were acquitted owing to the fact that the elements constituting a riot had not been established, nevertheless, inasmuch as they had by using cutting weapons caused grievous hurt in circumstances to which the right of private defence of property did not extend, they were rightly convicted in this case. Rillal Singh v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 813 :
74 I. C. 717 : 5 P. L. T. 198 :
A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 275.

———Ss. 149, 326—Unlawful assembly to cause injury to any Hindu—One of the members stabbing a Hindu—Some members armed with knives to the knowledge of the others—Nature of offence committed by members of the assembly.

Where the members of an unlawful assembly whose object is to cause injury to any Hindu who at the time is unfortunate enough to be singled out, single out a Hindu as the object of the attack and one of their number stabs him, a certain number of them being armed with knives to the knowledge of the others, the stabbing would be an offence committed by a member of the unlawful assembly by inflicting the injury in prosecution of the common object of the assembly, and as all the members composing the assembly must be held to have known that such an offence was likely to be committed in the prosecution of the object, they all are constructively gulty of the offence under S. 326, Penal Code.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Bashir v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 453 :

101 I. C. 485 : 4 O. W. N. 313 :
A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 609 (2).

—S. 151—Applicability.

Assembly unlawful from its inception, S. 151 does not apply. M. Mohammad Abdullah v.
Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1094 :

150 I. C. 24 : 36 P. L. R. 126 :
15 Lah. 610 : 6 R. L. 835 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 243.

—S. 151—Conviction under—Proof.

On a charge under S. 151, Penal Code, it is not sufficient to establish merely that in the opinion of the Magistrate, who ordered the particular assembly to disperse, such assembly was likely to cause a disturbance of the public peace ; it is necessary to establish by evidence to the satisfaction of the Court that the assembly was in fact likely to cause such disturbance. Girdhara Singh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 5 :
64 I. C. 373 : 4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 11 :
3 L. L. J. 529 : 21 P. L. R. 1922 :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 135.

—S. 151—What constitutes offence.

A Sub-Inspector of Police on receiving information that a certain procession of Hindus playing music was about to pass before a mosque, hurried to the scene and ordered the persons forming the procession, who were being led by the accused, to refrain from proceeding in the direction of the mosque with music playing, as there was apprehension of a serious riot if they did so. The accused refused to obey this order and advanced towards the direction of the mosque at the head of the procession playing music :
Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 151, Penal Code. Emperor v. Raghu- nath. 76 Cr. L. J. 599 :

85 I. C. 823 : 22 A. L. J. 1049 :
47 All. 205 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 165.

—S. 152.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 190-A.

—S. 153.

See also (i) Bombay District Police
Act, 1890, S. 53 (1) (a)
(b).

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 124.

—S. 153—Applicability.

S. 153 applies to such provocative words or acts as do not constitute instigation or abetment and involves some act of origination of a riot, by doing an illegal act infuriating to the feelings of those who ultimately come to riot. Emperor v. Ahmed Hasham.

34 Cr. L. J. 559 :
143 I. C. 273 : 57 Bom. 329 :
35 Bom. L. R. 240 :
I. R. 1933 Bom. 264 :
A. I. R. 1933 Bom. 162.

—S. 153—Applicability.

S. 153, Penal Code, cannot possibly apply un-

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

less there has been "doing anything which is illegal." If the act done is illegal then, if the other conditions laid down in the section are fulfilled, the case would be governed by it. Jasnami v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 866 :
163 I. C. 866 : 9 R. A. 88 :
1936 A. L. J. 579 :
1936 A. W. R. 424 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 534.

—S. 153—Illegal act—What is.

There is no village custom having the force of law which prevents people from going over village sites in palanquins or dandies. The act of taking out a bride and bridegroom in palanquins in a marriage procession through a village is not illegal.
Consequently, it cannot be said that persons who take out such a procession committed an illegal act because they acted in defiance of any such custom having the force of law. Jasnami v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 866 :
163 I. C. 866 : 9 R. A. 88 :
1936 A. L. J. 579 :
1936 A. W. R. 424 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 534.

—S. 153—"Wantonly," meaning of.

Where certain persons taking part in a religious procession gratuitously disobeyed the orders of the Police concerning the manner in which such procession was to be conducted with the result that a riot was only averted by bringing armed Police upon the scene, it was held that the persons concerned acted—Though not "malignantly"— yet "wantonly" within the meaning of S. 153, Penal Code, and were properly convicted under that section. Emperor v. Husain Bakhsh.

6 Cr. L. J. 14 :
27 A. W. N. 171 : I. L. R. 29 All. 569.

—S. 153—What constitutes offence—
Accused deliberately throwing stones at temple to cause enmity between Hindus and Mussalmans, is not guilty.

The accused's act did not fall under S. 153,
Penal Code, inasmuch as it was not an 'illegal' act within the meaning of the said section.
Gaya Prasad v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 1088 :
112 I. C. 592 : 1929 A. L. J. 175 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 745.

—S. 153 — What constitutes offence—
Muhammadian killing cow—Intention Offence.

No conviction under S. 153, Penal Code, can be had unless it is proved, inter alia, that the act of the accused was done either malignantly or wantonly. Abdullah v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 216 :
49 I. C. 776 : 17 A. L. J. 200 :
1 U. P. L. R. All. 85 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 307.

—S. 153—What constitutes offence.

The accused, a Muhammadian, killed a cow in a village sometime before sunrise. The act was observed by one or two Muhammadans, who sent a chaukidar to the Police Station to make a report. The Police took cognisance of the matter and the accused was convicted of an offence under S. 153 of the Penal Code : Held, that there being no evidence of malice or wantonness on the part of the accused, the conviction was bad in law. Abdullah v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 216 :
49 I. C. 776 : 17 A. L. J. 200 :
1 U. P. L. R. All. 85 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 307.

—S. 153-A—Attack on religious leader when offence under.

While it is not correct to say that any and every criticism of a religious leader, whether dead or alive, falls within the ambit of S. 153-A, Penal Code, there can be no doubt that the writing of a scurrilous and foul attack on such a religious leader would prima facie fall under the section and it would require a considerable amount of explanation to take it out of the substantive part of S. 153-A, Penal Code, and bring it within the four corners of the explanation. Emperor v. Devi Sharan Sharma.

28 Cr. L. J. 794 :
104 I. C. 234 : 28 P. L. R. 497 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 594.

—S. 153-A—Attack on religion—Limits of.

Preachers are at liberty to descant on the errors of other religions and to extol their own faith to the skies. But they may not consciously inflame the minds of their hearers by holding up the ministers and followers of other religions to public execration. Dharmaloka v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 248 :
10 I. C. 789 : 4 Bur. L. T. 84.

—S. 153-A—Bona fide beliefs of accused—Effect of.

A writer cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 153-A, Penal Code, where it is possible that he may have, without any malicious intention and honestly, though wrongly in the opinion of the Court, thought that he should express himself in the manner in which he did with a view to the removal of causes which, according to him, were promoting or had a tendency to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of His Majesty's subjects. Iswari Prashad Sharma v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 897 :
105 I. C. 225 : 46 C. L. J. 154 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 747.

—S. 153-A—Book dealing with capitalism and labour, if objectionable under.

Where a book contains passages in it which might be construed to create some distant feeling of disaffection against the rich and the wealthy, but it is not easy to hold that they have the direct effect of actual promotion of any ill-feeling or hatred, particularly as the theme is a contrast between capitalism and labour throughout the world, and in all the stages of history, it cannot be said that the book contains objectionable matter within the scope of S. 153-A, Penal Code, and the benefit of doubt should be given. M. L. Goutum v. Emperor. (S. B.) 37 Cr. L. J. 943 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

164 I. C. 253 : 1936 A. L. J. 786 :
9 R. A. 135 : 1936 A. W. R. 638 :
[A. I. R. 1936 All. 561.

—S. 153-A—Book within scope.

Original book, a manifesto of the Communist Party—Working classes incited to overthrow Capitalists even with use of force—Translation falls within S. 153-A, Penal Code. M. L. Goutum v. Emperor. (S. B.) 37 Cr. L. J. 943 :
164 I. C. 253 : 1936 A. L. J. 786 :
9 R. A. 135 : 1936 A. W. R. 638 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 561.

—S. 153-A—Class Capitalist, whether a class.

Capitalist is altogether too vague a phrase to denote a definite and ascertainable class so as to come within S. 153-A, Penal Code. It is very easy to use the word 'capitalist' in making speeches, but before such a speech can be made the basis of a prosecution under this section, it is necessary to attach some clear and definite meaning to the term. If in using the word 'capitalist' a person has described a class, and has referred to world-wide economic conditions, the class in question cannot possibly be a class of His Majesty's subjects, so as to bring the speech within S. 153-A. Nepal Chandra Bhattacharya v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 628 :
181 I. C. 1007 : 43 C. W. N. 300 :
69 C. L. J. 99 : 11 R. C. 885 :
I. L. R. 1939, 1 Cal. 299 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 306.

—S. 153-A—Classes—Joint stock company or its shareholders as distinct from employees, if "classes of His Majesty's subjects."

Bearing in mind the ordinary meaning of the word "class" or "classes," it is impossible to designate a joint stock company as a "class of His Majesty's subjects" or to designate the shareholders of a company, as distinct from the employees or labourers of the company, and the latter respectively, as "classes of His Majesty's subjects." Therefore, even if the speech be regarded as being calculated to create hatred or enmity against the Burma Oil Company or the Indo-Burma Petroleum Company or the shareholders of these companies, the making of the speech is not punishable under S. 153-A, Penal Code. Thakin Lay Maung v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 668 :
182 I. C. 361 : 1939 Rang. 239 :
12 R. Rang. 8 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 169.

—S. 153-A—Classes—Meaning of.

The word "classes" as used in S. 153-A, Penal Code, includes 'religious denominations' and should not be restricted in its meaning to 'races'. Raj Pal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 721 :
103 I. C. 769 : 28 P. L. R. 514 :
9 L. L. J. 379 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 590.

—S. 153-A—Classes.

Words must point to a well-defined and readily ascertainable group of people. Some element of permanence is necessary. Thirdly, group must be sufficiently numerous. Word 'capitalist' does not denote definite class. Maniben Liladhar Kara v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 231 :
141 I. C. 780 : 34 Bom. L. R. 1642 :
57 Bom. 253 : I. R. 1933 Bom. 153.
A. I. R. 1933 Bom. 65.

———S. 153-A—Criticism of error if offence under.

Article containing criticism of British Imperialism—No promotion of class hatred—Charge under S. 153-A is not sustainable. A. M. Azaman v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 305 (1) :
142 I. C. 299 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 252 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 139.

———S. 153-A—Evidence as to truth of statements by accused—Relevancy of.

Evidence given to show that the statements made by the accused are true or believed by him to be true even if insufficient to prove his innocence are relevant on the question of sentence to be passed in the event of his conviction. Emperor v. Raj Pal.

27 Cr. L. J. 556 :
93 I. C. 1052 : 27 P. L. R. 207 :
7 Lah. 15 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 195.

———S. 153-A—Evidence—Prosecution of author for promoting class enmity—Book proscribed during pendency of trial.

Where, during the pendency of a prosecution of an author of a book for an offence under S. 153-A, Penal Code, the Government proscribed the book under S. 99-A, Cr. P. C., and the accused, instead of facing out his trial, adopted the shorter course under S. 99-B, Cr. P. C., and his application to the High Court under that section to set aside the order of the Government was dismissed on the ground that the book contained matter falling within S. 153-A of the Penal Code: Held, (1) that the judgment of the High Court dismissing the application under S. 99-A was admissible in evidence in the criminal trial. Kali Charan Sharma v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 785 :
104 I. C. 225 : 25 A. L. J. 846 :
A. I. R. 1927 All. 654.

———S. 153-A—Freedom of religious discussion—Limits of.

While it must be recognised that in countries where there is religious freedom, a certain latitude must, of necessity, be conceded in respect of the free expression of religious opinions together with a certain measure of liberty to criticise the religious beliefs of others, it is contrary to all reasons to hold that liberty to criticise includes a licence to resort to vile and abusive language. Emperor v. Devi Sharan Sharma.

28 Cr. L. J. 794 :
104 I. C. 234 : 28 P. L. R. 497 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 594.

———S. 153-A—Intention—Evidence of.

Proceedings under S. 108, Cr. P. C., for speeches offending against S. 153-A—Previous speeches made by the speaker are admissible under S. 14, Evidence Act, in determining the speaker's 'intention'. Jagannath Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 713 :
189 I. C. 74 : 1940 N. L. J. 31 :
13 R. N. 39 : A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 134.

———S. 153-A—Intention—Evidence—Promoting class enmity—Article in newspaper—Malicious intention.

In a prosecution under S. 153-A, Penal Code, where the articles can bear a meaning only that they are calculated to produce hatred and enmity between two classes, the natural inference from the publication of such articles and writings is that the person who published them had the malicious intention that they should produce such hatred and enmity. Kanchanlal Chunilal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1103 :
126 I. C. 875 : 32 Bom. L. R. 585 :
A. I. R. 1930 Bom. 177.

———S. 153-A—Intention—Evidence of.

Words having intention of promoting or attempting to promote feelings of enmity or hatred—Facts and circumstances of time are admissible as evidence of intention. Chamupati v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 473 :
142 I. C. 792 : 13 Lah. 152 :
33 P. L. R. 431 : I. R. 1933 Lah. 297 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 99.

———S. 153-A—Intention—How gathered.

In estimating the intention and probable effect of a man's public utterances, it is proper to consider not only the personality of the speaker but the tone and spirit of the speeches and also the circumstances in which he spoke. Dhammaloka v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 248 :
10 I. C. 789 : 4 Bur. L. T. 84.

———S. 153-A—Intention—How gathered—Promoting class enmity—Tests—Intention to be gathered from article as a whole—Bona fide belief of accused, effect of—Benefit of doubt.

The intention of the writer of an article which is made the subject of a charge under S. 153-A, Penal Code, must be gathered from the article as a whole, and a person cannot, therefore, be convicted under S. 153-A of the Code where the article as a whole does not show any such intention as is referred to in that section even though isolated portions of the article may, taken by themselves, fall within the section. Iswari Parshad Sharma v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 897 :
105 I. C. 225 : 46 C. L. J. 154 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 747.

———S. 153-A—Intention—How gathered.

The question of intention is to be collected in most cases from the internal evidence of the words themselves but other evidence is also admissible. But the words used and their true meaning are never more than evidence of intention and it is the real intention of the accused that is the test.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

P. K. Chakravarty v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
97 I. C. 738 : 30 C. W. N. 953 :
44 C. L. J. 172 : 54 Cal. 69 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1133.

———S. 153-A—Intention—How gathered.

Whether or not the promoting of enmity is the intention, is to be collected in most cases from the internal evidence of the words themselves. But there is no warrant for the proposition that other evidence cannot be looked at. In any matter on which other evidence could assist, it may be taken. If the words used, naturally, clearly and indubitably have such a tendency, then it must be presumed that the publisher intended that which is the natural result of the words used. But the words used and their meaning are never more than evidence of intention and it is the real intention of the accused that is the test and it is not permissible to have recourse to the doctrine of constructive intention. Emperor v. Devi Sharan Sharma.

28 Cr. L. J. 794 :
104 I. C. 234 : 28 P. L. R. 497 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 594.

———S. 153-A—Intention—If material.

Intention is an element in the offence under S. 153-A, Penal Code, and unless it is established that the accused had a conscious intention of promoting, causing or exciting enmity or hatred, no conviction is possible and the evidence to prove that the statements are based on facts is relevant as showing the intention of the accused. Emperor v. Raj Pal.

27 Cr. L. J. 556 :
93 I. C. 1052 : 7 Lah. 15 : 27 P. L. R. 207 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 195.

———S. 153-A—Intention—If material.

The words used in S. 153-A connote a successful or unsuccessful attempt to promote feelings of enmity, and in order that a case may be brought under the section, it must be the purpose or part of the purpose of the accused to promote such feelings. P. K. Chakravarty v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
97 I. C. 738 : 30 C. W. N. 953 :
44 C. L. J. 172 : 54 Cal. 59 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1133.

———S. 153-A—Intention—If material.

Words sufficient to create mischief under S. 153-A—Intention of writer to promote hatred need not be established—Words are conclusive in themselves—Whenever question of intention is necessary, it should be gathered from the words used. M. L. G. Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

37 Cr. L. J. 599 :
162 I. C. 507 : 1936 A. L. J. 165 :
1936 A. W. R. 227 : 8 R. A. 873 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 314.

———S. 153-A—Intention.

Malice is not to be imputed without definite and solid reason. P. K. Chakravarty v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
97 I. C. 738 : 30 C. W. N. 953 :
44 C. L. J. 172 : 54 Cal. 59 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1133.

———S. 153-A—Intention—Proof of.

If the words used by a person accused under S. 153-A, Penal Code, naturally and indubitably have the tendency to promote ill-feeling or hatred between two classes of His Majesty's subjects, it must be presumed that the accused intended to create the natural result of the words used ; but each case must be decided on its own facts. Satya Ranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 318 :
121 I. C. 682 : 56 Cal. 1090 :
A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 309.

———S. 153-A—Miscellaneous.

What may be harmless when merely printed in an English book may be highly inflammatory when translated into an Oriental language and served out with spicy comments. Dharmaloka v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 248 :
10 I. C. 789 : 4 Bur. L. T. 84.

———S. 153-A—News likely to create bad feelings—Publication of—Liability for.

Where a newspaper gives its readers in the ordinary way a legitimate and sensible piece of news without any intention to utilise that piece of news for the purpose of promoting or furthering class hatred, the mere fact that the news is of such a character that it is possible to suppose that some people reading it may momentarily or foolishly be induced to entertain unreasonable feelings towards a class of people is not enough to bring it within the mischief of S. 153-A, Penal Code. Hemendra Prasad Ghose v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 205 :
99 I. C. 941 : 31 C. W. N. 168 :
45 C. L. J. 432 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 215.

———S. 153-A—Object.

S. 153-A, Penal Code, is intended to prevent persons from making attacks on a particular community as it exists at the present time and is not meant to stop polemics against deceased religious leaders, however scurrilous and in bad taste such attacks might be, and the fact that the followers of such a leader happen to be quick to resent an insult on their leader makes no manner of difference. Raj Pal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 721 :
103 I. C. 769 : 28 P. L. R. 514 :
9 L. L. J. 379 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 590.

———S. 153-A—Offence under.

Article printed in a periodical exclusively subscribed by Hindus under signature of correspondent which had effect of causing excitement among Muhamedans—Editor held responsible and liable under Ss. 153-A and 205-A, irrespective of fact how it came to the notice of the Muhamedans. Chida Nand v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 962 :
132 I. C. 840 : 31 P. L. R. 880 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 680 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 350.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 153-A—Offence under.

On 8th December, 1899, one Rafat Ali, a police constable, died from laceration of the brain and haemorrhage caused by a violent blow on the back of the head which was due to a fall from a horse. The issue of the "Punjabee" newspaper, dated 11th April 1906, contained two paragraphs headed, respectively :—"How Misunderstandings Occur" and "A Deliberate Murder." The first paragraph proceeds : "Has the 'Telegraph' then such a great confidence in the panacea of enquiry? And are instances of manslaughter, yea! even of deliberate murders of Indians at the hands of European Officers so rare in India that our contemporary should be ready to pin his trust to the impartiality of an enquiry? How many poor Indians have been mercilessly launched into eternity in the past, for being mistaken for bears, monkeys, or for having so called enlarged spleens?" The 2nd runs as follows :—"As to deliberate murders, unpremeditated, of course of Indians by irate, irascible officers, instances though rare, are not wanting. Only the other day, two European Officers of a district not very far from Lahore, went out shooting on horseback, with a mounted orderly. Amongst other denizens of the Forest which fell to their gun shots was a boar. As soon as the animal was despatched they asked their mounted orderly to carry the carcass secured to his saddle. The man who was a follower of the Prophet, however, refused point blank to do their bidding, or even to touch the unclean animal. He (one of the Sahibs) aimed at the poor Indian and shot him dead without compunction or remorse. Held, that both the proprietor, who is also the publisher, and the editor of the "Punjabee" consciously intended to promote enmity and hatred on the part of Indians towards Europeans by publishing the above articles and have been rightly convicted of an offence under S 153-A, Penal Code. Jaswant Rai v. Emperor. 5 Cr. L. J. 439 : 2 P. W. R. 27 Cr.

———S. 153-A.

Promoting class enmity—Malicious intention—Honesty of purpose, inference of—Newspaper Editor's duties—News likely to create bad feelings, publication of—Criminal liability. Henendra Prasad Ghose v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 205 :
99 I. C. 941 : 45 C. L. J. 432 :
31 C. W. N. 168 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 215.

———S. 153-A—Scope.

A malicious satire on the personal life of the founder of a religion, which does not attack his religion as such or tend to create enmity or hatred between the followers of that religion and others does not come within the scope of S. 153-A, Penal Code. Raj Paul v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 721 :

103 I. C. 769 : 28 P. L. R. 514 :
9 L. L. J. 379 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 590.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 153-A—Scope.

Limits of person's freedom of speech stated. Jagannath Prasad v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 713 :
189 I. C. 74 : 1940 N. L. J. 31 :
13 R. N. 39 : A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 134.

———S. 153-A—Scope.

S. 99-A, Cr. P. C., is wider than S. 153-A. M. L. C. Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

37 Cr. L. J. 599 :
162 I. C. 507 : 8 R. A. 873 :
1936 A. L. J. 165 :
1936 A. W. R. 227 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 314.

———S. 153-A—Scope.

S. 153-A, Penal Code, means that no subject of the Crown is entitled to write or say or do anything whereby the feelings of one class of His Majesty's subjects will be inflamed against another class of his subjects. Emperor v. Bal Gangadhar Tilak.

8 Cr. L. J. 281 :
10 Bom. L. R. 848.

———S. 153-A—Tendency to promote class enmity—Tests of.

Where a book ridiculing the life of the Prophet Mohammad is written in the prosecution of a propaganda started by a class of people who are not Muhammadans, from the hatred of the author, an ordinary Muhammadan would proceed to hate the class to which the author belonged and who instigated him, the author would undoubtedly be guilty of an offence under S. 153-A, Penal Code. Kali Charan Sharma v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 785 :
104 I. C. 225 : 25 A. L. J. 846 :
A. I. R. 1927 All. 654.

———S. 153-A—What constitutes offence—Libel on particular individuals or institutions, whether can come under S. 153-A.

If an article is intended to create ill-feeling between Indians and Europeans, neither the fact that the statements complained of amount to a libel upon the particular individuals concerned nor the fact that they are intended to reflect upon and do damage to any particular institution, e. g., a Railway Administration, militates against or in any way detracts from the further fact that they were calculated to promote hatred between Indians and Europeans and were published with the intention to subserve his purpose. Satya Ranjan Bakshi v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 318 :
121 I. C. 682 : 56 Cal. 1090 :
A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 309.

———S. 153-A—What constitutes offence.

Obiter dictum—To constitute an offence under S. 153-A, there must clearly be an intention to promote or attempt to promote feelings of enmity or hatred between different classes of His Majesty's subjects. Sital Prasad v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 254 : 34 I. C. 974 : 20 C. W. N. 199 : 23 C. L. J. 105 : 43 Cal. 591 : A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 921.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 153-A—What constitutes offence.

Origin of community sought to be traced—Adherence to history even if improbable, is no offence—Language used, malicious and bound to annoy members of that community—Remarks applicable to present members of community and degrading them in the eyes of the other community—Offence is committed. M. L. C. Gupta v. Emperor. (S. B.)

37 Cr. L. J. 599 : 162 I. C. 507 : 8 R. A. 873 : 1936 A. L. J. 165 : 1936 A. W. R. 227 : A. I. R. 1936 All. 314.

———S. 153-A—What constitutes offence.

The essence of an offence under S. 153-A, Penal Code, is malicious intention. Where there is no malicious intention, honesty of purpose may be inferred. Hamendra Prasad Ghose v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 205 : 99 I. C. 941 : 45 C. L. J. 432 : 31 C. W. N. 168 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 215.

———S. 153-A (Expl.)—Scope.

The explanation to S. 153-A cannot be used to enlarge the provisions of the substantive section. P. K. Chakravarty v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1154 : 97 I. C. 738 : 30 C. W. N. 953 : 44 C. L. J. 172 : 54 Cal. 59 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1133.

———Ss. 153-A, 505 (c)—Hatred and enmity—Sober comment complaining of conduct of rival community, if offence.

The act of recalling to the minds of the members of a community the painful experiences of people of their community in other places at the hands of another community would naturally have the effect of embittering their feelings against the alleged oppressors, but those who suffer have the right to complain, and if the complaint is made in a sober language and is free from exaggerations and incisive comments, it can lawfully be published for the consideration of public officers and others concerned with a view to their taking necessary action to prevent a repetition of what has previously taken place. Such conduct does not amount to an offence either under S. 153-A or under S. 505 (c) of the Penal Code. Deshbandhu Gupta v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 976 : 81 I. C. 624 : 6 L. L. J. 162 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 502.

———S. 154—Ingredients.

In order to convict an accused person of an offence under S. 154, Penal Code, the following facts must be established:—(1) that an unlawful assembly or riot has taken place on the land owned or occupied by the accused or in which he claims an interest; (2) that he, knowing that such an offence is being or has been committed or having reason to believe that it is likely to be committed, does not give the earliest notice thereof to the principal officer in the nearest Police Station; (3) in the case of his having reason to believe that it was about to be committed, he does not use all lawful means in his power to prevent it; and (4) in the event of its taking place, he does not use all lawful means in his power to disperse or suppress the riot or unlawful assembly. Raja Bhagwan Bakhsh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

3 Cr. L. J. 27 : 8 O. C. 418.

———S. 154—Ingredients — Owner of land failing to give information of riot—Ingredient of offence.

The ingredients necessary for a prosecution under S. 154, Penal Code, are the following:—(a) Unlawful assembly or riot; (b) Accused is the owner or occupier of the land or has or claims to have an interest in the land; (c) With such knowledge that the offence was being or had been committed, or having reason to believe that it was likely to be committed, the accused did not give notice to the nearest Police Station; (d) The accused having reason to believe that the offence was about to be committed, did not use all lawful means in his power to prevent the offence. Nripendra Bhusan v. Gobinda Bandhu.

25 Cr. L. J. 1258 : 82 I. C. 266 : 39 C. L. J. 236 : A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 1018.

———S. 154—Offence under—Liability of owner of land for riot got up by agent—Appointment of agent—Owner responsible for appointment of agent, is responsible for riot—More than one owner—Joint liability—Separate sentence.

The responsibility under S. 154, Penal Code, must depend upon the fact of the person who caused the riot being himself the person who has an interest in land or an agent or manager of such person, and one of the facts to be proved is whose agent or manager the person who fomented the riot is. The person who is responsible for the appointment of the agent or manager is the person liable under S. 154 if the agent or manager gets up the riot. If there are more persons than one, responsible for the appointment of the agent or manager, they must be considered to be jointly liable, although separate sentences have to be passed against each of them. Siva Sundari Chowdhurani v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 221 : 14 I. C. 317 : 16 C. W. N. 768 : 39 Cal. 834.

———Ss. 154, 155 — What constitutes offence—Riot in accused's khalyan—Dispute as to right to collect rents—Offence.

A riot took place in the accused's khalyan not, however, in respect of the khalyan, but with respect to the right to collect rents from the tenants, that is to say, the real dispute was as to who should remain in possession of the village: Held, that the accused was guilty of offences under Ss. 154 and 155 of the Penal Code. Doma Sahu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 447 :
38 I. C. 1007 : 2 P. L. J. 83 :
A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 523.

—S. 155.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 236, 239.

—S. 155—"Claims interest in land"—What is.

The mother of the two petitioners and the wife of one of them had interest in certain land. The petitioners demanded kabulyats from certain persons but there was no evidence to prove that the petitioners demanded them for themselves. They were convicted under S. 155, Penal Code : Held, that the petitioners could not be held to have claimed an interest in the land and that, therefore, they could not be convicted under S. 155, Penal Code. Pramatha Nath Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 191 (b) :
22 I. C. 767 : 17 C. W. N. 1247 :
A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 634.

—S. 155—Evidence—Record of riot case if to be excluded.

In a case under S. 155 the record of the riot case should be excluded from evidence. Pramatha Nath Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 191 (b) :
22 I. C. 767 : 17 C. W. N. 1247 :
A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 634.

—S. 155—Landholder's liability.

When there is no evidence to show that an absentee co-sharer in a zamin-dari takes an active part in the management, and a resident co-sharer has been sentenced to pay a fine under S. 155, the non-resident Zamindar ought not to be convicted under S. 155, I. P. C. Harendra Lal Roy v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 866 :
8 C. W. N. 809.

—S. 157—Harbouring persons forming unlawful assembly in past, if offence.

Accused cannot be convicted under S. 157 for harbouring persons who had formed unlawful assembly in the past. Radharaman Shah v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 62 (1) :
134 I. C. 1278 (b) : 58 Cal. 1401 :
35 C. W. N. 720 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 62 (b) :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 712.

—S. 157—Hired, etc.—Meaning of.

Volunteers engaged in preparing salt cannot be said to have been hired, engaged or employed by their leader. C. Samuel Aaron v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 664 :
131 I. C. 159 : 33 L. W. 571 :
1931 M. W. N. 326 :
I. R. 1931 Mad. 495 :
A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 440.

—S. 159—Affray—Meaning of—Mere quarrelling or abusing does not constitute affray—There must be assault or breach of peace.

There is a difference between an "affray" and an "assault"; the offence of affray, as defined in S. 159 of the Penal Code, postulates the commission of a definite assault or a breach of the peace. Mere quarrelling or abusing in a street without exchange of blows is not sufficient to attract the application of this section. Jagannath Sah v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 169 :
166 I. C. 280 (2) : 1937 O. L. R. 7 :
9 R. O. 300 : 1937 O. W. N. 37 :
A. I. R. 1937 Oudh 425.

—S. 159—"Affray", meaning of—Mere quarrelling without exchange of blows, whether affray.

The offence of affray as defined in S. 159, Penal Code, postulates the commission of a definite assault or breach of the peace. Mere quarrelling in a street over money matters without exchange of blows is not sufficient to attract the application of the section. Ganesh Das v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 571 :
116 I. C. 180 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 452 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 813.

—S. 159—Affray—What is.

Where one person attacks and the other defends, the case comes under the definition of affray in S. 159 Emperor v. Babu Ram.

32 Cr. L. J. 1269 :
134 I. C. 834 : 53 All. 229 :
1931 A. L. J. 891 : I. R. 1931 All. 850 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 8.

—S. 159—Disturbing public peace—Proof—Evidence that particular member of public was alarmed—Whether necessary for conviction for affray.

It is not necessary that any particular member of the public must give evidence to the effect that he was alarmed or frightened before a conviction can be had for an offence punishable under S. 159, Penal Code. If it is likely that such alarm would have been caused to the public or members of the public, the necessary ingredient is established. In re: Muthusamy Ayyar.

38 Cr. L. J. 588 (b) :
168 I. C. 729 : 9 R. M. 632 :
1937 M. W. N. 23 : 45 L. W. 251 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 286.

—S. 159—Gist of offence—What is.

The gist of the offence consists in the terror it causes the public. Emperor v. Babu Ram.

32 Cr. L. J. 1269 :
134 I. C. 834 : 53 All. 229 :
1931 A. L. J. 891 : I. R. 1931 All. 850 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 8.

—S. 159—Ingredients.

For a charge under S. 159, there must be two or more persons concerned. In re: Baluchami Pillai.

35 Cr. L. J. 76 :
146 I. C. 475 : 38 L. W. 760 :
65 M. L. J. 723 : 6 R. M. 266 :
1933 M. W. N. 718 :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 843.

—S. 159—Public place, what is—Open field with no compound walls, if public place.

Whether a place is public or not, does not necessarily depend on the right of the public as such to go to the place, though of course a place to which the public can go as of right must be a public place. The place where the public are actually in the habit of going must be deemed to be public for the purpose of the offence of affray. An open field with no compound walls is a public place. In re : Muthusamy Ayyar.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 588 (b) :
168 I. C. 729 : 45 L. W. 251 :
1937 M. W. N. 23 : 9 R. M. 632 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 286.

———Ss. 159, 160—Affray, what constitutes—Struggle between two parties—One side aggressive but other passive—Offence of affray, if committed.

To constitute an affray, there must be a fight; fighting connotes necessarily a contest or struggle for mastery between two or more persons against one another. A struggle or a contest necessarily implies that there are two sides, each of which is trying to obtain the mastery, so that unless there is some violence offered or threatened against one another, there could be no fight but only a mere assault or beating. It is, therefore, not a fight constituting an affray when one side is aggressive and the other is passive. Rami Reddy v. Chintha Chinna Narasi Reddy.

40 Cr. L. J. 86 :
178 I. C. 523 : 48 L. W. 378 :
1938 M. W. N. 975 : 11 R. M. 465 :
1938, 2 M. L. J. 583 (2) :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 924.

———S. 160.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 235, 236, 239, 408.

———S. 160—Charge or hurt—Conviction of offence under S. 159 without fresh charge—Legality of.

Where an accused is charged with causing grievous hurt or hurt, he cannot be convicted of the offence of affray under S. 160, without a fresh charge being framed. In re : Baluchami Pillai.

35 Cr. L. J. 76 :
146 I. C. 475 : 1933 M. W. N. 718 :
38 L. W. 760 : 65 M. L. J. 723 :
6 R. M. 266 : A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 843.

———S. 160—Conviction—Conviction without charge or trial.

A complaint of assault was preferred against two persons. The Magistrate convicted the complainant as guilty of affray: Held, on revision, that as the complainant was not called upon as an accused person to an answer to charge, or placed on his trial, his conviction was illegal. In the matter of : Doraswami Pillai.

9 Cr. L. J. 316 :
12 M. C. C. R. 63.

———S. 160—Conviction under—Propriety of—Fight between two factions—Absence of finding of common intention or of who struck whom—Conviction based on presumption, legality of.

Where two factions engage in a fight, and injuries are caused to persons on both sides, in the absence of a finding as to who actually caused the injuries and who beat whom, or of a common intention, a conviction under S. 323 of the Penal Code, based on a mere presumption that the persons convicted must have caused hurt, cannot be maintained. In such a case, a conviction under S. 160 of the Penal Code would be more appropriate. Sabir Husain v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 621 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

63 I. C. 157 : 19 A. L. J. 487 :
3 U. P. L. R. All. 101 :
A. I. R. 1921 All. 261.

———S. 160—Exchange of abuse—Offence, nature of—Criminal procedure—Technical objections by Crown.

An ordinary exchange of abuse in a public street where neither side is armed and no blows are struck, is an offence too trivial to be taken notice of. The Crown does not usually take technical objections either on the criminal or the civil side where by thus doing substantial justice may be defeated. Emperor v. Atma Singh.

27 Cr. L. J. 696 :
91 I. C. 888 : 8 L. L. J. 82 :
27 P. L. R. 176 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 412.

———S. 161.

See also (i) Accomplice.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 21,
Cl. (9), 116, 120-B, 161,
220.

———S. 161—Abetment of offence.

Offer of bribe to public servant for rendering service as such amounts to abetment of offence under S. 161. Emperor v. Allaudin Ahmed Fakharudin Ahmed.

37 Cr. L. J. 20 :
158 I. C. 992 : 8 R. S. 62 :
A. I. R. 1935 Sind 7.

———S. 161—Abetment of offence under—What constitutes.

A mere statement by a person to a Judicial Officer that the plaintiff in a certain case would be willing to pay a certain sum of money to him as bribe if he decides the case in favour of the plaintiff, does not amount to the abetment of an offence under S. 161. Emperor v. Dinkar Rao.

34 Cr. L. J. 623 :
143 I. C. 661 : 1933 A. L. J. 1481 :
I. R. 1933 All. 306 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 513.

———S. 161—Abettors and accomplices of offence under—Who are—Bribery—Evidence Act (I of 1872), S. 114 (b)—Evidence of accomplices—Admissibility—Corroboration—Bribe-giver and witnesses to payment of bribe.

The person who gives the bribe is an abettor of the offence under S. 161, I. P. C., and as such, an accomplice. But all persons coming technically within the category of accomplices cannot be treated as precisely on the same footing and no general rule on the subject can be laid down. The witnesses to the payment of a bribe are not accomplices unless they had co-operated in the payment of the bribe, or were instrumental in the negotiations for its payment. Dēonandan Pershad Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

3 Cr. L. J. 452:

10 C. W. N. 669; I. L. R. 33 Cal. 649.

———S. 161—Accomplices of offence under—Who are.

Persons who were either instrumental in negotiating the bribe or in arranging for its payment are in the position of accomplices. Mangal Sain v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 452:

147 I. C. 557; 34 P. L. R. 836:

6 R. L. 417.

———S. 161—Burden of proof.

The fact that a certain tract of country has been notorious for bribe-giving and bribe-taking, does not relieve the prosecution of the duty of producing strict and conclusive proof of the guilt of an accused person who is charged with the offence of taking a bribe. When, however, a bribe has been proved to have been given, it is not necessary to ask what, if any, effect the bribe had on the mind of the receiver; the receipt of the bribe is an offence even when the act done for the bribe given is a just and proper one. Anant Wasudeo Chandekar v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1467:

89 I. C. 1035; 8 N. L. J. 138:

A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 313.

———S. 161—Evidence.

In order to establish a charge of bribery against a public servant, or of his having committed an offence in the discharge of his duties as such, the evidence should be conclusive. Mehr Itahi v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 485:

12 I. C. 93; 26 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

———S. 161—Gist of offence under.

The gist of the offence is a public servant taking gratification other than legal remuneration in respect of an official act. Anant Wasudeo Chandekar v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1467:

89 I. C. 1035; 8 N. L. J. 138:

A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 313.

———S. 161—Ingredients—Proof.

Acceptance of money by a public servant as a motive for showing disfavour to a person, not in the exercise of, but entirely outside his official functions, does not amount to an offence under S. 161, Penal Code. In order to convict a person of that offence, it must be proved that he accepted a gratification as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any of the acts specified in S. 161, Penal Code. Upendra Nath v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 565 (a):

39 I. C. 805; 21 C. W. N. 552:

A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 850.

———S. 161—Ingredients.

It is not necessary for the commission of an offence under the section that the gratification need actually be produced or that the gratification must be accepted by the official sought to be bribed. In re: Vanu Ramachandriah.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 1005:

105 I. C. 829; 1927 M. W. N. 764:

26 L. W. 529; 53 M. L. J. 723:

39 M. L. T. 615; 51 Mad. 86:

A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 1011.

———S. 161—Ingredients.

S. 161, Penal Code, is not confined to cases in which the gratification is taken for doing an official act. It is an offence if a public servant accepts any gratification other than legal remuneration as a motive or reward for rendering or attempting to render any service to any one with any public servant as such. In re: Vanu Ramachandriah.

28 Cr. L. J. 1005:

105 I. C. 829; 1927 M. W. N. 764:

26 L. W. 529; 53 M. L. J. 723:

39 M. L. T. 615; 51 Mad. 86.

A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 1011.

———S. 161—Ingredients.

Where the accused made an offer to the complainant, the Manager of a Municipal Office, of a reward of Rs. 200 for using his influence with the Chairman and other Municipal Councillors as such to get from them a contract for a third person which contract was in their gift, and gave a personal undertaking that he will, if necessary, pay the amount when the contract is obtained: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 161, Penal Code. In re: Vanu Ramachandriah.

28 Cr. L. J. 1005:

105 I. C. 829; 1927 M. W. N. 764:

26 L. W. 529; 53 M. L. J. 723:

39 M. L. T. 615; 51 Mad. 86.

A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 1011.

———S. 161—Intention, if material.

Where there is nothing to show that the illegal gratification was received with one of the intents specified in S. 161, Penal Code, the conviction must be set aside. Ajudhia Parshad v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1367:

89 I. C. 455; 1 Lah. Cas. 227.

———S. 161—Liability of bribe-givers.

Bribe-givers are not exonerated merely because Judge takes money without any guilty intention but with the object of trapping a litigant. Emperor v. Dinkar Rao.

34 Cr. L. J. 623:

143 I. C. 661; 1933 A. L. J. 1481:

I. R. 1933 All. 306:

A. I. R. 1933 All. 513.

———S. 161—Motive or reward—Proof of—Public servant taking illegal gratification—Bribery—"In the exercise of his official function?"

S. 161, Penal Code, requires proof that an official has obtained as a motive or reward for official conduct, an illegal gratification for himself or another. That other may or may not be an official, and therefore may be wholly unconnected with the official conduct. The conduct which is contemplated as the consideration for the bribe must be that of the official obtaining it. Emperor v. Bhagwandas. 5 Cr. L. J. 309 : 9 Bom. L. R. 331 : I. L. R. 31 Bom. 335.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 161—Offence under.

A village headman, finding certain persons setting cocks to fight near a public road, threatened them with a prosecution and subsequently took money as a consideration for not prosecuting them: Held, that S. 161, Penal Code, was inapplicable and that the offence fell under S. 384 only. Emperor v. Nga Kan Tha. 14 Cr. L. J. 413 : 20 I. C. 237 : 6 Bur. L. T. 82.

-----S. 161—Offer of bribe to officer in charge of hospital to retain patient in hospital—If offence.

The petitioner went to the house of a doctor in charge of a Government Hospital and there offered him money to induce him to retain in the hospital as an in-patient a brother of the petitioner who had been injured in a fracas, with the object of making out that the injury caused was grievous hurt and not simple hurt. The officer refused the offered bribe: Held, that the facts proved clearly came within S. 161, Penal Code, as they amounted to an offer of illegal gratification to a public servant as a motive or reward for showing favour to a patient in the discharge of that public servant's official duties. As the offence was not completed by reason of the refusal of the offered bribe, the case came strictly within the Illus. (a), S. 116, Penal Code, and was covered by it. Burham Sahib v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 1088 : 126 I. C. 603 : 32 L. W. 17 : A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 671.

-----S. 161—Offer to pay illegal gratification to public servant—Attempt to bribe.

A mere offer to pay an illegal gratification to a public servant is an attempt to bribe. Rameshwar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 119 : 83 I. C. 679 : 3 Pat. 647 : A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 48.

-----S. 161—Offering bribe to public servant functus officio, if offence.

No offence under S. 161 is committed where the public servant to whom the bribe is offered is functus officio as to the matter in respect of which the bribe is offered. Rahimullah v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 626 : 154 I. C. 910 : 7 R. Pesh. 91 : A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 26.

-----S. 161—Requiring offenders to show cause against prosecution under.

As it appeared from the admission of the parties that both the parties were guilty of an offence under S. 161, in having taken bribes by looting the public dishonestly, the High Court directed that they be ordained to show cause why they should not be prosecuted for an offence under S. 161. Pearey Lal v. Mahesh Chandra.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

149 I. C. 396 : 3 A. W. R. 415 : 1934 A. L. J. 1256 : 6 R. A. 893 : A. I. R. 1934 All. 493.

-----S. 161 — Sanction of Court for prosecution — When necessary — Bribery of Panchayat—Complaint against member—Sanction of Government—Madras Village Courts Act (II of 1920).

A member of a village Panchayat, constituted under the Madras Village Courts Act, is a Judge, and the sanction of the Government is an essential precedent to the prosecution of such member of an offence under S. 161 or S. 171-E. In re Ponnusami Thevan.

23 Cr. L. J. 148 : 65 I. C. 612 : 15 L. W. 199 : 1922 M. W. N. 122 : 42 M. L. J. 139 : 30 M. L. T. 351 : A. I. R. 1922 Mad. 62.

-----S. 161—Taking bribe by public servant.

A convict warder who accepts gratification from a prisoner to carry an article outside Jail premises against the Jail rules is guilty of an offence under S. 161, Penal Code. Saifin Rasul v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1382 : 83 I. C. 342 : 26 Bom. L. R. 267 : A. I. R. 1924 Bom. 385.

-----S. 161—Taking money for no official act, if offence.

Where a village Karnam receives a bribe from a villager for recommending and getting him land on darkhast, no offence under S. 161, Penal Code, is committed, since neither recommending nor getting him darkhast is an official act of a Karnam. Pulipati Venkiah v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 396 : 84 I. C. 940 : 20 L. W. 618 : 47 M. L. J. 662 : 1924 M. W. N. 894 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 851.

-----S. 161—What constitutes offence—Bribe paid to accused meant for his officer, if offence.

R desiring to get employment in the Court of the District and Sessions Judge, was approached by a jamadar of chaprasis to the District Judge, who advised him to make a present to the Clerk of the Court. The sum of Rs. 20 was settled between them and was subsequently paid by R to the jamadar in the presence of R's cousin and D, a Pleader, who was present in the Sessions Court on his business as a Pleader. It was known that the money was to be paid to the Clerk of the Court: Held, (1) that the jamadar was guilty of an offence under S. 161, Penal Code; (2) that R and his cousin were accomplices, but as there was no proof of any animus on their part against the jamadar, the fact of their being accomplices did not lessen the value of their evidence. Ghulam Muhammad v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 536 : 39 I. C. 680 : 9 P. R. 1917 Cr. : A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 323.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 161—What constitutes offence—Bribery by public servant—“Official act,” what is—Karnam promising to get land for villager.

In a charge under S. 161, Penal Code, it must be shown that the accused took the bribe as a motive for doing an official act. There is a nice distinction between what is criminal and what is departmentally reprehensible. A public servant can only be punished under the Penal Code when his act fulfils all the conditions of an offence as therein defined. Pulipati Venkiah v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 396 :
84 I. C. 940 : 20 L. W. 618 :
47 M. L. J. 662 : 1924 M. W. N. 894 :
A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 851.

—S. 161—What constitutes offence—Demand of pusturi by a Civil Court peon, if offence.

Where a Civil Court peon demanded pusturi as a motive or reward for serving Summons without an identifier : Held, that the request for pusturi constituted an attempt to obtain an illegal gratification within the meaning of S. 161, Penal Code. Ratan Moni Dey v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 204 :
I. L. R. 32 Cal. 292 : 9 C. W. N. 547.

—S. 161—What constitutes offence—Present accepted by Judge from litigant, if offence.

Accused, who was a Subordinate Judge, went in company with a litigant in his Court to a cloth-shop and accepted a present of cloth which was to be paid for by that litigant, and it was found that the litigant consented to be responsible for the payment for the cloth to gain favour with the accused in his suit : Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 161, Penal Code, and that it was not necessary to prove that favour was actually shown to the litigant as the result of the present ; it was sufficient if the litigant was led to believe that the case would go against him if he failed to give the accused a present. Bhimrao Narsimha Hublikar v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 696 :
86 I. C. 72 : 27 Bom. L. R. 120 :
A. I. R. 1925 Bom. 261.

—S. 161—What constitutes offence.

Where a Head Constable accepted two rupees on condition that he would send for and give a thrashing to a certain person : Held, that he was not guilty of an offence under S. 161, Penal Code. Upendra Nath v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 565 (a) :
39 I. C. 805 : 21 C. W. N. 552 :
A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 850.

—Ss. 161, 116, 107—Public servant, offer of bribe to—Offence—Abetment.

By S. 107, Penal Code, a person may abet the doing of a thing not merely by instigating a person to do it but by intentionally aiding by any act the doing of it. If a public servant solicits a bribe and the person solicited complies with the demand and hands him money, he intentionally aids by his act and, therefore, abets the taking of the bribe by the public servant ; the fact that the bribe was solicited at most renders the abetment less culpable than it would otherwise be. Emperor v. Nga Hnin.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 327 :
38 I. C. 439 : 9 L. B. R. 52 :
A. I. R. 1917 L. Bur. 33.

—Ss. 161, 384—Evidence—Offences under Ss. 161, 384—Proof, nature of—Witnesses, position of—Accomplice—Evidence.

In a charge under S. 161, Penal Code, the principal witnesses for the prosecution are necessarily guilty of abetment of the offence with which the accused person is charged and their evidence must be put on the footing of the evidence of an accomplice. If, however, the prosecution witnesses seek to evade this position by representing themselves as helpless victims of extortion committed by a person in a position of authority, then what they are seeking to prove is, not an offence under S. 161, Penal Code, but an offence under S. 384, Penal Code, and it becomes material for the Court to satisfy itself that the person accused did put the complainant or complainants in fear of injury with the object of inducing them to pay him money. Tapeswari Prasad v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 317 :
38 I. C. 429 : 15 A. L. J. 127 :
A. I. R. 1917 All. 81.

—S. 162—Motive—Motive essential to constitute offence.

Where it was simply found that a certain sum was handed to the accused to be delivered by him as bribe to the Subordinate Magistrate : Held, that this was insufficient to support a conviction under S. 162 without a finding that the money was accepted or obtained by the accused as a motive or reward for tampering with the Subordinate Magistrate. Chinnaswami Iyengar v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 696 :
8 I. C. 668 : 1 M. W. N. 776.

—S. 163.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 120-B.

—S. 166—What constitutes offence—Notice represented as warrant—Offence.

Where a peon, whose duty it was to require the signatures of persons on whom notices are served, represented the notice to be a warrant and actually arrested the complainant : Held, that he had disobeyed a direction of law and that his conviction for such disobedience was right. In re : Rangasami Naidu.

11 Cr. L. J. 400 :
6 I. C. 773 : 7 M. L. T. 429.

—S. 166—What constitutes offence—Public servant—Disobedience of law.

The protection given by S. 135, C. P. C., to a witness against arrest “while returning from such Tribunal” cannot be availed of by a witness to return by any route he pleases. His return must be straight from the Court to the place whence he came in obedience to the summons. It is not open to him to dictate as to how far out of the straight route he may or may not go. Therefore if a witness while returning to his destination adopts a different route and stops in the way, his arrest is no offence under S. 166, Penal Code. Behari Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 240 : 84 I. C. 64 : 22 A. L. J. 638 : 46 All. 663 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 676.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 167—Offence of making incorrect document and forgery—Accused if can be convicted of forgery also—Forgery—Public servant framing incorrect document—Conviction under S. 167 and Ss. 467 and 471, legality of.

A public servant who frames an incorrect document with intent to cause injury, cannot be convicted both under Ss. 167 and 471, Penal Code, inasmuch as the offence under S. 167 is included in the offence of forging a document and using it as genuine under S. 467 and 471. Gulzari Lal v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 90 : 99 I. C. 122 : 3 O. W. N. 760 : 13 O. L. J. 817 : A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 615.

—S. 167—Sentence—Framing false document—Sentence.

An official, however humble, who deliberately tampers with official records and issues false copies, whatever his motives may be, deserves severe punishment, not merely for his own conduct but as a deterrent to others who may be tempted to follow his example. Sukhnandan Lal v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 31 : 99 I. C. 63 : A. I. R. 1926 All. 719.

—S. 167—What constitutes offence—Process-server employed to conduct sale in contravention of rules making false report—If offence.

Where a process-server who was conducting a sale of attached movables, made a false report relating the sale : Held, that he was guilty of an offence under S. 167, Penal Code, notwithstanding the fact that according to the Rules and Orders of the High Court, a process-server could be employed for conducting a sale only under certain conditions and all of these conditions did not exist in the case. Dalip Singh v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 656 : 124 I. C. 320 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 92.

—S. 167—What constitutes offence—Station House Officer making a false entry in his diary if guilty.

A Station House Officer, in order to support an Inspector, made a false entry in his diary that "four cartmen stated to him as they had said before the Inspector". It appeared from the evidence that he took no action on the complaint of the cartmen, and his statement that no complaint of dacoity was made to him, was falsified by his own witnesses : Held, that he was guilty of intentionally framing an incorrect public record. Pasupuleti Ramdoos v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 502 : 12 I. C. 222 : 1911, 2 M. W. N. 64.

—S. 168.

- See also* (i) Berar Municipal Law, S. 146.
(ii) Police Act, 1861, S. 10.
(iii) U. P. District Boards Act, 1922, S. 34.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 168—Offence under—Sanction under S. 197, Cr. P. C., if necessary.

No previous sanction under S. 197, Cr. P. C., is necessary. Dulloomiyan v. Tularam. 34 Cr. L. J. 70 : 140 I. C. 711 : 28 N. L. R. 156 : I. R. 1933 Nag. 10 : A. I. R. 1932 Nag. 133.

—S. 168—What constitutes offence—Member of Municipality becoming interested in contract with Municipality, commits offence under S. 168.

A member of a Municipal Committee who becomes directly or indirectly interested in a contract with the Committee in violation of S. 146, Berar Municipal Law, commits an offence under S. 168, Penal Code. Narayan v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 613 : 8 I. C. 274 : 6 N. L. R. 114.

—S. 168—What constitutes offence—Police Officer carrying on shop—If offence.

The conduct of a Police servant carrying on a shop comes within the prohibition contained in S. 10 of the Police Act and he is, therefore, liable to be convicted under S. 168, Penal Code. Emperor v. Sagar Singh. 19 Cr. L. J. 152 : 43 I. C. 440 : A. I. R. 1918 Cal. 150.

—S. 170.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 435.

—S. 170—Ingredient.

A dishonest intention is not expressly made an essential ingredient of the offence punishable under S. 170, Penal Code. Emperor v. Umakant. 6 Cr. L. J. 70 : 9 Bom. L. R. 706.

—S. 170—Ingredients.

The mere assumption of a false character without any attempt to do an official act, is not sufficient to bring the offender within the meaning of S. 170, Penal Code. Sukhdeo Pathak v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 209 (a) : 43 I. C. 785 : 4 P. L. W. 39 : 3 P. L. J. 389 : 1918 Pat. 287 : A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 653.

—S. 170—Interpretation.

The phrase "an act under colour of such office" points to acts which could not have been done without assuming official authority or responsibility, and would not connote acts of a ministerial or mechanical character, which might be done without requiring the justification of office in the person doing them. Emperor v. Umakant. 5 Cr. L. J. 211 : 9 Bom. L. R. 222.

—S. 170—What constitutes offence.

Accused avoided paying a one-anna platform charge by pretending upon entering the station platform that he was a C. I. D. Officer : Held, that this did not constitute an offence under S. 170, Penal Code. Sukhdeo Pathak v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 209 (a) : 43 I. C. 785 : 4 P. L. W. 39 : 3 P. L. J. 389 : 1918 Pat. 287 : A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 653.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 170—What constitutes offence.

Mere personation is insufficient to justify conviction under S. 170, Penal Code. The section further requires that the offender should be shown to have attempted to do or to have done in such assumed character some act under colour of such office. Emperor v. Umakant.

5 Cr. L. J. 211 :
9 Bom. L. R. 222.

———S. 170—What constitutes offence.

The accused, a C. I. D. Constable, pretended to be a Police Officer, and as such, demanded the production of the rahdari papers from people who had cattle with them: Held, that he was guilty under S. 170. Roshan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 81 :
159 I. C. 353 : 8 R. L. 379 :
A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 92.

———S. 170—What constitutes offence.

To constitute the offence provided for by S. 170, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the act done or attempted to be done should be such an act as might legally be done by the public servant personated. Emperor v. Aziz-ud-Din.

1 Cr. L. J. 913 :
24 A. W. N. 232 : I. L. R. 27 All. 294 :
1 A. L. J. 604.

———Ss. 170, 175—Offences under—Joint trial, if legal.

A trial of the two offences under Ss. 170 and 175 together is illegal and contrary to the provisions of Ss. 233 and 235, Cr. P. C. Muthusami Pillai v. The Government Tahsildar of Ramnad.

34 Cr. L. J. 1183 :
146 I. C. 195 : 6 R. M. 220 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 434 (1).

———S. 171—Offence under—Wearing garb used by public servant—When offence.

The accused was found carrying a Police jacket under his arm with intent that it should be believed that he was a Police constable: Held, that he had not committed an offence under S. 171, Penal Code. Emperor v. Nga Po Kyaw.

1 Cr. L. J. 554 :
U. B. R. 1904 1st Qr. P. C. 3.

———S. 171-B—Offence under.

Candidate for election offering money to rival candidate for withdrawing candidature—His conduct comes within the meaning of 'bribery'. Ahmed Kabir Chowdhury v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 483 :
174 I. C. 808 : 10 R. C. 725 :
A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 274.

———S. 171-C—Offence under—What is.

Preventing candidate for election from canvassing is no offence. Ram Saran Das v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 468 :
93 I. C. 692 : 7 Lah. 218 :
27 P. L. R. 190 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 297.

———S. 171-C—What constitutes offence.

Candidate remarking that gosha woman need not vote: Held, that no offence under S. 171-C was committed. Bijli Sahib v. Mahomed Asan.

146 I. C. 572 : 39 L. W. 466 :
6 R. M. 283 : A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 27.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 171-D—Abetment of offence under—Sentence.

Per Mears, C. J. and Walsh, J.—That there was a deliberate offence of abetment of false personation and that the sentence in the circumstances of the case was too lenient and ought to be enhanced into one of imprisonment. Emperor v. Badan Singh.

30 Cr. L. J. 933 :
118 I. C. 577 : I. R. 1929 All. 881 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 150.

———S. 171-D—Personation, if implies corruption.

It may well be argued that the word "personation" itself implies some corruption or fraud. Mulchand v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 306 :
166 I. C. 640 : 9 R. S. 152 :
30 S. L. R. 425 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 21.

———S. 171-D—Personation through mistake, if offence.

Where a man's name had been wrongly included in the register of two divisions and he voted twice being ignorant of the law and had acted conscientiously by mistake: Held, that there was no corrupt intention and the offence of personation could not be said to have been committed. In re : Pantam Venkayya.

31 Cr. L. J. 329 (a) :
121 I. C. 763 : 31 L. W. 71 :
58 M. L. J. 111 : 1930 M. W. N. 174 :
53 Mad. 444 : A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 246.

———S. 171-D—Two names similar—Personation, if offence—Proof.

S. 171-D, Penal Code, is wide enough in its terms to cover the case of a man who knowing that he has no vote and knowing that another person bearing the same name as himself has a vote, applies for a voting paper in the name of that person, though that name be the same name as his own. But before he can be convicted under such circumstances, the prosecution must prove, as in all other cases in which the burden lies upon them, the facts which bring the accused within the particular provisions of the section. Mulchand v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 306 :
166 I. C. 640 : 9 R. S. 152 :
30 S. L. R. 425 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 21.

———S. 171-D—What constitutes offence—Accused asking for ballot paper—Accused's father's name different from that recorded in register—Accused, whether guilty of personation.

In the electoral roll of a certain Municipality, one M D, son of F M was recorded as a person entitled to vote. The accused M D whose father's name was admittedly A, asked for a ballot paper in the name of M D, son of F M and when questioned, he asserted more than once that his father's name was F M. There was no evidence on the record that the officer who prepared the electoral roll intended to put the accused on the register and that M D, son of F M had no existence at all:

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Held, that the accused was guilty of the offence of personation. Muhammad Din v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 853 :
117 I. C. 883 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 707 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 52.

———S. 171-D—What constitutes offence.

To constitute the offence of personation at an election as defined in S. 171-D, Penal Code, mens rea is an essential ingredient. Unless there be corruption and a bad mind and intention in personating, no offence is committed. In re : Pantam Vankayya.

31 Cr. L. J. 329 (a) :
121 I. C. 763 : 31 L. W. 71 :
58 M. L. J. 111 : 53 Mad. 444 :
1930 M. W. N. 174 :
A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 246.

———S. 171-F—Abetment of offence under S. 171-D—What constitutes.

Where a candidate at an election who is not aware of the fact that a person who professes to be a particular voter is not that voter and that he is falsely personating such voter, attests his voting slip but does not profess to do so on his personal knowledge and the polling officer is aware that the candidate is not attesting on personal knowledge, the candidate cannot be held guilty under S. 171-F, Penal Code, of intentionally aiding the commission of an offence as defined under S. 171-D of the Code. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 705 :
94 I. C. 897 : 24 A. L. J. 180 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 231.

———S. 171-F—Attempts to obtain voting paper, what is.

It is the application for a voting paper by a wrong person that has been made punishable under S. 171-F, Penal Code. An application for a "signature slip" which would entitle the voter to obtain a voting paper, would not amount to an attempt to obtain a voting paper within the meaning of S. 171-F. Malkhan Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 359 (b) :
84 I. C. 711 : 22 A. L. J. 1102 :
A. I. R. 1925 All. 226.

———S. 171-F—Interpretation.

The expression "abets the voting by any person in any such way" in S. 171-F, Penal Code, means abetment of voting at an election in the name of another person living at that date, or in a fictitious name, or a second time. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 705 :
94 I. C. 897 : 24 A. L. J. 180 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 231.

———S. 171-F—Quantum of punishment.

The fact that the accused is a man of some education, position and a member of the Legislative Council, cannot be urged in his favour as an argument for the infliction of a fine only. These considerations cut the other way. Emperor v. Badan Singh.

30 Cr. L. J. 933 :
118 I. C. 577 : I. R. 1929 All. 881 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 150.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 171-F—Sanction to prosecute—Necessity of.

In the absence of a sanction by the Local Government, a Court is not competent to try an accused person for an offence under S. 171-F, Penal Code. Where, therefore, an accused person who is charged with an offence under S. 171-F is acquitted on the ground of want of sanction, such an acquittal does not bar a subsequent trial for the same offence after the necessary sanction is obtained. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 705 :
94 I. C. 897 : 24 A. L. J. 180 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 231.

———S. 171-F—Sentence.

Per Mears, C. J. agreeing with Walsh, J.—An offence of personation at elections is a most serious one and deserves a severe sentence. Emperor v. Badan Singh.

30 Cr. L. J. 933 :
118 I. C. 577 : I. R. 1929 All. 881 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 150.

———Ss. 171-F, 465—Offences under—Conviction of which.

Under certain circumstances, an offence under S. 171-F, Penal Code, may also fall under S. 465, but where this is so, the offence should be treated as one under the former section and not as one under the latter section. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 362 :
84 I. C. 714 : 22 A. L. J. 1106 :
47 All. 268 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 230.

———S. 171-G—Prosecution, if obligatory.

The prosecution under S. 171-G is not obligatory when the offence committed is also one under S. 500. Bhagolelal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 734 :
189 I. C. 382 : 13 R. N. 47 :
1940 N. L. J. 309 :
A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 249.

———S. 171-G—Sanction for prosecution—Necessity of.

Defamatory statements about persons not candidates at election—Sanction is not necessary. Narayanswamy Naicker v. D. Devaraja Mudaliar.

37 Cr. L. J. 629 :
162 I. C. 494 : 8 R. M. 998 :
1935 M. W. N. 1164 :
A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 316.

———S. 171-G—Sanction to prosecute—Necessity of.

Accused publishing document during election—Document giving out some statements of fact against candidate—Bulk taken up with general imputation of misconduct—Sanction of Government for prosecution held not needed. In re : A. S. Radhakrishna Ayyar.

33 Cr. L. J. 665 :
138 I. C. 604 : 35 L. W. 753 :
1932 M. W. N. 1086 :
63 M. L. J. 380 : 55 Mad. 791 :
I. R. 1932 Mad. 598 :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 511.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 171-G—Scope.

It cannot be said that S. 171-G is a species of the more general offence of defamation or is carved out of S. 499. Bhagolal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 734 :
189 I. C. 382 : 13 R. N. 47 :
1940 N. L. J. 309 :
A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 249.

———S. 171-G—Statements of fact—What are.

General charges of misconduct are not statements of fact within S. 171-G : Held, statement was only general imputation of misconduct. Narayanswamy Naiker v. D. Devanaja Mudaliar.

37 Cr. L. J. 629 :
162 I. C. 494 : 8 R. M. 998 :
1935 M. W. N. 1164 :
A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 316.

———S. 171-G—What constitutes offence—Essentials.

In order to constitute an offence under S. 171 (g) something must be stated as a fact and not as a general imputation or as a matter of opinion. In re : A. S. Radhakrishna Ayyar.

33 Cr. L. J. 665 :
138 I. C. 604 : 35 L. W. 753 :
1932 M. W. N. 1086 :
63 M. L. J. 380 : 55 Mad. 791 :
I. R. 1932 Mad. 598 :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 511.

———S. 171-G—What constitutes offence—Publication by one of the candidates to election that other one is a leper, knowing it to be false, whether offence under S. 171 (g).

Publication by one of the candidates to an election against the other candidate that he is a leper, knowing it to be untrue, with the mala fide intention of injuring his reputation and humiliating him before the public, does not constitute an offence under S. 171 (g), I. P. C. Mohammad Kadir Sheriff v. Rahimatulla Sahib.

41 Cr. L. J. 577 :
188 I. C. 327 : 13 R. M. 79 :
1939 M. W. N. 610 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 230.

———S. 172.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 406.

———S. 172—Avoiding summons, etc., defective in substance or form, if offence.

When the order of the District Magistrate is not one which can be considered to be, in substance or form, an order under S. 552, Cr. P. C., and he does not in that connection issue any summons, notice or order for service on the applicant and no attempt is or could be made to serve on him such summons, notice or order, S. 172, Penal Code, cannot apply. Abdul Jalil Khan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 713 :
162 I. C. 755 : 1936 A. L. J. 373 :
1936 A. W. R. 210 : 8 R. A. 903 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 354.

———S. 172—Scope—Absconding from warrant for arrest, whether falls within S. 172.

A warrant addressed to a Police Officer to apprehend an offender and to bring him before the Magistrate is not a summons, notice or order within the meaning of S. 172 of the Penal Code, and the offence of absconding by an offender against whom a warrant has been issued is not punishable under that section. Sheo Jangal Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 203 :
113 I. C. 740 : 26 A. L. J. 443 :
50 All. 666 : I. R. 1929 All. 164 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 232.

———S. 172—Scope—Running away to avoid arrest under a warrant is no offence.

S. 172, Penal Code, has no application in the case of a warrant which is not a 'summons, notice or order' and a conviction under that section for absconding in order to avoid being served with a warrant is bad in law. Majhi Mamud v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 117 :
2 C. L. J. 625.

———S. 172—What constitutes offence—Property placed in custody of accused, non-production of, on demand.

Certain movable property was attached in execution of a decree. The officer of the Court who made the attachment placed the property in charge of the accused. When the time for auction-sale of the property arrived, notice was issued to the accused to produce the property. They evaded service of the notice on several occasions and the property was not produced : Held, that the accused were guilty of contempt of Court under S. 172, Penal Code. Harnam Singh v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 975 (a) :
47 I. C. 875 : 16 A. L. J. 600 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 406.

———S. 172—What constitutes offence—Refusal to accept summons, if offence.

The mere refusal to accept a summons does not amount to an offence under S. 172, Penal Code. Banwari v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 142 :
91 I. C. 814 : 24 A. L. J. 216.

———S. 173.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 69 (1), 144.

(ii) Police Regulation Act, 1860, S. 17.

(iii) U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, S. 147.

———S. 173—Citation to appear and pay revenue—Declining to receive and sign and return duplicate, if offence.

A citation was issued against A, under S. 147 of the Land Revenue Act. A declined to accept the citation and refused to sign its duplicate : Held, that this was no offence under S. 173, Penal Code. Refusal to sign and return the duplicate is not an act which prevents the service of the citation within the meaning of S. 173. Emperor v. Ahmad Husain Khan.

10 Cr. L. J. 435 :
3 I. C. 965 : 6 A. L. J. 777.

———S. 173—Offence under—Proof—Refusal to accept summons, whether offence.

In order to obtain a conviction under S. 173'

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Penal Code, it is necessary to prove that the accused prevented the process-server from tendering the summons. Mere refusal to accept a summons when tendered does not amount to intentionally preventing service of summons, since under both the Civil and Criminal Codes of Procedure service can be effected by tender. Zapanlis v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 688 :
57 I. C. 928 : 3 U. B. R. 1920, 202 :
A. I. R. 1920 U. Bur. 18.

—S. 173—"Preventing personal service", meaning of.

A man who gets away from the serving officer with the obvious intention of not allowing him to hold any communication with him at all and shuts himself in his house, is intentionally preventing service either by tender or by delivery, and is guilty of an offence under S. 173, Penal Code. Budhua v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 263 :
107 I. C. 663 : 26 A. L. J. 107 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 118.

—S. 173—Refusal to accept summons, if offence.

A Police constable took a summons to the accused for the purpose of serving it on him. Accused refused to take the summons and sign an acknowledgment : Held, that the act of the accused did not amount to an offence under S. 173, Penal Code, inasmuch as the summons had been sufficiently served within the meaning of S. 60, Cr. P. C., and the conduct of the accused did not amount to prevention of service of summons. Debigir Tapdhari v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 909 :
86 I. C. 973 : 23 A. L. J. 148 :
A. I. R. 1925 All. 322.

—S. 173—Refusal to receive summons—Offence.

A refusal to receive a summons is not an offence under S. 173 of the Penal Code. What seems to be required under the section is some act of opposition offered to the officer serving the process. Thudamarawara v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 737 :
74 I. C. 65 : 1 Rang. 49 :
2 Bur. L. J. 22 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 146.

—S. 173—What constitutes offence—Notice to attend inquiry, refusal to accept, if offence.

Refusal to accept a notice issued by a Police Officer under S. 160, Cr. P. C., requiring attendance at an inquiry does not amount to an offence under S. 173, Penal Code. Bahadur v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 284 :
92 I. C. 460 : 24 A. L. J. 215 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 304.

—S. 173—What constitutes offence—Refusal to receive summons, whether offence.

Under the Cr. P. C. the mere tender of a summons is sufficient to effect service. A refusal to receive the summons does not, therefore, expose a person to the penalty provided by S. 173, Penal Code. Sahdeo Rai v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 746 :
46 I. C. 522 : 16 A. L. J. 453 :
40 All. 577 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 409.

—S. 173—What constitutes offence—Refusal to take subpoena, whether offence.

A mere refusal to accept a subpoena issued under S. 160, Cr. P. C., does not constitute an offence under S. 173, Penal Code. Chandika Prasad v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 801 (a) :
46 I. C. 817 : 21 O. C. 150 :
A. I. R. 1918 Oudh 412.

—S. 174.

See also (i) Contempt.

(ii) Contempt of Court.

(iii) Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, S. 30.

(iv) Madras Revenue Summons Act, 1809, S. 1.

(v) U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, Ss. 114, 147, 193.

—S. 174—Citation to appear issued under S. 147, U. P. Revenue Act, whether summons, notice or order.

Per Sen, J.—Where a citation has been issued to a person who is in arrear of Government revenue under S. 147, U. P. Land Revenue Act, the said citation is a summons within the meaning of S. 174, Penal Code. Emperor v. Himanchal Singh. (F.B.) 31 Cr. L. J. 546 :

123 I. C. 673 : 1930 A. L. J. 354 :
14 R. D. 566 : 52 All. 568 :
A. I. R. 1930 All. 265.

—S. 174—Complaint of offence under, if can be made under S. 476, Cr. P. C.

An order of a District Magistrate making a complaint for an offence under S. 174 of the Penal Code, is not appealable under S. 476-B, Cr. P. C. inasmuch as the offence under S. 174 of the Penal Code is not one of the offences for which a Court can make a complaint under S. 476 of the Cr. P. C. P. J. Money v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 912 :
111 I. C. 672 : 6 Rang. 529 :
A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 296.

—S. 174—Non-appearance by Advocate—Engagement in another Court if sufficient excuse for non-attendance.

Accused, an Advocate, was summoned to appear before a Magistrate to answer a charge under the Motor Vehicles Act. The summons was served on him the evening before he was required to appear. The next morning he was engaged in arguing a case in the High Court and sent another Advocate to the Magistrate's Court to explain his absence and ask for an adjournment. An adjournment was granted and he appeared before the Magistrate on the adjourned date : Held, that there was no intention to disobey the summons issued for the previous date of hearing and the accused could not, therefore, be convicted of an offence under S. 174, Penal Code. J. R. Das v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 229 :
76 I. C. 693 : 2 Bur. L. J. 146 :
1 Rang. 549 : A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 35.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 174—Non-attendance under illegal summons, if offence.

Under Rule 44 of the rules framed by the Local Government in regard to the sale of of ancestral land, a Collector is empowered to delegate his powers only to an Assistant Collector of the 1st class. He cannot delegate his authority to an Assistant Collector of the 2nd class, and therefore, the latter is not legally competent to issue summons, the disobedience of which would be no offence under S. 174, Penal Code. Shiam Lal v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 595 :
25 I. C. 347 : 12 A. L. J. 680 :
A. I. R. 1914 All. 519.

—S. 174—Offence under—Citation to defaulter, whether summons—Non-appearance, whether an offence.

The issue of a citation to an alleged defaulter under S. 147 of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, does not involve him in any legal liability to attend, and no offence under S. 174, Penal Code, is therefore, committed by non-appearance. Banwari Lal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 153 :
99 I. C. 409 : 25 A. L. J. 38 :
49 All. 215 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 49.

—S. 174—Offence under—Complainant ordered to attend Court—Failure to attend—Case not taken up, if offence.

The complainant was ordered to attend Court on the date fixed for hearing of the case. He failed to attend but the Magistrate did not take up the case owing to other demands on his time : Held, that the complainant could not, under the circumstances, be convicted of an offence under S. 174, Penal Code. Emperor v. Lalu.

10 Cr. L. J. 576 :
4 I. C. 410 : 3 S. L. R. 155.

—S. 174—Offence under—Disobedience of summons—Illegal summons—Conviction, legality of—U. P. Land Revenue Act (III of 1901), Ss. 114, 193.

Where a Collector proceeded to decide the question of the confirmation of a partition proceeding submitted to him by an Assistant Collector under S. 114, Land Revenue Act, before the expiry of the term of appeal and issued summons to a person for attendance which was disobeyed : Held, that, inasmuch as the Collector was not legally competent to issue the summons under S. 193, Land Revenue Act before the expiry of the term of appeal, the person could not be convicted under S. 174, Penal Code. Waris Ali v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 471 :
36 I. C. 151 : 14 A. L. J. 1069 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 96.

—S. 174—Offence under—Failing to appear and explain refusal to serve as coolies under illegal summons, if offence.

Certain persons in the district of Kumaun were summoned to appear before a Tahsildar to explain why they had refused to serve as coolies. Upon their failing to appear, they were prosecuted and convicted under S. 174, Penal Code : Held, the conviction was bad as they were not legally bound to appear before the Tahsildar who had no authority to issue the summonses. Gopia v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 497 :
24 A. W. N. 122.

—S. 174—Offence under—Legality of—Summons—If material.

In order to sustain a conviction under S. 174, Penal Code, it must be shown that the summons issued was issued by a public servant legally competent as such public servant to issue the same and the accused intentionally omitted to attend in pursuance of the summons. Shiam Lal v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 595 :
25 I. C. 347 : 12 A. L. J. 680 :
A. I. R. 1914 All. 519.

—S. 174—Omission to appear under, summons under U. P. Revenue Act, S. 147, if offence.

Per Boys and Young, JJ.—(Sen, J., dissenting).—A citation to appear issued under S. 147, U. P. Land Revenue Act III of 1901, is not a summons, notice or order which the recipient is legally bound to obey within the meaning of S. 174, Penal Code. Emperor v. Himanchal Singh. (F. B.)

31 Cr. L. J. 546 :
123 I. C. 673 : 1930 A. L. J. 354 :
14 R. D. 566 : 52 All. 568 :
A. I. R. 1930 All. 265.

—S. 174—Procedure.

A Magistrate in whose Court the accused has failed to appear cannot try it. The prohibition is absolute and the consent or otherwise of the accused is immaterial. Muhammad Din v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 407 (2) :
153 I. C. 514 (1) : 35 P. L. R. 454 :
7 R. L. 442 (1) : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 545 (1).

—S. 174—Procedure—Witness not attending in obedience to summons—Court to give opportunity of explaining his absence.

Before convicting a witness under S. 174, Penal Code, the Court is bound to decide whether there was an intentional disobedience to the summons after giving him an opportunity of explaining his absence. Ramun v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 226 :
2 P. W. R. Cr. 85.

—S. 174—Sanction to prosecute by Court whose order is disobeyed—Necessity of.

S. 174, Penal Code, is one of the sections referred to in S. 195, Cr. P. C., and having regard to the provisions of S. 487 of the Code, therefore, an offence under S. 174 cannot be tried by the officer whose order is disobeyed. Accused failed to appear in obedience to a lawful summons issued by a Magistrate, whereupon the Magistrate tried and convicted him under S. 174 of the Penal Code : Held, that the proceeding was illegal and must be set aside. Deo Saran Tewari v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 688 :
46 I. C. 48 : 16 A. L. J. 432 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 320.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Failure to attend in obedience to illegal order of, whether offence.

Petitioner, who was the agent of bungalows in a Cantonment was, by a verbal order, required by the Cantonment Magistrate to attend his office in connection with the acquisition of bungalows for military purposes. Petitioner failed to obey this order and was convicted under S. 174, Penal Code; Held, that there was nothing to show that the order was one which the Magistrate issued in his capacity as a Magistrate, or which he was legally empowered to issue or which the petitioner was legally bound to obey, and that, therefore, the petitioner could not be convicted of an offence under S. 174, Penal Code. Ram Chand v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 230 : 66 I. C. 70.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Failure of person called 'Munsif' in the Mianwali District to attend in obedience to an illegal order from a Tahsildar—If offence.

The Tahsildar is not legally competent to issue summons for the attendance in Courts of the persons who prepare and attest a list of cattle in the Mianwali District in order to make the Revenue authorities able to distribute the revenue over waste lands, and these persons called 'Munsifs' cannot be convicted for their non-attendance under S. 174, Penal Code. Khola Ram v. Emperor. 6 Cr. L. J. 107 : 4 P. R. Cr. 1907 : 8 P. L. R. 220 : 2 P. W. R. 81.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Intentional disobedience of citation issued under Revenue Act, if offence.

A citation, issued under S. 174, U. P. Land Revenue Act, is an order to the defaulter to appear at the time and place named therein within the meaning of S. 174, Penal Code, and intentional disobedience of it is an offence under that section. Ram Bali Singh v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 250 : 5 I. C. 805 : 13 O. C. 55.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Madras Revenue Summons Act (Mad. Act III of 1869), S. 1—Disobedience to summons issued by Tahsildar—Revenue enquiry held by Revenue Inspector under Tahsildar's order—Offence.

Accused, a Karnam, was summoned by the Tahsildar under S. 1 of Madras Act III of 1869 to appear before him on a certain day for enquiring into the correctness of the sub-divisions of fields. Accused failed to appear and was convicted under S. 174, Penal Code; Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 174, Penal Code, and that his conviction was right. In re ; Venkatrao. 11 Cr. L. J. 566 : 8 I. C. 133 : 8 M. L. T. 373.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Non-attendance, due to illness, if offence.

If a person is sufficiently incapacitated by illness to have given up his ordinary avocations, this is sufficient excuse for him not to attend a Court in obedience to a summons. If he is so ill that his absence cannot be regarded as a wilful disobedience to the Court's order, the fact that he does not send a man to inform the Court of his illness does not render him liable to punishment. Bohra Birbal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

23 Cr. L. J. 208 :
65 I. C. 864 : 20 A. L. J. 192 :
A. I. R. 1922 All. 82.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence.

Non-attendance, therefore, in obedience to a summons issued by a Sub-Inspector of Police and served personally on an Amin requiring him to give evidence at a Police investigation constitutes an offence under S. 174, Indian Penal Code. In re ; Gumpartai Venkataramiah. 18 Cr. L. J. 733 : 40 I. C. 733 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 815.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Subpoena, defective, failure to comply with, if offence.

A subpoena requiring a person to attend either at the Thana or wherever the Inspecting Officer might happen to be, is not legal subpoena as it does not require attendance at a definite place, and an omission to comply with it is not an offence punishable under S. 174, Penal Code. Hukum Singh v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 697 : 94 I. C. 889 : 24 A. L. J. 536 : A. I. R. 1926 All. 474.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Summons not issued according to law—Accused's failure to appear, if offence.

Upon receipt of a petition complaining that accused had constructed a temple which, owing to its proximity to a mosque and graveyard, was objected to by the Muhammadans, and suggesting the likelihood of a breach of the peace, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate directed a Tahsildar to make inquiries, to record the statements of the persons complained against and to return the papers for orders. The Tahsildar sent his peon to fetch these persons, but as they failed to come, he issued a summons to them to appear, written on a form provided for cases under S. 193, Land Revenue Act, and not purporting to be under any section of the Cr. P. C., and on their failure to appear, he convicted them under S. 174, Penal Code; Held, that the proceedings were illegal ab initio. Behari Lal v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 79 :
59 I. C. 335 : A. I. R. 1920 All. 304.

———S. 174—What constitutes offence—
Warrant issued by Court without jurisdiction—Disobedience, if offence.

Disobedience to a warrant issued by a Court is not an offence where the Court had no jurisdiction to issue the warrant. Pahawan Singh v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1344 : 98 I. C. 416.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1959)

—S. 174—What constitutes offence—Willful disobedience is gist of offence.

Obiter.—What is made punishable by the law under S. 174, Penal Code, is an intentional disobedience to the summons of a Court, that is to say, non-attendance which amounts to wilful disobedience. Mul Singh v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 433 :
72 I. C. 593 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah 163.

—S. 175.

See also (i) C. P. C., 1908, O. XI, r. 21.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 94, 96, 157.

—S. 175—Omission to produce unnecessary document, if offence.

Where an accused was called upon to produce a book in Court and he failed to do so, and the Court thought that the production of book was not necessary for the decision of the case, it would be improper to prosecute the accused for intentionally disobeying the Court's order. Mithan Lal v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 20 :
5 I. C. 17.

—S. 175 — Punishment — Disobeying order for production or inspection of documents — C. P. C. (Act V of 1908), O. XI, R. 21.

A party to a suit failing to comply with an order for production or inspection of documents can be dealt with only in the manner prescribed by Order XI, R. 21, C. P. C., 1908, and is not punishable under S. 175, or any other section of the Penal Code. Ram Chand v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 386 :
6 I. C. 623 : 15 P. W. R. 1910 Cr. :
15 P. R. 1910 Cr.

—S. 175—What constitutes offence—Failure to produce unnecessary documents called for under S. 91, Cr. P. C., when offence.

Where production of a document is not necessary for the decision of the case in which the document is called for, the person failing to produce the document is not guilty under S. 175. Damri Ram v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 217 :
43 I. C. 793 : 4 P. L. W. 65 :
A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 590.

—S. 175 — What constitutes offence — Omission to produce document by an accused on trial, if offence.

Where an accused, while on his trial for offences under Ss. 471 and 193, I. P. C., being directed to produce a certain incriminating document, did not produce the document, and in consequence, the prosecution against him failed : Held, the accused could not be convicted under S. 175, I. P. C., for his omission to produce the document. Iskwar Chandra Ghoshal v. Emperor.

8 Cr. L. J. 224 :
12 C. W. N. 1016 : 8 C. L. J. 320.

—S. 175—What constitutes offence—Search warrant, illegally addressed to accused on trial—Failure to comply, if offence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A search warrant under S. 96, Cr. P. C., cannot be addressed to an accused person on his trial and he cannot be prosecuted under S. 175 for failure to produce the document mentioned in the warrant. Raj Chandra v. Hara Kishore.

12 Cr. L. J. 98 :
9 I. C. 564.

—S. 175—What constitutes offence—Sub-Registrar, power of, to order production—Party, if legally bound to produce it—Non-production, if an offence.

A person called upon by a Sub-Registrar to produce the original document which was registered in his office to enable him to compare it with the copy of the deed in the Registration Office Register, which, it was suspected, was tampered with, is not legally bound to produce it, and he cannot, on his failure to do so, be convicted under S. 175, Penal Code. Asmatullah v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 114 .
2 C. L. J. 621.

—S. 176.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 45, 87, 403, 505, 565 (3).

(ii) N.-W. P. and Ondh Land Revenue Act, 1901, S. 46.

(iii) Punjab Jail Manual, R. 404 (2).

(iv) U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, S. 46.

—S. 176—Co-existent obligation of another, if excuse.

The mere fact that another person was also present at the time of the occurrence and was under a similar obligation to report, does not justify omission to report. In re : Pavallimanakkal Narayan Nampudripad.

16 Cr. L. J. 219 :
27 I. C. 843 : 17 M. L. T. 263 :
1915 M. W. N. 276 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 493.

—S. 176—Conviction of some only—Persons legally bound to give information to Police—Omission by some of such persons, whether offence.

The fact that some persons bound to give information have given that information while other persons who might be bound to give that information have omitted to do so, is no ground for their prosecution and conviction under S. 176, Penal Code. Bhagwantrao v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1489 :
90 I. C. 145 : A. I. R. 1926 Nag. 217.

—S. 176 — "Intentionally," meaning of.

Where a person is under a legal duty to report certain facts and fails to report them, he must be presumed to intend to conceal them, unless he can show that he had reason to suppose that the authority to which the report was due had the information from other sources. In re : Pavallimanakkal Narayan Nampudripad.

16 Cr. L. J. 219 :
27 I. C. 843 : 17 M. L. T. 263 :
1915 M. W. N. 276 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 493.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 176—"Official Register," meaning of—Refusing to furnish information to the Patwari regarding collections made by a zamindar—Land Revenue Act (United Provinces), Ss. 32, 46 and 234.

The words "official register" in S. 176, I. P. C., do not refer exclusively to registers prescribed by S. 82 of N.-W. P. and Oudh Land Revenue Act, III of 1901. A jamabandi prepared under rules made under S. 234 of the same Act is a register answering this description. Emperor v. Suraj Bakhsh Singh.

6 Cr. L. J. 301 :
10 O. C. 238.

———S. 176—Sentence.

A sentence passed under S. 176, Penal Code, should commence at once according to the rule contained in R. 404 (2) of the Punjab Jail Manual and should not be postponed till the expiry of the term of imprisonment which the accused is undergoing in default of furnishing security. Emperor v. Chet Singh.

20 Cr. L. J. 316 (a) :
50 I. C. 492 : 97 P. L. R. 1918 :
A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 136.

———S. 176—What constitutes offence—Failure to give information not bound to give, if offence.

The mere fact that a zamindar raised more than the recorded rent from his tenant for a long time without giving information about it to the officials concerned, does not render him liable to be convicted for an offence under S. 176, Penal Code, read with S. 46 of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, inasmuch as under the latter provision, he is not legally bound to give the information to the public servants concerned in the absence of a requisition for such information from a public servant. Buddh Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1367 :
98 I. C. 487 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 111.

———S. 176—What constitutes offence—Mukaddam receiving information of non-bailable offence—Agent omitting to report, Mukaddam, duty of, to report.

When a Mukaddam receives information that a non-bailable offence has been committed in a village of which he is the Mukaddam and he knows that his agent has not reported the offence, it is his duty to report the offence under S. 45, Cr. P. C., an omission to do so, will constitute an offence under S. 176, Penal Code. Local Government v. Maniharsingh.

12 Cr. L. J. 441 :
11 I. C. 785 : 7 N. L. R. 101.

———S. 176—What constitutes offence.

Under certain specified circumstances covered by S. 45, Cr. P. C., 1898, the concealment of suspicious death is punishable under S. 176, Penal Code, but mere servants who are entirely dependent on their master in whose house the death takes place do not come within the category of persons who are bound to communicate an occurrence of this sort. Thakri v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 425 :
11 I. C. 609 : 17 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 176—What constitutes offence—Village Magistrate receiving information of loss or theft of jewel—Failure to report to Police—Conviction—Legality of.

A Village Magistrate was convicted under S. 176, Penal Code, for omitting to furnish to the Police information that a jewel of the daughter of a certain person was either stolen or lost : Held, that as the information did not relate to the commission of the non-bailable offence of theft, which the Village Magistrate was bound to communicate to the Magistrate or Police, under S. 45 (1) (c), Cr. P. C., his conviction under S. 176, I. P. C., was illegal. In re: Vemi Reddi Lacha Reddi.

9 Cr. L. J. 224 :
1 I. C. 245 : 5 M. L. T. 257.

———S. 176—What constitutes offence.

Where a zamindar refuses to give the patwari of the village information as to the collection of rent made by him, he is liable to be convicted of an offence under S. 176, I. P. C. Emperor v. Suraj Bakhsh Singh.

6 Cr. L. J. 301 :
10 O. C. 238.

———Ss. 176, 189—Charge and trial under S. 189—Conviction altered on appeal to one under S. 176—Legality of.

The conviction of a person tried for an offence under S. 189, Penal Code, and not called upon in the trial Court to answer a charge under S. 176 of that Code, cannot be altered on appeal to a conviction under the latter section, inasmuch as (i) the offence under S. 176 is one of a different nature from the offence under S. 189 and is constituted by an entirely different set of facts, and (ii) a prosecution for an offence under S. 176 requires sanction under S. 195, Cr. P. C., while such sanction is not necessary for a prosecution for an offence under S. 189. Arjan Mal v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 709 :
69 I. C. 437 : 3 Lah. 440 :
A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 260.

———S. 177.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 45.

(ii) Income Tax Act; 1922,
S. 22.

(iii) N.-W. P. and Oudh Land
Revenue Act. 1901, S. 46.

———S. 177—Applicability—Person must be legally bound to give information.

S. 177, Penal Code, has no application to a case in which a false statement has been made to the Police by a person who was under no legal obligation or who was not legally bound to give that information. Such a person may be liable for prosecution under S. 182, Penal Code. Lakhan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 57 :
165 I. C. 769 : 9 R. A. 312 :
I. L. R. 1937 All. 162 :
1936 A. L. J. 1064 :
1936 A. W. R. 905 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 788.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 177—False report to Revenue Surveyor for securing mutation of name, if offence.

By reporting falsely that his father had died, the petitioner induced the Revenue Surveyor to enter his name in the Revenue Register as owner of certain gardens and paddy lands in succession to his father: Hrid, that the petitioner had not committed an offence under Ss. 199, 177 or 193, but that he had committed an offence under S. 182, Penal Code. Ismail v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 603 :
25 I. C. 515 : A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 30.

———S. 177—Giving false information when not bound, if offence.

Contract between Government and Municipality under which Municipal doctor is to furnish certain information. In the absence of contract with doctor, he is not legally bound to furnish information. Ganpat Subrao Kashyapi v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1429 :
151 I. C. 867 : 36 Bom. L. R. 373 :
58 Bom. 401 : 7 R. B. 85 :
A. I. R. 1934 Bom. 202.

———S. 177—Ingredients.

To bring a case under S. 177, Penal Code, it is absolutely necessary to prove that the informant was legally bound to give the information, which is proved to be false, to the Police. Lakhan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 57 :
165 I. C. 769 : 9 R. A. 312 :
1936 A. L. J. 1064 :
I. L. R. 1937 All. 162 :
1936 A. W. R. 905 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 788.

———S. 177—Interpretation.

The words "any subject" occurring in S. 177, Penal Code, have reference to the matters enumerated in S. 45, Cr. P. C., or to matters about which a person is "legally bound" to give information under some other law, and to no other subjects. Lakhan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 57 :
165 I. C. 769 : 1936 A. L. J. 1064 :
9 R. A. 312 : I. L. R. 1937 All. 162 :
1936 A. W. R. 905 : A. I. R. 1936 All. 788.

———S. 177—Sentence—Fine, quantum of.

Where an accused person is convicted for having made a false return, it is not proper to fine him the amount which the Income-tax Authorities might have levied as penal assessment. In a case of this nature the Courts might well confine themselves to inflicting a penalty of imprisonment, if they think that is necessary, together with making the accused contribute reasonably towards the costs of his own prosecution. K. C. V. Reddy v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 793 :
125 I. C. 266 : 8 Rang. 25 :
A. I. R. 1930 Rang. 201.

———S. 177—Sentence.

Lawyer assessee deliberately keeping assessable income out of return—Assessee persisting in maintaining defence which is false to his knowledge—Punishment of Rs. 1,000 plus one month's simple imprisonment, held deterrent and fitting. P. D. Patel v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 131 :
146 I. C. 653 : 6 R. Rang. 113 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 292.

———S. 177—What constitutes offence.

A mukhia of a village who had taken away a girl from the village, signed a panchayatnama stating that a certain girl had died by having been drowned and sent it to the Police. The accused was prosecuted under S. 177, Penal Code: Held, Per Sulaiman, C. J. and Rachhpal Singh, J. Benoit, J., (contra), that as none of the events enumerated in Cl. (d) of S. 45, Cr. P. C., had happened, it could not be said that the accused was legally bound to give any information to the Police and that the false information which he gave to the Police did not bring his case within the four corners of S. 177, Penal Code. Lakhan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 57 :
165 I. C. 769 : 1936 A. L. J. 1064 :
9 R. A. 312 : I. L. R. 1937 All. 162 :
1936 A. W. R. 905 : A. I. R. 1936 All. 788.

———S. 177—What constitutes offence—Giving false information when not bound to give, if offence.

Furnishing false information to public officer when not legally bound, is not an offence under S. 177—Person filing false return as to income, without being served under Income Tax Act, S. 22 (2), is not guilty under S. 177. Hari Chaud v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 176 :
152 I. C. 682 : 35 P. L. R. 544 :
15 Lah. 832 : 7 R. L. 319 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 626.

———S. 177—What constitutes offence—Person not legally bound to furnish information—Giving false information, if offence.

The decree-holder in a certain case received satisfaction of the decree before the warrant of attachment was executed, and, when the Amin went to execute the warrant, endorsed on it that the warrant need not be executed since he had given time to the judgment-debtor, but did not mention that the decree was satisfied. He, however, certified satisfaction to the Court. On the facts becoming known to the judgment-debtor-petitioner he applied to the Munsif to sanction the counter-petitioner's prosecution for giving false information to a public servant under S. 177, Penal Code. The Munsif refused sanction. The petitioner preferred this petition to the Chief Court: Held, that the counter-petitioner was not under any legal obligation to furnish information to the Amin and was not, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 177, Penal Code, and that the order of the Munsif refusing sanction was right. Narasimmayya v. Achayya Setty.

9 Cr. L. J. 328 :
12 M. C. C. R. 80.

———S. 177—What constitutes offence.

Where the petitioner in a return represented rent payable to him in respect of his subordinate holding to be in excess of that which the Magistrate found that the tenant was actually bound to pay: Held, that as under S. 95 of the Act, such a return is admissible in evidence against the petitioner and not in his favour, and as he did not undervalue his property, he could not be convicted under S. 177, Penal Code. Mahommad Wasil v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 11:

4 I. C. 578 : 13 C. W. N. 191:

5 M. L. T. 93.

———S. 178—Refusing evidence in civil cases—When not paid expenses, if offence.

A witness in a civil case is entitled to payment of his expenses before he gives evidence. If he is not paid, he is not bound to appear at all in answer to the summons, and it is no offence to refuse to give evidence on the ground of insufficient payment of expenses before the Judge has decided that the payment made was sufficient. Nga Pyo v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 208:

U. B. R. Cr. 1907—1909 Cr. Vol. I, Penal Code, p. 9 : 14 Bur. L. R. 216.

———S. 179.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 161, 195, 480.

(ii) Madras Panchayat Courts Act, 1920, S. 781.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 178, 228.

———S. 179—Applicability—Refusal to answer questions put by Police Officer during investigation, whether punishable under S. 179, Penal Code.

Refusal to answer questions put by a Police Officer making an investigation under Chap. XIV of the Cr. P. C. is not punishable under S. 179, Penal Code. Muwzangayi v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 201:

128 I. C. 833 : 8 Rang. 511.

I. R. 1931 Rang. 49 : A. I. R. 1931 Rang. 26.

———S. 179—Conviction.

Complainant examined as prosecution witness—Examination relevant—Refusal to answer questions touching a subject on which he is bound to state the truth—Conviction under S. 179 is legal. Moti Lal v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 446:

153 I. C. 907 : 1935 A. W. R. 123:

1935 A. L. J. 299 : 7 R. A. 652:

A. I. R. 1935 All. 267.

———S. 179—Conviction.

Cross-examination of witness—Question as to the result of a case—Witness denying knowledge—Subsequent answer that case was dismissed—Conviction under S. 179 is not maintainable. Bhardul Kurmi v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1036 (1):

149 I. C. 1061 (1) : 4 A. W. R. 542:

1934 A. L. J. 427 : 6 R. A. 1015 (1):

A. I. R. 1934 All. 136.

———S. 179—Offence under—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 480—Witness refusing to answer question—Offence under S. 179 or S. 228, Penal Code.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

During a trial in the Court of Session, accused was examined as a witness, and in answer to repeated questions by the Court as to what a certain other witness has told him regarding the occurrence, the accused persisted in saying: "He named no one," and refused to give any further answer. He was convicted of an offence under S. 228, Penal Code, on proceedings taken under S. 480, Cr. P. C.: Held, that the conduct of the accused did not fall under S. 228, Penal Code, but came under S. 179, Penal Code, and as the Sessions Judge could have taken action under that section, the conviction could, on appeal, be altered to one under S. 179, Penal Code. Har Narain v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 354:

84 I. C. 706 : 22 A. L. J. 1100:

A. I. R. 1925 All. 239.

———S. 179—Offence under S. 178—Accused if can be convicted under S. 179 also—Refusing to answer questions.

Quære. Whether a person who has once committed an offence under S. 178, Penal Code, can be held to have committed a further offence under S. 179, Penal Code, when he refuses to answer the questions put to him. Bepin Chandra Pal v. Emperor. 7 Cr. L. J. 95:

7 C. L. J. 63 : 35 Cal. 161.

———S. 180.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1908, S. 151.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 364.

———S. 180—Offence under.

Accused's refusal to answer questions and refusal to sign constitutes obstruction to process of Court rendering him liable to punishment under S. 180. Moti Lal v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1098:

157 I. C. 146 : 1935 A. L. J. 1058:

8 R. A. 106 : 1935 A. W. R. 800:

A. I. R. 1935 All. 652.

———S. 180—Offence under.

An accused person who refuses to sign the record of his examination, does not commit an offence punishable under S. 180, Penal Code. Emperor v. Ba Tin.

4 Cr. L. J. 205:

3 L. B. R. 199 : 12 Bur. L. R. 315.

———S. 180—Refusal to sign—Statement recorded under S. 364, Cr. P. C., if offence.

Cl. 2 of S. 364, Cr. P. C., is mandatory. An accused person is not bound to make any statement whatsoever, but if he does make and if he is examined by the Magistrate and replies to the Magistrate's questions, the Court is bound to reduce the statement to writing in the form of questions and answers and the Magistrate is bound to sign it, as also is the accused; and if the latter refuses to do so, he is guilty of an offence under S. 180, Penal Code. Umar Khan v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 559:

39 I. C. 703 : 15 A. L. J. 291:

39 All. 399 : A. I. R. 1917 All. 48.

———S. 180—Refusing to sign when entitled to refuse under Cr. P. C., if offence.

There is no legal obligation upon witnesses in civil cases to sign or thumb-mark their deposition. Courts cannot order but can doubtless ask them to do so, and if they refuse, they cannot be compelled, and are not liable to prosecution for an offence under S. 180, Penal Code, S. 151; C. P. C., does not authorize a Judge to force a witness to sign his deposition. Emperor v. Fateh Ali. 13 Cr. L. J. 713 : 16 I. C. 521 : 8 P. R. 1912 Cr. : 26 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. : 245 P. L. R. 1912.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 181.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 195, 423.

(ii) Oaths Act, 1873, S. 4.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 193.

—S. 181—Conviction—Alteration of—Prosecution under S. 181—Power of Appellate Court to change it to one under S. 193.

Where prosecution is legally instituted by the Civil Court under S. 181, Penal Code, the Appellate Court can under S. 423, Cr. P. C., alter the finding to S. 193, Penal Code, and convict under it. Even if the prosecution has been launched under an inappropriate section, the Appellate Court has power to do this. Nathusingh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 455 :
167 I. C. 845 : I. L. R. 1937 Nag. 102 :
9 R. N. 222 : A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 263.

—S. 181—Ingredients—False statement made in good faith, if offence.

A witness may in good faith say what in fact is incorrect ; but this will not expose him to the penalty of perjury. Ghanshamdas Pursumal v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 519 (2) :
147 I. C. 1019 : 6 R. S. 171 :
A. I. R. 1933 Sind 412.

—S. 181—Offence under—Person making false statement in affidavit, if guilty under S. 181.

The Magistrate does not satisfy the definition in S. 4, Oaths Act, of a Court or a person authorized to administer oaths and affirmations. Consequently, a person making a false statement in such affidavit is not guilty of an offence under S. 181, Penal Code. Kamahshya Prasad Dalal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 21 :
184 I. C. 468 : I. L. R. 1939, 2 Cal. 459 :
43 C. W. N. 1033 : 12 R. C. 235 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 657.

—S. 182.

—Applicability.

—Burden of proof.

—Cognizance.

—Conviction under.

—Evidence. :.

—'False report', what amounts to.

—Give information.

—Ingredients.

—Interference by High Court.

—Interpretation.

—Knowledge.

—Offence under.

—Place of trial.

—Power of Police to start proceedings under.

—Procedure.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Sanction to prosecute.

—Sanction under S. 193, Cr. P. C., necessity of.

—Scope.

—S. 182.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 154, 161, 195, 195 (1), 195 (1) (a), 195 (1) (a) (b), 195 (1) (b), 195 (b), 249, 342, 439, 476, 517, 532, 537.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 107, 211.

—S. 182—Applicability—Applicability of S. 182 to cases of false information given during investigation.

If a witness answers questions because he is compelled to answer by reason of the powers of the Police, that in itself may well be sufficient to negative the guilty intent or knowledge necessary for a conviction under S. 182, Penal Code. The information is then not so much given as taken. But to hold that S. 182, Penal Code, can never apply to false information given to the Police during the course of an investigation, is to go further than the words of S. 182, Penal Code, or the public interest properly allows. Jhamatmal Almal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 8 :
184 I. C. 243 : 12 R. S. 100 :
A. I. R. 1939 Sind 274.

—S. 182—Applicability—Inquiry under S. 161, Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), by Police Officer—Information given during such investigation—Whether comes under S. 182.

A reasonable interpretation of the words of S. 182, Penal Code, is to include information even if it is given to a Police Officer in the course of an investigation under S. 161, Cr. P. C., in reply to questions put by him. There is no reason to insert in the statutory provisions of S. 182 words that are not there and thus to restrict unduly the meaning of the words and to reduce the efficacy of the section in dealing with the mischief with which it was designed to deal. The section is not confined to information which is volunteered and which falls under S. 154, Cr. P. C. Emperor v. Gopal-das Khemchand.

37 Cr. L. J. 870 :
163 I. C. 910 : 30 S. L. R. 75 :
9 R. S. 24 : A. I. R. 1936 Sind 94.

—S. 182—Applicability—Petition to District Magistrate to unlock house containing false allegations, whether falls within scope of section.

S. 182, Cl (a) of the Penal Code, applies to a case in which it is intended that a public servant should do or omit to do something which he ought to do or omit to do if he knew the true facts, that is, which he would be legally justified in doing or omitting to do if he knew the true facts. Asking a Magistrate to do an act which would be an illegal act even if the true facts were stated to him, would not come within the purview of the section. Accused petitioned the District Magistrate praying that as certain tenants occupying his house had absconded leaving the house locked up, the house might be unlocked to enable him to execute the necessary repairs. His application was sent for compliance and report to the Police, who reported that the allegations contained in the petition were untrue, upon which the District Magistrate sanctioned his prosecution under S. 182 of the Penal Code: Held, that the section was inapplicable to the circumstances of the present case. Manohar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 895 :

47 I. C. 91 : 16 A. L. J. 614 :

A. I. R. 1918 All. 85.

————S. 182—Applicability.

S. 182 applies to a statement made during the investigation of a case. Bodhan Garain v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1216 :

146 I. C. 234 : 14 P. L. R. 541 :

6 R. P. 246 (1) : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 555 (1).

————S. 182—Burden of proof.

In a prosecution under S. 182, Penal Code, for giving false information, the burden lies on the prosecution to prove that the accused knew or believed the information to be false. Gopal Kahar v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 347 :

61 I. C. 171.

————S. 182—Burden of proof—On whom lies.

In a prosecution for an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, the burden of proof cannot be laid upon the accused. It is for the prosecution to show that the information given was false, not for the accused to show that it was true. Nga Lu Po v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 12 :

U R. R. Cr. 1908.

————S. 182—Cognizance.

A prosecution under S. 182, Penal Code, cannot be permitted whether the offence committed amounts to one under S. 211, Penal Code. Rambrose v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 342 :

114 I. C. 685 : 6 Rang. 578 :

I. R. 1929 Rang. 77 :

A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 254.

————S. 182—Cognizance—Acquittal of charge under S. 211—No subsequent trial under S. 182.

Once a person is acquitted of a charge under S. 211, he cannot be subsequently tried on the same facts for an offence under S. 182. Ganpati Bhatta v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 214 (b) :

19 I. C. 310 : 24 M. L. J. 463 :

13 M. L. T. 360 : 36 Mad. 308.

————S. 182—Cognizance—False information to Police followed by complaint to Magistrate—Police Officer, whether competent to prefer complaint under S. 182.

M gave information to a Police Officer that certain persons had stolen his property, subsequently he made a complaint to a Magistrate to the same effect. The Police in their investigation came to the conclusion that the information given by M was false. The Magistrate also called upon the Police for a report. The Police reported that the complaint was false.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

But as M asked for an opportunity to produce his witnesses, the Magistrate after examining the witnesses fixed a date and issued summons to the accused to appear. On the date fixed, M and his witnesses did not appear. So the Magistrate discharged the accused. Upon this the Police Officer to whom the false information was given laid a complaint against M under S. 182, Penal Code: Held, that the bare fact that M had subsequently made a complaint to a Magistrate and then dropped proceedings was no bar to the Police Officer, to whom the false information had been given, making a complaint of an offence under S. 182, Penal Code. Mula v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 114 :

49 I. C. 98 : 17 A. L. J. 32 :

A. I. R. 1919 All. 159.

————S. 182—Cognizance.

Where a person gives false information to the Police and subsequently makes a complaint in Court, the fact of his having made a complaint is no bar to the Court proceeding with the trial of the offence under S. 182, Penal Code. Bakshi v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 729 :

81 I. C. 217 : 21 A. L. J. 805 :

46 All. 43 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 187.

————S. 182—Conviction under—Legality of—False information—False charge—Procedure.

Where there have been Court proceedings in consequence of a false report to the Police, S. 211, Penal Code, is the appropriate section to apply and is so in any event, where the case is a serious one, but this does not make a prosecution under S. 182, of the Code illegal. Ma Saw Yin v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 55 :

64 I. C. 839 : 11 L. B. R. 43 :

A. I. R. 1921 L. Bur. 43.

————S. 182—Evidence—Giving false information of threatened breach of peace—Proof of.

Where proceedings are initiated against a person under S. 182, Penal Code, for giving false information of a threatened breach of the peace, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove not merely an absence of a reasonable and probable cause for giving the information but a positive knowledge or belief of the falsity of the information given. Brindaban v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 791 :

53 I. C. 695 : 6 O. L. J. 457 :

A. I. R. 1919 Oudh 348.

————S. 182—'False report'—What amounts to.

The accused said to an officer, "I find there has been a theft, I suspect the persons named and I want an enquiry to be made": Held (1) that the statement did not amount to a charge, but that if it was false, it amounted to a false report within the meaning of S. 182, Penal Code; (2) that in dealing with the case under S. 182, the Court must be satisfied beyond doubt that the accused had no reasonable ground at all for believing that an attempt had been made upon his property and that the whole story was an invention. Mathura Parsad v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 1017 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

42 I. C. 761 : 15 A. L. J. 767 : 39 All. 715 :
A. I. R. 1917 All. 223.

————S. 182—Give information—Meaning of.

A statement made under S. 161, Cr. P. C. 1898, in answer to questions put by the Police Officer investigating the case, does not amount to giving information within the meaning of S. 182, Penal Code. The expression "give information" in the latter section means to volunteer information and is not intended to apply to a statement made in answer to questions put by a public servant. Mangu v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 650 :
25 I. C. 978 : 35 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. :
227 P. L. R. 1914 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 360.

————S. 182—Ingredients — Accused's act mala fide or malicious—Effect of.

To constitute the offence punishable under S. 182, Penal Code, it is necessary that the information given should be information which the accused person knows or believes to be false. It is not sufficient that he had reason to believe it to be false or that he did not believe it to be true but there must have been positive knowledge or belief that it was false. Sardar Khan v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1008 :
119 I. C. 230 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 838 :
30 P. L. R. 655 : 11 L. L. J. 495 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 54.

————S. 182—Ingredients — Intention or knowledge, if material.

S. 182, Penal Code, requires that information which is false or which is believed to be false, should be given to a public servant with a particular intention or knowledge and if the information is known to be false and is given with the intention of causing a public servant to do or omit to do anything which such public servant ought not to do or omit, if the true state of facts respecting which such information is given were known by him or to use the lawful powers of such public servant to the injury or annoyance of any person, then the offence is committed. The fact that the public servant did not in fact do or omit to do anything or did not use his lawful power in consequence is not a deciding factor. The guilt of the accused lies in his intention or knowledge and a man's intention or knowledge must be judged from his acts and the surrounding circumstances. Emperor v. Gopaldas Khemchand. 37 Cr. L. J. 870 :

163 I. C. 910 : 30 S. L. R. 75 :
9 R. S. 24 : A. I. R. 1936 Sind 94.

————S. 182—Ingredients of.

To bring a case within S. 182, Penal Code, it is necessary for the prosecution to establish not merely that the information given by the respondents was in fact false, but that the circumstances in which the information was given were such that the only reasonable inference to be drawn is that they knew or believed it to be false. Emperor v. Kartar Singh. 29 Cr. L. J. 753 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

110 I. C. 785.

————S. 182—Ingredients.

S. 182, Penal Code, relates only to cases of information given to officials with the intention of causing or with knowledge that it is likely to cause that official to do or omit to do something, which he ought not to do, or omit to do, or to use his lawful power to the injury or annoyance of any person. Emperor v. Ram Krishna.

5 Cr. L. J. 105 :
9 Bom. L. R. 33 : I. L. R. 31 Bom. 204.

————S. 182—Ingredients.

The allegations in complaint under S. 182 should contain the ingredients of an offence, for it is essential, in order to secure a conviction under this section, that the information given by the accused must have been known or believed to be false by him at the time when he gave it. Maung Bo Ni v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 9 (2) :

159 I. C. 95 : 8 R. Rang. 248 (1) :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 97.

————S. 182—Interference by High Court.

It is a question of expediency whether the High Court will quash a conviction under S. 182 and direct a trial under S. 211, Penal Code. Ma Saw Yin v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 55 :
64 I. C. 839 : 11 L. B. R. 43 :
A. I. R. 1921 L. Bur. 43.

————S. 182—Interpretation.

A statement made by a witness to the Police under the provisions of S. 161, Cr. P. C., is not "an information given to a public servant", within the meaning of S. 182. Maung Bo Ni v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 9 (2) :

159 I. C. 95 : 8 R. Rang. 248 (1) :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 97.

————S. 182—Interpretation—"Give information", meaning of.

The words "give information" in S. 182, Penal Code, should not be interpreted as necessarily meaning "volunteer information", in the sense that must be information on some matter which is not already under inquiry by a public servant. Biswanath Singh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 872 :
104 I. C. 712 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 56.

————S. 182—Interpretation—"Give", whether means "volunteer".

Obiter. The word "give" in S. 182, Penal Code, does not bear the restricted meaning of the word "volunteer". Sullan v. C. De M. Wellbourne. 26 Cr. L. J. 1532 :

90 I. C. 316 : 3 Rang. 577 :
4 Bur. L. J. 261 : A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 364.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 182—Interpretation—‘Give information’, meaning of—Statement to Police Officer in inquiry under S. 161, Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898)
—Statement of witness called by defence in Departmental enquiry—Whether can form basis of conviction.

The expression ‘gives information,’ in S. 182, Penal Code, means to volunteer information, and is not intended to apply to a statement made in answer to questions put by a public servant. Statements made by witnesses to Police Officers under S. 161, Cr. P. C., cannot, except in very special circumstances, be regarded as ‘gives information to a public servant’ within the meaning of S. 182, Penal Code. If a statement made by a witness to a Police Officer under S. 161, Cr. P. C., cannot, in general, form the basis of a conviction under S. 182, Penal Code, still less can a statement of a witness called for the defence at a departmental inquiry. U Halng v. R. P. Abigail. 38 Cr. L. J. 980 : 170 I. C. 854 : 10 R. Rang. 109 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 232.

———S. 182—Interpretation.

Per Fort, J.—The expression ‘omit’ in S. 182 (a) of the Penal Code, indicates an operation on the mind of the officer which has a result of making that officer give up a purpose which he otherwise would have pursued. It does not indicate placing an obstacle in the way of the officer performing the duty and thus preventing or making it more difficult for him to carry out an intention which was in his mind. In making a false statement to a public servant merely with a view to escape a prosecution, there is no intention to cause the officer to ‘do’ something within the meaning of S. 182 (a), Penal Code. Emperor v. Lachman Singh. 30 Cr. L. J. 177 : 113 I. C. 587 : 7 Pat. 715 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 59 : 10 P. L. T. 244 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 4.

———S. 182—Interpretation—“Public servant” whether covers Police Officer.

The words “public servant” in S. 182, Penal Code, sufficiently cover a Police Officer. Emperor v. Gopaldas Khemchand.

37 Cr. L. J. 870 :
163 I. C. 910 : 30 S. L. R. 75 :
9 R. S. 24 : A. I. R. 1936 Sind 94.

———S. 182—Interpretation.

The words ‘gives information’ in S. 182, Penal Code, should not be interpreted as necessarily meaning ‘volunteers information’. They apply to statements made in answer to questions put by a public servant. Emperor v. Lachman Singh. 30 Cr. L. J. 177 : 113 I. C. 587 : 7 Pat. 715 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 59 : 10 P. L. T. 244 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 4.

———S. 182—Knowledge—Circumstances must be shown that only inference is that person giving information knew or believed it to be false.

To constitute an offence under S. 182, Penal

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Code, it must be shown that the person giving the information knew or believed it to be false or that the circumstances in which the information was given were such that the only reasonable inference is that the person giving the information knew or believed it to be false. Sakhichand Kandu v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 289 :
166 I. C. 738 : 9 R. P. 343 :
3 B. R. 219 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 6.

———S. 182—Offence under.

Complaint to Superintendent of Police of non-cognizable offence under S. 498—Police cannot take action and prosecution under S. 182, cannot be legally maintained in respect of such information. Ganga Dayal v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1149 :
145 I. C. 819 : 10 O. W. N. 755 :
6 R. O. 73 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 374.

———S. 182—Offence under—Conspiracy to make false report—Liability of conspirators.

Where two persons enter into a conspiracy to make a false report to the Police, and a false report is made by one of them in pursuance of the conspiracy, the one who makes the report is guilty of an offence under S. 182, of the Penal Code, and the other is guilty of abetment of that offence. Emperor v. Ramjiawan. 27 Cr. L. J. 822 :

95 I. C. 598 : 3 O. W. N. 96 Sup. :
A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 442.

———S. 182—Offence under—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 195 (1)—False Report to Police—Police reporting for action under S. 182—Complaint.

One Saidu, at the instance of one Umrao Singh made a false report at the thana. The Sub-Inspector made a report asking that both Saidu and Umrao be prosecuted under S. 182, Penal Code. The Assistant Inspector of Police forwarded this report to the Sub-Divisional Officer who taking the report as a complaint under S. 195 (1), Cr. P. C., took cognizance of the offence against both the accused : Held, that under the provisions of S. 195 (1), Cr. P. C., the Sub-Divisional Officer, was not justified in treating the report as a complaint ; Held, further, that Umrao Singh not having made the report himself could not be tried under S. 182, Penal Code. Umrao Singh v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 518 :
2 I. C. 200 : 6 A. L. J. 236.

———S. 182—Offence under—False identification, when offence under S. 182.

A person who wrongly identifies another before a public servant as the payee under a forged cheque drawn in the name of a fictitious person cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, in the absence of evidence to show that he knew or had reason to believe that the identification was false. Emperor v. Chandra Kumar De.

28 Cr. L. J. 25 :
99 I. C. 57 : 44 C. L. J. 230 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 78.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 182 (b)—Offence under—False information—Petition of resignation containing untrue statements, if offence.

The accused, a peon of the Court of Wards, had a quarrel with one S., brother of a ziladar employed by the Court of Wards, and afterwards submitted a petition of resignation to the Collector, the officer in charge of the Court of Wards, in which he gave a distorted version of the whole affair in order to forestall any proceedings which might be taken against him by S. or his brother: Held, that the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 182 of the Penal Code inasmuch as he never intended the Collector to use his powers to the injury or annoyance of the persons mentioned in the petition nor had he any knowledge that such a result was likely. Debi v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 257 :
44 I. C. 183 : 16 A. L. J. 105 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 265.

—S. 182—Offence under False information to a Village Magistrate, if offence.

It constitutes an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, if a false complaint with evil intention is made to a Village Magistrate for the purpose of being passed on to a Station-house Officer, and which it is his bounden duty so to pass on. Emperor v. Jonnalagadda Venkatrayudu.

3 Cr. L. J. 108 :
I. L. R. 28 Mad. 565.

—S. 182 — Offence under — False report at Police Station of non-cognizable offence — Not calling for any action, if offence.

The mere making of a report, known to contain statements which are not true, at a Police Station of a non-cognizable offence, not calling for any action on the part of the Police Officer to whom it is made, is insufficient to form the basis of a conviction under S. 182 of the Penal Code. Algo Lal v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 576 :
57 I. C. 96 : 18 A. L. J. 636 :
2 U. P. L. R. All. 296 :
A. I. R. 1920 All. 196.

—S. 182—Offence under.

False report to Police — When amounts to offence under S. 182, stated. Fariduddin Khan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 562 (1) :
162 I. C. 338 : 1936 A. L. J. 253 :
1936 A. W. R. 273 : 8 R. A. 861 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 313.

—S. 182 — Offence under—False report to public servant calling for action which public servant would take, if offence.

To sustain a prosecution for an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the complaint should have been made to a public servant with the intention of inducing such public servant to take action of a sort which a public servant of the description in question could take and which would not be open to a private individual. Imandy Appalaswami v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 672 :
25 I. C. 1000 : 1 L. W. 847 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 315.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 182—Offence under—False statements in petition of appeal, whether offence.

An accused who makes a false statement in his petition of appeal cannot be held to have committed an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, even assuming that the false statement was made with the object of inducing, and that it did induce the Appellate Court to send for the record of the case, as it cannot be said that the Court was thereby induced to do what it ought not to have done. Amir Ali v. Dukhan Momin.

29 Cr. L. J. 613 :
109 I. C. 805 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 574.

—S. 182—Offence under.

Giving false answers to questions put by a Police Officer in the course of investigation of a cognizable offence, is not punishable under S. 182, Penal Code. Emperor v. Nga Aung Po.

2 Cr. L. J. 474 :
U. B. R. 1905 I. P. C. 13.

—S. 182—Offence under.

Giving false information to Police about missing of animal is not an offence under S. 182. Mosafir Singh v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 314 :
136 I. C. 447 (1) : 13 P. L. T. 83 :
I. R. 1932 Pat. 111 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 170 (1).

—S. 182 — Offence under — Giving false information to public servant legally entitled to take action—Informant, if liable.

When a person gives false information to a public servant deliberately asking that public servant to take certain action, it cannot be said that he is not punishable under S. 182, Penal Code, merely because the public servant was not legally entitled to take the action requested. Sant Ram v. Diwan Chand.

24 Cr. L. J. 913 :
75 I. C. 289.

—S. 182—Offence under—Giving wrong name to public servant to escape prosecution, if offence.

Where the driver of a motor car who was driving without a licence, when asked for his name by a Police Officer, gave a fictitious name: Held, Per Attanson, J. (agreeing with Adami J., and dissenting from Wort, J.) that the driver was guilty of an offence under S. 182, Penal Code. Emperor v. Lachman Singh.

30 Cr. L. J. 177 :
113 I. C. 587 : 7 Pat. 715 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 59 : 10 P. L. T. 244 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 4.

—S. 182 — Offence under — Motive, if material.

Accused made a report to the Police that his horse had strayed, when as a matter of fact, he had previously sold it to another, who in turn had sold it to a third person, the report was made to enable him to make a false charge against this last person and this he subsequently made: Held, that an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, was made out, as in making the report the accused clearly gave false information to the Police which he knew to be false and that he knew that it was likely that he would thereby cause the Police Authorities, if they found the horse answering to his description, to take it from the possession of its rightful owner. Jacha Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 88 :

71 I. C. 216 : 44 All. 647 :

A. I. R. 1922 All. 272.

—S. 182—Offence under—Motive, if material.

The circumstances which are necessary to bring a case within S. 182, involve different considerations from those that arise from S. 211. S. 182 does not necessarily impose upon the person giving information to the officer, criminal liability for mere want of caution before giving that information. There must be positive and conscious falsehood established. Emperor v. Ramkrishna.

5 Cr. L. J. 105 :

9 Bom. L. R. 33 : I. L. R. 31 Bom. 204.

—S. 182—Offence under.

Per Allanson and Adami, JJ.—The criminality contemplated by S. 182, Penal Code, does not depend upon what is done or omitted to be done by the public servant on such false information, but what was, from the facts, the reasonable intention to be inferred on the part of the person who gave the false information. Emperor v. Lachman Singh.

30 Cr. L. J. 177 :

113 I. C. 587 : 7 Pat. 715 :

I. R. 1929 Pat. 59 : 10 P. L. T. 244 :

A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 4.

—S. 182—Offence under—Petition containing information not signed by accused, effect of.

An accused may be convicted of an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, even if the petition containing the information given by him is not actually signed by him. Emperor v. Gokal.

11 Cr. L. J. 3 :

4 I. C. 477 : 3 S. L. R. 132.

—S. 182—Offence under—Privilege—False charge against presiding officer of Court with the object of getting case transferred—Penal Code, (Act XLV of 1860), S. 182.

A person on trial before a Court for an offence cannot, with impunity, make a false charge against the presiding officer of the Court, such charges being ordinarily punishable under S. 182, Penal Code, and cannot escape punishment on the ground that his object was to get the case transferred to another Court. Tribhovan v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 509 :

4 I. C. 160 : 12 O. C. 308.

—S. 182—Offence under—Report of assault and obstruction—Subsequent withdrawal of report—Section, whether applicable.

Accused, a post peon, made a report to his superior officer that he had been beaten and obstructed in the discharge of his duties by a Patwari. During the course of inquiries, he withdrew the report, saying that it was false. Upon this he was charged under S. 182, Penal Code, and convicted. Neither the original report nor the petition of withdrawal was on the record, but at his trial the accused stated that his report was absolutely true and that he had been induced by the Sub-Inspector of Police to withdraw it: Held, that S. 182 of the Penal Code was not applicable in the absence of evidence that accused gave information knowing it to be false, and that he was not bound to show that the information given was in fact true. Ali Ahmad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 503 :

62 I. C. 327 : 2 P. L. R. 1922 :

A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 313.

—S. 182—Offence under—Sanction to prosecute when can be granted.

Where a charge against another person is made by a witness not in the course of his evidence or in answer to a question but quite voluntarily and irrelevantly, sanction can be properly granted to prosecute the witness under S. 182 of the Penal Code. Nga Lu Pe v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 59 :

13 I. C. 392 : 4 Bur. L. T. 262.

—S. 182—Offence under—Statement on oath or made in application for transfer by accused person, if offence.

A person cannot be convicted under S. 182, Penal Code, for a statement made by him during his examination on oath by a Magistrate or in the course of an application for transfer of his case pending in the Court of another Magistrate. Mattan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 537 :

7 I. C. 914 : 7 A. L. J. 1143.

—S. 182—Offence under—Statement volunteered in answer to question—False allegation of bribe made against Sub-Inspector of Police to Deputy Superintendent, if offence.

Any false information given to a public servant with the intention mentioned in S. 182, Penal Code, is punishable under that section whether the information is volunteered by the informant or given in answer to questions put to him. On being questioned by a Deputy Superintendent of Police, petitioner made an allegation against a Sub-Inspector of the latter having accepted a bribe. This allegation was found to be false to the knowledge of the petitioner: Held, that the petitioner was guilty of an offence under S. 182 of the Penal Code. Panna Lal v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 818 :

58 I. C. 818 : 1 Lah. 410 :

A. I. R. 1920 Lah. 349.

—S. 182—Offence under—Suspicion, expression of, whether amounts to giving false information.

Accused made a complaint to the Police that a hukka had been stolen from his house and that he suspected two persons. It was found that the hukka had really been stolen: Held, that the stating of his suspicion by the accused did not amount to giving false information. Ananga Mohan Dulla v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 336 (a) :

44 I. C. 352 : 27 C. L. J. 230 :

22 C. W. N. 478 : A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 501.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 182—Offence under—Transfer application by complainant's Pleader—Affidavit in support of application by third person—False information contained in affidavit—Maker of affidavit, whether guilty of giving false information.

If an affidavit, containing a statement amounting to false information, made by a third person is given to the Pleader of the complainant in a criminal case and is used by the latter in support of a transfer application on behalf of his client, it cannot be held that the maker of the affidavit gave the false information within the meaning of S. 182, Penal Code, to the public servant to whom the application for transfer was made. Public Prosecutor v. Katta Prakasam.

25 Cr. L. J. 1383 :
83 I. C. 343 : 20 L. W. 624 :
47 M. L. J. 658 : 1925 M. W. N. 146 :
A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 123.

—S. 182—Offence under—When complete.

S. 182, Penal Code, is for the prosecution of a person who gives any information which he knows or believes to be false, etc., to a public servant. The offence is complete as soon as the information is given. Whether the public servant omits to take a statement subsequently on oath of the person giving the information for the purpose of taking certain action on it, is a matter which will not affect the giving of the information. Dalpat Rai v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 857 :
163 I. C. 609 : 1936 A. L. J. 592 :
9 R. A. 42 : 1936 A. W. R. 396 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 469.

—S. 182—Offence under—When complete.

Offence is completed when the information reaches the public servant. In re : Rathinam Pillai.

33 Cr. L. J. 452 (a) :
137 I. C. 333 : 427 : 35 L. W. 451 :
1932 M. W. N. 451 : I. R. 1932 Mad. 379 (2) :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 427.

—S. 182—Offence under—Withholding of information, if punishable.

S. 182, I. P. C., makes punishable the positive act of giving false information. There is nothing in the section showing that it intends to punish the withholding of information as distinct from the actual giving of information. Sher Mohammad v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 368 :
186 I. C. 703 : I. L. R. 1940 Lah. 396 :
42 P. L. R. 771 : 12 R. L. 430 :
A. I. R. 1940 Lah. 15.

—S. 182—Place of trial.

The Court at the place where the letter is written and posted has jurisdiction to try the case. Even if that Court be supposed to have no jurisdiction, S. 537, Cr. P. C., will cover the case. Emperor v. Narain Das.

37 Cr. L. J. 157 :
159 I. C. 808 : 1935 A. W. R. 1476 :
1936 A. L. J. 416 : 8 R. A. 516 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 105.

—S. 182—Place of trial.

Case under S. 182 has to be tried at a place where the public servant received the information. In re : Rathinam Pillai.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

33 Cr. L. J. 452 (a) :
137 I. C. 333 : 35 L. W. 451 :
1932 M. W. N. 451 : I. R. 1932 Mad 379 (2) :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 427.

—S. 182—Power of police to start proceedings under.

The power of the Police to institute proceedings under S. 182, Penal Code, in respect of a false report made to them, is not limited by the filing of a similar complaint subsequently before a Magistrate. Jang Bahadur Singh v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 272 :
114 I. C. 189 : 26 A. L. J. 533 :
I. R. 1929 All. 253 :
A. I. R. 1928 All. 342.

—S. 182—Procedure.

A petition was presented to a District Magistrate praying that he would proceed under S. 110, Cr. P. C., against a certain person, and gave certain information with regard to such a person. The District Magistrate without holding a judicial investigation believed the information to be false and granted sanction against the petitioner of an offence under S. 182, Penal Code : Held, the sanction to prosecute was valid. Emperor v. Gokal.

11 Cr. L. J. 3 :
4 I. C. 477 : 3 S. L. R. 132.

—S. 182—Procedure.

Accused filing narazi petition against Police report—Trial under S. 182 before disposal of petition—Accused is prejudiced and conviction should be set aside. Shekander Mia v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1077 :
145 I. C. 824 : 37 C. W. N. 399 :
6 R. C. 143 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 614.

—S. 182—Procedure.

Accused filing narazi petition—Although it is better that he is given opportunity to prove its truth, trial is not illegal if he is convicted without giving such opportunity. Nishikanta Chatterji v. Behari Kahar.

34 Cr. L. J. 1059 :
145 I. C. 660 : 60 Cal. 656 :
37 C. W. N. 368 : 6 R. C. 130 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 532.

—S. 182—Procedure.

Complaint against conduct of Police to District Magistrate—Order 'file' on complaint—Subsequent prosecution of petitioner under S. 182 : Held, petitioner could claim that sanction of District Magistrate was necessary for prosecution—Proceedings, held, should be quashed. Mehroo Vanko Rabari v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 951 :
170 I. C. 608 : 10 R. S. 65 :
31 S. L. R. 429 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 209.

—S. 182—Procedure—Complaint by public servant—Necessity of.

The provisions of S. 190 (1) (e), Cr. P. C., are subject to the provisions of S. 195 which follows it and hence a person cannot be prosecuted and convicted under S. 182, I. P. C., without there being a complaint in writing of a public servant against him as required by S. 195, Cr. P. C. Ram Prasad Dubé v. King-Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 787 :
189 I. C. 702 : 1940 O. L. R. 498 :
1940 O. W. N. 917 : 13 R. O. 114 :
A. I. R. 1940 Oudh 424.

———S. 182—Procedure—Complaint in writing, absence of, if irregularity.

The absence of a complaint in writing as required by S. 195, Cr. P. C., for the institution of a case under S. 182, Penal Code, is an irregularity covered by the provisions of S. 537 of the Cr. P. C. Lachmi Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 972 :
81 I. C. 620 : 1924 Pat. 181 :
5 P. L. T. 505 : A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 691.

———S. 182—Procedure—Complaint of offence under S. 182—Whether opportunity should be first given to accused to prove truth of complaint.

When a complaint of an offence under S. 182 or S. 211, Penal Code, (duly sanctioned or not requiring sanction) is presented to a Magistrate, it should be disposed of according to law, and there is no provision of law requiring him to first give the accused person an opportunity of proving the truth of the charge he had made. Emperor v. Ghansram.

8 Cr. L. J. 349 :
4 N. L. R. 136.

———S. 182—Procedure—Complaint of person to be prosecuted must be dealt with according to law first.

Where a person when called upon to show cause why he should not be prosecuted under S. 182, Penal Code, challenges the Police report and reiterates the charges made before the Police, it is clearly a complaint, and the Magistrate should deal with it under the provisions of S. 203, Cr. P. C. The case under S. 182, Penal Code, cannot be proceeded with until that person's complaint has been dealt with in accordance with law. Bhagabat Chandra Mandal v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 644 :
182 I. C. 235 : 12 R. C. 31 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 271.

———S. 182—Procedure—False charge to Police of cognizable offence—Summary trial of complainant under S. 182, legality of.

The accused lodged an information before the Police complaining that he had been unlawfully confined by a certain Police Officer. The accused was tried summarily under S. 182, Penal Code, and convicted: Held, that conviction was illegal as the charge amounted to an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, which could not be tried summarily. Tofazel Hoossein v. H. C. Hunt.

32 Cr. L. J. 110 :
128 I. C. 208 : 34 C. W. N. 556 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 64 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 711.

———S. 182—Procedure—False information before Police, offence under S. 182, I. P. C.—Prosecution for laying false information before dismissal of complaint, illegal.

S. 182 and not merely S. 211, Penal Code,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 186

applies to cases in which the false charge is made to a Police Officer. Magistrate has no jurisdiction prosecution for making a false complaint that complaint has been finally decided. Gati Mandal v. Emperor.

4 Cr.
4 C.

———S. 182—Procedure.

It is not permissible for the Magistrate to order an enquiry and to sanction the institution of the applicant under Ss. 182 a where he has not examined him on oath. Bhagwan Das v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 86
155 I. C. 1070 : 1935 A. W. R.
1935 A. L. J. 1067 : 7 R. A. 1
A. I. R. 1935 All.

———S. 182—Procedure.

Narazi petition against Police report missed under S. 203, Cr. P. C. (Act V of 18). —Trial under S. 182 can proceed, Kang Molla v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 64
182 I. C. 253 : I. L. R. 1939, 1 Cal. 32
12 R. C. 32 (1) : A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 34

———S. 182—Procedure.

Narazi petition by complainant — Enquiry into petition before issuing process for false complaint is necessary. Charles Johns v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 724 :
139 I. C. 217 : 36 C. W. N. 794 :
I. R. 1932 Cal. 602 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 550.

———S. 182—Procedure.

One D purporting to act on behalf of his father G, applied to a Cantonment Magistrate to have two shops opened and the property found in them placed in deposit. G was the owner of these shops and it was alleged that the tenant S had disappeared and that his whereabouts were not known. The application was granted and the shop was opened by the Police under direction from the Magistrate. Subsequently, an application was made by one G D acting on behalf of his brother S objecting that false information had been given and stating that a civil suit was pending regarding the title to the shops. The Magistrate thereupon cancelled his previous order and directed that S should be put in possession. S then applied for sanction to prosecute G under S. 182, Penal Code. The Cantonment Magistrate granted sanction to prosecute both G and S. They appealed to the Sessions Judge who revoked the sanction. S applied for revision: Held, that the Magistrate purported to act as a Court and that the Sessions Judge had authority to hear the appeal against that order, and if necessary, to revoke it. Sant Ram v. Diwan Chand.

24 Cr. L. J. 913 :
75 I. C. 289.

———S. 182—Procedure.

There is no provision in law that before a Magistrate can enquire into a case under S. 182, Penal Code, on the complaint of a Police Officer the accused person must have an opportunity of proving his case.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Emperor v. Baharali Biswas.

32 Cr. L. J. 1241 :
134 I. C. 919 : 58 Cal. 1065 :
35 C. W. N. 378 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 919.
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 634.

—S. 182—Sanction to prosecute under
—When can be given—Letter to District Magistrate containing imputations as to conduct of enquiry by Sub-Inspector of Police—Report as to falsity of allegations contained in letter, whether sufficient material for sanction—Sanction to prosecute, when to be granted.

A sanction under S. 195, Cr. P. C., must be based on material on the record before the Court. Where there is nothing to show that the information given by the accused was false to his knowledge or that he believed it to be false, no sanction for prosecution for an offence under S. 182, I. P. C. should be given.
Sunder v. Emperor. 20 Cr. L. J. 618 :
52 I. C. 282 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 511.

—S. 182—Sanction to prosecute, whether necessary.

No sanction is necessary for a prosecution in respect of an offence under S. 182, Penal Code.
Bakshi v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 729 :

81 I. C. 217 : 21 A. L. J. 805 :
46 All. 43 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 187.

—S. 182—Sanction under S. 195, Cr. P. C., necessity of.

A prosecution under S. 182, Penal Code, can be instituted only after sanction has been obtained under S. 195, Cr. P. C., or on the complaint of the public servant to whom the false information is given. Solaimuthu Pillai v. Murugaih Moopan. 16 Cr. L. J. 423 :

28 I. C. 999 : 1915 M. W. N. 272 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 639.

—S. 182—Scope—False charge, serious—S. 182, if applies—False charge—False information to Police—Distinction between offences under Ss. 182 and 211, I. P. C.

A prosecution for a false charge may be under S. 182 or S. 211, Penal Code, but if the false charge is a serious one, the graver S. 211 should be applied. Emperor v. Sardara Prasad Chatterjee. 2 Cr. L. J. 171 :
I. L. R. 32 Cal. 180.

—S. 182—Scope.

Once a person is acquitted of a charge under S. 211, Penal Code, he cannot subsequently be tried on the same facts for an offence under S. 182, Penal Code.
Ganapathi Bhatta v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 214 :
19 I. C. 310 : 24 M. L. J. 463 :
13 M. L. T. 360 : 37 Mad. 308.

—S. 182—Scope—Person giving information to Police about non-cognizable offence—Complaint found to be false—Person, if can be convicted under S. 182.

S. 182, I. P. C., makes no distinction between information relating to a cognizable offence and one relating to a non-cognizable offence nor is there anything in that section to justify the conclusion that it applies only to cases in which the information given to any public servant relates to a cognizable offence. In fact Illus. (a) and (b) to S. 182 show that that section applies as much to information relating to a non-cognizable offence as to one about a cognizable offence. When a false report is made to the Police, the question in deciding as to whether it amounts to an offence under S. 182 is not whether the report is one of a cognizable crime but whether it is of such a nature as might be supposed to lead the Police to make use of their lawful powers to the injury or annoyance of any person. Emperor v. Thakuri. 41 Cr. L. J. 778.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

189 I. C. 655 : 1940 O. W. N. 655.
1940 O. L. R. 492 : 13 R. O. 103 :
A. I. R. 1940 Oudh 413.

—Ss. 182, 210—"False report" and "false charge," distinction.

If the complainant confines himself to reporting what he knows of the facts, stating his suspicions, and leaving the matter to be further investigated by the Police, or leaving the Police to take such course as they think right in the performance of their duty, he may be making a report, but he is not making a charge. But if he takes the further step, without waiting for any official investigation, of definitely alleging his belief in the guilt of a specified person, and his desire that the specified person be proceeded against in Court, that act of his, whether verbal or written, if made to an officer of the law authorised to initiate proceedings based upon the complainant's statement whether amounting to an expression of the complainant's belief in the guilt of the specified person, or his desire that Court proceedings be taken against him, amounts to making a charge. Kashi Ram v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1239 :

82 I. C. 167 : 22 A. L. J. 829 :
46 All. 906 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 779.

—Ss. 182, 211.

"Charge," what amounts to—Prosecution for giving false information, where can be instituted—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 195, 203—Right of complainant to produce witnesses. Solaimuthu Pillai v. Murugaih Moopan. 16 Cr. L. J. 423 :

28 I. C. 999 : 1915 M. W. N. 272 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 639.

—Ss. 182, 211—Cognisance—Offences under both—Conviction under which.

Where a person commits an offence which comes both within the purview of Ss. 182 and 211, Penal Code, he should be prosecuted under S. 211, Penal Code, on the complaint of the Court according to the provisions of S. 195 (1) (b) and not under S. 182, Penal Code, merely on the complaint by a public servant. Ram Chand v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 399 :

115 I. C. 313 : I. R. 1929 Sind 73 :
23 S. L. R. 225 : A. I. R. 1929 Sind 115.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 182, 211—Cognizance — Offences under both—Conviction for which.

Where information to the Police amounting to a false charge within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code, is followed by a complaint to the Court based on the same allegations, the two complaints may be regarded as so closely connected that independent prosecutions and convictions for two offences are undesirable, and in the ordinary way, if a prosecution takes place, it should be for the more serious of the two offences committed, and this may be a good ground for quashing proceedings under the minor section in their early stages. But when there has been no prosecution for the more serious offence and a person has been prosecuted and convicted for the minor offence and the whole case is complete, there is no reason for holding that the conviction is illegal. Ma Paw v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 202 :
128 I. C. 836 : 8 Rang. 499 :
I. R. 1931 Rang. 52 :
A. I. R. 1931 Rang. 12.

———Ss. 182, 211—Cognizance.

There is no reason why even if a Magistrate is disentitled by a statutory bar to take cognizance of any offence under S. 182, Penal Code, cognizance by him of an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, should also be barred without any statutory provision to that effect. A Magistrate may take cognizance of an offence under S. 211 on the complaint of the investigating Police Officer though he is not also an officer referred to under S. 190 (1) (a), but if the charge under S. 211, Penal Code fails, there cannot, by reason of S. 190 (1) (c), Cr. P. C., be a conviction under S. 182, Penal Code. Kantir Missir v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 710 :
117 I. C. 37 : 11 P. L. T. 88 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 357 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 98.

———Ss. 182, 211—Conviction — False information to Police—Proceedings pending in Police—Conviction of accused for giving false information, legality of.

The complainant was arrested for an offence under S. 411, Penal Code, by the Police in consequence of information furnished by the accused and was released on bail the following day. Before any report was made by the Police to the District Magistrate under S. 178, Cr. P. C., or any other proceedings was taken in the matter, the complainant lodged a complaint against the accused under S. 211 of the Penal Code, and the Magistrate convicted the accused on this charge: Held, that the conviction was bad as the charge under S. 411 against the complainant had not been enquired into and disposed of; nor could the conviction be altered to one under S. 182. A complaint must be disposed of one way or the other before it can form the subject of a charge under S. 211, or, at the least, the responsibility of instituting proceedings under S. 182 must be assumed by the Police themselves. Emperor v. Topan Chatomal.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 199 :
4 I. C. 1160 : 3 S. L. R. 189.

———Ss. 182, 211—Distinction between.

S. 182, Penal Code, is to be interpreted not in isolation but in association with S. 211. Where the information conveyed to the Police amounts to the false institution of criminal proceedings against a defined person, or amounts to the falsely charging of a defined person with an offence, as "offence" is defined in the Penal Code, then the person giving such information has committed an offence under S. 211. In such a case, S. 211 is, and S. 182 is not, the appropriate section under which to frame the charge. S. 182 when read with S. 211, must be understood as referring to cases where information given to the public servant falls short of amounting to the institution of criminal proceedings against a defined person and falls short of amounting to the false charging of a defined person with an offence as defined in the Penal Code. Per Heaton, J.—Where a matter does fairly come under S. 211 and where a sanction is needed in order that the prosecution may proceed under that section, to proceed without any Magisterial sanction under S. 182 is to evade the salutary provisions of law. Apaya Talaba Munde v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 491 :
20 I. C. 747 : 15 Bom. L. R. 574.

———Ss. 182, 211—Offences under—Distinction.

Unlike a "complaint," "false charging" is not defined by Statute, but it has been repeatedly held to mean a false accusation made to any authority bound by law to investigate it or to take any step in regard to it. Such an accusation may be effectively made in certain cases to a person possessing no Magisterial powers but bound by law to communicate it forthwith to the nearest Magistrate or the officer-in-charge of the nearest Police Station. But a false charge within the meaning of S. 211 must be made to a competent Magistrate or other person with a statutory standing in the matter and must further be made with the object of setting the criminal law in motion. Banti Pandey v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 210 :
129 I. C. 87 : 12 P. L. T. 109 :
I. R. 1931 Pat. 71 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 550.

———Ss. 182, 211—Offences under S. 211—No complaint by Court—Cognizance of offence under S. 182, if can be taken.

An offence under S. 211, Penal Code, must always include an offence under S. 182 of the Code. Where a person is prosecuted in respect of an offence under the former section but it appears that the prosecution is illegal owing to the absence of a complaint in writing by the Court before whom the false charge was made, it is open to the Court to convict the accused under S. 182, Penal Code. Daroga Gope v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 1269 (b) :
88 I. C. 1045 : 6 P. L. T. 515 :
5 Pat. 33 : 1926 Pat. 106 :
A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 717.

———Ss. 182, 211—Procedure—Separate trial—Validity of.

A person cannot be tried separately under Ss. 182, 211, Penal Code, when the charge under either section is in respect of the same offence, namely, giving false information to or lodging a false complaint with the Police. Jaggu v. Pala.
17 Cr. L. J. 177 :
33 I. C. 817 : U. B. R. 1915, 95 :
A. I. R. 1916 U. Bur. 18.

———Ss. 182, 211—Procedure.

The appellant lodged information before a Sub-Inspector of Police that certain persons had beaten him and set fire to a house. The Sub-Inspector on inquiry did not believe the story and recommended that the appellant might be prosecuted under Ss. 182 and 211, Penal Code. The prosecution of the appellant was then directed by a Deputy Magistrate. A preliminary inquiry was made and the appellant was committed to the Court of Session and convicted under S. 211: Held, that even if there was any defect in the initiation of the proceedings in the original Court, still when the accused had been committed for trial to the Court of Session, a conviction by that Court could not be set aside simply on the ground of some irregularity in the commitment proceedings, more specially when that point was not raised in the first Court, and that S. 532, Cr. P. C., would cure such a defect. Dilan Singh v. Emperor.
13 Cr. L. J. 826 :
17 I. C. 570 : 40 Cal. 360.

———Ss. 182, 211 — Procedure — Trials different, validity of.

A person cannot be tried separately under S. 182 and under S. 211, Penal Code, when the charge under either section is in respect of the same offence, namely, giving false information to or lodging a false complaint with the Police. Jaggu v. Pala.
17 Cr. L. J. 177 :
33 I. C. 817 : U. B. R. 1915 II, 95.

———Ss. 182, 211—Scope, distinction between.

To constitute an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, the information given to a public servant should not only be false in fact but it must be false to the knowledge or to the belief of the informant and it is not sufficient that the accused had reason to believe it to be false, whereas, under S. 211 it is sufficient if the accused makes his complaint without any just grounds and when he acts without due care or caution. X v. Emperor.
25 Cr. L. J. 1358 :
82 I. C. 718 : A. I. R. 1925 Sind 184.

———Ss. 182, 211—Scope—False information to Police, if falls under both.

The offence of laying false information to the Police falls under the first paragraph of S. 211

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

as well as under S. 182 of the Penal Code. Barkatullah v. Sadho Kalwar.
13 Cr. L. J. 855 :
17 I. C. 791 : 10 A. L. J. 429.

———S. 182, 211—Scope.

Ss. 182 and 211 of the Penal Code do not cover and refer to the same class of cases. S. 182 is primarily intended for cases of false information which do not ordinarily involve a particular allegation or charge against a specified and definite person. S. 211 covers cases where there is a definite information or charge with reference to a criminal offence against a particular person. If a complainant confines himself to reporting what he knows of the facts, stating his suspicions and leaving the matter to be further investigated by the Police, he makes a report and not a charge. But if he definitely alleges his belief in the guilt of a specified person and desires that he be proceeded against in Court, the act of his, whether verbal or written, if made to any officer of the law authorized to initiate proceedings, based upon the complainant's statement, whether amounting to an expression of the complainant's belief in the guilt of the specified person or his desire that Court proceedings be taken against him, amounts to making a charge. The former case is covered by S. 182 and the latter by S. 211 of the Penal Code. Bholu v. Punaji.
28 Cr. L. J. 934 :
105 I. C. 454 : 10 N. L. J. 191 :
23 N. L. R. 136 :
A. I. R. 1928 Nag. 17.

———S. 182-A — Conviction—Alteration of Offence not proved under S. 211 but facts establishing offence under S. 182—Duty of Magistrate to convict under S. 182.

Where on a trial under S. 211, Penal Code, the facts proved do not amount to an offence under that section, but disclose an offence under S. 182 (a), Penal Code, it is the duty of the Magistrate to frame a charge against the accused under the latter section and try him. The Public Prosecutor v. Thavaslandi Thevan.
11 Cr. L. J. 154 :
4 I. C. 1039 : 6 M. L. T. 175.

———S. 183.

See also (i) Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, S. 69, Sub-s. (3).
(ii) Bombay Local Boards Act, 1928, S. 116.
(iii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 195, 195 (a), 476.
(iv) Penal Code, 1860, S. 186.

———S. 183—Applicability.

Operation of section cannot be extended to acts which are not strictly justifiable by law. Sakharam Rawji Pawar v. Emperor.
36 Cr. L. J. 1263 :
157 I. C. 859 : 37 Bom. L. R. 362 :
59 Bom 545 : 8 R. B. 88 :
A. I. R. 1935 Bom. 233.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 183—Offence under—Nakedar laying octroi on goods not landed—Refusal of tandel—Seizure—Resistance to such seizure, if offence

The accused who was the tandel of a country-ship carried goods consigned to various persons in Jaitapur and Rajapur ports. The ship arrived at the port of Jaitapur which is at the mouth of the creek. The goods which were consigned to Jaitapur traders were landed, and octroi was duly paid in accordance with rules made by the District Local Board. There was no separate octroi Naka for the port of Rajapur, and the Nakedar of the Jaitapur Naka went on board the applicant's ship together with a peon and panchas and demanded from the tandel the amount of octroi duty, about Rs. 60, on the goods which he was proposing to take to Rajapur. The tandel declined to pay, firstly because he had not the money to do so, and, secondly because, as he said, the Rajapur merchants objected to pay. On his refusal, the Nakedar acting under R. 8, seized part of the cargo. The accused resisted and was prosecuted for an offence under S. 183, Penal Code, that is, for the offence of resistance to the taking of property by the lawful authority of a public servant and was convicted: Held, that the prosecution had not established that the jurisdiction of the District Local Board to impose taxes extended to goods on board the ship before the goods were landed or that the Local Board had power to make use of R. 8, providing for collection of octroi in the same manner as is provided in the case of a toll by S. 116, Bombay Local Boards Act. The conviction was, therefore, not maintainable. Dema Mahadu Amberkar v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 37 :
165 I. C. 637 : 38 Bom. L. R. 790 :
9 R. B. 159 : A. I. R. 1936 Bom. 376.

—S. 183—Offence under—Obstruction to attachment by—Illegal warrant, if offence.

The petitioner was convicted for obstructing an attachment of his property and the conviction was upheld on appeal. It was objected on revision that the warrant of attachment being illegal, the attaching officer was not duly empowered to effect the attachment and no offence was committed by the petitioner obstructing him. It appeared that the order of the Court was for attachment of the judgment-debtor's property which might be pointed out by the decree-holder, but the petitioner was not the judgment-debtor, and the attaching officer was not provided with a list of the property to be attached as contemplated by Ss. 236 and 486, C. P. C. Further the warrant was not signed by the Court, the provisions of last paragraph of S. 483 of the C. P. C. were not complied with and the parts of the Form used relating to security were left blank: Held, that the objections were valid and the conviction must be set aside. Prabhu Dyal v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 75 :
6 P. L. R. 573 : 49 P. R. Cr. 1905.

—S. 183—Offence under—Removal of property attached by illegal warrant, if offence.

A warrant for the attachment of property which is not signed by the Judge or such officer as the Court may appoint in this behalf, is not a legal warrant, and the removal of property directed by such warrant to be attached is not punishable under S. 183 of the Penal Code. Karamatullah v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 372 :
55 I. C. 852 : 18 A. L. J. 284 :
2 U. P. L. R. All. 101 : A. I. R. 1920 All. 51.

—S. 183—Offence under—Resistance to attachment, if offence.

A judgment-debtor has no right to offer resistance to the attachment in execution of property which is in his possession. Emperor v. Dala Ram.

29 Cr. L. J. 538 :
109 I. C. 362 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 844.

—S. 183—Offence under—Resisting execution of defective warrants, if offence—Resisting or obstructing public servant in discharge of his duty—Execution of warrant of attachment—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, R. 24 (3)—Warrant, illegal—Officer executing, not authorised—Offence.

In order to support a conviction for resistance to a public servant in discharge of his duty, the warrant must be a lawful one and the person who executes the warrant must be clothed with lawful authority under the warrant to execute it. A warrant of execution which does not bear a date on or before which it should be executed, is not a good warrant. The Nazir of a Court has no lawful authority to execute a warrant directed to the bailiff of the Court. It is no offence to resist the execution of a bad warrant, or to obstruct the execution of a warrant by a person to whom it is not directed. Mohini Mohan Banerji v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 39 :
36 I. C. 871 : 1 P. L. J. 550 :
3 P. L. W. 64 : A. I. R. 1916 Pat. 272.

—S. 183—Offence under—Warrant not in the possession of the Amin at the time of making the attachment—Resisting such public servant, if offence.

It is the intention of the law that when a public servant attaches property under a warrant in execution of a decree, he must have the warrant with him, otherwise the taking of the property is not lawful, and resistance to such public servant, is no offence. Emperor v. Ganeshi Lal.

1 Cr. L. J. 896 :
24 A. W. N. 229 : I. L. R. 27 All. 258 :
1 A. L. J. 595.

—S. 183—Procedure.

Arrest in execution—Judgment-debtor released forcibly—Written complaint described under S. 476 and S. 195, Cr. P. C.—The fact that reference is made to S. 476 will not make it any the less one under S. 195 and complaint is proper. Jodhi v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 990 :
149 I. C. 377 : 11 O. W. N. 720 :
6 R. O. 563 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 277.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 184—Authority to sell—Proof of—Necessity of.

To justify a conviction under S. 184, Penal Code, the lawful authority of a public servant offering a property for sale must be proved by the prosecution. Tara Singh v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 90 :
2 A. L. J. 128 : 25 A. W. N. 65.

—S. 184—Obstruction—Nature of.

Obstruction to proceeding, if must be physical—Accused abusing bidders at auction-sale—No further bidding and postponement of sale resulting—Accused, held guilty under S. 184. Provincial Government, Central Provinces and Berar v. Balaram.

39 Cr. L. J. 954 :
177 I. C. 819 : 11 R. N. 174 :
1938 N. L. J. 299 :
A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 529.

—S. 184—Obstruction—Posting of placards asserting title, if obstruction.

Where during the sale of some nazul land by an Assistant Commissioner, the accused posted up placards asserting title to the land and warning bidders not to go in for it: Held, that, as obstruction must be physical, the conduct of the accused did not amount to an obstruction within the meaning of S. 184, Penal Code. Emperor v. Gopal Rai.

2 Cr. L. J. 44 :
7 P. R. Cr. 1905 : 6 P. L. R. 374.

—S. 185—Offence under—Bidding for right to sell drugs without intention of performing the obligation, if offence.

A person who bids at a sale held by a Collector of the right to sell drugs in a certain area, without any intention of performing the obligation under which he is laying himself at the time of bidding, and gives a false name, is guilty of an offence under S. 185, Penal Code. Bishan Prashad v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 54 :
26 I. C. 646 : 13 A. L. J. 109 : 37 All. 128 :
A. I. R. 1915 All. 93.

—S. 185—Offence under—Inability to deposit earnest money, if offence.

Bona fide bidder unable to deposit, earnest money cannot be prosecuted under S. 185. Kali Charan v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 789 :
148 I. C. 784 : 6 R. O. 434 (2) :
11 O. W. N. 473 :
A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 186.

—S. 186.

—Accused assaulting Abkari Officers.

—Cognizance.

—Conviction.

—Evidence.

—Interpretation.

—Obstruction.

—Offence under.

—Procedure.

—Resistance to officer carrying out not patently illegal instructions, if offence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Restitution of conjugal rights.
—What constitutes offence.

—S. 186.

See also (i) Bengal Food Adulteration Act, 1910, S. 21.

(ii) Bengal Land Revenue Code, 1879, S. 119 (2).

(iii) C. P. C. 1908, O. XXI, Rr. 97, 24 (2).

(iv) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 195, 195 (1) (a), 476.

(v) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 21, 183, 186, 189, 225-B.

—S. 186—Accused assaulting Abkari Officers and preventing search of person suspected of possessing cocaine—Search—Presence of panel not required—Presumption—Evidence, withholding of—Judgment, delivery of, after passing sentence—Legality—Irregularity—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898) Ss. 366, 367, 537.

A Sub-Inspector and a Constable of the Abkari Department were proceeding to search a person A who they suspected was in possession of cocaine without a licence. The accused assaulted the officers, as a result of which, A absconded and the officers were, therefore, unable to search him: Held, that the accused was guilty of offences under S. 186 and S. 358 of the Penal Code. Emperor v. Thevar Issaji.

12 Cr. L. J. 457 :
11 I. C. 993 : 13 Bom. L. R. 635.

—S. 186—Cognizance—Complaint by public servant—Necessity of.

No prosecution in respect of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code, can be instituted except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is subordinate. Neither the report of a process-server on the back of a warrant, to the Civil Court complaining of obstruction nor the report of the Presiding Officer of the Civil Court to the Police is a complaint satisfying the provisions of law. Darkan v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 645 :
110 I. C. 101 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 827.

—S. 186—Cognizance—Prosecution under—No sanction, effect.

A prosecution under S. 186 for obstructing a peon is bad when there was no sanction obtained for it. Ahmud Hussain v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 462 :
20 I. C. 622 : 17 C. W. N. 980.

—S. 186—Conviction—Alteration of.

Where a person is wrongly tried and convicted for an offence under S. 186, the conviction can be altered into one under S. 225-B when all the material facts are stated in the complaint and duly deposed to by witnesses and the accused would not be prejudiced by the alteration of the finding. Jamna Das v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 753 :
103 I. C. 833 : 9 L. L. J. 408 :
29 P. L. R. 196 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 708.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 186—Conviction — Obstruction to public servant—Warrant, legality of, objection as to, taken in revision.

A search-warrant was addressed to a Police Station and was endorsed by the officer-in-charge of the Police Station to a constable who, when executing the warrant, was obstructed by the accused. The latter were tried for an offence under S. 186, Penal Code, and were convicted. Neither at the time of the search nor during their trial did they take any objection to the legality of the warrant. In revision it was urged that the warrant was illegal inasmuch as it was addressed to a Police Station and not to any Police Officer by name or by description: Held, that no objection to the legality of the warrant, having been taken at the time of the search or at the trial, the conviction could not be set aside on that ground, which was merely an ex post facto attempt at justification. Ma Kin v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 845 : 86 I. C. 669 : 3 Bur. L. J. 182 : A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 383.

—S. 186—Evidence—Duty of prosecution.

The prosecution have to prove their case when they ask that a person should be convicted for the obstruction of a public servant in the discharge of his public functions. They must show that a public servant was discharging public duties imposed upon him by law. Jamnadas Tharumal v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 401 (b) : 187 I. C. 127 : 12 R. S. 223 : A. I. R. 1940 Sind 142.

—S. 186—Interpretation—'Obstruction', meaning of.

The word 'obstruction' as used in S. 186, Penal Code, means actual obstruction, i. e., actual resistance or obstacle put in the way of a public servant. The word implies the use of criminal force and mere threats or threatening language are not sufficient. Darkan v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 645 : 110 I. C. 101 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 827.

—S. 186—Interpretation — Obstruction, what is—Sufficient indication that warrant would be resisted by force—Whether constitutes obstruction.

Where there is sufficient indication that force would have been used if the peon having a warrant of attachment had persisted in executing it, it is quite enough to constitute obstruction. Dukhan Sahu v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 100 : 172 I. C. 168 : 18 P. L. T. 783 : 4 B. R. 115 : 10 R. P. 303 (2) : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 633.

—S. 186—Interpretation—"Obstruction," what is.

Where the Constable is prevented by the accused from regulating the traffic, the exact means employed by the accused if he acts intentionally do not matter. Even threatening language is sufficient to constitute "obstruction"

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

tion" within S. 186, Penal Code. Nanhu v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 363 (a) :

173 I. C. 732 : 10 R. A. 507 :

1937 A. L. J. 1344 :

1937 A. W. R. 1179 :

A. I. R. 1938 All. 118.

—S. 186—Interpretation—Public function—Meaning of.

The "public functions" contemplated by S. 186 of the Penal Code mean legal or legitimately authorised public functions, and are not intended to cover any act that a public functionary may choose to take upon himself to perform, and the mere fact of a public servant believing that he is acting in the discharge of his duties, is not sufficient to make resistance or obstruction to him amount to an offence within the meaning of the section. Jaswant Singh v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 721 :

81 I. C. 209 : 1 Lah. Cas. 429 :

A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 139.

—S. 186—Interpretation — Voluntarily, meaning of.

The use of the word "voluntarily" in S. 186, Penal Code, indicates that the Legislature contemplated the commission of some overt act of obstruction, and did not intend to render penal mere passive conduct. Jaswant Singh v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 721 :

81 I. C. 209 : 1 Lah. Cas. 429 :

A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 139.

—S. 186—Interpretation — Voluntary obstruction—What is.

Where a person not only refuses to give up the property but threatens to do harm to the Police Constable if he should venture to carry out the warrant, the threat is an overt act sufficient in law to constitute "voluntary obstruction" within the meaning of S. 186, Penal Code. Emperor v. Pundlick Krishna Pat. 1 Cr. L. J. 262 : 6 Bom. L. R. 254.

—S. 186—Obstruction—What is.

By obstruction in S. 186 is meant physical obstruction. In re : Babulal. 37 Cr. L. J. 587 :

162 I. C. 308 : 19 N. L. J. 120 :

I. L. R. 1936 Nag. 50 : 8 R. N. 258 :

A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 86.

—S. 186—Obstruction—What is.

Mere threat of violence does not amount to obstruction. Each case must be decided on its own facts. Nafur Sardar v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 181 :

141 I. C. 636 : 36 C. W. N. 1038 :

60 Cal. 149 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 153 :

A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 871.

—S. 186—Obstruction—What is.

Mere verbal threats do not amount to obstruction. Ah Choung v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 175 :

135 I. C. 653 : 9 Rang. 601 :

I. R. 1932 Rang. 61 :

A. I. R. 1932 Rang. 21.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

— S. 186—Obstruction—What is—Running away to avoid arrest under warrant of civil Court, whether offence.

A mere running away of a person not charged with any offence, whom an official of a Civil Court tries to arrest under a warrant of that Court, does not amount to obstructing a public servant in the discharge of his functions within the meaning of S. 186, Penal Code, nor does it come within S. 224, Penal Code. Perru Muhammad Lebhai v. Swaminatha Pillai. 17 Cr. L. J. 71 : 32 I. C. 663 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 182.

— S. 186—Obstruction—What is.

S. 186 does not contemplate constructive obstruction to a judicial officer in the discharge of his judicial functions even when they are of a quasi-executive character or when the proceedings before him are in execution. Thakur Parsad v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 104 (2) :
159 I. C. 503 : 16 P. L. T. 808 :
2 B. R. 95 : 8 R. P. 291 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 74.

— S. 186—Obstruction—What is.

Threats made by a person holding an offensive weapon in his hands must be taken to be just as much an obstruction as that caused by a person actually blocking a gateway or handling a public servant in a manner calculated to prevent him from executing his duty. Emperor v. Tohfa.

34 Cr. L. J. 1211 :
146 I. C. 183 : 1933 A. L. J. 952 :
55 All. 985 : 6 R. A. 272 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 759.

— S. 186—Obstruction—What is.

Where an octroi officer is acting within his authority in asking the accused to show the goods, refusal to show them amounts to obstruction offered in the discharge of the public functions of the officer which would be punishable under S. 186. Sajan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 140 :
159 I. C. 665 : 29 S. L. R. 54 :
8 R. S. 91 : A. I. R. 1935 Sind 245.

— S. 186—Offence under—Act No. VIII of 1873 (Northern Indian Canal and Drainage Act), Ss. 45, 47.

Where under a written order signed by a Tahsildar, the Naib-Nazir was directed to realise certain canal dues, and he, on attempting to do so by attachment and sale of the defaulter's property, was resisted by the owners of the property, in was held that the conviction was good. Emperor v. Abdullah.

2 Cr. L. J. 183 :
25 A. W. N. 74 : 27 All. 499 : 2 A. L. J. 219.

— S. 186—Offence under—Assault on persons summoned by public servant to aid in investigation.

A Naib-Tahsildar of Income-tax visited the village of the accused where he was told by the Lambardars that the accused kept several shops and ought to be assessed to Income-tax. A dispute thereupon took place between the Lambardars and the accused, and in the course of the quarrel, the latter assaulted and beat the former, who, as a result, declined to render any help to the Naib-Tahsildar in his investigation : Held, that the action of the accused did not amount to obstructing the Naib-Tahsildar in the discharge of the public functions within the meaning of S. 186, Penal Code. Matu Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 594 :
73 I. C. 338 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 238.

— S. 186—Offence under—Attachment under distress warrant—Property made over to surety—Second warrant to realise amount by sale of property attached and on failure to attach other properties—Surety denying suretyship—Attachment of other properties—Obstruction—If offence.

The petitioner was assessed to income-tax and a distress warrant was issued. The peon attached a bullock and left it in the custody of a surety. A second peon was then deputed to realise the amount under warrant by sale of the bullock and failing that by attachment and sale of other properties. The surety denied that he had received charge of the former bullock. The peon attached two more bullocks and the petitioner forcibly prevented their removal : Held, that the peon was acting within the scope of the directions given to him in the second warrant in attaching the two bullocks and the petitioner was guilty of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Pichit Lal Missir v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1099 :
119 I. C. 886 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 614 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 503.

— S. 186—Offence under—Constable entering house to remove stolen goods—Door shut on Constable, if offence.

A Head Constable entered the house of the accused to remove certain articles alleged to have been stolen. The accused shut the door of the room on the Constable and threatened to kill him if he removed the articles : Held, that the accused was guilty of obstruction to a public servant in the discharge of his public functions and had, therefore, committed an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. In re : Gottumukkula Narayanaraju.

26 Cr. L. J. 97 :
83 I. C. 657 : 1924 M. W. N. 438 :
20 L. W. 717 : 35 M. L. T. 126 :
A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 760.

— S. 186—Offence under—Escape from custody of process-server, if offence.

A person who escapes from the custody of a process-server after he is arrested, and shuts himself up in a room and refuses to come out, does not commit the offence of obstructing a public servant in the discharge of his duties under S. 186 of the Penal Code. Jamna Das v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 753 :
103 I. C. 833 : 9 L. L. J. 408 :
29 P. L. R. 196 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 708.

— S. 186—Offence under—Execution of decree—Illegal warrant for delivery of possession—Obstruction, whether offence.

Where obstruction is offered by a third person to delivery of possession by the Amin in execution of a decree, the proper course is for the decree-holder to apply under O. XXI, R. 97, C. P. C., for an order to remove the obstruction and to deliver possession of the property. Where, however, instead of doing that the decree-holder applies for a second order for delivery of actual possession and later his Pleader asks only for symbolical delivery, but an order to the Amin for actual delivery is erroneously drawn up, the warrant for delivery of actual possession must be held to be illegal. In such a case, it is open to the third person in possession of the property and not bound by the decree, to obstruct the Amin. Murugappa Naicker v. Rex.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 750 :
86 I. C. 286 : 21 L. W. 82 :
48 M. L. J. 97 : A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 613.

———S. 186—Offence under.

Issue of warrant of attachment under O. XXI, R. 22 (1), C. P. C.—Reasons not recorded under O. XXI, R. 22 (2)—Resistance to such warrant is an offence. Bechan Mahton v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 319 :
160 I. C. 450 (a) : 16 P. L. T. 872 :
2 B. R. 214 : 8 R. P. 369 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 37.

———S. 186—Offence under—Obstructing a public servant not in the discharge of his public functions, if offence.

The accused who was a spectator at a dramatic performance smoked in contravention of a condition in the handbills issued by the dramatic company. The accused was thereupon asked by a Police Officer on duty at the theatre to desist, which order the accused disputed. The Police charged him under Ss. 290, 504 and 505, Penal Code. The Magistrate convicted the accused of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code : Held, that the conviction was illegal and that the words 'public functions' in S. 186, Penal Code, meant legal or legitimately authorized public functions and that the Police Officer acted in excess of his powers when he gave the order and was, therefore, not discharging his public functions. Dod Basappa v. Government of Mysore.

10 Cr. L. J. 269 :
12 M. C. C. R. 285.

———S. 186—Offence under — Obstructing Munsif to pass through accused's own property for making local inspection, whether offence.

The accused, who were no parties to a suit in which a public right of way was claimed, did not allow a Munsif, in whose Court the suit was pending, to pass in a boat through a ditch which was their private property, when the Munsif wanted to pass through it for the purpose of making a local inspection in connection with the suit : Held, that the accused did not commit any offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Nishi Kanta Pat v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 62 :
37 I. C. 46 : 20 C. W. N. 857 :
A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 180.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 186—Offence under — Obstructing public servant in discharge of public function—Written order, whether must be shown to accused.

In order to constitute an offence under S. 186, Penal Code, it is not necessary to prove that the written order under which the public servant was acting was actually shown to the accused. It is enough if it is found that the public servant had the order with him and could show it to anybody who wanted to see the same or question his authority. Tri-bhuvan v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 641 (a) :
45 I. C. 833 : 5 O. L. J. 112 :
A. I. R. 1918 Oudh 162.

———S. 186—Offence under—Obstruction to person acting under orders of public servant, if offence.

A Circle Inspector went to the compound of the accused with a servant under the orders of the District Deputy Collector in order to remove an encroachment. When he ordered the servant to remove the encroachment and the latter placed a scythe on the fence, the accused caught hold of the same with a view to restrain him from removing the fence. The accused was charged with an offence under S. 186, Penal Code : Held, that the obstruction offered by the accused to the servant amounted to an obstruction to the Circle Inspector himself and the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 186 of the Penal Code. Bhaga Mana v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 529 :
109 I. C. 353 : 30 Bom. L. R. 364 :
52 Bom. 286 : A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 135.

———S. 186—Offence under—Obstruction to public servant acting ultra vires, if offence.

If the order under which a public servant acts is illegal or ultra vires, any obstruction caused to him would not be punishable under S. 186, Penal Code. Morshwar Janardan Gogate v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 353 :
114 I. C. 854 : 30 Bom. L. R. 1255 :
I. R. 1929 Bom. 262 : A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 497.

———S. 186—Offence under—Obstruction to servant acting under orders of public servant, if offence.

Where a cadastral surveyor, on receiving an application from the District Inspector of Land Records for measuring and demarcating certain lands went to the spot and when he was measuring the land, the accused snatched the crowbar from one of the surveyor's servants who was digging a hole for fixing a stone : Held, that the accused was guilty under S. 186, Penal Code, inasmuch as the surveyor was performing his legitimate functions under the rules of the Land Revenue Code and the obstruction offered by the accused was tantamount to an obstruction of the surveyor. Limba Tayya Kasid v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 401 :
122 I. C. 418 : 31 Bom. L. R. 800 :
A. I. R. 1929 Bom. 385.

———S. 186—Offence under—Officer acting without jurisdiction—Obstruction, whether offence. S. 186 of the Penal Code, does not cover the case of a public servant who, instead of acting in the discharge of his public functions as there contemplated, is acting wholly outside his jurisdiction or authority. The question whether a public servant was acting in the discharge of his public functions is a question of fact and not a matter of the public servant's intentions. His intentions may be perfectly honest, but, if in fact and in law the functions in discharge of which he is obstructed are 'not public functions, no offence can be committed under S. 186, Penal Code. Emperor v. Kadarbhai Usufalli Bohri.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 705 :
103 I. C. 593 : 29 Bom. L. R. 987 :
51 Bom. 896 : A. I. R. 1927 Bom. 483.

—S. 186—Offence under.

Peon entrusted with warrant of attachment satisfying that goods belonged to person concerned—Execution resisted by son of such person: Held, son committed offence under S. 186. Dukhan Sahu v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 100 :
172 I. C. 168 : 18 P. L. T. 783 :
4 B. R. 115 : 10 R. P. 303 (2) :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 633.

—S. 186—Offence under — Process-server violently obstructed.

The persons seriously obstructing, insulting and jostling a process-server in the execution of his duty are guilty of the offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Jatto v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 700 :
30 I. C. 748 : 30 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 456.

—S. 186—Offence under—Proof—Municipality trying to remove goods from a strip of land—Bona fide dispute—Bombay District Municipalities Act (III of 1901), S. 122—Practice—Theory of guilt and innocence equally likely.

Before an offence under S. 186, Penal Code, can be said to be established against any person, it is requisite, as the section itself expressly recites, to prove that the public servant obstructed was obstructed in the discharge of his public functions. That is a matter of fact and not a matter of the public servant's intentions. His intentions may have been perfectly honest, but if in fact and in law the function in the discharge of which he was obstructed were not public functions, then no offence can be committed under S. 186. The functions would not be public functions if they fall wholly outside the jurisdiction or authority which a public officer possessed. Emperor v. Shivdasomkar Marwadi.

14 Cr. L. J. 251 :
19 I. C. 507 : 15 Bom. L. R. 315.

—S. 186—Offence under—Receiver appointed by Court taking possession of corn of third party—Third party retaking possession peacefully and not allowing Receiver to make illegal batai—Offence, if committed.

Where the Receiver appointed by Court takes possession of corn in possession of a third party who subsequently retakes its possession peacefully and does not allow the

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Receiver to make batai of the corn, the third party cannot be punished under S. 379, Penal Code, because it takes possession only peacefully of its own property. Further since what the Receiver is trying to do is expressly forbidden by Sub-r. (2) of r. 1, O. XL, C. P. C., it cannot be said that the third party obstructed a public servant, even though a Receiver be a public servant within the meaning of S. 186, Penal Code. S. 186, Penal Code, contemplates that the public servant obstructed should be discharging his public functions lawfully, but when there was no legal basis for his acts, the section does not apply. Abdulkabir Muhammad Sidik Ujan v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 103 :
184 I. C. 799 : 1940 Kar. 105 :
12 R. S. 134 : A. I. R. 1939 Sind 333.

—S. 186—Offence under—Refusal of subordinate to allow superior to check books, if criminal offence.

The refusal of a Patwari to allow a Kanungo to go through his books and to check them, is only an act of insubordination and is not a criminal act falling within the purview of S. 186, Penal Code. Kishori Lal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 597 :
85 I. C. 821 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 409.

—S. 186—Offence under—Refusal to sit on panchayat with certain members, belonging to depressed class, whether offence.

The accused when asked by the Sub-Divisional Officer to sit on a panchayat with a member of the depressed classes refused to do so and told the Sub-Divisional Officer that the panchayat would cease to exist and instigated his fellow panchas and other persons not to sit with members of the depressed classes in the panchayat: Held, that the accused was guilty of bad manners, and was not a good citizen or a useful member of the community but that there was nothing in his conduct which would bring him within the purview of S. 186, Penal Code. Ram Ghulam Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 978 :
87 I. C. 514 : 23 A. L. J. 352 :
47 All. 579 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 401.

—S. 186 — Offence under — Resistance of illegal warrant, if offence.

Resistance or obstruction to the execution of an illegal warrant is not an offence under S. 186. Emperor v. Tohfa.

34 Cr. L. J. 1211 :
146 I. C. 183 : 55 All. 985 :
1933 A. L. J. 952 : 6 R. A. 272 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 759.

—S. 186—Offence under—Resistance to execution of time-barred warrant, whether offence.

When the date fixed in a warrant of attachment has expired, the warrant is no longer in force and capable of execution, and if any person offers resistance to execution purporting to be made under the time-expired warrant, he is not guilty of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Mahadeo v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 157 :
99 I. C. 413 : 4 O. W. N. 43 :
2 Luck. 40 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 91.

———S. 186—Offence under—Resistance to execution of illegal warrant, if offence.

A warrant issued under the Public Demands Recovery Act was returnable on July 26. The accused resisted its execution on August 2nd. The prosecution alleged that it was extended to August 8th: Held, that as that date did not appear on the warrant, the accused were not guilty in resisting its execution, as on the face of it, it was not a good warrant. A warrant issued under the Chowkidari Act was directed to the Naib-Nazir and he delegated its execution to his subordinate peon whose name did not appear on the warrant: Held, the warrant could not be lawfully executed by the peon, and resistance to such execution is no offence. Sheikh Nasser v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 128 :
5 I. C. 409 : 14 C. W. N. 282.

———S. 186—Offence under.

Resistance to public servant—Goods sought to be attached in physical possession of third party—Obstruction by third party—Resistance not more than what was justifiable to resist an unlawful proceeding—Conviction is not legal. Nagarmal Marwadi v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 883 :
139 I. C. 834 : 11 Pat. 493 :
13 P. L. T. 689 : I. R. 1932 Pat. 257 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 279.

———S. 186—Offence under—Resistance to process-server of illegal warrant, if offence.

Illegal warrant—Resistance to process-server—Question of private defence held does not arise—Conviction under S. 186, held illegal. Thithi Suryanarayana v. Thota Sinhadri.

36 Cr. L. J. 111 :
152 I. C. 481 : 67 M. L. J. 510 :
40 L. W. 594 : 1934 M. W. N. 1230 :
7 R. M. 234 (1) : A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 664 (2).

———S. 186—Offence under.

Resisting execution of bad warrant if offence—Warrant issued by Assessor Panch under S. 27, Chaukidari Act (VI of 1870)—Omission of any authorization to any one to execute it—Assessor Panch executing it himself—Warrant held bad—Defect held could not be cured by S. 34, Chaukidari Act—Accused rescuing cattle attached under such warrant held not guilty under S. 186. Gopal Mahton v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 819 :
190 I. C. 98 : 21 P. L. T. 716 :
6 B. R. 914 : 13 R. P. 182 :
A. I. R. 1941 Pat. 161.

———S. 186—Offence under—Resisting execution of writ of attachment after expiry of date of its return, if offence.

The execution of a writ of attachment after expiry of the date fixed for its return is illegal, and resistance to such execution is not an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Tanuklal Mandar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 222 :
60 I. C. 334 : 1920 Pat. 235 :
1 P. L. T. 654.

———S. 186—Offence under—Resisting illegal warrant, if offence

Person is not guilty of an offence under S. 186 where the warrant was directed by Munsif to a place beyond his jurisdiction. Sarbeswar Nath v. Emperor.

39 C. L. J. 33 :
A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 501.

———S. 186—Offence under—Resisting removal of encroachment, not proved, if offence.

A owned a shop. Between the shop and the public road there was a small strip of land which A had been using for forty years for the purpose of depositing his bales and other goods. A dispute arose between himself and the Municipality with reference to the title to this strip of land. The Municipality prosecuted A under the Municipal Act, for an alleged encroachment but the prosecution was unsuccessful. After this, the Chief Officer of the Municipality accompanied by a posse came to A's shop and attempted to remove his goods. A obstructed the officer: Held, that A was not guilty of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Emperor v. Shivdas Onkar Marwadi.

14 Cr. L. J. 251 :
19 I. C. 507 : 15 Bom. L. R. 315.

———S. 186—Offence under—Tearing away receipt of registered article after taking delivery, if offence—Mischief.

When the accused, addressee of a registered article, after taking delivery of the article from a Postmaster, tore the receipt given for the article and was convicted of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code: Held, that the act of the accused was not calculated to obstruct the Postmaster in the discharge of his public functions and the conviction under S. 186, I. P. C., was not right. Emperor v. Sukha Singh.

2 Cr. L. J. 242 :
6 P. L. R. 265 : 24 P. R. Cr. 1905.

———S. 186—Offence under—Writ of attachment without seal of Court—Properly attached under—Rescue of it from Court peon, if offence.

A person who rescues his cattle from a Court peon who has attached them under a writ which does not bear the seal of the Court, under O. XXI, R. 24 (2), C. P. C., without assaulting the peon, commits no offence under S. 186, Penal Code. The fact that the person had no knowledge of the invalidity of the writ at the time of the rescue of the cattle does not disentitle him to rely on its invalidity at his trial. Badri Gope v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 418 :
93 I. C. 146 : 7 P. L. T. 30 :
5 Pat. 216 : A. I. R. 1926 Pat. 237.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 186—Offence under—Warrant of attachment illegal—Obstruction to execution of such warrant, if offence.

An obstruction to the execution of an illegal or ultra vires warrant of attachment is not an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Emperor v. Himayat Ali. 2 Cr. L. J. 64 : 10 P. R. Cr. 1905 : 6 P. L. R. 256.

———S. 186—Offence under.

Where a person ran into his house to avoid his arrest in execution of Civil Court's warrant, held that his mere running away did not amount to intentional resistance. There must be some overt act of resistance or obstruction to justify conviction under S. 186. Emperor v. Gajadhar.

11 Cr. L. J. 721 (a) : 8 I. C. 823 : 7 A. L. J. 1174.

———S. 186—Procedure — Complaint by public officer—Necessity of.

Cognizance of an offence under S. 186 cannot be taken in the absence of a written complaint by the public officer concerned. Ram Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 714 : 155 I. C. 421 (2) : 16 P. L. T. 295 : 7 R. P. 580 : A. I. R. 1935 Pat. 214.

———S. 186—Resistance to officer carrying out not patently illegal instructions, if offence.

Public officer only carrying out official instructions—Instructions not patently illegal—Resistance to him amounts to an offence. Birdhi Chand Jaipuria v. Darbari Jayaswal.

34 Cr. L. J. 263 : 142 I. C. 144 : 13 P. L. T. 480 : I. R. 1933 Pat. 122 : A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 276.

———S. 186—Restitution of conjugal rights—Decree for restitution of conjugal rights—Warrant to seize wife, legality of—Resistance to warrant, if offence.

In execution of a decree for restitution of conjugal rights, a warrant was issued directing the executing peon to seize the wife and deliver her bodily over to her husband, failing which, to bring her under arrest before the executing Court: Held, that the warrant was illegal, so that resistance to its execution was not an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Gohar Mahammad v. Pitambar Das.

19 Cr. L. J. 968 : 47 I. C. 868 : 22 C. W. N. 814 : A. I. R. 1918 Cal. 4.

———S. 186—Restitution of conjugal rights, decree for—Warrant for execution, legality of—Obstruction to warrant, if offence.

A decree in a contested suit for restitution of conjugal rights passed on 3rd March 1917, directed the wife to return to her husband within 3 months of its date. The wife not having obeyed the decree, on the 15th September 1917, a warrant was issued against her without giving her any previous notice: Held, that the wife was not entitled to a notice before the warrant was issued, and that obstruction to the execution of the warrant was an offence punishable under S. 186 of the Penal Code. Abdul Wazed v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 976 : 47 I. C. 876 : A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 914.

———S. 186—What constitutes offence—Sanitary Inspector not authorized to seize article seeking to seize—Owner of shop declining to allow removal, if offence.

When a Sanitary Inspector is not authorized to seize the oil which is unfit for human consumption, the owner of the shop will be within his rights in declining to allow the oil to be taken from his shop. Conviction of the owner of the shop under S. 186, Penal Code will, therefore, be illegal. Emperor v. Bharat Prosad Singh.

154 I. C. 187 : 1 B. R. 286 (2) : 7 R. P. 431 : A. I. R. 1935 Pat. 73.

———S. 186—What constitutes offence—Warrant addressed to Nazir personally—Nazir, whether can delegate execution to Naib-Nazir—Resistance to execution of, if offence.

Although it is improper for a Nazir to depute one of his assistants to execute a warrant for the delivery of possession which is directed to the Nazir himself, yet the assistant is sufficiently clothed with authority to execute the warrant, and any person offering resistance or obstruction to its execution is guilty of an offence under S. 186, Penal Code. Doman Mahto v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 193 : 54 I. C. 977 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 482.

———S. 186—What constitutes offence.

Where the warrant is in order and the officer does not go beyond fulfilment of the instructions given to him in the writ, then a resistance to the public servant is an offence punishable under S. 186, Penal Code. Dukhan Sahu v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 100 : 172 I. C. 168 : 18 P. L. T. 783 : 4 B. R. 115 : 10 R. P. 303 (2) : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 633.

———Ss. 186, 188, 332—Warrant of attachment—Resistance to execution—Assault—Court issuing warrant acting in excess of its jurisdiction, if offence.

Where in execution of a warrant of attachment before judgment in a civil case, the officer entrusted with the warrant is assaulted and resisted in the discharge of his duty, the fact that the Court which issued the warrant had exceeded its jurisdiction, is no defence to the assault committed on the Court's officer as that officer was acting in good faith under colour of his office. Durga Kumar De v. Samedur Raza Chaudhuri.

22 Cr. L. J. 343 : 61 I. C. 167.

———S. 187—Omission to assist public servant—Failure to assist Salt-Inspector in making search—Offence—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 103, Cl. (2), scope of.

Cl. (2) of S. 108, Cr. P. C., suggests that while the rendering of assistance to a public servant in making a search is imperative on the persons called upon to assist, they are not compellable to attend Court to give evidence without a summons in that behalf. Failure, therefore, to assist a Salt-Inspector in making a search, after being requisitioned by the latter to do so, is an offence punishable under S. 187, Penal Code. Ispill Magalha v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 33 (a) :
54 I. C. 241 : 11 L. W. 58 :
38 M. L. J. 27 : 1920 M. W. N. 110 :
A. I. R. 1920 Mad. 286.

————S. 187—Omission to assist public servant.

Person arrested lying down on ground and refusing to move—Police asking assistance from accused—Refusal of accused to offer the aid makes him liable for conviction. Ambika Prasad v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 736 :
139 I. C. 106 : I. R. 1932 All. 527 :
A. I. R. 1932 All. 506.

————S. 187—Omission to assist public servant
—Refused to join Police in search of person whose whereabouts are unknown, if offence.

A person who declines to join a Police Officer in a search for the whereabouts of certain persons with a view to their arrest in the event of the search proving successful, does not thereby incur any criminal liability. Joti Prasad v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 801 :
58 I. C. 673 : 18 A. L. J. 169 :
2 U. P. L. R. All. 88 : 42 All. 314 :
A. I. R. 1920 All. 265.

————S. 187—Omission to assist public servant.

Search witnesses on whom written order to attend and witness search, is not issued, attending and witnessing search but refusing to sign search list are not guilty under S. 187. Ram Prasad v. Emperor. (F. B.)

39 Cr. L. J. 796 :
176 I. C. 787 : 19 P. L. T. 461 :
4 B. R. 772 : 11 R. P. 107 : 17 Pat. 632 :
A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 403.

————S. 188.

————Appeal.

————Applicability.

————Complaint.

————Complaint of sanction.

————Consequences of disobedience is gist of offence.

————Conviction.

————Disobedience of order.

————Duty of prosecution.

————Evidence.

————Ingredients.

————Interpretation.

————Legality of promulgation of order.

————Miscellaneous.

————Offence.

————Offence under.

————Procedure.

————Promulgation.

————Promulgation of order.

————Public servant.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————Sanction to prosecute.

————Scope.

————What constitutes offence.

————S. 188.

See also (i) Calcutta Police Act, 1866,
Ss. 62, 62-A, 62-B.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 144, 195,
195 (1) (a), 487, 550.

(iii) Epidemic Diseases Act,
1897, S. 3.

(iv) Madras Abkari Act, 1886,
S. 81.

————S. 188—Appeal — Refusal to file complaint under—Appcal, if lies.

No appeal lies against the refusal of a public servant to file a complaint under S. 188, Penal Code. Maruda Pillai v. Narayanaswami Pillai.

40 Cr. L. J. 568 (b) :
181 I. C. 557 : 1939 M. W. N. 119 :
49 L. W. 387 (1) : 11 R. M. 830 :
A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 336.

————S. 188—Applicability — Disobedience of prohibitory order under S. 268, C. P. C. is not punishable.

The disobedience of a prohibitory order issued under S. 268, C. P. C., 1882, (corresponding to O. XXI, R. 46 of the Code of 1908) is not punishable under S. 188, Penal Code. S. 188 does not apply to orders in civil suits between party and party. Yaung Hon v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 56 :
4 I. C. 824 : U. B. R. 1907—09 II, P. C. p. 23.

————S. 188—Complaint—Unlawful assembly to disobey lawful order—Complaint from public servant, whether necessary.

If an accused person is charged for an offence under S. 188, Penal Code, the Court cannot take cognizance of the offence except on the complaint of the public servant whose order was disobeyed, but if the offence charged is unlawful assembly to commit an offence under S. 188, Penal Code, no such complaint is necessary. Bhalchandra Trimbak Ranadive v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 495 :
123 I. C. 497 : 31 Bom. L. R. 1151 :
54 Bom. 35 : A. I. R. 1929 Bom. 433.

————S. 188—Complaint of sanction—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 195—Disobedience of order promulgated by public servant—Sanction to prosecute, whether necessary—Knowledge of accused, proof of.

In order to obtain a conviction under S. 188, Penal Code, it is necessary that either there should be a complaint by the public servant, whose order has been disobeyed or sanction under S. 195, Cr. P. C. Emperor v. Abdullah.

22 Cr. L. J. 705 :
63 I. C. 865 (b).

————S. 188—Consequences of disobedience is gist of offence—Disobedience to order duly promulgated by public servant—Contempt of Court.

Where a person, who had unsuccessfully sued for a declaration of his right to make a window, and who had been restrained by a civil Court's order in his first attempt to make openings in his wall, having again made holes, the defendant applied to prosecute him under S. 188, I. P. C.: Held, that disobedience to a lawful order was not an offence under that section, unless such disobedience caused or tended to cause some of the specific consequences stated in that section; that that section applied to orders made by public functionaries for public purposes and not to an order made in a civil suit between party and party: Held, also that, as the wording of the application indicated that the Court was moved as a Criminal Court, the application could not be treated as a civil one, as both the functions being distinct, there was grave risk involved in their confusion or combination; but that the civil Court was still open to the applicant. Memon Haji Habib Faridsheikh v. Memon Haji Jusab Habib. 3 Cr. L. J. 151.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 188—Conviction—Proclamation and attachment issued against absconding member of joint Hindu family—Attachment of family land—Other member cultivating land—Conviction, whether proper.

Where a proclamation and attachment were issued against an absconder under S. 87, Cr. P. C., attaching some undivided land of the joint family to which the absconder belonged, but one of the other members of the family cultivated the lands in spite of the order and was prosecuted and convicted under S. 188, Penal Code: Held, that both the conviction under S. 188, Penal Code, and the attachment under S. 87, Cr. P. C., were bad and liable to be set aside. Bisi Bihari v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 1037 :
42 I. C. 781 : 2 P. L. W. 179 .
A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 505.

—S. 188—Conviction under—Proof.

It is not necessary for a conviction under S. 188 that there should be a definite finding of the Magistrate that the action of each accused led to or caused a breach of the peace. Emperor v. Niaz Khan.

35 Cr. L. J. 699 :
148 I. C. 518 : 11 O. W. N. 384 : 6 R. O. 419 :
A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 162.

—S. 188—Disobedience of order.

A number of young men, including the accused, were found preaching and patrolling the roads near the liquor shops in the Belgaum City, some shouting "Don't drink," and using offensive language in addition to those words. The District Magistrate thereupon issued orders under S. 144 of the Cr. P. C., prohibiting these acts, but the persons warned continued to do them from the verandah of a private house adjoining a public place: Held, that objectionable language such as "If you drink, you will be drinking the blood of your children," speaks for itself; no further evidence than the words used is required to prove that it has a tendency to cause annoyance to persons lawfully employed, under S. 188, Penal Code. Emperor v. Govind Venkatesh Yalgi.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

8 Cr. L. J. 431 :
4 M. L. T. 363 : 10 Bom. L. R. 1047.

—S. 188—Disobedience of order and abetment of disobedience—Common object.

Where certain persons jointly enter on certain land in defiance of an order that has been passed under S. 144, Cr. P. C., though some of them may be guilty of an offence under S. 188, Penal Code, and others of abetment of that offence, nevertheless the common object of them all is one and the same. Nayan Ullah v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 594 :
85 I. C. 818 : A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 903.

—S. 188—Disobedience of order.

Breach of order of Commissioner of Police under S. 62-A (4), Calcutta Police Act, and S. 93-A, Calcutta Suburban Police Act, is an offence under S. 188. Ramendra Chandra Ray v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 844 :
132 I. C. 174 : 35 C. W. N. 716 :
58 Cal. 1303 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 558 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 410.

—S. 188—Disobedience of order under—O. P. Tenancy Act, S. 219—Summary ejectment—Order of Deputy Commissioner—Disobedience of order—Punishment.

A person who disobeys the order of the Deputy Commissioner, made under S. 219, O. P. Tenancy Act, for his summary ejectment is liable to be punished under S. 188, Penal Code, for disobedience of that order. Hirasingh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 19 :
64 I. C. 499 : 17 N. L. R. 88 :
A. I. R. 1922 Nag. 209.

—S. 188—Disobedience of order—If in itself an offence.

Under S. 188, mere disobedience of an order does not constitute an offence in itself, it must be shown that the disobedience has a certain consequence or tends to some result. Mst. Lachmi Devi v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 511 :
130 I. C. 241 : 35 C. W. N. 257 :
53 C. L. J. 461 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 369 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 122.

—S. 188—Disobedience of order—What is.

Person ordered under S. 147, Cr. P. C., not to proceed with wall being built—He neither proceeding to build nor demolishing it—He cannot be convicted under S. 188. Usman Ali v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 584 :
175 I. C. 234 : 1938 N. L. J. 139 :
I. L. R. 1938 Nag. 580 : 10 R. N. 440 :
A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 297.

—S. 188—Duty of prosecution—Accused's knowledge of order, duty of prosecution to prove—Promulgation of order, whether sufficient.

It is the duty of the prosecution in a case under S. 188, Penal Code, to prove by positive evidence that the accused had knowledge of the order with the disobedience of which he is charged and the proof of general notification promulgating the order does not satisfy the requirements of the section. Ram Das Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 4 :
99 I. C. 36 : 44 C. L. J. 250 :
54 Cal. 152 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 28.

—S. 188—Duty of prosecution.

It is the duty of the prosecution in every case under S. 188 to prove by positive evidence that the accused had knowledge of the order with the disobedience of which he is charged. The proof of general notification promulgating the order does not satisfy the requirements of the section. Emperor v. Abdullah.

22 Cr. L. J. 705 (b) :
63 I. C. 865.

—S. 188—Evidence—Knowledge of accused, evidence of—Promulgation.

It is not sufficient in order to affect a person with the knowledge of an order under S. 144 and to render him liable to conviction under S. 188 to show that the order had been duly promulgated. It is necessary to prove by positive evidence that he has the knowledge that the order has been made. Sheikh Abdul v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 350 :
100 I. C. 830 : 31 C. W. N. 340 :
45 C. L. J. 202 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 306.

—S. 188—Evidence—Want of evidence that disobedience will likely lead to a breach of the peace—Effect of.

Where there is no definite evidence on the record to show that the disobedience to an order under S. 144, Cr. P. C., would likely cause a breach of the peace, a conviction under S. 188, I. P. C., is wrong and cannot be sustained. Ram Gopal Daw v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 760 :
I. L. R. 32 Cal. 793.

—S. 188—Ingredients—Conviction under S. 188, requirements of—Mere presence of accused in disturbed place, whether sufficient.

In order to justify a conviction under S. 188, Penal Code, for the disobedience of a lawfully promulgated order of a Magistrate, there must be a finding that the presence of the accused was likely to cause or tended to cause obstruction, annoyance or injury or risk of obstruction, annoyance or injury to any person or any one of the things mentioned in Cl. (3) of the section. The mere presence of the accused in the disturbed area without going away when ordered, is insufficient to bring them under S. 188, Penal Code. Paramasiva Moopan v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 590 :
109 I. C. 606 : 1928 M. W. N. 70 :
A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 591.

—S. 188—Ingredients—Essentials for conviction under S. 188.

For a conviction under S. 188, I. P. C., there must clearly be something more than mere disobedience of the order. It must also be shown that obstruction, annoyance or injury, danger to human life, etc., have been caused or might have been caused. Where there is a finding that the disobedience of the order was risky to the public peace, the conviction of the accused under S. 188 is justified. In the matter of : Madan Kishore.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 414 :
187 I. C. 135 : 21 P. L. T. 231 :
6 B. R. 424 : 12 R. P. 578 :
A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 446.

—S. 188—Ingredients—Knowledge of order is a necessary ingredient.

Knowledge of the order is a necessary ingredient of the offences punishable under S. 188, Penal Code, and S. 32, Police Act. There is no foundation for a distinction between S. 188, Penal Code, and S. 32 of the Police Act so far as the element of knowledge as an essential ingredient of the offence is concerned. In re : Sundara Mudaliar.

38 Cr. L. J. 620 :
168 I. C. 848 : 9 R. M. 650 :
1937 M. W. N. 172 : 45 L. W. 400 :
1937, 1 M. L. J. 473 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 535.

—S. 188—Ingredients.

Per Sulaiman, J.—A conviction cannot be sustained under S. 188, Penal Code, unless it is found that the order of which disobedience is alleged was (a) promulgated by a public servant to the knowledge of the accused, (b) that that public servant was legally empowered to promulgate such an order, and (c) its disobedience caused or tended to cause obstruction, annoyance or injury or risk of it to a person lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or tended to cause a riot or affray. Emperor v. Raghunath.

26 Cr. L. J. 599 :
85 I. C. 823 : 22 A. L. J. 1049 :
47 All. 205 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 165.

—S. 188—Ingredients—Refusal by crowd to disperse, if offence.

To attract the application of S. 188, Penal Code, it is not enough to find that the accused, while one of a crowd, refused to disperse when ordered to do so under S. 144, Cr. P. C., but it must also be found that the disobedience of the crowd of which the accused constituted a member tended to cause danger to human life, health or safety or caused or tended to cause a riot or an affray. Din Muhammad v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 877 :
111 I. C. 461 : 29 P. L. R. 647 :
10 Lah. 231 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 378.

—S. 188—Ingredients.

Requirements of S. 188 when satisfied stated. Lalchand v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 362 :
142 I. C. 591 : I. R. 1933 Sind 103 :
A. I. R. 1933 Sind 93 (1).

—S. 188—Interpretation—'Promulgated', import of.

The word 'promulgated' in S. 188, Penal Code, refers to orders passed under the Cr. P. C., and disobedience to an injunction issued by a Civil Court is not punishable under that section. Vanimkandy Thazha v. Thazhithattath Katti. 16 Cr. L. J. 592 : 30 I. C. 144 : 2 L. W. 410 : 17 M. L. T. 391 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 640.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 188—Legality of promulgation of order.

An order by a District Magistrate directing that certain plots of land are not to be cultivated is not such an order that its disobedience is punishable under S. 188, Penal Code. Dhan Singh v. Emperor. 1 Cr. L. J. 987 : 1 A. L. J. 615.

———S. 188—Legality of promulgation of order.

Certain inhabitants of village K having extended their cultivation on the side of the neighbouring village D to the injury, or alleged injury, of the rights of pasturage of the inhabitants of village D, were forbidden by an order issued by Deputy Commissioner to extend their cultivation in the direction of village D: Held, that no legal authority existed for the promulgation of such an order and that consequently no conviction could be had under S. 188, Penal Code, for disobedience thereto. Emperor v. Kalian Singh. 1 Cr. L. J. 916 : 24 A. W. N. 233.

———S. 188—Miscellaneous.

To be justified in directing a certain act to be done or not to be done is one thing and to be legally empowered to order its commission or omission with the consequence of the disobedience being punishable under S. 188, Penal Code, is quite another. Emperor v. Raghunath. 26 Cr. L. J. 599 : 85 I. C. 823 : 22 A. L. J. 1049 : 47 All. 205 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 165.

———S. 188—Offence, essentials.

Under S. 188 of the Penal Code if the Court finds that the order, disobedience of which is sought to be punished, was a legal order, it has only to see whether the accused disobeyed the order, and, if so, whether such disobedience caused or tended to cause the effects specified in the second and third paragraphs of the section. Bhure Mol v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 689 : 73 I. C. 801 : 45 All. 520 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 606.

———S. 188—Offence under—Disobedience of illegal order granted to one person, if offence.

An order directing persons other than the grantee of certain land to take certain order with buildings thereon is not authorised by the Burma Land and Revenue Act or the rules thereunder. Therefore, where land was granted to A but was built on by B, the failure of B to remove the building in obedience to an order, promulgated by the Deputy Commissioner, would not render him liable under S. 188, Penal Code. Ba Nyun v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 22 : 22 I. C. 166 : 7 L. B. R. 75 : 7 Bur. L. T. 25 : A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 134.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 188—Offence under—Disobedience to order not duly promulgated by a Magistrate, if offence.

Disobedience to Magistrate's order not duly promulgated and directed to the accused in writing is not an offence under S. 188, I. P. C. Mul Raj v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 719 : 36 P. R. 1905 Cr.

———S. 188—Offence under — Disobeying illegal order, if offence.

An order forbidding persons to enter railway quarters except for bona fide purposes of travelling is an illegal order, for the public have a right to go to the railway premises for many purposes other than travelling. Therefore, where certain Pandas were forbidden to go on to the Railway Station except for purposes of travelling, but they went to the platform and importuned the pilgrims: Held, that the Pandas could not be convicted of an offence under S. 188, Penal Code. Rama v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 122 : 18 I. C. 682 : 11 A. L. J. 92 : 35 All. 136.

———S. 188—Offence under—Illegal order issued by Police Sub-Inspector to Station Master to detain certain logs lying on trucks suspected to be stolen property—Disobeying which, if offence.

Where a Police Sub-Inspector suspected that certain logs, which were lying on trucks at a Railway Station, were stolen property and, instead of seizing them under S. 550, Cr. P. C., issued an order to the Station Master directing him to detain the same: Held, that the order was irregular and objectionable. The Station Master, after detaining the logs for some time, forwarded the consignment under express orders from the Traffic Superintendent: Held, that under these circumstances, the conviction of the Station Master under S. 188, Penal Code, could not be sustained. Emperor v. Bithal Nath. 15 Cr. L. J. 177 : 22 I. C. 453 : 16 O. C. 371 : A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 230.

———S. 188—Offence under — Landlord collecting suspended rent by distraint, if commits offence.

A landlord endeavouring to collect suspended arrears of rent by distraint is not guilty of an offence under S. 188, Agra Tenancy Act. S. 51 provides special remedy for disobedience of order. Emperor v. Ram Sarup. 16 Cr. L. J. 674 : 30 I. C. 722 : 13 A. L. J. 619.

———S. 188—Procedure.

A question as to the validity of the final order made in proceedings under S. 188, Cr. P. C., cannot be raised at the trial of the accused for an offence under S. 188 for disobedience of the order. Superintendent v. Khoda Baksh Shah. 35 Cr. L. J. 778 : 148 I. C. 808 : 60 Cal. 1336 : 6 R. C. 484 : A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 242 (1).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 188—Procedure—Cr. P. C., S. 144, order under, legality of, whether can be questioned.

The mere fact that an application to revise an order under S. 144, Cr. P. C., was rejected by the High Court on the ground that when the application was made, the period of the order had elapsed, would not preclude a Magistrate in a trial, under S. 188, Penal Code, from questioning the legality of the order under S. 144, Cr. P. C. Jiaraldin Mohammad v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 376 : 67 I. C. 200 : 34 C. L. J. 578 : A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 258.

————S. 188—Promulgation—Meaning of.

Per Walsh, Actg. G. J.—The word “promulgate” in S. 188, Penal Code, seems to indicate, if not a formal document printed or written, at any rate, some form of publication. The promulgation need not be in printing or writing, and where a Sub-Inspector definitely conveys an order in a loud voice to a crowd in the street to stop, so that those who are addressed may understand it to be a definite order promulgated by a public officer in authority, and the order is disobeyed, the case would fall within the purview of S. 188, Penal Code. Emperor v. Raghunath.

26 Cr. L. J. 599 :
85 I. C. 823 : 22 A. L. J. 1049 :
47 All. 205 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 165.

————S. 188—Promulgation of order—Absence of—Effect of.

Where there is nothing on the record to show that any order was promulgated by a public servant lawfully empowered to promulgate such order, a conviction under S. 188 of the Penal Code would be set aside, although the conviction has been obtained at a summary trial. Rama v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 122 :
18 I. C. 682 : 11 A. L. J. 92 : 35 All. 136.

————S. 188—Promulgation of order—Irregularities—Effect—Accused having knowledge of order under S. 144, Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), disobeying it—Irregularity in promulgation of order—Effect—Knowledge of accused of order which he is charged with disobeying must be proved.

Even if there has been irregularity in the method of promulgation of the order under S. 144, Cr. P. C., that in itself would not make it ultra vires, so as to prevent the conviction of any person who, being proved to have had knowledge of the order, nevertheless disobeyed it. It is not enough in such cases to prove that the order has been duly promulgated. There must also be positive evidence that the accused had knowledge of the order which he is charged with disobeying. In the matter of : Madan Kishore.

41 Cr. L. J. 414 :
187 I. C. 135 : 21 P. L. T. 231 :
6 B. R. 425 : 12 R. P. 578 :
A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 446.

————S. 188—Public servant—Who is—Overseer of the P. W. D. not a public servant

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

lawfully empowered to promulgate an order—Disobedience thereto—No offence under S. 188.

The accused, ryots of a certain village, were convicted by the Deputy Magistrate of offences under Ss. 430 and 188, Penal Code, for damaging a certain odai and feeding the tank in contravention of an order issued by the P. W. D. Overseer. The Sessions Judge reversed the conviction under S. 430 but confirmed the conviction under S. 188, Penal Code. It was contended on behalf of the accused that the Overseer's order did not come within S. 188 : Held, that the contention was valid. The order of the Overseer could not operate to make an act unlawful which was lawful before its promulgation. Maina Servai v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 621 : 8 I. C. 302 : 1 M. W. N. 616.

————S. 188—Sanction to prosecute—Sanction to prosecute, under S. 195, Cr. P. C., essentials for.

A Magistrate should not sanction a prosecution under S. 188, Penal Code, unless he thinks that all the elements necessary for a conviction are present, and where there is nothing to show that a disobedience of an order under S. 144, Cr. P. C., caused or tended to cause annoyance, injury, obstruction, or a riot, the sanction should not be given. Projapat Jha v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 49 (b) : 5 I. C. 154 : 14 C. W. N. 234.

————S. 188—Scope—Civil Court, order of, disobedience of, if offence.

S. 188, Penal Code, is intended to apply to orders passed by public functionaries in the public interest or to prevent a breach of the peace or other unlawful disturbance, and not to orders made in a civil suit between party and party for the breach of which a remedy has been provided by the C. P. C. A person to whom property has been entrusted by an attaching Court and who fails to produce it when directed to do so by the Court, cannot be convicted under S. 188, Penal Code. Hira Lal v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 381 :
61 I. C. 237 : 24 O. C. 18 :
A. I. R. 1921 Oudh 123.

————S. 188—Scope—Order directing guardian not to marry minor girl in his charge, if within scope.

Operation of S. 188, Penal Code, is limited to the promulgation by public servants of public orders relating to the safety, the health or the convenience of the public. Therefore, the disobedience of an injunction directing a guardian not to marry a minor girl in his charge cannot fall within the purview of the section. Mallapa Mallapa Tavargi v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 668 :
30 I. C. 652 : 17 Bom. L. R. 676 :
A. I. R. 1915 Bom. 22.

————S. 188—What constitutes offence.

After the town of Davangere was evacuated on account of an outbreak of plague and after it was notified by beat of tom-tom that no person should reopen his house without permission, the petitioner opened his house in the town and entered it: Held, that as no particular regulation was contravened by the accused, the offence cannot fall under S. 188, I. P. C. Chenuccappa v. Government of Mysore.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

9 Cr. L. J. 550 :
13 M. C. C. R. 115.

—S. 188—What constitutes offence.

Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 144—Order under, directing petitioner to cut bundh or show cause against order—Magistrate not satisfied on cause shown—Failure to comply with order—Prosecution under S. 188: Held, order was not without jurisdiction. Balaram Dey v. Pran Ram Chatterjee.

38 Cr. L. J. 915 :
170 I. C. 499 : 41 C. W. N. 897 :
65 C. L. J. 460 : I. L. R. 1937, 2 Cal. 475 :
10 R. C. 150 : A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 406.

—S. 188—What constitutes offence—Disobeying illegal order, if offence—Verbal order to remove obstruction, whether legal—Disobeying such order, whether offence—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 133, 137.

A verbal order to remove an obstruction has not the effect of a final order under S. 137, Cr. P. C., and is not lawful, and a person disobeying such an order is not guilty of an offence under S. 188, Penal Code. Janaki Nath Chakravarti v. Jnanendra Nath Chakravarti.

16 Cr. L. J. 24 :
26 I. C. 328 : A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 741.

—S. 188—What constitutes offence.

To support a conviction under S. 188, I. P. C., there must be some evidence to show that the disobedience is likely to lead to a breach of the peace. Shamanand Das Paharaj v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 778 :
8 C. W. N. 781 : I. L. R. 31 Cal. 990.

—S. 189—Interpretation—Injury, meaning of.

Injury implies an illegal harm and a mere threat to bring a legal complaint either before a Court or before the superiors of the public servant concerned, is no injury within the meaning of S. 189, Penal Code, unless the threat is to bring a false complaint. Shahdad Khan v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 400 :
93 I. C. 48 : 6 Lah. 558 : 27 P. L. R. 87 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 139.

—S. 189—Threat of injury—What is.

Mere threat uttered as exhibition of bad temper is not necessarily an offence under S. 189: Held, that offence under S. 503, was committed. Muhammad Ahmad Khan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 212 :
160 I. C. 17 : 1936 A. L. J. 195 :
8 R. A. 557 : 1936 A. W. R. 28 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 171.

—S. 189—What constitutes offence.

Police constables deputed to look up persons under surveillance going to accused's house calling his brother who was under surveillance—Accused abusing and threatening to break their heads: Held, conviction under S. 189 was right. Emperor v. Yar Muhammad.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 1181 :
134 I. C. 536 : 58 Cal. 392 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 840 : A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 448.

—S. 189—What constitutes offence.

Where a person arrested in execution of a decree refuses to follow the peon arresting him and threatens to use violence, the whole occurrence amounts to one offence under S. 189 and conviction for two offences under Ss. 180, 189 is not justified. Jagannath v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1237 :
82 I. C. 165 : A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 183.

—S. 190.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 44.

—S. 190—Interpretation—Threat to institute civil suit, whether threat of "injury".

A threat to institute a civil suit for a declaration of right against any person who is objecting to such right does not amount to a threat of "injury" within the meaning of S. 190, Penal Code. Mulai Rai v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 351 :
92 I. C. 863 : 24 A. L. J. 314 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 277.

—S. 191.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 164, 165, 407, 520.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 103.

—S. 191—Deliberation—False allegations in written statement and false verification, whether punishable.

S. 101, Penal Code, is applicable to the case of deliberate false allegations made in a written statement and false verification. Emperor v. Padam Singh.

31 Cr. L. J. 954 :
126 I. C. 5 : 1930 A. L. J. 955 :
A. I. R. 1930 All. 490.

—S. 191—Deposition not read to witness—Conviction.

A deposition which is not read over to the witness in accordance with the requirements of the law under which it was taken, cannot be used against him on a charge of perjury. Taj Mahmud v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 212 :
107 I. C. 100 : 29 P. L. R. 14 :
I. L. T. 40 Lah. 36 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 125.

—S. 191—Falsity.

A person who has made two contradictory statements cannot be convicted for perjury on that ground unless it is clearly proved that the two statements are wholly irreconcilable. The mere fact that a person had on a previous occasion made an inconsistent statement does not necessarily prove that the previous statement was true and that the latter statement is false, and does not, therefore, afford a basis in itself for a conviction of perjury in respect of the latter statement. Taj Mahmud v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 212 :
107 I. C. 100 : 29 P. L. R. 14 :
I. L. T. 40 Lah. 36 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 125.

-----S. 191—Falsity—Indefinite statement in examination.

Where an accused, who had, when filling up a kind of form, antedated it, said in his examination as a witness before a Court, that it might have been filled up on the date it bore, and though that kind of forms were new and supplied to him several months later, he said that that form might have been in the office that day : Held, that as both the statements in the charge were in an indefinite form, they could not be taken to amount to a false declaration of the witness's belief ; that as the Gujarati word hashe was used in the expressions, they conveyed not exactly doubt but want of knowledge and did not amount to a definite statement of fact or of belief. Makanji v. Anandji. 1 Cr. L. J. 486.

-----S. 191—Ingredients.

In order to sustain an indictment for perjury, the prosecution must establish, inter alia, two things : (1) that the statement was false, and (2) that it was known or believed to be false or not believed to be true ; in other words, the statement must be intentionally false. Taj Mahmud v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 212 :
107 I. C. 100 : 29 P. L. R. 14 :
I. L. T. 40 Lah. 36 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 125.

-----S. 191—Judicial proceeding—Case exclusively triable by Sessions Court—Third Class Magistrate recording statement under S. 164, Cr. P. C.—Contradictory statement before Magistrate holding preliminary inquiry.

A Third Class Magistrate not being empowered to commit for trial, cannot deal judicially with any stage of the proceedings in a case exclusively triable by a Court of Session. If such Magistrate records a statement under S. 164, Cr. P. C., in a case of that nature, such statement would not be evidence in a stage of judicial proceedings within the meaning of Ss. 191, 193 of the Penal Code. In a case triable exclusively by a Court of Session, one A was examined as a witness under S. 164, Cr. P. C. When the case came up for preliminary inquiry before a First Class Magistrate, A made a statement contradicting his former statement recorded under S. 164. A was convicted of making false statement in a judicial proceeding ; Held, that A could not be convicted of giving false evidence in a judicial proceeding. Emperor v. Shetlepa Satapa Mudanar. 13 Cr. L. J. 709 :
16 I. C. 517 : 14 Bom. L. R. 753.

-----S. 191—Judicial proceeding—Land Registration Act (VII of 1876, Bengal), Ss. 52, 53, 84—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 195—Whether witness bound to state the truth in proceeding under the Land Registration Act—Sanction to prosecute.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

In a proceeding held by a Sub-Deputy Collector under Ss. 52 and 84, Land Registration Act (VII B. C. of 1876) a witness is bound to state the truth. And even if the proceeding be not considered a judicial proceeding within the meaning of S. 191, I. P. C., the case of a person making a false statement would fall under the second part of S. 193, Penal Code. Hiranand Ojha v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 15 :
9 C. W. N. 127, 983 : 2 C. L. J. 149.

-----S. 191—Lawfully sworn.

In order that a person making a statement to a Revenue Officer may be legally bound to speak the truth, it is necessary that the Revenue Officer should be acting in the discharge of some duty or in the exercise of some power imposed or conferred on him by law. A Revenue Officer to whom an application for a grant of land is made and who enquires into matters not specified in r. 8 or r. 46 of the Rules under the (Lower) Burma Land and Revenue Act, or a Revenue Officer enquiring into an objection to the issue of an order of eviction under r. 52 of these Rules is not proceeding in the discharge of a duty imposed, or in the exercise of a power conferred by law ; and a charge of giving false evidence in respect of statements made in such enquiries will, therefore, not lie. Emperor v. Pakiri. 1 Cr. L. J. 1004 :
2 L. B. R. 272.

-----S. 191—Lawfully sworn.

When the law prohibits the administration of an oath or solemn affirmation to an accused person, there can be no perjury. But where the law does not prohibit the administration of an oath or solemn affirmation and where in fact the practice of the Court directs that an oath or solemn affirmation must be administered before the affidavit is accepted, there cannot be any protection for an accused person who commits perjury in such a document. Prag Datt v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 600 :
123 I. C. 854 : 7 O. W. N. 9 :
A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 62.

-----S. 191—Legally bound—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 174, 175—Death under suspicious circumstances—Inquest—False charge—False evidence—"Institution" of proceedings, meaning of.

The offence of a person accusing another falsely of murder to a Police Officer in an enquiry under S. 174 of the Cr. P. C., would not fall under S. 194 of the Penal Code, the reason being that it is difficult to affirm the existence of an intention to cause, or of knowledge that the false evidence is likely to cause, a person to be convicted of a capital offence, when the proceeding in which the evidence is given is one in which such a conviction is not legally possible. A person who comes forward without being summoned and volunteers information at an enquiry under S. 174, Cr. P. C., is not bound to answer truly questions put to him under S. 175 of the Code and not being so bound, his answers, if false, cannot form the basis of a charge of perjury, having regard to the definition of that offence in S. 101 of the Penal Code. Muhammad Hayat v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

23 Cr. L. J. 82 :
65 I. C. 434 : 6 P. W. R. 1922 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 33.

—S. 191—Legally bound—False evidence—False verification—Application for mutation of names—Land Registration Act (VII B. C. of 1876), Ss. 42, 52, 88—Board of Revenue Rules, Chap. V, r. (5).

The Rules passed by the Board of Revenue under S. 88 of Bengal Land Registration Act, referring to the procedure as to verification of an application for registration, have the force of law by reason of the express enactment of S. 88 itself. Therefore, a claimant asking for land registration is bound by law to make a true declaration upon the subject of his application, and if he makes a false statement in it, he is punishable under Ss. 191 and 193, Penal Code. Naloo Patra v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 412 :
11 I. C. 595 : 38 Cal. 368.

—S. 191—Materiality.

It is not strictly necessary that the statement should be material to the inquiry, so long as it was made by a person who was bound by oath to state the truth. Durga Prasad v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 686 :
144 I. C. 194 : I. R. 1933 All. 397.
A. I. R. 1933 All. 318.

—S. 191—Materiality—Materiality of statement not necessary.

A person making a false statement in a judicial proceeding is guilty under S. 191, Penal Code, although the particular false statement may not have been material for the decision of any issue in the case in which it was made. Babu Ram v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 434 :
1 A. L. J. 236 : I. L. R. 26 All. 509 :
24 A. W. N. 115.

—S. 191—Materiality—Statement not material to the case—Not going to the credit of the witness.

In sanctioning proceedings for perjury against a witness, the Magistrate should remember that the statement must be intentionally false in order to justify a prosecution. When the question is neither material to the issue in the case, nor goes to the credit of the witness, (scmble) he is not liable to prosecution. Some allowance ought to be made to a witness seeking to evade some matter relating to, for instance, his past history. Sheodahin Singh v. Bandhan Singh.

3 Cr. L. J. 45 :
2 A. L. J. 836.

—S. 191.

Perjury—Statement not shown to be intentionally false—Deposition not read over to witness—Conviction for perjury, legality of—Deposition of witness, whether should be signed by all the presiding Officers—Contradictory statements—Prosecution in respect of later statement alone, maintainability of—Defence of India Act (IV of 1905), S. 5—Duty of Commissioner to read over deposition of witness. Taj Mahanud v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 212 :
107 I. C. 100 : I. L. T. 40 Lah. 36 :
29 P. L. R. 14 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 125.

—S. 191—What constitutes offence—False statement by accused in affidavit to support transfer application.

An accused person who makes a false statement in an affidavit to support an application for transfer can be prosecuted for perjury. Prag Dall v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 600 :
123 I. C. 854 : 7 O. W. N. 9 :
A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 62.

—S. 192.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 430.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 21, 20,
182, 383.

—S. 192—Causing circumstance to exist.

A person who attempts to cause a circumstance to exist, intending that such circumstance may appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or proceeding taken by law before a public servant or before an arbitrator, and such circumstance, so appearing in evidence may cause a person, who in such proceeding is to form an opinion upon the evidence, to entertain an erroneous opinion on any point material to the result of the proceeding, would be guilty of an attempt to fabricate false evidence within the meaning of S. 192 of the Penal Code, but his act would not fall within the purview of S. 417 of the Code. Tula Ram v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 209 :
83 I. C. 993 : 21 A. L. J. 865 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 205.

—S. 192—Fabricating false evidence—What is—Suborning of false evidence, whether amounts to fabrication of false evidence.

The tutoring of a man to give false evidence amounts to fabricating false evidence under S. 192, Penal Code. Sur Nath Bhaduri v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 950 :
105 I. C. 662 : 25 A. L. J. 1077 :
A. I. R. 1927 All. 721.

—S. 192—False entry—Document, antedating of, whether offence.

Accused was a clerk whose duty was to register sales of cattle at a market. Two persons brought some cattle in the market on March 21st, but omitted to obtain receipts for them, and on leaving the market, they were asked by a Sub-Inspector of Police to produce receipts for the cattle. On March 27th they produced the receipts, which bore date the 21st of March but were in fact prepared by the accused on the 27th: Held, that the accused was not guilty of the offence of fabricating false evidence inasmuch as the receipts so far from causing the Sub-Inspector to entertain an erroneous opinion touching a point material to the result of the enquiry he was making, might have caused him to form a correct opinion. Badri Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 2 :
42 I. C. 914 : 15 A. L. J. 819 :
40 All. 35 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 326.

————S. 192—False entry and intention—False entry or statement—Intention.

A petition praying that a fishery lease might be transferred from A to B, and purporting to be signed by A and B, was presented to the Deputy Commissioner by A. B was not present but his son was, and admitted having signed his father's name. He was subsequently prosecuted, although no attempt was made to show that he had acted fraudulently and without his father's authority, and was convicted of fabricating false evidence under S. 192, Penal Code: Held, that the conviction was bad, because (1) the writing of B's name by his son did not, under the circumstances, constitute a false entry or a false statement, and (2) there was no intention that it should appear in evidence in any proceeding. Emperor v. Po Shin.

6 Cr. L. J. 283 :
4 L. B. R. 45.

————S. 192—False evidence, fabrication of.

A sale under a kobala written out by one N on a stamp paper of Rs. 5 and dated the 23rd May having fallen through, it became necessary to apply to the Collector for a refund of the stamp duty. N was told by one M that as no refund could be made after two months, the date in the document might be altered from 23rd May to 23rd September. Accordingly the alteration was made, although it was quite unnecessary as the period for getting refund was not two months but six months: Held, that N and M were respectively guilty of fabricating and abetting the fabrication of false evidence. Mohesh Chandra v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 971 :
47 I. C. 871 : 28 C. L. J. 213 :
A. I. R. 1918 Cal. 61.

————S. 192—Giving false evidence when that evidence is not admissible, if offence.

The weight of authority is in favour of the view that there can be no fabrication of false evidence within the meaning of S. 192, Penal Code, if the evidence is not admissible in itself. Fazl Ahmad v. Emperor.

15 Cr. Cr. J. 344 :
23 I. C. 696 : 1 P. R. 1914 Cr. :
139 P. L. R. 1914 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 433.

————S. 192—Inadmissibility of false entry effect of.

A person is guilty of fabricating false evidence when he makes a false entry in a document intending that it shall appear in evidence and mislead the Judge or Magistrate, and the mere fact that the entry is not legally admissible in evidence cannot affect his guilt. Amolak Ram v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 141 :
43 I. C. 429 : 13 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. :
56 P. L. R. 1918 : A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 192.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 192—Ingredients.

The essence of the offence under S. 192, Penal Code, consists in this: that a false entry must be under S. 192, Penal Code, made in a book or record or a false statement must be made in a document. Secondly, that a false entry or false statement must be made with a certain intention, namely, that the false entry or false statement may appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or any other proceeding taken by law before a public servant. Thirdly, a false entry or statement so appearing in evidence may cause any person in such proceeding who has to form an opinion upon the evidence to entertain an erroneous opinion. Fourthly, the erroneous opinion must be touching upon a material point, that is to say, a point material to the result of the said proceeding. An entry or a statement in a record or document would be false if it does either by reason of some false additions or of some material omissions misrepresent the truth. The omission may be illegal or may not be illegal. The thing to consider is what is the effect of the omission on the entry as made or on the statement as occurring in a document. Jatindra Nath Sahu v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 700 :
169 I. C. 64 : 9 R. C. 893 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 42.

————S. 192—Intention.

False dying declaration made without seeking redress from authorities does not come under S. 192 or 194 as the intent to use it in a judicial proceeding cannot be presumed. Banti Pande v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 210 :
129 I. C. 87 : 12 P. L. T. 109 :
I. R. 1930 Pat. 71 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 550.

————S. 192 — Intention, if material—Intention and not admissibility creates criminal offence.

Under S. 192, Penal Code, it is the intention that creates the criminal offence and not the fact as to whether, under the terms of the law, the document is admissible in evidence. Baroda Kanla Sarkar v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 620 :
30 I. C. 444 : A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 553.

————S. 192 — Judicial proceedings—Execution proceedings whether judicial proceedings.

Execution proceedings are judicial proceedings for the purpose of Ss. 192 and 193, Penal Code. It is not essential for the purpose of these sections that the judicial proceedings in which the person intends to use the false evidence must be pending at the date of the fabrication. In re : Govind Pandurang. 22 Cr. L. J. 49 (b) :

50 I. C. 193 : 22 Bom. L. R. 1239 :
45 Bom. 668 : A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 366.

————S. 192 — Judicial proceeding—Judicial proceeding not pending, effect of.

It is not essential for the purpose of S. 192, Penal Code, that there should be any judicial proceeding pending at the time of the fabrication. It is enough that there is a reasonable prospect of such a proceeding having regard to the circumstances of the case, and that the document in question is intended to be used in such a proceeding. Rajaram Bhavanishankar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 23 :
59 I. C. 135 : 22 Bom. L. R. 1229 :
A. I. R. 1920 Bom. 319.

—S. 192—Making false document—Recitals in document implying false statements.

The accused fabricated a zaminnam, in which he made certain false recitals implying that two excise licensees had executed a sub-lease in his favour, which if they had done so, would have rendered their licence liable to be cancelled. After fabricating the zaminnama the accused petitioned the Excise Collector stating execution of the sub-lease. On enquiry, all this was found to be false and the zaminnama a fabrication. Action was taken accordingly and the accused was convicted under S. 192, I. P. C.: Held, that a document containing recitals, implying a false statement, is fabricated falsely within the meaning of S. 192, I. P. C. Mahadeo Misser v. Narayan Ram Sha.

3 Cr. L. J. 196 :
10 C. W. N. 220.

—S. 192—Offence under—Intention, if material.

While a false dying declaration may, in certain circumstances, go in as evidence, the intent that it may appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding and cause an erroneous opinion to be entertained touching a point material to the result of such a proceeding, which is an essential ingredient in the definition of the offence of fabricating false evidence as defined in S. 192, Penal Code, cannot easily be inferred in the case of a dying declaration. The intent or knowledge necessary under S. 194, Penal Code, presents even greater difficulty in such cases. Banti Pande v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 210 :
129 I. C. 87 : I. R. 1931 Pat. 71 :
12 P. L. T. 109 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 550.

—Ss. 192, 193—Intention, if material—Fabricating false evidence—Necessity of finding the intention—Causing false entry of a marriage in the Marriage Register—Mahomedan Marriage Register.

In order to convict a person of fabricating false evidence under S. 193, I. P. C., it is necessary to find that the person intended that the fabrication may appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or in a proceeding taken by law before a public servant as such or before an arbitrator. Where the accused by falsely representing to the marriage Registrar that a certain marriage had been solemnised, induced the Registrar to make a false entry of the registration of the Marriage: Held, that the accused cannot be convicted of the offence of fabricating false evidence under S. 193, I. P. C., in the absence of a finding that the intention of the accused was that the false entry in the Marriage Register might appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or in some other proceeding of a like nature as contemplated by S. 192, Penal Code. Mohamed Siddiq v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

6 Cr. L. J. 162 :
11 C. W. N. 911.

- S. 193.
- Burden of proof.
- Causing circumstance to exist.
- Charge.
- Cognizance.
- Complaint.
- Confessions, if basis for perjury.
- Contradictory statements.
- Conviction.
- Deliberation.
- Deposition not read over to witnesses.
- Document with false statement.
- Duty of prosecution.
- Essentials.
- Evidence.
- Fabricating false evidence.
- False entry.
- False statement.
- Falsity.
- Ingredients.
- Intention.
- Intention is gist of offence.
- Judicial proceedings.
- Jurisdiction.
- Lawfully sworn.
- Materiality.
- Miscellaneous.
- Object.
- Offence under.
- Perjury.
- Pleadings.
- Procedure.
- Proof.
- Retracted statement.
- Sanction.
- Sanction to prosecute.
- Scope.
- Sentence.
- Stay of criminal proceedings pending civil case.
- What constitutes offence.
- S. 193.
- See also (i) Criminal Court.
- (ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 133, 161, 164, 179, 190, 195, 195 (1) (b), 195 (1) (c), 195 (1) (c), 195 (b), 202, 230, 342, 360, 399, 435, 480, 476, 480, 537, 539-A.
- (iii) Evidence Act, 1872, S. 145.
- (iv) Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.
- (v) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 47, 191, 192, 211, 381.
- (vi) Perjury.

—S. 193—Burden of proof.

Where the charge is that the evidence has been fabricated in connection with proceedings which are only contemplated by the accused, it is upon the prosecution (Crown) to prove the fact that proceedings were contemplated. In re : Indrachand Bachraj.

33 Cr. L. J. 386 :
137 I. C. 134 : 34 Bom. L. R. 294 :
56 Bom. 213 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 219 :
A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 185.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 193—Causing circumstance to exist—Fabricating false evidence—Producing a wrong man for identification—Intention to cause failure of justice.

One D was charged with enticing away a married woman. C, the brother of D, brought before the Court several persons among whom he falsely said was D, and requested the Court to ask the witnesses to identify D. All the witnesses said D was not there. C pointed to a man who, he said, was D, but who was discovered to be another man wearing a false moustache: Held, C was guilty of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code. C, by placing before the Magistrate a man who was not his brother D but whom he represented to be D, caused a circumstance to exist. It was his intention that the failure of witnesses to identify D should appear in evidence and mislead the Court. The gist of the offence did not consist in actually causing a failure of justice, but in the intention to cause a failure of justice by misleading the Court, and with such intent, causing the existence of any circumstance which might appear in evidence. Cheda Lal v. Emperor.

5 Cr. L. J. 285 :
4 A. L. J. 237 : 27 A. W. N. 107 :
I. L. R. 29 All. 351.

—S. 193—Charge—Charge for perjury—Exact words in deposition not used—Effect of.

The failure to enter in a charge for perjury under S. 193, the actual words used in a deposition is at the most an irregularity cured by S. 537, Cr. P. C. Mirabax v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 500 :
68 I. C. 36 : 18 N. L. R. 192 :
A. I. R. 1923 Nag. 39.

—S. 193—Charge—Charges to be separate for every act of perjury or forgery.

There must be a separate count for every alleged item of perjury or forgery, and this means that there must be independent evidence of user in the case of each document. Jang Bahadur Lal v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 62 :
13 I. C. 398 : 14 C. L. J. 652.

—S. 193—Charge—Prosecution in the alternative in respect of statements made under S. 164, of the Cr. P. C., and subsequently as a witness in Court.

A complaint was made to the Police charging T, S and a third person with having committed an offence under S. 420, Penal Code. During the investigation, T was examined on oath by a Magistrate under the provisions of S. 164, Cr. P. C. As the result of the Police investigation, S was placed on his trial, and T appeared as a prosecution witness and made a statement which appeared to the Court to be contradictory of his statement previously made under S. 164: Held, that there was no legal objection, if the two statements were in fact contradictory, to the prosecution of T on a charge in the alternative under S. 193, Penal Code. Emperor v. Tasadduk Husain.

7 Cr. L. J. 302 :
28 A. W. N. 73.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 193—Cognizance—Complaint by Court, necessary.

A complaint by the Court is necessary for a prosecution for an offence under S. 193, I. P. C., and the parties cannot be permitted to evade that provision of law by filing a complaint of defamation. Kallumatam Gurubasayya v. Sanna Setra Siddalingappa.

41 Cr. L. J. 906 :
190 I. C. 358 : 51 L. W. 491 :
1940 M. W. N. 392 : 1940, 1 M. L. J. 689 :
13 R. M. 404 : A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 677.

—S. 193—Cognizance, complaint—Necessity of.

That the Magistrate could not take cognizance of the offence under S. 193, Penal Code without a complaint from the Judge before whom the evidence was sought to be used. In re: Kunju.

28 Cr. L. J. 70 :
99 I. C. 102 : 24 L. W. 725 :
51 M. L. J. 800 : 38 M. L. T. 187 :
A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 199.

—S. 193—Cognizance.

Offence under S. 193 cannot be taken cognizance of by a Court except upon complaint by Court acting under S. 164 or Court to which it is subordinate. Har Narain v. Hoshair Singh.

36 Cr. L. J. 1505 :
150 I. C. 1118 : 1935 A. L. J. 228 :
57 All. 778 : 8 R. A. 372 :
1935 A. W. R. 131 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 341.

—S. 193—Cognizance—Perjury, order to prosecute for, while case still pending, whether proper.

An order directing the prosecution of a witness under S. 193, Penal Code, while the case in connection with which he is said to have made a false statement is still pending in the Sessions Court, is improper. Birendra Nath Das Gupta v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 147 :
27 I. C. 211 : 18 C. W. N. 1342.

—S. 193—Cognizance—Sanction to prosecute—Discretion of Judge.

An offence under S. 193, Penal Code, is an offence against public justice. The person best qualified to say whether a prosecution should or should not be instituted is the Judge before whom the evidence was given and who had considered all the facts of the case. Chiranji Lal v. Ram Lal.

13 Cr. L. J. 496 :
15 I. C. 496 : 9 A. L. J. 538.

—S. 193—Complaint and charge.

Where a person entrusted a promissory note with a Vakil's clerk for filing a suit thereon, and the latter failed to file a suit within the period of limitation but after that period forged an endorsement of payment on the pro-note and caused the suit to be filed: Held, the act of the Vakil's clerk fell within S. 193, and complaint of the Court was necessary for his prosecution. K. S. Subramania Ayyar v. Swamikannu Chetty.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 800 :
144 I. C. 519 : 37 L. W. 547 :
1933 M. W. N. 217 : I. R. 1933 Mad. 424 :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 413.

—S. 193—Complaint—Complaint for perjury in a case, when should be lodged.

Though it is ordinarily in the interests of justice to bring the perjurer to book and check such offenders, it is the duty of the Court to see whether it would ultimately promote the interests of justice if the perjurer is prosecuted. Rewashankar Moolchand v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 182 :
185 I. C. 400 : 1939 N. L. J. 562 :
12 R. N. 167 : A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 72.

—S. 193—Complaint.

Complaint under S. 193 cannot be taken cognizance of except upon complaint of Court before which offence is committed. Bibhuti Bhushan Adhikari v. Khem Chand Churoria.

35 Cr. L. J. 946 :
149 I. C. 363 : 38 C. W. N. 578 :
61 Cal. 792 : 6 R. C. 568 :
A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 457.

—S. 193—Complaint—Complaint for perjury, when to be made.

It is only when a Civil, Revenue or Criminal Court is of opinion that it is expedient in the interests of justice that an enquiry should be made into any offence referred to in S. 195, Sub-s. (1), cl. (b) or cl. (c) of the Cr. P. C., which appears to have been committed in or in relation to a proceeding in that Court that such Court may, after such preliminary enquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary, record a finding to that effect and make a complaint thereof and shall forward the same to a Magistrate of the First Class having jurisdiction to try the complaint: Held, that it was not expedient in the interests of justice that the accused should be prosecuted for an alleged offence of perjury. Pragi v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 885 :
164 I. C. 107 : 1936 O. L. R. 429 :
9 R. O. 34 (2) : 1936 O. W. N. 763 :
A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 373.

—S. 193—Complaint—Statement literally true—Complaint, whether should be made.

A Court is not justified in making a complaint of perjury against a person in respect of a statement which is literally and strictly speaking true. Chiragh Din v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 330 :
92 I. C. 746 : 7 L. L. J. 621.

—S. 193—Complaint.

To see if complaint is necessary under S. 195, Cr. P. C., the crucial date is not the date when offence is committed but the date when the Court takes cognizance of it. In re : Indrachand Bachraj.

33 Cr. L. J. 386 :
137 I. C. 134 : 34 Bom. L. R. 294 :
56 Bom. 213 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 219 :
A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 185.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 193—Confessions, if basis for perjury.

Whether a statement is taken as a statement or as a confession, the record can be used only for the purpose for which it was taken. A 'confession' cannot be made the basis of a prosecution for perjury. A 'statement' cannot be used as a 'confession' that is, as an admission of the truth of the facts set out in it in a criminal prosecution based on these facts, either against the person making it or against others with whom he may be jointly tried. In re : Madala Ramaniyamma.

17 Cr. L. J. 195 :
34 I. C. 307 : 20 M. L. T. 21 :
A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 316.

—S. 193—Contradictory statements—Conviction.

Unless two contradictory statements are so absolutely opposed as to exclude the possibility of any hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused, there can be no conviction upon an alternate charge of perjury. In such a case, it is possible that the first statement may have been false through an error or mistake which has been corrected by subsequent information and the second contradicts the first because it contains the truth which had come to the knowledge of the party in the meantime. In such a case, the statements, though contradictory, are not intentionally so, and a conviction under S. 193 of the Penal Code, may not be possible on the basis of such statements. Bhagirathi Bai v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1401 :
89 I. C. 713 : A. I. R. 1926 Nag. 141.

—S. 193—Contradictory statements, if form basis of conviction.

The guilt or innocence of an accused cannot be allowed to depend upon speculation, nor upon vacillating and contradictory statements of witnesses. Alay Ahmad v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 370 :
50 I. C. 978 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 167.

—S. 193—Contradictory statements in same deposition, if offence.

Quaere.—Whether contradictory statements made in one and the same deposition can be the subject of a prosecution under S. 193, Penal Code. Girdharimal v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 240 :
34 I. C. 656 : 9 S. L. R. 202 :
A. I. R. 1916 Sind 78.

—S. 193—Conviction—Contradictory statements, when can be made basis of conviction.

A charge of perjury based on two mutually contradictory statements can be successful only where the two statements are necessarily and irreconcilably contradictory of each other. Where the accused called a person as his relation at one time, by a term not necessarily implying near relationship, and said subsequently that he was not his relation, there is no necessary contradiction between the statements and no conviction for perjury can be sustained on such statements. In re : Parvataneni Kamayya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 Cr. L. J. 14 :
26 I. C. 318 : 1915 M. W. N. 34 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 876.

———S. 193—Conviction.

False evidence—Witness deliberately deceiving Court—Subsequent application weeks after to correct statement: Held, prosecution proper. Teomal Gerimal v. Ali Muhammad Shah Rashid.

38 Cr. L. J. 873 :
170 I. C. 360 : 10 R. S. 53 :
31 S. L. R. 77 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 116.

———S. 193—Conviction.

Production of forged receipts in Court to support defence—Complaint under S. 193—Conviction under S. 471 is legal. Boni Hampana Gowd v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 421 :
161 I. C. 196 : 1935 M. W. N. 1346 :
70 M. L. J. 109 : 43 L. W. 226 :
8 R. M. 801 : A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 280.

———S. 193—Deliberation.

Where a witness either through stress of skilful cross-examination or from other circumstances while under examination in the witness-box makes false statements which he soon afterwards retracts in the course of his deposition, he cannot be accused of perjury, but where a man deliberately and intentionally enters the Court with the intention of giving false evidence and retracts his statement and admits that his evidence is false only when he is found out, he is liable to be prosecuted for perjury. Emperor v. Badamal.

31 Cr. L. J. 135 :
120 I. C. 507 : 24 S. L. R. 7 :
A. I. R. 1930 Sind 61.

———S. 193—Deposition not read over to witnesses—Conviction—Deposition not read over to witness in presence of accused or his Pleader, effect of—Proof of deposition.

Accused was a witness in a Sessions trial, at the close of which the Sessions Judge directed his prosecution for giving false evidence. He was brought to trial, but it was found that his deposition in the Sessions Court was not read over to him in the presence of the accused or his Pleader as required by S. 360. The Magistrate held the deposition to be inadmissible in evidence and discharged the accused. Subsequently the District Magistrate took up the case, set aside the order of discharge and ordered further inquiry under S. 437. Accused moved the Chief Court in revision: Held, that the deposition should not have been treated as a nullity merely because of the irregularity in not reading it over to the deponent in the presence of the accused or his Pleader; it could be proved by other evidence, as, e. g., by evidence that the witness admitted it to be correct when it was read over to him, and the evidence of the Judge or Magistrate who recorded it. Tunya v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 506 :
51 I. C. 666 : 10 L. B. R. 16 :
12 Bur. L. T. 197 : A. I. R. 1919 L. Bur. 129.

———S. 193—Deposition not read over to witness—Conviction for perjury.

A conviction under S. 193, Penal Code, is not sustainable where the deposition, after it had been completed, was not read over to the witness and acknowledged by him to be correct. The omission is more than an irregularity and it is dangerous and against public policy to make a witness liable on an unsafe record. The deposition is the only evidence admissible of the statements alleged to have been made by the witness. In re : Nalluri Chenchiah.

20 Cr. L. J. 379 :
50 I. C. 987 : 36 M. L. J. 296 : 9 L. W. 349 :
1919 M. W. N. 183 : 25 M. L. T. 356 :
42 Mad. 561.

———S. 193—Deposition not read over to witnesses—Conviction—Perjury—False statement made in a deposition which was not read over to the witness in presence of the accused or his pleader—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), S. 360—Non-compliance with, effect of—Evidence Act (I of 1872), Ss. 80 and 91—Proof of statement.

A witness cannot be convicted under S. 193, I. P. C., for having made false statement in his deposition before a Criminal Court when the deposition was not read over to him in the presence of the accused or his pleader in accordance with the provisions of S. 360, Cr. P. C. Where the deposition of a witness in a criminal trial is not read over to him in the presence of the accused or his Pleader in accordance with the provisions of S. 360, Cr. P. C., it is not admissible in evidence and no other evidence is admissible in proof of the statements made therein. Mohendra Nath Misser v. Emperor.

8 Cr. L. J. 116 :
12 C. W. N. 845.

———S. 193—Deposition not read over to witness—Conviction.

Where the statements relied upon in a prosecution for perjury are not absolutely irreconcilable and there is no evidence that they were read over to the witness in the presence of the accused or his Pleader, as required by S. 360, Cr. P. C., a conviction under S. 193, Penal Code, is bad. Bansi Pandey v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 1039 :
42 I. C. 783 : 1917 Pat. 299 :
2 P. L. W. 176 : A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 639.

———S. 193—Document with false statements—Offence.

The accused executed a registered document purporting to be a kabuliyat in favour of the complainant which contained recitals designedly false. According to the accused this kabuliyat was accepted by the complainant: Held, that as the recitals in the kabuliyat would be evidence against the complainant, the accused was guilty of an offence under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 193, Penal Code. Mohammad Kajim Ali v. Jarabdi Nashkar. 20 Cr. L. J. 574 :
52 I. C. 62 : 29 C. L. J. 522 : 46 Cal. 986 :
A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 430.

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution.

In a case under S. 193, Penal Code, where the prosecution is based upon certain statements being falsely made by the accused, it is essential to set out the exact statements in detail upon which the prosecution wants to proceed. Ram Dhar Singh v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 169 :
43 I. C. 585 : 1918 Pat. 13 : 4 P. L. W. 44 :
A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 448.

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution.

In a charge, under S. 193, I. P. C., of intentionally giving false evidence, the prosecution is bound to prove affirmatively by clear and positive evidence that the statement made by the accused is false and was made by him with the knowledge that it was false. Prakash Chandra Sarkar v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 455 :
2 C. L. J. 101.

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution.

In a prosecution under S. 193, Penal Code, it is the duty of the prosecution to prove conclusively that the statement made by the accused was necessarily a false statement. Nirghin Mahlon v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 500 :
56 I. C. 660 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 171.

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution.

In a prosecution under S. 193, Penal Code, it is incumbent on the prosecution to show first that the statement made by the accused was false, and secondly, that they knew it or believed it to be false or did not believe it to be true at the time they made the statement. Ramdeni Pathak v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 358 :
173 I. C. 738 : 4 B. R. 327 :
10 R. P. 432 : A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 145.

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution—In prosecutions under S. 193 or 199.

The prosecution must show affirmatively the knowledge of the accused that the evidence given or declaration made was false or his belief in its being false or absence of a belief in its truth. The real question in such cases is of the state of mind of the accused at the time of filing the declaration. Jagdat Singh v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 917 :
144 I. C. 1011 : 6 R. P. 139 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 133.

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution—Promissory note—Accused denying receipt of consideration—Prosecution, duty of, to prove passing of consideration.

The rule of law contained in the Negotiable Instruments Act that the presumption is that a promissory note was passed for consideration, does not necessarily apply to a criminal trial. Therefore, in a prosecution for perjury, under S. 193, Penal Code, arising out of a civil suit upon a promissory note in which the accused denied the receipt of consideration, it is for the prosecution to prove that consideration did pass, and not for the accused to prove the contrary. Sakhawat Haidar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 54 :
59 I. C. 198 : 18 A. L. J. 1151 :
A. I. R. 1920 All. 242 (1).

———S. 193—Duty of prosecution—Prosecution, duty of, to prove particular statement as false—Criminal trial—Failure to produce prosecution witness—Presumption.

In a case under S. 193, Penal Code, it must be proved beyond all reasonable doubt that some particular portion of the statement alleged to have been made by the accused is false. Emperor v. Amolak Ram.

20 Cr. L. J. 519 :
51 I. C. 679 : A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 158.

———S. 193—Essentials.

An accused could only be guilty under S. 193, Penal Code, if he had the intention of fabricating evidence in order that it should appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or in a proceeding taken by law before a public servant, as such, or an arbitrator as laid down in S. 192. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Turak Nath Chatterjee.

37 Cr. L. J. 698 :
162 I. C. 910 : 62 Cal. 666 :
8 R. C. 663 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 304.

———S. 193—Essentials.

Though proceedings contemplated at the date of the offence are sufficient to constitute the offence under S. 193, Penal Code, proceedings contemplated at the date when the Magistrate takes cognizance are not sufficient to bring the case within S. 195, Cr. P. C. In re : - Indrachand Bachraj.

33 Cr. L. J. 386 :
137 I. C. 134 : 56 Bom. 213 :
34 Bom. L. R. 294 :
I. R. 1932 Bom. 219 :
A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 185.

———S. 193—Evidence—Evidence, sufficiency of.

A sued B for ejectment from a certain house. B pleaded that he was the owner of the house. A produced two kirayanamas executed by B which showed that he was the tenant of A. B said that he had left his signature on blank papers and it was on those papers that A had subsequently filled up the contents of the kirayanamas; he, however, subsequently endorsed on the back of the documents Tahrir taslim hai. Upon the strength of the endorsement, B was run down for perjury: Held, that the endorsement was not alone sufficient evidence to convict B for perjury. Chatar Singh v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 485 :
7 I. C. 420.

———S. 193—Fabricating false evidence.

A person who fabricates a false rent-note showing that a house has been let to him for a certain period, is guilty of an offence under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 193, Penal Code. Rajaram Bhavanishankar v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 23 :
59 I. C. 135 : 22 Bom. L. R. 1229 :
A. I. R. 1920 Bom. 319.

———S. 193—Fabricating false evidence.

After an application for partition had been presented by certain co-sharers, a second application was presented by a Pleader on behalf of four other co-sharers asking that their shares should be partitioned and formed into a separate patti. The application was signed by the Pleader only, but purported to be verified by the four co-sharers and the Pleader's vakalatnama authorizing him to present the application also purported to be signed by all four. As a matter of fact, one of the co-sharers was dead and his name was signed, both on the vakalatnama and in the verification of the application by his brother Ganeshi. Ganeshi was tried for the offence of fabricating false evidence in respect of both documents : he was acquitted as regards the vakalatnama, but convicted as regards the application : Held, that under the circumstances the conviction could not be sustained as regards the application either. Emperor v. Ganeshi. 2 Cr. L. J. 100 :
25 A. W. N. 52 : 2 A. L. J. 203.

———S. 193—Fabricating false evidence—False affidavit by identifier for proving service of process.

An identifier who knowingly makes a false affidavit of service of process for the purpose of being used in a judicial proceeding, commits the offence of fabricating false evidence within the meaning of S. 193, Penal Code. He is also guilty of an offence under S. 199 where the Court is authorised under its circular orders or any other law to receive an affidavit from an identifier as evidence of the fact of service of summons. Kari Gope v. Manmohan Das.

29 Cr. L. J. 111 :
106 I. C. 703 : 6 Pat. 760 :
A. I. R. 1928 Pat 161.

———S. 193—Fabricating false evidence.

Mere intention to divert suspicion and conceal one's guilt need not necessarily amount to fabricating false evidence. If his act falls within S. 192, he cannot take shelter behind the circumstance that he is an accused person to escape penalty under S. 193. Bhagirath Lal v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 379 :
153 I. C. 619 : 7 R. A. 544 :
4 A. W. R. 535 :
1934 A. L. J. 1064 :
A. I. R. 1934 All. 1017.

———S. 193—Fabricating false evidence.

Quære.—Entering false record in Police

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

diary—Whether amounts to fabricating evidence. Dwarkanath Varma v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 322 :
142 I. C. 335 : 37 L. W. 584 :
64 M. L. J. 466 : 10 O. W. N. 522 :
1933 M. W. N. 409 :
37 C. W. N. 514 :
57 C. L. J. 177 : 14 P. L. T. 305 :
1933 A. L. J. 645 :
35 Bom. L. R. 507 :
I. R. 1933 P. C. 65 P. C. :
A. I. R. 1933 P. C. 124.

———S. 193—False entry—False statement made in the recital of title in a document—Statement not admissible in evidence against persons against whose interest such statement is made.

A person does not commit the offence of fabricating false evidence punishable under S. 193, Penal Code, by making a false statement in the recital of title to property in a document when such statement is not admissible in evidence against the person or persons against whose interest such statement is made. Emperor v. Chandra Kumar Missir. 2 Cr. L. J. 383 :
2 C. L. J. 46.

———S. 193—False statement.

Party giving evidence before Commission supporting forged document—Offence under S. 193 is committed. Tulsi Amual v. Danalakshmi Amual. 35 Cr. L. J. 780 :
148 I. C. 851 (2) : 66 M. L. J. 471 :
39 L. W. 693 : 57 Mad. 682 :
1934 M. W. N. 609 : 6 R. M. 550 :
A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 316.

———S. 193—False statements.

The question of intention goes to the root of the matter, and when the accused has proved that he did not intentionally make any false statement, he is entitled to an acquittal on the charge. Anandi Prasad v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 390 :
147 I. C. 395 : 11 O. W. N. 87 :
6 R. O. 262 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 65.

———S. 193—Falsity.

No person can be convicted under S. 193, Penal Code, except on proof that it is impossible that the statements of the party accused made on oath can be true. Padarath Singh v. Ratan Singh.

21 Cr. L. J. 145 :
54 I. C. 673 : 5 P. L. J. 23 :
1920 Pat. 140 : 1 P. L. T. 458 :
A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 419.

———S. 193—Falsity.

The petitioner was convicted of an offence under S. 193, I. P. C., for having made two inconsistent statements. On appeal, the conviction was upheld, the Appellate Court finding that the first statement was the false one: the statement was to the effect that the petitioner saw the accused in the case in which he gave evidence striking blows. In that case, the accused was convicted having been found to have caused hurts: Held, that the conviction must be set aside for it could not be said that the statement for making which the petitioner was convicted by the Appellate Court was intentionally false. Asanand v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 517 :
5 P. L. R. 261.

—S. 193—Falsity.

To support a prosecution for giving false evidence, it must be shown that the false statement charged against the accused is literally false. There must be a statement of fact which is false. It is no offence if the fact stated is true but some circumstance is suppressed with the result that a wrong inference may be deduced. Ratansi Daya v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 96 :
32 I. C. 688 : 9 S. L. R. 170 :
A. I. R. 1916 Sind 70.

—S. 193—Ingredients.

Per Jenkins, C. J.—(on reference)—To convict an accused of giving false evidence, it is necessary to show not only that he has made a statement which is false, but also that he either knew or believed it to be false or did not believe it to be true. Where it is sought to establish the offence of perjury on contradictory statements, although the Court may believe that on the one or the other occasion the prisoner swore what was not true, it is not a necessary consequence that he committed perjury; for there are cases in which a person might very honestly and conscientiously swear to a particular fact to the best of his recollection and belief, and from other circumstances at a subsequent time be convinced that he was wrong and swear to the reverse without meaning to swear falsely either time. Emperor v. Banakratram Lachiram.

1 Cr. L. J. 390 :
S. C. 6 Bom. L. R. 379 :
I. L. R. 28 Bom. 533.

—S. 193—Intention—If material.

Intention to give false evidence is a necessary element to constitute an offence under S. 193, I. P. C. That intention can only be gathered from the surrounding circumstances and the subsequent correction or retraction by a witness of his statement in the same deposition might negative the existence of such an intention. Lachmi Narain v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 280 :
19 I. C. 712 : 16 O. C. 8.

—S. 193—Intention.

In a case under S. 193, Penal Code, it is essential to show that the accused gave false evidence or made a false statement intentionally. Gopi Nath Panda v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 772 :
41 I. C. 148 : 1917 Pat. 267 :
A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 499.

—S. 193—Intention—Intention, when to be presumed.

False evidence is intentionally given, if the person making the statement makes it advisedly, knowing it to be false and with the intention of deceiving the Court and of leading it to suppose that that which he states is true. The Court may infer corrupt intention from surrounding circumstances. If a statement is proved to be false, it may safely be presumed that in making the statement the applicant gave intentionally false evidence. Jamsilal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 655 :
116 I. C. 643 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 163 :
A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 193.

—S. 193—Intention.

It is only when the witness makes a false statement with a dishonest intention and afterwards tries to correct it that his prosecution can be directed by Court. Girdharimal v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 240 :
34 I. C. 656 : 9 S. L. R. 202 :
A. I. R. 1916 Sind 78.

—S. 193—Intention—Primary consideration is that of intention.

The primary consideration for prosecution for perjury is that the false statement should be made intentionally. Where there is no finding to the effect that the statement was intentionally made, and it does not appear to be in evidence that there was any such intention: Held, that sanction for prosecution of the witness is illegal. Azibulla Sarear v. Uday Sonthal.

9 Cr. L. J. 282 :
1 I. C. 287 : 13 C. W. N. 422.

—S. 193—Intention—Witness correcting himself, whether predicates intention to give false evidence.

It is open to a witness to correct himself on second thought, or on being reminded of any fact which might have escaped his memory, and the subsequent correction or retraction by a witness of his statement in the same deposition does not necessarily predicate the existence of an intention to give false evidence with regard to the statement so corrected or retracted, if the correction or retraction can be otherwise satisfactorily explained. Depositions of witnesses which contain corroborations or explanations of what has been said in examination-in-chief are, prima facie, insufficient upon which to found a charge of perjury. William v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 652 :
69 I. C. 92 : 25 O. C. 139 :
A. I. R. 1922 Oudh 198.

—S. 193—Intention—Witness not allowed an opportunity of explaining his reply.

Where it is not known in what form a question is put to a witness and no opportunity is given to him for explaining his reply, it is unreasonable to assume that he has intentionally made a false statement so as to make him liable to be prosecuted under S. 193, Penal Code. Harnam Singh v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 460 :
3 P. W. R. Cr. 35.

—S. 193—Intention is gist of offence.

The intention to commit perjury must be clearly present before a person charged with that offence can properly be convicted of it, and a statement capable of being construed in any reasonable way in such committing, that it does not show a clear intention of committing perjury, or a deliberate attempt to make a false statement does not per se contain the element of the offence. Ramgobind Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 471 :
72 I. C. 887 : 1 P. L. R. 17 :
A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 381.

—S. 193—Judicial proceedings.

A statement under S. 104 is not evidence in a stage of judicial proceedings within the meaning of Expl. II, S. 193, Penal Code, and a person cannot, therefore, be convicted under Part I of S. 193 in respect of such a statement. Sajawal v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 413 (2) :
137 I. C. 131 : 33 P. L. R. 179 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 297 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 254.

—S. 193—Judicial proceeding.

An investigation under Chap. XIV, Cr. P. C., is a stage of a "judicial proceeding," and any person who makes on oath a statement which he knows to be false before the Magistrate conducting that investigation gives false evidence and commits an offence under S. 193, I. P. C. Suppa Tevan v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 370 :
I. L. R. 29 Mad. 89.

—S. 193—Judicial proceeding—Cr. P. C., S. 476—Enquiry—Judicial proceeding.

An enquiry under S. 476, Cr. P. C., is a judicial proceeding, and a person giving false evidence in the course of the proceeding is guilty of perjury under S. 193, I. P. C. Abdullah Khan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 45 :
5 I. C. 62 : 14 C. W. N. 132.

—S. 193—Judicial proceeding—Enquiry under S. 476 conducted by Magistrate other than Magistrate taking cognizance of case, whether judicial proceeding.

A Sub-Divisional Officer called upon the complainant in a case pending before him to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, and on the complainant showing cause, sent the case to an Honorary Magistrate for recording evidence. The latter recorded the evidence and sent the case back to the Sub-Divisional Officer. On receipt of the record, the Sub-Divisional Officer directed the prosecution of the petitioner, who was a witness for the complainant, for perjury in respect of a statement made by the petitioner before the Honorary Magistrate: Held, that the Honorary Magistrate had, therefore, no jurisdiction to record the evidence of the petitioner and that the petitioner, therefore, did not give false evidence at any stage of a judicial proceeding within the meaning of S. 193, Penal Code, and could not be prosecuted for perjury. Sakhi Rai v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 245 :
49 I. C. 917 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 266.

—S. 193—Judicial proceeding—Judicial proceeding not pending—Sanction—Whether necessary.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

In the absence of any proceeding, pending or disposed of, in which or in relation to which an offence under S. 193, Penal Code, is said to have been committed, no sanction under S. 193 (b) of the Cr. P. C. is necessary. The clause cannot apply to any future judicial proceeding for which the false evidence may have been fabricated. In re : Govind Pandurang.

22 Cr. L. J. 49 (b) :
50 I. C. 193 : 22 Bom. L. R. 1239 :
45 Bom. 668 : A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 366.

—S. 193—Judicial proceeding—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), S. 193—Proceeding under S. 104, whether judicial proceeding.

A statement recorded by a Magistrate in the course of a Police investigation under S. 104, Cr. P. C., is not evidence in a stage of a judicial proceeding within the meaning of Expl. (2) to S. 193, Penal Code. Purshollam Ishwar Amin v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 241 :
60 I. C. 593 : 23 Bom. L. R. 1 :
45 Bom. 834 : A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 3.

—S. 193 Judicial proceeding.

Proceedings before a Debt Settlement Board cannot be regarded as "judicial proceedings" except for the limited purpose of S. 228, I. P. C. No prosecution will, therefore, lie under S. 193 for giving false evidence or fabricating false evidence in respect of such proceedings. Hari Charan Kundu v. Kanshi Charan Dey.

41 Cr. L. J. 662 :
188 I. C. 686 : 44 C. W. N. 530 :
I. L. R. 1940, 2 Cal. 14 : 13 R. C. 44 :
A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 286.

—S. 193—Jurisdiction.

Where a false return of service was made and attested by witnesses within the jurisdiction of the Court of Gaya for obtaining an ex parte decree in the Court of Maubhum: Held, that the offence under S. 193, Penal Code, was complete within Gaya Court's jurisdiction and must be tried by that Court. Abdul Karim v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 765 :
117 I. C. 309 : 10 P. L. T. 161 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 421 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 640.

—S. 193—Lawfully sworn.

As the Magistrate before whom the affidavits in this case were sworn was not acting in the discharge of his duties but in exercise of the powers conferred by law, he was not competent to administer the oath. Emperor v. Di'ul Safar.

12 Cr. L. J. 563 :
12 I. C. 651 : 5 S. L. R. 102.

—S. 193—Lawfully sworn.

In cases of perjury it is desirable that the due administration of the oath to the accused person on the occasion in question should be proved like any other fact. Alay Ahmad v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 370 :
50 I. C. 978 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 167.

—S. 193—Lawfully sworn—Registrar, false statement before, whether punishable.

S. 68 of the Registration Act authorises the Sub-Registrar to administer oath and record statement of the petitioner before him. Therefore a person, making a false statement before the Sub-Registrar, is punishable under S. 82 (a) of the Registration Act and S. 193, Penal Code. In re : Narayanaswami Iyer.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 102 :
18 I. C. 662 : 12 M. L. T. 376 :
1912 M. W. N. 1107.

———S. 193—Materiality.

If a statement made by a person is designedly false, he will be liable under S. 193, Penal Code, irrespective of the fact as to whether the statement had a material bearing or not upon the matter which was under enquiry before the Court. But the materiality or the immateriality of the statement could have a bearing upon the question of sentence which is to be passed in the case. Raja Ram v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
120 I. C. 122 : I. R. 1930 All. 10 :
1930 A. L. J. 251 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 936.

———S. 193—Materiality—Giving false evidence, proof of—English and Indian Law.

The Law of England requires that a false statement in order to support a charge should be material to the question in dispute, but the I. P. C. does not impose that qualification. Emperor v. Bal Gangadhar Tilak.

1 Cr. L. J. 305 :
6 Bom. L. R. 324 : I. L. R. 28 Bom. 479.

———S. 193—Materiality—Statements forming subject-matter of charge under S. 193 need not be material for decision of suit—Question arises only for purpose of sentence.

It is not necessary that the statements which form the subject-matter of a charge under S. 193, I. P. C., should be material for the decision of the suit, and the question can only be considered for the purpose of the sentence in the event of a conviction. Behari Lal Sud v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 204 :
185 I. C. 588 : 41 P. L. R. 652 :
12 R. L. 313 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 529.

———S. 193—Materiality—Statement, irrelevant and immaterial—Effect of.

A question put to a witness in a trial for offences under Ss. 379 and 147, Penal Code, whether or not his father had been bound down under S. 107, Cr. P. C., is neither relevant nor material and a false answer given by the witness to such a question would not render him liable to be prosecuted for perjury. Bramhdeo Singh v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 568 :
62 I. C. 584 : 2 P. L. T. 389 :
1921 Pat. 133 : A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 149.

———S. 193—Miscellaneous.

A Magistrate has no power to administer an oath to a person when he is examined as a witness before him in an enquiry regarding the headman of a village. The orders of a Magistrate in respect of such matters are executive orders, and the accused cannot be convicted under S. 193. Daya Ram v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 264 :
153 I. C. 133 (1) : 1934 A. L. J. 1087 :
4 A. W. R. 816 : 7 R. A. 447 (2).
A. I. R. 1934 All. 988 (2).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 193—Miscellaneous.

Application for transfer with sworn affidavit—Denial of allegations by accused by counter-affidavit and also by trial Magistrate's statement—Complaint against applicant under S. 193 on the basis of counter-affidavit and Magistrate's statement is unwise. Inquiry under S. 476, Cr. P. C., would be proper. Ambica Charan Das v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 674 :
131 I. C. 262 : 53 C. L. J. 184 :
35 C. W. N. 690 : 58 Cal. 1211 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 438 : A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 344.

———S. 193—Miscellaneous.

Every act of perjury is, in strict law, an offence but it does not follow, that on that account every perjurer should be charged. Public Prosecutor v. Mayandi Nadar.

34 Cr. L. J. 948 (1) :
145 I. C. 371 : 6 R. M. 53 :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 230.

———S. 193—Miscellaneous.

Fabrication of false evidence—Proceedings contemplated but not actually started—S. 195, Cr. P. C. does not apply. In re : Indrachand Bachraj.

33 Cr. L. J. 386 :
137 I. C. 134 : 34 Bom. L. R. 294 :
56 Bom. 213 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 219 :
A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 185.

———S. 193—Miscellaneous.

In a case of perjury, the previous deposition of the accused should not be excluded under S. 145, Evidence Act, which has no bearing whatever on such a case. Government of Bengal v. Gannoo Mahto.

10 Cr. L. J. 499 :
4 I. C. 124 : 9 C. L. J. 378.

———S. 193—Object.

It is immaterial whether the accused did or did not intend to defraud the judgment-debtor, for the offence charged is one against public justice, and it is with a view to secure the more orderly administration of justice that the law makes penal the deliberate assertion of falsehood in pleadings. Emperor v. Hakikat-sing.

14 Cr. L. J. 456 :
20 I. C. 16 : 7 S. L. R. 25.

———S. 193—Offence under—Complaint to District Magistrate as Head of Police and not as Magistrate—Conviction under S. 193 not sustainable.

A appeared before a District Magistrate and made a statement before him that a certain Police Officer had beaten him, demanded a bribe from him and locked him in the Police hawalat. A added that he did not wish to make a complaint but only wished the District Magistrate to make an inquiry so as to prevent the Police Officer from behaving tyrannically towards him. The District Magistrate examined A on oath. Inquiry disclosed that the charge was groundless. A was thereupon convicted under Ss. 182 and 193, Penal Code: Held, that the conviction under S. 193 could not stand, as (a) the District Magistrate was not moved qua Magistrate but only as District Head of Police. A expressly declining to institute criminal proceedings, and (b) it was unnecessary and perhaps unlawful for the Magistrate to have forced the man to take oath under these circumstances. Paul v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 56 :
18 I. C. 344 : 35 All. 102 :
11 A. L. J. 15.

—S. 193—Offence under, nature of.

Under the definition of "fabricating false evidence" it is not necessary that the evidence should be intended to be used in a judicial proceeding. It is sufficient if it is to be used to influence a public servant in any proceeding taken by law before him. Emperor v. Ismail Khadirsab.

29 Cr. L. J. 403 :
108 I. C. 501 : 30 Bom. L. R. 330 :
52 Bom. 385 : A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 130.

—S. 193—Offence under—When constituted—C. P. C. (Act V of 1908), O. XXII, R. 4—Substitution of legal representatives, application for—Verification, whether necessary—False statement in application—Offence.

A petition for substitution of the legal representatives of a deceased party does not under the law require to be verified and a false statement in such a petition, therefore, even though the petition is verified does not amount to an offence under S. 193, Penal Code, inasmuch as the solemn declaration embodied in such a verification is not a declaration within the meaning of S. 191 or of S. 51, Penal Code. Purendra Jha v. Nunulal Jha.

28 Cr. L. J. 518 :
102 I. C. 214 : 6 Pat. 184 :
8 P. L. T. 412 : A. I. R. 1927 Pat. 197.

—S. 193—Perjury—Essentials—Knowledge of falsity—Materiality of issue.

In order to establish the offence of perjury, the prosecution must prove, not only that the statement was false, but also that the person making the statement either knew or believed it to be false or did not believe it to be true. Under the Indian Law it is not necessary that the statement alleged to be false must be material to the issue. Mahbub Ilahi, son of Fazal Ilahi v. Emperor.

I. R. 1932 Lah. 667.

—S. 193—Perjury—Essentials of—Good faith, finding of.

A man cannot be convicted of perjury for having acted rashly, or for having failed to make reasonable inquiry with regard to the facts alleged by him to be true. It must be found that he made some statement or statements which he knew to be false or which he believed to be false or which he did not believe to be true. This finding must be arrived at independently of the definition of "good faith" contained in S. 52, Penal Code. Muhammad Ishaq v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 579 :
25 I. C. 331 : 12 A. L. J. 550 : 36 All. 362.
A. I. R. 1914 All. 170.

—S. 193—Perjury in foreign country is not punishable under.

While perjury before the Court of a Native State by an Indian subject of His Majesty would be as objectionable as perjury before a Court in British India, it is not punishable under S. 193, Penal Code, where it is committed in a Foreign Court in relation to entirely foreign proceedings. In re : Rambharthi Hirabharthi.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 333 :
77 I. C. 189 : 25 Bom. L. R. 772 :
47 Bom. 907 : A. I. R. 1924 Bom. 51.

—S. 193—Perjury—Proof.

No man can be convicted of giving false evidence except on proof of facts which, if accepted as true, show not merely that it is incredible, but that it is impossible that the statements of the party accused made on oath can be true. If the inference from the facts proved falls short of this, there is nothing on which a conviction can stand; because assuming all that is proved to be true, it is still possible that no offence was committed. S. C. Gupta v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 185 :
76 I. C. 425 : 1 Rang. 290 :
A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 17.

—S. 193—Perjury—Proof, quantum of.

To justify a conviction for perjury, it is sufficient if the statement of the accused is proved to be incredible, it is not necessary to prove that it is impossible. To justify a conviction for perjury on circumstantial evidence, it must be shown that the evidence cannot be explained on any other reasonable hypothesis. Mohammad Ismail Khan v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 12 :
54 I. C. 60 : 22 O. C. 236 :
A. I. R. 1919 Oudh 20.

—S. 193—Pleading.

A person does not commit an offence under S. 193, Penal Code, by merely putting in a written statement or a plaint something which in a sense is not true or by omitting something from the written statement. Rash Behary Ray v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 238 :
129 I. C. 111 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 127.
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 639.

—S. 193—Procedure.

Charge of perjury based on isolated statement of witness—Accused not given opportunity to explain—Discretion of Magistrate not exercised judicially—Charge cannot be sustained. J. E. James v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 833 :
144 I. C. 846 : 6 R. C. 50 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 606 (2).

—S. 193—Procedure—Stay of proceedings under, pending disposal of civil proceedings—Discretion.

Criminal proceedings under S. 193, Penal Code, for statements made in a civil suit pending appeal, should not ordinarily be ordered to be stayed till the disposal of the appeal, but that is a matter entirely within the discretion of the Magistrate. Mathradas v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 661 :
25 I. C. 989 : 8 S. L. R. 20 :
A. I. R. 1914 Sind 80.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 193 - Proof.

In order to sustain a successful charge of perjury, it is not enough to show that the statement in question is probably not true, it must be shown that it is certainly false. It is necessary for the prosecution to prove either that on its face the statement must be necessarily regarded as deliberately perjured or that it is so from extrinsic circumstances. It must be proved beyond any reasonable doubt that the statement is deliberately false. Lalmoni Nonia v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 321 :
72 I. C. 161 : 1 P. L. R. 142 Cr. :
4 P. L. T. 683 : A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 276.

—S. 193—Proof—Sufficiency of.

The rule that the testimony of a single witness is not sufficient to sustain an indictment for perjury, is not a safe guide for the Indian Courts which are bound by the Statute Law of India. Arjan Singh v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 780 :
131 I. C. 594 (2) : I. R. 1931 All. 402 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 362.

—S. 193—Retracted statements.

It is inadvisable to prosecute under S. 193, if a witness reverts to the truth in the course of a trial, more especially when the witness was not a willing witness. Jani v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 10 :
152 I. C. 254 : 7 R. Sind 78 :
A. I. R. 1934 Sind 155.

—S. 193—Sanction.

In a case where contradictory statements have been made on different occasions, sanction to prosecute cannot be refused unless the approver made one of the two statements under undue influence. Emperor v. Hussaina.

35 Cr. L. J. 111 :
146 I. C. 461 : 6 R. L. 230 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 868.

—S. 193—Sanction to prosecute—Deposition, false statement in, correction of, before close of examination—Sanction, if can be granted.

The essence of the offence of perjury consists in an attempt to mislead and deceive the Court. The deposition given by a witness must be read as a whole, and a witness must always be given an opportunity of correcting any answer made by him. Where, therefore, a witness makes a false statement and subsequently corrects it in the course of his examination, it is undesirable that he should be subjected to a prosecution for perjury as he withdraws the lie and leaves the Court under the impression of the truth. In re : Pandu Namaji Gavande.

18 Cr. L. J. 480 :
39 I. C. 320 : 19 Bom. L. R. 61 :
A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 49.

—S. 193—Sanction to prosecute—Discretion—Reversion of witness to truth during trial—Prosecution, if can be ordered.

It is inadvisable to prosecute a man under S. 193, Penal Code, if he has reverted to the truth in the course of the trial, especially when he was not a willing false witness. Allah Wasaya v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 1044 :
112 I. C. 468.

—S. 193—Sanction to prosecute—Discretion.

Where the statement does not, in any way, affect the credibility of the witness and is wholly irrelevant, the Court in its discretion should not sanction prosecution of the witness for perjury. Azibullah Sarear v. Uday Sonthal.

9 Cr. L. J. 282 :
1 I. C. 287 : 13 C. W. N. 422.

—S. 193—Sanction to prosecute under—Effect of.

If a sanction is granted for prosecution under S. 193, Penal Code, proceedings in respect of an offence under S. 211 of the Code cannot be sustained. Shao Ghulam Sahu v. Kheyali Thakur.

20 Cr. L. J. 132 :
49 I. C. 164 : 1918 Pat. 366 :
A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 416.

—S. 193—Scope—Ingredients of offence.

It is not a necessary ingredient of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code, that the evidence alleged to be fabricated should actually have been produced in the antecedent judicial proceeding, but in considering the advisability of sanctioning a prosecution, its production or non-production in the Court is a circumstance to which the Court might attach very considerable importance in deciding whether it is against the public interest to allow criminal proceedings to be instituted. Munuswamy Mudaliar v. Rajaratnam Pillai.

24 Cr. L. J. 340 :
72 I. C. 340 : 16 L. W. 505 :
45 Mad. 928 : 44 M. L. J. 774 :
A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 136.

—S. 193—Sentence.

Accused setting matters right before Tribunal—Actually in lock-up for 18 months—Accused student having wasted 5 years—No prosecution for not complying with terms of pardon—Sentence of 18 months held too severe. Brahm Datt v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 402 :
153 I. C. 547 : 16 Lah. 153 :
37 P. L. R. 534 : 7 R. L. 446 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 981.

—S. 193—Stay of criminal proceedings pending civil case—Propriety of.

Where it is transparent that the criminal case is calculated to hamper the fair trial in the Civil Court, no prosecution for perjury should be lodged till after the case is decided by the Civil Court. Rewashankar Moolchand v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 182 :
185 I. C. 400 : 1939 N. L. J. 562 :
12 R. N. 167 : A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 72.

—S. 193—When constitutes offence.

A applied to the District Magistrate stating that his son had been murdered by certain persons and asking that the case be referred to a Council of Elders under the Frontier Crimes Regulations of 1901. The District Magistrate directed the Magistrate Ilaga, to make a summary inquiry into the case and the Magistrate Ilaqa, thereupon took the statement on oath of the applicant and his four witnesses. The applicant's story having been found to be false, complaints were framed against him and his witnesses under S. 193, Penal Code: Held, that as the statements of the accused were not taken by the Magistrate in the course of any judicial proceeding and as he had no authority to administer an oath, the accused could not be convicted of giving false evidence under S. 193, Penal Code. Jahangir v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 1350 :
82 I. C. 710 : 6 L. L. J. 375 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 729.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Affidavit read out to person and signed by him while drunk—If can be prosecuted under S. 193 for giving contrary evidence.

Where an affidavit prepared for a person and read out to him while he is drunk is signed by him, its contents cannot be said to have been properly understood by him and he cannot, therefore, be prosecuted for perjury under S. 193, I. P. C., for giving evidence contrary to the allegations in the affidavit. U Aung Myin U v. District and Sessions Judge Henzada.

41 Cr. L. J. 687 :
188 I. C. 795 : 13 R. Rang. 19 :
A. I. R. 1940 Rang. 148.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Application for transfer—Affidavit sworn before another Magistrate produced in support.

Where in support of an application for transfer of a case made to a Sub-Divisional Magistrate, affidavits of three persons sworn before a Subordinate Magistrate were produced: Held, that the affidavits were not evidence and could not form the subject of a charge under S. 193, Penal Code. Consequently, no sanction for the prosecution of the persons who had sworn the affidavits could be granted. Emperor v. Dital Safar.

12 Cr. L. J. 563 :
12 I. C. 651 : 5 S. L. R. 102.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Attestation of false report without knowing contents, if offence.

The mere fact of a person placing his signature on a written report, without knowing its contents, is no ground for holding that he necessarily knew or had reason to believe that the contents of the report were false; at most, the act is indiscreet and does not amount to an offence under S. 193, Penal Code. Jai Jai Ram v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 268 :
50 I. C. 28 : 17 A. L. J. 574 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 316.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Concealment by accused of his own guilt, if offence.

An accused person cannot be charged either with giving or fabricating false evidence with the sole object of diverting suspicion from himself and concealing his guilt in regard to a crime with which he is charged. Ram Khilazan v. Emperor. 4 Cr. L. J. 66 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 A. W. N. 191 : I. L. R. 28 All. 705.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Contradictory statements before two Magistrates—Sanction to prosecute, if can be granted.

Where a witness makes contradictory statements in the Courts of two Magistrates, the Court competent to grant sanction for his prosecution under S. 193, Penal Code, is the Court to which both the said Courts are subordinate. For the purpose of a sanction to prosecute a witness under S. 193, Penal Code, the Court of a Magistrate of Second Class, is subordinate to the District Magistrate and not to the Sessions Judge. Emperor v. Amiruddin Salebhoy.

23 Cr. L. J. 466 :
67 I. C. 818 : 24 Bom. L. R. 534 :
A. I. R. 1923 Bom. 44 (2).

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Contradictory statements explainable.

B purchased certain property from A who subsequently sold it to C. C brought a complaint of cheating against A. In the course of proceedings in the case, B appeared as a witness. In his examination-in-chief he stated that no other bargain took place in his presence. In cross-examination he stated that A and C were bargaining in his presence: Held, that the statement in cross-examination did not necessarily imply that B knew that another bargain had been duly made, and that his explanation, that no bargain was actually effected, though negotiations were going on, was, per se plausible, his prosecution, therefore, for perjury was not admissible. Emperor v. Barkat Ram.

12 Cr. L. J. 216 :
10 I. C. 121 : 158 P. L. R. 1911 :
38 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Contradictory statements in the same deposition, whether an offence.

It is desirable to give witnesses a locus penitentiae and an opportunity to correct themselves, and if they do correct themselves immediately afterwards or on a second thought in the same deposition, a prosecution for perjury would hardly be desirable. No statement made by a witness in a deposition can, moreover, be regarded as a completed statement until the deposition is finished and corrected, if necessary, for till then every statement is liable to be retracted, corrected, varied or qualified. The whole deposition must be read as one, and if a later statement in it is contradictory to or at variance with a previous statement in the same deposition, the statement first made will be deemed to be modified by the subsequent statement. Lachhmi Narain v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 280 :
19 I. C. 712 : 16 O. C. 8.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Contradictory statements not absolutely irreconcilable.

A person should not be convicted under S. 193, Penal Code, for making contradictory statements when the statements are not absolutely irreconcilable. Imperator v. Ali.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

13 Cr. L. J. 22 :
13 I. C. 215 : 5 S. L. R. 129.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Conviction on the strength of accused's previous contradictory statements—Ligality of.

Where the prosecution undertakes to prove that a particular statement made by a person accused of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code, is positively untrue, the accused cannot be convicted merely on the strength of contradictory statements previously made by him. Bakshali v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 28 :
13 I. C. 220 : 5 S. L. R. 136.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Debtor purporting to send insured packet containing currency notes in discharge of debt but actually sending waste paper, if offence—Suit on debt—Postal acknowledgment, use of, in support of plea of discharge—Offence, nature of—Magistrate, jurisdiction of, to take cognizance of offence under S. 103 without complaint from Judge—Cheating—Attempt to cheat—Attempt and preparation, distinction between.

A debtor sent to his creditor a registered insured packet purporting to contain currency notes in settlement of a debt but in reality containing only waste paper. The addressee was thereby induced to acknowledge the receipt of the insured cover. In a suit on the debt by the creditor, the debtor applied to have the Postal acknowledgment admitted in evidence in support of a plea of discharge. Held, that the accused used in a judicial proceeding fabricated false evidence as true and was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code : In re : Kunju.

28 Cr. L. J. 70 :
99 I. C. 102 : 24 L. W. 725 :
51 M. L. J. 800 : 38 M. L. T. 187 :
A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 199.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Denial of knowledge of fact—Proof that accused had personal knowledge, necessity of.

In the course of the examination of a prosecution witness, he was asked whether the accused had arrested his sons, and the witness denied knowledge of the fact. In a prosecution of the witness for perjury, it was proved that his sons had been arrested and that he had heard of the arrest, though he had no personal knowledge of the same : Held, that the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code, as there was no proof that the accused had personal knowledge of the fact. Natha Singh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 1010 :
106 I. C. 98 : 9 L. L. J. 414 :
29 P. L. R. 190.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Deposition of witness not recorded in accordance with law—Conviction.

To sustain a conviction for perjury, the deposition of the witness should be taken properly in accordance with law. Where after the evidence of a witness had been recorded, his deposition was read to him by the Court Clerk in a place where neither the Judge nor the Vakils were present : Held, that the deposition not being properly taken in accordance with law, could not be admitted in evidence and the assignment of perjury could not be based upon it. Kamatchinathan Chetty v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

2 Cr. L. J. 756 :
I. L. R. 28 Mad. 308.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—False endorsement on mortgage-deed showing payment.

The applicant executed a sale-deed in respect of his entire property in favour of his wife, but did not register the same. He then executed a mortgage of the same property in favour of one F. Before the mortgage transaction was completed, F had made all necessary inquiry in the Registration Department as to any prior encumbrance. The appellant then put in the sale-deed in favour of his wife for registration and soon after the mortgage-deed was also registered. When the matter came to light, F charged the appellant with cheating. During the trial it was found that the mortgage-deed bore an endorsement of payment although there was no such endorsement on the date when it was filed in Court : Held, that the appellant was guilty of fabricating false evidence as well as of forgery. Abdul Rashid Khan v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 221 :
22 I. C. 1005 : 12 A. L. J. 104 :
A. I. R. 1914 All. 337.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Evidence given before Commissioner—Deposition not read over to witness—Perjury—Sanction to prosecute whether can be granted.

A sanction for prosecution for perjury granted in respect of a false statement made before a Commissioner appointed by a Court in Oudh, is not invalid merely because the statement in respect of which it is granted was not read over to the witness. Feroze Jan v. Amir Ali.

24 Cr. L. J. 781 :
74 I. C. 445 : 9 O. L. J. 593 :
A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 119.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—False answers to questions which witness could not have been compelled to answer, if offence.

Where a person answers questions put to him in a judicial proceeding after he has sworn to tell the truth and the answers are not true, he commits perjury, even though the questions which he has answered were such as he could not have been compelled to answer. Tunia v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1611 :
90 I. C. 715 : A. I. R. 1926 Pat. 168.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—False statement by witness—Immediate retraction of such statement—Whether prosecution necessary.

Where a witness makes a statement which is false and at once admits this, and states what is the real truth, he should not be prosecuted for giving false evidence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Dasondha Singh v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 405 :
 11 I. C. 589 : 34 P. W. R. 1911 Cr. :
 230 P. L. R. 1911.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—False statement during administrative inquiry, whether within S. 193—Appeal.

In order that a person should be rendered liable for perjury under S. 193 of the Penal Code, it is essential that the perjury should have been committed in the course of any trial or proceeding before a Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court or in the course of a judicial proceeding or that at least the statement should have been made under a legal sanction. But if the statements concerned were made in the course of an administrative inquiry, no appeal lies from an order making a complaint in respect of such statements. Raja Ram v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
 120 I. C. 122 : I. R. 1930 All. 10 :
 1930 A. L. J. 251 :
 A. I. R. 1929 All. 936.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—False statement immediately retracted, if perjury.

Where a witness after making a false statement at once retracts what he has stated and admits that he has made a mistake, he ought not to be convicted of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code. Fakir Chand v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1460 :
 89 I. C. 1028 : 1 Lah. Cas. 322 :
 A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 646.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—False verification—Decree-holder with knowledge of part payment verifying execution application for full amount, if offence.

If a decree-holder, knowing that something has been paid, verifies an execution application for the full amount, he intentionally declares that to be true which he knew to be false, and is, therefore, guilty under S. 193, Penal Code. Emperor v. Hakikatsing. 14 Cr. L. J. 456 :
 20 I. C. 16 : 7 S. L. R. 25.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Giving false evidence under S. 193, Cr. P. C., if guilty.

Person giving false evidence under S. 193, Cr. P. C., may be prosecuted. Hirananda Ojha v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 575 :
 9 C. W. N. 127 : 983 : 2 C. L. J. 149 :

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Hearsay evidence, if can form basis of criminal prosecution under S. 193.

Where the evidence is hearsay evidence, a Magistrate should not record it, and if under a mistake of law he records it, such evidence cannot form the basis of criminal prosecution. Master Zoda v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1043 :
 164 I. C. 1057 : 38 P. L. R. 16 :
 9 R. L. 189 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 828.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Hearsay evidence given—Prosecution under S. 193, propriety.

Hearsay evidence given by the witnesses could not be made the subject of a prosecution under S. 193. Chhedi Nandu v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 351 :
 6 I. C. 390 : 7 A. L. J. 618.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Making contradictory statements—When amounts to an offence.

The gist of an offence under S. 193, I. P. C., in which the accused is charged with making two contradictory statements, one of which he must have known to be false, is that the two statements, taking the words of those statements in their ordinary and natural meaning in the light of the context in which they are used, must be irreconcilable. Where the accused was charged with perjury in that he made a statement on the first occasion that he saw one L, son of R run away from the custody of the peon, and on the second occasion that he saw one man going eastward and that he was not certain whether the man was the accused; Held, that the accused could not be charged or convicted for perjury as, at the time of his second deposition, the accused was not asked to explain his first deposition in the light of his second statement. In re : Narayanan Nair.

11 Cr. L. J. 353 :
 6 I. C. 409 : 8 M. L. T. 86 :
 1910, 1 M. W. N. 397.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Mistake in specifying property in execution application—Dishonesty not proved, if offence.

The applicant obtained a decree for the sale of half the house. He made three applications to execute his decree. The first application asked for the sale of half the house, but in the second and third applications, the whole house was included, and as a matter of fact, the whole house was put to auction and sold. On an objection being preferred, half the house was exempted, but the applicant was tried and convicted under S. 193, Penal Code. On appeal, the conviction was altered into one under S. 210 : Held, that the facts did not establish dishonest or criminal intention on the part of the applicant and that he was not, therefore, guilty of any offence. Mangal Rai v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 202 :
 5 I. C. 695 : 7 A. L. J. 93.

———S. 193—What constitutes offence—Omission to read out statement to deponent, effect.

There can be no conviction under S. 193 of the Penal Code, based on a false statement which is not made and recorded with all due formalities in the manner required by law. Where the record itself does not contain the usual note that the statement has been read out and admitted correct, it cannot be presumed that it was read out. The omission to read out a statement to a deponent deprives him of the locus poenitentiae which is afforded by the reading out, and such an omission renders a conviction under S. 193 of the Penal Code altogether illegal. Kartar Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 607 :
39 I. C. 847 : 12 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
15 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 192.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Reckless accusation against Magistrate, etc., in affidavit—Action to be taken.

Where in an affidavit an accused person has made a reckless accusation against the Magistrate as well as the Government Advocate and the Deputy Superintendent of Police, it is expedient in the interests of justice that he should be called upon to show cause why he should not be prosecuted under S. 193, read with S. 199, Penal Code, for affirming a false affidavit. K. L. Gauba v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 955 :
170 I. C. 586 : I. L. R. 1937 Lah. 114 :
39 P. L. R. 643 : 10 R. L. 135 :
A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 411.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Sanction to prosecute.

A mortgagee having produced before the Deputy Commissioner a copy of a mortgage-deed, that officer referred it to the Tahsildar for investigation and report. The Tahsildar did not make any enquiry. Before the Naib-Tahsildar, the mortgagee stated that no payments were made by the mortgagor to him. On enquiry it was found that payments had been made which were endorsed on the back of the original mortgage-deed and the document was withheld for that reason. The Deputy Commissioner sanctioned prosecution of the mortgagee for falsification of evidence by fraudulently producing the copy and not the original of the mortgage-deed and making a false statement before the Naib-Tahsildar: Held, that the prosecution was illegal for (1) the mere production of the copy did not amount to falsification of evidence, and (2) the proceedings before the Naib-Tahsildar were ultra vires. Katyan Singh v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 601 :
8 I. C. 243 : 80 P. L. R. 1910.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Sanction to prosecute—Incorrect statement in answer to irrelevant question—If can be granted.

A witness was prosecuted and convicted for having made a false statement in which he disclaimed knowledge of a report previously made by a zaildar in another matter two months previously. He had then made a statement to the zaildar in an inquiry under S. 202 of the Cr. P. C., ending in dismissal of the complaint under S. 203. When called to account later on, he at once admitted that he had made a mistake: Held, that the conviction must be set aside. In such cases, sanction to prosecute should not be given. The answer given by the witness may have been literally true. He could not be punished for not giving a more detailed answer even if he remembered the circumstances of the zaildar's inquiry which he might well have forgotten for the moment when confused by questions having no immediate bearing on the point as to which he was being examined. If the Court thought that there was a suppression of truth on the witness's part, it ought to have cleared the matter up at once by giving him an opportunity of explaining more fully and pointing out that he seemed to be making a mistake. There was clearly no intention of giving false evidence. Intention was the essence of the offence and could not be presumed in this case. Rattan Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 265 :
10 I. C. 840 : 72 P. L. R. 1911 :
14 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Signing darkhast containing false statements, if offence.

Signing and verifying a darkhast containing false statements is an offence punishable under S. 193, Penal Code; and it makes no difference that at the time when the signature and verification were appended, the darkhast was blank. Emperor v. Ratanchand Dhannaram.

1 Cr. L. J. 959 :
6 Bom. L. R. 886.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Statement false to the knowledge of the person making it.

A witness who makes a false statement knowing it to be false, commits the offence of intentionally giving false evidence. Emperor v. Ghulam Mustafa.

1 Cr. L. J. 190 :
24 A. W. N. 52 : I. L. R. 26 All. 371.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Statements in examination-in-chief—Corrected in cross-examination, if offence.

A witness should be given a locus poenitentiae and an opportunity to correct himself and if he corrects himself immediately afterwards or on second thought in the same deposition, a prosecution for perjury would not lie. Therefore, a witness, who makes a statement in his examination-in-chief and declares that statement to be false in cross-examination, is not guilty of perjury. Hit Narayan Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 953 :
96 I. C. 505 : A. I. R. 1926 Pat. 517.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Witness correcting statement in same deposition—Offence, whether committed.

A witness is not guilty of perjury if he corrects a statement of his, previously made, in the same deposition. Chedi Lal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 10 :
83 I. C. 490 : 11 O. L. J. 309 :
A. I. R. 1924 Oudh 373.

—S. 193—What constitutes offence—Witnessing service of summons on wrong person—If offence.

In a rent suit summonses were issued to, amongst others, one S. Accused No. 1 identified a person as S and the summons was served on him; accused Nos. 2 and 3 were witnesses to the service. It appeared, however, that S had died some years before the suit was instituted. The three accused were accordingly convicted of an offence under S. 193, Penal Code: Held, that the conviction of accused Nos. 2 and 3 could not be maintained, as it was not proved that they were aware that service was to be effected upon S. Prayag Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 641:

52 I. C. 417: A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 528.

-----S. 193—What constitutes offence.

Where a person denied having made a particular statement to a police officer in whose diary it was to be found: Held, that prosecution for perjury against that person could not, successfully, be maintained. Muhammad Usman v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 3:

4 A. L. J. 811: 28 A. W. N. 22.

-----S. 193.

S. 193, Penal Code, is applicable to the case of deliberate false allegation made in written statement and false verification. Emperor v. Padam Singh.

31 Cr. L. J. 954:

126 I. C. 5: 1930 A. L. J. 955:
A. I. R. 1930 All. 490.

-----Ss. 193, 211, 218, 220—Accused charged under these sections in respect of proceedings under S. 109, Cr. P. C.—No complaint by Magistrate—Charges under Ss. 193, 211, held should be quashed—Complaint held not necessary for charge under Ss. 218, 220.

The accused were charged under Ss. 193, 211, 218 and 220, Penal Code, in respect of proceedings under S. 109, Cr. P. C. There was no complaint filed by the Magistrate before whom the proceedings were pending: Held, that the offences under Ss. 193 and 211, were committed in relation to proceedings pending in the Court of the Magistrate, and no Court could take cognizance of these offences except on the complaint in writing of the Magistrate in whose Court these proceedings were pending or of some other Court to which the Magistrate in question was subordinate. The charges under these sections, therefore, must be quashed: Held, also that the offences under Ss. 218 and 220, did not fall within the purview of S. 195, Cr. P. C. These offences were distinct from offences under Ss. 193 and 211, Penal Code. For the purpose of obtaining a conviction under Ss. 218 and 220, Penal Code, the prosecution had to prove facts which were distinct from the facts constituting offences under Ss. 193 and 211, Penal Code. Therefore proceedings under Ss. 218 and 220, Penal Code, could be continued without a complaint by the Court which dealt with the proceedings under S. 109, Cr. P. C. Ghulam Mohammad v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 122:

172 I. C. 373: 39 P. L. R. 1011:
10 R. L. 307: A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 802.

-----S. 193, 423—Fabricating false document—Sale-deed containing false recital of marriage

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

executed, if offence—"Fraudulently," meaning of—Deprivation of property—Deception and injury.

Accused executed a sale-deed in favour of a woman alleging that she was married to him on a particular date and transferring to her certain land in lieu of dower. In fact no marriage took place between the accused and the woman who was the wife of another person: Held, that the only possible inference was that he was acting in furtherance of his desire to secure the person of the woman, and his intention was to use this document and false statements therein in judicial proceedings to mislead the Judge and that, therefore, he was guilty of an offence of fabricating false evidence under S. 193, Penal Code: Held, also, that the accused had a further intention to cause injury to the woman and her true husband and to support his false claim to that status and that, therefore, he was also guilty under S. 423, I. P. C. Legal Remembrancer v. Abilal Mandal.

23 Cr. L. J. 340:

66 I. C. 996: 48 Cal. 911:
A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 226.

-----Ss. 193, 467—Procedure—Complaint under S. 193—Conviction under S. 467 also—Legality of.

Where the accused against whom a complaint is lodged only under S. 193, Penal Code, is convicted also of an offence under S. 467, the conviction is irregular and made without jurisdiction in view of S. 195, Cr. P. C. Kaura Ram v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 748:

169 I. C. 44: 9 R. Pesh. 138:
A. I. R. 1937 Pesh. 67.

-----S. 194.

See also (i) Penal Code, 1860, S. 182.

-----S. 195—Conviction under.

To sustain a conviction under S. 195, I. P. C., it is not only necessary to prove that the accused spoke falsely, but also that he knew he was speaking falsely. Gopalaswami Naidu v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 7:

2 I. C. 431: 6 M. L. T. 91.

-----S. 195—Offence under—Criminal conspiracy—Conspiracy when not indictable—False evidence, attempt to fabricate, charge of, when sufficient—Photographing under-trial prisoners against Police rules—If offence.

A conspiracy consists not merely in the intention of two or more, but in the agreement of two or more to do an unlawful act, or to do a lawful act by unlawful means. So long as such a design rests in intention only, it is not indictable. When two or more agree to carry it into effect, the very plot is an act in itself, and the act, of each of the parties, promise against promise, actus contra actum, becomes capable of being enforced, if lawful, punishable if for a criminal object or for the use of criminal means. A conspiracy is generally a "matter of inference deduced from certain criminal acts of the parties accused, done in pursuance of an apparent criminal purpose in common between them." Three Police officers joined in taking a couple of photographs, one taking the photographs, the second arranging the camera and the third arranging the prisoners. They were charged with conspiracy to bring about the conviction of the prisoners for dacoity: Held, that in the absence of evidence, it could not be said that his intention was necessarily to use the photographs for the purpose of fabricating false evidence. Gulab Singh v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 431 : 35 I. C. 991 : 14 A. L. J. 688 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 141.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 195—Offence under —Persuading witnesses to make statements, if offence.

Where it appeared from the Police papers that the applicants 'got at' one Mussamat Patia and persuaded her to make a statement to the effect that she had seen certain persons, whom she mentioned by name, in the act of committing dacoity on her premises and that they apparently persuaded other persons to the same effect: Held, that this was not sufficient to convict the applicants of an offence under S. 195, Penal Code. Durga Prasad v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 667 : 30 I. C. 651 : A. I. R. 1915 All. 388.

————S. 196.

See also (i) Income Tax Act, 1922, Ss. 23, (2), 37.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 193, 417, 511.

————S. 196 — Interpretation — "Corrupt" meaning of.

The user of false evidence with the knowledge that it is false must ordinarily be "corrupt," within the meaning of S. 196, Penal Code, from its very nature, and the onus lies on the accused to show that there are circumstances in the case which prevent its being corrupt. The fact that he used the false evidence in his defence against a criminal charge is not enough to discharge the onus. Where a public servant has been induced by an accused person to produce a fabricated document in order to support his false defence, it is not difficult to support the inference as to the corrupt use by him of the fabricated evidence as being within the scope of S. 196, Penal Code. Ramanana Hagavne v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 23 : 64 I. C. 503 : 23 Bom. L. R. 987 : 46 Bom. 317 : A. I. R. 1922 Bom. 99.

————S. 196 — Interpretation — Corruptly—Meaning of.

The word corruptly in S. 196, Penal Code, is intended to connote a motive not necessarily connected with the passing of money as an inducement to the person impugned to use or attempt to use the fabricated evidence, and an intention to procure a false conviction is a corrupt intention. Fazl Ahmad v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 344 : 23 I. C. 696 : 1 P. R. 1914 Cr. : 139 P. L. R. 1914 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 433,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 196 — Offence under — Abortive attempt to secure medical certificate, whether offence under S. 196.

In order to constitute an offence under S. 196, I. P. C., there must be some evidence in existence which the party is either using or attempting to use. A mere attempt to get a medical certificate, which is refused, does not fall under S. 196. In re : Katari Veranna. 17 Cr. L. J. 388 : 35 I. C. 820 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 686.

————S. 196—Offence under.

An offence under S. 196, Penal Code, can be held to have been committed only if it is shown that the evidence which the accused used or attempted to use as true or genuine was in existence at the time. Accused relied on an entry in the Almanac of a witness who had appeared in the Court in obedience to the summons issued on him. He was neither examined nor asked to produce the Almanac. Thus there was no material before the Court to enable it to hold that the Almanac which witness had been called to produce was in existence or that it contained any false entry: Held, that the charge under S. 196 had not been brought home against the accused. Kumar Chowdhury v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 1011 : 170 I. C. 997 : 18 P. L. T. 271 : 16 Pat. 21 : 10 R. P. 179 : 4 B. R. 3 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 467.

————S. 196—Offence under—Production of document in compliance with order of Court, if offence.

It is an essential element of the offence under S. 196 of the Penal Code, that the document should have been corruptly used or attempted to be used as true or genuine evidence. The production of a document in compliance with an order of the Court does not amount to using the document as genuine within the meaning of the section. Ma Ain Lon v. Ma On Nu. 26 Cr. L. J. 509 : 85 I. C. 253 : 3 Rang. 36 : 3 Bur. L. J. 349 : A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 191.

————S. 196—Sanction—False case—False evidence.

Sanction to prosecute under S. 211, Penal Code, should only be given where the case is a deliberately false one: where the case brought is not false in substance, but is bolstered up by false evidence, the proper section to give sanction to prosecute under is S. 196, Penal Code. Bholanath v. Hari Mohan. 7 Cr. L. J. 196 : 7 C. L. J. 169.

————S. 196—Use of evidence contemplated by S. 196, Penal Code—Nature of.

The use of evidence contemplated in S. 196, Penal Code, is use by a party or witness and not use by the Court. Government Advocate, Bihar v. Kumar Singh. 39 Cr. L. J. 314 : 173 I. C. 432 : 16 Pat. 571 : 19 P. L. T. 51 : 10 R. P. 408 : 4 B. R. 274 : A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 83,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 197.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 439.

———S. 197—Certificate—False statement made in application under Land Registration Act, whether certificate.

Accused made an application under the Land Registration Act to get his name recorded in place of a woman whom he falsely stated to be dead: Held, that he could not be prosecuted under S. 197 of the Penal Code, for his statement in his application regarding the death of the woman was not a certificate within the meaning of S. 197. Bal Krishen Gir v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 978 :
42 I. C. 594 : 3 P. L. W. 201 :
A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 696.

———S. 197—Certificate—What is.

Per Suhrawardy, J., obiter dictum.—The certificate contemplated in S. 197, Penal Code, is a certificate which is required by law to be given or signed for the purpose of being used in evidence in the course of the administration of justice. Birendra Nath Chatterjee v. Umananda Mukherjee.

27 Cr. L. J. 182 :
91 I. C. 998 : 30 C. W. N. 120 :
42 C. L. J. 557 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 258.

———S. 197—Certificate within S. 197—Certificate by agent of female depositor that depositor alive and sane, whether covered.

A certificate given under the Post Office Rules in the case of a female depositor withdrawing a deposit by her authorised agent to the effect that the depositor is alive and sane, is not a certificate either prescribed by the Government Savings Banks Act or by Statutory Rules made thereunder and is not, therefore, a certificate which falls within the purview of S. 197, Penal Code. Birendra Nath Chatterjee v. Umanandra Mukherjee.

27 Cr. L. J. 182 :
91 I. C. 998 : 30 C. W. N. 120 :
42 C. L. J. 557 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 258.

———Ss. 197, 198—“Certificate,” meaning of—Signed petition certifying adjustment or satisfaction of decree, if certificate.

Where the accused purporting to represent the decree-holder in a certain suit signed and filed a petition in the executing Court stating, contrary to the fact, that the judgment-debtor had paid off the decretal amount to the decree-holder through him: Held, that the signed petition was not a certificate within the purview of Ss. 197 and 198, Penal Code, and that, therefore, the accused could not be convicted under those sections. Mahabir Thakur v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 140 :
33 I. C. 316 : 20 C. W. N. 520 :
23 C. L. J. 423 : A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 466.

———Ss. 197, 198—Interpretation.

The word “certificate” in Ss. 197 and 198, Penal Code, has not the meaning of certification. Mahabir Thakur v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 140 :
33 I. C. 316 : 20 C. W. N. 520 :
23 C. L. J. 423 : A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 466.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 197, 198—Scope.

S. 198, Penal Code, must be read along with S. 197. Upon reading these sections it is manifest that the certificate which is referred to in S. 197 must be one which is either “required by law to be given or signed” or “is by law admissible in evidence.” S. 197 contemplates that “the certificate” should by some provision of law be admissible in evidence as such a certificate without further proof. Kumar Chowdhury v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1011 :
170 I. C. 997 : 18 P. L. T. 271 :
16 Pat. 21 : 10 R. P. 179 : 4 B. R. 3 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 467.

———S. 198—Offence under.

A person cannot be convicted for an offence under S. 198, Penal Code, with reference to filing a birth certificate of his father from the President of the Municipality since the certificate cannot be treated as evidence, unless it is formally proved by the Chairman who granted it. Kumar Chowdhury v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1011 :
170 I. C. 997 : 18 P. L. T. 271 :
16 Pat. 21 : 10 R. P. 179 : 4 B. R. 3 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 467.

———S. 199.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 195, 439, 439-A.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 112, 114.

———S. 199—Affidavit—Affidavit merely repeating statement of another—Whether amounts to swearing to false affidavit.

Where a person in swearing to an affidavit only repeats what another person had written in the notice, it will not have the effect of establishing that the accused swore to false affidavit. Qutub-ud-Din v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 216 :
166 I. C. 352 : 17 P. L. T. 692 :
3 B. R. 164 : 9 R. P. 291 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 211.

———S. 199—Affidavits—Reckless allegations in affidavit, if offence.

Tendency on the part of applicants to make reckless allegations in the affidavits filed in the High Court deprecated: Held, after considering the facts that it was expedient in the interests of justice that an enquiry should be made into an offence under S. 199, I. P. C. Manlayak Singh v. Ramkirit.

41 Cr. L. J. 702 :
188 I. C. 854 : 6 B. R. 754 :
13 R. P. 54 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 631.

———S. 199—Applicability.

S. 199 does not apply to applications for execution of decrees containing false averments. Anandi Prasad v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 390 :
147 I. C. 395 : 11 O. W. N. 87 :
6 R. O. 262 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 65.

———S. 199—Basis of prosecution.

Affidavit not complying with requirements of

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

O. XIX, r. 3, C. P. C., is still a declaration.
Shahzad Khan v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 912 :
 144 I. C. 857 : 14 P. L. T. 679 :
 7 R. P. 134 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 513.

-----S. 199—Burden of proof.

Special Marriage Act, S. 21—Burden of proof that statement was false to deponent's knowledge not discharged by prosecution—Acquittal was ordered. Mrs. M. J. Walter v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 744 :
 148 I. C. 689 : 11 O. W. N. 404 :
 6 R. O. 425 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 155.

-----S. 199—Conviction under, whether can be converted to one under S. 182.

A conviction under S. 199, Penal Code, in respect of which no sanction is necessary, cannot be converted in revision to a conviction under S. 182 in respect of which a sanction is necessary, especially where the attention of the trying Magistrate was drawn to the necessity of such sanction. Ismail v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 603 :
 25 I. C. 515 : 8 Bur. L. T. 82 :
 A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 30.

-----S. 199—Declaration contemplated by law.

The declaration contemplated in S. 199, Penal Code, is a statement of facts in the form simply of a declaration which, for the purpose of proof of the fact declared to, has by itself all the legal force of evidence given on oath or solemn affirmation, that is to say, it must be a declaration which having been made is afterwards receivable as evidence of the fact declared. Ismail v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 603 :
 25 I. C. 515 : 8 Bur. L. T. 82 :
 A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 30.

-----S. 199—Duty of prosecution.

Section creating offence mentioning in definition of offence particular state of mind on part of offender—Burden of proving such state of mind is on prosecution. Shahzad Khan v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 912 :
 144 I. C. 857 : 14 P. L. T. 679 :
 6 R. P. 134 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 513.

-----S. 199—Ingredients—Reckless statements, effect.

S. 199, Penal Code, contemplates that a statement, in order to come within the purview of the section, must be one which is either false to the knowledge of the person making it or which he ought to have known to be false or could not have believed to be true. Statements made in a reckless and haphazard manner, though untrue in fact, do not constitute an offence under the section when the person making them immediately admits the mistake and corrects them. Aiyasami Iyer v. Aiyasami Aiyar.

18 Cr. L. J. 636 :
 39 I. C. 1004 : 6 L. W. 241 :
 22 M. L. T. 298 : 33 M. L. J. 545 :
 A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 627.

-----S. 199—Liability—Liability of declarant under S. 199, Penal Code, for false statement,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where an affidavit in cases in which evidence may be given by affidavit is intended to be used in a judicial proceeding before a Court of Justice and the declarant has made a statement therein that is false to his knowledge touching any point material to the object for which the affidavit is to be used, the declarant will be guilty under S. 199, I. P. C. A Village Munsif is a Judge of the Court of the Village Munsif established under Madras Village Courts Act, 1888. A statement made in an affidavit in which the declaration is signed by a Village Munsif may render the declarant liable for perjury for which sanction may properly be obtained. Palaniappa Chetti v. Annamalai Chetti.

1 Cr. L. J. 321 :
 14 M. L. J. 74 : I. L. R. 27 Mad. 223 :
 2 Weir 208.

-----S. 199—Offence under—Declaration not admissible in evidence, whether can be basis of prosecution.

A declaration, before it can be made the foundation of a prosecution under S. 199, Penal Code, must be one which is admissible in evidence and which the Court before which it is filed is bound or authorized by law to receive in evidence. Ram Parshad v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 769 :
 17 I. C. 401 : 10 A. L. J. 462 : 35 All. 58.

-----S. 199—Offence under—False declaration before Mamlatdar to obtain certificate of solvency for purposes of Akbari licence—If offence.

A false declaration made to a Mamlatdar in the hope of obtaining a certificate of solvency for the purpose of securing a licence from the Akbari Officials, is not such a declaration as a Court of Justice or any public servant or any person is bound by law or authorised by law to receive, and hence does not come within the purview of S. 199 of the Penal Code. Emperor v. Rajappa Ramappa Kalal.

16 Cr. L. J. 309 :
 28 I. C. 645 : 17 Bom. L. R. 222 :
 A. I. R. 1915 Bom. 60.

-----S. 199—Offence under—Insolvency petition containing false statements.

The statements in a petition of insolvency are very analogous to statements made in ordinary civil pleadings—Statements which are verified by law on the part of the person who places them on the record. But they certainly do not constitute evidence which is bound to be accepted by the Court. A petition in insolvency unhacked or uncorroborated by other evidence would not be accepted by the Court against the interests of any other person who was concerned in the question of the petitioner's insolvency. Ohhoteram Sarup Shah v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 408 :
 167 I. C. 525 : 9 R. C. 702 :
 I. L. R. 1937, 1 Cal. 504 :
 A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 801.

-----S. 199—Sanction—Statement unconnected with judicial proceeding—Order directing prosecution, legality of.

A Magistrate has no jurisdiction to direct

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

under S. 476, Cr. P. C., the prosecution of a person for an offence under S. 197 of the Penal Code, in respect of a statement or declaration made by that person which is entirely unconnected with the judicial proceeding before the Magistrate. Jiwan Singh v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 653 : 63 I. C. 413 : A. I. R. 1921 Lah. 332.

—S. 199—Scope.

S. 199, Penal Code, is much wider than S. 192 and applies to every kind of affidavit which the Court is bound or authorised to receive. Kari Gope v. Manmohan Das. 29 Cr. L. J. 111 : 106 I. C. 703 : 6 Pat. 760 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 161.

—S. 199—What constitutes offence.

An identifier who knowingly makes a false affidavit of service of process for the purpose of being used in a judicial proceeding is guilty of offence under S. 199. Kari Gope v. Manmohan Das. 29 Cr. L. J. 111 : 106 I. C. 703 : 6 Pat. 760 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 161.

—S. 199—Written statement of party, whether 'a declaration which any Court of Justice is bound or authorised to receive'—False statement in such written statement—If offence.

A written statement filed by a party under O. VIII, r. 1 of the C. P. C., is not a declaration which any Court of Justice is bound or authorised (by law to receive within the meaning of S. 199, Penal Code, and a person who makes a false declaration in a written statement does not, therefore, commit an offence under the section. Janki Rai v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 323 : 100 I. C. 707 : 25 A. L. J. 327 : 49 All. 482 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 383.

—S. 201.

—Alternative charge under.

—Alternative charge under, if amounts to misjoinder.

—'Any evidence of the commission of that offence', scope of.

—Applicability.

—Burial of corpse.

—Burial of headless body.

—Causing disappearance of evidence.

—Concealing body of murdered man.

—Concealing corpse.

—Concealment of dead body of person committing suicide, if offence.

—Concealment of offence.

—Conviction under.

—Disposal of murdered body under threat of being shot—Offence.

—Essence of.

—Evidence of suicide causing to disappear, if offence.

—Intention.

—Offence under.

—'Offender', meaning of.

—Removal of corpse to place other than that of murder, if offence.

—Removal of corpse under fear of death, if offence.

—Removing murdered body, offence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Scope of.

—Sentence.

—Separate sentence under, illegality of.

—S. 201.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 236, 408.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 72, 94, 193, 302, 304.

(iii) Post Office Act, 1898, S. 3.

—S. 201—Alternative charge under, legality of—Murder, charge of—Alternative charge of causing evidence of offence to disappear—Prejudice—Test.

It is not illegal to charge an accused person first with having committed a murder, and secondly, in the alternative, if the evidence does not show that he committed the murder, of having been guilty of causing evidence of the offence to disappear, with the intention of screening the offender. The real test is, whether the accused has been prejudiced by the alternative charge made in one trial. Hanmappa Rndrappa v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1349 :

82 I. C. 709 : 25 Bom. L. R. 231 :

A. I. R. 1923 Bom. 262.

—S. 201—Alternative conviction under, if amounts to misjoinder.

There is no misjoinder in charging an accused in the alternative with the main offence and under Ss. 201 and 203, Penal Code, nor is there anything irregular or improper in a Judge holding, that, while the accused is himself not free from the suspicion of being the actual murderer, he can be none the less convicted under S. 201 or 203. In re : Chinna Gangappa.

32 Cr. L. J. 263 :

129 I. C. 230 : 32 L. W. 389 :

54 Mad. 68 : 59 M. L. J. 677 :

1930 M. W. N. 489 :

I. R. 1931 Mad. 230 :

A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 870.

—S. 201—'Any evidence of the commission of that offence', scope of.

Per Fawcett, J.—The expression "any evidence of the commission of that offence" in S. 201, Penal Code, clearly refers, not to evidence in the extensive sense in which that word is used in the Indian Evidence Act, but to evidence in its primary sense, as meaning anything that is likely to make the crime evident, such as the existence of a wounded corpse or of blood stains, fabricated documents, or similar material objects indicating that an offence has been committed. The statements of witnesses and panchnamas do not constitute such evidence. Anwer Khan Mohammad Khan v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 609 :

63 I. C. 145 : 23 Bom. L. R. 823 :

A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 115.

—S. 201—Applicability of.

S. 201, Penal Code, applies merely to the person who screens the principal or actual offender and not to the principal or actual offender himself. Ahmad v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 109 :

91 I. C. 541 : 1 Lah. Cas. 554 :

A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 209.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 201—Burial of corpse—Intention.

The burial of the corpse of a murdered man if done with the intention of concealing the fact that there were marks of violence on it, might be an offence under S. 201. Imperator v. Rino.

13 Cr. L. J. 18 :
13 I. C. 210 : 5 S. L. R. 123.

—S. 201—Burial of headless body—Offence.

A person who secretly buries the headless body of a man just murdered is prima facie guilty under S. 201. Nawab Din v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 683 :
144 I. C. 12 : 34 P. L. R. 637 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 412 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 516.

—S. 201—Causing disappearance of evidence.

If there is clear and independent proof that 'any person has caused evidence to disappear in order to screen some person or persons unknown,' the mere fact that he had been suspected or even tried and acquitted of the crime itself would not in itself prevent his conviction under S. 201, Penal Code. Bucha v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 113 :
5 P. L. R. 95 : 1 P. R. Cr. of 1904.

—S. 201—Concealing body of murdered man—Offence.

Concealing or otherwise disposing of the body of a murdered person amounts to causing disappearance of evidence and is punishable under S. 201, Penal Code. Muzammal v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 321 :
3 I. C. 622 : 8 P. W. R. 1909 Cr.

—S. 201—Concealing corpse—Offence.

Where it is held that the offender has not committed the murder, he can be punished for the offence which it is proved he has committed viz., that of concealing the corpse. Fateh Muhammad v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 83 :
152 I. C. 376 : 28 S. L. R. 387 :
7 R. S. 92 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 139.

—S. 201—Concealment of dead body of person committing suicide, if offence.

The removal or concealment of the body of a person not proved to have been murdered but proved to have committed suicide, does not amount to an offence under S. 201, Penal Code. Thakri v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 425 :
11 I. C. 609 : 17 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

—S. 201—Concealment of offence—Concealment should be by a third person.

Under S. 201, Penal Code; the concealment must be concealment by a third person and not by the person who is charged with having committed the offence and aided or abetted the same. It is also necessary that the disappearance of evidence should be after the offence. Emperor v. Ghanasham.

4 Cr. L. J. 89 :
8 Bom. L. R. 538.

—S. 201—Conviction under, if illegal—Accused suspected of murder.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A conviction under S. 201 is not illegal merely because the accused gave false information to prevent himself from being harassed by the Police or merely because it may be a fact or it is suspected that the accused is guilty of the murder himself. Alibaksh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 373 :
167 I. C. 368 : 9 R. S. 179 : 30 S. L. R. 461 :
A. I. R. 1937 Sind 28.

—S. 201—Conviction under, if proper—Dead body discovered as pointed out by accused.

The recovery of the body pointed out by the accused would be very strong evidence of an offence under S. 201. In re : Koricha Venkataswami.

39 Cr. L. J. 977 :
177 I. C. 909 : 1938 M. W. N. 866 :
48 L. W. 332 : 11 R. M. 394.

—S. 201—Conviction under, if vitiated.

Where notwithstanding the circumstances of grave suspicion, it is impossible on the record, as it stands, to hold that a person is the murderer or one of the murderers, his conviction under Ss. 201 and 203 is not vitiated by the existence of such circumstances. Sohan v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 107 (2) :
141 I. C. 116 : 1932 A. L. J. 801 :
54 All. 792 : I. R. 1933 All. 57 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 178 (2).

—S. 201—Conviction under, illegality of.

The accused, a Police Officer, in investigating a theft case, took down the statements of certain witnesses and also prepared a panchnama of the search of the house of the suspect. Next day he suppressed the genuine papers and fabricated an incorrect record of the investigation. On these facts he was convicted and sentenced under Ss. 201 and 218, Penal Code: Held, confirming the accused's conviction and sentence under S. 218, that his conviction under S. 201 was not maintainable. Anver Khan Mohamad Khan v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 609 :
63 I. C. 145 : 23 Bom. L. R. 823 :
A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 115.

—S. 201—Conviction under, legality of.

Accused catching hold of tuft of deceased and another stabbing him—Accused tying deceased with rope and dragging him along some distance—Conviction under S. 201, held could not be sustained. In re : Periaswami Thevan.

36 Cr. L. J. 143 :
152 I. C. 696 (b) : 67 M. L. J. 631 :
1934 M. W. N. 1281 :
40 L. W. 770 : 7 R. M. 278 :
A. I. R. 1935 Mad. 36.

—S. 201—Conviction under, legality of—Necessity of framing charge for offence.

Where a man has been charged of murder, his conviction under S. 201, Penal Code, is not illegal even if no formal charge has been framed in respect of the latter offence. Ditta v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 746 :
110 I. C. 682 : 10 Lah. 213 :
30 P. L. R. 402 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 906.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 201—Conviction under, requirement of.

Before there can be a conviction under S. 201 it must be proved that an offence, the evidence of which is caused to disappear, has actually been committed. Emperor v. Mathura Nath De.

33 Cr. L. J. 657 :
139 I. C. 89 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 561 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 850.

————S. 201—Conviction under, validity of—Accused, producing body of deceased—Offence—Circumstantial evidence—Inference of guilt—Motive, value of.

Motive for a crime while it is always a satisfactory circumstance of corroboration when there is convincing evidence to prove the guilt of an accused person, can never supply the want of reliable evidence, direct or circumstantial, of the commission of the crime with which he is charged. Where the sole evidence against an accused is that in consequence of information supplied by him, the body of a murdered person was recovered from his field, he cannot be convicted under S. 302, Penal Code, but he can be convicted of an offence under S. 201. Rannun v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 709 :
94 I. C. 901 : 7 Lah. 84 : 27 P. L. R. 583 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 88.

————S. 201—Conviction under, validity of.

Where it is impossible to say definitely that a person has committed the principal offence, he cannot escape conviction under S. 201, merely because he has been charged also with the principal offence. Public Prosecutor v. Venkatamma.

33 Cr. L. J. 814 :
139 I. C. 725 : 1932 M. W. N. 461 :
56 Mad. 63 : 36 L. W. 798 :
64 M. L. J. 153 : I. R. 1932 Mad. 776 :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 748.

————S. 201—Conviction under, when legal.

Where the Crown has satisfactorily proved (a) that an offence has been committed for which some person is criminally responsible and (b) that the accused caused the disappearance of the evidence of the commission of the offence or gave false information concerning it, a presumption arises in favour of the Crown that the accused did the act with the requisite intent. That presumption may, however, be rebutted by circumstances or by direct evidence. Tajan v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 674 :
103 I. C. 402 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 241.

————S. 201—Conviction under, when maintainable—Accused seen last with deceased—Pointing out dead body—Motive to kill, present.

Where all that is established against the accused is that he had a motive to get rid of the deceased, that he is one of the two persons with whom the deceased was last seen and that he had pointed out the spot where the dead body of the deceased was ultimately found, it cannot be said that the offence of murder has been brought home to the accused beyond suspicion. Under the circumstances, only a conviction under S. 201, Penal Code, is maintainable. Besant Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 641 :
103 I. C. 97 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 541.

————S. 201—Conviction under.

Where a trial is conducted of charges under Ss. 302 and 201, Penal Code, there is nothing to prevent an acquittal under S. 302 and conviction under S. 201. Durlav Namasudra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 546 :
138 I. C. 116 : 36 C. W. N. 373 :
59 Cal. 1040 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 417 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 297.

————S. 201—Disposal of murdered body under threat of being shot—Offence.

Where certain persons who are directed under threat of being shot to take away and dispose of the body of a murdered person to a place from where it was not likely to be recovered, do so even after the danger of instant death is removed, such persons are along with the person threatening them, guilty under S. 201, Penal Code, and the statements of such persons admitting the facts amount to confession. Zahid Beg v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 364 :
173 I. C. 838 : 1937 A. W. R. 1099 :
1937 A. L. J. 1253 : 10 R. A. 508 :
A. I. R. 1938 All. 91.

————S. 201—Essence of.

The essence of S. 201, Penal Code, is that the accused caused the evidence of the commission of the offence to disappear with the intention of screening the offender from legal punishment. Bakhtawari v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 37 :
120 I. C. 268 : A. I. R. 1930 All. 45.

————S. 201—Evidence of suicide causing to disappear, if offence.

Causing evidence of suicide to disappear is not punishable under S. 201. Fatch Moham-mad v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 83 :
152 I. C. 376 : 28 S. L. R. 387 :
7 R. S. 92 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 139.

————S. 201—Intention.

Motive should not be confounded with intention. The motive is the reason which induces the accused to do the act. An intention to screen the offender, whoever he may be, falls within the scope of S. 201. A caused evidence of a murder to disappear in order to screen his sons whom he suspected of being the murderers. The sons were tried for the offence of murder and acquitted : Held, (1) that the ordinary consequence of A's act was that the offenders, whoever they might be, would be screened ; (2) that if A contemplated this ordinary consequence, he had the intention prescribed by S. 201 although A could not be held guilty of the offence of screening his sons. Emperor v. Rino Sobedar.

13 Cr. L. J. 721 :
16 I. C. 753 : 6 S. L. R. 76.

————S. 201—Offence under.

Approver's evidence that accused committed murder—Corroboration only as to motive—

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Accused pointing out spot wherefrom body was exhumed—Offence, held to be committed only under S. 201 and not under S. 302. Jiwan Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 352 :
147 I. C. 215 : 34 P. L. R. 866 :
6 R. L. 360 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 23 (2).

—S. 201—Offence under, essentials of—
Naming or identification or conviction for principal offence of offenders is not necessary—
Intention of screening offender and giving false information for that purpose is sufficient.

It is not necessary before a conviction can take place under S. 201, Penal Code, that the offender must be named or identified or convicted of the principal offence. If it is clear that the information was given by an accused with the purpose of screening the murderer from legal punishment, then the provisions of S. 201, Penal Code, are to that extent satisfied. The knowledge as to who the offender is may not be available to the prosecution. Nor does S. 201 say that it is necessary, before a conviction can be recorded under that section, that the murderer should have been identified and punished. It is sufficient if it is proved that the accused gave false information with the intention of screening the murderer, that is, the offender, from legal punishment. Alibaksh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 373 :

167 I. C. 368 : 9 R. S. 179 :

30 S. L. R. 461 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 28.

—S. 201—Offence under, essential of—
Screening offender.

One of the ingredients of an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, is the intention to screen a specified offender; and in order to justify a conviction under that section, it is necessary that an offence for which some person has been convicted or is criminally responsible, should have been committed. Adho v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 897 :
86 I. C. 961 : 19 S. L. R. 6 :
A. I. R. 1925 Sind 257.

—S. 201—Offence under, essential of.

To constitute an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the accused must be aware of the identity of the offender whom he intends to screen. Illustration to a section rank only as cases decided on the section; they ought never to be allowed to control the plain meaning of the section itself. Emperor v. Rino Sobedar.

13 Cr. L. J. 721 :
16 I. C. 753 : 6 S. L. R. 76.

—S. 201—Offence under, what amounts to—
Murder—Person committing murder if can be guilty under S. 201.

A person who has actually committed a crime, whether murder or any other crime, is not any the less guilty of removing traces thereof if it is proved against him that he has done so, because he was the person who actually committed the offence. The mere removal of a body from one place to another so as to remove traces of the place or indications which might implicate a particular individual even though such removal does not remove undoubted evidence that a murder has taken place, is within S. 201, Penal Code. Emperor v. Har Piari.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 1068 :
97 I. C. 44 : 24 A. L. J. 958 :
49 All. 57 : A. I. R. 1926 All. 737.

—S. 201—Offence under when punishable—
Accused committing offence and then concealing evidence, can be convicted for both the offences.

It may be that a principal in England cannot be convicted also as an accessory after the fact, but that rule can have no effect on the Indian Law which is contained in definite Acts S. 201, Penal Code, makes it punishable to remove evidence of the commission of a crime and it is nowhere said either in the Penal Code or in the Cr. P. C., that a man who commits an offence, and then conceals the evidence, cannot be convicted both of the offence and of concealing the evidence. Ajog Narain v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 193 :
166 I. C. 369 : 1936 A. L. J. 1310 :
1936 A. W. R. 1040 : 9 R. A. 402 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 14.

—S. 201—Offender, meaning of.

A conviction for an accessory offence under S. 201, Penal Code, is not illegal merely because it is suspected, but not proved or admitted, that the accused committed or was one of the several persons who committed the principal offence. Tajan v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 674 :
103 I. C. 402 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 241.

—S. 201—Removing of corpse to place other than that of murder, if offence.

Removing the corpse of a murdered man from the scene of murder to another place does not come under S. 201. Nagendra Bhakta v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 535 :
147 I. C. 1028 (1) : 37 C. W. N. 348 :
6 R. C. 389 : A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 144.

—S. 201—Removal of corpse to place other than that of murder, if offence.

The removal of the corpse of the murdered man from the place of murder to another place, a few yards away, will not amount to causing disappearance of any evidence of the commission of the murder. Thakur Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 948 :
184 I. C. 409 : 1939 A. L. J. 547 :
12 R. A. 226 : 1939 A. W. R. 577 :
A. I. R. 1939 All. 665.

—S. 201—Removal of corpse under fear of death, if offence—Accused, whether guilty.

Where an accused helps in removing the dead body of a murdered person under compulsion of threats, which reasonably cause him apprehension of instant death, he is not guilty of an offence under S. 201, Penal Code. Emperor v. Aular.

26 Cr. L. J. 676 :
86 I. C. 52 : 23 A. L. J. 25 :
47 All. 306 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 315.

—S. 201—Removing murdered body—
Offence—Conviction for causing evidence of murder to disappear—Legality of conviction.

Where persons concerned in a murder remove the corpse of the murdered man from one place to another, their act does cause evidence of the murder to disappear. Where a person causes evidence of a murder to disappear with an intention to shield the murderer, he can be convicted under S. 201, Penal Code, though his main intention may have been to save himself from suspicion. Where the accused who were sleeping close to the deceased man on the night on which the latter was murdered and who were concerned with the murder, removed the corpse to another place: Held, they must be considered to have had an intention of screening the murderer though their main intention may have been to save themselves and the accused could be convicted under S. 201, Penal Code. Mata Din v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 575 :
123 I. C. 886 : 6 O. W. N. 1017 :
5 Luck. 255 : A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 113.

———S. 201—Scope of.

A person charged under S. 302, Penal Code, can be convicted for an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, if he is found not to have taken part in the murder but to have made away with the evidence of murder, even though he was not separately charged under S. 201. Mata Din v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 575 :
123 I. C. 886 : 6 O. W. N. 1017 :
5 Luck. 255 : A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 113.

———S. 201—Scope of—Causing disappearance of evidence of crime—Criminal himself whether liable.

S. 201, Penal Code, does not apply to a criminal causing evidence of his own offence to disappear, but exclusively to another person who screens the actual offender. Where a person is said or believed to have himself committed an offence, he cannot be convicted of causing disappearance of the evidence of that offence, even though he cannot be convicted of the principal offence as well for want of sufficient evidence. Kudaon v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 60 :
91 I. C. 236 : 21 N. L. R. 86 :
A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 407.

———S. 201—Scope of—Evidence, causing disappearance of evidence of crime—Giving false information to Police to screen offender.

The accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, by merely locking the outer door of her house where her son had committed murder, as it appeared that the corpse had not been removed or concealed by the accused. Emperor v. Mussammal Rajan.

3 Cr. L. J. 136 :
6 P. L. R. 674 : 53 P. R. Cr. 1905.

———S. 201—Scope of—Information need not be given to Police or Magistrate—Whether information is volunteered or given in reply to enquiries is immaterial.

The information need not be given to the Police or the Magistrate under S. 201, I. P. C., and it is immaterial whether that information is volunteered or given in reply to enquiries. Pattammal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 950 :
190 I. C. 573 : 1940 M. W. N. 803 :
1940, 2 M. L. J. 315 : 52 L. W. 349 :
13 R. M. 416 : A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 898.

———S. 201—Scope of.

S. 201 does not relate to the principal offender but to persons other than the actual criminal who, by causing the evidence of the offence to disappear, assist the principal to escape the consequences of his offence. Rup Narain Kurmi v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 975 :
132 I. C. 876 : 12 P. L. T. 746 :
10 Pat. 140 : I. R. 1931 Pat. 300 :
A. I. R. 1931 Pat. 172.

———S. 201—Scope of—S. 201 is not limited to giving false information to Police.

S. 201 is not limited to giving false information to the Police. Alibaksh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 373 :
167 I. C. 368 : 9 R. S. 179 :
30 S. L. R. 461 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 28.

———S. 201—Sentence.

For the purpose of calculating the punishment to be awarded under S. 201, it is necessary for the Court to decide, not so much what offence—the evidence of which has been concealed—has been committed, as what offence the accused knew or had reason to believe, had been committed. In re : Chinna Gangappa.

32 Cr. L. J. 263 :
129 I. C. 230 : 32 L. W. 389 :
1930 M. W. N. 489 : 54 Mad. 68 :
59 M. L. J. 677 : I. R. 1931 Mad. 230 :
A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 870.

———S. 201—Separate sentence under, illegality of—Murder, conviction for.

A separate sentence under S. 201, Penal Code, along with a conviction of the accused for murder is illegal. In re : Nalli Narasigadu.

16 Cr. L. J. 583 :
30 I. C. 135 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1163.

———Ss.—201, 202—Scope of—Causing evidence of offence to disappear—Positive destruction of evidence not necessary—Burying.

The offence under S. 202, Penal Code, is not a minor offence included under S. 201, for an essential ingredient of the offence under S. 202 is the legal duty of the accused to give information, and this is no part of the offence under S. 201. Consequently, an accused against whom a charge under S. 201 is framed, cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 202 without a charge under the latter section being framed against him. In order to support a finding that the accused has caused evidence to disappear, it is not necessary to prove the positive destruction of evidence. Imperator v. Rino.

13 Cr. L. J. 18 :
13 I. C. 210 : 5 S. L. R. 123.

———Ss. 201, 203, 211—Conviction under—Accomplice, whether can be convicted under Ss. 201, 203—False information to Police implicating innocent man—Offence—Intention.

A person who gives false information to the

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Police, accusing another of an offence of murder in order to screen the real offender, commits offences not only under Ss. 201 and 203, Penal Code, but also under S. 211. The husband of the accused having been murdered at night, she gave information to the Police falsely implicating a certain person: Held, that although there were circumstances of grave suspicion against the accused woman, as, being an accomplice, yet as it would be impossible on the record as it stood to hold that she was the murderer or one of the murderers, she could be convicted under Ss. 201 and 203, Penal Code. Taprinessa v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 903 :
47 I. C. 275 : 46 Cal. 427 :
A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 679.

—Ss. 201, 302—Causing to disappear evidence of murder, effect of—Principal, if convicted as accessory after the fact—Mere suspicion, if bar to conviction.

Where it is impossible to say definitely, however strongly it might be suspected, that an accused was guilty of murder, mere suspicion is no bar to a conviction under S. 201. But if in a case of murder it be accepted as a proved fact before the Court that the accused disposed of a dead body and if the acceptance of that fact completes the chain of circumstantial evidence which proves beyond doubt that the accused were actual principals present at the murder and taking part in the murder, they cannot be convicted of the minor offence of causing evidence of the murder to disappear, even though by an error of the Judge or by a misconception of the position by the Public Prosecutor, the charge of murder is subsequently withdrawn. Sumanta Dhupi v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 4 :
32 I. C. 132 : 20 C. W. N. 166 :
23 C. L. J. 333 : A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 919.

—S. 202.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 403.

—S. 202—Conviction under, requirement of—Offence of intentional omission to give information of offence by person bound to inform—What must be proved to sustain conviction for.

In order that there may be a conviction under S. 202, Penal Code, the accused must know or have reason to believe that an offence of which he is bound to give information has been committed: Held, that even on the facts as found by the Additional Sessions Judge, it was not shown that Po On knew or had reason to believe that murder had been committed. He might have thought it very probable, but the section requires more than that. Nga Saw v. Emperor and Nga Po On v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 133 :
11 Bur. L. R. 8.

—Ss. 202, 411—Alteration of charge, illegality of.

Alteration of conviction from under S. 202 to one under S. 411—No specific charge under S. 411—Alteration is illegal. Daulat Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 10 :
146 I. C. 465 : 10 O. W. N. 466 :
8 Luck. 518 : 6 R. O. 129 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 315.

—S. 203.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 248, 345.

—S. 203 Applicability of—False evidence given on questions by police during investigation.

S. 203, Penal Code, does not apply to the case of a person who gives false evidence as a witness to the police in the course of their investigation, and that only in reply to questions put to him. It contemplates information volunteered by some person. Sarju Sarun v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 438 :
7 I. C. 50 : 7 A. L. J. 1150.

—S. 203—Scope of—Giving false information with respect to offence, what constitutes.

S. 203, Penal Code, only applies to information volunteered by the informant, and not to a false statement made in the course of an examination by a Police Officer. Emperor v. Nga Po Lwin.

21 Cr. L. J. 700 (b) :
57 I. C. 940 : 3 U. B. R. 1920, 204 :
A. I. R. 1920 U. Bur. 20.

—S. 204—Rough draft destroyed—Offence—Panchnama—Fair copy regarded as original document.

In the course of an investigation, a Police Officer had a certain document drawn up and signed by a Panch, but finding it disfigured by interlineations and scratches, he had the document re-written in textually the same form by the same writer and the same Panch. The rough document was, thereupon, destroyed: Held, that, on a true view of the facts, the fair document which the officer preserved and ultimately presented to the Court must be regarded as the only document which he was lawfully compelled to produce as evidence, the former writing being nothing more than rough notes designed for the preparation of the fair original document, and hence a conviction of the Police Officer under S. 204, Penal Code, could not be supported. Emperor v. Ganga Ram.

13 Cr. L. J. 912 :
17 I. C. 1008 : 14 Bom. L. R. 1163.

—S. 204—Scope of—Mere refusal to produce document, whether offence under S. 204.

A mere refusal to produce document though not an offence under S. 204, Penal Code, a refusal to produce a document, with the intention, otherwise proved, of keeping the document secret may well be sufficient evidence to prove a secretion within the meaning of the section. An honest refusal to produce a document is obviously not a "secretion" of a document. But where there is a refusal coupled with a secret dealing with the document or with a dealing intended to be kept secret, an offence under S. 204 is committed.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Takhtram Tulsidas Ambwani v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 75 :
178 I. C. 381 : 11 R. S. 90 :
1939 Kar. 238 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 217.

—Ss. 204, 477—Destruction of document
—Offence—Cr. P. C., Ss. 203, 439.

Complainant alleged that the accused had wilfully and dishonestly destroyed a contract and a delivery order relating to transactions with the complainant's firm and charged him with offences under S. 477, Penal Code. The complaint was dismissed under S. 203, Cr. P. C., on the ground that, even if the facts alleged by the complainant were true, no offence under S. 477, Penal Code, had been committed as the documents destroyed by the accused were not valuable securities. On revision: Held, (1) that there had been no sufficient inquiry into the complaint and that the Magistrate ought to have considered the other provisions of the Penal Code; (2) that this was, therefore, a fit case in which a further inquiry ought to be ordered.
Debendra Nath v. Bhagirathi Mahto.

25 Cr. L. J. 167 :
76 I. C. 391 : 38 C. L. J. 158 :
A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 552.

—S. 205.

See also (i) Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885,
S. 158-B.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 423,
439 (4).

—S. 205—False personation, what is— Accused representing as servant of another getting notice under S. 158-B, Bengal Tenancy Act, served on such person—Offence held does not come under S. 205.

Where an accused personates as a servant of another person and gets a notice under S. 158-B, Bengal Tenancy Act, to be served on such person by writing before the Civil Court process-server, apne malik ka namka notice paia, it is not a case of falsely personating another person within the meaning of S. 205, Penal Code, and he cannot be convicted under that section.
Qutub-ud-Din v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 216 :
166 I. C. 352 : 17 P. L. T. 692 :
3 B. R. 164 : 9 R. P. 291 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 211.

—S. 206.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 105 (b).

—S. 206—Duty of Court—Transfer of a decree subject to attachment—Not fraudulent.

There is nothing to prevent a judgment-debtor from disposing of his interest in an attached debt. The Court should not presume a fraudulent intention because he does what he is entitled to do. Ram Narayan v. Jokhai Ram.

3 Cr. L. J. 92 :
3 A. L. J. 1 : 26 A. W. N. 26.

—S. 206—Harvesting crops under attachment, if offence.

Where the crops have been attached in execution of a decree, the mere harvesting of them would not bring the person doing so within the scope of S. 206, Penal Code, unless it were shown that he did one of the things mentioned in S. 206, with a fraudulent intent. It must be shown that he did so with the intention of preventing the crops from being taken in the execution of decree and not merely with the intention of saving them. Dawood Rowther v. Abdul Kadir Rowther.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 312 :
179 I. C. 980 : 48 L. W. 441 :
1938 M. W. N. 1009 :
1938, 2 M. L. J. 843 : 11 R. M. 639 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 976.

—S. 206—Offence under, essentials of.

In execution of the decree he had obtained, the accused attached certain grain and live-stock from the possession of his judgment-debtor, and this was left in the custody of the accused on his passing a jimmapatra. On the property being sold, the property was found to be less than that delivered to him. On refusal of permission to prosecute, the judgment-debtor filed a complaint under Ss. 403 and 109, Penal Code: Held, that no offence under S. 206 being made out on the facts, sanction to prosecute was not necessary: Held, also that the word 'taken' in S. 206 was used in the sense of 'seized' or 'taken possession of'. Sahebrao Baburao v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 272 :
166 I. C. 731 : 9 R. B. 252 :
38 Bom. L. R. 1192 :
A. I. R. 1937 Bom. 46.

—S. 206—Scope of—Fraudulent removal of property—Accused not liable under decree—Offence.

A person who, in order to protect his own property, not legally liable for a decree, from confusion with property which is so liable, makes it over to another person, does not commit an offence under S. 206 of the I. P. C. In re : Basappa Shivappa.

18 Cr. L. J. 784 :
41 I. C. 160 : 19 Bom. L. R. 535 :
A. I. R. 1917 Bom. 265.

—S. 206—Scope of.

Where an accused, forestalling the action of the Court in sending an Amin to harvest the crop which was attached, goes openly to the field and harvests the crop himself, it cannot be said that there was any deceit or intention to deceive or secrecy on the part of the accused, and though his action is dishonest, it cannot be said to be fraudulent under S. 206, Penal Code. Y. Kothandarama Reddi v. Kandra Balarami Reddy.

39 Cr. L. J. 711 :
176 I. C. 144 : 1937 M. W. N. 462 :
1937, 2 M. L. J. 802 :
46 L. W. 139 : 11 R. M. 34 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 713.

—S. 206—Scope of.

The word "fraudulently" in the I. P. C., ordinarily connotes firstly, an element of deceit or secrecy and secondly, an intention to cause injury. Where the accused judgment-debtor immediately after giving an undertaking to the Court not to transfer certain property, transfers the same in favour of his son by a sale-deed with the knowledge that his son would be in a position to claim the property as his own, the intention to cause injury clearly exists in such a case and the case falls under S. 206, I. P. C. Crown Prosecutor v. T. Sellamuthu.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 397 :
187 I. C. 122 : 1939 M. W. N. 1248 :
51 L. W. 744 : 12 R. M. 686 :
1940, 1 M. L. J. 761 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 271.

———Ss. 206, 207—Scope of—Fraudulent transfer in anticipation of threatened suit, whether within Ss. 206 and 207.

Ss. 206 and 207, Penal Code, refer only to transfers to prevent property from being taken in execution of a decree or order made in a suit which is actually pending in a Civil Court. They are not wide enough to cover transfers effected in anticipation of the institution of a suit. Ponnuswami v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1063 :
126 I. C. 533 : 8 Rang. 268 :
A. I. R. 1930 Rang. 128.

———Ss. 206, 406—Distinction between—Intention requisite in the two cases—Nature of.

An offence punishable under S. 406 is substantially a different offence from the one punishable under S. 206. The criminal intention necessary for an offence punishable under S. 206 is that of fraudulent prevention of property or any interest therein from being forfeited or taken in execution of a decree or order. Such an intention is materially different from the intention required in an offence punishable under S. 406. Sahebrao Baburao v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 272 :
166 I. C. 731 : 9 R. B. 252 :
38 Bom. L. R. 1192 :
A. I. R. 1937 Bom. 46.

———S. 209.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 195, 195 (6).

———S. 209—Application to prosecute under, when to be made—False suit—Remedy of defendant—Defamation, complaint of, whether sustainable.

As a general rule, it is undesirable that people should be hampered in their access to the Courts and getting justice by the fear that if they are unsuccessful they may be prosecuted for defamation. The ordinary remedy of a person who has had a false suit brought against him is to apply to the Court to prosecute the plaintiff under S. 209, Penal Code. Courts should be careful when a complaint for defamation is filed in respect of proceedings in a Civil Court to see whether the provisions of S. 209, Penal Code, and the provisions of the Cr. P. C., generally have not been evaded. The High Court is extremely reluctant to quash proceedings in limine but will do so in a proper case. Gangumal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 941 :
86 I. C. 1005 : 18 S. L. R. 83 :
A. I. R. 1925 Sind 263.

———S. 209—Burden of proof.

In a prosecution based on the allegation that a false claim was wilfully presented, the prosecution will have to prove affirmatively that the case was a false one. Hira Lal v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 860 :
139 I. C. 543 : 13 P. L. T. 370 :
I. R. 1932 Pat. 245 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 243.

———S. 209—'Claim', meaning of.

The word "claim" used in S. 209, Penal Code, cannot refer to a document produced in evidence to substantiate the relief asked for in a suit. Boddu Ramayya v. Chitturi Surayya.

16 Cr. L. J. 439 :
29 I. C. 71 : 28 M. L. J. 486 :
17 M. L. T. 446 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1105.

———S. 209—Directing prosecution of plaintiff under, validity of—Preferring false claim—Accused, whether must be given opportunity to show cause.

The mere dismissal of a suit in the absence of a clear finding that the suit was false and was brought with intent to injure the defendant, is not a justification for directing the prosecution of the plaintiff under S. 209, Penal Code. Where a plaintiff is called upon to show cause why he should not be prosecuted under S. 209, Penal Code, he should be afforded every opportunity of adducing evidence in support of his claim and to remove any doubt in the mind of the Court as to the falsity of the case. Chakauri Rai v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 158 :
54 I. C. 686 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 548.

———S. 209—Duty of Court.

Complaint of defamation in respect of Civil Court proceedings—Court must see that provisions of S. 209 are not evaded. Ghanshamdas Gianchand v. Nenumal.

36 Cr. L. J. 78 :
152 I. C. 346 : 28 S. L. R. 251 :
7 R. S. 85 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 114.

———S. 209—False claim.

Manager dealing with claim under Chota-Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, is not a Court—False claim made to Manager—Conviction under S. 209 is not legal—User of false document and perjury in the proceedings—Offences under Ss. 471 and 193, are made out. Kewal Ram v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1354 :
158 I. C. 324 : 15 Pat. 69 :
1 B. R. 872 : 16 P. L. T. 693 :
8 R. P. 187 : A. I. R. 1935 Pat. 515.

———S. 209—Question of fraud—Evidence.

The question of fraud or dishonesty or intent to injure or annoy must be decided like any other question of fact, on the evidence. Moti Lal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

37 Cr. L. J. 420 :
161 I. C. 314 : 1936 A. L. J. 71 :
1936 A. W. R. 161 : 8 R. A. 722 (2) :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 164.

—S. 209—Sanction to prosecute under —When can be given—Conviction on uncorroborated testimony of accomplices—Statement by a deceased person made to a Magistrate in the absence of the accused, admissibility of—Cr. P. C. (Act V of 1898), Ss. 195 (6), 437, 476 —Sanction to prosecute—District Judge—Jurisdiction—Remanding case of sanction—Sanction to prosecute after compromise.

A brought a suit in a Munsif's Court on two bonds and obtained a compromise-decree. Six months after the decree, the opposite party applied for sanction to prosecute the plaintiff for an offence under S. 209, Penal Code. The Munsif rejected the application. Thereupon, an appeal was preferred to the District Judge who set aside the order of rejection and remanded the case to the Munsif for further inquiry : Held, that the District Judge had no jurisdiction to remand the case : Held, further, that after the parties had compromised, it was not a case to sanction prosecution. Beni Pershad v. Sarju Pershad.

12 Cr. L. J. 174 :
9 I. C. 982 : 8 A. L. J. 429 :
33 All. 512.

—S. 209—Scope of.

A person who brings a claim in the Civil Court which he knows to be false, commits an offence punishable under S. 209, but he does not by so doing commit an offence either, if he succeeds, of extortion, or if he fails, of attempting to commit extortion. Khushal v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 651 :
40 I. C. 299 : 4 O. L. J. 143 :
20 O. C. 129 : A. I. R. 1917 Oudh 117.

—Ss. 209, 210—Scope of—Dishonestly making false claim—Fraudulently obtaining decree.

In order to bring a case under S. 209, Penal Code, it is immaterial whether the Court in which the false claim was instituted had jurisdiction to try the suit. The words in the section are "a Court of justice" and not "a Court of justice having jurisdiction." Similarly, if a person obtains a decree fraudulently for a sum not due, the case would fall under S. 210 of the Code. Badri v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 698 :
52 I. C. 666 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 323.

—S. 210.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 195.

—S. 210—Complaint under, when lies.

A complaint under S. 210 would lie where a person fraudulently obtains an attachment of property against another for an amount not due from the latter. Hikmal Ullah Khan v. Sakina Begam.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 367 :
129 I. C. 264 : 1931 A. L. J. 117 :
I. R. 1931 All. 136 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 305.

—S. 210—Fraudulent execution of decree—Sanction to prosecute.

In an application for execution of a decree, the decree-holder (accused) made no mention of having received a certain sum of money from the judgment-debtor three days previous to the application. The Court executing the decree sanctioned prosecution of the decree-holder for an offence under S. 210, Penal Code. It was contended that the sanction should be revoked for (1) the sum of money was made over to the decree-holder, merely as a deposit, (2) the warrant applied for was never in fact issued, and the judgment-debtor suffered no loss and was put to no disgrace and the interests of justice did not require a prosecution, and (3) in any case, there was no completed offence under S. 210, Penal Code : Held, that the sanction was properly granted. Fauja Singh v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 187 :
10 I. C. 643 : 55 P. L. R. 1911 :
10 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

—S. 210—Fraudulent intention, proof of.

For sustaining a charge under S. 210, Penal Code, it is necessary to establish that the person charged acted fraudulently. Hari Ram v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 666 :
116 I. C. 711 : 11 L. L. J. 103 :
30 P. L. R. 392 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 567 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 676.

—S. 210—Mis-statement of decretal amount, if offence—Duty of executing Court to find out proper amount.

Where a decree-holder drew the executing Court's attention to the final decree both in the heading and at the foot of his application for execution, but misdescribed its precise terms : Held, that he could not be made criminally liable under S. 210, Penal Code, for such a mistake, particularly as it was a business of the executing Court to verify the amount due to him in terms of the decree sought to be executed. Daya Ram v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 263 :
23 I. C. 471 : 11 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. :
64 P. L. R. 1914 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 254.

—S. 210—Offence under fraudulent decree.

An offence under S. 210 is committed as soon as a decree is fraudulently obtained. The setting aside by a Civil Court of a fraudulently obtained decree is not evidence in a Criminal Court of the existence of fraud which it is necessary to prove independently in criminal proceedings. Therefore the fact that such a decree has not been set aside is no bar to a prosecution under S. 210, I. P. C., though it might be admissible as evidence to prove that there is no fraud. Emperor v. Molla Fazla Karim.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

3 Cr. L. J. 365 :
I. L. R. 33 Cal. 193.

S. 211.

- Absence of definite accusation, effect of.
- Absence of sanction, effect of.
- Accusation in dying declaration, if amounts to false complaint.
- Acquittal under.
- 'Be instituted,' scope of.
- Burden of proof.
- Charge.
- Cognizance.
- Communication of suspicion.
- Communication of suspicion to Police, if offence.
- Complainant failing to prove his case.
- Complaint.
- Complaint by Court.
- Conviction.
- 'Criminal charge,' what is not.
- Definite charge of offence.
- Delay, effect of.
- Duty of Court.
- Duty of Magistrate.
- Duty of prosecution.
- False charge.
- False complaint.
- False dying declaration.
- False information.
- False information to Police.
- First and second part.
- Information to Police.
- Ingredients.
- Institution of criminal proceedings.
- Intention.
- Interpretation.
- Offence under.
- Power of Magistrate.
- Practice.
- Procedure.
- Prosecution.
- Punishment, nature of.
- Report to Police.
- Sanction.
- Sanction of Magistrate before trial, if necessary.
- Sanction to prosecute.
- Scope.
- Scope of.
- Second complaint.
- Telegram to Police, if amounts to false charge.

S. 211.

See also (i) Artificers Act, 1859, S. 2.

- (ii) Cr. P. C. 1898, Ss. 4, 4 (h), 182, 179, 190, 190 (1) (a) (b) and (c), 190 (1) (c), 190 (b), 195, 195 (1), 195 (1) (b), 195 (1) (b) and (c), 200 (a), 235, 253, 342, 439, 476, 476-B, 526, Chap. XIV.

(iii) Legal Practitioner.

(iv) Madras District Police Act, 1859, S. 47.

(v) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 112, 182, 193, 195, 196.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

(vi) Workman's Breach of contract Act, 1859, S. 1.

S. 211—Absence of definite accusation, effect of.

Where, in an original complaint presented to a Police Officer, there is no definite accusation against a person, it cannot, in order to bring the case under S. 211 of the Code, be supplemented by a supplementary statement containing specific averments made to a Sub-Inspector in the course of an investigation. In re : Mallala Obiah.

19 Cr. L. J. 38 :

42 I. C. 998 : 1917 M. W. N. 875 :

A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 731.

S. 211—Absence of sanction, effect of.

Cognizance of complaint under S. 211, Penal Code, cannot be taken against person for action taken by him as Deputy Commissioner of Police, without the previous sanction of the Local Government. J. W. Atkinson v. S. W. H. Xavier.

37 Cr. L. J. 728 :

162 I. C. 988 : 8 R. Rang. 603 :

A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 242.

S. 211—Accusation in dying declaration, if amounts to false complaint.

Accusation in dying declaration does not amount to false complaint. Banti Pande v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 210 :

129 I. C. 87 : 12 P. L. T. 109 :

I. R. 1930 Pat. 71 :

A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 550.

S. 211—Acquittal under, S. 182 if bar to trial under S. 211.

An acquittal under S. 182 does not bar a trial under S. 211. Thakar Singh v. Chatter Pal.

11 Cr. L. J. 420 :

6 I. C. 944 : 20 P. R. 1910 Cr. :

30 P. W. R. 1910 Cr. : 140 P. L. R. 1910.

S. 211—'Be instituted,' scope of—Words "be instituted" in second part denote passive mood.

The words "be instituted" in second part of S. 211, Penal Code, do not denote the past tense as is sometimes contended. The words denote the passive mood. Dharamdas Hiranand v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 12 :

178 I. C. 218 : 1939 Kar. 241 :

11 R. S. 82 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 213.

S. 211—Burden of proof—Duty of prosecution to establish charge—Failure of accused to examine witness, if implies guilt.

The duty of the prosecution in a case under S. 211, Penal Code, is to prove by satisfactory evidence that the charge was wilfully false to the knowledge of the maker of the charge. It is for the prosecution to establish their case, and if they fail to supply that proof which is required to secure the conviction of the accused, the failure on the part of the latter to examine any particular person as a defence witness will not imply the guilt as having been proved. Where the petitioner, on learning from his wife that the complainant who was living in the house had disappeared with valuables, lodged an information to the Police charging him with theft which was afterwards found to be false, it was held that he could not be convicted under S. 211, Penal Code, unless the prosecution established that there was, as a matter of fact, no theft, or that the petitioner knew that there was no theft. Hassan Mirza v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

15 Cr. L. J. 355 :
23 I. C. 723 : 18 C. W. N. 391 :
A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 349.

———S. 211—Burden of proof.

In a charge against a person for having instituted criminal proceedings on false grounds, it is not for the accused person to make out that his complaint is true until the whole ground of it has been clearly traversed by evidence showing that it is false. In re : Sankaram Servai.

30 Cr. L. J. 167 :
113 I. C. 455 : 30 L. W. 795 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 135 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 496.

———S. 211—Charge.

A mere suggestion to the Police that certain houses should be searched because there is reason to suspect the conduct of the owners of those houses, does not amount to a "charge" within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Solaimulhu Pillai v. Murugaih Moopan.

16 Cr. L. J. 423 :
28 I. C. 999 : 1915 M. W. N. 272 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 639.

———S. 211—Charge, meaning of.

"Charge" explained. The test is whether the person making the charge intended to set the criminal law in motion against the persons charged. Bhawani Sahai v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 409 :
137 I. C. 157 : 13 Lah. 568 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 299 (2) :
33 P. L. R. 174 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 246.

———S. 211—Charge under—Procedure—Complaint which the Magistrate holds to be false must be verified and dealt with under S. 200, Cr. P. C.

If a Magistrate is going to make a charge against a person of an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, the complaint which the Magistrate holds to be false must have been verified and dealt with by the Court according to law. The word "may" under S. 190, Cr. P. C., does not mean that Magistrate may refuse to take cognizance of an offence upon a complaint duly made to him. Radhakrishin G. Keswani v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 449 :
180 I. C. 436 : 11 R. S. 178 :
1939 Kar. 648 : A. I. R. 1939 Sind 78.

———S. 211—'Charge', what amounts to—Accusation made to a Village Magistrate.

Where an accusation of murder is made, in the first instance, to a Village Magistrate who has authority to arrest any person whom he suspects of having committed the murder of a person, whose body is found within his jurisdiction, the accusation is a "charge" within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code, even though it does not amount to the institution of criminal proceedings and even though no criminal proceedings follow it owing to the Police on investigation referring the charge as false. Chenna Malli Gowda v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 426 :
I. L. R. 27 Mad. 129.

———S. 211—Cognizance—Facts disclosing offences under Ss. 211 and 182—Power of Court to try offences under S. 211 without complaint of public servant concerned.

Where all the facts of a complaint taken together disclose an offence under S. 211 of the Penal Code, the Court is not debarred from enquiring into the offence simply because an offence under S. 182 of the Penal Code is also disclosed, and for the trial of such an offence, a written complaint from the public servant concerned is necessary. Muthuvelu Kudumburan v. Samiayya Kudumburan.

37 Cr. L. J. 1134 :
165 I. C. 292 : 71 M. L. J. 485 :
44 L. W. 631 : 9 R. M. 228 :
59 Mad. 1083 : 1936 M. W. N. 641 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 8.

———S. 211—Cognizance.

Prosecution for false charge may be under S. 182 and S. 211 but if false charge is serious, S. 211 should be applied. Emperor v. Sarada Prasad Chatterjee.

2 Cr. L. J. 171 :
I. L. R. 32 Cal. 180.

———S. 211—Communication of suspicion—No offence.

The mere communication of a suspicion to the Police does not amount to making a charge of a criminal offence within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Abdul Ghafur v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1165 :
88 I. C. 525 : 6 Lah. 28 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 325.

———S. 211—Communication of suspicion to Police, if offence—Preferring a false charge—Whether amounts to institution of a criminal proceeding.

The mere communication of a suspicion to the Police on which an inquiry may be initiated does not amount to the institution of a criminal proceeding within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Saominatha Thevan v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 303 :
14 I. C. 767 : 1912 M. W. N. 1125.

———S. 211—Complainant failing to prove his case—Liability for offence under S. 211.

The failure of a complainant to prove his case is not the same thing as the institution of a maliciously false case so as to make him liable for an offence under S. 211, I. P. C. Mukti Narayan Gir v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 349 :
186 I. C. 627 : 20 P. L. T. 947 :
6 B. R. 377 : 12 R. P. 534 :
A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 97.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 211—Complaint.

Complaint of offence under S. 211 by three Magistrates constituting Bench—Order of discharge signed by two—Matter being technical, High Court refused to entertain. Banke Lal v. Maiku. 35 Cr. L. J. 121 :

146 I. C. 638 : 10 O. W. N. 1037 :
6 R. O. 150 (2) : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 430.

———S. 211—Complaint, necessity of.

Report to Police by woman as having been raped by A and others unknown—Police finding it false—Complaint in Court naming A and B—Dismissal of complaint—Charge of defamation against woman—Offence falls under S. 211 and not S. 500—Complaint in writing of Court is necessary. Swec Ing v. Koon Han. 36 Cr. L. J. 970 :

156 I. C. 598 : 8 R. Rang. 27 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 163.

———S. 211—Complaint by Court—Necessity of—False charge to Police followed by complaint to Magistrate—Prosecution of complainant without complaint from Magistrate, legality of.

Where information to the Police amounting to a false charge under S. 211, Penal Code, is followed by a complaint to the Court based on the same allegations and the same charge, the provisions of S. 195 (1) (b) of the Cr. P. C., come into operation and complaint of the Court is necessary to the validity of a prosecution of the informant under S. 211 of the Penal Code, even if the prosecution be in respect of the false charge made to the Police, and the same rule will hold good irrespective of whether the Court investigated the complaint or not. Rambrose v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 342 :

114 I. C. 685 : 6 Rang. 578 :
I. R. 1929 Rang. 77 :
A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 254.

———S. 211—Complaint by Court—When necessary.

When a false charge is made only to the Police or when the person making the false charge has not applied to the Magistrate and when no Court proceedings have ensued, no complaint is necessary under S. 195 of the Cr. P. C. before a prosecution under S. 211, I. P. C. can be instituted against the informant. Bholu v. Punaj. 28 Cr. L. J. 934 :

105 I. C. 454 : 10 N. L. J. 191 :
23 N. L. R. 136 : A. I. R. 1928 Nag. 17.

———S. 211—Conviction, illegality of—False charge, making of—Complaint to Deputy Commissioner.

Where the accused submitted a petition to the Deputy Commissioner while he was on tour, making certain complaints against a manager of the Court of Wards and the accused was convicted of an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, for making a false charge against the Manager of the Court of Wards: Held, that the petition submitted by the accused not being a complaint within the meaning of S. 4, (h), Cr. P. C., and there being no institution of criminal proceedings, the conviction was illegal. Ahmad Khan v. Emperor. 1 Cr. L. J. 957 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

5 P. L. R. 397.

———S. 211—Conviction, propriety of.

Fight between Municipal employees under accused and cartmen—Accused not present at alleged fight—Accused charging cartmen with obstructing him in discharge of his duties—Charge found false—Conviction of accused under S. 211, held proper. Emperor v. Verhomal Kakumal. 36 Cr. L. J. 1289 :

157 I. C. 792 : 8 R. S. 34.

———S. 211—Conviction under, if can be altered to one under S. 182—“False charge”—False petition to Superintendent of Police for protection from oppression of head-constable—Whether amounts to false charge—Held, conviction under S. 211, could not be altered to one under S. 182, for want of a complaint by Police Officer as required by S. 195, Cr. P. C.

For an allegation to amount to a false charge, as contemplated under S. 211, Penal Code, it must be made with the intention and object of setting the Criminal Law in motion. A false petition to the Superintendent of Police praying for the protection of the petitioner from the oppression of a head-constable which may be effected by some departmental action, does not amount to such a false charge. The charge must be embodied either in a complaint to the Magistrate or in a report of a cognizable offence to a Police Officer: Held, that the conviction under S. 211, could not also be altered to one under S. 182, since none of the Police Officers to whom the complaint was addressed by the petitioner had taken the trouble of presenting a complaint against him as required by S. 195, Cr. P. C. Ram Rakha v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 1070 :

171 I. C. 333 : 39 P. L. R. 238 :
10 R. L. 182 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 624.

———S. 211—Criminal charge, what is not—“False charge”, meaning of—Petition for inspection of Municipal election papers to the District Magistrate—Whether charge.

The applicant presented a petition to the District Magistrate, who was in charge of the papers connected with a Municipal election, praying for permission to inspect the file saying that he intended to take criminal proceedings against the employee of the Municipal Board who, while distributing the voting papers, had given some of them to persons who had no right to receive them intending to cause injury to the applicant: Held, that the petition did not amount to a criminal charge within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Zorawar Singh v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 433 :

11 I. C. 617 : 8 A. L. J. 1106.

———S. 211—Definite charge of offence—Information to Police—Offence.

There is an essential difference between a mere information to the Police and a definite statement to it that a certain person has committed a certain particular offence. In the latter case, which is much graver than the former, S. 211, Penal Code, applies. Accused laid a clear and definite information before the Police to the effect that there was a dacoity in his house and that certain particular persons had taken part in it. It was found that no dacoity had taken place and that, at any rate, the persons mentioned by the accused never took part in the dacoity: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 211, Penal Code. Samokhan v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 594 : 85 I. C. 818 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 472.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 211—Delay, effect of.

In charges under S. 211, great delay should not be tolerated, and such delay alone is a sufficiently good reason for refusing to proceed with the complaint. Murugappa Chettyar v. K. P. R. M. Raman Chettyar. 37 Cr. L. J. 243 : 160 I. C. 150 (2) : 8 R. Rang. 345 : A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 485.

———S. 211—Duty of Court—Complaint—Dismissal under S. 203—Prosecution of complainant, when justifiable—Complaint by Court—Prima facie case, necessity of.

A Court should not make a complaint for a prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code, where there are not sufficient materials before it, to show that there is a prima facie case against the accused. The mere fact that a complaint was dismissed by a Magistrate summarily under S. 203, Cr. P. C., will not throw the burden on the complainant to prove that his complaint was a reasonable and honest one, and justify a complaint by the Court for a prosecution for an offence under S. 211, Penal Code. Din Mohammad v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1345 : 98 I. C. 465 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 107.

———S. 211—Duty of Court.

Narazi petition against Police report and inquiry—Process under Ss. 211 and 182 should not be issued without dismissing the narazi petition. Lachmi Shaw v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 514 (1) : 137 I. C. 849 : 36 C. W. N. 15 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 395 (1) : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 383 (1).

———S. 211—Duty of Magistrate—False complaint—Order for prosecution based on Police report alone, legality of—Duty to give opportunity to complainant to prove his case.

A Magistrate does not exercise a proper discretion in ordering a complainant to be prosecuted under S. 211, Penal Code, merely on the receipt of a Police report that the complaint is false. The complainant should be given a reasonable time and full opportunity to prove his case before sanction is given for his prosecution. Tenhu Dhanuk v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 639 : 103 I. C. 63 : 8 P. L. T. 662.

———S. 211—Duty of prosecution—False charge, what amounts to—Just or lawful grounds, absence of.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

In order to bring home a charge under S. 211, Penal Code, the prosecution must establish that there were no just and lawful grounds for the action taken and that the accused was aware of this. Abdul Ghafur v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1165 : 88 I. C. 525 : 6 Lah. 28 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 325.

———S. 211—Duty of prosecution.

In order to successfully prosecute an accused under S. 211, the prosecution must establish that the primary intention of the accused when he made the statement, the basis of the charge, was to cause injury to the persons mentioned by him. Bhawani Sahai v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 409 : 137 I. C. 157 : 33 P. L. R. 174 : 13 Lah. 568 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 229 (2) : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 246.

———S. 211—Duty of prosecution—Ingredients of—Nature of proof required to establish offence.

In order to prove an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, it will be necessary for the prosecution to establish, firstly that the prosecution brought by the appellant against the respondent was brought with intent to cause injury to the respondent ; secondly, that the charge made against the respondent was false, and thirdly, that it was made with the knowledge on the part of the appellant that there was no just or lawful ground for such charge. U Po Thein v. Buta Khan. 38 Cr. L. J. 226 : 166 I. C. 489 : 9 R. Rang. 262 : A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 473.

———S. 211—False charge.

A person who sets the criminal law in motion by making a false charge to the Police of a cognizable offence, institutes criminal proceedings within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code, and, if the offence falls within the description in the latter part of the section, he is liable to the punishment provided in that part. Emperor v. Mt. Chhoti Bi. 4 Cr. L. J. 240 : 2 N. L. R. 119.

———S. 211—False charge against two persons—One offence.

Where a false charge is made against two persons only, one offence is committed and not two in spite of the fact that a charge was made against two persons. Nga Ba Shein v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1259 : 151 I. C. 185 : 7 R. Rang. 43 : A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 21.

———S. 211—False charge, essentials of—Suggestion and publication of rumour, not within the section.

To sustain a conviction under S. 211, Penal Code, there must be something more than a mere suggestion of an inference that the complainant had committed an offence. There must be proof of a charge of some specific offence made with the intention and object of setting the criminal law in motion against the man who is said to have committed the offence. Moreover, the circumstances in which the statement was made and the form of words used have to be considered. Nga Bon She v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 2 :
36 I. C. 834 : 10 Bur. L. T. 259 :
A. I. R. 1917 L. Bur. 108.

———S. 211—'Falsely charges' meaning of.

The words "falsely charges" imply a false charge to a person in authority made with a view to setting the criminal law in motion. The question here is one of intention. Hidayatullah v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 604 :
162 I. C. 140 : 8 R. Pesh. 189 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pesh. 66.

———S. 211—False charge made before police—Offence.

Where a person makes a report to the Police deliberately but falsely charging another with having committed an offence with the intention that the Police should put that person on his trial, he is guilty of an offence under S. 211 of the Penal Code. A charge laid before the Police amounts to the institution of a criminal proceeding within the meaning of the latter part of S. 211, Penal Code. Par-meshar Lall v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 373 :
92 I. C. 885 : 4 Pat. 472 :
7 P. L. T. 657 : A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 678.

———S. 211—False charge of murder before Police—Police Officer—Magistrate's jurisdiction—Commitment to Sessions bad.

The accused gave a false information to the Police that a certain person had committed murder : Held, that they committed an offence under the first paragraph of S. 211, I. P. C. : Held, further, that the offence being one which the Magistrate had jurisdiction to try, a commitment to the Court of Session simply on the ground that the offence falls within the second paragraph of S. 211 is bad in law. Emperor v. Jagmohan.

11 Cr. L. J. 54 :
4 I. C. 812 : 6 A. L. J. 989.

———S. 211—False charge of murder.

It is in the interests of justice that a man who brings a false charge of murder against any person should be prosecuted if a prima facie case is made out against him. Sampuran Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1392 :
151 I. C. 691 (a) : 35 P. L. R. 593 :
7 R. L. 182 (1).

———S. 211—False charge of non-cognizable offence.

A false charge of a non-cognizable offence made to Police is not an institution of criminal proceedings. Abdul Hakim Khan v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 631 :
138 I. C. 551 : 59 Cal. 334 :
I. R. 1932 Cal. 465 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 511.

———S. 211—False charge of offence, what amounts to.

The failure of a complainant to prove his case, is not the same thing as the institution of a maliciously false case, so as to sustain a charge of an offence under S. 211, Penal Code. Chhedi Upadhyaya v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 316 : 72 I. C. 76 : 1 P. L. R. 50 Cr. : 4 P. L. T. 703.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 211—False charge—Statement made to the Police—Cr. P. C., S. 151—Statement not reduced to writing.

Where a false charge is made to the Police with the intention of setting the criminal law in motion against the person against whom the charge is made, the fact that the statement made to the Police was not reduced to writing in accordance with the requirements of S. 154, Cr. P. C., does not prevent the statement from being a false charge within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Mallappa Reddi v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 425 :
I. L. R. 27 Mad. 127 : 1 Weir 192.

———S. 211—False charge to Police—Proof—Necessity of proving that there was no just or lawful ground for such charge—Communication to Police on authority of others—No personal knowledge—Suspicion.

The petitioner addressed a rugga (letter) to the Police in which he did not claim any personal knowledge of the facts, but, on the authority of information supplied to him by others, stated that a certain person had murdered a woman : Held, that unless a person making a charge under S. 211, Penal Code, actually knows that there is no just or lawful ground for it, he is not guilty of the offence and cannot properly be convicted of it. The prosecution must prove that there was no just or lawful ground for the charge, and unless this is proved, the informer must be acquitted. Karim Bakhsh v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 66 :
12 P. R. Cr. 1905 : 6 P. L. R. 278.

———S. 211—False charge, what is.

A false charge, mentioned in S. 211, I. P. C., must not be understood in any restricted or technical sense, but in its ordinary meaning of a false accusation made to any authority bound by law to investigate or to take any steps in regard to it, such as giving information of it to superior authorities with a view to investigation or other proceedings; and the 'institution of criminal proceedings' includes the setting of the criminal law in motion. The Sessions Judge, Tinnevely v. Sivan Chetty.

9 Cr. L. J. 170 :
1 I. C. 187 : 5 M. L. T. 269 :
32 Mad. 258.

———S. 211—False charge, what is.

An allegation will amount to a false charge under S. 211 only if made with the intention and object of setting the criminal law in motion. Abdul Hakim Khan v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 631 :
138 I. C. 551 : 59 Cal. 334 :
I. R. 1932 Cal. 465 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 511.

———S. 211—'False charge,' what is.

A false charge must be made with the intention to set the law in motion against the person charged and must be made to an officer or to a Court who has power to investigate and send it for trial. Mathura Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 1017 :

42 I. C. 761 (1) : 15 A. L. J. 767 : 39 All. 715.

———S. 211—False complaint—Prosecution under S. 211, without giving opportunity to complainant to substantiate his complaint, legality of.

Where the Police make a report to a Magistrate that a complaint is false and that the complainant might be prosecuted under S. 211, Penal Code, and the complainant does not ask the Magistrate to enquire into the case, his conviction under S. 211, Penal Code, cannot be set aside on the mere ground that he was not given an opportunity of proving his case before he was prosecuted. Emperor v. Sobarati Sain.

30 Cr. L. J. 1144 :

120 I. C. 48 : 8 Pat. 734 :

I. R. 1929 Pat. 688 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 650.

———S. 211—False dying declaration, if offence.

The law does not require dying declarations to be recorded by Magistrates, and while an individual Magistrate who records a dying declaration may happen to be empowered to take cognizance apart from such powers of cognizance, an accusation contained in a dying declaration made to a Magistrate stands on no better footing than an accusation made to a private individual without any Statutory obligation to move in the matter at all. Banti Pande v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 210 :

129 I. C. 87 : 12 P. L. T. 109 :

I. R. 1931 Pat. 71 :

A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 550.

———S. 211—False information—Information given to Village Magistrate or Munsif (Village Headman) and communicated by him to Police—Information found to be false—Conviction of informant under S. 211, I. P. C.

Information of an offence given by a person to a Village Munsif (Village Headman), who communicated it to the Police, which, in turn, investigated and found it to be false, may be made the basis of a charge against the informant under S. 211. But every information of an offence does not necessarily amount to a charge of an offence, e. g., when a man gives information, which he has heard from other, and the truth of which he does not allege. The Sessions Judge, Tinnevely v. Sivan Chetty.

9 Cr. L. J. 170 :

1 I. C. 187 : 32 Mad. 258 :

5 M. L. T. 269.

———S. 211—False information to Police.

Prosecution not launched—Offence falls under para. 1—Accused should not be committed to Sessions. Emperor v. Gaya Teli.

32 Cr. L. J. 314 :

129 I. C. 369 (2) : I. R. 1931 All. 145 :

A. I. R. 1930 All. 818.

———S. 211—False information to Police—Prosecution of informant—Court, whether bound to give opportunity to informant to show cause why he should not be prosecuted.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

When the Police have reported an information given by an informant to be false in a cognizable case and have laid a complaint against that informant under S. 211, Penal Code, the Court is not bound before issuing summons under S. 211, Penal Code, to call upon the informant to show cause why he should not be prosecuted, though as a matter of caution, it would ordinarily be wise to give the informant an opportunity to show such cause. Maugni Padhan v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 842 :

117 I. C. 647 : 7 Pat. 408 :

I. R. 1929 Pat. 455 : 10 P. L. T. 827 :

A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 70.

———S. 211—First and second part—Distinction between.

There is no distinction between the first and second part of S. 211, Penal Code, between proceedings before the Police and proceedings before the Magistrate. The second part of S. 211 must be read with the first part, and the second part refers to "such criminal proceedings." Obviously these criminal proceedings are the criminal proceedings referred to in the first part. The criminal proceedings are just as much instituted within the meaning of the section when first information of a cognizable offence is given to the Police under S. 154, Cr. P. C., as when a complaint is made direct to a Magistrate under S. 200. Dharamdas Hiranand v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 12 :

178 I. C. 218 : 11 R. S. 82 :

1939 Kar. 241 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 213.

———S. 211—Information to Police—Sanction to prosecute.

When a person institutes before the Police criminal proceedings which, on enquiry, are found to have no justification, and then he makes a complaint to the Magistrate in respect of the same matter, he cannot be prosecuted for an offence under S. 211, I. P. C., unless he has had an opportunity of proving the truth of his complaint and his complaint has been disposed of by the Magistrate. Jogendra Lal Mukerjee v. Bahu Ballabh Hor.

2 Cr. L. J. 615 :

9 C. W. N. 158 : I. L. R. 33 Cal. 1 :

2 C. L. J. 228.

———S. 211—Ingredients.

Offence described in S. 211 of the Code relates to an attempt to put the criminal Courts in motion against another person. The action which S. 211 renders penal is action entailing very serious consequences and, therefore, the more serious consideration is required of the individual who takes it. It is sufficient, therefore, in such cases for the prosecution to establish that there was no just or lawful ground for the action taken and that the accused knew this. But something more is required in the case of action referred to in S. 182. To bring a case within that section, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove, not merely absence of reasonable or probable cause for giving the information, but a positive knowledge or belief of the falsity of the information given. Emperor v. Ram Krishna.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

5 Cr. L. J. 105 :
9 Bom. L. R. 33 : I. L. R. 31 Bom. 204.

—S. 211—Institution of criminal proceedings, what amounts to.

A person who sets the criminal law in motion by making a false charge to the Police of a cognizable offence, institutes criminal proceedings within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Tofazel Hossein v. H. C. Hanl.

32 Cr. L. J. 110 :
128 I. C. 208 : 34 C. W. N. 556 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 64 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 711.

—S. 211—Institution of criminal proceedings, what amounts to.

False charge and institution of criminal proceedings are not exclusive—Report of cognizable offence made to Police amounts to institution of criminal proceedings. Faiz Alam v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1418 :
151 I. C. 816 : 7 R. Pesh. 37 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pesh. 112.

—S. 211—Institution of criminal proceedings, what does not amount to—Question by Police Officer—Institution of Criminal proceedings—Cr. P. C., S. 161.

Answers to questions put by a Police Officer under S. 161, Cr. P. C., do not amount to institution of criminal proceedings or preferring a false charge within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. In re : Vcrupatti Penchalngaddi.

11 Cr. L. J. 164 :
4 I. C. 1061 : 6 M. L. T. 133.

—S. 211—Institution of criminal proceedings, what is.

The making of a false charge to the Police of a cognizable offence is the institution of criminal proceedings. Emperor v. Johri.

33 Cr. L. J. 256 :
136 I. C. 277 : 1931 A. L. J. 177 :
I. R. 1932 All. 165 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 269.

—S. 211—Institution of criminal proceedings, when amounts to offence—False report to two Police Officers—One having no jurisdiction—Offence, held, partially committed at each place.

The laying of an information which the Police Officer has power to investigate and the causing of that officer to investigate, amounts to institution of criminal proceedings. Consequently, where the accused reports to two Police Officers, one of whom has no jurisdiction, while the other has, the accused must be held to have instituted proceedings and the offence under S. 211, Penal Code, committed though partially at each place. Nanhkoo Mahlon v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 862 :
163 I. C. 805 : 17 P. L. T. 472 :
9 R. P. 40 : 2 B. R. 643 (2) :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 358.

—S. 211—Intention.

No offence is committed under S. 211, Penal

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Code, when there is no intention to set the law in motion against anybody. Ramrao Gurrao v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 910 :
75 I. C. 158 : 6 N. L. J. 202 :
A. I. R. 1923 Nag. 313.

—S. 211—Interpretation—Institution—Meaning of.

The term "institution" in S. 211, Penal Code, means the institution either by the accused himself, or by the Police or others in consequence of the accused's action, in some Criminal Court. Muhammad Hayat v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 82 :
65 I. C. 434 : 6 P. W. R. 1922 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 33.

—S. 211—Offence under—Complaint—No intention to set the law in motion—Complainant, whether guilty.

One D laid information before the Police that a theft had occurred at his house and that he suspected the applicant. Thereupon, the Police started their investigation, kept the applicant in custody and ill-treated him. The latter made an application praying that enquiry be conducted in the presence of the Magistrate. The Magistrate sent the application to the District Superintendent, Police, for report. After the report was received, notice was issued to the applicant to appear before the Magistrate when the Magistrate examined and cross-examined him at great length and directed the application to be taken on the file as a complaint under S. 330 of the Penal Code. Then having held "a preliminary inquiry," he dismissed the complaint under S. 203, Cr. P. C., and taking proceedings under S. 476 of the Code, ordered the applicant to be prosecuted under S. 211, Penal Code : Held, that the application in question was not a complaint within the meaning of the Cr. P. C., no offence was committed and the order of the prosecution was bad. Ramrao Gurrao v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 910 :
75 I. C. 158 : 6 N. L. J. 202 :
A. I. R. 1923 Nag. 313.

—S. 211—Offence under, essentials of.

The elements of an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, are firstly that a false charge should be brought ; secondly, that the person bringing it should know that there was no just or lawful ground for such proceeding or charge, and thirdly, that it should be brought to cause injury to the persons against whom it was made. Where the only finding recorded is that a false complaint was brought, it is not sufficient to support a conviction under S. 211. Saw Ratan Lal Binani v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 605 :
181 I. C. 916 : 11 R. C. 874 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 288.

—S. 211—Offence under—Intention, if material.

Every false charge made to the Police is not necessarily an offence under S. 211, Penal Code. If the intention to injure is absent, then the offence falls under S. 182 of the Code, and there is no reason why if the prosecutor is unable or unwilling to prove intention, that is to say, malice, he should not be permitted to take a conviction under S. 182. Daroga Gope v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 1269 (2) :
88 I. C. 1045 : 6 P. L. T. 515 :
5 Pat. 33 : 1926 Pat. 106 :
A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 717.

—S. 211—Offence under, nature of.

An offence under S. 211, Penal Code, is a non-cognizable one, and the Police are not empowered to investigate into it of their own accord, and to prefer a charge in respect of it. In re : Perumal Naick.

26 Cr. L. J. 1550 :
90 I. C. 398 : 1925 M. W. N. 317 :
22 L. W. 209 : A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 672.

—S. 211—Offence under, what constitutes—Information to Police given by two persons separately on different dates—Offence—Burden of proof.

Two persons acting separately and on different dates, gave similar information to the Police charging a third person with being in possession of stolen property; the Police, after inquiry were unable to proceed against that person, and instituted proceedings against the two informants under S. 211, Penal Code; they were tried together at one trial, a joint charge was drawn up against them, and they were convicted: Held, that for a conviction under S. 211, Penal Code, it is necessary to establish that the accused knew that there was no just or lawful ground for the charge. Gopal Kahar v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 333 :
61 I. C. 61.

—S. 211—Offence under.

Where a person makes a false charge to the Police and subsequently institutes a prosecution in Court on the basis of the same charge, the offence of making a false charge under S. 211, Penal Code, must be deemed to have been committed in relation to a judicial proceeding instituted in Court, and before the person making the charge can be prosecuted for such offence, a complaint in writing must be made by the Magistrate in whose Court the criminal case was instituted under Cl. (b) of S. 195 of the Cr. P. C. Daroga Gope v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1269 (b) :
88 I. C. 1045 : 6 P. L. T. 515 :
5 Pat. 33 : 1926 Pat. 106 :
A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 717.

—S. 211—Offence under.

Woman asking Police to investigate and punish Sub-Inspector who is alleged to have raped her—Sub-Inspector exonerated of the charge by District Superintendent of Police.—Complaint by Sub-Inspector against woman for having brought false charge against him: Held, offence if any, committed by woman under S. 211 and not under S. 182. Local Government v. Mst. Gaji.

17 N. L. J. 189 :
A. I. R. 1935 Nag. 69.

—S. 211—Power of Magistrate—Procedure.

Where upon a petition by the accused to the Assistant Superintendent of Police charging certain persons of commission of a cognizable offence, he directs an enquiry and having received a report from the Sub-Inspector in charge of the thana that the case was maliciously false, makes a complaint against the accused for prosecuting him under S. 211, I. P. C., the complaint is proper and an offence is committed even though the offence complained of was enquired into by the Sub-Inspector. Where after the Magistrate has taken cognizance of the offence upon such complaint, the accused files a protest petition stating that he is ready to prove the case set up by him with a prayer that the matter may be enquired into by any Magistrate before any order is passed on the Police report and the petition is rejected by the Magistrate on the ground that as he had already taken cognizance of the offence it was too late to modify that order, the procedure followed by the Magistrate is proper one. Saguni Missir v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 409 :
187 I. C. 128 : 6 B. R. 424 :
12 R. P. 571 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 625.

—S. 211—Practice—False charge—Opportunity to be given to prove charge before prosecuting.

Where it is intended to prosecute any person under S. 211, Penal Code, such person ought to be given an opportunity of substantiating, if he can, the charge which he has brought before he is prosecuted. Emperor v. Tula.

6 Cr. L. J. 42 :
27 A. W. N. 195 : 4 A. L. J. 471 :
I. L. R. 29 All. 587.

—S. 211—Practice—False charge—Opportunity to be given to prove charge before prosecuting.

Where it is intended to prosecute any person under S. 211, Penal Code, such person ought to be given an opportunity of substantiating, if he can, the charge he has made before his prosecution is ordered. Emperor v. Sheo Ghulam.

6 Cr. L. J. 340 :
27 A. W. N. 268.

—S. 211—Procedure.

No person should be proceeded against for making a false charge against another unless he has been given an opportunity of substantiating his allegations. Bhawani Sahai v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 409 :
137 I. C. 157 : 33 P. L. R. 174 :
13 Lah. 568 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 299 (2) :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 246.

—S. 211—Procedure.

Prosecution for false accusation before dismissal of complaint is illegal. Gati Mandal v. Emperor.

4 Cr. L. J. 68 :
4 C. L. J. 88.

—S. 211—Procedure—Sanction under—Cr. P. C., S. 195—Necessity of.

A went to a Police Station and made a report against several persons of whom B was one. He accused them of offences of rioting and voluntarily causing hurt. The Police made inquiry and sent up several persons for trial but not B. The Magistrate convicted some of the accused but the Sessions Judge acquitted them on appeal. Thereupon, B made a complaint to the Magistrate charging the applicant with having made a false report in respect of himself to the Police. The Magistrate took cognizance of the complaint: Held, that the Magistrate had no power to take cognizance of the complaint without sanction obtained under S. 195, Cr. P. C., as the offence under S. 211 of the Penal Code was one committed in relation to a proceeding in Court. Hardwar Pal v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 702:

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 I. C. 510 : 34 All. 522 :
10 A. L. J. 61.

———S. 211—Prosecution, basis for—"Instituting Criminal Proceedings"—Cr. P. C., S. 162—Statement under S. 162—Complaint—Charge.

A statement made to the Police under S. 162, Cr. P. C., is not a complaint or a charge. Such statement, when made after the law has already been set in motion and when the prosecution cannot be said to have been instituted by that statement, cannot be made the basis of a prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code. In re : Krishna Baipadithaya.

11 Cr. L. J. 286 :
5 I. C. 908 : 20 M. L. J. 132.

———S. 211—Prosecution for false charge, basis for—False charge must be to one having authority to set criminal law in motion—Cr. P. C., S. 162, statement made under, cannot be the basis of prosecution for false charge.

A statement made under S. 162, Cr. P. C., in answer to questions put by a Police Officer making an investigation, under S. 162, Cr. P. C., cannot be made the basis of a prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code. Information of an alleged dacoity was given to a Village Munsif who sent a report to the Police. The police thereupon investigated the case and rejected it as false. The informant was prosecuted under S. 211, Penal Code: Held, that there was no institution of criminal proceedings by the informant, as the Village Munsif had no power to investigate in cases of dacoity. The informant had made no 'false charge' within the meaning of S. 211, as it was not made to one having power to investigate and send up for trial. The subsequent investigation was not the result of the information given but of the report sent by the Village Munsif. Chinna Ramna Gowd v. Emperor. 9 Cr. L. J. 77:

31 Mad. 506 : 18 M. L. J. 573.

———S. 211—Prosecution, legality of.

Information to Police Officer amounting to complaint of cognizable offence—Information not reduced to writing—Subsequent complaint by accused—Complaint found false—Prosecution of accused under S. 211, Penal Code, is not legal. In re : Patil Subha Reddi.

37 Cr. L. J. 357 :
160 I. C. 988 : 1935 M. W. N. 1197 :
43 L. W. 261 : 8 R. M. 737 :
A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 160.

———S. 211—Prosecution, legality of—

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Complainant not given opportunity to produce all evidence.

A prosecution for an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, is not necessarily illegal merely because the complainant was not given an opportunity to adduce all his evidence in support of his case. Bansidhar Marwari v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 862 :

74 I. C. 1054 : A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 138.

———S. 211—Prosecution of complainant before disposal of case, if legal.

The practice that a complainant for first informant should not be prosecuted under S. 211, Penal Code, until his complaint or Police case has been disposed of, is not based on any Statute, and is merely a precautionary rate of safety in respect of a special class of criminal case. Therefore, while a prosecution under S. 211 of the Code, might, in certain circumstances, be delayed or even set aside in accordance with this practice, the practice could per se be no ground for setting aside a conviction. Suchil Raul v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 934 :
125 I. C. 770 : 11 P. L. T. 224 :
9 Pat. 126 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 622.

———S. 211—Prosecution under, essentials to be considered—Abettor, when can be prosecuted—Proof that he was aware of falsity of complaint—Necessity of.

In a charge under S. 211, Penal Code, what is to be considered is the nature of the complaint or charge made by the accused, in other words, whether the complaint is substantially true and what is false is a mere fringe to the complaint or whether the substantial complaint is false and what is true is a mere fringe, or in other words, a mere accessory circumstance. If A believes what B told him and in good faith orders B to file a complaint, the fact that B's story turned out to be untrue will be no ground for criminal prosecution of A, even if during the inquiry, he assists in the production of evidence. It is necessary to prove also that A believed in its falsity. Sahadeo Karan Singh v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 462 :

167 I. C. 852 : 3 B. R. 347 :
9 R. P. 437 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 84.

———S. 211—Prosecution under.

The setting aside by a Civil Court of a fraudulently obtained decree is not evidence in a Criminal Court, of fraud which it is necessary to prove independently in criminal proceedings. Therefore the fact that such a decree has not been set aside is no bar to a prosecution under S. 210, I. P. C., though it might be admissible as evidence to prove that there is no fraud. Emperor v. Molla Fazal Karim. 3 Cr. L. J. 365 :

I. L. R. 33 Cal. 193.

———S. 211—Prosecution under, when lies—Workman's Breach of Contract Act, 1859—Ss. 1, 2.

Proceedings under the first paragraph of S. 2, Workman's Breach of Contract Act, 1859, are criminal proceedings, and a prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code, for instituting proceedings without just cause under S. 1 of that Act, will lie. V. Karupanna v. Mada Nadan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 1018:
2 L. B. R. 300.

————S. 211—Punishment, nature of—Age, how far to be taken into account in passing sentence.

The offence under S. 211, Penal Code, is one which should ordinarily be punished with a substantive sentence of imprisonment. The age of the accused is a factor to be taken into consideration in deciding the nature of the sentence. But if for that reason the Magistrate deems fit only to impose a fine instead of imprisonment, the amount of the fine should be so determined as to inflict on the accused a punishment comparable with what he would suffer had he been a younger man. Emperor v. Muthia Chetti.
17 Cr. L. J. 158:
33 I. C. 638 : 1 M. W. N. 1:
A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 667.

————S. 211—Report to police.

Informant insisting on Court proceedings amounts to charge. On making of charge, offence is complete and injured party can file complaint. Subsequent complaint by informant is immaterial. Nga Ba Shein v. Emperor.
35 Cr. L. J. 1259:
151 I. C. 185 : 7 R. Rang. 43:
A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 21.

————S. 211—Sanction, if necessary.

No sanction is necessary for filing a complaint under S. 211 unless some proceedings before a Magistrate have preceded the complaint. U Sein Ywet v. U. Maung Fyi.
35 Cr. L. J. 802:
148 I. C. 345 : 6 R. Rang. 257:
A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 40.

————S. 211—Sanction of Magistrate before trial, if necessary—Police reporting complaint by accused to be false and praying for his prosecution under S. 211—Magistrate calling upon accused to show cause—Accused filing "narazi" petition.

The accused was given shelter for the night in the house of B. In course of the night, he attempted to take advantage of B's wife. As a result of this, he was beaten by B. He then went to the Police Station and brought an entirely false charge of robbery against B. The Police reported the case to be a false one and prayed for the prosecution of the accused under S. 211, Penal Code. The Magistrate called upon the accused to show cause why he should not be prosecuted, and the accused then filed what is known as a narazi petition. The case then proceeded to trial, and the accused was in due course convicted; Held, that the sanction of the Magistrate who dealt with the narazi petition was not necessary before the prosecution started. Jamini Kanta Ghose v. Bhabanath-Jaisi Barman.
40 Cr. L. J. 785:
183 I. C. 384 : I. L. R. 1939, 1 Cal. 318:
43 C. W. N. 279 : 12 R. C. 156:
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 273.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 211—Sanction to prosecute under, if can be granted—Petition asking for Police warning the accused, if complaint.

A petition making certain charges against a person and asking for an order on the Police to warn that person in the first instance, is not a complaint and no sanction to prosecute the petitioner under S. 211 can be granted. Purno Chandra Ghosh v. Harish Chandra Ghosh.
12 Cr. L. J. 535:
12 I. C. 303 : 15 C. W. N. 1051.

————S. 211—Sanction to prosecute under.

The mere acquittal of accused is not sufficient for sanctioning prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code; there must be a reasonable belief in the mind of the sanctioning Court that there was no foundation for the criminal charge, in other words, there must be a belief that in instituting criminal proceedings, the petitioner acted knowingly without belief in the truth of the allegations made by him or recklessly without caring whether the allegations were true or false, and the judgment of the trial Court ought to show that there was no foundation whatever for the criminal case against the persons who were acquitted. Kusum Sav v. Janak Lal.
20 Cr. L. J. 603:
52 I. C. 219 : 1919 Pat. 250:
4 P. L. J. 374 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 362.

————S. 211—Scope — Accused giving information to Police resulting in arrest of third person on charge of murder—Third person discharged—Accused alleged responsible for his prosecution—Accused, if guilty under S. 211, or S. 182.

Where, upon information given to the Police by the accused, a third person is arrested on a charge of murder and challaned to the Court of a Magistrate by whom, however, he is subsequently discharged, and the prosecution case is that the accused is responsible for the proceedings instituted against the third person, the offence committed by the accused is one under S. 211 and not under S. 182, Penal Code. Jhamatmal Alumal v. Emperor.
41 Cr. L. J. 8:
184 I. C. 243 : 12 R. S. 100:
A. I. R. 1939 Sind 274.

————S. 211—Scope.

An offence under S. 210, I. P. C., is committed as soon as a decree is fraudulently obtained. Emperor v. Molla Fazal Karim. 3 Cr. L. J. 365:
I. L. R. 33 Cal. 193.

————S. 211—Scope.

The criminal proceedings and false charge within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code, mean proceedings and charge in British India, where the Penal Code is in force; criminal proceedings taken and a false charge made before a Court in a Native State are not within the scope of the section. In re : Ram-bharthi Hirabharthi.
25 Cr. L. J. 333:
77 I. C. 189 : 25 Bom. L. R. 772:
47 Bom. 907 : A. I. R. 1924 Bom. 51.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 211—Scope of—Complaint dismissed without examination of complainant—Calling upon complainant to show cause against being proceeded against.

If a Magistrate without examining the complainant, which he is bound to do under S. 200, Cr. P. C. dismisses his complaint, the complainant cannot be called upon to show why he should not be proceeded against under S. 211, Penal Code. In re: Rampappa Ballalrao Desai.

27 Cr. L. J. 740 :
95 I. C. 68 : 28 Bom. L. R. 490 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 284.

———S. 211—Scope of—Complaint if bona fide, mere fact that one accused had been wrongly identified is no ground for instituting prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code.

If the complaint in its generality was bona fide, the fact that one accused person had been wrongly identified cannot be regarded as a ground for instituting a prosecution under S. 211, Penal Code. Bachu Singh v. Tribeni Sah.

40 Cr. L. J. 157 :
179 I. C. 167 : 11 R. P. 328 :
5 B. R. 203 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 178.

———S. 211—Scope of—Complaint to Inspector-General, Police, ss. 5 and 36 of Act I of 1861—Investigation by District Superintendent of Police—Its dismissal—Sanction to prosecute—Revision.

Where H. D. sent to the Inspector-General of Police a few specific charges of bribery against a Sub-Inspector of Police and asked for investigation—The Inspector-General, who is a Magistrate under S. 5 of Act V of 1861, and is empowered by S. 36 of the Act to enquire into and determine as a Magistrate any charge against a Police Officer above the rank of a constable, ordered the District Superintendent of Police to investigate, and that officer forwarded the result of his investigation to the District Magistrate: Held. that a false charge of an offence, preferred to a person empowered to order investigation by the Police, though not followed by further proceedings in any Court, brings the matter of the charge within the 1st part of S. 211, I. P. C. Hamayun v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 291 :
3 P. W. R. Cr. 22 : 26 P. R. 1908 Cr.

———S. 211—Scope of—Criminal proceedings, meaning of.

The criminal proceedings referred to in S. 211, Penal Code, must be regarded as proceedings before a Magistrate. A man who makes a false charge, which fails to result in any proceedings before a Magistrate, owing to his clumsiness or for some similar reason, is saved from himself to a certain extent by the action of the Police in throwing out the case, and he has merely "falsely charged", he has neither initiated criminal proceedings nor caused them to be initiated. If, owing to his greater skill, he has succeeded in getting the Police to arrest his enemy and place him before a Court, then his greater skill has succeeded in involving himself perhaps in an offence for which he can be more heavily punished, because he would then have caused criminal proceedings to be instituted. The King v. Ma Ban Gyi.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 113 :
178 I. C. 644 : 1938 Rang. 236 :
11 R. Rang. 255 : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 397.

———S. 211—Scope of.

A false charge within the meaning of S. 211 must be made to a competent Magistrate or other person with a statutory standing in the matter and must further be made with the object of setting the criminal law in motion. Banti Pandi v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 210 :
129 I. C. 87 : 12 P. L. T. 109 :
I. R. 1930 Pat. 71 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 550.

———S. 211—Scope of—"Falsely charges," in S. 211, interpretation of.

The expression "falsely charges" in S. 211, Penal Code, must be construed along with the words which speak of the institution of proceedings in the earlier part of the section, so that the test is "whether the person who made the statement which is alleged to constitute the charge did so with the intention and object of setting the criminal law in motion against the person against whom the statement is directed." Government Advocate, Bihar v. Kumar Singh.

39 Cr. L. J. 314 :
173 I. C. 432 : 16 Pat. 571 : 19 P. L. T. 51 :
10 R. P. 408 : 4 B. R. 274 :
A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 83.

———S. 211—Scope of—Giving false information to Police—Trial before giving opportunity to prove truth of information, validity of.

A person cannot be called upon to stand his trial under S. 211, Penal Code, for having given false information to the Police without giving him an opportunity to prove before a Magistrate that the information given by him was true. Akshoy Kumar Chakrabarty v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 152 :
99 I. C. 408 : 31 C. W. N. 124 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 175.

———S. 211—Scope of.

Ordinarily a person ought to be given an opportunity to show cause before he is ordered to be prosecuted under S. 211. Sheikh Abdulla v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 406 :
137 I. C. 133 : 35 C. W. N. 1210 :
I. R. 1932 Cal. 266 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 287.

———S. 211—Scope of.

Telegram to Deputy Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner, and District Superintendent of Police that certain Sub-Inspector committed offence against sender—Allegations proving false—No offence under S. 211 but under S. 182, held committed. Hidayatullah v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 604 :
162 I. C. 140 : 8 R. Pesh. 189 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pesh. 66.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 211—Scope of.

The information, given to a Village Magistrate (Village Headman), is different in every respect from the "criminal information" known to the English law, and cannot be treated as the 'institution of a criminal proceeding' or 'making a charge' within the meaning of S. 211, I. P. C. The Sessions Judge, Tinnevely v. Sivan Chetty.

9 Cr. L. J. 170 :
1 I. C. 187 : 5 M. L. T. 269 :
32 Mad. 258.

———S. 211—Scope of.

To constitute an offence under S. 211, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the process should be issued or charge pressed against any person upon a complaint. It is sufficient that a false charge or complaint is made against him. Hardeo Singh v. Hanuman Dat Narain.

1 Cr. L. J. 7 :
24 A. W. N. 10 : 26 All. 244.

———S. 211—Scope of.

Under S. 211 there must be a definite accusation before a person can be said to have either charged or instituted criminal proceedings against another. By 'criminal proceedings,' in S. 211 of the Code is meant criminal proceedings intended to be taken in Court. In re : Mallala Obiah.

19 Cr. L. J. 38 :
42 I. C. 998 : 1917 M. W. N. 875 :
A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 731.

———S. 211—Second complaint.

If on the dismissal of a complaint under S. 211 a second complaint under S. 211 can be filed, then the complainant can certainly file a second complaint on the same facts, and instead of alleging an offence under S. 211 allege an offence under S. 500. U. Sein Ywet v. U. Maung Fyi.

35 Cr. L. J. 802 :
148 I. C. 845 : 6 R. Rang. 257 :
A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 40.

———S. 211—Telegram to Police, if amounts to false charge.

The mere despatch of a telegram falsely stating that a dacoity had been committed without mentioning the names of any persons alleged to have been concerned or suspected of complicity in the offence, does not amount to the institution of a false charge within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. The phrase "information received" in S. 157, Cr. P. C., refers to information furnished and recorded under S. 154, and a telegram is not such information. In re : Anandamuri Anandayya.

15 Cr. L. J. 622 :
25 I. C. 630 : 1 L. W. 355 :
1914 M. W. N. 382 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 312.

———S. 211.

When complaint of an offence under S. 211 is presented to a Magistrate, opportunity cannot be given to an accused to prove the truth of the complaint. Emperor v. Ghansram.

8 Cr. L. J. 349 :
4 N. L. R. 136.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 211, 182—Offence under, requisites of.

To constitute an offence under S. 182, Penal Code, it is only necessary that the information given by an accused to a public servant should be false to his knowledge, whereas to constitute an offence under S. 211, it is necessary that the accused should institute or cause to be instituted some criminal proceedings against another person or should falsely charge him with having committed an offence. The expression of a suspicion that a person may have committed an offence does not amount to the institution of a criminal charge against him, where the Police are only left to act upon the suspicion and follow up the clue, as they might or might not think fit. In re : Mallala Obiah.

19 Cr. L. J. 38 :
42 I. C. 998 : 1917 M. W. N. 875 :
A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 731.

———Ss. 211, 182—Proceedings by Police without sanction, legality of—Informant not giving any name—Acquittal of accused—Intention.

When a case is instituted under S. 211, Penal Code, it must be proved that the person accused instituted or caused to be instituted, criminal proceedings with intent to injure that person. Where a person, therefore, made a report to the Police without naming any person that property was stolen, and on investigation, it was found to have been removed with the permission of his co-owner by a particular person against whom criminal proceedings were taken but who was acquitted : Held, that the petitioner was not guilty of the offence under S. 211, Penal Code, there being no proof of his intention to injure that person. The case under S. 211 was not maintainable against the accused as no sanction had been obtained to start criminal proceedings against him. Niaz Ali v. Emperor.

5 Cr. L. J. 396 :
4 A. L. J. 361 : 27 A. W. N. 149.

———Ss. 211, 193—Institution of proceedings, what is not—Mere fact of giving evidence alone, if amounts to institution of proceedings.

The mere fact of giving evidence alone cannot, by any stretch of reasoning, be tantamount to the institution of proceedings within the meaning of S. 211, Penal Code. Master Zodpa v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 1043 :
164 I. C. 1057 : 38 P. L. R. 16 :
9 R. L. 189 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 828.

———Ss. 211, 193—Proper procedure—Magistrate declining to prosecute—District Magistrate directing prosecution—Trial Magistrate commencing prosecution—Propriety.

Once a Magistrate passes an order declining to take action under Ss. 211 and 193, Penal Code, that order can be displaced only by the order of the Appellate Court under S. 476-B, Cr. P. C. The District Magistrate has no power to direct the prosecution, and if the Magistrate in making the complaint allows himself to be guided by the wishes of a superior executive officer acting in that capacity, he manifestly acts improperly and contrary to law. Ramdeni Pathak v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

39 Cr. L. J. 358 :
173 I. C. 738 : 4 B. R. 327 :
10 R. P. 432 : A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 145.

—Ss. 211, 500—False report by woman
—False report by woman that her modesty was insulted by servants of complainant at his investigation—Defamation, if constituted—Offence failing under S. 211—Complainant, if precluded from proceeding under S. 500.

A woman made a false report in the Police Station that a certain Malguzar called her up and told his servants to pollute her (Kujat karo), whereupon they dragged her away and insulted her modesty by taking off her dhoti, beating her and turning her out with her person exposed: Held, that to attribute such conduct to a person in the respectable position of a Malguzar like the non-applicant, would tend to lower him in the estimation of right-thinking persons of his community and would, therefore, amount to defamation. Even though the allegations of the prosecution may, in such a case, amount to an offence under S. 211, the complainant is not precluded from proceeding under S. 500, Penal Code. When the complainant merely asks for redress of his personal grievance, he is entitled to do so and the accused cannot be heard to say that she prefers the more serious section because the procedure under it would be more favourable to her. Binia v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 189 :
166 I. C. 282 : 9 R. N. 119 :
I. L. R. 1937 Nag. 338 :
A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 241.

—S. 212—Harbouring absconded offender—Offence, ingredients of—Harbouring person against whom proclamation has been issued and whose properties have been attached, whether offence—'Offender,' meaning of.

Concealing or harbouring a person against whom a proclamation has been issued or whose properties have been attached but who is not shown to be an 'offender' within the meaning of S. 212, Penal Code, that is, a person who has committed an offence punishable with death, transportation imprisonment or fine, does not amount to, an offence under S. 212 of the Code. A person cannot be convicted under S. 212, Penal Code, unless it is proved that he knew or had reason to believe that the person harboured or concealed was an offender within the meaning of that section. Emperor v. Laloor.

31 Cr. L. J. 288 :
121 I. C. 549 : A. I. R. 1930 All. 33.

—S. 212—Scope of.

The charge against the petitioner was that he had harboured or concealed three named domes, knowing or having reason to believe at the time that they had committed a dacoity and offences under S. 28, Criminal Tribes Act. Three domes were found concealing themselves in the dalan of the petitioner and were arrested by the chaukidar and other villagers. The defence was that it was the petitioner himself that had arrested the three domes. It was also in evidence that a dacoity had been committed in the neighbourhood, and that in connection with this dacoity not only were processes under Ss. 87 and 88, Cr. P. C. taken out, and served against the three domes, but proclamations by beat of drum were made: Held, that this was clearly insufficient to fulfil the requirements of S. 212, Penal Code. The mere silence of the petitioner when he was asked by the villagers how the three domes came to be in his dalan or the falsehood of his story that it was he himself that had arrested the domes, was insufficient to warrant his conviction on the footing that he had concealed persons whom he knew or had reason to believe to be "the offenders" in relation to the particular dacoity in question. Shivarekha Pande v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

39 Cr. L. J. 768 :
176 I. C. 462 : 19 P. L. T. 568 :
4 B. R. 743 : 11 R. P. 96 :
A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 358.

—S. 213.

See also Sentence.

—S. 213—Offence under, ingredients of—Gratification to screen offender from punishment.

The offence constituted by S. 213, Penal Code, consists in the corrupt motive which is brought into play as much as in the delay to criminal justice. It consists in the compounding of an offence by some agreement not to bring the criminal to justice, and this section intends to punish those who make a profit out of a public wrong. Actual concealment or screening even for a short time may be sufficient, but there must be some concealment for screening actually proved. If such is proved, and there is further the acceptance of, or attempt to obtain, or agreement to accept, the gratification or restitution as a consideration for the same, the offence is complete. The fact that the very same person subsequently did prosecute even to conviction would not purge the offence. Hem Chandra Mukherjee v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 345 :
84 I. C. 649 : 40 C. L. J. 278 :
52 Cal. 151 : A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 85.

—Ss. 213, 214—Scope of—Concealing offence—Screening offender—No concealment or screening where no offence committed—Offender acquitted of principal offence—Court cannot go behind acquittal for purposes of Ss. 213, 214.

The words "concealing an offence" and "screening any person from legal punishment for any offence" in Ss. 213 and 214, Penal Code, presuppose the actual commission of an offence or the guilt of the person screened from punishment; if there was no such principal offence, a subsidiary offence under these two sections cannot come into existence. Where a person has been tried and acquitted of the principal offence, it is not open to another Court to hold for the purposes of Ss. 213 and 214, Penal Code, that the offence was committed. Emperor v. Sanlal.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 453 :
20 I. C. 613 : 15 Bom. L. R. 694 :
37 Bom. 658.

—S. 214—Offence under, what is—Illegal gratification—Offer of money to forest subordinate for not proceeding with a compoundable offence—Burma Forest Act (Burma Act IV of 1902), S. 62.

A had a licence under the Burma Forest Act for one saw-pit but worked two saw-pits. B, a forester, discovered this breach of the rules and told A that he would be prosecuted. Whereupon A offered him Rs. 5 not to proceed with the case. The offence of working more saw-pits than were covered by the licence was compoundable under the Forest Act : Held, (1) that the offer of Rs. 5 to B did not amount to an offence under S. 214, Penal Code ; (2) that the fact that B was not authorized to compound the offence, did not make any difference. Emperor v. Kya Song.

13 Cr. L. J. 474 :
15 I. C. 990 : 6 L. B. R. 48.

—S. 215—Actual thief, if can be convicted under.

The actual thief himself cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 215, Penal Code. Godha v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 670 :
103 I. C. 206 : 8 Lah. 263 :
28 P. L. R. 433 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 500.

—S. 215—Attempt to commit offence, when complete.

In order to constitute an attempt to commit an offence under S. 215, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the person who is willing to take and the person who is willing to give the illegal gratification should agree both as to the object for which the gratification is to be given, and also as to the shape or form the gratification is to take. When once a proposal has been made for the payment of an illegal gratification whether it is completed by an agreement or not, the offence of an attempt to commit an offence under S. 215 is complete. Emperor v. Nga Nyo.

1 Cr. L. J. 1116 :
2 L. B. R. 310.

—S. 215—Burden of proof—Elements of offence proved by evidence—Onus is on accused to prove that he is entitled to benefit of exception.

Once the elements of an offence under S. 215 have been established by evidence, the onus of proving that the person charged is entitled to the benefit of the exception is on the defence particularly so where there has been a spontaneous demand by the accused of money in circumstances indicating an intention not to bring the offender to justice. Ramanand Teli v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 887 :
177 I. C. 344 : 11 R. P. 148 :
4 B. R. 818 : 19 P. L. T. 776 :
A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 590.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 215—Burden of proof.

In a charge under S. 215, Penal Code, the burden of proving that the accused had used all the means in their power to bring about the apprehension of the offenders is upon them. Yusuf Mian v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 808 :
176 I. C. 85 : 1938 A. L. J. 531 :
11 R. A. 145 : 1938 A. W. R. 362 :
I. L. R. 1938 All. 681 :
A. I. R. 1938 All. 440.

—S. 215—Burden of proof.

Once the elements of an offence under S. 215 have been established by evidence, the onus of proving that the person charged is entitled to the benefit of the exception is on the defence. Arman Ullah v. Jainulla.

34 Cr. L. J. 1015 :
145 I. C. 569 : 37 C. W. N. 360 :
6 R. C. 117 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 599.

—S. 215—Charge under—Maintainability—Accused charged with receiving money under promise to return complainant's stray donkey.

Where the evidence shows that the accused took a sum of money and gave a receipt in the presence of witnesses under promise of return of a donkey that had gone astray, and though it may be that the donkey he had to return was a donkey that was stolen, there is nothing upon the record to show that it was so, and the charge shows that the donkey was a stray donkey and not a stolen donkey, no offence under S. 215, Penal Code, is disclosed and a conviction under S. 215 is not maintainable even if the accused pleads guilty. Balu v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1038 (a) :
164 I. C. 934 : 30 S. L. R. 96 :
9 R. S. 60 (1) : A. I. R. 1936 Sind 145.

—S. 215—Conviction, if legal—Receiving gratification to restore stolen property—Accused suspected of actual theft—Conviction, whether legal.

The accused promised to return a stolen bullock on payment of Rs. 30. He received the money and 3 days later produced the bullock : Held, that the accused must have known who the actual thieves were, and as he took no steps to bring them to justice, he was guilty of an offence under S. 215, Penal Code. It cannot be a defence to the charge of accepting money for returning stolen property that the person who takes the money is himself the thief. Emperor v. Mukhtara.

26 Cr. L. J. 481 :
85 I. C. 225 : 22 A. L. J. 838 :
46 All. 915 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 783.

—S. 215—Conviction, legality of—Person suspected of theft—Failure of prosecution to prove theft by him—Convicted under S. 215.

A person suspected of theft may, if the prosecution fails to prove the fact of theft by him, be convicted under S. 215. Ramanand Teli v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 887 :
177 I. C. 344 : 11 R. P. 148 :
4 B. R. 818 : 19 P. L. T. 776 :
A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 590.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 215—Conviction under, if maintainable—Cow lost from grazing ground—Taking money and promising to return cow, whether constitutes offence.

Where the complainant's cow was lost from the grazing ground and the accused took Rs. 12 from him and promised to return the cow in ten days' time, but did not do so and subsequently refused to return either the cow or the money: Held, that as there was no proof that any offence had been committed in respect of the cow, the accused could not be convicted under S. 215, Penal Code. Sharfa v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 541 :
29 I. C. 669 : 9 P. R. 1915 Cr. :
28 P. L. R. 1916 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 551.

—S. 215—Conviction under, illegality of—Theft.

A person missed his cow from a bathan where it had been let loose for grazing. He made a search but got no trace of the cow, and then lodged a sanha at the thana giving a description of the missing animal. Some months afterwards the accused went to him and promised to find out the culprit for a consideration. They thus took some money from him, there was no evidence that the cow was in fact stolen: Held, that the accused could not be convicted under S. 215. Radha Mohan Ahir v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 922 :
190 I. C. 387 : 7 B. R. 22 :
13 R. P. 235 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 138.

—S. 215—Conviction, when sustainable.

A conviction under S. 215 cannot be sustained in the absence of evidence to show that the loss of the movable property was by means of the commission of an offence punishable under the Penal Code. Bageshwari Ahir v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 709 :
139 I. C. 76 : 13 P. L. T. 732 :
11 Pat. 392 : I. R. 1932 Pat. 201 :
A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 241.

—S. 215—'Deprive', meaning of—Bullock straying at night disappearing—Person taking money and showing owner bullock tied up by somebody in jungle—Such person, if guilty under S. 215.

The word 'deprive' in S. 215, Penal Code, cannot be interpreted in a narrow sense to mean "taken out of possession of." To deprive a person of any article may be either to take it away from him or to prevent him from getting possession of it if he would have done so in the normal course of events. Where, therefore, in a case, a bullock strays at night and disappears and is subsequently found to be tied up to a tree in the jungle by an unknown person, the person who tied it up in the jungle is depriving the owner of possession of it because normally a bullock which went away would return to its owner in the ordinary course, and by being tied up it would be prevented from so doing. In such a case, the Court is entitled quite fairly to make the inference that the bullock had either been stolen or misappropriated dishonestly by some person. A person, therefore, who takes money for pointing out the bullock so tied up in the jungle, is guilty of an offence under S. 215, Penal Code. Yusuf Mian v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

39 Cr. L. J. 808 :
176 I. C. 85 : 11 R. A. 145 :
1938 A. L. J. 531 : 1938 A. W. R. 362 :
I. L. R. 1938 All. 681 :
A. I. R. 1938 All. 440.

—S. 215—Duty of prosecution.

Restoring lost property on payment of some remuneration—For conviction under S. 215, prosecution should prove that property has been lost by commission of an offence and accused is screening the offender. Ram Naresh Rai v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1072 :
133 I. C. 800 : 1932 A. L. J. 103 :
I. R. 1931 All. 752 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 710.

—S. 215—Ingredient.

It is necessary, in order to maintain a conviction under S. 215 to prove that the complainant had been deprived of his property by an offence punishable under the Code. Akbar v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 729 :
131 I. C. 369 : 32 P. L. R. 38 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 465 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 157.

—S. 215—Ingredients of, offence under—Accused held, could not be convicted under S. 215.

S. 215, I. P. C., has three essential ingredients; first, taking or agreeing or consenting to take any gratification under pretence or on account of helping any person to recover any movable property; secondly, that the owner of such property must have been deprived of it by an offence punishable under the I. P. C.; and thirdly, that the person in question, having taken or agreed to take the gratification, must not have used all means in his power to cause the offender to be apprehended and convicted of the offence. The complainant's bullock disappeared one day. The circumstances showed that the bullock might have strayed. The accused offered to recover the bullock if certain amount was paid by the complainant. The complainant refused to accept it and the accused did nothing further: Held, that the second ingredient of S. 215 referred to above was not present and the accused could not be convicted. Biswanath Dubey v. Gharbigan Chamar.

41 Cr. L. J. 902 :
190 I. C. 382 : 7 B. R. 23 :
13 R. P. 204 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 548.

—S. 215—Knowledge of offender, if necessary.

Knowledge of the offender is not a necessary ingredient of an offence under S. 215, Penal Code. It may well be that a person who receives money for discovering stolen property, may, in the course of his investigations, obtain information which, if followed up, would lead to the apprehension of the offender. If he withholds that information from the proper authorities, it is obvious that it cannot be said that he used his best endeavour to cause the offender to be apprehended. Yusuf Mian v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 808 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

176 I. C. 85 : 1938 A. L. J. 531 :

I. L. R. 1938 All. 681 : 11 R. A. 145 :

1938 A. W. R. 362 : A. I. R. 1938 All. 440.

———S. 215—Offence, nature of—Taking money to find stolen property.

It is not an offence to take money from another in order to help him to find stolen property and to convict the thief. It is an offence for one who knew of the commission of the crime, and who could at once have informed the offender, to wait till a reward is offered, and then to take money from the owner of the property under colour of getting the property back for him. The section is not intended to apply to the actual thief, but to some one who, being in league with the thief, receives some gratification on account of helping the owner to recover stolen property, without at the same time using all the means in his power to cause the thief to be apprehended and convicted of his offence. Emperor v. Nangu. 29 Cr. L. J. 21 :

106 I. C. 437 : 25 A. L. J. 866 :

50 All. 186 : A. I. R. 1928 All. 22.

———S. 215—Offence under—Complainant's cycle stolen—Accused accosting him and demanding certain amount to get back cycle—Accused, is guilty under S. 215.

Where a cycle of the complainant is stolen and the accused accosts him, and tells him that if he gives certain amount, his cycle can be recovered, the very terms in which the complainant is approached implies that there was expected to be no questions asked as to the actual offender and no attempt at his apprehension or conviction. The accused is, therefore, guilty under S. 215, Penal Code. Ramanand Teli v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 887 :

177 I. C. 344 : 11 R. P. 148 :

4 B. R. 818 : 19 P. L. T. 776 :

A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 590.

———Ss. 215, 420—Offence, when maintainable—Deprived of movable property—Necessary ingredient for conviction under S. 215—Cattle disappearing—No presumption as to its being stolen—Cheating—Dishonest motives must be present at the time of taking money.

There can be no conviction for an offence under S. 215, Penal Code, until it is proved that a person has been deprived of movable property by an offence punishable under the Code. Where a buffalo has disappeared, there is no presumption that an offence has been committed in respect of it. In order to constitute an offence under S. 420, Penal Code, the dishonest intent must either precede or accompany the act of dishonesty. Hemraj v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 295 :

6 I. C. 250.

———S. 215—Scope of Charge of thief himself for offence under S. 215, legality of.

It is no defence to a charge under S. 215, Penal Code, that the accused himself was the thief of the stolen property. Emperor v. Gulu. 29 Cr. L. J. 736 :

110 I. C. 592 : 22 S. L. R. 450 :

A. I. R. 1928 Sind 168.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 215—Scope of—Receiving gratification to help owner to recover stolen property—Gratification received by thief himself—Offence.

S. 215, Penal Code, is not intended to apply to the actual thief but to a person who takes gratification on account of helping the owner to recover stolen property without at the same time using all the means in his power to cause the offender to be apprehended and convicted of the offence. Kehr Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1121 :

88 I. C. 353 : 2 Lah. Cas. 25 :

7 L. L. J. 477 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 563.

———S. 215—Scope of.

Screening or attempting to screen the offender is not a necessary ingredient under S. 215. Arman Ullah v. Jainulla. 34 Cr. L. J. 1015 :

145 I. C. 569 : 37 C. W. N. 360.

6 R. C. 117 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 599.

———S. 215—Scope of.

Taking money from another in order to help him find stolen property and convict thief does not constitute offence—Points required to be proved open to doubt—Benefit of doubt to accused should be given. Haji Jan Mohammad v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1464 :

158 I. C. 498 : 8 R. S. 53 :

A. I. R. 1935 Sind 103.

———S. 215—Scope of—Thief himself taking gratification to restore stolen property—Conviction, legality of.

S. 215, Penal Code, is not intended to apply to the thief himself, and, therefore, where a man is convicted of theft, he ought not to be also convicted under S. 215 of taking a gratification to restore the stolen property. Emperor v. Nga Nyan U. 16 Cr. L. J. 421 :

28 I. C. 997 : U. B. R. 1914, II 43 :

A. I. R. 1914 U. Bur. 43.

———Ss. 215, 71, 380—Theft and taking gratification to restore stolen property—Cattle theft—Joinder of charges—Double conviction.

The two accused stole a bullock and returned it to the owner two days later on payment of Rs. 20. They were tried at one trial both for theft under S. 380, Penal Code, and for offences under S. 215. The Magistrate found that the theft had been committed for the express purpose of obtaining money for the bullock's return. He convicted the accused of both the offences charged, and passed a separate sentence for each offence: Held, that in view of the short time that elapsed between the theft and the return of the bullock, the Magistrate's finding as to the purpose of the theft was justifiable, and the theft and the return might be considered to be a series of acts so connected as to form the same transaction. There was, therefore, no misjoinder of charges. The actual thief is not liable to be convicted of an offence under S. 215 in respect of the property which he himself stole. As the facts proved justified the conclusion that the accused were themselves the thieves, the convictions under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 380 were upheld and those under S. 215 set aside. Twet Pe alias Shan Gale v. Emperor.
7 Cr. L. J. 464 :
14 Bur. L. R. 67 : 4 L. B. R. 199.

———Ss. 215, 511—Attempt to commit offence
—Proposal to secure return of stolen property.

A mere proposal to be paid a sum of money in order to procure the restoration of stolen property is not an offence under S. 215, Penal Code, but is an attempt to commit that offence. Hargayan v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 127 :
76 I. C. 191 : 20 A. L. J. 927 :
45 All. 159 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 83.

———S. 216—Duty of prosecution—Harbouring proclaimed offender.

In a trial for an offence under S. 216, Penal Code, it is the duty of the prosecution to prove that the accused knew the proclaimed offender to be a person for whose apprehension an order had been made by competent authority. Harnam Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 415 :
84 I. C. 1055 : 6 L. L. J. 478 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 103.

———S. 216—'Harbour'. meaning of.

"Harbour" means the supplying a person with shelter, food, drink, money, clothes, arms, ammunition or means of conveyance or assisting a person in any way to avoid apprehension. Nga Lin v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1384 (2) :
158 I. C. 500 : 8 R. Rang. 173 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 294.

———S. 216—'Harbour', meaning of.

One M, after conviction for robbery, escaped from Jail and hid himself in the house of H in village A, where a proclamation for M's arrest was duly issued and published. The accused B was the resident of a neighbouring village T, but being a friend of M used to visit M frequently in the house of H: Held, that B had committed the offence of harbouring M under S. 216, Penal Code. The word "harbour" in S. 216 must be construed liberally. The person, at whose instance harbouring is effected, commits the offence, although the house in which the harboured person stays may belong to a different person. Emperor v. Bhujabali Akappa Gorwadi.

13 Cr. L. J. 701 :
13 I. C. 509 : 14 Bom. L. R. 583.

———S. 216—Harbouring offender—Warrant issued without jurisdiction—Absence of intention to prevent apprehension—Offence.

A conviction for harbouring or concealing an offender against apprehension under a warrant cannot be sustained where the officer issuing the warrant had no jurisdiction to issue it. In order that an offence under S. 216, Penal Code, should be committed, it is necessary that the person harbouring the offender must be harbouring him with the intention of preventing him from being apprehended. In re : Shripad G. Chandavarkar.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 317 :
108 I. C. 27 : 30 Bom. L. R. 70 :
52 Bom. 151 : I. L. T. 40 Bom. 116 :
A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 184.

———S. 216—Harbouring offender, what amounts to—False denial of presence of offender in accused's house and giving evasive answers—Offence.

Where, after the Police had informed the accused that a certain person who was in the accused's house was a proclaimed offender, the accused denied the fact that that person was in his house and gave prevaricating answers, with the object of enabling him to escape: Held, that the conduct of the accused amounted to an offence under S. 216, Penal Code. Vir Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 772 :
125 I. C. 178 : 11 L. L. J. 377 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 99.

———S. 216—Harbouring proclaimed offender—Giving warning, whether amounts to harbouring—Sentence.

A person who deliberately gives warning to a proclaimed offender of the approach of the Police with the intention to assist him to escape, is guilty of an offence under S. 216, Penal Code. An outlaw, especially in the North-West Frontier Province, is a menace and an enemy to the public at large, and any person who conspires to assist him must be held to be also an enemy of the public and should be severely dealt with. Akbar Ali v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 485 :
72 I. C. 949.

———S. 216—Knowledge—Harbouring proclaimed offender—Criminal Intelligence Gazette, publication in, whether sufficient notice—Offender adopting false name—Harbourer misdescribing offender as his relation.

In order to establish an offence under S. 216, Penal Code, it must be proved that a public servant in the exercise of his lawful authority ordered a certain person to be apprehended for an offence and that the person charged with harbouring him did so, knowing of such order with the intention of preventing his apprehension. Such knowledge cannot be presumed from the mere publication of the name of the offender in the Criminal Intelligence Gazette, nor can it be inferred from the offender's adopting a false name and the harbourer's misdescribing him as his relation. Bakwant Singh v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 349 :
23 I. C. 701 : 1 O. L. J. 30 :
A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 204.

———S. 216—Making sign of approach of Police, if offence—"Harbouring", meaning of.

The word "harbour" in S. 216, Penal Code, includes every kind of assistance rendered to a person to evade apprehension. Making a sign to a person on the approach of the

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Police to escape would fall within the purview of S. 216. Balkaran Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1288 :
89 I. C. 152 : 12 O. L. J. 270 :
2 O. W. N. 260 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 423.

—S. 216—Mere finding of absconder in a house of person, if amounts to offence—Issue of proclamation, before arrest, whether conclusive evidence of knowledge.

The mere fact that an absconder is found in the house of another person is not sufficient to involve the owner of the house in an offence under S. 216, Penal Code, unless all other elements of the offence are established. Among other things, it is the duty of the prosecution to prove the knowledge of the accused person as required by S. 216, and here, too, the fact that a proclamation had been made some time before the arrest is not conclusive evidence of the knowledge of the so-called offender. Moola v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 243 (a) :
179 I. C. 651 : 40 P. L. R. 934 :
11 R. L. 607 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 19.

—S. 216—Offence under, what constitutes—Harbouring.

Harbouring or concealing a person for whose apprehension an order has been passed by a public servant for the purpose of enforcing a punishment already inflicted on him for having committed an offence, is an offence under S. 216, Penal Code. Satanji Koer v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 95 :
5 I. C. 311 : 11 C. L. J. 109.

—S. 216—Offence under, what constitutes—Harbouring persons ordered to be apprehended for alleged offence—Harboured persons acquitted of offence—Harbourer, whether guilty under S. 216—Punishment.

To constitute an offence under S. 216, Penal Code, it is enough to show that against the person harboured orders for apprehension have been issued for an offence alleged against him and it is not necessary to show that the offence in respect of which orders of apprehension have been issued was actually committed by him. The purpose of the provision is to penalise acts designed to obstruct or defeat the course of justice which requires that suspected persons should be arrested whether they may prove eventually to be guilty or innocent. But the acquittal of the person harboured can be taken into account in awarding sentence. In re : Rangaswami Goundan.

30 Cr. L. J. 183 :
113 I. C. 545 : 1928 M. W. N. 588 :
55 M. L. J. 503 : 28 L. W. 403 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 145 : 52 Mad. 73 :
A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 1147.

—S. 216—Scope of—Offence under, when complete—“Harbour,” meaning of.

There is no time limit for the completion of an offence under S. 216, Penal Code, which is complete as soon as it is committed, and it is immaterial whether the evasion of apprehension of the offender lasts six hours or six years. The word “harbour” in S. 216, Penal Code, includes “the assisting of a person in any way to evade apprehension,” and is not confined to providing shelter, food and clothing. Emperor v. Sarwar Singh.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 659 :
73 I. C. 691 : 5 L. L. J. 329 :
A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 223.

—Ss. 216, 216-A—Giving meal to proclaimed offender, if offence—Dacoity, acquittal on charge of—Harbouring such persons, whether offence.

A conviction under S. 216-A, Penal Code, cannot stand for harbouring persons who have been acquitted of the charge of dacoity brought against them. The mere giving of a meal to a proclaimed offender is not an offence within the meaning of S. 216 of the Penal Code in the absence of any evidence to the effect that the intention of the accused was to prevent the offender from being apprehended. Hukam Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 410 :
84 I. C. 1050 : 6 L. L. J. 481 :
1 Lah. Cas. 326 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 289.

—S. 216-A—Applicability of.

To attract the penalty of S. 216-A, Penal Code, it is not enough that a person should be harbouring dacoits in general but the section renders it penal to harbour persons who intend to commit a particular dacoity. Emperor v. Sunderdas.

26 Cr. L. J. 1028 :
87 I. C. 916 : A. I. R. 1925 Sind 295.

—S. 216-A—Pony lent for removing loot, if offence—Harbouring dacoits.

The action of an accused who lends his pony to some dacoits in order to facilitate them in removing the property looted, does not amount to “harbouring” the dacoits within the meaning S. 216-A, Penal Code. Damri v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 151 :
83 I. C. 711 : 22 A. L. J. 496 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 676.

—S. 216-B—“Assisting in any way to evade apprehension,” meaning of—Harbouring offender.

Where the accused in answer to an enquiry of an Inspector of Police replied that his brother, who was charged under S. 411, Penal Code, was in the house and promised to produce him, but on going inside the house he returned after a delay of 15 minutes with his brother's son and said that he had made a mistake, as the son was in the house and not his brother, and subsequently on search being made by the Police, the brother was found hiding in the house : Held, that as by the methods he employed the accused did give time and opportunity to the offender to conceal himself or effect his escape, he was guilty under S. 216-B for giving material assistance to the offender in evading apprehension. Muchi Mian v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 731 :
40 I. C. 731 : 36 C. L. J. 141 :
21 C. W. N. 1062 : A. I. R. 1918 Cal. 826.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 216-B—False information to Police, whether harbouring.

A person giving false information to the Police with respect to a proclaimed offender or warning the latter of the approach of the Police so that he might make good his escape is guilty of the offence of harbouring. Tara Singh v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 563 : 94 I. C. 131 : 7 Lah. 30 : 27 P. L. R. 218 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 206.

———S. 216-B—Knowledge of whereabouts of offender, if amounts to harbouring.

Mere knowledge of the whereabouts of an offender does not amount to harbouring him. Jagadish Chandra Maity v. Emperor. 157 I. C. 1030 (1) : 39 C. W. N. 317 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 550.

———S. 216-B—Scope of—Mere knowledge of whereabouts of offender does not amount to harbouring.

“Harbour” includes the supplying a person with shelter, food, drink, money, clothes, arms, ammunition or means of conveyance or assisting a person in any way to evade apprehension. Mere knowledge of the whereabouts of an offender does not amount to harbouring him. Where a father who was asked to produce his son who was charged with a offence and was absconding, produced him when the police demanded him : Held, that he was not guilty under S. 216-B merely from this fact. Jagadish Chandra Maity v. Emperor. 157 I. C. 1030 (1) : 39 C. W. N. 317 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 550.

———S. 217 — Conviction under, when illegal—Illiterate Police Patel—Tearing up panchnama after being told by complainants that they had no desire to continue proceedings—Police Patel guilty of no offence.

The applicant, an old and illiterate Police Patel, on receiving a complaint of the offence of rape, made some investigation and prepared a panchnama of the scene and arrested the two persons against whom the accusation was laid. He sent them with a report to the Police Station, but on the way the parties, presumably to save the girl's reputation, came to a settlement and all returned to the village. The relatives of the girl, who were responsible for lodging the proceedings informed the Patel that they had no desire to continue them and the Patel thereupon tore up the panchnama which he had made : Held, that under the circumstances, the Patel could not be convicted under S. 217, Penal Code. Narainbhai Bhulabhai v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 441 : 20 I. C. 601 : 15 Bom. L. R. 578.

———S. 217—Offence under, if committed—Police Officer retaining property found in search for theft—Property not part of stolen property—Offence—Cr. P. C., S. 523—Failure to report.

A Police constable, who retained for himself a piece of gold found in a search for stolen property but not proved to be part of the stolen property and failed to report his possession to his superior officers under S. 523,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Cr. P. C., is guilty of an offence under S. 217, Penal Code. In re : B. Dasappa.

16 Cr. L. J. 453 : 29 I. C. 85.

———S. 217—Reasonable influence.

For a conviction under Ss. 217 and 218, Penal Code, it is not necessary to establish that an offence has actually been committed. It would be sufficient if the circumstances are such that a reasonable inference can be drawn therefrom that the accused had a knowledge that he was likely by his act to save a person from legal punishment. Emperor v. Mathura Nath De. 33 Cr. L. J. 657 : 139 I. C. 89 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 561 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 850.

———S. 218.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 198.

———S. 218—Conviction under, illegality of—Document.

In a revenue suit brought by a tenant against the zemindar for commutation of rent, the Patwari was examined as a witness and the Revenue Court, to avoid taking down a statement from him in detail, directed the Patwari to prepare a written statement ‘fard’ according to his papers and to file it, and the Patwari did so. The Patwari was subsequently charged under S. 218, Penal Code, on the ground that the statement prepared by him was incorrect to his knowledge : Held, that the Patwari could not be prosecuted under S. 218, Penal Code, inasmuch as the statement prepared by him was not a document which it was his duty to prepare. Mcharban Ali Khan v. Sita Ram. 30 Cr. L. J. 874 : 118 I. C. 232 : 1929 A. L. J. 512 : I. R. 1929 All. 824 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 374.

———S. 218—False entry by Patwari.

False entry in khasra made by Patwari—Loss caused to a person—Criminal intention—Offence under S. 218, if committed by Patwari. Chandrabhan Lal v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 131 : 159 I. C. 531 : 1935 A. W. R. 1066 : 1935 A. L. J. 1083 : 8 R. A. 463 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 968.

———S. 218 — False report by Police Officer—Offence.

A Police Officer who makes a false report to a Magistrate accusing a person of an offence knowing it to be incorrect and with intent to cause injury to that person, is guilty of an offence under S. 218, Penal Code. The word ‘charged’ in the said section is not restricted to the narrow meaning of enjoined by a special provision of the law. Nathu Mal v. Abdul Haq. 31 Cr. L. J. 584 : 123 I. C. 841 : 12 L. L. J. 5 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 159.

———S. 218—Intentionally framing incorrect record by Public servant—Subsequent conduct—Bona fides of the entry.

Where a Police Inspector was charged with framing an incorrect record in that he entered in his diary that certain cartmen told him that

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

"they were not beaten by dacoits," while, in fact, they had told him that they were beaten by dacoits, it was held that this of itself would not be sufficient to sustain a conviction under S. 218, I. P. C., but where, without endeavouring to inquire into the truth of the said entry in his diary he destroyed certain records which falsified it and substituted fresh note books, his bona fides were open to question and he must be deemed to have framed an incorrect public record intentionally. Ramaswami Iyenger v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 455 : 11 I. C. 799 : 1911, 2 M. W. N. 44.

-----S. 218—Preparing false record to screen offender—Guilt of offender, whether material.

For the purposes of a charge under S. 218, Penal Code, the actual guilt or otherwise of the alleged offender is immaterial. Where it is proved that the commission of a cognizable offence was brought to the notice of an officer-in-charge of a Police Station officially and that in order to screen the offender he prepared the record in a manner which he knew to be incorrect, he is guilty of an offence under S. 218, irrespective of the fact whether the alleged offenders were or were not guilty. Moti Ram v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 837 : 86 I. C. 661 : 7 L. L. J. 331 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 461.

-----S. 218—'Record', what is—Pay-sheets drawn up in Railway Offices, whether a "record."

A pay-sheet drawn up in a Railway Office and setting out certain sums as due by the Railway to certain coolies described as working in a special gang, is a record within the meaning of S. 218. Kesri Mal v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 502 : 24 I. C. 590 : 1 O. L. J. 200 : A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 361.

-----S. 218—Scope of.

S. 218, Penal Code, is much wider and embraces cases other than those in which a principal offender is screened. The gist of the section is the stifling of truth and the perversion of the course of justice in cases where an offence has been committed. It is not necessary even to prove the intention to screen any particular person. It is sufficient that the accused knows it to be likely that justice will not be executed and that some one will escape punishment for the offence. Anverkhan Mahamadkhan v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 609 : 63 I. C. 145 : 23 Bom. L. R. 823 : A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 115.

-----S. 219.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 218.

-----S. 219—'Maliciously', meaning of—Munsif pronouncing decree, knowing he has no jurisdiction—Offence.

The word 'maliciously' in S. 219, Penal Code, means and implies an intention to do an act which is wrongful to the detriment of another, and any person who wilfully does an act injurious to another without lawful excuse does it maliciously. A Village Munsif heard and pronounced a decree in a suit which he knew he had no jurisdiction to entertain; Held, that he had acted maliciously and was guilty of the offence described in S. 219, Penal Code. Peary Lal v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 527 : 39 I. C. 495 : 15 A. L. J. 106 : A. I. R. 1917 All. 317.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 219—Offence under, essentials of.

The essence of the offence under S. 219 is (1) that there must be a judicial proceeding, that is, a proceeding actually commenced and pending wherein a party claims relief against another and invites the decision of the Court in regard thereto and not a fictitious one where there is no party litigating, and (2) that there must be the making of a real report or a real pronouncement of an order, verdict or decision. Where there is no judicial proceeding at all, everything being a make-believe, there is no making of a report nor a pronouncement of an order, verdict or decision except the making of an entry of such a pronouncement having been made when in fact it was not so made. The accused, a Village Munsif, charged with preparation of the register of suits filed in his Court and framing it in such a manner which he knew to be incorrect, i. e., making it appear that a certain suit has been filed, cannot be convicted under S. 219, Penal Code, but under S. 218. In re : Narapareddi Seshareddi. 39 Cr. L. J. 875 : 177 I. C. 489 : 47 L. W. 542 : 1938 M. W. N. 345 : 1938, 1 M. L. J. 867 : 11 R. M. 327 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 595.

-----S. 220.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 193.

-----Ss. 220, 343—Illegal confinement.

If a person having authority to commit persons to confinement, commits to confinement a person for making a false statement, and then refuses to grant bail, his refusal, coupled with corrupt motives, would in itself constitute an offence under S. 220 as also under S. 343. Emperor v. Daya Shankar Jesukhram. 1 Cr. L. J. 146.

-----S. 221.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 54.

-----S. 221—Intentionally allowing escape—Offence—Murder committed in presence of public servants—Murderer allowed to escape—Offence—Motive.

Where the applicants were legally bound to arrest a man who had committed murder in their presence and they omitted to apprehend him and did it intentionally, and there was nothing involuntary about it, they are legally guilty of an offence under S. 221, Penal Code. Their motive may not have been that they wanted the man to escape, but that they were afraid of getting hurt, but motive must always be distinguished from intention. Ram Lal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

37 Cr. L. J. 1019,
164 I. C. 702 : 1936 A. L. J. 1006 :
9 R. A. 183 : 1936 A. W. R. 819 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 651.

———S. 222—Intentionally aiding prisoners to escape—Offence—Acts of prisoner amounting to preparation and not attempt, effect of.

A person who does certain acts in order to facilitate the attempt of a prisoner to escape and thereby does facilitate an attempt to escape, is guilty of an offence under S. 222, Penal Code, and it makes no difference that the acts proved on the part of the prisoner do not amount to an attempt to escape but constitute only a preparation to escape or that the attempt was in fact frustrated by other circumstances. Maula Bakhsh v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1103 :
120 I. C. 188 : I. R. 1930 Lah. 28 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 607.

———Ss. 222, 223—Public servant of British India, who is.

A public servant in British India is not a public servant with reference to Mysore Territory. Where certain Police constables of British India allowed a prisoner in their custody to escape, and such escape took place in Mysore Territory : Held, that they could not be convicted of an offence under Ss. 222, 223, Penal Code, such constables not being public servants of the Mysore State. The facts of the case are that the accused and another constable of the Kollegal Police while escorting two prisoners from Kollegal to the Central Jail at Coimbatore allowed one of the prisoners to escape in the Mysore Territory near the 21st mile from Kollegal. They were tried and convicted by the 1st Class Magistrate of French Rocks for an offence under Ss. 222 and 223, Penal Code. In the matter of : Sundra Rajoo.

9 Cr. L. J. 431 :
12 M. C. C. R. 254.

———S. 223—Conviction, illegality of—Escape from lawful custody—Chaukidar.

The Police of an adjoining Native State arrested in British territory one Ban Singh suspected of having committed an offence in the Native State, and made him over to one Debi, a chaukidar, from whose custody he escaped : Held, that neither the original arrest nor the subsequent custody by the chaukidar were lawful, and therefore, that the chaukidar could not properly be convicted under S. 223, Penal Code. Emperor v. Debi.

5 Cr. L. J. 277 :
27 A. W. N. 94 : I. L. R. 29 All. 377.

———S. 223—Offence, essentials of—Escape of prisoner—Negligence—Natural and probable consequence of negligence.

A, a Police Officer in charge of a Thana, left the Thana having left orders to the writer head constable to make arrangements for the escort of certain prisoners. The head constable made arrangements and sent the prisoners off. From the custody of the escorts the prisoners escaped : Held, the escape of the prisoners was not the natural and probable consequence of A's negligence and he could not be convicted under S. 223, Penal Code. Durga Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 478 :
7 I. C. 411 : 7 A. L. J. 907.

———S. 223—Offence under, essentials of—Jail warder negligently allowing prisoner to escape—Offence.

Before a person can be convicted under S. 223, Penal Code, it must be shown not only that he was guilty of negligence, but that the escape was at least the natural and probable consequence of his negligence. Accused, a jail warder, was placed in charge of a gang of prisoners and sent off to do agricultural work. Contrary to his orders, he permitted a convict warden to take two of the convicts to the cemetery to water the trees there. The cemetery was at some distance and not within sight, nor did the accused attempt to patrol in that direction. Owing to the negligence of the convict warder, one of the convicts escaped : Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 223, Penal Code. Ahsan Ali v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 350 :
50 I. C. 830 : 11 P. R. 1919 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 229.

———S. 223—Proof of negligence.

Where a jail warder was charged under S. 223, Penal Code, that he, being a public servant, charged with the duty of keeping in confinement certain prisoners who were under trial, negligently suffered these prisoners to escape from confinement : Held, that under the provisions of S. 223, Penal Code, it must be shown that there was negligence on the part of the accused and that the escape of the prisoners was the consequence of this negligence : Held, also, that taking all the circumstances into account and in view of unsatisfactory state of the evidence, which was utterly insufficient to decide whether the warder was in fact negligent in the performance of his duties, he could not be convicted. Rur Singh v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 918 :
164 I. C. 265 : 9 R. C. 184 :
40 C. W. N. 61.

———S. 223—Scope of—Negligently suffering prisoner to escape—Marching prisoner after sunset contrary to the orders of Magistrate.

Where the only fact found against an accused charged under S. 223, Penal Code, was that he marched a prisoner after sunset, contrary to the directions of the Magistrate, and the prisoner escaped : Held, that no offence under S. 223, Penal Code, was made out. The District Magistrate of Nellore.

10 Cr. L. J. 293 :
5 I. C. 460 : 6 M. L. T. 247.

———S. 223—Scope of—Negligently suffering prisoner to escape.

Two policemen were conveying a prisoner from one place to another in a camel cart. The prisoner was secured by two pairs of handcuffs and a rope round the waist. He wanted to be let down from the cart to answer the call of nature, and thereupon one set of handcuffs was removed and he was let down. He suddenly raised an alarm of snake and in the confusion jerked at the waist rope and ran away: Held, that the policemen were not guilty of negligently suffering the prisoner to escape within the meaning of S. 223, Penal Code. Girdhari v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 78 :
43 I. C. 110 : 15 A. L. J. 883 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 282.

—S. 224.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 56, 59.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 147.

—S. 224—Duty of Appellate Magistrate—Appeal from conviction for offence under—Appellant pleading illegality of confinement in stocks owing to his respectability.

Where in an appeal from a conviction for an offence under S. 224, Penal Code, the appellant pleads illegality of the confinement in stocks on account of his respectability, the Appellate Magistrate should deal with that point before disposing of the appeal. In re : Uppala Kolayya Nagaram.

16 Cr. L. J. 672 :
30 I. C. 656 : 18 M. L. T. 310 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 686.

—S. 224—Escape from custody—Acquittal of accused—Conviction for escape from custody, legality of.

An accused person legally arrested for an offence must submit to be tried and dealt with according to law, and if he gains his liberty before he is delivered by due course of law, he commits the offence of escaping from lawful custody under S. 224, Penal Code. It would be an offence for a man to escape from custody after he has been lawfully arrested on a charge of having committed an offence although he may not have been subsequently convicted of such latter offence. Kalia Amra v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 380 :
100 I. C. 988 : 29 Bom. L. R. 168 :
A. I. R. 1927 Bom. 96.

—S. 224—Escape from custody—Arrest of judgment-debtor—Judgment-debtor allowed to go by decree-holder and process-server.

Where a person arrested in execution of a civil process was allowed to go by the decree-holder and the process-server who had arrested him: Held, that there was no offence of escape from lawful custody committed by the person who was arrested. In re : Public Prosecutor.

11 Cr. L. J. 477 :
7 I. C. 392 : 8 M. L. T. 286 :
1910 M. W. N. 592.

—S. 224—Escape from custody—Escape of a person merely accused but not convicted of an offence.

The accused was detained in custody on account of having been accused of an offence, but before the conclusion of the trial he escaped from custody: Held, that he was guilty of an offence under S. 224, I. P. C., though he had not been convicted of any offence at the time of escaping. In re : Sidda Basavaiya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

7 Cr. L. J. 179 :
12 M. C. C. R. 50.

—S. 224—Escape from custody, when no offence.

Where it is not proved that a proclamation had been issued in respect of an accused wanted under S. 186, his arrest without warrant, is illegal, and the accused commits no offence if he escapes from the custody of the constable who arrests him. Raghuni Prasad Mahto v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 318 :
160 I. C. 604 : 2 B. R. 227 :
17 P. L. T. 81 : 8 R. P. 370 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 249.

—S. 224—Escape from lawful custody—Trial for escape from lawful custody in which accused is lawfully detained for an offence with which he is charged, or of which he has been convicted—The question whether accused is guilty of the offence in respect of which he is detained—Whether such question is material in such trial.

The Magistrate acquitted the accused of escaping from lawful custody, for the reason that, as the theft for which he had been arrested was not proved, there could be no offence under S. 224 of the Penal Code: Held, that the Magistrate's reason was not sound; that the question whether the accused was guilty of the offence of theft was immaterial, and that the facts to be proved were that he was charged with an offence, thus he was lawfully detained in custody for that offence, and that he escaped from that custody that: on the evidence the arrest and the custody were lawful. Emperor v. Po Hla.

4 Cr. L. J. 389 :
12 Bur. L. R. 246 : 3 L. B. R. 221.

—S. 224—Escape from lawful custody—Accused arrested by private person—Accused made over to chowkidar—Chowkidar, whether Police officer—Chowkidar's custody, whether lawful, Cr. P. C., S. 59.

One A was arrested by a private person within the terms of S. 59, Cr. P. C., and made over to a chowkidar to be taken to the Police Station. A escaped from the custody of the chowkidar with the aid of some other persons: Held, that the custody of the chowkidar was not lawful as he was not a Police Officer within the terms of S. 59, Cr. P. C., and that, therefore, the escape was no offence. Purna Chandra Kundu v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 494 :
20 I. C. 750 : 41 Cal. 17 : 17 C. W. N. 978.

—S. 224—Person rescued, liability of—Arrest by chowkidar on suspicion—Rescue—Causing hurt to public servant in discharge of duty—Common intention—U. P. Town Areas Act (II of 1914), S. 41.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Chaukidars are no longer appointed under S. 52, Act XX of 1850, as that section has been repealed by S. 41, United Provinces Town Areas Act. They are not members of the Police Force and have no authority to arrest on mere suspicion. Therefore, it is no offence to rescue from their custody a person arrested by them on suspicion. A person rescued from arrest cannot be said to have been acting in pursuance of a common intention with his rescuers, where there is nothing to show that before his arrest he had any apprehension of being arrested or had made any pre-arrangement for his rescue. Jafar v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 529 :
36 I. C. 577 : 14 A. L. J. 789 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 253.

—S. 224—Scope of—Cr. P. C., S. 75—Warrant signed by Magistrate not being presiding officer, validity of—Arrest—Escape—Offence.

A warrant signed by a Magistrate, not being the presiding officer of the Court within the meaning of S. 75, Cr. P. C., is invalid, and a person arrested on such a warrant commits no offence in escaping from the custody of the constable who has arrested him. Jagpat Kori v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 526 :
39 I. C. 494 : 1 P. L. W. 306 :
2 P. L. J. 487 : 1918 Pat. 48 :
A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 17.

—S. 224—Scope of—State subject—“Detention,” contemplated by—Arrest.

The detention contemplated by S. 224, I. P. C., should necessarily be for any of the offences mentioned in the I. P. C., or under any local or special law applicable to British India. A State subject who is arrested within the boundaries of a State by the State Police for any offence committed in that State, cannot be proceeded against under S. 224, I. P. C., if he escapes from the custody of the State Police when he is within the British territory even if that State has adopted the I. P. C. Billu v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 378 :
186 I. C. 795 : I. L. R. 1940 Lah. 570 :
12 R. L. 432 : A. I. R. 1940 Lah. 44.

—S. 224—Sentence under.

Sentence under S. 224 need not run consecutively with sentence for main offence. Emperor v. Chokhu Yesu.

36 Cr. L. J. 282 (1) :
153 I. C. 34 : 36 Bom. L. R. 963 :
7 R. B. 211 : A. I. R. 1934 Bom. 462 (1).

—S. 224—What constitutes offence.

Mere running away of a person whom an official of Civil Court tries to arrest under Civil Court warrant, does not amount to obstructing public servant under S. 224. Peeru Muhammad Lebbai v. Swaminatha Pillai.

17 Cr. L. J. 71 :
32 I. C. 663 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 182.

—S. 224.

Running away to avoid arrest under warrant

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

of Civil Court—Offence. Peeru Muhammad Lebbai v. Swaminatha Pillai. 17 Cr. L. J. 71 :
32 I. C. 663 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 182.

—Ss. 224 and 225—Duty of prosecution.

For a conviction under Ss. 224 and 225, it is essential that the prosecution should show that the apprehension or arrest made or attempted was lawful in every way. Kartik Chandra Maity v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 706 :
138 I. C. 844 : 13 P. L. T. 135 :
I. R. 1932 Pat. 190 : A. I. R. 1932 Pat. 171.

—Ss. 224, 225—Escape from custody—Obstructing apprehension—Opium Act (I of 1878), Ss. 9, 15—Arrest by Excise Officer of a person selling a black substance alleging it to be opium, if legal.

An Excise Officer acting under S. 15, Opium Act has lawful authority to arrest a person who sells a black substance (not opium), alleging it to be opium, though its possession is not an offence under S. 9 of the Act. Consequently the escape of such a person as well as his rescue from the custody of the Excise Officers are offences under Ss. 224 and 225, Penal Code, respectively. Mohammad Kazi v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 379 :
35 I. C. 811 : 20 C. W. N. 1294 :
43 Cal. 1161 : A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 426.

—Ss. 224, 225-B—Escape from Police custody—Cr. P. C., S. 109—Proceedings under S. 109—Escape from Police custody—Offence.

A person escaping from Police custody while proceedings under S. 109, Cr. P. C., have been taken against him commits an offence under S. 225-B and not S. 224, Penal Code. Emperor v. Khanu Kori. 25 Cr. L. J. 462 :
77 I. C. 814 : A. I. R. 1925 Sind 193.

—Ss. 224, 225, 353—Scope of—Sub-Inspector—Direction by, to constable for arrest—Use of force—Person resenting it—Scuffle following—Person resenting cannot be convicted under S. 224, nor can persons assisting him be convicted under Ss. 225 and 353.

Where a Police Sub-Inspector who is not present on the scene asks the constables to bring certain persons with some papers to the Police Station, his order does not amount to a direction to arrest those persons, as contemplated by S. 50, Cr. P. C., unless the order is given in writing. If in such a case the constables try to take one of the persons to the thana by force, the use of the force is illegal and if such person resents it and it is followed by a scuffle, in the course of which, brickbats are thrown, the person resenting cannot be convicted under S. 224, I. P. C., nor can the persons assisting him be convicted under Ss. 225 and 353, I. P. C. Gulabi Mahto v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 742 :
189 I. C. 539 : 21 P. L. T. 144 :
6 B. R. 835 : 13 R. P. 125 :
A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 361.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 224, 226—Escape from jail—Prisoner under sentence of transportation—Confinement in jail before actual transportation—Return from transportation.

A prisoner under a sentence of transportation, who escapes from a jail where he is confined before he is actually transported beyond the seas, cannot be convicted under S. 226, Penal Code. His escape is not "a return from transportation." Nga Po Ghein v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 54 : 13 I. C. 390 : 4 Bur. L. T. 261.

—Ss. 224, 323—Escape from wrong arrest, if offence—Assaulting Police constable—Accused not in lawful custody—Private defence, right of.

Where a person assaulted a constable who had wrongly arrested him, in order to effect his escape and it did not appear that the constable was acting in good faith under colour of his office: Held, that the constable was guilty of wrongful confinement and as against him the accused was entitled to the right of private defence. Ram Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 428 : 85 I. C. 44 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 34.

—Ss. 224, 323, 353—Defective warrant, effect of—Escape from lawful custody—Arrest, legality of—Hurt caused to constable in rescuing person from custody—Offence.

One L was arrested by a constable under a warrant, which was not signed by the Magistrate issuing it and which was made over to the thana Officer on an order purporting to have been made by the District Superintendent of Police but not signed by anybody. L was rescued by the other accused, who caused unnecessary hurt to the constable in effecting the rescue: Held, (1) that the warrant was defective and that the constable having purported throughout to act under the warrant, the arrest of L was illegal and that the latter was not, therefore, guilty of any offence in effecting his escape: (2) that the persons who effected L's rescue were guilty of an offence under S. 323, Penal Code. Mousi Lal v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 1000 : 48 I. C. 340 : 1918 Pat. 285 : 5 P. L. W. 226. A. I. R. 1918 Pat 252.

—S. 225.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 59, 224, 225.

—S. 225—Arrest by private person, legality of—Cr. P. C., S. 59—Obstruction to lawful apprehension—Arrest by private person.

S. 59 of the Cr. P. C. empowers a private person to arrest any person who, in his view, commits a non-bailable and cognizable offence. A private person who attempts to arrest a person who has not committed a cognizable offence in his view is not entitled to the protection of that section or S. 235, Penal Code. A person who offers resistance or obstruction to the arrest by a private person of another person, who is escaping after the commission of a non-bailable and cognizable offence but who did not commit the offence in view of the person attempting to arrest him, cannot be held to have committed an offence under S. 225, Penal Code. Alawal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

23 Cr. L. J. 3 : 64 I. C. 371 : 4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 21 : 19 P. L. R. 1922 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 73.

—S. 225—Conviction under—Cr. P. C., S. 56—Arrest under written order—Rescue from lawful custody—Assault on Police Officer—Offence.

A constable arrested a person in pursuance of a written order made by a Sub-Inspector under S. 56, Cr. P. C. The accused hustled the constable, pushed him aside and thus rescued the person who had been arrested: Held, that the accused were guilty of offences under S. 353 read with S. 225, Penal Code. Emperor v. Janki Prasad. 22 Cr. L. J. 210 : 60 I. C. 322 : 19 A. L. J. 196 : 43 All. 283 : A. I. R. 1921 All. 202.

—S. 225—Intention.

A conviction under S. 225, Penal Code, cannot be sustained in the absence of a clear finding as to the intention with which the accused person or persons acted. The intention of the accused is an important ingredient in the offence under that section. Alawal v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 3 : 64 I. C. 371 : 19 P. L. R. 1922 : 4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 21 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 73.

—S. 225—Obstruction, what amounts to—Merely threatening officer attempting to arrest, whether amounts to obstruction—Sentence.

Threatening a Sub-Inspector of Excise in order to prevent him from arresting an offender amounts to offering resistance and illegal obstruction to arrest within S. 225 of the Penal Code. The obstruction offered does not, however, constitute a serious offence in such a case and does not deserve a heavy punishment. Bechu Mian v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 465 : 123 I. C. 68 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 344.

—S. 225—Rescue of person arrested under legal warrant—Civil warrant not addressed to bailiff by name.

A civil warrant not addressed to a particular bailiff by name but addressed "to the bailiff of the Court" is not invalid; therefore, the rescuer of a person arrested under such a warrant is guilty of an offence under S. 225, Penal Code. In re : Abdul Rahiman Sahib. 15 Cr. L. J. 439 : 24 I. C. 175 : 1 L. W. 500 : A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 55.

—S. 225—Resistance to unlawful attempt of arrest—Police Officer sending private persons to make arrest—Resistance to such arrest not punishable.

The Cr. P. C. confers no power on a Police Officer to send persons; who are not Police Officers, to make an arrest which he himself could lawfully make. No offence under S. 225, Penal Code, can be committed where the attempt to arrest is not lawful. Therefore, where a ten-house gaung sent villagers to arrest certain persons suspected of theft and the accused offered resistance to the arrest: Held, that the accused were not guilty of an offence under S. 225, Penal Code. Emperor v. Tail: Pyn. 10 Cr. L. J. 118 : 2 I. C. 619 : 5 L. B. R. 21.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 225—Scope of—Thief, custody of, by chowkidar—Rescue—Offence—Chowkidar, if Police Officer.

A person rescuing a thief, kept in custody by a chowkidar in Bengal, does not commit an offence under S. 225, Penal Code. Dirajaddi v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 164 : 33 I. C. 644 : A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 247.

—S. 225-A—Negligence—Allowing escape from such arrest—Offence—Leaving open door of room in which prisoner is confined—Negligence.

Where a Police Officer who was entrusted with the custody of an arrested person omitted to secure one of the doors of the room in which that person was confined and the prisoner escaped through that door: Held, that the officer was clearly guilty of negligence and committed an offence under S. 225-A, Penal Code. Ramnandan Singh v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 717 : 124 I. C. 638 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 103.

—S. 225-A—Offence under—When constituted.

One N was arrested by a headman on a charge of cattle-theft and made over to the accused villagers, to be taken to the Police Station. On the way, owing to the negligence of the accused, N escaped: Held, that the accused could not be convicted under S. 225 (A), Penal Code, inasmuch as they were not public servants. Nga Paw E v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 351 : 38 I. C. 735 : 10 Bur. L. T. 170 : 2 U. B. R. 1916, 122 : A. I. R. 1917 U. Bur. 8.

—S. 225-B.

—Arrest.

—Attempts to rescue deserter from Army.

—Breaking arrest under illegal warrant.

—Conviction under.

—Duty of prosecution.

—Escape.

—Illegal obstruction to arrest.

—Lawful custody.

—Offence under.

—Proper person to make complaint under.

—Rescue.

—Resistance.

—Right of person to be arrested.

—Scope of.

—S. 225-B—'Arrest', meaning of—Arrest, how effected.

An arrest is a restraint of the liberty of the person, and unless there is submission, actual contact is necessary to effect it. There must be touch or confinement or else acquiescence. Mere words cannot constitute an arrest. Aludomal v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 87 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 I. C. 679 : 9 S. L. R. 141 :

A. I. R. 1916 Sind 19.

—S. 225-B—'Arrest', what constitutes—Arrest by oral declaration and not by touch, whether legal—Cr. P. C., S. 46 (1).

There can be no arrest within the meaning of S. 46 (1), Cr. P. C., unless the person to be arrested is actually touched by the process-server. An arrest by mere oral declaration is not legal and there can be no conviction under S. 225-B, Penal Code, of a person which is so arrested. Harmohanlal v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 128 :

113 I. C. 288 : 11 N. L. J. 259 :

I. R. 1929 Nag. 26.

—S. 225-B—Attempts to rescue deserter from Army—Rescuing from Police custody—Power of Police Officer to arrest deserter without warrant.

A person who intentionally resists or illegally obstructs a Police Officer in the apprehension of a deserter from His Majesty's Army or rescues or attempts to rescue him from the custody of such officer, is guilty of an offence punishable under S. 225-B, Penal Code. A Police Officer has the power of arresting without warrant a deserter from His Majesty's Army. Emperor v. Rahim Ali. 13 Cr. L. J. 234 :

14 I. C. 426 : 20 P. R. 1911 Cr.

—S. 225-B—Breaking of arrest under illegal warrant—Offence, if committed.

A warrant of arrest issued under the provisions of the C. P. Tenancy Act, not bearing the seal of the Court has no force and the arrest under it is illegal and in breaking arrest the person does not commit any offence and his conviction under S. 225-B is illegal. Bhullihan v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 118 :

172 I. C. 335 : 10 R. N. 196 (1) :

20 N. L. J. 219 : A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 45.

—S. 225-B—Conviction under—Offence under section committed when a prisoner escapes while the peon having custody of him is asleep.

A man legally arrested for an offence must submit to be tried and dealt with according to law. A prisoner who escapes, after he is arrested and before he is delivered by due course of law, owing to the neglect or consent of the person having him in custody, is guilty of an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code. The Public Prosecutor v. Ramaswami Konan. 8 Cr. L. J. 200 :

31 Mad. 271 : 18 M. L. J. 540.

—S. 225-B—Conviction under, when legal—Cr. P. C., S. 123—Failure to furnish security for good behaviour—Imprisonment—Escape from jail—Offence.

A person who escapes from a jail in which he is confined under a warrant under S. 123, Cr. P. C., by reason of his having failed to find security to be of good behaviour should be convicted under S. 225-B, Penal Code, and not under S. 224. Mooli v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 831 (a) :
58 I. C. 831 : 18 A. L. J. 1039 :
2 U. P. L. R. All. 401 :
A. I. R. 1921 All. 281.

———S. 225-B—Duty of prosecution.

Where a constable arrests a man and tells him expressly that he is doing so under a particular authority which he claims to have to arrest him, and if such arrest is resisted, it will be for the prosecution afterwards to establish that the constable who arrested the man had power to act under the authority that he claimed to have. It is not sufficient for the prosecution afterwards to say that the constable had authority under some other provision of law. In re : Appaswamy Mudaly.

25 Cr. L. J. 563 :
81 I. C. 51 : 46 M. L. J. 447 :
19 L. W. 504 : 34 M. L. T. 95 :
47 Mad. 442 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 555.

———S. 225-B—Escape from arrest.

In pursuance of the orders of the High Court, the District Munsif passed a general order that all warrants of arrest issued by Munsif's Court should be signed by the head clerk: Held, that the delegation was formerly made by "the Court" and not personally by the District Munsif who passed the general order in this behalf. Similarly the delegation was made to the head clerk and not to the particular head clerk. Consequently the issue of a warrant by the head clerk of the successor of the District Munsif who issued the general order was not illegal and escaping from the arrest effected under such warrant was an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code. Public Prosecutor v. Abdul Rajak.

39 Cr. L. J. 685 :
176 I. C. 138 : 1938 M. W. N. 316 :
1938, 1 M. L. J. 667 :
47 L. W. 536 : 11 R. M. 31 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 536.

———S. 225-B—Escape from custody—Rules of Board of Revenue relating to recovery of land revenue, r. 9, Cl. 2.

Although, as laid down by the rules of Board of Revenue, a process for recovery of the arrears of land revenue should 'ordinarily' issue against the lambardar in the first instance, yet there may be occasions when it is expedient to issue process in the first instance against the defaulter himself. Therefore, if the Collector chooses to proceed against the defaulter direct and order the arrest and detention of the defaulter, the arrest is legal and escape from custody is an offence punishable under S. 225-B, Penal Code. Emperor v. Gulab Singh.

11 Cr. L. J. 137 :
5 I. C. 449 : 7 A. L. J. 21.

———S. 225-B—Escape from lawful custody:

Judgment-debtor in custody of process-server on his payment of detention batta for two days—Judgment-debtor escaping but appearing in Court on third day—Act held constituted escape from lawful custody, though there was no order in writing for detention—Offence held technical one. In re : Nellore Auditor-narayana Reddi.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 284 :
142 I. C. 242 (1) : 1932 M. W. N. 1222 :
I. R. 1933 Mad. 206 (2) :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 278.

———S. 225-B—Escape from unlawful custody—Cr. P. C., -S. 110—Security proceedings—Arrest without warrant, legality of.

A Police Officer has no authority to arrest without a warrant a person against whom proceedings have been instituted under S. 110, Cr. P. C. Where such a person is arrested by the Police without a warrant and escapes from the custody of the Police, he is not guilty of an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code, inasmuch as the arrest was illegal. Kala v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1360 :
82 I. C. 400 : 1 Lah. Cas. 51 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 623.

———S. 225-B—Illegal obstruction to arrest—Arrest without showing warrant—Offence.

Where a person forcibly resists or attempts to evade arrest and Police Officer arrests him without showing warrant acting under S. 46, Cr. P. C., intentional resistance or illegal obstruction to arrest in such a case is punishable under S. 225-B even if S. 80, Cr. P. C., has not been complied with. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Darbesh Ali.

30 Cr. L. J. 703 :
116 I. C. 723 : 49 C. L. J. 264 :
33 C. W. N. 284 : 56 Cal. 831 :
I. R. 1929 Cal. 499 :
A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 174.

———S. 225-B—Lawful custody, necessity of—Escape from custody.

A person cannot be convicted under S. 225-B, Penal Code, of escape or attempt to escape, unless the custody in which he was detained was lawful. Emperor v. Ramara.

7 Cr. L. J. 74 :
4 L. B. R. 103.

———S. 225-B—Lawful custody.

S. 225-B, Penal Code, requires that the custody from which a man tries to escape must be a lawful custody; he must have been lawfully arrested and detained; then only he is liable to conviction under the section. In re : Appaswamy Mudaly.

25 Cr. L. J. 563 :
81 I. C. 51 : 46 M. L. J. 447 :
19 L. W. 504 : 34 M. L. T. 95 :
47 Mad. 442 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 555.

———S. 225-B—Lawful custody, what is—Civil Court, power of, to commit judgment-debtor to custody of peon—Custody, whether lawful—Escape from custody—Prosecution—Procedure.

Where a Civil Court is desirous of prosecuting a person who has escaped from the lawful custody of a servant of the Court, the latter must file a complaint in the ordinary way. A Civil Court is not empowered to leave the judgment-debtor in the custody of a peon after giving him time to pay the decretal amount. Where, however, this is done, the detention of the judgment-debtor does not amount to lawful custody within the meaning of S. 225-B, Penal Code. Emperor v. Madho Singh.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 865 :
86 I. C. 801 : 23 A. L. J. 189 :
47 All. 409 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 318.

—S. 225-B—Offence under—Resistance or obstruction to arrest—Overt acts, if necessary.

Where a person ran into his house to avoid his arrest in execution of a Civil Court's warrant : Held, that his mere running away into his house did not amount to intentional resistance or illegal obstruction within the meaning of S. 225-B : Held, further, that there must be some overt act of resistance or obstruction to justify a conviction under S. 225-B, Penal Code. Emperor v. Gajadhar.

11 Cr. L. J. 71 :
8 I. C. 823 : 7 A. L. J. 1174.

—S. 225-B—Proper person to make complaint under.

In cases under S. 225-B the proper person to make the complaint is the officer from whom the escape or rescue has been effected, but a complaint by another person aware of the facts is not a nullity. Mehr Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 86 :
146 I. C. 387 : 34 P. L. R. 1020 :
6 R. L. 222 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 884.

—S. 225-B—Rescue from arrest on civil warrant—Surrender next day—Offence, if complete.

Where a person is arrested on a civil warrant and while in the custody of the peon, he is rescued by a number of friends, though without offering any resistance himself and disappears until he surrenders himself the next day, he is guilty of an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code, as he took advantage of his release from custody and got out of the way of the peon. D. M. Attiya v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 307 :
72 I. C. 67 : 11 L. B. R. 449 :
2 Bur. L. J. 19 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 133.

—S. 225-B—Rescue from arrest under defective warrant—No offence.

Warrant for arrest—Name or description of person to whom warrant is issued not given—Release of person arrested under such warrant is not an offence. Fattu v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 455 :
142 I. C. 887 : 1932 A. L. J. 1073 :
55 All. 109 : I. R. 1933 All. 139 :
A. I. R. 1932 All. 692.

—S. 225-B—Rescue from illegal arrest—Cr. P. C., S. 100—Search for person illegally detained—Warrant for search at particular place—Person arrested at different place—Legality of search and detention—Rescue from custody—Offence.

A Magistrate can issue a search warrant under S. 100, Cr. P. C., acting solely upon the petition of the complainant. It is not necessary before issuing the warrant that he should try out a case whether the application was bona fide or not. It is not illegal for a Magistrate to issue a warrant under S. 100, Cr. P. C., without confining it to any particular place. But an officer to whom a warrant for searching a person at a particular place is directed has no power to make a search outside that place and take the person into custody from a different place. Chcpa Mahlon v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 7. 175 :
113 I. C. 578 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 50 :
11 P. L. T. 31 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 550.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to arrest by chaukidar.

An arrest by a chaukidar under S. 59, Cr. P. C., in pursuance of a written order from an officer in charge of a Police station, is legal and its resistance is an offence under S. 225-B, I. P. C. Bahubal Sircar v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 201 :
10 C. W. N. 287.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to defective warrant—No offence—Warrant under O. XXI, r. 8, G. P. O. (Act V of 1908), in execution, not bearing seal of the Court—Resistance to it, if offence under S. 225-B.

In order that an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code, be constituted, the apprehension must be lawful, that is to say, the warrant on which the arrest was made must have been executed with all due formalities of law. Where the warrant was one issued under O. XXI, r. 8, C. P. C., requiring the seal of the Court under O. XXI, r. 24 (2) and was not so sealed, the resistance to the arrest is not an offence under S. 225-B. The King v. Maung Pa Shein.

40 Cr. L. J. 845 :
183 I. C. 791 : 1939 Rang. 445 :
12 R. Rang. 116 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 320.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to execution of civil warrant.

It is not necessary that a bailiff executing a Civil Court warrant should, in the first instance, show the warrant. It is sufficient that he should apprise the person to be arrested of the contents of the warrant and show it, if desired, and resistance to execution is not justified merely because the bailiff fails to show the warrant in the first instance. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Baroda Kanla.

23 Cr. L. J. 347 :
66 I. C. 1003 : 25 C. W. N. 815 :
A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 79.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to illegal warrant.

Accused resisting public servant executing illegal warrant is not guilty. Jagannath v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 887 :
140 I. C. 118 : 1932 A. L. J. 179 :
I. R. 1932 All. 611 : A. I. R. 1932 All. 227.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to illegal warrant—Warrant addressed to no one, legality of.

Where a warrant of arrest issued by a Civil Court in execution of a money decree was not addressed to the bailiff or to any other person or to the peon who attempted to execute it, and the petitioner resisted on his arrest : Held, that the resistance made was not against a lawful warrant. Muhammad Bakhsh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 1091 :
16 P. R. Cr. of 1904.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to lawful arrest —Offence, ingredients of—Overt act, proof of.

In order to constitute an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code, something more is required than an evasion of arrest or a mere assertion by the person sought to be arrested that he would not like to be arrested or that a fight would be the result of such arrest; there must be an overt act of resistance or obstruction. There must be positive evidence to show that the officer armed with a warrant of arrest produced the warrant and that the person sought to be arrested resisted such arrest. Dawa Singh v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 64 :
48 I. C. 832 : 33 P. R. 1918 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 475.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to lawful authority —Offence—Warrant—Arresting officer, duty of—
Procedure.

An officer armed with a warrant of arrest should produce the warrant before the person sought to be arrested and make an attempt to arrest him, and if he is in fact resisted, then the person sought to be arrested would be guilty of an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code, inasmuch as to constitute an offence under the section something more than evasion of arrest or a mere assertion by the person sought to be arrested that he would not like to be arrested or that a fight would be the result of such arrest, is required. In a serious case like this if the facts mentioned are true, a charge should be framed against the accused and the accused should be tried in the ordinary way and not summarily. Aijaz Husain v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 413 :
35 I. C. 973 : 14 A. L. J. 731 : 38 All. 506 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 53.

—S. 225-B—Resistance to warrant, when no offence—Illegality of tax—Absence of seal of Court.

Under S. 225-B, Penal Code, resistance or obstruction to the apprehension of a person is punishable only if the apprehension is lawful. Where the imposition of tax for the non-payment of which the warrants are issued is itself illegal and ultra vires, the resistance to their execution is not punishable under the section. The omission of the seal of the Court issuing it renders a warrant void and a person offering resistance to apprehension under such a warrant does not commit an offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code. Dasondhi v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 265 :
107 I. C. 601 : 9 Lah. 424 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 332.

—S. 225-B—Resistance, what is not.

The accused, seeing a process-server accompanied by the decree-holder and an elder coming with a warrant to arrest him in execution of decree ran into his house and would not come out when called upon to do so: Held, that this did not amount to resistance or illegal obstruction within the meaning of S. 225-B, Penal Code. Emperor v. Gun Pal.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

4 Cr. L. J. 287 :
U. B. R. Cr. 1906 : 12 Bur. L. R. 340.

—S. 225-B—Right of person to be arrested.

Any man who is being arrested, has a right to ask the officer arresting him to show him what power he has to do so. If the arrest is under a warrant, the man arrested is entitled to ask that the warrant be shown to him to see that he is being properly arrested, and when the warrant is not shown to him and the arrest is made, such an arrest will not be a legal arrest. In re : Appaswamy Mudaly.

25 Cr. L. J. 563 :
81 I. C. 51 : 46 M. L. J. 447 :
19 L. W. 504 : 34 M. L. T. 95 : 47 Mad. 442 :
A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 555.

—S. 225-B—Scope of—Escape from custody—Consent of custodian, effect of—Offence.

An escape from lawful custody is none the less an offence under S. 225-B, because the escape was effected with the consent of the custodian. For the purposes of the section, the consent and neglect of the custodian are placed on the same footing. Public Prosecutor v. Sennimalai Goundan.

20 Cr. L. J. 208 :
49 I. C. 656 : 9 L. W. 216 :
25 M. L. T. 290 : 1919 M. W. N. 695 :
A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 864.

—S. 225-B—Scope of—Offering resistance or obstruction to lawful apprehension, what constitutes—Absconding, whether resistance or obstruction.

In order to justify the conviction of a person under S. 225-B, Penal Code, for the offence of intentionally offering resistance or illegal obstruction to the lawful apprehension of himself, something more than mere absconding is required; there must be an overt act of resistance or obstruction; some active opposition by show of force. Emperor v. Annawadin.

24 Cr. L. J. 848 :
74 I. C. 960 : 1 Rang. 218 :
3 Bur. L. J. 246 :
A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 231.

—S. 225-B—Scope of—Person charged of rescuing himself from lawful custody—Conviction under S. 225-B, if can stand.

A person cannot rescue himself from the lawful custody, and the conviction against him under S. 225-B cannot stand. Moti Dusadh v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 381 :
186 I. C. 784 : 6 B. R. 391 : 12 R. P. 553 :
A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 479.

—S. 225-B—Scope of—Resistance to lawful arrest—Intention, necessity of.

An offence under S. 225-B, Penal Code, is committed only when the resistance to arrest is intentional. A person who makes the resistance not knowing that he is being, or is about to be arrested cannot, therefore, be convicted of an offence under the said section. Holmes v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 286 :
107 I. C. 772 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 324.

-----S. 225-B.

Person who escapes from custody of a process-server after he is arrested and shuts himself up in a room and refuses to come out is guilty of an offence under S. 225-B. Jamna Das v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 753 :
103 I. C. 833 : 9 Lah. 214 :
9 L. L. J. 408 : 29 P. L. R. 196 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 708.

-----Ss. 225-B, 332, 333—Right to resist illegal arrest—Arrest by Police Officer.

Even if the action of a Police Officer in arresting a person is wholly illegal, yet the person arrested or the persons who assist the arrested person are not entitled to use more force than is necessary for protection against illegal arrest. Hardayal Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 628 :
94 I. C. 404 : 20 S. L. R. 85 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 190.

-----Ss. 225-B, 353—Rescue from lawful custody—Legality of warrant—Cr. P. C., Ss. 82, 174.

An Assistant Collector issued warrants for the arrest of certain witnesses, for whose attendance summonses had been issued, but who had not appeared in obedience thereto. The serving officer had not been able to effect personal service of the summonses, but had affixed copies to the houses of the persons to be served. The Court previous to issuing warrants did not comply with the provisions of S. 82, Cr. P. C., though it was apparently of opinion that there had been due service of the summonses. The officers charged with the execution of the warrants arrested one of the witnesses, but they were attacked by N and others and the man they had arrested was rescued. N was convicted under Ss. 225-B and 353, Penal Code: Held, that even if S. 225-B was not applicable the conviction under S. 353 of the Code was perfectly justified. Emperor v. Narbadeshwar. 2 Cr. L. J. 155 : 25 A. W. N. 66 : 27 All. 491.

-----Ss. 225-B, 353—Resistance to defective warrant—Absence of name of person to be arrested—Assault—Rescue—Offence.

A warrant which does not contain the name of the person to be apprehended except in the heading where he is described as a party to a suit which is non-existent, is illegal, and an assault by the person to be arrested under such a warrant on the person seeking to execute the warrant and a rescue of the person apprehended, do not constitute offences under Ss. 353 and 225-B, respectively of the Penal Code. Hiralal Chandra Poddar v. Jogendra Nath Laskar.

26 Cr. L. J. 2 :
83 I. C. 481 : 39 C. L. J. 452 :
51 Cal. 902 : A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 959.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 227.

See also Burma Criminal Law Amendment (Conditionally Released Prisoners) Act, 1928, S. 2.

-----S. 227—Documentary evidence—Nature of evidence required to prove conviction, remission, conditions of remission, identity of accused and breach of conditions.

In a case under S. 227, Penal Code, the fact that the accused person has been convicted and sentenced, the fact that he was granted a remission and the conditions of the remission, should be proved by documentary evidence. Oral evidence is not admissible to prove these facts. But the identity of the accused and the fact that he has committed a breach of the condition of remission may be proved by oral evidence. Nga Po Ngwe v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 174 :
120 I. C. 692 : 7 Rang. 355 :
A. I. R. 1929 Rang. 278.

-----S. 227—Duty of Court.

Conditionally released prisoner—Court has to decide if such prisoner has violated conditions on which remission was granted. Emperor v. Nga Po Min. 34 Cr. L. J. 447 : 142 I. C. 728 : I. R. 1933 Rang. 45 : A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 28.

-----S. 228.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 307, 424, 480, 481, 482, 483.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 179.

-----S. 228—Absence of intention—Intentional insult or interruption of judicial proceeding—Detaining witness for cross-examination—Statement of accused, whether must be recorded.

Petitioner was on his trial for some offence before a Magistrate. After a prosecution witness had been examined-in-chief and was about to leave, he gave him a push in order to detain him for cross-examination: Held, that it could not be said that the petitioner intended to insult or cause interruption to the Magistrate within the meaning of S. 228, Penal Code. Pohu Ram v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 588 : 81 I. C. 76 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 88.

-----S. 228—Contempt of Court.

Minor under custody of guardian appointed by Court—Understanding that minor not to be married without Court's permission—Marrying the girl without such permission does not amount to offence under S. 228—Accused is liable under Contempt of Courts Act. Mst. Kaulashia v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 770 : 144 I. C. 351 : 12 Pat. 1 : 14 P. L. T. 605 : I. R. 1933 Pat. 231 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 142.

-----S. 228—Conviction, impropriety of—Statement in application about Judge.

A person was convicted under S. 228, Penal Code, for having made a statement as follows :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

"Probably as the rumour goes, with a view to avoid this big and stiff case for reasons best known to him, the applicants came to know that he (Mr. P. N. Agha) was reported sick of high blood pressure four days before the case actually started": Held, that the Judge would have shown judicial balance by not taking notice of this passage in the application and by not taking proceedings under S. 228, Penal Code. Salag Ram v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 416 (2) :
167 I. C. 515 : 9 R. A. 550 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 171.

————S. 228—Conviction under, maintainability of—Contempt of Court—Failure to record nature and stage of proceeding and nature of contempt—Validity of conviction.

A conviction for an offence under S. 228, Penal Code, cannot be maintained when the record does not show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court interrupted or insulted was sitting and the nature of the interruption or insult. Jattu Ram v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 880 :
111 I. C. 464 : 29 P. L. R. 653 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 357.

————S. 228—Insult to Courts.

Accused was on his trial for riot, mischief by fire and attempt to murder, and when opening his defence, put in a written statement complaining that he was being tried by a prejudiced Judge, when asked to withdraw this latter expression, he declined to do so, whereupon the Magistrate proceeded against him summarily under S. 228, Penal Code, and convicted him thereunder: Held, that accused was guilty of the offence charged, because his intention clearly was to offer an insult to the Court. Venkatrao Rajerao v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 325 :
66 I. C. 821 : 24 Bom. L. R. 386 :
46 Bom. 973 : A. I. R. 1922 Bom. 261.

————S. 228—Insult to Court.

In order to bring a case within S. 228, Penal Code, and S. 480, Cr. P. C., it must be shown that the assessor intentionally offered an insult to the Court by appearing in Court in a dress consisting of a paheran, a cap and a scarf. Emperor v. Chhaganlal Ishwardas Shah.

35 Cr. L. J. 107 (2) :
146 I. C. 550 (2) : 35 Bom. L. R. 1025 :
6 R. B. 156 (2) : A. I. R. 1933 Bom. 478.

————S. 228—Intention—Insult or interruption to Judicial Officer—Ingredients of offence.

The chief ingredient of the offence under S. 228, Penal Code, is the intention of the offender and the question is not whether a Judicial Officer felt insulted but whether an insult was actually offered and intended. A Judicial Officer is no doubt fully entitled to maintain the dignity of the Court but he should not be too sensitive and too ready to take offence where none is intended. Parshotam Lal Rajpal v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 474 :
93 I. C. 698 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 210.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 228—Intention — Interruption or insult.

The principal ingredient of an offence under S. 228, I. P. C., is intentional insult or interruption. In re : Surrendra Nath Banerjee.

4 Cr. L. J. 210 :
10 C. W. N. 1062 : 4 C. L. J. 415.

————S. 228—Intentional insult—Contempt of Court.

The question under S. 228, Penal Code, is not whether the Court or officer felt insulted, but whether any insult was offered and intended. A Judicial Officer has to maintain a dignity of his Court, but he must not be too sensitive, especially when his own action is not altogether justified. Dalip Singh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 9 :
64 I. C. 377 : 2 Lah. 308 :
4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 9 : 24 P. L. R. 1922.

————S. 228 —Intentional interruption.

S. 228, Penal Code, requires that the insult or interruption to the Court should be intentional. Where there is no such intention, there is no offence. In re : Dattatraya Venkatesh Beli.

1 Cr. L. J. 612 :
6 Bom. L. R. 541.

————S. 228—Interruption to Court, what constitutes—Mere noise, if sufficient—Action, when to be taken.

An audible remark by a person is not intentionally offering interruption to the Court so as to constitute an offence under S. 228, Penal Code. Action should be taken by Court under S. 228, Penal Code only in exceptional cases, as the Court in such cases is both a prosecutor and a Judge. In re : Ramasamy Gounden.

16 Cr. L. J. 610 :
30 I. C. 434 : 2 L. W. 686 :
29 M. L. J. 274 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 648.

————S. 228—Interruption, what amounts to.

For a conviction under S. 228, Penal Code, there must be intentional interruption to the Court. The mere fact that two persons who are being jointly tried for the same offence consult together in Court before making their statement in Court does not amount to an interruption in the proceedings of the Court, and is not, therefore, an offence under S. 228 of the Code. Mahadeosingh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 66 :
91 I. C. 242 : 8 N. L. J. 190 :
22 N. L. R. 1 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 403.

————S. 228—Judicial proceeding.

Proceedings before Debt Settlement Board cannot be regarded as judicial proceedings except for the limited purpose of S. 228. Hari Charan Kunden v. Kanshi Charan.

41 Cr. L. J. 662 :
188 I. C. 686 : 44 C. W. N. 530 :
I. L. R. 1941, 2 Cal. 14 : 13 R. C. 114.
A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 286.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 228—Offence under, ingredients of.

There are three ingredients of the offence described in S. 228, Penal Code: (1) there must be an insult or interruption; (2) the insult or interruption must be intentional; (3) the insult must have been offered or the interruption caused to a public servant sitting in any stage of a judicial proceeding. It is not a sine qua non that the alleged interruption must delay the proceedings of the Court for any length of time. The determining factor is not the duration of the time but the nature of the act committed by the accused. Gopi Chand v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 676 :
46 I. C. 36 : 14 P. R. 1918 Cr. :
24 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. : 90 P. L. R. 1918 :
A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 65.

———S. 228—Presumption — Petition for transfer not happily worded—Intention to insult, whether can be presumed.

The mere fact that a petition for adjournment of a case on the ground that the accused intended to apply for transfer of the proceedings to another Court is not happily worded, does not raise a presumption that the intention of the petitioner was to offer insult to the presiding officer of the Court. Murli Dhar v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 163 :
33 I. C. 643 : 14 A. L. J. 247 :
. 38 All. 284 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 330.

———S. 228—Proceedings for contempt of Court.

In the case of proceedings for contempt of Court under S. 228, omission to set forth the particulars as required by S. 481, Cl. (2), Cr. P. C., is fatal to the proceedings. Ramlal v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1221 :
134 I. C. 684 : 14 N. L. J. 106 :
I. R. 1931 Nag. 172 :
A. I. R. 1931 Nag. 193.

———S. 228—Proof of intention—Duty of prosecution and Court.

In all offences in the Penal Code, where the intention is an essential ingredient of the offence, that intention must be strictly made out by the prosecution. This rule applies to the offence under S. 228 and it is also the duty of the Court of Appeal to decide if the intention is proved. Venkatrao Rajerao v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 325 :
66 I. C. 821 : 24 Bom. L. R. 386 :
46 Bom. 973 : A. I. R. 1922 Bom. 261.

———S. 228—Prosecution under, maintainability of.

A notice was issued by a Munsif calling upon the petitioner to show cause why he should not be criminally prosecuted for contempt of Court and defamation in respect of a petition in an execution matter, praying for time in order to enable the applicant to move the District Judge to transfer the case from the file of the said Munsif to some other Court. Cause was shown and the petitioner was committed to the Criminal Court for charges under Ss. 228 and 500, Penal Code: Held, that the prosecution under S. 228, Penal Code, cannot stand. The Court in which an offence is committed under that section should try the offender then and there and pass order under that section. Jogendra Narayan v. Syama Charan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

6 Cr. L. J. 405 :
6 C. L. J. 713.

———S. 228—Scuffle in verandah of Court—Offence.

Accused had a scuffle with some persons in the verandah of a Court room. The chaprasi of the Court intervened and put an end to it. No interruption was caused to the Court and it was found that there was no intention on the part of the accused to insult the Court: Held, that the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 228, Penal Code. Manghai Ram v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 777 (a) :
53 I. C. 617 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 330.

———S. 228—Threat to witness in Court—Offence.

An accused person who, during the hearing of a case, makes an impertinent threat to a witness in the box, commits an offence under S. 228, Penal Code. Allu v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 756 :
74 I. C. 260 : 21 A. L. J. 72 :
45 All. 272 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 193.

———S. 229—'Charged,' meaning of.

The word 'charged' is used in S. 229, Penal Code in the popular sense as implying inculpation of an alleged offence as distinguished from a charge formulated after trial. Kalia Amra v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 380 :
100 I. C. 988 : 29 Bom. L. R. 168 :
A. I. R. 1927 Bom. 96.

———S. 230—Scope of—Murshidabad rupees, counterfeiting of, duty.

S. 230, Penal Code, was intended to and does apply to Murshidabad rupees. Emperor v. Deni.

2 Cr. L. J. 395 :
2 A. L. J. 498 : 25 A. W. N. 184 :
I. L. R. 28 All. 62.

———Ss. 230, 247—Coin, what is—Coin used as ornaments—Fraudulent defacement by cutting and clipping—Criminal liability.

A coin which ceases to be used as money does not cease to be a Queen's coin within the meaning of S. 230, Penal Code, and the mere fact that a coin is being used as an ornament by soldering a ring to it does not transform it absolutely into a new article. If, therefore, an accused person clips and cuts away a coin and makes up the deficient weight by soldering with the intention of subsequently delivering it to a Bank, he would be guilty of fraudulently defacing a coin, even though on a previous occasion, the coin had been used as a wearing ornament. Mehlab Rai v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 426 :
93 I. C. 154 : 24 A. L. J. 842 :
48 All. 603 : A. I. R. 1926 All. 321.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 230, 420—'Coin,' meaning of—Uttering false coin—Cheating.

Where the offence charged consisted of selling or pawning as genuine gold mohurs of the reign of Shahjahan silver rupees of that reign which had been gilt or in some way covered over with gold, it was held that the offence would be that of cheating and not that of uttering false coin. A gold mohur of the reign of Shahjahan cannot be deemed to be "coin" within the meaning of S. 230, Penal Code, as it is not used for the time being as money. Emperor v. Khushali.

4 Cr. L. J. 453 :
26 A. W. N. 308 : 4. A. L. J. 43 : 29 All. 141.

—S. 231.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 28.

—S. 232.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 71.

—Ss. 232, 235—Possession of implements for counterfeiting—Counterfeiting coin—Separate sentences.

Where a person is convicted of counterfeiting coin and also of having in his possession implements and materials for the purpose of using them for counterfeiting, separate sentences under Ss. 232 and 235, Penal Code, cannot be passed upon him, inasmuch as the possession of the implements and materials is part and parcel of the transaction of counterfeiting. Bishan Das v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 236 :
71 I. C. 700 : 5 L. L. J. 272 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 78.

—S. 233.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 166 (2), 190 (1) (b) and (c), 403.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 71, 99, 147, 323.

—S. 235.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 230.

—S. 235—Burden of proof.

The onus of proving the fitness of the materials for the purpose of counterfeiting and of the intention of the accused to use them for that purpose lies on the prosecution. Khadim Hus-sain v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 247 :
84 I. C. 247 : 5 Lah. 392 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 22.

—S. 235—Conviction under, legality of.

A Police party raided a certain kotha belonging to the accused. A tin box was found in it and a number of articles which are used for the purpose of counterfeiting coins were found in this tin box. One other person was also living in the kotha of the accused. He was a grown up man and had got a wife and two children : Held, that it could not be said with any degree of certainty that the kotha was in the possession of the accused alone and there being no evidence whatsoever to show that the accused was in any way aware of the contents of the tin box, the con-viotion under S. 235 could not be upheld. Mohammad Bakhsh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 39.

—S. 235—Conviction of wife under—Proof.

Where in a case under S. 235, Penal Code, it is sought to make a wife liable along with her husband with whom she is living, it is necessary to prove that possession and control over the instruments and materials for counterfeiting were with her alone or with her also. Lachminiya Thakurain v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 9 :
146 I. C. 474 (1) : 14 P. L. T. 256 :
6 R. P. 267 (1) : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 272.

—S. 235—Conviction under—Proof of knowledge of possession—Possession of instruments for counterfeiting coin—Accused's knowledge, if material.

For a conviction under S. 235, Penal Code, it is not only necessary that the accused should be in possession of the instruments or materials for counterfeiting coin but it should also be proved that the possession was within the accused's knowledge. Nga San Nyein v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 264 :
28 I. C. 152 : 8 Bur. L. T. 131 :
A. I. R. 1915 L. Bur. 64.

—S. 235—Counterfeiting coin—Sentence—Separate conviction for being in possession of various instruments, legality of.

Though the offence of counterfeiting coin is very serious and deserves an exemplary sentence, when a man is being convicted for being in possession of instruments or materials for counterfeiting coin, it is not right to convict him separately for being in possession of various parts of such instruments or materials. Allah Wadhaya v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 527 :
123 I. C. 525 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 51.

—S. 235—Mere proof of physical possession of instruments, if sufficient for conviction—Offence under—Essentials to be proved.

Before an offence can be made out under S. 235, Penal Code, it is incumbent upon the prosecution to prove not only the possession of the instrument or material but also to prove that the possession was with the intention of using the same for the purpose of counterfeiting coin or with full knowledge and belief that it was intended to be used for that purpose. In re : Morsan.

39 Cr. L. J. 344 :
173 I. C. 394 : 47 L. W. 173 :
1938 M. W. N. 89 : 10 R. M. 578 :
1938, 1 M. L. J. 482 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 393.

—S. 235—Scope of—Counterfeiting Queen's coin—Possession of counterfeit coins—Possession.

The first essential required by Ss. 235 and 243, Penal Code, is that possession of the instruments and coin should be established against the accused person. To establish such possession, it is not sufficient to show that the object in question was in such a position that the accused, if he had known it, might have exercised power or control over it. There must further be evidence of some circumstance indicating that he intended to exercise such power or control or that he knew that he could do so at will and for the purpose of bringing home to any person the voluntary possession of any object, the mere proof of a fact of which he knows nothing, would be valueless. The sections also require in the accused person intention or knowledge as to the use to be made of the objects in possession. Emperor v. Hari Maniram Sonar.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 960 :
6 Bom. L. R. 887.

———S. 235—Scope of—Possession of instruments for counterfeiting coin—Exclusive possession.

The accused was convicted of the offence under S. 235, Penal Code, for being in possession of a box containing instruments used for counterfeiting coin. It appeared that two other brothers of the accused had access to the box and it was not proved that there was any property of the accused in it: Held, that the conviction was illegal for it was not shown that the accused was in exclusive possession of the box. Abdul Majid v. Crown.

1 Cr. L. J. 40 :
7 P. L. R. 14.

———S. 235—Scope of—Possession of instruments for counterfeiting coins—Intention of accused—Materials incapable of striking complete coin—Offence.

Mere possession of instruments and materials capable of counterfeiting coins is no offence. To constitute an offence under S. 235, Penal Code, possession of such instruments should be with the intention of counterfeiting coins and the intention must be proved to establish the charge. Where it is not proved that the materials in the possession of the accused were such as could be used for the purposes of counterfeiting; a conviction under S. 235, Penal Code, cannot be sustained. Where the materials found in the possession of the accused are incapable of striking a complete coin, it cannot be inferred against the accused that his intention was to manufacture coins. Khadim Hussain v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 247 : 84 I. C. 247 : 5 Lah. 392 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 22.

———S. 235—Sentence, nature of—Counterfeiting coins.

A deterrent sentence should be passed for an offence connected with counterfeiting of coins. Emperor v. Sardara Singh.

28 Cr. L. J. 305 :
100 I. C. 529 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 220.

———Ss 235, 243—Possession of counterfeit coins, when amounts to offence—Hindu joint family—Coins found in verandah of joint house—Presumption—Possession of manager.

Some counterfeit coins and a mould for counterfeiting were found buried under the floor of the verandah of a house occupied by a Hindu joint family, and the father as the head and managing member of the family, was convicted of being in possession of the articles found. It appeared that the verandah was used by the son of the accused as a shop, while the father looked after cultivation, and excepting the discovery of the articles, there was no evidence to account for their presence, or of the accused having been seen in possession of counterfeit coins or instruments: Held, that, in the circumstances, the presumption that the managing member of a Hindu family must be held to be in possession of articles found could not be used against the accused, because (a) it was impossible for him to know of tiny things placed by a junior member of the family in a place which was not shown to have been under his direct control, and (b) the evidence did not exclude the possibility of the articles having been surreptitiously introduced by a stranger. Anrit Sonar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 439 :
51 I. C. 263 : 1919 Pat. 220 : 4 P. L. J. 525 :
A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 330.

———S. 238.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 342, 355 (2).

———Ss. 239, 240—Offences under, nature of.

Offences made punishable under Ss. 239 and 240 are separate and distinct offences and S. 235, Cr. P. C., permits of double conviction and consecutive sentences for offences under these sections. Gopichand v. Emperor.

146 I. C. 7 :
6 R. Pesh. 12 : A. I. R. 1933 Pesh. 99.

———Ss. 239, 240—Punishments for offences under—Offences made punishable under Ss. 239 and 240 are separate and distinct offences—Cr. P. C., S. 235—Double conviction and consecutive sentences are valid.

Offences made punishable under Ss. 239 and 240, Penal Code, are separate and distinct offences and S. 235, Cr. P. C., permits of double conviction and consecutive sentences for offences under these sections. A man who delivers counterfeit coin to another, knowing it to be counterfeit and with intent that fraud may be committed, when that coin includes both Queen's coin and coin of another country, can be separately convicted and sentenced to consecutive terms of imprisonment under both Ss. 239 and 240, Penal Code, at the same trial. S. 71, Penal Code does not apply to the case. Gopichand v. Emperor.

146 I. C. 7 :
6 R. Pesh. 12 : A. I. R. 1933 Pesh. 99.

———S. 240—Conviction under, propriety of—Absence of finding as to knowledge that coins were counterfeit at the time accused became possessed of them—Conviction under S. 240, if proper—Alteration of conviction to S. 241.

A conviction under S. 240, Penal Code, is not sustainable in the absence of a finding that the accused had the knowledge that the coins were counterfeit at the time the accused became possessed of them. Mere delivery of coins knowing that they were counterfeit is not enough. If, however, the facts found fulfil the requirements of S. 241, the conviction can be altered from S. 240 to S. 241. Dost Muhammad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 174 (a) :
166 I. C. 44 : 9 R. N. 115 :
I. L. R. 1937 Nag. 133 :
A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 242.

-----Ss. 240, 241—Scope of—Counterfeit coins, delivery of—Guilty knowledge at time of first possession, absence of—Offence.

To attract the application of S. 240, Penal Code, it is not enough to show that the accused delivered counterfeit coins to another person but it must also be established that at the time he became possessed of such coins he knew them to be counterfeit and unless the latter ingredient is established, the offence committed is one under S. 241 and not under S. 240. Bhan Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 736 :
124 I. C. 688 : 31 P. L. R. 235 :
I. R. 1930 Lah. 560.

-----Ss. 240, 241—Sentence—Deliberate uttering of counterfeit coins—Matter cannot be dealt with leniently.

Where the articles seized from the accused's house indicate that he had some knowledge of counterfeiting and he knew the coins were false and his action in uttering them is of a deliberate nature, the matter cannot be dealt with leniently. Dost Muhammad v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 174 (a) :
166 I. C. 44 : 9 R. N. 115 :
I. L. R. 1937 Nag. 133 :
A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 242.

-----Ss. 240, 243—Possession and delivery of counterfeit coin.

C, who was in possession of 104 counterfeit rupees, made over 40 of these to P with a view to their being passed on as genuine; and being found in possession of the remaining 64 rupees, was tried and convicted under S. 243, I. P. C. Subsequently C and P were tried jointly, C for delivering to P and P for possessing 40 counterfeit rupees: Held, that the delivery of base coin, with a view to its being changed for good money, is a distinct offence from possessing such coin and the subsequent joint trial of the accused was permissible, though the receiver of the coin might have been charged and tried with the giver for abetting an offence under S. 240, I. P. C., inasmuch as he received it with the deliberate intention of committing a fraud by passing it off as genuine. Prosunno Kumar Das v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 714 :
8 C. W. N. 717 : I. L. R. 31 Cal. 1007.

-----S. 241.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 241.

-----Ss. 241, 243—Possession of counterfeit coin with knowledge—Evidence—Passing off as genuine a counterfeit coin—Presumption.

Where a person tendered a false coin to another and asked for change which was refused on the ground that the coin was false, and he thereafter tendered it to another person: Held, that it might be presumed that after the first refusal, the accused knew the coin to be bad and that his attempt thereafter to induce another person to receive it constituted an offence under S. 241, Penal Code. Ebrahim v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 79 :
9 I. C. 449 : 4 Bur. L. T. 9.

-----S. 242.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 240.

-----S. 242—Conviction under, legality of—Possessing implements for counterfeiting Queen's coins—Evidence.

Where the accused was convicted of being in possession of implements for counterfeiting and of possessing counterfeit Queen's coins on the evidence of: (1) a person who now denied a conflicting statement made by him on oath on a previous occasion, and (2) of a person who by the disposition showed enmity with the accused, and (3) a Station House Officer whose evidence could not be accepted without corroboration: Held, that the evidence on record was not sufficient to support the conviction. In re: Kummara Guruvayya.

7 Cr. L. J. 132 :
3 M. L. T. 140.

-----S. 243.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 230, 235, 240.

-----S. 243—Conviction, propriety of.

Possession of counterfeit coin—Accused living in house along with other persons—Conviction for being in possession of counterfeit coin is not proper. Tulsi Ram v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 551 :
162 I. C. 295 : 1936 A. W. R. 456 :
1936 A. L. J. 508 : 8 R. A. 859 :
A. I. R. 1936 All. 650.

-----S. 243—Fraudulent possession of counterfeit coins—Possession of servant, when becomes possession of master.

In a trial under S. 243, Penal Code, the Jury should be directed to come to a decision: (1) whether the counterfeit coins were in the possession of the accused, or in the possession of his clerk or servant on behalf of the accused, (2) if they were in the possession of the accused, whether he knew at the time, when he became so possessed of them, that the coins were counterfeit, and (3) if they were in the possession of the clerk or servant on behalf of the accused, whether at the time the clerk or servant on behalf of the accused became possessed of the counterfeit coins, the accused himself knew that they were counterfeit. Fateh Chand v. Emperor. (F. B.)

18 Cr. L. J. 385 :
38 I. C. 945 : 24 C. L. J. 400 :
21 C. W. N. 33 : 44 Cal. 477 :
A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 123.

-----S. 243—Offence under, essentials to be proved.

To constitute an offence under S. 243, Penal Code, it must be proved: (1) that the accused was in possession of the coin, (2) that the coin was counterfeit of the King's coin, (8) that the accused was in such possession fraudulently or with intent to defraud, and (4) that at the time he became possessed of such counterfeit coin, he knew it to be counterfeit. Fateh Chand v. Emperor. (F. B.)

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 385 :
38 I. C. 945 : 24 C. L. J. 400 :
21 C. W. N. 33 : 44 Cal. 477 :
A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 123.

—S. 243—Possession, proof of.

The term 'possession' as used in S. 243, Penal Code, has to be interpreted in the light of S. 27, which, by virtue of S. 7, is applicable wherever the term is used in the Code. An accused charged under S. 243 may be proved to be in possession within the meaning of that section, if he is in possession in either of two modes, namely, (a) he may be in possession of the coin himself, or (b) he may be in possession, because his wife, clerk or servant is in possession of the coin on his account. Whichever mode of possession is established, it is essential to prove that at the time the accused became possessed of the coin, he knew it to be counterfeit. Fateh Chand v. Emperor. (F. B.)

18 Cr. L. J. 385 :
38 I. C. 945 : 24 C. L. J. 400 :
21 C. W. N. 33 : 44 Cal. 477 :
A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 123.

—S. 243—Presumption.

Pieces of a silver of size of a rupee and counterfeit rupees of same year found concealed in a room in accused's possession. Presumption of guilt arises. Emperor v. Sangaram.

34 Cr. L. J. 545 (2) :
143 I. C. 152 : 9 O. W. N. 1198 :
I. R. 1933 Oudh 167 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 85.

—S. 243—Proof.

In the course of a search of the house of the accused in connection with an offence under Ss. 457 and 380, Penal Code, counterfeit coins were recovered from a cloth bundle kept inside a black wooden box under lock and key. The defence was that the coins at one time belonged to the S Estate and were sold as a part of the estate's property. The purchase was ostensibly made by one M but the accused had a half-share in it, with the result that the counterfeit coins fell in his share: Held, that the important element of the offence that the accused was in possession of counterfeit coins "fraudulently," or with intent that fraud may be committed, has not been proved, and therefore, the charge under S. 243 had not been proved against him. Gudar Sao v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
165 I. C. 603 : 17 P. L. T. 648 :
3 B. R. 63 : 9 R. P. 196 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 533.

—S. 247.

See also (i) Criminal trial.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 280.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 247—Scope of—Complainant absent—Accused, acquittal of—Death of complainant—Substitution of name of legal representative—Compoundable offence.

Where the man on whose complaint a prosecution under S. 352, Penal Code, was started, died, and on his death, his nephew applied to be substituted in place of his deceased uncle: Held, that no substitution should be allowed and an order should be passed under S. 247 acquitting the accused on the failure of the complainant to appear at the hearing of the case, unless for some reason the Magistrate thought proper to adjourn the case to some other day. Purna Chandra v. Dengar Chandra. 16 Cr. L. J. 322 :
28 I. C. 688 : 19 C. W. N. 334 :
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 708.

—S. 247—Trespass, meaning of.

The term "trespass" means an unjustifiable intrusion upon property in possession of another person. Jhari Singh v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 443 :
56 I. C. 235 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 349.

—S. 263.

See also Court Fees Act, 1870, S. 30.

—S. 263, Part I—Offence under—Essentials of—Proof of.

The first part of S. 263, Penal Code, makes it an offence to erase or remove from a stamp issued by Government for the purpose of revenue, any mark put upon it for the purpose of denoting that it has been used, if that erasing or removing is done fraudulently or with intent to cause loss to Government. Therefore, for an offence under the first part of the section, it is necessary to prove fraud or an intent to cause loss to Government. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Bazlar Rahman.

37 Cr. L. J. 923 :
164 I. C. 12 : 39 C. W. N. 542 :
9 R. C. 193 (2).

—S. 263, Part II—Offence under—Essentials of—Proof of.

Under the second part of the section, it is an offence to have in possession any stamp from which the mark put upon it for the purpose of denoting that it has been used has been erased or removed, if these facts are known to the person having such a stamp in his possession. That it to say, it is sufficient to prove that the person in whose possession the stamp was found knew that such a mark had been erased or removed from it and it is not necessary under this part of the section to prove that his possession was fraudulent or with intent to cause loss to Government. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Bazlar Rahman.

37 Cr. L. J. 923 :
164 I. C. 12 : 39 C. W. N. 542 :
9 R. C. 193 (2).

—S. 263, Part II—Offence under—Proof of.

Per Jack, J.—The fact that the stamps were not purchased does not, of course, necessarily show that an offence could not be committed in respect of them. Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Bazlar Rahman.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

37 Cr. L. J. 923 :
164 I. C. 12 : 39 C. W. N. 542 :
9 R. C. 193 (2).

—S. 265—Fraud, proof of—Necessity of.

In a case under S. 265, Penal Code, it is the duty of the prosecution to lead some evidence to prove that the accused knew the measures to be incorrect, and in the absence of any such evidence, there could be no presumption of fraudulent intention on the part of the accused, and he cannot be convicted under S. 265 of the Penal Code. Bakhallal v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 692 :
116 I. C. 671 : I. R. 1929 Nag. 191 :
A. I. R. 1929 Nag. 239.

—Ss. 265 and 266—Fraud—Proof of—Necessity of.

A conviction under S. 265, I. P. C. cannot be maintained where there is no complaint by purchaser; and the fact that the search took place after dark without proper precautions, the absence of proper description of the weights seized, the small discrepancies alleged, the silence of the record as to what standard weights were used for purposes of comparison and the want of proof of knowledge of fraudulent intent on the accused's part are all fatal defects in a prosecution under S. 260, I. P. C. Sobha v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 4 :
38 P. W. R. Cr. 1908.

—Ss. 265, 266—Fraud—Proof of—Necessity of.

Where standard weights are not prescribed, no presumption of fraud can arise in respect of short weights, and a conviction under Ss. 265-266, Penal Code, cannot be obtained unless the element of fraud is strictly proved. Emperor v. Mi Ya Pyan.

9 Cr. L. J. 415 :
U. B. R. Cr. 1908, 3rd Cr. Penal Code 17.

—S. 266—"False measure," meaning of.

The fact that an offence may have been committed under the Bombay Weights and Measures Act, does not make the measures false within the meaning of S. 260, I. P. C. According to the ordinary use of language, if a measure is described as false, that means that it is something other than what it purports to be. Kanayalal Mohanlal Gujar v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 172 :
185 I. C. 228 : 41 Bom. L. R. 977 :
12 R. B. 241 : A. I. R. 1939 Bom. 455.

—S. 266—Fraud—Meaning of.

Agreement between purchaser and seller that commodity sold should be measured by measure produced by purchaser—No representation by purchaser that measure produced was standard one—Purchaser is not guilty under S. 260. Kanayalal Mohanlal Gujar v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 172 :
185 I. C. 228 : 41 Bom. L. R. 977 :
12 R. B. 241 : A. I. R. 1939 Bom. 455.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 266—Fraud—Meaning of.

It is only when the seller purports to sell according to a certain standard and sells below that standard, that he can be said to be guilty of fraud. Emperor v. Harak Chand Marwari.

19 Cr. L. J. 145 :
43 I. C. 433 : 15 A. L. J. 897 :
40 All. 84 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 174.

—S. 266—Fraud—Meaning of.

Where both purchaser and seller are well aware of the actual measure being used, there can be no question of fraudulent intent. It is only when the seller purports to sell according to a certain standard and sells below that standard, that he can be said to be guilty of fraud. Kanayalal Mohanlal Gujar v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 172 :
185 I. C. 228 : 41 Bom. L. R. 977 :
12 R. B. 241 : A. I. R. 1939 Bom. 455.

—S. 266—Fraud—Proof of—Necessity of.

A necessary ingredient of an offence under S. 260, Penal Code, is fraudulent intent, and where both purchaser and seller are well aware of the actual measure being used, there can be no question of fraudulent intent. Emperor v. Harak Chand Marwari.

19 Cr. L. J. 145 :
43 I. C. 433 : 15 A. L. J. 897 :
40 All. 84 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 174.

—S. 266—Offence under—Mode of, trial of.

Sixty-eight persons were challaned under S. 260, Penal Code, for using short weights; sixty-eight separate cases were started. The prosecution evidence was taken only in one case. A joint reply purporting to be on behalf of all the accused was then put in, headed as being a statement on solemn affirmation, with reference to the lists of weights found to be wrong. In this statement, the accused stated that some ten years before their weights were tested and found correct and that possibly some of these old weights had to some extent worn down by use. The Magistrate treated this joint statement of all the accused as being a confession of guilt and thereupon proceeded to conviction and sentence: Held, that the method of joint trial of all the accused was so irregular that the convictions could not be allowed to stand. Emperor v. Nanak Chand.

15 Cr. L. J. 11 :
22 I. C. 155 : 20 P. R. 1913 Cr. :
36 P. L. R. 1914 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 42.

—S. 268.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 133.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 43.
(iii) Police Act, 1861, S. 34.

—S. 268—Common nuisance.

A common nuisance cannot be excused on the ground that it causes some convenience or advantage to the person guilty of it. Bharosa Patak v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 183 :
13 I. C. 999 : 9 A. L. J. 355 :
34 All. 345.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 268—Public nuisance—Proof of—Sufficiency of.

The accused was convicted for an offence under S. 268, Penal Code, for removing a plague patient to a house where several persons were living, and one of them in consequence, was attacked with plague. The Joint Magistrate, on appeal, directed the Sub-Magistrate to take any further evidence which the prosecution could produce to prove illegality or negligence: Held, that further inquiry was not necessary in this case. In re: Chabumian Sahib. 14 Cr. L. J. 45 : 18 I. C. 269 : 12 M. L. T. 664.

———S. 268—Public nuisance—What is.

Allowing prickly pear to spread on to a road used by the public, is a public nuisance within the definition of the expression in S. 268, Penal Code. In re: Molaiappa Goundan. 30 Cr. L. J. 432 : 115 I. C. 242 : 28 L. W. 621 : 55 M. L. J. 715 : I. R. 1929 Mad. 402 : 52 Mad. 79 : A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 1235.

———S. 268—Public nuisance—What is.

Annoyance caused to religious ideas by innocent acts of others is not nuisance. Janki Prasad v. Karamat Hussain. 137 I. C. 587 : 1931 A. L. J. 624 : 53 All. 836 : I. R. 1932 All. 333 : A. I. R. 1931 All. 674.

———S. 268—Public nuisance—What is.

Owners of shops constructing platforms in front of them—Existence of platforms a public nuisance—Persons merely renting shops and sitting on them—are not guilty of offence under S. 268. Puranmashi v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 269 : 160 I. C. 269 : 8 R. A. 592 (1) : 1936 A. L. J. 200 : 58 All. 694 : 1936 A. W. R. 194 : A. I. R. 1936 All. 156.

———Ss. 268, 290—Working rice-husking machine at night—If public nuisance.

Upon revision, the Chief Court upheld the conviction of the petitioner under Ss. 208—290, Penal Code, for working a rice-husking machine at night in a residential quarter of a city and the order passed against him under S. 143 of the Cr. P. C. forbidding the working of the machine at night after 10 p. m. with the modification that the prohibition should last till 6 a. m. Phiraya Mal v. Emperor. 1 Cr. L. J. 513 : 5 P. L. R. 256 : 9 P. R. Cr. of 1904.

———Ss. 268, 291—Slaughtering cattle in enclosed area, if public nuisance—Conviction under S. 291, when proper.

Slaughtering of cattle in an area surrounded by walls, in itself, is not necessarily a public nuisance as defined in S. 268, Penal Code. For a conviction under S. 291, Penal Code, it must be proved that the accused had, on some previous occasion, committed a particular nuisance and had been personally enjoined not to repeat or continue it and had repeated or continued it. Chuhar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 660 :
116 I. C. 705 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 561 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 252.

———S. 269.

See also Bombay City Municipal Act, 1888, Ss. 429, 430.

———S. 269—Offence under—Essentials of.

The gist of the unlawful act is that there must be danger of the infection spreading. If care is taken to avoid the infection, the act cannot be said to be unlawful or negligent and no offence is committed under the section. The mere failure to carry out an order which could otherwise have been bona fide obeyed by the avoidance of the danger of infection, cannot be regarded as an offence under S. 269, Penal Code. In re: Kandaswami Mudaliar. 20 Cr. L. J. 785 : 53 I. C. 689 : 26 M. L. T. 386 : 10 L. W. 627 : 38 M. L. J. 80 : 43 Mad. 344 : A. I. R. 1920 Mad. 420.

———S. 269—Offence under—When constituted.

The Health Officer of the Madras Municipality directed the removal of a small-pox patient to an Isolation Hospital, but the patient's father removed him instead to an isolated house under the advice of his doctor: Held, that the disobedience to the Health Officer's order under S. 306, Madras City Municipal Act, did not amount to an offence under S. 269, Penal Code, as the accused's action prevented the spread of the infectious disease. In re: Kandaswami Mudaliar. 20 Cr. L. J. 785 : 53 I. C. 689 : 26 M. L. T. 386 : 10 L. W. 627 : 38 M. L. J. 80 : 43 Mad. 344 : A. I. R. 1920 Mad. 420.

———S. 272—Mixing pig's fat with ghee whether "noxious as food".

The mixing of pig's fat with ghee and selling the mixture, would be noxious to religious and social feelings of both Hindus and Muhammadans, but such an act would not come within the meaning of the expression "noxious as food" which is used in S. 272, Penal Code. Ram Dayal v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 220 : 83 I. C. 1004 : 21 A. L. J. 875 : 46 All. 94 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 214.

———S. 272—"Noxious as food", meaning of.

The expression "noxious as food" which occurs in S. 272, Penal Code, means unwholesome as food or injurious to health and not repugnant to one's feelings. Ram Dayal v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 220 : 83 I. C. 1004 : 21 A. L. J. 875 : 46 All. 94 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 214.

———S. 273.

See also Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act, 1922, Ss. 287, 288.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 273—Interpretation.

The word "public" used in this section means human beings in general and does not include animals. Sita Ram v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 278 :
3 P. W. R. 10 Cr. : 3 P. R. 1908 Cr. :
139 P. L. R. 1908.

———S. 273—Milk mixed with water, whether noxious.

Milk is not rendered noxious by being mixed with water, and a person who exposes for sale milk adulterated with water is not guilty of an offence under S. 273, Penal Code. Dhawa v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1441 :
89 I. C. 961 : 1 Lah. Cas. 273 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 49.

———S. 273 — "Noxious." meaning of—Adulteration of ghee with vegetable oil.

The word "noxious" in S. 273, Penal Code, means harmful to health or unwholesome. Chokraj Marwari v. Emperor. 7 Cr. L. J. 405 :
12 C. W. N. 608.

———S. 273—Noxious food — Proof of—Necessity of.

In the absence of evidence to show that the adulteration of ghee with vegetable oil was such as to render it noxious in the above sense, such adulteration cannot be held to constitute an offence under S. 273, Penal Code. Chokraj Marwari v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 405 :
12 C. W. N. 608.

———S. 273—Noxious food—Proof of—Necessity of.

Knowledge that an article of food offered for sale is unfit for consumption cannot be presumed; this, like other ingredients of the offence under S. 273, Penal Code, must also be proved. Mukund Ram v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 537 :
77 I. C. 1001 : A. I. R. 1922 All. 273.

———S. 273—Noxious food—Sale of—Proof of—Necessity of.

To sustain a conviction under S. 273, Penal Code, it is necessary to show that the accused sold or exposed for sale an article which was, to his knowledge, noxious as food or drink. Sheo Lal v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 210 :
24 A. W. N. 56 : 1 A. L. J. 64 :
I. L. R. 26 All. 387.

———S. 273—Sale of noxious food for use of animals, if offence.

The sale of noxious food for the use of animals is not punishable under S. 273, Penal Code. Sita Ram v. Emperor. 7 Cr. L. J. 278 :
3 P. W. R. 10 Cr. : 3 P. R. 1908 Cr. :
139 P. L. R. 1908.

———S. 273—Sale of noxious food—What is.

A person cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 273, Penal Code, for selling wheat containing a large admixture of extraneous matter, e. g., dirt, wood, matches, charcoal, black-seeds and other matters. Emperor v. Narumal Jawarmal.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 618 :
6 Bom. L. R. 520.

———S. 273—Sale of noxious food—What is.

Where, as a matter of trade, the owner of a grain pit sold the contents of the pit before it was opened at a certain sum per maund, whether the grain was good or bad, and on the pit being opened, it was found that a large proportion of the grain was unfit for human consumption, it was held that the vendor could not be convicted under S. 273, Penal Code. Emperor v. Salig Ram.

3 Cr. L. J. 208 :
26 A. W. N. 23 : I. L. R. 28 All. 312.

———S. 277—Public spring—Meaning of.

The "public spring" contemplated in S. 277, Penal Code, does not include a continuous stream of water running along the bed of a river. Emperor v. Nama Rama. 1 Cr. L. J. 6 :
6 Bom. L. R. 52.

———S. 277—Public well—Meaning of.

A place is a public place if people are allowed access to it, though there may be no legal right to it. So, a well is a public well if people are allowed to use its water. Ramkaranlal v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 650 :
40 I. C. 298 : 13 N. L. R. 68 :
A. I. R. 1916 Nag. 15.

———S. 277—Spitting in public well, if offence.

Accused voluntarily spitted into a well, the water of which was used for drinking purposes : Held, that he was guilty of an offence under S. 277, Penal Code, although the degree to which his act rendered the water less fit for drinking might be small. Ramkaranlal v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 650 :
40 I. C. 298 : 13 N. L. R. 68 :
A. I. R. 1916 Nag. 15.

———S. 278—Scope.

Section 278, Penal Code, is directed against a public nuisance, and not a private nuisance. Rahim Mian v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 556 :
116 I. C. 48 : 10 P. L. T. 87 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 288 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 113.

———S. 278—Throwing offensive matter into private dwelling, if offence.

Where the accused threw a human skull which was in a highly offensive condition into the house of the complainant, but there was nothing to show that the atmosphere was made noxious to the other persons dwelling in the locality : Held, that the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 278, Penal Code, though his conduct was most reprehensible and offensive. Rahim Mian v. Emperor.

30 Cr. C. J. 556 :
116 I. C. 48 : 10 P. L. T. 87 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 288 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 113.

———S. 279.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 107, 302, 304-A.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 279—Charge under S. 279, Penal Code—Conviction under S. 5, Motor Vehicles Act, legality of.

The facts which have to be proved for a conviction under S. 279, Penal Code, and for a conviction under S. 5, Motor Vehicles Act, are substantially the same and a person who is charged under one of these sections may be convicted under the other inasmuch as there is no question of prejudice to him in such a case. Charan Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1254 :
88 I. C. 998 : 23 A. L. J. 79 :
A. I. R. 1925 All. 798.

————S. 279—Conviction under—Legality of.

Accused taking all care to avoid occurrence of accident—Complainant mostly responsible for same—Accused held, not guilty. F. G. Robson v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 178 :
152 I. C. 699 : 7 R. Rang. 170 :
A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 194.

————S. 279—Conviction under—Legality of.

Accused while driving a motor car on the wrong side of the road at a blind corner between roads of considerable traffic, came in collision with a motor bicycle and caused damage to the side-car of the bicycle: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 279, Penal Code. Yar Mahomed v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 253 :
84 I. C. 253 : 16 S. L. R. 147.

————S. 279—Conviction under—Legality of.

Pork Inspector's car chasing car containing illicit pork—Pork Inspector instructing driver to keep chased car in sight—Both cars going at dangerous speed and ignoring traffic signals—Chased car crashing—Chasing car stopped at distance of 100 feet from crashed car—Conviction of driver of chasing car under S. 279 held was proper but sentence of imprisonment was not called for in the circumstances—Pork Inspector held could not be convicted under S. 279-114. Maung Tun Khin v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 535 :
175 I. C. 133 : 10 R. Rang. 463 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 97.

————S. 279—Conviction under—Legality of.

Tram-car being driven fast but not at excessive speed—Camel car being driven in same direction parallel to tram-car—Camel suddenly swerving to wrong side and cart colliding with tram—Tram driver held not guilty under S. 279—Karachi Tramways Act (II of 1888), S. 15. Abdul Ghani Nasurullah v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 515 :
175 I. C. 27 : 10 R. S. 272 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 86.

————S. 279—Finding as to rash and negligent driving—Necessity of.

There must be a specific finding for conviction under Ss. 279, 288 or 304-A as to rash and negligent driving. Ram Sewak v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1154 :
146 I. C. 28 : 10 O. W. N. 823 :
6 R. O. 79 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 391.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 279—Interpretation.

'Any other person,' includes occupants of vehicle which is being rashly or negligently driven. Ejaz Ahmad v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1352 :
158 I. C. 305 : 1935 O. W. N. 1026 :
1935 O. L. R. 573 : 8 R. O. 86 :
A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 148.

————S. 279—Miscellaneous.

Persons loitering on the road are bound to make way for a motorist. Emperor v. Homnatain Sukhailal Kaehhi.

35 Cr. L. J. 696 :
148 I. C. 541 : 6 R. N. 186 :
A. I. R. 1934 Nag. 65.

————S. 279—Negligence—Meaning of.

Criminal negligence is the gross and culpable neglect or failure to exercise that reasonable and proper care to guard against injury either to the public generally or to an individual in particular which, having regard to all the circumstances out of which the charge has arisen, it was the imperative duty of the accused person to have adopted. F. G. Robson v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 178 :
152 I. C. 699 : 7 R. Rang. 170 :
A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 194.

————S. 279—Negligent riding—What is.

Riding on pillion of ordinary bicycle in crowded street is negligent act. The King v. Bas Deo.

41 Cr. L. J. 693 :
188 I. C. 800 : 1940 Rang. 127 :
13 R. Rang. 27 : A. I. R. 1940 Rang. 176.

————S. 279—Offence under—Punishment for.

Though the punishment for rash and negligent driving to the public danger provided by S. 279, Penal Code, is greater, the more general provisions of the Penal Code are calculated to remind the Magistrate, when the prosecution is under that Code, and the danger is alleged to have been caused, by rash and negligent driving, that it is not only on the part of the drivers of vehicles that the Penal Code enforces the civil duty of circumspection, from the neglect of which the improbability of culpable negligence arises. Emperor v. H. O. Bayne.

3 Cr. L. J. 494 :
8 Bom. L. R. 414.

————S. 279—Rash and negligent driving—Rule to be observed.

The driver of a motor car has no business to attempt to pass a car in front of him by going on to the wrong side of the road unless he can see the road in front is so absolutely clear of traffic coming from the opposite direction that he can get back again on to the right side of the road without any risk of accident. Santul Jadhav v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 324 :
61 I. C. 52 : 23 Bom. L. R. 358 :
A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 456.

————S. 279—Rash and negligent driving of motor car—Not stopping car—Offence, gravity of.

Every case of collision between a motor car and a pedestrian must be judged on its merits. Where a person by his rash and negligent driving knocks a passenger over with impunity and leaves him where he was without stopping to see the injury caused, he must be dealt with severely. Emperor v. Aghan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 894 :
104 I. C. 910 : 4 O. W. N. 768 :
A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 441.

————S. 279—Rash or negligent driving—Injury to occupants alone—No danger to person using public road, if offence.

To sustain a conviction under S. 279, Penal Code, for driving a bus rashly or negligently, it must be shown that the driving complained of constituted a danger to any person using the public road, but a person who causes hurt to the occupants of the vehicle by rash or negligent driving, can be convicted of an offence under S. 337 of the Penal Code. Mahomad Jamal v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1077 :
119 I. C. 536 : I. R. 1929 Sind 216 :
A. I. R. 1930 Sind 64.

————Ss. 279, 338—Offences under—Sentence for—Propriety of.

Rash and negligent driving resulting in grievous hurt to another—Conviction should be under S. 338 only and not under both Ss. 279 and 338. Raghu Prasad v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 759 (b) :
183 I. C. 224 : 20 P. L. T. 403 :
12 R. P. 131 : 5 B. R. 954 :
A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 388.

————S. 280—Conviction under—Legality of.

Certain country boats were anchored at a wrong place, that is in deep water in the fair way of the river. The accused who was in charge of a steam launch had no reason to suppose that the boats which had no lights were stationary. On seeing the boats ahead, the accused blew a whistle and did all he could to avoid them but could not prevent an accident: Held, that the accused was not guilty of any rashness or negligence and could not be convicted under S. 280, Penal Code. Kamdar Ali v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 362 :
11 I. C. 130 : 14 C. L. J. 656 :
15 C. W. N. 835.

————S. 280—Negligent navigation—What is—Rash navigation of a launch—Running into a boat at anchor in itself prima facie evidence of negligence.

It is the primary duty of steam vessels to keep out of the way of vessels lying at anchor. The fact that a launch runs into a cargo boat at anchor is in itself prima facie evidence of negligent navigation. Lal Meah v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 582 :
12 I. C. 846 : 4 Bur. L. T. 140.

————S. 280—Rash navigation of vessel—Rashness or negligence—Proof of.

To support a conviction under S. 280, Penal Code, there must be proof of rashness or negligence which endangers human life or is likely to cause hurt or injury to any other person. The immediate cause of the accident should be rashness or negligence on the part of the navigator. In considering the question of degree, the question of contributory negligence has also to be taken into account, not as a defence to the indictment, but for the purpose of determining causation and fixing a measure of the liability of the accused. Kamdar Ali v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 362 :
11 I. C. 130 : 14 C. L. J. 656 :
15 C. W. N. 835.

————S. 282—Conveying person by water for hire—Culpable negligence in.

In the middle of the monsoon, the overloading of a boat would be dangerous and it would be culpable negligence on the part of the accused to leave the whole thing in the hands of the boatman, leaving the passengers to their fate. Tofail Ahammad Mia v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1373 :
151 I. C. 660 : 38 C. W. N. 200 :
7 R. C. 153 : A. I. R. 1934 Cal. 490.

————S. 283.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 133, 235 (1).

————S. 283—Cart-track lying in patta land of accused closed by them and right to do so claimed—Conviction under S. 283, propriety of.

Where a cart-track lies in the patta land of the accused who have put up a wall across it and claim a right to close it, the proper course would be to proceed against them under S. 138, Cr. P. C. They cannot be convicted under S. 283, I. P. C. In re : Muthu Goundan.

41 Cr. L. J. 391 :
186 I. C. 896 : 50 L. W. 593 :
1939 M. W. N. 1259 : 12 R. M. 701 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 216.

————S. 283—Obstructing public road—Essential of offence.

In order to sustain a conviction under S. 283, Penal Code, of causing obstruction to a public road, the prosecution must prove that the obstruction was caused under the authority or direction of the accused. Lalla Prasad v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 331 (a) :
61 I. C. 59 : 19 A. L. J. 25 :
A. I. R. 1921 All. 192.

————S. 283—Obstructing public road—Obstruction left on public road—Inference.

Where a prabha left lying in a public road could not fail to cause obstruction to any person who had occasion to pass along that road: Held, that though obstruction to any individual was not expressly proved, it was a matter of necessary inference. In re : Venkappa.

16 Cr. L. J. 560 :
29 I. C. 832 : 38 Mad. 305 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 847.

————S. 283—Obstructing public road—Principal and agent—Liability.

A person who employs an independent contractor cannot be convicted in respect of an obstruction caused by the contractor or his men and not authorised by him. Latta Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 331 (a) :
61 I. C. 59 : 19 A. L. J. 25 :
A. I. R. 1921 All. 192.

———S. 283 — Obstructing public road—What is.

A public nuisance may undoubtedly be caused without any deliberate intention of causing it. Where, therefore, the accused places a charpai on a public road and thereby obstructs the Sub-Inspector, he commits the offence under S. 283. Ram Krishna v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 893 :
156 I. C. 39 : 1935 A. L. J. 1057 :
1935 A. W. R. 814 : 7 R. A. 1049 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 746 (1).

———S. 283—Obstructing public road—What is.

In a trial for an offence under S. 283, Penal Code, the Magistrate asked the accused whether they drove bullock carts on a particular road at a particular time and thus caused danger by obstructing the road. One of them replied that he had driven a cart on the road at the time indicated and that he begged to be excused as he was ignorant. The other replied that he had made a mistake and begged to be excused. On these pleas both of them were convicted of an offence under S. 283, Penal Code, and sentenced to fine : Held, that there being no other evidence on the record, the conviction could not be maintained. Emperor v. Ghulam Raza.

25 Cr. L. J. 707 :
81 I. C. 195 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 153.

———S. 283—Obstructing public road—What is.

Ordinarily, every shopkeeper has a right to exhibit his wares in any way he likes in his shop, but he must exercise the right so as not to cause annoyance or nuisance to the public. The manner of the exhibition complained of as a nuisance must be necessary for the purposes of business in the sense that without it the business could not be carried on reasonably. Emperor v. Noor Mahomed.

12 Cr. L. J. 258 :
10 I. C. 804 : 35 Bom. 368 :
13 Bom. L. R. 209.

———S. 283—Obstructing public way—What is.

Where obstruction consisted in the erection of a hut encroaching upon a public thoroughfare, and not in exposing goods for sale in such hut : Held, that the accused who only rented the hut could not be convicted of an offence under S. 283, Penal Code. Narain Adhikari v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 244 :
8 C. W. N. 369.

———S. 283—Offence under—Proof of.

In order to sustain a conviction under S. 283, Penal Code, it must be proved that the accused actually obstructed the road, and by so doing, caused danger or injury to any person using that road. Emperor v. Ghulam Raza.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 707 :
81 I. C. 195 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 153.

———S. 283—Public road, what is.

The accused placed some refuse on a path lying on his land, and on the complaint of some persons who were using the path, the accused was convicted under S. 341, Penal Code. There was no evidence to show dedication of the path to, or user of the path by, the public in general. There was also no evidence to prove that the complainants had acquired any right of way by grant or prescription. There was only the oral testimony of two or three witnesses who said that for over 20 years the path had been used by the villagers : Held, that the path was not a public way within S. 283, Penal Code. Pran Nath Kundu v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 859 :
125 I. C. 600 : 33 C. W. N. 915 :
57 Cal. 526 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 286.

———S. 283—Public road—What is.

Where the privilege to use a road is enjoyed only by one particular section of the community or by inhabitants of two or three villages and not by others, the road is not a public road within the meaning of S. 283, Penal Code. Pran Nath Kundu v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 859 :
125 I. C. 600 : 33 C. W. N. 915 :
57 Cal. 526 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 286.

———S. 286.

See also Penal Code, 1800, S. 337.

———S. 287—Negligent conduct with respect to machinery—Competent engineer employed to work machinery—Liability of employer or owner.

Where an owner of machinery employs a competent man to work it and leaves him unfettered, he cannot be held criminally responsible for any accident due to the errors of his employee. But he would be so liable, if he compels his employee to work the boiler at an unsafe pressure. Emperor v. Kanhaya Lal.

4 Cr. L. J. 279 :
8 P. R. 1906 Cr.

———S. 287—Omitting to guard machinery—Liability of partners in mill.

A took a lease of a mill. He entered into partnership with B, and appointed the latter as its managing partner, C was the mistri. Part of the leather belting of a shaft which was installed in the mill protruded outside the factory building. Two girls who resided in a neighbouring house went into the mill compound for play. They went too near the belting and one was killed and the other injured. A, B and C were convicted under S. 304-A, Penal Code : Held, (i) that A not having taken any active part either in erecting the shaft and the belting or in the management of the mill could not be held liable even under S. 287, Penal Code, for the manner in which these had been erected or were worked and was not guilty of any offence; (ii) that B and C were guilty of an offence under S. 287, Penal Code, as they had omitted to take sufficient care of the machinery, but were not guilty under S. 304-A. Mohri Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 1175 :

127 I. C. 153 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 453.

—S. 287—Taking precaution with machinery—Limit of—No duty to provide perfect security.

S. 287, Penal Code, does not require that the owner of machinery should provide perfect security against every possibility of danger. It is enough if he takes reasonable precautions and so much care as is sufficient to guard against such danger as can be expected within the bounds of probability. Mulraj Dhir v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1232 :

127 I. C. 562 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 507.

—S. 288—Negligent pulling down or repairing buildings—What is.

Where a wall of a house collapsed and caused injury to the complainant's property by its fall into his compound: Held, that S. 288 could not apply, as it referred to Negligence in pulling down or repairing a building; that this was not a public nuisance, the danger caused being not a public one or one to people in general residing in the vicinity, but a danger to certain individuals; that the case would not also come under mischief, as when the word 'cause' was used in the Penal Code, the immediate cause was generally intended; and that the case was clearly one of tort to be decided in a civil Court. Shah Jeychand Gopalji v. Thakar Bawa Virji.

1 Cr. L. J. 488.

—S. 289—Ingredients of offence under Negligent management of animal—Allowing vicious animal at large—Grievous hurt—Knowledge of results—Presumption.

The essentials of an offence under S. 289, Penal Code, are that there should be probable danger to human life or limb or danger of grievous hurt from the negligence shown in the custody of the animal. If a person allows an animal in his custody to be at large in spite of its previous vicious character, the presumption is that he does so with knowledge that there is probable danger to human life or limb. Shivbharan Ayodhya Prasad v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 383 :

35 I. C. 815 : 18 Bom. L. R. 682 :

A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 196.

—S. 289—Negligent conduct with animal—Bull set at large nullius inquit, proprius—Liability for negligence to take order with such animal.

A bull set at large in accordance with the general religious practice of the Hindus becomes nullius inquit, proprius and therefore ceases to be in the possession of the original owner. Should such bull become dangerous to human life, it is illegal to convict the original owner under S. 289, I. P. C., for negligently omitting to take order with the animal. Emperor v. Shambu Dial.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 501 :

5 P. R. Cr. of 1904 : 5 P. L. R. 308.

—S. 289—Negligent conduct with animal—Liability of owner and herdsman.

When a person has been injured by a buffalo, which was known to be a dangerous animal, the herdsman, who was present and who failed to take steps to avert the injury, is criminally liable under S. 289, Penal Code, as well as the owner who took no precautions regarding the animal. Shamlay v. Emperor.

6 Cr. L. J. 100 :

3 N. L. R. 90.

—S. 289—Negligent conduct with animal—Tethering horse in narrow street comes within S. 289.

The tethering of a horse in a narrow street where people cannot pass without going near the animal's hind legs is a negligent omission to take order with the animal sufficient to satisfy the requirements of S. 289, I. P. C. Gagumal Mulchand v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 818 :

190 I. C. 64 : 13 R. S. 55 :

1940 Kar. 445 : A. I. R. 1940 Sind 172.

—S. 289—Negligent conduct with animal—What is—Injury caused by dog—Negligence—Offence.

Owing to the negligence of the accused his dog bit the complainant and caused hurt to the latter: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 289, Penal Code, and not under S. 323 of the Code. Mg. Shwe Zin v. Mg. Po Ngwe.

25 Cr. L. J. 565 :

81 I. C. 53 : 2 Bur. L. J. 8 :

A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 147.

—S. 289—Negligent conduct with dog—Dog biting human beings—Offence—Proof of.

To allow liberty to a ferocious animal is in itself likely to cause danger to human beings. But in the case of an ordinary domestic animal, e. g., a dog, there is no presumption that it is likely to bite human beings. Therefore, in order to obtain a conviction under S. 289, Penal Code, against the owner of a dog, it must be proved that that particular dog had a tendency or character of biting human beings. Lachini Narain v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 1.

42 I. C. 913 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 369.

—S. 289—Offence under — Essentials necessary to prove.

For a conviction under S. 289, Penal Code, it must be established in the affirmative that the animal in question was likely to cause grievous hurt or danger to human life, and that the accused knowingly or negligently omitted to take proper care of such animal. Muhammad Sadiq v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 1059 :

1 A. L. J. 605.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 290.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 227.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 277, 278.

(iii) Police Act, 1861, S. 84.

—S. 290—Conviction under—Legality of.

Accused was tried for an offence under S. 34, Police Act, on the allegation that he had kept logs of wood in a public place and had thereby caused obstruction to the passers-by. The Magistrate in his judgment found that the act of the accused did not come within the purview of S. 34, Police Act, but that it amounted to an offence under S. 290, Penal Code, and convicted the accused of the latter offence, without having at any previous stage of the case explained to the accused that he would have to meet a charge under S. 290, Penal Code: Held, that the conviction was illegal and must be set aside. Raghunath Kandu v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 152 :
91 I. C. 888 : 24 A. L. J. 168 :
A. I. R. 1926 All. 227.

—S. 290—Essential ingredients of offence under.

The essential ingredient of the offence is that the act must cause any common injury, danger or annoyance to the public or to the people in general who dwell or occupy property in the vicinity or must necessarily cause injury, obstruction, danger or annoyance to the persons who may have occasion to use any public right. In re: Pedagiri Perumal Naidu.

38 Cr. L. J. 120 :
166 I. C. 36 : 1936 M. W. N. 1151 :
44 L. W. 806 : 9 R. M. 324 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 130.

—S. 290—Fowling water of river, if public nuisance.

Though the fouling of the water running in a continuous stream may not be an offence under S. 277, it may well be a nuisance under S. 290 of the Code, if the evidence shows that the act was such as to cause common injury or danger to the public. Emperor v. Nama Rama.

1 Cr. L. J. 6 :
6 Bom. L. R. 52.

—S. 290—Offence under—Place of trial.

Act committed outside British India—Annoyance to persons within British India—Court in British India cannot try offence. T. Sreeramamurthy v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 467 :
154 I. C. 146 : 41 L. W. 82 :
1934 M. W. N. 1316 :
68 M. L. J. 211 : 7 R. M. 416 :
A. I. R. 1935 Mad. 189.

—S. 290—Offence under—Proof of.

In order to constitute an offence under S. 290, it is not necessary that the alleged nuisance should emit smells injurious to health; it is sufficient if they be offensive to the senses. G. Berckefeldt v. Emperor.

5 Cr. L. J. 45 :
5 C. L. J. 40 : I. L. R. 34 Cal. 73.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 290—Public nuisance—Accused offering satta tickets for sale—Collection of customers before shop—Guilt of accused.

Where the accused, a shopkeeper, sold satta tickets at his shop with the result that 10 or 15 customers collected outside and obstructed the traffic in the public street adjoining the shop: Held, that the assembling of the customers and the obstruction of the traffic could not be considered to be the direct or the necessary consequence of the offer of satta tickets for sale and the accused could not be convicted of public nuisance. Nanak Chand v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 443 :
122 I. C. 481 : 11 Lah. 236 :
31 P. L. R. 494 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 801.

—S. 290—Public nuisance—Chaukidar shouting at night, whether guilty.

A chaukidar employed by a private person who makes a noise at night in order to scare away thieves and bad characters from the house of his master and thereby disturbs the rest of his master neighbours is not guilty of an offence under S. 290, Penal Code. Emperor v. Ram Charan Ahir.

27 Cr. L. J. 1020 :
96 I. C. 876 : 3 O. W. N. 526 :
29 O. C. 302 : A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 414.

—S. 290—Public nuisance—Obstruction caused by acts of third parties in accused's land—Offence—Liability of.

Where some persons diverted the water of a stream into the land of the accused with the result that a certain path was obstructed, and the accused was charged with and convicted of an offence under S. 290, I. P. C.: Held, that the conviction was wrong and should be set aside. Vellai Gownden v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 10 :
2 I. C. 424.

—S. 290—Public nuisance—Obstruction of traffic—Person responsible for obstruction, whether guilty.

If a crowd collects in a street and obstructs the traffic so as to cause a nuisance, the person who is directly responsible for the crowd collecting is not less but more guilty than the other persons who form the crowd, and this is equally the case whether he happens to be inside or outside his shop when the Police appears. Hapoo Mal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 135 :
83 I. C. 695 : 22 A. L. J. 662 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 568.

—S. 290—Public nuisance—Obstruction to highway—Offence.

If any portion, however small, of a public street is encroached upon, the inevitable result is that obstruction is caused to persons who may have occasion to use the highway, for the public is entitled to use every inch of a road that has been dedicated to the public. An encroachment, therefore, upon any portion of a public highway, must necessarily obstruct the public from using the area encroached upon and amounts to an offence within the meaning of S. 290, Penal Code. Emperor v. Nisar Muhammad Khan. 26 Cr. L. J. 942 : 86 I. C. 1006 : 26 P. L. R. 127 : 6 Lah. 203 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 454.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 290—Public nuisance—Passing urine in public place in village—Absence of evidence to show annoyance or injury to public—Act whether punishable—Essential ingredients of offence under S. 290.

The mere act of passing urine in any public place would not amount to an offence punishable under S. 290, Penal Code. Where a respectable man of fifty-five years passed urine in a grazing ground poromboke under cover of a tamarind tree in a village to which the Towns Nuisances Act did not apply; Held, that such an act does not generally cause any annoyance to the villagers in general and the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 290 of the Penal Code. In re : Vedagiri Perumal Naidu.

38 Cr. L. J. 120 :
166 I. C. 36 : 1936 M. W. N. 1151 :
44 L. W. 806 : 9 R. M. 324 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 130.

————S. 290—Public nuisance—Placing of charpoy temporarily on road.

Placing a charpoy on the road in the bazar temporarily, does not amount to the offence of causing public nuisance. Kamla Prasad v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 830 :
17 I. C. 574 : 10 A. L. J. 362.

————S. 290—Public nuisance—Skinning an animal which died natural death—Whether public nuisance.

The mere act of skinning an animal which dies a natural death does not in itself constitute a public nuisance. Emperor v. Beni.

15 Cr. L. J. 600 :
25 I. C. 352 : 12 A. L. J. 349 :
A. I. R. 1914 All. 363.

————S. 290—Public nuisance, user of premises giving rise to—Proprietors of premises, whether liable.

Speaking generally, where the user of premises gives rise to a nuisance, the person liable under S. 290, Penal Code, is the occupier for the time being, whoever he may be. A proprietor who is not in occupation of the premises is not liable unless his conduct amounts to an abetment of the offence under that section. Bhuban Ram v. Bibhuti Bhusan Biswas.

19 Cr. L. J. 915 :
47 I. C. 287 : 22 C. W. N. 1062 :
29 C. L. J. 262 : A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 539.

————S. 290—Public nuisance what constitutes—Annoyance of neighbours in general, necessity of—Theatre—Annoyance to neighbouring house—Conviction of proprietors, legality of.

Because the residents of a single house are annoyed by the noise of a theatre, the householder is not entitled to prosecute the proprietors of the theatre under S. 290, Penal Code. For a conviction under that section, annoyance must actually be caused to people in general occupying property in the vicinity. K. T. Hing v. J. N. Silas.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 185 :
128 I. C. 806 : 57 Cal. 849 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 102 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 713.

————S. 290—Public nuisance—What is.

Where the manager of a bone mill permitted a large stack of bones to remain uncovered in the open for a long time so as to become rotten and to emit a smell noxious to people living in or passing by the vicinity: Held, he was not doing an act which he was entitled to do in carrying on his trade in a reasonable way, and was therefore guilty of committing a public nuisance. G. Berckefeldt v. Emperor.

5 C. L. J. 40 :
I. L. R. 1934 Cal. 73.

————S. 291.

Sec also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 195.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 268.

————S. 292—Advertisement in newspaper relating to book containing obscene pictures—Liability of printer and publisher.

The printer and publisher of a newspaper was convicted of an offence under S. 292, Penal Code, in respect of an advertisement relating to a book on eugenics entitled Kashmiri Kok Shastra which contained the following passage. "Contains.....coloured pictures (photos) of eighty-four postures of men and women with interesting descriptions of these." The book did not in fact contain pictures of men and women cohabiting: Held, that the advertisement would not come within the purview of S. 292, Penal Code, even if it really referred to pictures of men and women cohabiting and the conviction was illegal. Jagat Narain Lall v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 773 :
110 I. C. 805 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 649.

————S. 292—Conviction under—Revision.

If the accused is not prejudiced in his defence and the prosecution maintains that the whole book is obscene, mere failure of the prosecution to mention particular passage, is no reason for interfering in revision. Kailash Chandra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 771 :
139 I. C. 461 : 36 C. W. N. 985 :
56 C. L. J. 123 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 623 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 651.

————S. 292—Frankness of expression, if obscenity.

A distinction should be observed between obscenity, i. e., language calculated to inflame the passions, and a certain primitive frankness of expression such as one would expect to find in a language like Marathi. It is not the primitive frankness or directness of expression which is most likely to corrupt or inflame the mind. Emperor v. Vishnu Krishna Puranik.

14 Cr. L. J. 248 :
19 I. C. 504 : 15 Bom. L. R. 307.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 292—Medical publications if 'obscene'—publications—Medical journal, description of sexual disorders in, if offence.

Disease is a thing to be combated, and descriptions of it, with cures suggested, printed in a paper intended to reach sufferers and doctors and not likely to come into the hands of others are not criminal. On the other hand, descriptions of defective sexual enjoyment, with advice for heightening and prolonging such enjoyment in the case of normal persons, should be kept out of public prints, as they amount to incentives to sensuality. Emperor v. Thakar Datt.

18 Cr. L. J. 126 :
37 I. C. 478 : 7 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
25 P. R. 1917 Cr. : A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 288.

———S. 292—Obscene book—Proof—Particular passages obscene—Other passages not—Liability.

In the case of a prosecution under S. 292, Penal Code, in respect of a book alleged to be obscene, if the prosecution succeeds in showing that the detailed passages on which they rely are of an obscene character, the author's liability in respect of those passages would not be saved or avoided merely by reference to other passages in the book which contain moral precepts of an unexceptionable character. Emperor v. Vishnu Krishna Puranik.

14 Cr. L. J. 248 :
19 I. C. 504 : 15 Bom. L. R. 307.

———S. 292—Obscene print—Principal and Agent—Liability of.

The mere fact that a person is proprietor and publisher of a newspaper is not sufficient to render him criminally liable in respect of matter inserted therein by one of his servants. There must be a distinct finding that the matter complained of was inserted by the order or owing to the negligence of the proprietor. Muntaz Ali v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 717 :
35 P. R. Cr. of 1905 : 6 P. L. R. 588.

———S. 292—Obscenity—Test of.

In determining whether a pamphlet is obscene within the meaning of S. 292, Penal Code, the test to be applied is, whether the tendency of the matter charged as obscenity is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influences. In each case the question is one of fact. Rahimatalli Mahomed-alli v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 513 :
62 I. C. 401 : 22 Bom. L. R. 166 :
A. I. R. 1920 Bom. 402.

———S. 292—Obscenity—Test of.

The term 'obscene' is not defined in Penal Code, but the test of obscenity is whether the matter charged as being obscene is likely to deprave and corrupt the minds of those who are open to such immoral influences and into whose hands the publication of the sort may fall. Public Prosecutor v. Mantripragada Markondeyulu.

18 Cr. L. J. 153 :
37 I. C. 521 : 5 L. W. 237 :
22 M. L. T. 169 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 1195.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 292—Obscenity—Test of.

The test in determining the obscenity of a publication is, whether the tendency of the matter charged as obscene is to deprave and corrupt those into whose hands such a publication might fall. Khirode Chander Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 177 :
13 I. C. 993 : 15 C. L. J. 151 :
39 Cal. 377.

———S. 292—Obscenity—Test of.

The test of obscenity is whether the language complained of is such as is calculated to deprave or corrupt those whose minds are open to immoral influences. That being the test, the important point to look at would be rather the form of expression than the actual meaning, for the same meaning may be obscenely expressed by one form of language, and yet by the use of another form of language may be couched in expressions free from reproach. Emperor v. Vishnu Krishna Puranik.

14 Cr. L. J. 248 :
19 I. C. 504 : 15 Bom. L. R. 307.

———S. 292—Obscenity—Test of.

The test of obscenity, with reference to a charge of distributing obscene literature, is whether the tendency of the matter is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influences and into whose hands a publication of this kind may fall. If a publication is detrimental to public morals and calculated to produce a pernicious effect in depraving and debauching the minds of the persons into whose hands it may come, it will be an obscene publication which it is the intention of the law to suppress. Emperor v. Hari Singh.

2 Cr. L. J. 520 :
25 A. W. N. 203 : I. L. R. 28 All. 100.

———S. 292—Obscenity—What is—Picture of nude woman when can be regarded as obscene under S. 292.

A picture of a woman in the nude is not per se obscene, where there is nothing in it which would shock or offend the taste of any ordinary or decent-minded person. Unless the pictures of nude females are an incentive to sensuality and excite impure thoughts in the minds of ordinary persons of normal temperament who may happen to look at them, they cannot be regarded as obscene within the meaning of S. 292, I. P. C. Sreeram Saksena v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 617 :
188 I. C. 526 : 44 C. W. N. 479 :
71 C. L. J. 257 : I. L. R. 1940, 1 Cal. 581 :
13 R. C. 11 : A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 290.

———S. 292—Offence under—Author is eminent, is no answer.

Where matter contained in a book is obscene, it is no justification of an offence under S. 292, Penal Code, that the matter published was written by an eminent writer. Public Prosecutor v. Mantripragada Markondeyulu.

18 Cr. L. J. 153 :
37 I. C. 521 : 5 L. W. 237 :
22 M. L. T. 169 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 1195.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 292—Offence under — Intention, whether material.

The question of intention of the writer is not germane to the consideration of an offence under S. 292, Penal Code, which can only be gathered from the character of the matter contained in the book, the publisher of which must be deemed to have intended the natural consequences of his act. Where a publication is devoted to depicting the illicit passion of a libertine towards the married wife of another and is priced so low as to be within reach of the man in the street, it is an obscene publication, even though the intention of the publisher was to publish the classical composition of a standard author in the true interests of the literature. Public Prosecutor v. Mantripragada Markondeyulu. 18 Cr. L. J. 153 : 37 I. C. 521 : 5 L. W. 237 : 22 M. L. T. 169 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 1195.

———S. 292 — Religious book when obscene.

A passage may not be "obscene" in its place in a religious book but may become so by being published in a journal sold to the public. Ghulam Hussain v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 505 :
39 I. C. 473 : 5 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 219.

———S. 292—Religious book, when obscene.

But if the objectionable passages contained in a religious book are extracted and printed separately, and such passages deal with matters which are to be judged by the standard of humane conduct, and the tendency of such publication is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to immoral influences, such publication may not be justified on the ground that the passages formed part of a religious book. Khironde Chander Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 177 :
13 I. C. 993 : 15 C. L. J. 151 :
39 Cal. 377.

———S. 292 — Religious publication, if obscene.

As the tendency of a religious publication is not to deprave or corrupt the morals of persons, it is not obscene within the meaning of S. 292, Penal Code. Khironde Chander Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 177 :
13 I. C. 993 : 15 C. L. J. 151 :
39 Cal. 377.

———S. 292— Sale of Obscene books— Offence— Intention is immaterial though it is material for sentence.

The motive of the publishers in publishing the book does not prevent the book from being obscene if the descriptions are obscene. The motive may be taken into account as regards the question of sentence; but whether it is obscene or not depends on the material itself and not upon the reasons for its publication. Kailash Chandra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 771 :
139 I. C. 461 : 36 C. W. N. 985 :
56 C. L. J. 123 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 623 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 651.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 292—Sale of obscene work—Offence —Intention is immaterial.

If in fact a work is one of which it is certain that it would suggest to the minds of the young of either sex or even to persons of more advanced years thoughts of a most impure and libidinous character, then its sale is a criminal offence, and it is immaterial that the accused has in view an ulterior object which is innocent or even laudable. Khironde Chander Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 177 :
13 I. C. 993 : 15 C. L. J. 151 :
39 Cal. 377.

———S. 292—Selling obscene literature —Offence—Intention is immaterial.

If a publication is in fact obscene, it is no defence to a charge of selling or distributing the same that the intention of the person so charged was innocent. Emperor v. Hari Singh.

2 Cr. L. J. 520 :
25 A. W. N. 203 : I. L. R. 28 All. 100.

———S. 292—Selling obscene books—Offence —Intention is immaterial.

Where the consequences of such publication are to excite in the minds of the readers impure thoughts and to insinuate in their minds revolting ideas which had no place there before, an offence punishable under S. 292, Penal Code, is committed, and it is immaterial what the printer or editor's intention was. Ghulam Hussain v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 505 :
39 I. C. 473 : 5 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 219.

———S. 292—Test of obscenity.

The test of obscenity is whether the tendency of the matter charged as obscene is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influences, and into whose hands a publication of that sort may fall. The test is how it affects young people of either sex whose minds are impressionable. Kailash Chandra v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 771 :
139 I. C. 461 : 36 C. W. N. 985 :
56 C. L. J. 123 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 623 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 651.

———S. 292—The Urya book, if obscene.

The Urya book Natu Ohari is not an obscene publication, as it is an old religious work and the incidents described in the book would not suggest immoral thoughts in those who believe in the divinity of Krishna and Radha. Khironde Chander Roy Chowdhury v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 177 :
13 I. C. 993 : 15 C. L. J. 151 : 39 Cal. 377.

———S. 294.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 106.

———S. 294 — Conviction for uttering obscene song in public place, whether involves breach of the peace.

A conviction under S. 294, Penal Code, for uttering obscene abuse in a public place may amount to a conviction for an offence involving a breach of the peace within the meaning of S. 106, Cr. P. C. Emperor v. Mi Kun Ya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 555 :

U. B. R. 1904, 1st Qr. P. C. 4.

———S. 294—Sentence for offence under—
Sentence of 3 months is unduly severe.

A sentence of three months for an offence under S. 294, is unduly severe. Parliam v. Emperor.
2 Bur. L. J. 98 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 253.

———S. 294-A—Conviction under—Legality of.

Petitioner issued a circular relating to a lottery in which he stated that the sweep would close on a particular day and that the Draw would take place on a certain day under the supervision of the patrons stated in the tickets and that the prize-winners would be notified of the result by telegram. Prizes of different values were mentioned in the circular and orders were solicited : Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 294-A, Penal Code. Chamanlal Pranjivandas v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 980 :

87 I. C. 516 : 27 Bom. L. R. 363 :

A. I. R. 1925 Bom. 243.

———S. 294-A—Drawing—Meaning of.

The meaning of the term 'drawing' in relation to a lottery is that the lots should be drawn by some mechanical or human agency involving their chance extraction. Emperor v. Gurbaksh Singh.

36 Cr. L. J. 785 :

155 I. C. 590 : 35 P. L. R. 753 :

16 Lah. 51 : 7 R. L. 738 :

A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 840.

———S. 294-A—Every one getting something for his money, whether lottery.

Giving prizes out of the profits of sale to the lucky ones who happen to receive the lucky tickets supplied to every purchaser from a shop does amount to a lottery within the meaning of S. 294-A, Penal Code, if the general public bought the tickets for the chance of a prize, and not for the sake of the things supposed to be sold. Chakrabathy v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 143 :

33 I. C. 319 : 9 Bur. L. T. 124 :

A. I. R. 1916 L. Bur. 56.

———S. 294-A—Gaming house—What is.

The members of the Committee of a club who exercise full control over club matters, inclusive of the premises, 'keep' the premises of the club within the meaning of that expression as used in S. 294-A, Penal Code. Where a house is kept open for a double purpose, viz., as an honest social club for those who do not desire to play as well as for the purpose of gaming for those who desire to play, it is a house opened and kept for the purpose of gaming, and it is not necessary to show that the house is used exclusively for the purpose of drawing a lottery. Where the common object is the keeping of a place for the purpose of drawing a lottery not authorized by Government, all who engage in such an object are individually guilty and can be prosecuted jointly or severally. A Collector who is a Revenue Officer is not authorized to sanction a lottery, nor would the mere act of taking income-tax from the club on the profits of the lotteries constitute authorization. Emperor v. A. J. Cooke.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

15 Cr. L. J. 243 :

23 I. C. 195 : 7 Bur. L. T. 187 :

A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 23.

———S. 294-A—Interpretation.

The word 'drawing' is used in S. 294-A, Penal Code, in its physical sense. Vasirally v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 9 :

112 I. C. 777 : 30 Bom. L. R. 1426 :

I. R. 1929 Bom. 50 : 53 Bom. 57 :

A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 550.

———S. 294-A—Interpretation.

The word 'goods' in S. 294-A, Penal Code, applies not only to movables but also to immovable property. In re : O. M. Peddamma Reddi.

28 Cr. L. J. 4 (a) :

99 I. C. 36 : 24 L. W. 655 :

51 M. L. J. 685 : 1926 M. W. N. 949 :

38 M. L. T. 136 : 50 Mad. 479 :

A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 66.

———S. 294-A—Interpretation.

The words 'not authorized' in S. 294-A, Penal Code, mean no more and no less than 'unless authorized, or not having been authorised or without authority,' and are in the nature of an exception or proviso and under S. 105 of the Evidence Act, the burden of proof lies on the accused to show that the lottery was authorised by Government. Emperor v. A. J. Cooke.

15 Cr. L. J. 243 :

23 I. C. 195 : 7 Bur. L. T. 187 :

A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 23.

———S. 294-A—Keeping lottery house.

Company for conduct of lottery is illegal even if some objects are philanthropic. Universal Mutual Aid and Poor Houses Association, Limited, Madras v. A. W. Thoppa Naidu.

33 Cr. L. J. 792 :

139 I. C. 644 : 1932 M. W. N. 904 :

63 M. L. J. 554 : 36 L. W. 610 :

56 Mad. 26 : I. R. 1932 Mad. 759 :

A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 16.

———S. 294-A—Keeping lottery office—Lottery—Delivery of ticket books for sale of tickets—Offence.

Where ticket books relating to a lottery were delivered by the accused to several persons with a view to the tickets therein being sold by these persons to others : Held, that the delivery of the ticket books could not be considered in any sense to be a mere casual or gratuitous delivery and the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 294-A, Penal Code. Emperor v. Diwan Chand Jolly.

31 Cr. L. J. 692 :

124 I. C. 347 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 81.

———S. 294-A—Keeping lottery office.

Offer of cash bonus to donors by drawing lots—Scheme is lottery and company conducting it should be wound up. Universal

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Mutual Aid and Poor Houses Association, Limited, Madras v. A. D. Thoppa Naidu.

33 Cr. L. J. 792 :
139 I. C. 644 : 1932 M. W. N. 904 :
63 M. L. J. 554 : 36 L. W. 610 :
56 Mad. 26 : I. R. 1932 Mad. 759 :
A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 16.

————S. 294-A—Keeping lottery office.

The office or place, the keeping of which is punishable under the 1st part of S. 294-A is a place or office where the actual drawing of the lottery takes place. Keeping a small office for doing preliminary business and correspondence and not intended and fit for the drawing purposes, is not indictable under this part of the section. Madan Gopal v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 382 :
6 I. C. 620 : 14 P. W. R. 1910 Cr. :
17 P. R. 1910 Cr. : 92 P. L. R. 1910.

————S. 294-A—“Keeping office for purpose of drawing lottery”, if offence.

An offence under S. 294-A, Penal Code, is made out when it is shown that the accused kept an office where he carried on the necessary preliminary work for running a lottery and received the lottery moneys and which he held out to the public as the place where the lottery would finally be drawn. Ramaswami Mudaliar v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 688 :
69 I. C. 272 : 16 L. W. 757 :
44 M. L. J. 595 : A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 187.

————S. 294-A—Liability.

Officers of Association are liable for an offence under S. 294-A. The General Relief Association v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 678 :
138 I. C. 751 : 33 P. L. R. 824 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 534 ;
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 581.

————S. 294-A—Lottery, meaning of.

A lottery is an arrangement for the distribution of prizes by chance among persons purchasing tickets. F. A. D'Souza v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 777 :
95 I. C. 313 : 20 S. L. R. 192 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 213.

————S. 294-A—Lottery not sanctioned by Government — Handbill announcing sale of lottery tickets—Publication of handbill, whether offence.

The publication of a handbill announcing that tickets of a certain lottery not sanctioned by the Government can be had at a particular place is not sufficient to constitute a publication of a proposal to pay any sum on any event or contingency relative or applicable to the drawing of any ticket in any lottery not authorised by Government, and is, therefore, not an offence under para. 2 of S. 294-A, Penal Code. Emperor v. Rachappa Muriappa Shabadi.

26 Cr. L. J. 222 :
83 I. C. 1006 : 26 Bom. L. R. 968 :
A. I. R. 1925 Bom. 26.

————S. 294-A—Lottery, what amounts to.

The accused who was a dealer in cigarettes had caused five rupee notes to be inserted in some packets of cigarettes so that any purchaser of a packet of cigarettes stood a chance of getting a packet containing a five rupee note, and published many handbills in which these facts were set out. The accused was convicted on these facts, for an offence under S. 294-A (2), Penal Code, and fined : Held, that though the scheme published by the accused amounted to a lottery, the accused could not be convicted under S. 294-A (2) inasmuch as there was no actual drawing of lots, which is an essential ingredient of the offence. Vazirally v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 9 :
112 I. C. 777 : 30 Bom. L. R. 1426 :
I. R. 1929 Bom. 50 : 53 Bom. 57 :
A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 550.

————S. 294-A—Lottery—What is.

A scheme for distributing prizes, etc., of the following description is a ‘lottery’ within the meaning of the 2nd part of the section : “Every subscriber pays Rs. 10-8 and gets a bond for Rs. 10. This sum is guaranteed by one of seven Banks and not only is negotiable but can be cashed at the Bank at par at any time. The draws were to start when 2,000 tickets had been sold and at stated intervals, further drawings were to be made until every one had got a prize or had had their money returned. Those who did not draw prizes in the first draw would go on drawing at each distribution till they got a prize, or decided to withdraw their money. Thus the original ten rupees was absolutely safe, the extra eight annas was to cover the cost of correspondence, etc”. Madan Gopal v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 382 :
6 I. C. 620 : 14 P. W. R. 1910 Cr. :
17 P. R. 1910 Cr. : 92 P. L. R. 1910.

————S. 294-A—Lottery—What is.

Avowed object of association charitable—Interest derived from capital divisible by lots—No provision for return of capital—Transaction amounts to a lottery. A. D. Raj v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 696 :
138 I. C. 687 : 10 Rang. 232 :
I. R. 1923 Rang. 166 :
A. I. R. 1932 Rang. 143.

————S. 294-A—Lottery—What is.

Scheme for giving of gramophones as prizes to subscribers to monthly chits—Winners relieved from future subscription—Nature of transaction held lottery. Public Prosecutor v. Munisami Naidu.

35 Cr. L. J. 1232 :
150 I. C. 1119 : 1934 M. W. N. 265 :
40 L. W. 26 : 67 M. L. J. 163 :
57 Mad. 923 : 7 R. M. 66 :
A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 464.

————S. 294-A—Lottery—What is.

Sweets purchaser getting ticket entitling him to try his luck at lottery—Transaction held within the meaning of S. 294-A. Dhana v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1249 :
150 I. C. 1093 : 28 S. L. R. 112 :
7 R. S. 39 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 69.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 294-A—Lottery—What is.

The accused ran two lotteries in the following manner: (i) Tickets numbered 1 to 100 were put into a pitcher and the public purchased other tickets and chose a number consisting of either one or two digits which at the time of the sale was written upon their tickets. In the evening three tickets were drawn from the pitcher, their sum was taken and the last two figures of their sum became the winning numbers. Those persons were then adjudged to be winners whose tickets bore either one or both of the last two digits of the total so obtained; (ii) Instead of drawing three tickets from a pitcher the average price at which the various sales of opium had taken place that month in Calcutta was calculated and prizes were awarded to those persons who had predicted the last or the last two figures of that price: Held, (1) that in the first case the distribution of prizes was determined solely by the fortuitous issue of numbers from the pitchers and that it was essentially a lottery within the meaning of S. 294-A of the Code: (2) that since there was no drawing in this particular case, the transaction did not render the accused liable to punishment under S. 294-A, Penal Code. Emperor v. Mukandi Lal.

18 Cr. L. J. 768 :
41 I. C. 144 : 35 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
33 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. : A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 93.

—S. 294-A—Offence under—Essential ingredients of.

The actual drawing of lots is an essential ingredient of the offence under the said section. Vazirally v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 9 :
112 I. C. 777 : 30 Bom. L. R. 1426 :
I. R. 1929 Bom. 50 : 53 Bom. 57 :
A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 550.

—S. 294-A—Offence under—When constituted.

Irish sweepstake ticket containing proposal for payment of different sums to ticket holders—Publication of such report is offence under S. 294-A. Rabindra Nath Dhar v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 518 :
143 I. C. 113 : 56 C. L. J. 539 :
I. R. 1933 Cal. 336 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 332.

—S. 294-A—Offence under—When constituted.

Publication of scheme of lottery—Scheme not contemplating drawing by mechanical or human agency involving their chance extraction—No offence is committed. Emperor v. Gurbaksh Singh.

36 Cr. L. J. 785 :
155 I. C. 590 : 35 P. L. R. 753 :
16 Lah. 51 : 7 R. L. 738 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 840.

—S. 294-A—Offence under—When constituted.

Where on the face of a lottery ticket it is stated that the prize, if any, due to the number on the ticket will be paid, it contains a proposal inviting persons to take part in the lottery, and offering such a ticket for sale amounts to publication of said proposal and constitutes an offence under S. 294-A of the Penal Code. F. A. D'Souza v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 777 :
95 I. C. 313 : 20 S. L. R. 192 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 213.

—S. 294 A—Proposal—What is.

A drawing list which sets out on the first page the list of the winners drawn on a certain day in the month of May, and on its back contained the description: "The sweep for June is now open. It will close on the 20th June 1913. Settling day 23rd June 1913. All tickets must be taken in the name of a member, etc." was held to be a proposal within the meaning of S. 294-A, Penal Code. Emperor v. A. J. Cooke.

15 Cr. L. J. 243 :
23 I. C. 195 : 7 Bur. L. T. 187 :
A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 23.

—S. 294-A—Prosecution for offence under—Withholding of—Effect of.

Government declaring chit fund illegal—Prosecution withheld provided chit funds were wound up within certain time and subscriptions paid up—Accused's failure—Prosecution under S. 294-A—Withholding of prosecution held not tantamount to authorization of chit fund. Public Prosecutor v. Soosai Pillai.

39 Cr. L. J. 916 :
177 I. C. 640 : 47 L. W. 573 :
1938 M. W. N. 431 : 1938, 1 M. L. J. 724 :
11 R. M. 363 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 715.

—S. 294-A—Publication of proposal—When offence.

Per Tyabji, A. J. C.—The Legislature could not have intended that the communication of a single proposal for participating in a lottery (for instance the offer of a single ticket or inquiry about one) should be punishable as a publication of the proposal for a lottery, or to the abetment of that offence. Per Kennedy, J. C.—A mere casual and gratuitous delivery of a lottery ticket is not necessarily the publication for a proposal within the meaning of S. 294-A, Penal Code. F. A. D'Souza v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 777 :
95 I. C. 313 : 20 S. L. R. 192 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 213.

—S. 294-A—Raffle of ginning factory, whether constitutes lottery.

The publication of an advertisement of a lottery by which a ginning factory is to be raffled, is an offence within the meaning of S. 294-A, Penal Code. In re : C. M. Peddammalla Reddi.

28 Cr. L. J. 4 (a) :
99 I. C. 36 : 24 L. W. 655 :
51 M. L. J. 685 : 1926 M. W. N. 949 :
38 M. L. T. 136 : 50 Mad. 479 :
A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 66.

—S. 295.

See also (i) Evidence Act, 1872, S. 9.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 297.

—S. 295—Conviction under, offence of—Legality of.

Four accused entering complainant's house and one of them demolishing wall being constructed by him and throwing away pindi of Naika Gossain worshipped by complainant and his family, into drain—Conviction under S. 295 is erroneous—Accused can be convicted under S. 297. Amir Hassan v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 810 :
189 I. C. 867 : 21 P. L. T. 121 :
6 B. R. 874 : 13 R. P. 174 :
A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 414.

———S. 295—'Defile', meaning of.

The word 'defile' in S. 295, Penal Code, is not confined to the idea of making dirty but is also extended to ceremonial pollution, which, however, must be proved. Kutti Chami Moothan v. Rama Pallar.

19 Cr. L. J. 960 :
47 I. C. 812 : 24 M. L. T. 181 :
41 Mad. 980 : A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 755.

———S. 295—'Defile'—Meaning of.

Where the accused, who belonged to the Moothan caste in Malabar and claimed the status of Vaisyas, entered into the Nallambalam of a temple which was open to non-Brahmins : Held, that their act did not amount to 'defiling' the temple within the meaning of S. 295, Penal Code. Kutti Chami Moothan v. Rama Pallar.

19 Cr. L. J. 960 :
47 I. C. 812 : 24 M. L. T. 181 :
41 Mad. 980 : A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 755.

———S. 295—Disturbing religious ceremony—Carrying flags to temple through public streets, if offence.

The carrying of flags through public streets of a temple by a procession of certain Lodhas with the sanction of public authorities, is to be considered as the performance of a religious ceremony and the assembly engaged in the carrying of these flags is an assembly lawfully engaged in the performance of a religious ceremony. An attack on such a procession constitutes an offence punishable under S. 296, Penal Code. Masit v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 573 :
12 I. C. 837 : 34 All. 78 :
8 A. L. J. 1150.

———S. 295—Insulting religion of any class.

Damage to mosque by placing rafters of house in walls thereof—Absence of knowledge of damage or insult to Muhammadan religion—No offence. Sohana Ram v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 426 :
67 I. C. 586 : 3 L. L. J. 247.

———S. 295—Killing cow with intention of offending religious feelings of Hindus, if offence.

The killing of a cow with the intention or knowledge of offending the religious susceptibilities of Hindus is not an offence under S. 295, Penal Code. Where in a village the Sikhs killed some fowls by the process known as jhatka in the vicinity of a mosque, thereby causing annoyance to the Muhammadans, who in retaliation killed a cow with the knowledge that the Sikhs would be likely to consider such killing as an insult to their religion : Held, that the Muhammadans were not guilty of an offence under S. 295, Penal Code. Ali Muhammad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 314 :
44 I. C. 330 : 1 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. :
160 P. L. R. 1917 : 10 P. R. 1918 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 365.

———S. 295—Killing of dedicated bull, if offence.

The killing of a dedicated bull for the sake of the meat and the value of the skin, is not an offence under S. 295, Penal Code. Pir Ali v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 453 :
56 I. C. 457 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 550.

———S. 295—Scope.

Ahir wearing sacred thread after due ceremony—Brahmins breaking it away—Case, does not come under S. 295. Sheo Shankar v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 550 :
188 I. C. 127 : 1940 O. L. R. 309 :
1940 O. W. N. 509 : 12 R. O. 427 :
A. I. R. 1940 Oudh 348.

———S. 295—Untouchable entering temple—Intention of defiling sacred object—Offence.

When custom that has held for many centuries ordains that an untouchable, whose very touch is, in the opinion of devout Hindus, pollution, should not enter the enclosure surrounding the shrine of any Hindu God, and when an untouchable with that knowledge deliberately enters a temple and defiles the idol, he commits an offence within the purview of S. 295, Penal Code. Atma Ram v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 155 :
76 I. C. 299 : A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 121.

———S. 295-A—Charge under—Fact that accused wrote pamphlet in reply to one written by member of other religion, whether defence.

It is no defence to a charge under S. 295-A, for any one merely to say that he was writing a pamphlet in reply to one written by an adherent of another religion who has attacked his own religion. If he chooses to write such a pamphlet, he must take care of the language which he employs. The King v. Nga Shwe Hpi.

40 Cr. L. J. 640 :
182 I. C. 96 : 1939 Rang. 302 :
11 R. Rang. 514 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 199.

———S. 295-A—Offence under—What is.

What is punishable under S. 295-A is not so much the matter of the discourse, written or spoken, as the manner of it. The Court must, therefore, look with great care at the words used. If the words used caused persons to feel insulted but were only such as might possibly wound, and in fact did so, then there would be no offence under the section; if the words used were bound to be regarded by any reasonable man as grossly offensive and provocative, and were maliciously intended to be regarded as such, then an offence would have been committed. The King v. Nga Shwe Hpi.

40 Cr. L. J. 640 :
182 I. C. 96 : 1939 Rang. 302 :
11 R. Rang. 514 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 199.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 295, 447—Offences under sections, whether separate offences.

When a Hindu temple is entered into and its property damaged, the offence under S. 447, Penal Code, cannot be dissociated from the offence under S. 295, Penal Code, which only had expression in the entry into the temple. The two offences are really one. Bahra v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1173 :

82 I. C. 37 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 50.

—S. 296—"Assembly" within meaning of S. 296.

For the purpose of S. 296, I. P. C., three persons gathered together for purposes of worship are sufficient to constitute an "assembly." Emperor v. Aftab Mohammed Khan. 41 Cr. L. J. 647 :

188 I. C. 649 : 1940 A. L. J. 206 :

13 R. A. 55 : A. I. R. 1940 All. 291.

—S. 296—Attacking procession passing through private place, if offence.

Muhammadans taking procession through private grove—Fight between Hindus and Muhammedans—Right to take procession through grove not established—Offence under S. 296 held not committed by Hindus. Bulgar Singh v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 778 :

144 I. C. 540 : 10 O. W. N. 582 :

I. R. 1933 Oudh 257 :

A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 196.

—S. 296—Causing a disturbance, what amounts to.

The essential ingredient of an offence under S. 296, Penal Code, is the doing of an act which causes a disturbance. The mere spreading of false rumours, although they might result in most serious consequences, cannot be described as "causing a disturbance." Mohammad Husain v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 421 :

51 I. C. 197 : 17 A. L. J. 820 :

A. I. R. 1919 All. 188.

—S. 296—Disturbing assembly lawfully engaged in worship on highway, if offence.

As no assembly can be lawfully engaged within the meaning of S. 296, Penal Code, on a highway, the accused could not be convicted of an offence under that section for having taken possession of drums from certain boys who were beating them on a public road to summon people for a procession during Muharram, which the accused restored to them the next day. Emperor v. Dhalu Ram.

10 Cr. L. J. 445 :

3 I. C. 981 : 119 P. L. R. 1909.

—S. 296—Disturbing religious assembly—Proof of—Procession in public streets before the mosque—Hours of worship notified by District Magistrate—Procession during the notified hours.

It is not necessary for the purpose of S. 296, Penal Code, that the accused should have had an active intention to disturb religious worship. It is sufficient if knowing they were likely to disturb it by their music, they took the risk and did actually cause disturbance. Public Prosecutor v. Sunku Seethaiah. 11 Cr. L. J. 400 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

6 I. C. 774 : 7 M. L. T. 430.

—S. 297.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 448.

—S. 297—Applicability.

While S. 297 is comprehensively worded, the offence at which it strikes, is intimately bound up with the commission of a trespass or, subject to that, of deliberately offering an indignity to a corpse or causing disturbance to a body of persons assembled for religious purposes. Mustaffa v. Motilal.

10 Cr. L. J. 160 :

2 I. C. 825.

—S. 297—Burial ground, if must be in use.

It is not necessary for the purposes of S. 297, Penal Code, that a burial ground should be in use. If it has been a burial ground and if there are visible graves in it, it becomes a depository for the remains of the dead; and any act of trespass with the specified intention or knowledge, by which the feeling of the relations of the dead are wounded, would come under the section. Jhulam Sain v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 117 :

18 I. C. 677 : 40 Cal. 548 :

17 C. W. N. 534.

—S. 297—Digging up graves and exposing bones of dead bodies by joint owner of grove land, if offence.

Where a joint owner in the course of demarcating his share in joint grove land, dug up certain graves which were in that grove and exposed the bones of the persons buried there, in spite of the remonstrances of their relations, is guilty of an offence under S. 297, Penal Code. Ram Prasad v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 532 :

12 I. C. 300 : 8 A. L. J. 927 : 33 All. 773.

—S. 297—Disturbance—What amounts to.

The grand-daughter-in-law of the complainant having died, the complainant and his relations took the body out to the cremation ground and were preparing to cremate it, when the accused came there and told them not to cremate the body, and on being asked why, said that they would state the reason to the Police: Held, that the mere utterance of the words "do not cremate the body," unaccompanied by any attempt to prevent the cremation, could not be regarded as a disturbance to the persons assembled for the performance of the funeral ceremonies within the meaning of S. 297, Penal Code. Mangat v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 145 (a) :

49 I. C. 337 : 2 P. R. 1919 Cr. :

4 P. W. R. 1919 Cr. : 44 P. L. R. 1919 :

A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 433.

—S. 297—Gist of offence—Offence under S. 297, gist of.

The gist of an offence under S. 297 is trespass, and before a person can be convicted under that section, it must be proved that there was a trespass by him with the intention and in the places mentioned in the section. Jhari Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 443 :

56 I. C. 235 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 349.

————S. 297—Interpretation.

Per LeRossignol, J.—The word “trespass” in S. 297, Penal Code, has not any peculiar meaning. Umar Din v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 683 :

30 I. C. 731 : 23 P. R. 1915 Cr. :

40 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 409.

————S. 297—Putting obstacles in burying dead child, if offence.

An accused person who deliberately puts obstacles in the way of a complainant burying his dead son because he has not joined the Khilafat Movement but does not use violence to him though he effectively boycotts him, is not guilty of an offence under S. 297, Penal Code, of having offered an indignity to the corpse of the dead child and cannot also be bound over to keep the peace inasmuch as the act is an act of boycotting and not a criminal act under any law. Amanat v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 72 :

65 I. C. 424 : 20 A. L. J. 93 :

A. I. R. 1922 All. 184.

————S. 297—Sexual intercourse in mosque, if offence.

Where a man and a woman enter a mosque and have sexual intercourse in it, they are guilty of an offence under S. 297, Penal Code. Magsud Husain v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 711 :

73 I. C. 935 : 21 A. L. J. 455 :

45 All. 529 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 9.

————S. 297—Trespass in burial place not in use, if offence.

A particular piece of land used to be a burial ground about 14 years ago. Since then under the orders of the Municipality, it had not been used for burying purposes, but there were graves still visible on it. The accused commenced to raise a shed over the grave of the complainant's relations with the knowledge that the feelings of the complainant would be likely to be wounded thereby: Held, that the accused was rightly convicted under S. 297, Penal Code. Jhulam Sain v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 117 :

18 I. C. 677 : 17 C. W. N. 534 : 40 Cal. 548.

————S. 297—Trespass—Meaning of.

Per Richardson, J.—The term “trespass” in S. 297, Penal Code, means any violent or injurious act, and is not restricted to the same meaning as that attached to the expression “criminal trespass” by S. 441 of the Code. Jhulam Sain v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 117 :

18 I. C. 677 : 17 C. W. N. 534 : 40 Cal. 548.

————S. 297—‘Trespass,’ meaning of.

S. 297, Penal Code, does not require the prosecution to prove that the trespass had been committed on a place set apart for the performance of funeral rites or as a depository for the remains of the dead. The section is equally satisfied if the prosecution are in a position to prove that the trespass occurred on any place of sepulchre. But where there have been only a few isolated and secret cases of burial in the course of many years on a piece of property, that would not be enough to constitute it a place of sepulchre within the meaning of the section. Per Beaman, J.—The trespass contemplated in S. 297 is such a trespass as is defined by the Penal Code. Mustaffa v. Motilal.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

10 Cr. L. J. 160 :

2 I. C. 825.

————S. 297—“Trespass,” meaning of.

The term “trespass” in S. 297, Penal Code, appears to mean any violent or injurious act committed in such place and with such knowledge or intention as is defined in that section. Mustan v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 553 :

81 I. C. 41 : 1 Rang. 690 :

A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 106.

————S. 297—Trespass—Meaning of.

The word ‘trespass’ in S. 297 means ‘any violent or injurious act committed in such place and with such knowledge or intention as is defined in the section.’ Abdul Kadir v. Abdul Kasim.

33 Cr. L. J. 517 :

137 I. C. 872 : 36 C. W. N. 544 :

I. R. 1932 Cal. 392 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 459.

————S. 297—Trespass, meaning of.

The word ‘trespass’ in S. 297, Penal Code, does not mean criminal trespass as defined in other parts of the Code. In this section it must be taken to have been used in its original meaning as covering any injury or offence done coupled with entry upon property. Magsud Husain v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 711 :

73 I. C. 935 : 21 A. L. J. 455 :

45 All. 529 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 9.

————S. 297—Trespass—What amounts to.

Where, a vendee of a land which contains graves, enters on the land and destroys the graves, he enters not on his own property, but upon property which is waqf and which he cannot lawfully take possession of, and his entry on the graves for the purpose of destroying or levelling them is wrongful and amounts to a “trespass” on a place of sepulchre within the meaning of S. 297, Penal Code. Umar din v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 683 :

30 I. C. 731 : 23 P. R. 1915 Cr. :

40 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. : A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 409.

————S. 297—Trespass—What is.

Person put in possession by Civil Court—Damage done to graves in the land. Trespass is committed when feelings of persons interested in graves are likely to be wounded. Abdul Kadir v. Abdul Kasim.

33 Cr. L. J. 517 :

137 I. C. 872 : 36 C. W. N. 544 :

I. R. 1932 Cal. 392 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 459.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 297, 441—“Trespass,” meaning of—Purchaser of land containing graves, if commits trespass by destroying graves—Purchaser, if acquires title in graves—Vaqf.

The word “trespass” in S. 297, Penal Code, has not the same meaning as is attached to “criminal trespass” in S. 441 of the same Code. It denotes there a wrongful act. An act of a person who destroys or disturbs a place of sepulchre with the intention of wounding the feelings of any person, or with the knowledge that the feelings of any person are likely to be wounded, is wrongful and amounts to a “trespass” within the meaning of S. 297, Penal Code, no matter whether the land in which the place of “sepulchre” is included does or does not belong to the persons who are guilty of the acts of destruction. Umar Din v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 683 :
30 I. C. 731 : 23 P. R. 1915 Cr.
40 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :

—Ss. 297, 504—Conviction under—Legality of.

The accused had gone to a mosque of which he was a trustee, for midday prayer as usual. After the service he was asked by some others why he had, on former occasions, abused the Maulvi and the congregation. An altercation having ensued, he began to abuse all and sundry and was charged with an offence under S. 297, Penal Code : Held, (1) that the mere fact that the accused was a trustee of the mosque did not take the case out of the purview of S. 297 ; (2) but that inasmuch as the unpiousness began at the instance of other members of the congregation, S. 297 could not apply to the case ; (3) that the accused committed an offence punishable under S. 504, Penal Code, and thus being a cognate offence, there was no bar to an alteration of the finding. Mus-tan v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 553 :
81 I. C. 41 : I. Rang. 690 :
A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 106.

—S. 298—Offence under—What is.

Killing of cow in full view of Hindu houses is offence under S. 298. Mir Chhiltan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 202 :
166 I. C. 373 (1) : 1936 A. L. J. 1197 :
9 R. A. 406 (1) : A. I. R. 1937 All. 13.

—S. 298—Scope.

S. 298, Penal Code, is much wider in its scope than S. 295 and includes any action which is known to wound the religious feelings of others. Mir Chhiltan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 202 :
166 I. C. 373 (1) : 1936 A. L. J. 1197 :
9 R. A. 406 (1) : A. I. R. 1937 All. 13.

—Ss. 298, 295-A—Charge under S. 298—
Fact that accused intended to wound religious feelings to draw attention to some matter in need of reform, whether defence to charges under.

It is no defence to proceedings under S. 298, Penal Code, that religious feelings were deliberately shocked or wounded by the defendant in order to draw attention to some matter in need of reform. Under S. 295-A, however, the prosecution must prove, more than under S. 298 ; they must show insult for the sake of insulting and with an intention which springs from malice and malice alone. To charge under this section, therefore, it would be a defence to say : “I had no malicious intention towards a class, but I did intend to wound or shock the feelings of an individual so that attention might, however rudely, be called to the reform which I had in view.” The King v. Nga Shwe Hpi.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 640 :
182 I. C. 96 : 1939 Rang. 302 :
11 R. Rang. 514 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 199.

—S. 299.

See also Penal Code, 1800, S. 300.

—S. 299—‘Causing death’, meaning of.

The expression “causing death” in S. 299, Penal Code, means putting an end to a human life, and all the three intentions mentioned in the section must be directed either deliberately to putting an end to a human life or to some act which, to the knowledge of the accused, is likely to eventuate in the putting an end to a human life. The knowledge must have reference to the particular circumstances in which an accused is placed. The intention of the accused must be judged, not in the light of actual circumstances, but in the light of what he supposed to be the circumstances. A man is not guilty of culpable homicide if his intention was directed to what he supposed to be a lifeless body. In re : Palani Goundan.

20 Cr. L. J. 404 :
51 I. C. 164 : 37 M. L. J. 17 :
1919 M. W. N. 340 : 42 Mad. 547 :
10 L. W. 45 : 26 M. L. T. 68 :
A. I. R. 1920 Mad. 862.

—S. 299—Culpable homicide and murder.

Culpable homicide when amounts to murder, stated. Blitkari v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1113 :
150 I. C. 819 : 1934 O. L. R. 627 :
11 O. W. N. 851 : 7 R. O. 44 :
A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 405.

—S. 299—Culpable homicide—Evidence.

In order that a person should be guilty of culpable homicide, it is indispensable that the death of deceased should be connected with the act of violence or other primary cause, not merely by a chain of causes and effect, but by such direct influence as is calculated to produce the effect without the intervention of any considerable change of circumstances. Nga Ba Min v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 205 :
159 I. C. 1032 : 8 R. Rang. 309 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 418.

—S. 299—Culpable homicide or murder.

Culpable homicide may not amount to murder : (a) where though the evidence is sufficient to constitute murder, one or more of the exceptions to S. 800, apply, or (b) where the degree of mens rea specified under S. 299 is present but not the special degrees referred to by S. 800. Mahomed Hasan v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

36 Cr. L. J. 22 :
152 I. C. 271 : 28 S. L. R. 353 :
7 R. S. 80 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 145.

———S. 299—Culpable homicide or murder.

Not only does the Code draw a distinction between intention and knowledge but fine distinctions are drawn between the degrees of intention to inflict bodily injury. Mahomed Hasan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 22 :
152 I. C. 271 : 28 S. L. R. 353 :
7 R. S. 80 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 145.

———S. 299—Homicide—Ligature strangulation whether homicidal or suicidal—Presumption.

There is no presumption in law that a ligature strangulation may or must be presumed to be homicidal and not suicidal. Even taking it as a presumption of fact, such a presumption cannot be safely made, and a finding that a particular strangulation was homicidal, cannot possibly be made to rest on this so-called presumption. In re : Kanakasabai Pillai.

41 Cr. L. J. 369 :
186 I. C. 704 : 1939 M. W. N. 883 :
50 L. W. 452 : 12 R. M. 682 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 1.

———S. 299—Interpretation.

The words "or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death" in S. 299 of the Penal Code, must be read in the light of the language of S. 300 of the Penal Code, and so read, they are not applicable to a case where specific bodily injury is intentionally caused to a particular person. Ram Asre v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 513 :
73 I. C. 49 : 9 O. L. J. 490 :
26 O. C. 18 : A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 97.

———S. 299—Nature of injury.

Deceased dying due to ignorance and unskilful treatment of wound—Injuries only remote cause of death: Held, accused not guilty of culpable homicide. Nga Ba Min v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 205 :
159 I. C. 1032 : 8 R. Rang. 309 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 418.

———S. 299—Nature of weapon—Savage attack—Dangerous wounds followed by blood poisoning and fever—Murder.

A person was savagely attacked with murderous weapons and was dangerously wounded, in consequence of which, he was detained in hospital for over 40 days where he developed symptoms of blood poisoning followed by brain fever and eventually died: Held, that the wounds were the cause of death and the accused were guilty of murder. Nuro v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 376 :
23 I. C. 744 : 7 S. L. R. 83 :
A. I. R. 1914 Sind 105.

———S. 299—Private defence—Continued attack after the opponent has fallen down is not justified.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where the deceased provoked the quarrel but the accused continued to beat him even after he fell to the ground: Held, that the accused were no longer exercising the right of private defence and their act was unjustifiable. Phuman Singh v. Emperor.

6 L. L. J. 483 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 230.

———Ss. 299, Exp. (1), 300 (2)—Knowledge—Accelerating death of person suffering from disorder—Knowledge of disorder—Offence.

Explanation (1) to S. 299, Penal Code, assumes that the bodily injury was inflicted with the intention of causing death or the knowledge that it would be likely to cause death. It was intended to repeat the English rule that an injury which accelerates the death of a dying man is deemed to be the cause of it, and where death has been caused, it is no defence that the deceased was suffering from a complaint which would have caused his death in any event. S. 300 (2) of the Code makes it clear that the offender is not responsible for death in such a case unless he knew that the condition of the deceased was such that his act was likely to cause death. Sahdev v. Jumon Jolaha.

19 Cr. L. J. 320 :
44 I. C. 336 : 4 P. L. W. 195 :
A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 625.

———S. 299, Expl. 2—Culpable homicide or murder.

Sufficient or likely to cause death. Death avoidable by proper treatment—Faet does not take away case from operation of S. 299. Bharat Singh v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 99 :
140 I. C. 706 : 9 O. W. N. 655 :
I. R. 1933 Oudh 20 : A. I. R. 1932 Oudh 279.

———S. 299, Expl. 2—Injuries caused, not direct cause of death—Death as a result of gangrene—Accused, if guilty under S. 299.

Where the deceased did not actually die from the injuries but died from the gangrene which set in consequence of some dirty substance, such as a bandage or the da with which the injuries were caused, coming into contact with one injury, although the injuries were not the direct cause of death, nevertheless under Expl. 2 to S. 299, Penal Code, the person who caused the injuries must be held to have caused the death. Nga Paw v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 103 :
165 I. C. 911 : 9 R. Rang. 229 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 526.

———S. 299, Expl. 3—Culpable homicide of newly born child—Human being, what necessary to constitute, English Law.

Under the English Law, complete emergence is necessary to constitute the child a human being, but under S. 299, Explanation 3, Penal Code, though the causing of the death of a child in the mother's womb is not homicide, it may amount to culpable homicide to cause the death of a living child if any part of that child has been brought forth though the child may not have breathed or been completely born. Mst. Budho v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 20 :
32 I. C. 148 : 29 P. R. 1915 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 184.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 299, 300—Attack by several persons—Attack with dangerous weapons by several persons upon one—Instantaneous death—Person inflicting injury not known—Offence.

If there was a joint attack with dangerous weapons by four or five persons on one man and the latter died almost on the spot as a result of the injuries inflicted on him, at least the offence of culpable homicide must be said to have been made out, and the mere fact that it is not possible to say who inflicted the fatal injury will not be sufficient to support the finding that no offence of murder or culpable homicide had been committed. In re: Mohideen Pichai Rowther. 41 Cr. L. J. 337 : 186 I. C. 525 : 1939 M. W. N. 879 : 50 L. W. 557 : 12 R. M. 671 : A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 43.

—Ss. 299, 300—Case under Ss. 299 and 300—Proper way to deal with, stated.

The proper way, in which those who have to conduct criminal trials should approach the facts and apply the law in those cases where one person has, by doing some act, caused the death of another person is to deal with the matter by stages following: The trial Court must consider whether that act on the part of the accused amounts to culpable homicide. If it is established that an act which caused death was done either with one of the two intentions or with the knowledge necessary to cause that act to amount to culpable homicide, then and then only S. 300 comes into operation, and therefore the next thing to do is to ascertain whether the ingredients of S. 300 have been satisfied. If the culpable homicide is murder: If the prosecution has proved that the act either (a) was done by the accused with the intention of causing death, or (b) fulfilled one of the other requirements of S. 299 and S. 300, then it must further be considered whether on the facts of the particular case, the culpable homicide is brought down from the higher plane of murder, to which it has been raised, to the lower plane of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, by reason of the case falling within any of the Exceptions of S. 300. If the culpable homicide is not murder: If the culpable homicide is not murder, the only matter to be considered at this stage is whether the accused has established the right of private defence. Nga Chit Tin v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 725 : 183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

Culpable homicide may not be murder, (1) where notwithstanding the mental state it is sufficient to constitute murder, still one of the exceptions applies, or (2) where the mental state, though within the description of S. 299, Penal Code, is not of the special degree of criminality required by S. 300 of the Code. It is erroneous to suppose that a case cannot be left to the Jury under S. 304, Penal Code, if the exceptions enumerated in S. 300 of the Code are held not to apply in the circumstances of the case. Emperor v. Upendra Nath Das. 16 Cr. L. J. 561 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 I. C. 113 : 19 C. W. N. 653 : 21 C. L. J. 377 : A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 773.

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide not proved to amount to murder—It is improper and useless to consider whether case falls within one of Exceptions to S. 300.

The question as to whether the case is within one of the Exceptions to S. 300 does not arise for determination unless and until the prosecution has established a case of murder. If the prosecution has proved that culpable homicide (under S. 299) has been committed by the accused but has failed to prove that such culpable homicide amounted to murder (under S. 300), it is improper, and indeed useless, to consider whether any of the excluding factors are present. Nga Chit Tin v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 725 :

183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide or murder—Murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder, distinction between—Injuries on legs resulting in death—Offence.

Where a man was beaten to such an extent that one of his thighs was a mass of bruises, both his legs were fractured below the knees and various other minor injuries were inflicted on the legs and on the trunk: Held, that the offenders must be held to have known that their act was likely to cause death and that the offence fell within the purview of Cl. (3) of S. 299, Penal Code, and was punishable under S. 304, Part II of the said Code. Generally speaking, it may be said that if the act done will, in all reasonable probability, result in death, the offence is murder, whereas if it is only likely to cause death, the offence is within S. 299, Penal Code. Indar Singh v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. 141 :

113 I. C. 333 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 159 : 10 Lah. 477 : 30 P. L. R. 674 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 157.

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide or murder.

Per Sharf-ud-Din, J.—All murder is culpable homicide, but all culpable homicide is not murder. Subject to the five exceptions to S. 300, I. P. C., every act that falls within one or more of the four clauses of that section is murder and also falls within the definition of culpable homicide in S. 299, I. P. C., Every act that falls within any or more of the four clauses of S. 300, I. P. C., in respect of which there co-exist one or more of the sets of circumstances described in the five exceptions to that section, is, by that fact, taken out of S. 300, I. P. C., but the act notwithstanding continues to be within S. 299, and since it is not murder, it is culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Every act that falls within S. 299 and does not fall within S. 300, since it is not murder, is culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Reaz-ud-Din v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 295 (b) : 6 I. C. 251.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide or murder—Question of murder does not arise unless commission of culpable homicide is proved.

The basis of murder under S. 300 is culpable homicide as defined in S. 299. Therefore it is necessary in every case in which one person by his act has caused the death of another to inquire, whether culpable homicide has or has not been committed by the accused, for unless it has been, no question of murder can arise. Nga Chit Tin v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 725 : 183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide or murder.

Where there is no premeditation on the part of the accused who stabs the deceased fatally in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and no undue advantage is taken of the deceased, the offence is one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and Excep. IV to S. 300, Penal Code, applies. Nga Nyi v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 321 : 167 I. C. 114 : 9 R. Rang. 300 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 2.

—Ss. 299, 300—Culpable homicide or murder—Whether offence is culpable homicide amounting to murder or not so amounting, how to be decided.

Generally speaking, the proposition that murder is killing with the intention of killing or inflicting a fatal injury will cover broadly Cls. 1, 2 and 3 of S. 300, Penal Code. Cases under Cl. 4 of S. 300, Penal Code, are so rare that Judges can, in each case, well refer to the words of that clause and Illus. (d) as a sufficient guide. If the killing comes within any one of the four clauses, it is exceptions apart, murder. If the killing comes within the second part of S. 299, Penal Code, that which relates to the intention of causing a bodily injury likely to cause death, it comes under S. 304, Part 1, and if there is no intention to cause death or a bodily injury likely to cause death, but only knowledge that death is likely to be caused, the offence is under S. 304, Part 2, Penal Code. Cases under the exceptions to S. 300, Penal Code, will fall under S. 304, Part I. In murder cases, as in other cases, a man's intentions are to be judged by his acts in relation to the surrounding circumstances, but the provisions of the law of culpable homicide in India are merciful. The burden of proof in these cases, as in other cases, lies on the prosecution, and the distinction between "knowledge" and "intention" made in S. 299, Penal Code, and again in S. 304, Penal Code, in Parts 1 and 2, allows the Judge, when he thinks the prosecution have proved not intention but only knowledge to convict of the lesser offence. The intention of the accused should be judged at the time of striking the blow, which is the material time, but not at the time they left the house, which is not the material time. Khudu v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 375 (b) : 180 I. C. 418 : 32 S. L. R. 18 : 11 R. S. 173 : A. I. R. 1939 Sind 57.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 299, 300—Intention to cause death, what amounts to.

Where an injury is intentionally inflicted, the defence that no proper medical treatment was forthcoming, does not exonerate the person who caused the injury from guilt of murder if he intended that the injury shall be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or knew that it was likely to cause death to that person. It does not exonerate him from guilt of culpable homicide if death ensues as a natural or likely consequence. Such a person is deemed to have caused the death, and his degree of criminal responsibility must depend on the knowledge or intention to be gathered from the proved facts. The King v. Abor Ahmed. (F. B.) 38 Cr. L. J. 1097 : 171 I. C. 574 : 1937 Rang. 384 : 10 R. Rang. 165 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 396.

—Ss. 299, 300—Knowledge.

Knowledge, whether sufficient to establish offence of murder—During altercation, accused going out, fetching yoke-pin and striking accused on head with great force—Accused, held guilty of murder. Nga Chit Tin v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 725 : 183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—Ss. 299, 300—Nature of weapon.

Held, that the last clause of S. 299 and the 4th clause of S. 300, Penal Code, do not apply to cases where bodily injury is intentionally caused : Held also, that in the case of a blow with a stick, the question whether the intention was merely to cause bodily injury likely to cause death, or to cause bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death is one of degree of probability, and depends generally on the character of the weapon and the way it was used. Nga Na Ban v. Emperor. 5 Cr. L. J. 306 : 13 Bur. L. R. 199 : U. B. R. Cr. 1906 Penal Code 33.

—Ss. 299, 300—Nature of weapon—Nature of offence committed—Criterion—Nature of weapon used.

In cases of death caused recklessly and without premeditation, a safer criterion to decide the nature of the offence committed is the nature of the weapon used. Emperor v. Hashim. 14 Cr. L. J. 459 : 20 I. C. 619 : 7 S. L. R. 29.

—Ss. 299, 300—Private defence—Right of private defence, if can afford complete defence to culpable homicide and murder.

The possibility of murder being reduced to culpable homicide through the exercise of right of private defence is also bound up with the possibility of such right going so far as to afford a complete defence not only to a charge of murder but also to a charge of the lesser offence of culpable homicide. Nga Chit Tin v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 725 : 183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 299, 300—Provocation—Charge of murder—Provocation—Insufficient—Reduction of sentence—Statement of accused pleading guilty, value of.

A provocation though insufficient to bring a charge of murder within the exception to S. 300 may yet be sufficient for reduction of the sentence. In re : Krushno Kariko.

16 Cr. L. J. 611 :
30 I. C. 435 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 829.

———Ss. 299, 300—Provocation—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Provocation.

Where a person came out in a challenging manner to meet the accused and they had a fight, in the course of which, the father of the accused and himself were stabbed, whereupon the accused struck the challenger a blow which caused his death: Held, that the offence committed was culpable homicide not amounting to murder as there was grave provocation enough to deprive the accused of self-control and there was great probability that the accused acted while he had lost his self-control. Murugaiya Nadan v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 235 :
10 I. C. 262 : 1911, 2 M. W. N. 275 :
9 M. L. T. 480.

———Ss. 299, 300—Provocation—Not grave and sudden but culmination of long period of swaggering and insult—Case does not fall within exception but sentence may be reduced.

Where the provocation was not in the nature of immediate and grave provocation, but was the culmination of a long period of swaggering and insult which finally made the accused lose his temper, the offence is murder and does not fall within the exception which may reduce the offence to one of culpable homicide. But the provocation received, though not sufficient to reduce the crime from that of murder to one of culpable homicide, may nevertheless have been in its cumulative effect so exasperating as to render the crime one which might be punished in a manner similar to that in which the offence of culpable homicide might be punished in somewhat similar circumstances. Nga Soe Myint v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 366 :
166 I. C. 994 : 9 R. Rang. 303 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 4.

———Ss. 299, 300—Exception 5—Consent.

Where the accused kills a woman above the age of 18 years at her request and with her consent, he is entitled to the benefit of Excep. 5 to S. 302, and is guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under the earlier part of S. 304. Kanaga Kosvan v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 659 :
131 I. C. 147 : 33 L. W. 218 :
1931 M. W. N. 393 : 60 M. L. J. 616 :
54 Mad. 504 : I. R. 1931 Mad. 483 :
A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 436.

———Ss. 299, 300, paras. 3 and 4—Intention—Dhatura poisoning—Bodily injury likely to cause death—Offence whether amounts to murder.

Where a person administers dhatura poison to another, it is likely or at least probable that he intended to cause such bodily injury as was likely to cause death and, therefore, he is guilty of murder. Nanhu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 937 :
75 I. C. 361 : 45 All. 557 :
A. I. R. 1923 All. 608.

———Ss. 299, 300, 301—Intention—Murder—Death of the person killed need not be intended.

S with the intention of killing N gave him poisoned halva to eat. N ate a little, and threw the rest away and this was picked up by R who ate it and died: Held, that S was guilty of the murder of R. Public Prosecutor v. Mushunooru Suryanarayanamoorthy.

13 Cr. L. J. 145 :
13 I. C. 833 : 1912 M. W. N. 136 :
11 M. L. T. 127 : 22 M. L. J. 333.

———Ss. 299, 300, 302—Murder.

Where the accused had no legal excuse to go to a certain land in the possession of the party of the deceased armed with dangerous weapons to enforce their right or supposed right, and a fight ensued, and the injuries inflicted, though not premeditated, resulted in the death of the deceased: Held, per Sharf-ud-Din and Teunon, JJ. (Chatterjee, J., dissenting) that the case came under Cl. 4 of S. 300, I. P. C., and a charge of murder ought to have been framed against the accused, and that the Judge's omission to do so vitiated the whole trial. An imperfect statement of elements constituting an offence under Cl. 1 of S. 304, of the failure of the Judge to direct the Jury that in law every man must be presumed to intend the natural and ordinary consequences of his acts, constitute very grave misdirection. Reaz-ud-Din v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 295 (b) :
6 I. C. 251.

———Ss. 299, 300, 302—Sufficient or likely to cause death—Distinction between, whether bodily injury is likely to cause death and whether such injury is sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death.

The distinction between whether a bodily injury intended to be inflicted is likely to cause death and whether such injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death is fine but appreciable, and it is a question of degree of probability. The matter would generally resolve itself into a consideration of the nature of the weapon used. Although such consideration may give rise to much anxious consideration and difficulty when the weapon used is the one so frequently employed in this country, namely, a lathi, there is no such difficulty when the weapon used is a rifle, and a rifle aimed at the head at a distance of about 2 feet. The injury intended to be inflicted, if there be intention, is one which transcends the possibility of a likelihood of death, and must come within the category of an "injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death." Daljit Singh v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 92 :
172 I. C. 204 : 10 R. N. 177 :
A. I. R. 1937 Nag. 274.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 299, 300, 302, 304, 34, 325—Knowledge—Death caused by single lathi blow—Other injuries not indicating determination to beat deceased to death.

In a case where death has been caused by a single blow with a lathi, and the other injuries found on the body of the deceased do not indicate a determination to beat the deceased to death, it may be held that death was caused by the doing of an act with the knowledge that by such act it was likely to cause death. In such a case, the act of the striker can similarly only be brought within the provisions of clause fourthly in S. 300, Penal Code, which clause is based not upon intention but upon knowledge. Zahid Khan v. King-Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 187 :

179 I. C. 338 : 11 R. O. 163 :

1939 O. L. R. 22 : 1939 O. W. N. 7 :

14 Luck. 378 : A. I. R. 1939 Oudh 49.

———Ss. 299, 300, 304—Applicability.

The parts of Ss. 299, 300, 304, Penal Code, dealing with "knowledge," are applicable to a case in which bodily injury intended for a particular individual has resulted in death. Where a death has been caused by intended bodily injury inflicted by the accused on the deceased, the question of what knowledge must be attributed to the accused comes in only "as a means of arriving at his intention when he committed the act, and for that purpose, and not for the purpose of deciding whether the case falls within the last part of S. 304, must the question be considered. Emperor v. Kotiya.

15 Cr. L. J. 513 :

24 I. C. 601 : 7 Bur. L. T. 290 :

A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 197.

———Ss. 299, 300, 304—Culpable homicide or murder—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder and murder, distinction between—Punishment.

Per Percival, J. C.—If the act of an accused falls within either of the Cls. 1, 2 and 3 of S. 300 of the Penal Code but is covered by any of the five Exceptions, it is punishable under the first part of S. 304 and if the act falls within Cl. 4 of S. 300, but is covered by any of the Exceptions, it is punishable under the second part of S. 304. Ghazi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 761 :

103 I. C. 841 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 232.

———Ss. 299, 300, 304—Culpable homicide or murder—Murder—Culpable homicide—Intention to cause injury sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death—Intention to cause injury likely to cause death.

The distinction between the intention to cause injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, and the intention to cause injury likely to cause death, depends upon the degree of probability of death resulting from the act committed. Apart from cases falling within the second clause of S. 300, Penal Code, if from the intentional act of injury committed, the probability of death is high, the finding should be that the accused intended to cause death, or injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, and the conviction should be of murder unless one of the exceptions applies ; if there was probability, in a less degree, of death ensuing from the act committed, the finding should be that the accused intended to cause injury likely to cause death and the conviction should be of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Po Sin v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

10 Cr. L. J. 359 :

3 I. C. 710 : 5 L. B. R. 80.

———Ss. 299, 300, 319, 320—Murder or hurt—Hurt, grievous hurt and culpable homicide not amounting to murder, difference between—Death caused by injury not intended or likely to cause death.

In a sudden quarrel with the deceased, the accused seized him by the testicles and squeezed them with considerable force and for a considerable time. The former, who was in a very unsound bodily condition, did not recover from the shock of the pain and died soon after. The medical evidence showed that the injury inflicted by the accused upon the deceased would not, in normal conditions, have endangered his life: Held, that the accused was guilty of causing simple hurt. Where death is caused as the result of an injury which is not intended to cause death, and was not in normal conditions likely to cause death, the offence can neither be grievous hurt nor culpable homicide not amounting to murder. It must then be a case of simple hurt. Bai Jiba v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 1010 :

42 I. C. 754 : 19 Bom. L. R. 823 :

A. I. R. 1917 Bom. 259.

———Ss. 299, 300 (2), 304—Culpable homicide or murder—Murder—Culpable homicide—Intention—Nature of injury.

A attacked his mother-in-law, Y, a woman of 55, with a da, but by mistake cut another woman, Z, on the arm. Z, who was 61 years of age, died from the effects of the wound, although the Civil Surgeon considered that the injury was not sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death to a woman of her age. The Sessions Judge considered that the Second clause of S. 300, Penal Code, was applicable on account of Y's age: Held, that this clause was not applicable, because (1) as the injury was actually caused to Z although intended for Y, Y's age did not affect the question at all, and (2) in view of the medical evidence and of the fact that the injury was not on a vital part of the body, A could not be held to have intended such bodily injury as he knew to be likely to cause the death of either Y or Z, or such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. He was consequently only liable to sentence under the second part of S. 304, I. P. C. Banu v. King-Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 364 :

4 L. B. R. 367.

———Ss. 299, 300 (3), 304—Culpable homicide or murder—Murder, culpable homicide not amounting to—Injuries inflicted not sufficient but likely to cause death—Offence.

Where the injuries proved to have been inflicted were found not sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, but quite likely to have produced death : Held, that the offence committed did not amount to murder, but only to culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Darhoon v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 472 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 I. C. 104 : 8 S. L. R. 337 :
A. I. R. 1914 Sind 35.

—Ss. 299, 301, 304, 304-A—Nature of weapon—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Accused committing house trespass and striking out wildly with a dangerous weapon—Intention—Knowledge—Rash or negligent act.

A person who commits lurking house trespass by night, and in order to evade arrest, strikes out wildly with a dangerous weapon, utterly regardless whether his blows will or will not cause death or injury to any one of the inmates, and thereby netunly enuses the death of a person, is guilty of culpable homicide under the second part of S. 304, Penal Code, although he never intended to cause death or such bodily injury as was likely to cause the death of any person. He is guilty of something far more serious than a mere "rash or negligent act not amounting to culpable homicide." Gujjar v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 591 :

12 I. C. 967 : 12 P. R. 1911 Cr. :
41 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

—Ss. 299, 302, 304—Culpable homicide or murder—Mere stuffing of cloth into mouth of deceased to silence him, if murder.

Where an accused merely stuffed a cloth into the deceased's mouth in order to silence him and not with any idea of killing him, the offence is not murder but one punishable under S. 304, Penal Code. In re : Sengoda Goundan. 16 Cr. L. J. 614 (a) :

30 I. C. 438 : 1915 M. W. N. 621 :
18 M. L. T. 103 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 651.

—Ss. 299, 304, 326—Murder or hurt—Murder—Intention to cause death, absence of—Grievous hurt.

A dispute having arisen between one L and one B, the latter attacked the former with a stick. L, seeing that G was advancing to the help of B, ran into his house and came out with a chopper in his hand, with which he inflicted an incised wound on B's shoulder and one or two minor injuries. B subsequently died of septic pneumonia caused by the wound in his shoulder : Held, that the injury to which B subsequently succumbed not having been inflicted with such intention or knowledge as to bring the case within the definition of culpable homicide, L could be convicted only of an offence under S. 326, Penal Code. Lalk Singh v. Emperor. 20 Cr. L. J. 137 :

49 I. C. 169 : 17 A. L. J. 56 :
1 U. P. L. R. All. 42 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 185.

—S. 300.

—Administering Dhatara poison.

—Attack by several persons.

—Burden of proof.

—Burden of proving exception.

—Cases in which death ensues from violence used.

—Cases within Exception 5.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Culpable homicide.

—Death caused by lathi blow.

—Dhatara poisoning.

—Evidence.

—Exception to, when available.

—Grave and sudden provocation.

—Homicide.

—Injuries sufficient to cause death.

—Intention.

—Knowledge or intention.

—Motive.

—Murder.

—Offence under.

—Private defence.

—Provocation.

—Sentence.

—Sudden fight.

—Sufficient or likely to cause death.

—Temporary insanity.

—Use of deadly weapon.

—S. 300.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 221, 207.

(ii) Criminal trial.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 86,
119, 149, 299, 302.

—S. 300 — Administering Dhatara poison—Presumption of knowledge.

Per Madgavkar, J.—The fact that the object of the accused was only robbery and could have been achieved by mere intoxication sufficient to stupefy the victims without killing them, does not lead to an inference that the accused did not know that their act was likely to cause death or was so imminently dangerous, as in all probability, to cause death. Object is one thing, intention is another, and knowledge is quite a third. In the case of adult persons deliberately administering dhatara or some such poison or deleterious substance in such quantities as to kill many persons within a few hours on the spot, the burden is heavily on the accused to show why the ordinary presumption from an act so imminently dangerous and so probably fatal should not be drawn. Emperor v. Shetya Timma Waddar. 27 Cr. L. J. 1134 :

97 I. C. 654 : 28 Bom. L. R. 1003 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 518.

—S. 300—Attack by several persons.

Many persons attacking deceased—One blow causing death of deceased by complicated fracture of skull—Person giving blow is guilty of murder—Such person not known—None held guilty of murder. Emperor v. Koramulla Narasingudu. 39 Cr. L. J. 139 :

172 I. C. 382 : 46 L. W. 486 :
1937, 2 M. L. J. 490 : 1937 M. W. N. 1124 :
10 R. M. 455 : A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 792.

—S. 300—Attack by several persons—Murder by more than one person.

Where two or more people band themselves together for the express purpose of taking a man's life and in a charge of murder they are found guilty, all of them may be sentenced to death even though there is no evidence as to who delivered the fatal blow.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

In re : Pedda Tirumaligadu.

30 Cr. L. J. 628 :
116 I. C. 135 : 1929 M. W. N. 181 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 519 : 29 L. W. 387 :
52 Mad. 147 : 56 M. L. J. 194 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 342.

—S. 300—Attack by several persons.

When the accused's party pursued the complainants in three boats for a long distance and then when they had them in their power landed and attacked them with spears and killed three of them, their action does not come within Exception 4 to S. 300 and certainly amounts to murder. Adil Mohamed v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 32 :
8 C. L. J. 561.

—S. 300—Burden of proof.

In a murder case where the supposedly murdered man has disappeared and his body has never been found and he did not disappear under circumstances which render it inconceivable that he could still be alive, the prosecution must establish three facts : (1) that the injured man is really dead ; (2) that he met with a violent death ; and (3) that the accused persons are those who brought about his death. The onus upon the prosecution in these circumstances is much heavier than in ordinary cases. Rajkumar Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 913 :
111 I. C. 721 : 9 P. L. T. 449 :
A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 473.

—S. 300—Burden of proof.

The burden of proving that the act of an accused charged with murder comes within the purview of any of the exceptions to S. 300, is upon the accused under S. 105, Evidence Act, and when he has failed to discharge that burden, he is, on his own showing, guilty of an offence under S. 302. Ratan v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 498 (2) :
143 I. C. 55 : 10 O. W. N. 7 :
8 Luck. 301 : I. R. 1933 Oudh 154 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 148.

—S. 300—Burden of proving exception.

In order to take a case out of the category of murder, it is for the accused to show that his act was covered by one of the exceptions to S. 300, Penal Code. Piare v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 608 :
52 I. C. 224 : 17 A. L. J. 866 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 389.

—S. 300—Cases in which death ensues from violence used—Questions necessary to be considered in.

In cases in which death ensues from violence used, and there is no evidence of intention other than what is to be inferred from the accused's act, it is necessary to consider whether the accused must have known, when committing the act, that (a) it might possibly, but was unlikely, to cause death or injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death ; (b) it was likely to cause death or injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death ; (c) it probably would cause death or injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. If the act falls within the first category, it would not amount to more than hurt or grievous hurt ; if under the second category, it would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder ; if under the third category, it would amount to murder. Shwe Hla U. v. The King.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 184 :
10 Bur. L. R. 29 : 2 L. B. R. 125.

—S. 300—Case within Exception 5—Burden of proof.

To bring it within any of the Exceptions under which prima facie murder is reduced to the lesser crime of culpable homicide, the person who committed the act causing death must show that the circumstances which he claims the benefit of, existed when he did the act. What a person claiming the benefit of Exception 5 has to show is that the person whose death he caused, consented to have the particular act, which caused death, done upon him, knowing, that it would cause his death or knowing that his life would be endangered thereby. Po Set v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 345 :
5 I. C. 988 : 5 L. B. R. 160.

—S. 300—Culpable homicide amounting to murder, constituents of.

In order to constitute the offence of culpable homicide amounting to murder, there should be a finding that the act which caused death was done with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. An injury that is merely likely to cause death does not, of necessity, amount to murder. Apalu v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 919 :
75 I. C. 295 : 2 Bur. L. J. 94 :
1 Rang. 285 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 174.

—S. 300—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Sentence.

A case of murder which, owing to the application of one of the Exceptions to S. 300, is reduced to culpable homicide not amounting to murder, is punishable, so far as imprisonment is concerned, with a maximum term of ten years, if no intention is imputable to the accused under S. 299, but only the knowledge therein mentioned. Nga Chit Tin v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 725 :
183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—S. 300—Culpable homicide or murder.

Accused assaulted the deceased and inflicted no less than fifty injuries, but no blow was inflicted on any vital part with sufficient violence to cause serious damage, such as fracture of the skull : Held, that the case fell under the second clause of S. 304, Penal Code. Daraz v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1 :
75 I. C. 689 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 317.

—S. 300—Culpable homicide or murder.

An offence may amount to culpable homicide but not murder even though none of the

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Exceptions in S. 300 are applicable to the case. The clauses of S. 300 imply a direct mental intention and a special degree of criminality. Raja Ram v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 454 :

154 I. C. 93 : 1935 O. W. N. 140 :

7 R. O. 434 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 239.

————S. 300—Culpable homicide or murder.

Culpable homicide or murder depends upon the degree of risk to human life. If death is a likely result, it is culpable homicide. If it is the most probable result, it is murder. Emperor v. Ratan. 33 Cr. L. J. 561 :

138 I. C. 123 : 9 O. W. N. 285 :

I. R. 1932 Oudh 287 : A. I. R. 1932 Oudh 186.

————S. 300—Death caused by lathi blow, if murder.

If a man takes a lathi and deliberately assaults another on the head with the result that the skull is fractured, that act is murder unless the accused can show that it was removed from the category of murder by one of the exceptions to S. 300. Piarc v. Emperor. 20 Cr. L. J. 608 :

52 I. C. 224 : 17 A. L. J. 866 :

A. I. R. 1919 All. 389.

————S. 300—Dhatara poisoning — Intention, how to be ascertained.

In cases of dhatara poisoning it is always necessary to ascertain the object with which dhatara was administered, and the best indication of the intention of the offender can be gathered from the amount of dhatara administered. Kesar Din v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 319 :

55 I. C. 479 : 3 P. W. R. 1920 Cr. :

2 U. P. L. R. Lah. 21 : 4 P. L. R. 1920 :

A. I. R. 1920 Lah. 375.

————S. 300—Evidence—Duty of Court.

Where in a case in which an accused person is charged with murder, the prosecution evidence itself shows that the accused is entitled to the benefit of one of the Exceptions to S. 300, Penal Code, it is the duty of the Sessions Judge to give him that benefit, irrespective of the fact whether the accused has or has not relied upon the Exception. Mangal Janda v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1077 :

81 I. C. 901 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 37.

————S. 300—Evidence—Circumstantial evidence—Value of.

A person cannot be convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence, unless the circumstances are such as to exclude all reasonable probability of his innocence. Muhammad Yar v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 939 :

81 I. C. 555 : 4 L. L. J. 235 :

A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 263.

————S. 300—Evidence—Murder — Circumstantial evidence—Unsatisfactory evidence of identification of body—Conviction, whether sustainable.

A conviction of murder cannot be sustained where the only circumstantial evidence against the accused is that the deceased was seized by the accused and the husband of the deceased in the road, placed on a camel and carried towards a canal in which her body was afterwards found completely dismembered, specially when the evidence of identification of the body is unsatisfactory, and there is no direct evidence connecting the accused with the commission of the crime. Chuhar Singh v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 89 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 I. C. 1001 : 221 P. L. R. 1915 :

40 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 582.

————S. 300—Evidence—Murder—Proof—Practice.

Where one is charged with the murder of another, three facts obviously have to be established. First of all, that the person alleged to be murdered is dead ; secondly, that he died by the means alleged on the part of the prosecution ; and thirdly, that the accused intentionally took that part in causing his death which is attributed to him by the prosecution. Emperor v. Ananda Bhau. 3 Cr. L. J. 85 :

7 Bom. L. R. 985.

————S. 300—Exception to, when available.

If some persons were acting in the exercise of their right to defend their master against what was certainly a murderous assault, and, with such care and attention as was humanly possible at the moment and in the circumstances, believing that they could not protect their master from that assault otherwise than by striking the deceased with lathis, even at the imminent risk of hitting him and cracking his skull, their acts amply satisfy the conditions required to bring them within the terms of the second Exception to the definition of murder in S. 300, Penal Code. Jaipal Kunbi v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 313 :

66 I. C. 665 : A. I. R. 1922 Nag. 141.

————S. 300—Grave and sudden provocation—What is—Intention—Intention sudden and impulse momentary—Whether mitigates offence.

That the intention was sudden and the impulse momentary, and even uncontrollable, is no mitigation unless it can be shown that the acts was the result of grave and sudden provocation, as laid down in Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code. Daljit Singh v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 92 :

172 I. C. 204 : 10 R. N. 177 :

A. I. R. 1937 Nag. 274.

————S. 300—Homicide—Injury not necessarily fatal but ordinarily sufficient to cause death—Death caused by infection setting in—Offence.

Where a wound inflicted is not necessarily fatal but the injury is sufficient, in the ordinary course of nature, to cause death and the actual death is caused by an infection setting in the wound, this fact makes no difference to the criminal responsibility of the person charged. Nga Myauk Nyo (a) Po Bein v. The King. 39 Cr. L. J. 412 :

174 I. C. 338 : 10 R. Rang. 401 :

A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 56.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300—Injuries sufficient to cause death.

Injuries inflicted several and very serious—
Offence held to be murder. Tun Khine U v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 49 :
178 I. C. 298 : 11 R. Rang. 223 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 331.

———S. 300—Intention.

A person delivering a violent blow with a lethal weapon like a dang on a vulnerable part of the body such as the head, must be deemed to have intended to cause such bodily injury as he knew was likely to cause the death of the person to whom the injury was caused. Sewa Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1069 :
126 I. C. 572 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 490.

———S. 300—Intention.

A person is considered to intend the probable consequences of his act, and a person who hits another on the head with such force as to cause a complicated fracture, must be considered to have intended to cause such bodily injury as would, in the ordinary course of nature, cause death. Emperor v. Koramulla Narasigadu.

39 Cr. L. J. 139 :
172 I. C. 382 : 46 L. W. 486 :
1937, 2 M. L. J. 490 :
1937 M. W. N. 1124 : 10 R. M. 455 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 792.

———S. 300—Intention.

A person plunging a dangerous weapon like a knife into a vital part of the body of the victim, is to be deemed to have intended to cause such injury as he knew was likely to cause death. Mohammad v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 375 :
137 I. C. 65 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 273 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 254 (2).

———S. 300—Intention.

A person who strikes another's head with the sharp edge of an axe with sufficient force to break it, must be held to have acted with the intention described in S. 300 secondly and thirdly, Penal Code, and if the victim succumbs to the injury, the offence committed is that of murder. Bahawal v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 184 :
135 I. C. 670 : 32 P. L. R. 810 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 126 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 5.

———S. 300—Intention.

If a man, who is armed with a deadly weapon like a sela, thrusts that weapon into the chest of his victim and causes instantaneous death, he can have only one intention, namely, intention to murder. Chand Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 696 :
155 I. C. 275 : 35 P. L. R. 715 :
7 R. L. 680 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 741.

———S. 300—Intention.

If a person strikes another on a vital part with a cutting instrument, the striker should be presumed to have intended to cause bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, but it does not follow that the striker must be found guilty of murder: his act may fall under one of the Exceptions to S. 300, Penal Code. Emperor v. Kotiya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

15 Cr. L. J. 513 :
24 I. C. 601 : 7 Bur. L. T. 290 :
A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 197.

———S. 300—Intention—Means of ascertaining intention of accused—What is.

A cut Z on the head with a heavy chopper, slicing off a bit of the frontal bone and cutting the brain. Z died from the effect of the injury, but the medical evidence showed that the wound was not certain, although likely to cause death: Held, that A's intention must be inferred not merely from the actual consequences of his act, but from the act itself; and as the natural consequences of an act of the kind in question would be death, A must be presumed to have intended to cause death. Po To v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 5 :
4 L. B. R. 306.

———S. 300—Intention to cause death—Lathi blow on head—Fracture of skull.

Having regard to the great frequency with which a lathi, used in a melee, lights on the head even though not specially aimed at it, and the still higher percentage of cases in which a blow on the head with a lathi results in the death of the victim from a fractured skull, it would be contradictory to say that a person taking part in an assault with lathis does intend to break the victim's arm or leg but does not intend to break his skull, an injury which is undoubtedly sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Jaipal Kunbi v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 313 (b) :
66 I. C. 665 : A. I. R. 1922 Nag. 141.

———S. 300—Intention—How determined.

Use of knife in sudden fight cannot mean accused intended to cause death—Intention depends on the way it is used, and nature of weapon is no consideration. Nihal Singh v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 87 :
159 I. C. 284 : 8 R. Pesh. 81 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 155.

———S. 300—Intention.

Where the act of the accused is so imminently dangerous that he must be deemed to know that it would, in all probability, cause death or at least such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, the mere fact that he had no deliberate intention of killing any particular individual does not take his cause outside the fourth clause to S. 300, Penal Code. Bhagat Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 290 :
121 I. C. 726 : 31 P. L. R. 73 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 266.

———S. 300—Intention.

Where two men together repeatedly strike another on his head with lathis with sufficient force to break his skull in several places, their offence must be held to fall under S. 300 (Thirdly), Penal Code. Ilam Din v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

32 Cr. L. J. 1127 :
134 I. C. 205 : 32 P. L. R. 401 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 909.

—S. 300—Intention and knowledge.

S. 300, Penal Code, says nothing about deliberation or previous preparation. It speaks only of intention and knowledge. If the act by which death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, the offence is murder, unless it falls within the Exceptions. Sheo Shankar v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 62 :
91 I. C. 238 : 2 O. W. N. 862 :
A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 148.

—S. 300—Knowledge of intention.

In the absence of any evidence to indicate that a blow on a particular part of a person was intended to be a blow on a more vital part, it must be held that the offender inflicted the blow where he intended. Ram Asre v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 513 :
73 I. C. 49 : 9 O. L. J. 490 : 26 O. C. 18 :
A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 97.

—S. 300—Knowledge of intention.

Obiter.—If there was an intention to cause death, and death was caused by a wound or wounds inflicted in pursuance of that intention, the case would be one of murder, even though none of the wounds which the accused inflicted were of a character which would, within the knowledge of the accused or in the ordinary course of nature, have proved fatal. Ram Asre v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 513 :
73 I. C. 49 : 9 O. L. J. 490 : 26 O. C. 18 :
A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 97.

—S. 300—Knowledge of intention.

The expression "I shall kill you," used by an assailant does not necessarily show an intention to commit murder. Ram Asre v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 513 :
73 I. C. 49 : 9 O. L. J. 490 : 26 O. C. 18 :
A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 97.

—S. 300—Motive—Accused caught red-handed—Absence of motive immaterial.

Where an offender is caught red-handed while committing a murder, the question of absence of motive becomes immaterial. Fazal Din v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 765 :
125 I. C. 55 : 30 P. L. R. 749 :
I. R. 1930 Lah. 567.

—S. 300—Murder—Evidence—Duty of Court.

In all such cases, the Sessions Judge should consider and come to a finding which must be clearly recorded that the degree of probability of death ensuing is so great as to bring the case within either the first or third clause of S. 300, Penal Code. Apalu v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 919 :
75 I. C. 295 : 2 Bur. L. J. 94 :
1 Rang. 285 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 174.

—S. 300—Murder—Evidence requisite.

Where the evidence given in the Court is obviously not reliable and the medical evidence shows that there is only one long cut on the deceased's body and it cannot be possibly determined who caused it, a conviction for murder is not sustainable though a wicked crime has thereby to go unpunished. Bahaduri v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 89 :
165 I. C. 889 : 9 R. L. 319.

—S. 300—Murder—Serious injury on head causing death—Intention—Onus—Burden of proof.

A person who strikes another violent blows on the head causing fracture of bones and death, must accept the onus of proving that his intention was not to cause such bodily injury as would, in all probability, cause death or that he did not know that the injury inflicted by him would, in all probability, cause death. Bahaduri v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 45 :
99 I. C. 77 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 63.

—S. 300—Murder under influence of drink—Intention.

Where the accused under the influence of liquor assaulted the deceased and literally beat him to death with lathis without any direct motive: Held, that the accused were guilty of murder under S. 300, Penal Code, as they must have known that their act was "so eminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death." Pal Singh v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 868 :
41 I. C. 980 : 28 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
35 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 226 :

—S. 300—Murder, what amounts to—Accused striking heavy blow on head of deceased with pestle in course of sudden quarrel—Death resulting—Offence is of murder.

A person who strikes a heavy blow on the head of another with a weapon such as a pestle, must be deemed to intend to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and even when such a blow is given in the course of a sudden quarrel between the accused and the deceased causing the death, the offence committed is one of murder. In re : Currala Chinna Pichai Vadu.

39 Cr. L. J. 979 :
177 I. C. 944 : 1938 M. W. N. 871 (1) :
48 L. W. 415 : 11 R. M. 395.

—S. 300—Offence under—Drunkenness, if answer to.

No general rule can be laid down that voluntary drunkenness is in all or even in the majority of cases, a reason for not passing the death sentence. Nga Ohn Pe v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 52 :
165 I. C. 762 : 9 R. Rang. 220 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 477.

—S. 300—Private defence.

Accused while in possession of land, attacked with dangerous weapons—Accused in defence inflicting fatal injuries on some of the attackers resulting in their death—Accused, held, were entitled to take all necessary measures for their private defence—Conviction under S. 300 is not proper. Ramsagar Gope v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 139 :
166 I. C. 129 : 9 R. P. 261 :
3 B. R. 131 : 18 P. L. T. 21 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 622.

———S. 300—Private defence.

There is no right of private defence against persons who are merely taking refuge in the offender's land from other persons trying to take their lives. Adil Mohamed v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 32 :
8 C. L. J. 561.

———S. 300—Private defence of person.

There is nothing to prevent an accused from raising the plea of self-defence in appeal. Nur Dad v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 462 :
142 I. C. 901 : 33 P. L. R. 718 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 290 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 606.

———S. 300—Private defence of person or property.

Obiter dictum.—Leniency may well be shown where the accused has acted in good faith for the protection of his person or property, and has erred only in the degree of force or violence used or in acting too hastily. Nga Tun v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 335 :
35 I. C. 511 : A. I. R. 1916 L. Bur. 63.

———S. 300—Provocation.

A person who kills another under provocation which is grave but not sudden, is not entitled to claim the benefit of Exception 1 to S. 300. Bhopal v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1244 :
134 I. C. 596 (b) : 8 O. W. N. 528 :
I. R. 1931 Oudh 388 (2).

———S. 300—Provocation.

A sudden quarrel arose between the accused and the deceased, during which the deceased expressed his intention of attacking and kicking the accused and actually advanced towards him. A sudden fight ensued in which the accused used a clasp knife and inflicted a serious wound in the chest of the deceased which ultimately caused his death: Held, that the accused suffered sudden and grave provocation, and in the course of struggle, lost his power of self-control and did not inflict the injury with the intention of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. In the circumstances, therefore, the proper conviction was one under S. 304 and not under S. 302. Syed Ahmed v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 300 :
173 I. C. 299 : 10 R. Rang. 335 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 15.

———S. 300—Provocation—Abuse, whether provocation.

Merely abuse cannot be viewed as grave provocation in order to reduce the offence of murder to one of culpable homicide. Partapa v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 298 :
76 I. C. 970 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 408.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300—Provocation.

Accused and father ploughing in field on hot day—Midday rest—Father asking accused to prevent bullocks from entering neighbouring fields—Refusal—Father throwing clod of earth on accused—Accused losing temper and assaulting father—Father's knowledge that accused's intelligence was below normal—Grave and sudden provocation held caused. Bharanga Uraon v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 221 :
160 I. C. 18 : 2 B. R. 157 :
8 R. P. 327 : A. I. R. 1935 Pat. 506.

———S. 300—Provocation.

Accused asked by deceased to go out to fields with him—Accused thinking it to be offer for unnatural intercourse using his dagger with fatal results: Held, there was no grave and sudden provocation. Jumma Khan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 914 :
156 I. C. 6 : 7 R. Pesh. 113 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 59.

———S. 300—Provocation.

Accused came by chance upon his wife at a time when she was in the act of having intercourse with her paramour and killed her on the spot with an axe which he happened to be carrying at the time in the ordinary course of his occupation: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 304-I, Penal Code, and not under S. 302. Mangal Ganda v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1077 :
81 I. C. 901 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 37.

———S. 300—Provocation.

An arrest or attempted arrest by a private person, if not strictly justifiable by law, is not outside the provocation mentioned in Excep. I. Abdul Aziz v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 725 :
148 I. C. 574 : 14 P. L. T. 464 :
6 R. P. 490 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 508.

———S. 300—Provocation—Burden of proof of.

The burden of proving that the provocation was grave lies on the accused. Ali Mohammad v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 483 :
161 I. C. 414 : 8 R. S. 144 :
A. I. R. 1936 Sind 31.

———S. 300—Provocation—Culpable homicide—Use of abusive language, whether 'grave provocation.'

Merely calling a person 'a pig' or 'son of a pig' cannot constitute a grave provocation within the meaning of S. 300, Penal Code, especially in the case of a low caste man accustomed to the use of such abusive language. Rahman v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 61 :
127 I. C. 860 : 31 P. L. R. 891 :
I. R. 1930 Lah. 892 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 344.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 300—Provocation.

Deceased catching hold of accused's tuft—Latter also catching tuft of deceased and stabbing him with knife: Held, case came within S. 300, Exception I. Thirupathuran v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 790 :
155 I. C. 408 : 67 M. L. J. 674 :
1934 M. W. N. 1358 :
40 L. W. 777 : 7 R. M. 579 :
A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 722.

—S. 300—Provocation.

Deceased, noted bad character, behaving in outrageous manner—Accused given grave and sudden provocation—Weapon used in retaliation: Held, accused was entitled to benefit of Exception I to S. 300. Maung Ni v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 411 :
161 I. C. 5 : 8 R. Rang. 447 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 49.

—S. 300—Provocation.

Held, that to receive a grievous insult all in a moment at the mouth of a drunken man whose previous offence had been condoned, would amount to very grave provocation even to a man of the most philosophic temperament, especially where the accused is an ordinary youthful rustic, in whom unusual powers of self-control could not be expected: Held also, that the accused's act came within Excep. I to S. 300, and he was guilty of the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Nga Paw Yin v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 410 :
160 I. C. 1077 : 8 R. Rang. 446 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 40.

—S. 300—Provocation.

Intrigue with accused's wife—Deceased singing provocative songs—Accused having controlled himself on previous occasions does not deprive him of benefit of Excep. 2—Sudden and grave provocation, held given. Bahadur v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 939 :
156 I. C. 427 : 7 R. Pesh. 122 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 78.

—S. 300—Provocation.

Mother of accused running away with her paramour—Paramour murdered by accused—Provocation to accused cannot be said to have been grave and sudden. Jumma Fateh Moham-mad v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 94 :
141 I. C. 40 : 33 P. L. R. 511 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 55 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 438.

—S. 300—Provocation required by law.

In order that provocation may constitute a defence to a charge of murder, there must exist such an amount of provocation as would be excited by the circumstances in the mind of a reasonable man, and so as to lead the Jury to ascribe the act to the influence of that passion. The Court ought not to take into account the different degrees of mental ability in the prisoners who come before it. Emperor v. Dinabandhu Ooriya.

31 Cr. L. J. 737 :
124 I. C. 818 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 199.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 300—Provocation required by law.

In order to bring a case within the first Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, the provocation must be such as would upset, not merely a hasty and hot tempered person, but one of ordinary sense and calmness. Sohrab v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1050 :
81 I. C. 826 : 5 Lah. 67 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 450.

—S. 300—Provocation.

The grave and sudden provocation within the meaning of Exception 1 to S. 300, need not come from the victim within the hearing or sight of the offender. Sumar Khamiso v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 870 :
139 I. C. 772 : 26 S. L. R. 266 :
I. R. 1932 Sind 143 : A. I. R. 1932 Sind 168.

—S. 300—Provocation required by law.

The provocation contemplated by law is such as would upset not merely a hot tempered or hypersensitive person, but one of ordinary sense and calmness. Khadim Hussain v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 897 :
96 I. C. 209 : 7 Lah. 488 :
27 P. L. R. 805 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 598.

—S. 300—Provocation.

The provocation that will bring a case within Explanation 2, Excep. 1 to S. 300, must not be provocation given by anything done in obedience to the law. Abdul Aziz v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 725 :
148 I. C. 574 : 14 P. L. T. 464 :
6 R. P. 490 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 508.

—S. 300—Provocation.

The test to see whether the accused acted under grave and sudden provocation, is whether the provocation given was in the circumstances of the case, likely to cause a normal reasonable man to lose control of himself to the extent of inflicting the injury or injuries that he did inflict. Saraj Din v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 306 :
153 I. C. 204 : 35 P. L. R. 588 :
7 R. L. 399 (2) : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 600.

—S. 300—Provocation, what is.

A person who flies into a passion without just cause and goes about slaughtering people, may be insane but, if he is sane, he cannot defend his action on the ground of provocation. Lal Singh v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 674 :
63 I. C. 610.

—S. 300—Provocation—What is.

Accused taking his wife away without rough-handling her—Deceased not having right to interfere threatening to attack accused—Such interference, amounts to grave and sudden provocation. Nga Khanl v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 569 :
162 I. C. 277 : 8 R. Rang. 556 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 216.

—S. 300—Provocation—What is.

Further there is a very small distinction between the actual sight of an adulterous act and the realization of evidence which completely proves the most recent adultery. For instance, the feelings of a man who has just seen his wife's paramour leave her room and who finds her lying naked on the bed, must be taken to be identical with those of a man who has seen the adultery itself. Sharif v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 273 : 71 I. C. 993.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 300—Provocation.

When the complainant's side deliberately provoked a conflict and there was no previous intention on the part of the accused to kill anybody, the proper sentence would be one of transportation for life. Bahawal v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 184 :
135 I. C. 670 : 32 P. L. R. 810 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 126 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 5.

—S. 300—Provocation.

Where the fatal attack is not a premeditated one and the victims are injured in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and the accused has neither taken undue advantage nor acted in a cruel or unusual manner, the extreme penalty of death is not called for. Preman v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 966 : 105 I. C. 678 : 26 P. L. R. 363 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 93.

—S. 300—Provocation—Whether sudden.

Accused knowing of his sister's going to the deceased for illicit connection—Accused going to the spot with the intention of killing the culprit if found with his sister—Provocation is not sudden. Mehra Mistak v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1378 : 151 I. C. 751 : 7 R. L. 184 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 103.

—S. 300—Sentence.

Accused's brother-in-law going to pwe drunk and abusing people—Deceased striking him—Accused appearing and stabbing deceased—Proviso (1) to S. 300 does not apply but extreme penalty is not called for. Nga Po Aung Gyaw v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 467 : 161 I. C. 578 : 8 R. Rang. 487 : A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 115.

—S. 300—Sentence.

The normal sentence for murder is death, and the passing of the alternative sentence, would be justified only where there is a mitigating circumstance, such as, the absence of an actual intention to kill. Kra Chan U. v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 207 : 76 I. C. 575 : 2 Bur. L. R. 103 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 247.

—S. 300—Sentence.

Unless there are extenuating circumstances, the person who is found to be guilty of murder should receive the extreme penalty of the law. Emperor v. Dinabandhu Ooriya.

31 Cr. L. J. 737 :
124 I. C. 818 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 199.

—S. 300—Sentence.

Where a person has been charged with murder and sentenced to transportation for life,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

it is only in a really extreme case that the sentence should be enhanced to one of death by the High Court. In re : Pedda Tirumaligadu. 30 Cr. L. J. 628 :

116 I. C. 135 : 1929 M. W. N. 181 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 519 : 29 L. W. 387 :
52 Mad. 147 : 56 M. L. J. 194 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 342.

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

Accused armed with hatchet attacking deceased unarmed—Case not one of sudden fight—Offence not proved to be committed in the heat of passion—Exceptions 2 and 4 do not apply. Ali Mohammad v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 483 :
161 I. C. 414 : 8 R. S. 144 :
A. I. R. 1936 Sind 31.

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

In order to take advantage of Excep. 4 to S. 300, it must be shown that the offender did not take undue advantage or act in a cruel or unusual manner. Nur Dad v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 462 :
142 I. C. 901 : 33 P. L. R. 718 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 290 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 606.

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

Murder—Several injuries on unarmed person, including six on head—Case did not fall under Exception 1 to S. 300. Khair 'Din v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1254 :
134 I. C. 829 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 1021 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 280.

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

Person thrusting knife into the abdomen of another—Party fight—Fight not started by accused—Sentence of transportation awarded. Bhagwana v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 711 :
144 I. C. 292 : 34 P. L. R. 255 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 445 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 434.

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

Sudden fight—Every one trying to hit one of opposite party—No thought of private defence : Held, offence committed was culpable homicide. Sundar Lal v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1145 :
157 I. C. 422 : 1935 A. W. R. 340 :
8 R. A. 188 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 438.

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

Sudden quarrel—Death—Absence of deliberate intention—Sentence of five years reduced to two years. Emperor v. K. T. Keshan.

35 Cr. L. J. 174 (2) :
146 I. C. 695 : 34 P. L. R. 993 :
6 R. L. 268 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 851 (2).

—S. 300—Sudden fight.

Where in a sudden quarrel, the accused deals a single blow with a dang on the head of his antagonist, an old man whose weakness and enlarged spleen might have hastened his death which ensues, the accused is guilty not of murder but of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Gurcharan Singh v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 629 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

155 I. C. 77 (a) : 35 P. L. R. 371 :
7 R. L. 636 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 467.

———S. 300—Sufficient or likely to cause death.

If a person stabs another in the chest or abdomen with sufficient force to penetrate such structures, he must be held to have intended to cause such bodily injury as is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Abdul Aziz v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 725 :
148 I. C. 574 : 14 P. L. T. 464 :
6 R. P. 490 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 508.

———S. 300—Temporary insanity—Knowledge of nature of act—Causing death—If guilty of murder.

The accused in a murder case was found to be subject to recurring fits of insanity but there was no proof that at the time the murder was committed, he was incapable of knowing the nature of his act. It appeared further that he had a motive against the deceased, avoided and resisted arrest and was, to all appearances, perfectly sane during the investigation in the Committing Court and in the Sessions Court: Held, (1) that he was not devoid of knowledge that he was doing what was wrong and contrary to law; (2) that since there was a distinct possibility that at the time he may have been suffering from temporary mental derangement of some sort, a sentence of transportation would meet the case. Mallu v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 576 :

81 I. C. 64 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 619.

———S. 300—Use of deadly weapon.

Criterion for applying Excep. 4 is position of parties with respect to arms—Deceased unarmed—Accused causing one grievous hurt : Held, offence was murder. Jumma Khan v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 914 :

156 I. C. 6 : 7 R. Pesh. 113 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 59.

———S. 300, Excep. I—Grave and sudden provocation—Onus.

The onus of proving grave and sudden provocation such as would reduce the offence of murder to one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, is on the accused person. Rakha v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 438 :

93 I. C. 230 : 2 Lah. Cas. 62 :
6 Lah. 171 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 399.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation.

Accused knowing about infidelity of his sister and that she and her lover were in a certain building—Going armed and breaking open the lock of room and killing sister and her lover—Exception 1 to S. 300 does not apply—Provocation, held not sudden. Imam Bakhsh v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 637 :

168 I. C. 923 : I. L. R. 1937 Lah. 206 :
9 R. L. 686 : 40 P. L. R. 44 :
A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 562.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation.

Accused not betrothed to girl but having intrigue with her—Sanction by custom—No obligation of marriage unless girl becomes pregnant by him—Accused seeing her in act of sexual intercourse with deceased—Accused killing deceased—Offence committed. Murgi Munda v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 786 :

183 I. C. 499 : 18 Pat. 101 :
12 R. P. 162 : 5 B. R. 955 :
20 P. L. T. 802 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 443.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation.

Accused seeing deceased through hole in closed door committing adultery with his wife—Accused waiting till deceased came back, lay down and began dozing and then stabbing him to death—Exception 1 applies. Balku v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 956 (b) :

177 I. C. 821 : 1938 A. L. J. 689 :
11 R. A. 227 : I. L. R. 1938 All. 789 :
1938 A. W. R. 473 :
A. I. R. 1938 All. 532.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Continuing under influence of provocation—Act, whether must immediately follow provocation.

Accused suspected his wife of being intimate with one M and frequently remonstrated with, and warned her; one night accused and his wife were sleeping in the courtyard of their haveli when, after some little time, accused awoke and found his wife's bed unoccupied, his suspicions being aroused, he immediately proceeded to the khola adjoining the haveli where he found his wife and M together; he attacked M and killed him, and then attacked his wife and killed her also: Held, that the provocation received by the accused was grave and sudden, and he continued to be under the influence of provocation until he had killed his wife, and that he was entitled to the mitigation provided in Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code. Kadir Bakhsh v. Emperor. 23 Cr. L. J. 563 :

68 I. C. 403 : 2 L. L. J. 406 :
A. I. R. 1920 Lah. 501.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Cousin killing cousin and her parents, resenting her liaison—Provocation, whether grave and sudden.

Where a cousin of a girl resenting her liaison kills her and her parents, a couple of days after the last visit by her paramour, it cannot be said even if the girl had sung on the fateful morning some love songs which reminded the cousin of the girl's immoral relations with her paramour, that he acted under grave and sudden provocation, though he may have been feeling the disgrace to the family. Khadim Hussain v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 897 :

96 I. C. 209 : 7 Lah. 488 :
27 P. L. R. 805 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 598.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Deceased leading unchaste life—Deceased abusing accused—Stick blow proving fatal—Grave and sudden provocation.

The deceased who was the wife of the accused was leading an immoral life. The husband significantly asked his wife not to be very often absent from home. The deceased abused the accused. This exasperated the accused who picked up a stick which happened to be lying at the spot and gave her a couple of blows with it which proved fatal: Held, that in judging the conduct of the accused, one must not confine himself to the actual moment when the fatal blow was struck but must take into consideration the previous conduct of the woman as well and the case was covered by Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code, as the accused had acted under grave and sudden provocation. Jan Muhammad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 1044 :
119 I. C. 323 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 867 :
30 P. L. R. 652 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 861.

———S. 300, Excep. 1 — Provocation — Death caused in fit of anger, if murder.

Accused on learning that his daughter had contracted an illicit intimacy with a Mochi, in a fit of anger killed not only the daughter but also his two wives who had connived at the intimacy: Held, that the case did not fall within the first Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, and the accused was guilty of murder. Sohrab v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1050 :
81 I. C. 826 : 5 Lah. 67 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 450.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Death of wife caused by husband — Strangulation—Benefit of doubt, if can be given.

Accused who was living on very good terms with his wife killed her suddenly one night by twisting her own hair round her throat. There was no premeditation and no preparation: Held, that in the absence of any evidence the accused was entitled to the benefit of the doubt as to whether some sudden and grave provocation did not arise which temporarily deprived him of self-control. Malla v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 519 :
77 I. C. 983 : 5 L. L. J. 528 :
A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 691.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Grave and sudden provocation—Question of fact—Accused's wife, found sitting on same charpoy with her paramour—Provocation, nature of.

Whether provocation is grave and sudden such as to deprive the accused of the power of self-control, is a question of fact to be determined upon the peculiar circumstances of each case. In deciding the question, the Court must take into account the condition of the mind in which the offender was at the time of the provocation. Where the accused found seated on the same charpoy with his wife, her paramour whom he had expelled from his house only a day previously: Held, that the accused must be considered to have received a grave and sudden provocation. Des Raj v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 454 :
108 I. C. 902.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Grave and sudden provocation, what amounts to.

Before a person can claim the benefit of

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code, he must prove (i) that he was deprived of the power of self-control, and (ii) that the provocation was so grave and sudden as to reasonably justify such loss of self-control. In other words, it ought to be distinctly shown not only that the act was done under the influence of some feeling which took away from the person doing it all control over his action but that that feeling had an adequate cause. In the absence of such proof, the atrocity of the offence will not be mitigated and the offender will not be able to escape the legal consequences of his act. Lal Singh v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 674 :
63 I. C. 610.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Grave and sudden provocation, what constitutes.

The accused asked his wife to sever her connection with her paramour but she declined to do so. Thereupon there was a quarrel between the accused and his wife, in the course of which, the accused lost his temper and in a fit of anger, killed his wife: Held, that there was no grave and sudden provocation within the meaning of Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code, but there was provocation entitling him to the lesser penalty of transportation for life. Ibrahim v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 347 :
108 I. C. 166 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 544.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Held, there was grave and sudden provocation and Exception 1 applied.

Accused had been gravely and suddenly provoked when ploughing his field and had been forced into a fight; he had then retired and been followed; he had not had time to recover from the effects of the provocation, when again being taunted, he killed another person: Held, that in these circumstances, Exception 1 to S. 300 should be applied, thus reducing the offence to one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Tahir Hazrat Gul v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 568 :
168 I. C. 394 : 9 R. Pesh. 127 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pesh. 33.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Husband finding wife in bed with paramour and killing both—Grave and sudden provocation—Offence.

The accused on returning home late at night found his wife in the same bed with her paramour who escaped, but the accused ran after and killed him with a knife. He then came back to his own house and killed his wife: Held, (1) that the paramour's presence in the house was a grave and sudden provocation sufficient to deprive the accused of his power of self-control, and the accused's act in killing the paramour and his wife was, in such circumstances, culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Raham Shah v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 534 :
85 I. C. 374 : 6 L. L. J. 437 : 1 Lah. Cas. 527 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 114.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation.

Husband seeing wife committing adultery but killing her lover after taking time for deliberation—Case does not fall within Excep. 1 to S. 300—Case, however, recommended to Local Government, Jagar Beg Jal v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1057 :
171 I. C. 314 : 39 P. L. R. 479 :
10 R. L. 184 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 692.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation.

In the course of a quarrel between the party of the accused and that of the deceased, the deceased came out of his house shouting for the accused. The accused who was then standing near a tree in front of his house near by abused in return and defied the deceased and told him to come on. The deceased then caught hold of the accused by the tuft and gave him two blows with the fist. There was a struggle and the deceased held the accused firm by the tuft. The accused then gave a fatal blow to the deceased on the left side with a dagger which he had in his hand: Held, that though the first provocation of the deceased in calling out for the accused was not grave and sudden, it was aggressive and the second provocation, i. e., seizing the accused by the tuft was grave and sudden and the stabbing being directly attributable to it, Exception 1 to S. 300 applied to the case and the accused was not guilty of murder but of the lesser offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In re : Guturi Nagadu.

29 Cr. L. J. 7 :
106 I. C. 314 : 1927 M. W. N. 796 :
I. L. T. 40 Mad. 253 :
A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 136.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Intrigue, wife carrying on with another—Husband asking wife to live amicably—Shameless answer—Grave and sudden provocation.

The accused's wife was carrying on an intrigue with a neighbour and the matter was brought before the punchayat. The punchayat, however, advised her to live amicably with her husband. Next morning, the husband suggested that they should leave the village and go and settle in another village. Her reply was: "You go, I shall not. If you try too much to stop me, you will have to wash your hands of me and I shall go away." Upon this he assaulted her so severely that she died; Held, that the answer given by the deceased of a determination to leave him and disgrace him was sufficient to cause grave and sudden provocation, and that consequently, the act of the accused fell within Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code. Gurdin v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 3 :
83 I. C. 482 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 288.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation, meaning and effect.

The question of provocation is a psychological question, and one cannot apply considerations of social morality to such a question. Kota Potharaju v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

33 Cr. L. J. 273 :
136 I. C. 314 (1) : 35 L. W. 141 :
1931 M. W. N. 1137 :
I. R. 1932 Mad. 282 (1) :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 25 (1).

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation.

Mere vulgar abuse is not such a grave and sudden provocation as is contemplated by Exception 1 to S. 300, but may be a sufficient reason for not imposing the capital sentence. Abdullah v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 338 :
136 I. C. 715 : 33 P. L. R. 382 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 251 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 369.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Provocation grave and sudden—What is.

If a man comes home and finds a person actually misbehaving with a relation of his, there is a provocation grave and sudden, and his blood can hardly be expected to cool down in the course of a few seconds. Dini v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 572 :
94 I. C. 140 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 485.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Provocation, sudden and grave—Loss of self-control—Abnormal temperament—Unfaithful mistress—Demand to allow nose-cutting—Resistance—Palliating circumstances.

Where an accused armed with a pistol and a knife, dealing with a perfectly unarmed and helpless woman who is his mistress and not his wife and is not found by him in any compromising circumstances or in any act which would justify intense resentment, discovers during conversation with her that she has gone wrong with other lovers, which fact he clearly must have anticipated and which he never could hope to avoid and attempts to compel the woman to have her nose cut off, any resistance which the woman may make to this barbarous mutilation would not confer any right, legal or moral, upon the accused to kill her outright and does not in any way palliate the offence of murder, though nose-cutting be a penalty commonly inflicted by husbands on unfaithful wives in the locality to which the accused belongs. Bodhraj v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 105 :
76 I. C. 105.

———S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—Suspicion of unchastity of sister, if grave and sudden provocation.

Not far from his house the accused met his sister travelling with a stranger. He took no immediate action but quietly brought them home and sat down and talked with them, and after satisfying himself that there were, to his mind, grounds for suspecting them of misbehaviour with one another, he deliberately fell upon them and killed both of them on the spot with his hatchet: Held, that the mere suspicion could not amount to grave provocation within the meaning of Penal Code and that in the circumstances of the case, the provocation was not sudden. Emperor v. Rahim Khan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

15 Cr. L. J. 501 :

24 I. C. 589 : 7 S. L. R. 118 :

A. I. R. 1914 Sind 136.

-----S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation, what is.

Being slapped on the back by another, whether sufficient provocation so as to deprive person slapped, of his power of self-control. Nga Chit Tin v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 725 :

183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 :

A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

-----S. 300, Excep. 1—Provocation—What should Court consider in deciding whether provocation was grave and sudden, stated.

In deciding whether the provocation was grave and sudden within the meaning of Excep. 1 to S. 300, Penal Code, it is not open to an accused person to show that he was a person of particular excitability or of a particular mental instability or of a particularly volatile temperament. While it is the offender whom the Court regards when considering the question whether he was deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, it decides whether this was so by the test of the "reasonable man," the ordinary normal man of the community to which the offender belongs. Each case must be dealt with on its own facts. The law against murder, however, is not lightly to be relaxed. Ghulam Mustafa Gahno v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 778 :

183 I. C. 389 : 1939 Kar. 199 : 12 R. S. 52 :

A. I. R. 1939 Sind 182.

-----S. 300, Excep. 1 and 2—Provocation.

Accused seeing his brother struck by deceased with cart prop, stabbing deceased and killing him — Case held fell under Exceptions 1 and 2 to S. 300. Po Mye v. The King.

41 Cr. L. J. 634 :

188 I. C. 578 : 1940 Rang. 109 :

13 R. Rang. 5 : A. I. R. 1940 Rang. 129.

-----S. 300, Excep. 1, 302—Provocation—Grave and sudden provocation—Burden of proof—No premeditated motive—Fault of accused—Sentence.

The burden of proving that the accused acted under sudden and grave provocation which deprived him of the power of self-control, lies on the accused. Where the accused, a young man of 20, had no sufficient motive for a premeditated murder and the probability was that there must have been some violent quarrel between him and the deceased: Held, that it was not a case for the capital sentence. Pirithi v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 349 :

84 I. C. 653 : 6 L. L. J. 323 :

A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 654.

-----S. 300, Excep. 1, 302—Provocation—What is—Grave and sudden provocation, husband seeing paramour of his wife leaving his house—Wife's annoying reception of his remonstrances—Husband killing the wife.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

The accused returned home unexpectedly and met the paramour of his wife coming out of his house, he remonstrated with his wife and was annoyed by her reception of his remonstrances, and killed her with a hoe which was lying near him: Held, that the act of the accused was covered by the 1st Exception to S. 300, Penal Code. Ralia v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 208 :

19 I. C. 208 : 3 P. R. 1913 Cr. :

209 P. L. R. 1913.

-----Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 302—Provocation—What is—Wife found by husband sitting with lover—Death caused by husband—Grave and sudden provocation—Offence.

Accused's wife left her house after giving the accused his midday meal. She went to a grove and there met her lover. The accused after finishing his meal took up a banka and went in search of his wife. He found her sitting with her lover and killed her with the banka: Held, that the provocation although grave was not sudden as to deprive the accused of his self-control and that Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code, did not, therefore, apply and the accused was guilty of murder. Chainu v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 65 :

91 I. C. 241 : A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 272.

-----Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 302—Provocation—Woman of loose character—Refusal to admit husband to sexual intercourse—Killing wife, if murder.

Accused killed his wife, whom he knew to be a woman of depraved character, because she refused to have sexual intercourse with him on the night of the occurrence and also abused him. The woman had often before refused such intercourse; Held, that the accused could not be said to have acted under grave and sudden provocation, and was guilty of murder. Ghazi v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 140 :

65 I. C. 572 : 1 P. W. R. 1922 Cr. :

4 U. P. L. R. Lah. 49.

-----Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 302, 304—Provocation—Grave and sudden provocation—Alteration between husband and wife—Abuse of husband by wife, if culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

Deceased was in the habit of going away from her husband's house though she was not ill-treated there. One day the husband, on having heard that she was running away from the house, followed her to a grove and tried to persuade her to accompany him back home but she refused and gave him foul abuse. He thereupon struck her with a chopper which he happened to carry at the time, but which he had not taken with him with the intention of hitting her, and caused her death; Held, that the conduct of the wife amounted to grave and sudden provocation, the case was one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder under S. 304, Penal Code. Mahadeo v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 808 :

74 I. C. 712 : 9 O. L. J. 597 :

A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 112.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 302, 304—Provocation—Wife discovered in flagrante delicto with another man—Provocation, grave and sudden.

When a husband finds his wife in flagrante delicto with another man, he is deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation and if he kills the wife in the heat of the moment, his case falls within S. 300, Exception 1 of the Penal Code, and he is guilty of the offence under the first part of S. 304 and not under S. 302. Sharif v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 273 : 71 I. C. 993.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 302, 304—Provocation—Wife leading immoral life—Remonstrance—Provocation—Death caused by stabbing—Murder—Culpable homicide.

Accused's wife led a grossly immoral life. After a recent act of unchastity, the accused remonstrated with her and instead of showing repentance she replied that she would continue in the course to which he objected. The accused became enraged and struck her with a stick. She struggled with him and got hold of his fingers and bit them. Accused then lost control of himself, took out a knife and stabbed her repeatedly with it with the result that she died from the injuries. Held, that the immediate provocation offered to the accused at the time of his remonstrance coming on the top of all that had gone before was sufficient to bring the case within Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code, and to reduce the offence of the accused from murder to one of culpable homicide. Sukhai v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1228 : 88 I. C. 844 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 676.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 302, 304, Part 1—Provocation.

Accused was attracted to his mother's house by hearing a noise at midnight and on arriving there found that the deceased had his arms round his unmarried sister. The accused thereupon inflicted several lathi blows on the deceased as the result of which the latter died. Held, that the accused had received grave and sudden provocation and his offence amounted to culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Mohammad Yar v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 685 : 81 I. C. 173 : 5 L. L. J. 40 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 62.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 304—Provocation—Wife seen in company with paramour—Husband killing her, if guilty of murder.

Where an accused sees his wife in company with her paramour and kills her, he must be held to have acted under grave and sudden provocation and the offence committed is culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Fatta v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 481 : 115 I. C. 476 : 10 L. L. J. 508 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 396.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 304, Part 1—Provocation—Accused seeing his wife with her paramour but not in act of intercourse—Accused killing wife—Offence—Sentence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where the accused found his wife who was six months advanced in pregnancy and her paramour together in his house but not in the act of sexual intercourse and killed her on provocation : Held, that taking into account the nature and temper of these people of the class of the accused, when their honour, or perhaps the possession—of their women was concerned, the case fell within Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code : Held, however, that this was not a case where the provocation was so extreme as to call for a lighter sentence. Noukar Mouldino v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 968 : 170 I. C. 827 : 10 R. S. 73 : 31 S. L. R. 460 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 212.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 1, 326—Provocation—Death caused by single thrust of pen-knife without premeditation, if murder or hurt.

In connection with the marriage of accused with one Musammal I, a certain ceremony was to be performed on a certain date. On the day so fixed, the accused found one Musammal N taking Musammal I who was from her village, and when he remonstrated with her she told him that the ceremony would not take place on that day and abused him. The accused thereupon attacked the women with a pen-knife and inflicted one injury on each in the abdomen, as the result of which Musammal N died, but Musammal I survived : Held, (1) that the conduct of Musammal N amounted to the giving of grave and sudden provocation within the meaning of Exception 1 to S. 300, Penal Code : (2) that, however, it must be presumed that the accused intended to cause grievous hurt to the women and was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 326, Penal Code. Allah Din v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 663 : 73 I. C. 695 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 234.

—S. 300, Excep. 1 — Provocation—S. 304.

Accused killing another man found in his wife's bed in attempt to commit adultery with her—Accused held entitled to the benefit of Exception 1 of S. 300. Hussain v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 15 : 184 I. C. 432 : I. L. R. 1939 Lah. 278 : 41 P. L. R. 761 : 12 R. L. 223 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 471.

—S. 300, Excep. 2—Private defence.

In order to claim the benefit of Exception 2, S. 300, Penal Code, the accused must show that they had no intention of causing more harm than was necessary. Jalal v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 811 : 81 I. C. 347 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 232.

—S. 300, Excep. 2—Private defence—Proclaimed offender murdering Police Official trying to arrest him—Publication of proclamation not proved, if murder.

A proclaimed offender was tried for murdering a Police Officer trying to arrest him. The prosecution failed either to file the statement referred to in Cl. 3, S. 87, Cr. P. C., or to adduce any other evidence of publication : Held, that the accused was entitled to the benefit of Exception 2 to S. 300, Penal Code, and was guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In re : Kayambu Tevan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

17 Cr. L. J. 78 :

32 I. C. 670 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 652.

———S. 300, Excep. 2—Private defence of person—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Self-defence—Causing more injury than necessary.

Where the accused, who was concealing himself from the Police, was seized by the deceased and two others, and in order to rescue himself, he struck the deceased two severe blows on the head and shoulder, with an axe, which he had in his hand at the time, in consequence of which blows, the deceased expired within a week : Held, that the accused exceeded his right of private defence in that he caused more harm than was necessary to resist the unauthorized attempt of the deceased to place him in confinement. Farid v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 81 :

9 I. C. 452.

———S. 300, Excep. 2—Private defence of property—Culpable homicide—Firing at person mistaken for thief—Fatal injury—Offence.

The accused fired at a person a gun loaded with a slug, one inch long, in the mistaken belief that he was a thief, the shot was fired in order to protect certain fruit from being stolen. The shot resulted in the death of the person fired at. It was found that the accused had no reason to apprehend anything more serious than the theft of certain fruit, and that he must have known that the shot was likely to cause death : Held, that the accused was not entitled to the benefit of the second exception to S. 300, Penal Code. Thekkumthalathil Kelukutti v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 782 :

17 I. C. 414.

———Ss. 300, Excep. 2, 304—Private defence—Absence of warning, effect of.

The right of private defence arises when a man is seen with a stick trailing in his hand and for the purpose of committing theft. But when the person exercising the right is with a companion who is armed, it is the duty of the former to warn the person to drop the stick and to surrender, and the failure to do so brings the case under the 2nd Exception to S. 300, Penal Code. Firing the first shot in the air is not sufficient warning for this purpose. A long term of imprisonment is not called for in such cases. Nga Tun v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 335 :

35 I. C. 511 : A. I. R. 1916 L. Bur. 63.

———Ss. 300, Excep. 2, 304—Private defence of person—Death caused by use of knife in a scuffle.

Three men trespassed by night into the house of the accused, seized him and tried to drag him forcibly out of the house. There was a scuffle between the accused and his assailants. The latter was unarmed and the accused had no reason to believe that he was in danger of death or grievous hurt but he believed that he could not escape from his assailants without using knife which he picked up and used, stabbing one to death and wounding the other of his three assailants. On his trial for murder, the accused did not plead that he had used the knife in his self-defence : Held, that as it was in evidence that the accused had to struggle against three persons, the Court was not only entitled but bound to take into consideration the accused's right of self-defence : Held, further, that on the facts proved, the accused had exceeded his right of private defence but being within the 2nd Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, was not guilty of murder but of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In re : Garugu Ramayya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 18 :

8 I. C. 1088 : 8 M. L. T. 462.

———Ss. 300, Excep. 2, 304—Private defence of property—Right of private defence of property—Lathi blow struck without premeditation—Death—Right of private defence exceeded—Offence.

The accused, who was appointed to protect the crops of a field, went round one night and saw in the darkness a man cutting the crop. The thief on seeing the accused arose. Upon this the accused who was armed with a lathi, at once struck him a blow on the head, felling him to the ground, with the result that he died that very night : Held, that the case fell under Exception 2, S. 300, Penal Code, that the accused exceeded the right of private defence of property, and that the conviction of the accused should be under S. 304 and not under S. 325, Penal Code. Emperor v. Kallu.

22 Cr. L. J. 741 :

64 I. C. 133.

———Ss. 300, Excep. 2, 304, 326, 104—Private defence—Culpable homicide, and grievous hurt by dangerous weapons—Right of private defence of property and of body—Cr. P. O., Ss. 59, 46.

Where accused, who were two of the persons, that pursued some thieves, one midnight seeing them taking cotton pods in their fields, killed one, who was unarmed and caused grievous hurt to another, who was armed with an iron bound stick, with their swords in a scuffle that ensued only between them and two of the thieves, the other pursuers having been left behind or not reached in time and the rest of the thieves having gone ahead or not turned on them, and where the evidence was uncertain as to who beat which : Held, that the thieves might be or were thought to be in possession of a few handfuls of cotton or some other property when they left, but that the right of private defence in the mere recovery of property in the light of Ss. 103, 104, 105, Cl. (2), I. P. C., would evidently not extend to causing death or grievous hurt, that the accused might be taken to have followed them with an idea to secure them in order that they being unrecognised, their pilfering might not go unpunished and that should the thieves turn on their pursuers, the latter would have, of course, a complete right of self-defence against them ; that in this case, as the armed thief struck his pursuers with his stick, any injury inflicted on him short of causing his death which was necessary to secure his arrest and to protect his captors from injury, was justifiable; that the death of the deceased who was unarmed, caused by repeated sword-cuts was not justifiable; that both the accused were jointly responsible for his death and that the offence in the light of Exception 2 to S. 300 would fall under S. 304. Emperor v. Koli Mepa Bhaga.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 285.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Applicability.

Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, is meant to apply to cases wherein, in whatever way the quarrel originated, the subsequent conduct of both the parties puts them upon an equal footing. Karam Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 459 :

93 I. C. 251 : 8 L. L. J. 93 :

27 P. L. R. 132 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 219.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Fight—Origin, not known—Presumption.

Where there is no sufficient reliable evidence to come to a conclusion as to how a fight commenced, it should be presumed that it took place suddenly. Karam Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 459 :

93 I. C. 251 : 8 L. L. J. 93 :

27 P. L. R. 132 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 219.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Private defence—Use of knife—No risk of serious hurt to person using—Offence.

Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, does not apply to the case of an accused, who uses a knife where there is no appreciable risk of even serious hurt to his person. In re : Muthumada Nandan.

16 Cr. L. J. 747 :

31 I. C. 347 : A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 1214.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Provocation—Grave and sudden provocation—Accused dealing one blow on head and one on leg of deceased—'Acting in cruel and unusual manner,' meaning of.

Where during a fight which arose out of a sudden quarrel and which was unpremeditated, the accused struck one blow on the head, and another blow on the leg, of his opponent with a lathi and the latter died on account of the injuries : Held, that the accused could not be said to have acted 'in a cruel or unusual manner' within the Fourth Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, and could be convicted only under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Nur Khan v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 289 :

121 I. C. 724 : 30 P. L. R. 487 :

A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 719.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Provocation—Murder and culpable homicide—Provocation, premeditation and intention.

According to a custom in a village, the accused, a Havildar (guard) of the grain-yard was provided with a quilt by the deceased, a villager, in his turn. After the time for which it had been lent had expired, the deceased asked for it, but the accused declined to restore it until he was supplied with another.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A dispute arose, in which each grasped one end of it and then the Havildar struck the deceased with a light stick and the deceased retaliated by throwing a brass pot he had in hand and inflicting a cut below the accused's eye. The accused then rushed into a hut to take his sword and inflicted a mortal wound on the deceased's back as he was re-tying his turban disarranged in the fight : Held, that the accused had received great provocation, such a blow being extremely painful : that he was entitled to Exception 4 of S. 300, and that he was guilty under the 1st part of S. 304. Emperor v. Abram Raja.

1 Cr. L. J. 888.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Sudden fight.

Accused and deceased simultaneously preparing for assault and fighting—Sudden fight—Accused's case falls within Excep. 4. Nga Ba Shin v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 783 :

144 I. C. 420 : I. R. 1933 Rang. 109 :

A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 142.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Sudden fight—Accused taking undue advantage and acting brutally, if murder.

Where during the course of a sudden fight upon a sudden quarrel, the accused struck a terribly violent blow with a lathi upon another who had not inflicted any injuries worth the name on the accused and who had not the worst of the encounter and the latter died on account of the blow : Held, that the act of the accused was not covered by Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, inasmuch as the accused took undue advantage of the other and acted in a brutal and cruel manner and that the accused was, therefore, guilty of murder. Amarnath Singh v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 173 :

113 I. C. 481 : 5 O. W. N. 391 :

I. R. 1929 Oudh 65 : A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 282.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Sudden fight—Attacking unarmed person with dagger is taking undue advantage.

When a man attacks an unarmed person with a dagger, he takes undue advantage and acts in a cruel manner. Umar Khushal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 574 :

188 I. C. 313 : 12 R. Pesh. 46 :

A. I. R. 1940 Pesh. 1.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—Sudden fight—Death caused in sudden fight.

A dispute arose over the payment of the rent of a certain field between the three accused and the deceased. The former attacked the deceased and his nephew with lathis and a regular fight took place between the parties. The result was that considerable injuries were caused on both sides and that the deceased was killed : Held, (1) that lathis being lethal weapons, the accused must have known that they were likely to cause death ; (2) that the case fell under Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, and that all the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code. Emperor v. Gulab.

19 Cr. L. J. 953 :

47 I. C. 805 : 16 A. L. J. 731 :

40 All. 686 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 420.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 300, Excep. 4 — Sudden fight — Exception 4 to S. 300, if applies when there is no quarrel.

In order to bring a case within Exception 4 to S. 300, it is necessary to establish inter alia that the act was done upon a sudden quarrel, and where, therefore, there is no quarrel either sudden or otherwise, it is unnecessary to look further and enquire whether there have been established any of the other facts which are essential for the purpose of bringing a case within this exception. Nga Ohit Tin v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 725 :
183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—S. 300, Excep. 4 — Sudden fight — Murder—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Attack without premeditation and in the heat of passion.

Where, in the course of a faction fight, the accused inflicted a fatal wound on the deceased who was not actually engaged in the fight and who cried out that he was unarmed: Held, that it was hardly safe to assume that the accused, in the heat of the fight when he had himself probably been wounded already, could be aware that the deceased had no offensive intention and could have heard that the deceased was unarmed. The accused was, therefore, given the benefit of the 4th Exception to S. 300, Penal Code. Nga Thwe v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 272 :
14 I. C. 656 : 5 Bur. L. T. 17.

—S. 300, Excep. 4 — Sudden fight — Murder in sudden fight.

If two men are fighting and one of them is unarmed while the other uses a deadly weapon, the one who uses such a weapon must be held to take an undue advantage and not to be entitled to the benefit of Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code. Po Kin v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 1128 :
2 L. B. R. 320.

—S. 300, Excep. 4 — Sudden fight — Sudden and unpremeditated fight—Accused taking undue advantage—Offence.

Where the accused took undue advantage by attacking another with a formidable weapon when he was lying on a charpoy unarmed and unable to defend himself, Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, does not apply even if the fight was sudden and without premeditation and the act was committed in the heat of passion. Sher Alam v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 415 :
101 I. C. 191.

—S. 300, Excep. 4 — Sudden fight — Test to be applied while considering whether Exception 4 to S. 300 applies to facts of case, stated.

Whether or not the killing was premeditated is not the first test to be applied when considering whether the exception of "a sudden fight in the heat of passion" is applicable to any given set of facts. The first test is whether the act of the accused which caused the deceased's death was done without premeditation. The distinction is not to be ignored. If the other essentials necessary to bring a case within Exception 4 to S. 300 are also established, such as, whether the accused acted in the heat of passion or whether the accused acted in a manner which was either cruel or unusual and the exception is thereby brought into play, the effect would be to reduce what would otherwise be murder, to culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Nga Ohit Tin v. The King.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 725 :
183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—S. 300, Excep. 4 — Sudden fight — Want of sufficient evidence of motive to commit murder—Offence if culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

Where, in a charge of murder it was proved that there was a fight between the accused and the deceased person, in the course of which, the latter received injuries and died, but there was not sufficient evidence of the cause of the fight or of the motive that induced the accused to deliberately murder the deceased; Held, that the accused might properly be given the benefit of the fourth Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, and convicted of the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In re : Kithar Khan.

11 Cr. L. J. 191 :
4 I. C. 1116 : 5 M. L. T. 207.

—S. 300, Excep. 4—When established.

The fact that an offence was committed without premeditation, in a sudden fight, in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel, is not alone sufficient for the application of Exception 4 to S. 300. It must also be found that the offender did not take any undue advantage and did not act in a cruel or unusual manner. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 115 :
146 I. C. 563 : 10 O. W. N. 986 :
6 R. O. 145 (1) : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 438.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 4, 304-1—Sudden fight — Death caused by blows with knife—Injuries caused to accused person—Explanation, absence of—Sudden fight—Presumption—Offence.

Accused inflicted four injuries on the person of the deceased with a clasp knife, one of them in the abdomen which proved fatal. The accused himself received numerous injuries, some of them on the head, in respect of which no explanation was given in the evidence for the prosecution. It was found that the deceased at the time of the attack upon him was armed with a stick: Held, (1) that under the circumstances, it must be presumed that there was a sudden and unpremeditated fight between the accused and the deceased, but that the accused had exceeded his right of private defence in giving the deceased several injuries, one of them on a very vital part of the body; (2) that the act of the accused fell within the provisions of the 4th Exception to S. 300, Penal Code and that he was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 304-1 of the Code. Feroze v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 26 :
91 I. C. 58 : 2 Lah. Cas. 109 :
7 L. L. J. 533 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 633.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 4, 34—Attack by several persons—Liability—Two accused charged with murder—Finding of Jury that one of them came within Exception 4 to S. 300—S. 34, if can be applied against other.

Two accused were charged with murder. The Jury acquitted them of this charge but found that one of them brought himself within Exception 4 to S. 300, I. P. C. : Held, that when once the Jury were satisfied that one of the accused had brought himself within the Exception 4, there was no room for the application of S. 34 against the other at all. Asmat Sheik v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 383 :
186 I. C. 847 : 70 C. L. J. 299 :
12 R. C. 534 : A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 147.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 4, 302—Knowledge or intention—Presumption of intention from nature of act—Sentence—Extreme penalty, when to be inflicted.

A person delivering a violent blow with a lethal weapon like a dang on a vulnerable part of the body such as the head, must be deemed to have intended to cause such bodily injury as he knew was likely to cause the death of the person to whom the injury was caused. Premam v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 966 :
105 I. C. 678 : 26 P. L. R. 363 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 93.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 4, 302, 100—Sudden fight—Accused striking deceased with sickle and killing him—Deceased unarmed, if murder.

Where the accused who, in a sudden fight, strikes an unarmed person with a sickle, thereby causing his death, and himself getting a few scratches on his back, Exception 4 of S. 300, Penal Code, does not apply. He cannot plead the right of self-defence, his action being cruel and unusual, and he is guilty under S. 302. He has no right of private defence, also because he had no occasion to apprehend death or grievous hurt. Few scratches on his back does not give him this right, the burden of proving which being on him. Mir Zaman v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 142 :
172 I. C. 499 : 10 R. Pesh. 39 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pesh. 101.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 4, 302, 304—Sudden fight—Use of weapon by accused against unarmed person—Exception 4 to S. 300, if applies.

The using of a weapon by one person against an unarmed person in a sudden fight is not within the limits of Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, of a sudden fight, because it is expressly provided that no unfair or undue advantage must be taken by one of the combatants if the plea of sudden fight is to be raised by way of exception. Syed Ahmed v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 300 :
173 I. C. 299 : 10 R. Rang. 335.
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 15.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 300, Excep. 5—Consent—Homicide with consent of victim Offence.

Where the accused killed his step-father, who was an infirm old man, with his consent in order to involve some of their enemies in trouble by charging them with the murder : Held, that the case was covered by the fifth Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, and that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 304, Part I of the Code. Ujagar Singh v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 125 :
43 I. C. 413 : 45 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 145.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 5, 302—Consent.

Accused killing deceased with her own consent—Offence held, culpable homicide and not murder. In re : Nainamuthu Kannappan.

41 Cr. L. J. 322 :
186 I. C. 479 : 1939 M. W. N. 1132 :
50 L. W. 784 : I. L. R. 1940 Mad. 428 :
1940, 2 M. L. J. 89 : 12 R. M. 661 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 138.

—Ss. 300, Excep. 5, 302—Consent—Murder—Consent of victim approaching age of eighteen—Benefit of Exception—If can be given.

The consent given by the victim who though not yet eighteen is approaching that age, mitigates the gravity of the offence of murder in the sense of making it unnecessary to pass the extreme sentence of death. Masum Ali v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 855 :
117 I. C. 890 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 714 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 50.

—S. 300, Fourthly—Committing act without excuse for running risk of causing death.

Where knowledge on the part of an accused person is established under S. 300, a further question as to whether the accused struck the blow without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death arises. Such question, however, does not arise where one of the three intentions under S. 300 is established. Nga Chit Tin v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 725 :
183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

—S. 300, Thirdly—Death caused by single blow, if murder—Criteria for determining.

Where a person causes the death of another by a single blow from a stick, the criteria for determining whether or not he has committed the offence of murder, are the nature of the weapon used, its size and weight, the manner in which it is used and the actual injuries caused. If the injuries are so severe and uncommon as to indicate the use of terrific force, the offence falls under S. 300, thirdly, of the Penal Code, i. e., that he intended to cause injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, even though the weapon used is not such as would, of necessity, have caused fatal injury. Nga Khan v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 111 :
65 I. C. 495 : 11 L. B. R. 115 :
A. I. R. 1921 L. Bur. 4.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300, Paras, 2, 4—Scope.

S. 300, paragraph 2 of the Penal Code is only intended to be invoked when some injury which would not, in the ordinary course of nature, cause death was known to be likely to cause death by the offender in consequence of the latter being aware of some abnormal condition of the deceased. S. 300, paragraph 4 of the Penal Code, can never be invoked in a case where there was an intention of causing specific bodily injury to a particular person, it only applies to a case of dangerous action without an intention to cause specific bodily injury to any person. Ram Asre v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 513 :
73 I. C. 49 : 9 O. L. J. 490 : 26 O. C. 18 :
A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 97.

———S. 300, para. 4—Interpretation.

As paragraph 4 in S. 300 is the most difficult paragraph in the section, it is very undesirable to invoke it where it is not applicable. Ram Asre v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 513 :
73 I. C. 49 : 9 O. L. J. 490 : 26 O. C. 18 :
A. I. R. 1923 Oudh 97.

———S. 300, Part IV—Applicability.

The provision in the fourth part of S. 300, Penal Code, applies to a person who commits an act of the nature referred to and has no intention of causing an injury to any particular individual. Where the accused has deliberately fired shots at the deceased, this provision does not apply. Manindra Lal Das v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 868 :
170 I. C. 29 : 41 C. W. N. 1187 : 10 R. C. 121 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 432.

———Ss. 300, 302—Accused in drunken state firing at wife to silence her without intending to hit her—If offence of murder.

Where the accused in a fit of drunken recklessness fired a shot to silence his haggard wife and the shot hit her even though it was not intended to hit her and the Judge convicted the accused of murder without considering whether the crime amounted to murder or only manslaughter: Held, that even though the act of the accused was a crime, the conviction for murder was illegal. Benjamin Knowles v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 701 :
124 I. C. 578 : 34 C. W. N. 599 :
59 M. L. J. 127 : 32 L. W. 929 :
A. I. R. 1930 P. C. 201.

———S. 300, 302—Burden of proving exception under.

Accused admitting that he took part in killing—Onus to prove that his case falls under Exceptions to S. 300 is on him, Nihal Singh Dewa Singh v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 576 :
188 I. C. 326 : 42 P. L. R. 1 : 13 R. L. 27 :
A. I. R. 1940 Lah. 157.

———Ss. 300, 302—Culpable homicide or murder—Murder and culpable homicide, distinction between—Act done with intent to cause bodily injury likely to cause death, whether murder.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A blow on the head with a lathi is certainly likely to cause death, and the person who inflicts a lathi blow on the head of another person, must be presumed to have the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. But it does not necessarily follow that a lathi blow on the head is always sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The essence of the crime of murder under Cl. (2) of S. 300, Penal Code, is that there must be the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows is likely to cause death, and, for a conviction of an offence under Cl. (3) of S. 300, it must be shown that the injury which the person intended to cause was such as to be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. If a person causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, his offence comes under S. 209, and it is only if the intention was to cause bodily injury, which injury was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, that the offence would come under S. 300, Cl. (3). Gahbar Pande v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 17 :
106 I. C. 433 : I. L. T. 40 Pat. 28 :
9 P. L. T. 286 : 7 Pat. 638 :
A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 169.

———Ss. 300, 302—Duty of Court—Court should consider nature of weapon and force used in deciding intention and knowledge required under S. 300.

The proper way in which to decide whether an offence has or has not been committed under S. 300 read with S. 302, Penal Code, is to apply the words of the section to the facts and to see how the facts satisfy the essentials of the section. But it is obvious that the nature of the material object used and the force used must be useful guides to the trial Court in arriving at a decision as to whether the intention and knowledge referred to in S. 300, Penal Code, can be attributed to the accused. Public Prosecutor v. Bandi Pedda Venkata Nari.

38 Cr. L. J. 1109 :
171 I. C. 694 : 1937 M. W. N. 456 :
45 L. W. 698 : 1937, 1 M. L. J. 743 :
I. L. R. 1937 Mad. 684 : 10 R. M. 386 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 634.

———Ss. 300, 302—Intention—How determined.

The intention of the man who kills another, is a matter of fact which has got to be determined in order to decide whether the offence is murder or merely culpable homicide. A person who stabs another in the abdomen with sufficient force to penetrate the abdominal walls must undoubtedly be held to have intended to cause injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. But it must be understood that that means that it is his intention in the ordinary way because all presumptions with regard to intention are rebuttable. Emperor v. Nga E Pe.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

(F. B.) 37 Cr. L. J. 1050 :

164 I. C. 884 : 9 R. Rang. 165 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 421.

———Ss. 300, 302—Intention—Stabbing in abdomen—Injury, nature of, if offence of murder.

If a person stabs another in the abdomen with sufficient force to penetrate the abdominal walls and the internal viscera, he must be held to have intended to cause injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Nathu v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 369 :
108 I. C. 268.

———Ss. 300, 302—Knowledge—Blow with dah on forehead—Intention—Offence—Sentence—Voluntary drunkenness—Whether reason for not passing death sentence.

It is idle to say that a blow with a dah on the forehead could have been delivered without the accused's knowing that it was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The offence in such a case is murder. Nga Ohn Pe v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 52 :
165 I. C. 762 : 9 R. Rang. 220 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 477.

———Ss. 300, 302—Leg cut by assailant, if murder if death results.

A man who cuts another even on the leg with such ferocity and with such a weapon that the leg is almost severed, the muscles and bones being completely cut, must be presumed to have intended to cause injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, and if death results, is guilty of murder, unless the case is shown to fall within the exceptions mentioned in S. 800 of the Penal Code. Kra Chan U v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 207 :
76 I. C. 575 : 2 Bur. L. R. 103 :
A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 247.

———Ss. 300, 302—Murder—Dhatara poisoning—Sentence of death when appropriate.

Though a person accused of murder by administering dhatara poison can be convicted under S. 802, Penal Code, even though his primary object was only to stupefy the victims and to rob them inasmuch as he must be held to have done the act with the knowledge that he was likely to cause death, the question whether death sentence should be passed depends on the circumstances of each case. Khelawan v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1400 :
98 I. C. 712 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 104.

———S. 300, 302—Murder—Explosive Substances Act (VI of 1908) Ss. 3, 5—Preparation of bomb—Explosion of bomb buried in a place causing death of a man, if offence of murder.

The prisoner got a blacksmith to make an iron arch, a material and essential feature of the bomb, some ten days before the explosion; when questioned at the time of procuring it, he gave a false name and address and falsely stated that it was required for the purpose of distillation. Ten days after the iron arch was procured by the prisoner, it was found to form part of a bomb which was buried in a frequented footpath and which exploded and killed one C. The prisoner gave no explanation for these facts, but simply denied their truth: Held, that the prisoner could not be convicted on the above facts, under S. 302, Penal Code, or under S. 8 of Act VI of 1908, but that he was guilty under S. 8 of the latter Act. The fact that the accused gives no explanation of the facts that appear strongly against him, does not relieve the prosecution from the obligation of adducing such affirmative evidence as leaves no room for any reasonable doubt as to whether the accused is guilty of the offence with which he is charged. In re; Ohukkapalli Ramayya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 222 :
6 I. C. 51 : 1910 M. W. N. 77 :
7 M. L. T. 314 : 20 M. L. J. 657.

———Ss. 300, 302—Presumption.

In the majority of cases, the question of intention is merely a question of knowledge, and it must be assumed that a man intends the natural or necessary consequences of his own acts. The accused must be assumed to have known that bodily injury, sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, would be the consequence of stabbing with a knife in the back. And, if the accused is assumed to have acted with this knowledge, he must necessarily be assumed to have had the intention, since assuming the knowledge, the law will allow no other explanation of the act to be given. Nyo Hla Aung v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 477 :
12 I. C. 85 : 4 Bur. L. T. 221.

———Ss. 300, 302—Provocation.

Death caused by use of knife in sudden fight on grave provocation, offence held, culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Khurkhur v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 433 :
122 I. C. 577 : 11 P. L. T. 366 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 518.

———Ss. 300, 302—Provocation.

Deceased exhibiting poster against leader of accused's community—Accused as a result, stabbing and killing deceased—He having knowledge of poster two days previous—There was held no grave and sudden provocation and sentence of death was proper. Aziz Ahmad Jan Mohammad v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 695 :
176 I. C. 89 : 40 P. L. R. 119 :
11 R. L. 161 : A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 355.

———Ss. 300, 302—Provocation—Murder—No premeditation—Death sentence, propriety of.

Where murder has been committed on provocation, without any premeditation, in the heat of passion, it is not necessary to inflict the death penalty. Abdul Alim v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1392 :
98 I. C. 608 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 105.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 300, 302—Sentence—Grounds for imposing lesser penalty.

The fact that no adequate motive for the murder has been made out is not a ground for not imposing the extreme penalty of death on a murderer and a feeling of doubt as to the guilt of the accused is a matter to be considered before but not after the verdict; it has no place in the determination of the sentence after conviction. It has long been well-established law that unless extenuating circumstances can be found, a murderer must be sentenced to death. Khudu Rajak v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 727 :
124 I. C. 841 : 11 P. L. T. 166 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 262.

———Ss. 300, 302—Sentence—Infliction of lesser sentence—Grounds must be adequate.

The reason for passing the lesser sentence in a case of murder must be express and adequate. The fact that the murderer is the husband and was jealous of his murdered wife is no ground for not imposing capital sentence and a feeling of doubt as to the guilt of the accused is a matter to be considered before but not after the verdict and should have no place in the determination of the sentence after conviction. Sohrai v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 721 :
124 I. C. 836 : 11 P. L. T. 148 :
9 Pat. 474 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 247.

———Ss. 300, 302, 304—Assault causing death, if offence of murder.

The accused, two in number, who were incensed against the deceased, committed a brutal assault upon the latter who was defenceless and unarmed, and caused his death: Held, that the accused were guilty of murder. Garib v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 767 :
53 I. C. 495 : 17 A. L. J. 985 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 445.

———Ss. 300, 302, 304—Injury of a vital character—Absence of intention to cause death, if offence.

Accused, suspecting his wife of infidelity, stabbed her 4 times on the back with a clasp-knife. She ran up to the deceased, her aunt, for protection and clasped her arms round deceased's waist. Deceased begged accused not to stab his wife. Accused then plunged the knife into deceased's back: Held, per Sundara Aiyar and Abdur Rahim, JJ. (Spencer, J. dissenting).—That the accused was only guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, as he had no intention of killing the deceased, or of causing a vital injury, i. e., a wound, at a place and of a character which would naturally cause death. Per Abdur Rahim, J.—"The wound actually inflicted was, no doubt, sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, but that is not enough to bring the case under S. 302, Penal Code. To make the offence murder, it must be shown that the accused intended to inflict such injury." In re : Perumal Naiken.

13 Cr. L. J. 129 :
13 I. C. 817 : 1912 M. W. N. 193.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 300, 302, 304—Intention and knowledge—Murder—Several persons beating one unarmed man to death with lathis.

Five persons armed with lathis assaulted one unarmed man and beat him to death. They also beat another man who had come to the rescue of the deceased with the result that he too died: Held, (1) that all the assailants must be taken to have had knowledge that their act must, in all probability, cause death or such bodily injury as was likely to cause death; (2) that they were all guilty of murder. Hanuman v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 685 :
21 I. C. 1005 : 11 A. L. J. 926 : 35 All. 560.

———Ss. 300, 302, 304—Sudden provocation, culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

The accused having heard the cries of a woman who was being beaten by her husband on the road, came to her rescue and rescued her from the husband. Subsequently, the accused and the woman lived together with mutual consent but they were not married. The woman was major. While they were together passing along the road-side one day they met the brother of the woman who seeing her caught her hand and dragged her away from the accused. The accused fired at the brother who died on the spot and ran away with the woman. He was prosecuted under S. 302, Penal Code, for murder: Held, the brother had no legal right to take her by force when he met her with the accused and the accused had a right to protect her. The accused, however, could not have believed that her brother was likely to cause her grievous injury or death or that his assault was being made with any of the intentions which would have entitled the accused under S. 100, Penal Code, to cause his death. But he acted under grave and sudden provocation. Accused, however, must be accredited with the intention of causing the deceased's death and hence, since he carried his intention into execution, he was guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under the first part of S. 304, Penal Code. Mir Akbar v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 339 :
173 I. C. 698 : 10 R. Pesh. 54 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pesh. 86.

———Ss. 300, 302, 304—Provocation—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Sentence.

Where the accused saw his sister and her paramour coming out of the hujra of a mosque, and, receiving an insulting answer from the latter, there and then attacked and killed him: Held, that the provocation received by the accused was both grave and sudden. The sentence of transportation for ten years passed by the Sessions Judge on the accused under S. 304 (1), Penal Code, was reduced to one of rigorous imprisonment for four years. Jafar v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 705 :
6 P. L. R. 492.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 300, 302, 325—Murder or hurt—Death caused by single blow delivered suddenly—Murder—Grievous hurt,

Deceased and his friend gave a beating to the accused. All three were young men of 18 years of age. The following day the accused saw the deceased unexpectedly and forthwith formed the design of hitting him in return for the beating which he had received on the previous day. He thereupon struck the deceased a violent blow on the back of the head with a hockey stick which he had in his hand at the time. He was taken home and became unconscious after about half an hour and died on the following morning as the result of internal bleeding and a clot of blood on the surface of the brain: Held, that under the circumstances of the case and having regard to the conduct of the accused, it could not be safely inferred that the bodily injury which he intended to inflict was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death and that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 325, Penal Code. Ghulam Jilani v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1118 :

88 I. C. 286 : 2 L. C. 37 :

7 L. L. J. 573 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 559.

—Ss. 300, 302, 326—No intention to cause grievous hurt but knowledge that such hurt is likely to be caused—Injured person dying—Offence, if falls under S. 300.

A person can be guilty of voluntarily causing grievous hurt who does not intend to cause grievous hurt but only knows himself likely to cause grievous hurt; and if he did not intend to cause grievous hurt but only knew himself likely to cause grievous hurt, it would probably not fall under any of the clauses of S. 300, and so would not be murder. Emperor v. Koramutla Narasingadu.

39 Cr. L. J. 139 :

172 I. C. 382 : 46 L. W. 486 :

1937, 2 M. L. J. 490 : 1937 M. W. N. 1124 :

10 R. M. 455 : A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 792.

—Ss. 300, 304—Burden of proof of exception under—Accused's statements and circumstances whether can establish exception.

Although under the Evidence Act the burden of proving an exception under the Penal Code is on the accused person, it does not follow that the circumstances together with the accused person's statement cannot be sufficient evidence to establish the exception in his favour. Mangalia v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1395 :

98 I. C. 707 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 119.

—Ss. 300, 304—Culpable homicide or murder—Culpable homicide, when murder.

Culpable homicide is not murder unless the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention stated in one or more of the clauses of S. 300. Where the question is, whether the injuries caused are sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the nature of the weapon used and of the injuries caused must be taken into consideration. Daro v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1 :

75 I. C. 689 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 317.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 300, 304—Provocation.

Accused devoted to wife who finding fault with him not allowing to stay with her—Accused finding her eight months advanced in pregnancy—Accused enquiring whether she cohabited with certain person—Wife replying in affirmative—Accused stabbing her: Held, no murder but mere culpable homicide—Fact of two lives killed should not be taken into account for sentence. Nga Saw Maung v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 137 :

172 I. C. 395 : 10 R. Rang. 245 :

A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 466.

—Ss. 300, 304—Provocation—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Provocation, grave and sudden—Wife found lying with stranger, murder of.

Where an accused, finding his wife inside his house lying on a cot with a man with whom she had previously had an intrigue, murdered the wife: Held, that the provocation caused by the wife and the man being found lying together on the cot in view of the previous intrigue was sufficiently grave and sudden to disturb the equanimity of the accused, so that the case fell within the Exception contained in S. 300, Penal Code, and that the accused should accordingly be convicted under S. 304, I. P. C. Ajudhi v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 625 :

30 I. C. 499 : 2 O. L. J. 463 :

A. I. R. 1915 Oudh 126.

—Ss. 300, 304—Wife receiving injury on her head—Offence.

Where the sole inmates of a house were a man and his two wives and it was found that the elder wife was habitually ill-treated and half-starved by her husband, she was admitted to hospital suffering from a serious injury to the head from the effects of which she died three days after but she was too ill to make any statement and there was no indication that the injury was accidental or self-inflicted, the explanation given by the husband as to the injury being unsatisfactory and highly improbable: Held, that the presumption was that the injury was caused by her husband: Held, also, that to inflict such an injury on the head of a woman already reduced by ill-treatment to such a poor condition was an act which warrants the finding that the culprit must have known that it was likely that death would be the result and was sufficient to bring him under S. 304, Part 2, Penal Code. Rahim Dad v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 283 :

19 I. C. 715 : 3 P. W. R. 1913 Cr. :

150 P. L. R. 1913.

—Ss. 300, 322, 325, 326—Murder or hurt—Murder—Culpable homicide—Grievous hurt—Stabbing by pen-knife—Death caused—Offence.

There can be no conviction for murder or for culpable homicide not amounting to murder where the corpus delicti is not established. Culpable homicide is murder where the party inflicting the injury does it either with the intention that it should cause death or with the knowledge that it may do so. It will not be murder if the case falls within any of the Exceptions noted under S. 300, Penal Code. Where there is neither intention, knowledge, nor likelihood that the injury will or can result in death, the offence would be neither murder, nor culpable homicide not amounting to murder, but would be 'voluntarily causing grievous hurt' under S. 322 and the conviction in such a case would be either under S. 325 or S. 326 according to the nature of the weapon used. Ghulam Mohay-ud-Din v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 658 :
63 I. C. 450 : 3 L. L. J. 581 :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 26.

———Ss. 300, 326—Murder or hurt—Stone throwing—Death caused by stone—Wound inflicted with sword—Offence.

In a mutual stone throwing between the deceased's party and the accused started by the former, a stone hit the deceased and ruptured his liver. As he lay on the ground, D, one of the accused, came forward with a sword and struck him a blow which caused a serious wound on the deceased's leg. The deceased ultimately died from the effects of the injury caused by the stone : Held, (1) that the accused could not be convicted of murder inasmuch as they were acting in self-defence, there was no intention to cause death, and it was not known who threw the fatal stone ; (2) that D was guilty of causing grievous hurt by a dangerous weapon. Dattu Nana Pawar v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 93 :
43 I. C. 253 : 19 Bom. L. R. 902 :
A. I. R. 1918 Bom. 247.

———Ss. 300, 411—Proof—Murder—Dis-honestly receiving stolen property—Proof of murder—Production by accused of ornaments of the deceased, if sufficient.

The accused admitted that the deceased was at his house immediately before his death, and declared that he fell from the roof and his respiration stopped. He also admitted that he had subsequently taken the body and thrown it into the tank where it had been afterwards found. It was also admitted and proved that he had produced the ornaments which the boy was wearing on the morning on which he was missed, from a hole underneath a tree near the tank where the boy's body was found. But he did not admit that he had anything to do with the boy's death. The medical evidence showed that the deceased might have been either intentionally or accidentally strangled : Held, that there is little moral doubt of the accused's guilt ; yet there is not sufficient legal evidence that he had killed the boy, and that in these circumstances, he can only be found guilty of an offence under S. 411, I. P. C. Emperor v. Rajani Kanto Koer.

1 Cr. L. J. 10 :
8 C. W. N. 22.

———Ss. 300, 411—Stolen property belonging to the murdered man in possession of accused if sufficient for conviction of murder—Evidence.

Where the only evidence against an accused person is a bundle of cloth which he produced and which is identified as having been stolen from a person proved to have been murdered, and there is no admissible evidence against him upon the record to connect him more directly with the murder, it is impossible to do more than convict him under S. 411, Penal Code. Ahmad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 275 :
19 I. C. 707 : 220 P. L. R. 1913 :
23 P. W. R. 1913 Cr.

———Ss. 300 (1), 302—Provocation—Accused killing paramour of prostitute while engaged in sexual intercourse, if offence of murder.

It is well-established law that if a husband discovers his wife in the act of adultery and thereupon kills her, he is guilty of manslaughter only and not of murder. But this rule has no application where the woman concerned is not the wife of the accused but only a public woman. Emperor v. Dinabandhu Ooriya.

31 Cr. L. J. 737 :
124 I. C. 818 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 199.

———S. 300 (1), (2) and 302—Attack by several persons.

An attack was made on the deceased by six persons, which was of a violent and determined character, no less than 16 wounds were found on the body of the deceased, and his spleen, which was in a healthy condition, was severely ruptured in several places by the injuries inflicted on him : Held, that the persons who attacked him either intended to cause his death, or they attacked him in such a brutal manner, regardless of the consequences, well knowing that they would be likely to cause his death, and that the offence was murder. Elem Molla v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 417 :
6 I. C. 921 : 37 Cal. 315.

———Ss. 300, Cls. (1), (3), 300, 149, 302—S. 300, Cls. (1) and (3), scope and applicability.

Nine accused armed with weapons attacking and inflicting numerous wounds on deceased—Injury to vital parts avoided—Deceased dying shortly afterwards—Accused held guilty under Cl. (3), S. 300, if not under Cl. (1). Rahman Samail v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 712 :
182 I. C. 900 : I. L. R. 1939 Lah. 77 :
41 P. L. R. 443 : 12 R. L. 83 :
A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 245.

———S. 300, Cls. 1 to 4—Murder, brutal assault with lathis when amounting to.

A brutal assault with lathis resulting in the death of the person assaulted, does not ordinarily amount to murder unless the accused intended to cause death [S. 300 (1)] or to cause such bodily injury as is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death [S. 300 (3)]. Saidino v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 710 :
30 I. C. 998 : 9 S. L. R. 99 :
A. I. R. 1915 Sind 23.

———S. 300 (2)—Scope.

Constitutional or peculiar defect leading to death as result of injuries, not sufficient to cause death—Accused not proved to have knowledge of presence of such defect—Case does not fall under S. 300 (2). Waryam Sher Mohammad v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 314 : 180 I. C. 62 : 11 R. L. 658 ; A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 834.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300 (c)—Loss of temper—Lathi blow causing fracture of skull—Offence.

A person who loses his temper and strikes another person on the head with a lathi causing extensive fracture of the skull resulting in the death of the deceased within a few hours, is prima facie guilty of murder under S. 300, Cl. (c), Penal Code. Sheo Darshan v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1503 : 90 I. C. 159 : A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 27.

———S. 300 (3)—Evidence—Murder—Medical opinion based on misconception of facts, value of injury likely to cause death.

A Medical Officer's opinion that the injuries inflicted were not serious, which is based upon a misconception of facts, should be disregarded when the evidence shows that the injuries inflicted were one inch deep and they pierced the pleura, which, in the ordinary course of events, is sufficient to cause death. Public Prosecutor v. Thandavan Chetty. 16 Cr. L. J. 543 : 29 I. C. 671 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1015.

———S. 300 (3)—Injury causing death.

Number of serious injuries—Its cumulative effect causing death though each not sufficient to cause death—Case held fell under S. 300 (3). Sher Mohammad v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 314 : 180 I. C. 62 : 11 R. L. 658 ; A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 834.

———S. 300 (3)—Intention—Murder—Blow with lathi causing extensive fracture of skull and death—Presumption of intention to cause injury likely to cause death from result of injury.

Where the accused struck a single blow with a lathi on the head of another with sufficient force to cause extensive fracture of the skull and the latter was killed : Held, that the best criterion of the force and character of the blow was the result which it effected, and in the absence of indications to show that the accused had intended to cause any other sort of injury, he must be held to have intended to cause an injury, sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Sewa Singh v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 1069 : 126 I. C. 572 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 490.

———Ss. 300 (3), 302, 304—Death caused by single blow, if murder.

Deceased threatened accused, who lost his temper, and rushing out brought an iron-shod stick, with a single blow of which he killed the former : Held, that, having regard to the fact that death was caused by a single blow, it was possible that the blow struck by the accused exceeded in violence the injury he had in view at the moment of striking it, and that, therefore, the accused should be convicted of culpable homicide not amounting to murder under the second part of S. 304, Penal Code, and not of murder. Sardarkhan Jaridkhan v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 530 : 36 I. C. 578 : 41 Bom. 27 : 18 Bom. L. R. 793 : A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 191.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 300 (4)—Applicability—Cl. (4) applies only when no other clause applies.

Cl. (4) of S. 300, Penal Code, comes into play only if no other clause applies and where the intention of the assailants as inferred from the result of their act could at least be that of causing such bodily injuries as the assailants would have known to be likely to cause the death of their victim, the invocation of Cl. (4) is altogether erroneous. Hasta Ismail v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 1073 : 171 I. C. 351 : 39 P. L. R. 327 : 10 R. L. 187 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 593.

———S. 300, Cl. 4—Conviction under—Legality of.

Mother jumping into well and causing death of her child tied to her back is not guilty of murder under S. 300, Cl. 4. Supadi v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1016 (b) : 87 I. C. 840 : 27 Bom. L. R. 604 : A. I. R. 1925 Bom. 310.

———S. 300, Cl. (4)—Death caused by administering dhatura—Object to facilitate robbery, offence, if murder.

The accused, two wandering Wadaris aged 60 and 40, respectively, pretending to possess supernatural powers of discovering hidden treasure, took five villagers to a field belonging to one of them and, in order to facilitate robbery administered dhatura to the five persons in the food which was cooked for them there, as a result of which three of them died on the spot and the two others, who took less food, recovered their consciousness only after four days' treatment in a hospital : Held, that the accused must be presumed under the circumstances to have known that the nature of their act was likely to cause death and were guilty of murder under S. 300, Cl. (4), Penal Code. Emperor v. Shetya Timma Waddar. 27 Cr. L. J. 1134 : 97 I. C. 654 : 28 Bom. L. R. 1003 : A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 518.

———S. 300, Cl. 4—Fourth clause and first three clauses—Distinction.

The cases in which the fourth clause of S. 300, Penal Code, has any application, are extremely rare, and though it is not easy, and perhaps not desirable, to attempt to define with any strictness, the kind of cases in which that clause comes in, still there is one very broad distinction between it and the first three clauses—in the latter, the important thing is an intention to kill or to hurt, while the fourth clause says nothing about intention. Nawab v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 610 : 25 I. C. 522 : 263 P. L. R. 1914 : 31 P. R. 1914 Cr. : 45 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 98.

———S. 300, Cl. 4—Scope.

The fourth clause of S. 300, Penal Code, is intended primarily and especially to apply to cases in which there has been no intention to cause death or bodily injury to any specified individual. Jhagru Gond v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

2 Cr. L. J. 746 :
1 N. L. R. 34.

———S. 300 (4)—Scope of.

Although culpable homicide may have been committed without premeditation and in a sudden fight and also in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel, if it appears that the accused had used a hatchet on another unarmed man and had struck a blow on the latter's head with a hatchet splitting the skull while under no reasonable apprehension of injury to himself, he cannot claim the benefit of Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code. Kanshi v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 566 :
94 I. C. 134 : 8 L. L. J. 188 :
27 P. L. R. 244 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 361.

———S. 300 (4), III (c)—Death caused by single lathi blow, if murder.

If a person, owing to a quarrel and exchange of abuse and without intending to kill, causes the death of another by delivering a single lathi blow on his head, he must be taken to have known when striking the blow that his act was so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, and if he does the act without any excuse, he is guilty of murder and his case comes under S. 300, Cl. (4), Illustration (c), Penal Code. Emperor v. Umrao.

24 Cr. L. J. 753 :
74 I. C. 257 : 21 A. L. J. 316 :
A. I. R. 1923 All. 355.

———Ss. 300 (4), 302, 304-A, 309—Mother jumping into well and causing death of her child tied to her back, if guilty of attempt to commit suicide.

Accused who was harassed and ill-treated by her husband, in a fit of disappointment and annoyance jumped into a well with the object of drowning herself. At the time when she jumped into the well she had her child tied at her back, but she was not conscious of the fact and the result was that although the accused escaped, the child died : Held, that the accused was guilty of attempting to commit suicide. Supadi v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1016 :
87 I. C. 840 : 27 Bom. L. R. 604 :
A. I. R. 1925 Bom. 310.

———Ss. 300, Cl. (4), 307, 511—Attempt to murder, what constitutes.

If the person committing an act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death and commits the act without any just cause or excuse but death is not caused, he is guilty of attempt to murder. Bhagat Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 290 :
121 I. C. 726 : 31 P. L. R. 73 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 266.

———Ss. 301, 299—Intention to murder some one else, effect of—Murder—Poisoning.

The accused prepared sweets and put into them poison with the intention of her husband. The husband with s partook of it. One of the other consequence of it : Held, that the ac in law guilty of murder, inasmuch intention of causing death is not the of causing death to any particula Jeoni v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 186

17 Cr. L.
36 I. C. 473 : 15 A.
A. I. R. 1917

———S. 302.

———Abettor.
———Acquittal.
———Arsenic poisoning.
———Attack by several persons.
———Benefit of doubt.
———Circumstantial evidence.
———Common intention.
———Concerted attack.
———Confession by co-accused.
———Conviction.
———Corroboration of approver's story.
———Death caused by arsenic.
———Death sentence.
———Drunkenness.
———Duty of Court.
———Duty of prosecution.
———Evidence.
———Extenuating circumstances.
———Grave provocation.
———Grave suspicion.
———Homicidal suicidal wounds.
———Inference.
———Ingredients of offence under.
———Injury resulting in death.
———Insufficient proof.
———Intention.
———Interference by High Court.
———Intoxicated state of mind, effect of.
———Knowledge.
———Miscellaneous.
———Motive.
———Murder.
———Neglect of victim.
———Offence under.
———Plea of guilty.
———Poisoning—proof.
———Power of High Court.
———Pre-arranged fight.
———Presumption.
———Presumptive evidence of murder.
———Private defence.
———Provocation.
———Punishment.
———Retrial, necessity of.
———Rioting and murder.
———Sentence.
———Suspicion.
———Transportation for life.

———S. 302.

See also (i) Confession.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 195, 196-A, 236, 237, 238, 269 (3), 271, 274, 276, 297, 417, 423, 439, 537.

(iii) Criminal trial.

(iv) Evidence.

(v) Evidence Act, 1872, Ss. 24, 32, 114.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

(vi) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 33, 34, 79, 80, 84, 86, 96, 97, 99, 109, 114, 147, 148, 149, 201, 203, 299, 300, 300 Exception 4, 300 Exception 5, 300 Cls. (1) (3), 302, 304, 304-A, 304-II, 325, 326, 304, 411.

-----S. 302—Abettor.

A person who instigates others to beat the deceased and they inflict several injuries on him resulting in his death, cannot escape responsibility for abetment of murder and he should be convicted under S. 302. Machhia v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 301 :
147 I. C. 109 : 6 R. L. 331 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 928.

-----S. 302—Acquittal—Murder—First report not mentioning accused—Eye-witness failing to identify accused at investigation—Circumstantial evidence, value of.

Where in a trial for murder it appeared that the first report did not name the murderer, that the only eye-witness who professed to have seen the murder, could not identify the murderer before the Police and that the only evidence against the accused consisted in the production of a blood-stained kurtia from the house where he and his brothers resided and his pointing out a blood-stained knife which was concealed in a bush on the way from the deceased's house to his own : Held, (1) that in the absence of any direct evidence connecting the accused with the murder, the circumstantial evidence that had been produced was altogether insufficient for conviction ; (2) that the mere fact that it had not been shown who else could have committed the murder, was no ground for holding that the accused must have committed it and he was, therefore, entitled to an acquittal. Tajoo v. Emperor

17 Cr. L. J. 279 :
34 I. C. 999 : 22 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 325.

-----S. 302—Acquittal under—Charge of murder—Conviction for grievous hurt—Acquittal.

Where a person tried for an offence under S. 302, Penal Code, is convicted of an offence under S. 326 of the Code, he must be deemed to have been acquitted of the offence under S. 302. Emperor v. Kan Thein.

27 Cr. L. J. 1393 :
98 I. C. 705 : 5 Bur. L. J. 80 :
4 Rang. 140 : A. I. R. 1926 Rang. 154.

-----S. 302—Arsenic poisoning—Murder—Duty of prosecution—Examination of viscera and analysis by Chemical Analyser, necessity of.

It is of the utmost importance in a case of arsenic poisoning that the prosecution must prove that a lethal dose of opium, that is, two grains or upwards had been administered. There ought to be a careful examination of the viscera of the body and an analysis by a competent analyser showing from the amount of arsenic found in the viscera that at least a lethal dose must have been administered. Mere examination of vomit or night soil is totally insufficient and it would be extremely dangerous to rely upon some traces of arsenic found in either of these two things. Emperor v. Sikandar.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 862 :
125 I. C. 585 : 1930 A. L. J. 1405 :
A. I. R. 1930 All. 532.

-----S. 302—Attack by several persons—Concerted attack by several persons armed with lathis—Death of victim, liability of attackers.

Where five persons joined in beating an elderly person and beat him so mercilessly with lathis that his skull was fractured and eleven ribs were broken, and as a result of injuries, he died two days afterwards : Held, that all the assailants were guilty of murder and that it was immaterial by whose lathi the fatal injury was inflicted. Umed v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 826 :
74 I. C. 858 : 45 All. 727 :
21 A. L. J. 623 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 145.

-----S. 302—Benefit of doubt.

All accused persons taking part in abduction—Doubt as to who committed murder—Possibility of others having joined after abduction—Absence of proof of ingredients of offence under S. 149—Benefit of doubt on charge of murder should be given. Ahmad v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 426 :
147 I. C. 401 : 6 R. L. 393 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 1035 (2).

-----S. 302—Benefit of doubt—Case not established beyond possibility of reasonable doubt—Benefit of doubt was given to accused—Criminal trial.

Where the prosecution theory in a murder case was presumably built on the opinion first expressed by an expert witness (Civil Surgeon) whom the accused had no proper opportunity to cross-examine but who subsequently modified his opinion, and there were other infirmative circumstances in the prosecution case, the benefit of doubt was given to the accused. Jammun Ram v. Emperor.

A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 189.

-----S. 302—Benefit of doubt—Circumstantial evidence—Murder—Poisoning—Possession of food vessels containing poison.

Where the circumstantial evidence relied on does not exclude the reasonable possibility of some person other than the accused having committed the crime, the accused must be given the benefit of the doubt. When a man dies as the result of arsenic poisoning, the mere fact that food vessels and a grinding stone for the preparation of food produced by the wife of the deceased contained arsenic, does not necessarily exclude the possibility of the poison having been introduced by some outside agency. Daulat Bai v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 424 :
77 I. C. 600 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 537.

-----S. 302—Benefit of doubt.

Conviction must be based on evidence and not because Judge is morally convinced of accused's guilt. Emperor v. Sanika Munda.

36 Cr. L. J. 195 :
152 I. C. 832 : 7 R. P. 263 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 19.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Benefit of doubt—Death caused by gun-shot—Accident or design, determination of.

During the course of a fight between the party of the accused and the party of the complainants, a member of the latter party was killed by a shot from a gun but the Court was unable to determine definitely whether the shot had been fired by one of the accused or was the result of the gun going off of itself during the struggle for its possession: Held, that the accused must be given the benefit to the doubt and that a conviction was not justified. Kundan Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1191 : 88 I. C. 711 : 6 L. L. J. 271 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 720.

————S. 302—Benefit of doubt.

If the Court finds that the proof adduced at best leads to strong suspicion but falls short of the requisite standard, the Court should give the benefit of the doubt to the accused. Emperor v. Eddula Venkata Subba Reddi.

33 Cr. L. J. 51 (2) :
134 I. C. 1143 : 34 L. W. 128 :
61 M. L. J. 608 : 1931 M. W. N. 1177 :
54 Mad. 931 : I. R. 1932 Mad. 7 :
A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 689.

————S. 302—Benefit of doubt—Murder—Circumstances under which murder committed not clear—Conviction, legality of.

It is unsafe to convict a person of murder where the circumstances under which it has been committed are not very clear and are somewhat mysterious and the charge has not been clearly brought home to the accused. Abdul Ghani v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 116 : 99 I. C. 324 : 8 L. L. J. 559 : 28 P. L. R. 27 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 51.

————S. 302—Benefit of doubt — Murder — Evidence opposed to probabilities.

Where a girl of 15 and a boy of 13 years deposed to having seen the accused throw the deceased down more than once and did not state the fact to persons they would have ordinarily reported to, and further withheld the fact from the Police and the Magistracy for a long time after the incident: Held, acquitting the accused, that the matter was not under the circumstances free from doubt. In re : Erikala Subbadu.

7 Cr. L. J. 216 :
2 M. L. T. 496.

————S. 302—Benefit of doubt.

The evidence was not satisfactory and that the accused was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. Lalu Rahim Mirasi v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 615 :
148 I. C. 164 : 6 R. L. 509 (1) :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 10.

————S. 302—Circumstantial evidence, as basis of conviction.

Circumstantial evidence in order to furnish a basis for conviction requires a high degree of probability that is, sufficiently high that a prudent man, considering all the facts and realising that the life or liberty of the accused depends upon the decision, feels justified in holding that the accused committed the crime. Dina v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 640 :
109 I. C. 912.

————S. 302—Circumstantial evidence.

There is no rule or principle of law which prohibits the imposition of a death sentence in cases where the evidence is purely circumstantial. Where the Court is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused, the fact that the evidence is circumstantial and not direct, is not a factor which should per se affect the sentence. A consideration of the species of evidence on which the guilt of an accused is found, should not of itself determine the nature of the evidence. Circumstantial evidence like any other must, in every case, be tested, weighed and prevail or not by its own inherent proving force. Muniandi v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 28 :
26 I. C. 332 : 1 L. W. 1007 :
16 M. L. T. 535 : 1915 M. W. N. 34 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 542.

————S. 302—Circumstantial evidence, value of.

The fact that an accused person was found with a gun in his hand immediately after a gun was fired and a man was killed on the spot from which the gun was fired, may be strong circumstantial evidence against the accused, but it is an error of law to hold that the burden of proving innocence lies upon the accused under such circumstances. If there are two persons who answer the above description, the circumstantial evidence loses its weight very substantially. An elementary principle of sifting evidence is to test it in the light of probabilities. Nibaran Chandra Roy v. Emperor.

6 Cr. L. J. 304 :
11 C. W. N. 1085.

————S. 302—Circumstantial evidence, when proper Murder—Evidence that accused announced his intention to murder, value of.

It is unsafe to convict a person of murder on circumstantial evidence, where the separate pieces of circumstantial evidence relating to the movements of the accused and which converge on his guilt bear palpable signs of conviction and do not fit in with the conduct of rational persons. In a murder case evidence of a casual witness to the effect that the accused had announced to him his intention to murder the deceased should not ordinarily be believed. Sambhu Patra v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 438 :
122 I. C. 587 : A. I. R. 1931 Pat. 169.

————S. 302—Common intention.

Arrest of gang of dacoits—One of the dacoits shooting at pursuers—Death of one of the pursuers—Other members cannot be convicted for murder. Lekha Singh v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 101 :
140 I. C. 892 : 9 O. W. N. 977 :
I. R. 1933 Oudh 26 :
A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 53.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 302—Common intention—Murder—Several persons causing death with deadly weapons.

Where four persons armed with deadly weapons pursue a fifth, set upon him and kill him, it must be held that their common intention was to cause his death or to cause such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. In such a case, all those who take part in the murderous assault are guilty of murder. Bhag Singh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 721 :
69 I. C. 449 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 415.

—S. 302—Common intention—Murder.

Where two men with the common intention of murdering a person set upon him and one of them fires a shot which kills him, both of them are guilty of murder under S. 302, Penal Code. Mian Khan v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 612 :
85 I. C. 836 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 293.

—S. 302—Concerted attack.

Large number of men armed with spears rushing at another and plunging spears into his body—Inference as to common intention arises and all are guilty. Bharat Singh v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 32 :
159 I. C. 155 (2) : 1935 A. W. R. 53 :
8 R. A. 387 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 362.

—S. 302—Concerted attack.

Large number of people attacking and killing deceased—Each individual's part not distinguishable—Common intention not proved : Held, all should be tried under S. 149 read with S. 302. Nga Ba Din v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 196 :
159 I. C. 1050 : 8 R. Rang. 317 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 406.

—S. 302—Concerted attack—Murder—Injuries inflicted resulting in death—Penalty, proper.

Where a number of men armed with lathis make a concerted attack upon another man and practically kill him on the spot, inflicted injuries on the head, the result of blows which must have been struck either with the intention to kill, or, at any rate, with the intention to cause hurt such as the strikers must have known to be imminently likely to result in the death of the person struck, the penalty prescribed by the law as the proper penalty in cases of murder should be inflicted on the ringleader, at least, of such an assault. Sipahi Singh v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 106 :
71 I. C. 934 : 20 A. L. J. 900 : 45 All. 130 :
A. I. R. 1923 All. 88.

—S. 302—Concerted attack.

Where several persons armed with lethal weapons, such as lathis and kantas, assault a single person and strike him several times on a vital part of the body, not only the person who actually inflicted the fatal blow, but all are guilty of causing his death. Chait Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 249 :
153 I. C. 81 : 11 O. W. N. 1543 :
7 R. O. 286 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 110.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 302—Confession by co-accused—Confession exculpating maker, whether can be used as against co-accused.

Two accused persons who were charged with having committed murder and having subsequently robbed the deceased, made statements accusing each other of the murder but confessing that each of them had taken part in the robbery : Held (1) that the confession made by each accused could not, so far as it related to the murder, be used as against the other, inasmuch as the maker of the confession exculpated himself, and the confessions being mutually contradictory could not be relied upon; (2) that so far as the confession related to the robbery, they were valuable evidence both as against the person making the confession and as against the co-accused with regard to the robbery and also as leading to the inference that the robbery and the murder were parts of the same transaction and were committed by the same person. Mian Khan v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 612 :
85 I. C. 836 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 293.

—S. 302—Conviction, based on uncorroborated testimony of 'accomplice', legality of—Suspected participant in crime appearing as prosecution witness, statement of, weight of—Presumption.

A prosecution witness, against whom there is, apart from his own statement, ground for suspicion that he was himself a participant in the very crime for which the accused are on their trial, though, strictly speaking, not an "accomplice," stands, in view of the provisions of S. 114, Evidence Act, practically on the same basis as an "accomplice." Therefore a conviction ought not to be based on the sole uncorroborated testimony of such a witness. The principle laid down by S. 114, Evidence Act, is one of very wide application, which covers not merely the particular instances given in the illustrations to the said section, but all sorts of analogous cases in which the actual facts are distinguishable from the facts presumed by any one of the illustrations but are equally amenable to the general principle enunciated by the section itself. Rustam Singh v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 410 :
24 I. C. 146 : 1 O. L. J. 95 :
A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 176.

—S. 302—Conviction, if justified—Murder—Body not identified.

Four days after the disappearance of a certain person from a village, a dead body was found floating in the canal, fifty miles from the village. The body was not definitely identified as that of the missing person. Suspicion, however, fell on the accused, who was a reversioner of the missing man, as the murderer of the latter, the only evidence against him being that he pointed out two places at which blood-stained earth was found : Held, that the body not having been satisfactorily identified, the remaining evidence was not sufficient to justify the conviction of the accused for the murder of the missing man. Jaglu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 173 :
76 I. C. 397 : 5 L. L. J. 417 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 168.

—S. 302—Conviction, if proved—Murder—Proof of offence—Circumstantial evidence—Conviction of one of two persons, when uncertain who fired the fatal shot, in the absence of common intention.

Where the Sessions Judge in a trial on a charge of gun-shot murder against N found that N and another person L were seen immediately after the report of the gun at the scene of occurrence each with a gun in his hand, but he did not find which of them fired the fatal shot, his only finding being that either N or L fired the shot that killed the deceased, and there was no finding in the judgment that N and L had a common intention and acted in concert and that the gun was fired in furtherance of their common intention: Held, that the legal inference from these findings must be that neither N nor L was guilty of the offence of murder. Nibaran Chandra v. Emperor.

6 Cr. L. J. 304 :
11 C. W. N. 1085.

—S. 302—Conviction, illegality of—Person discovered near dead body immediately after murder holding weapon with which offence could have been committed, whether guilty.

Immediately after the commission of a murder, a half-witted brother of the deceased was discovered sitting in a corner of the room in which the murder was committed holding in his hand a weapon with which the injuries found on the person of the deceased could have been caused. The weapon was, however, not blood-stained and there was no other evidence connecting the brother with the murder of the deceased: Held, that under the circumstances of the case it would not be safe to convict the brother of the murder of the deceased. In re : Karupana Pillai.

28 Cr. L. J. 279 :
100 I. C. 359 : A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 1112.

—S. 302—Conviction of murder, maintainability of—Guilt to be established beyond doubt—Murder by poisoning—Proof.

In a murder case, a Court has to be satisfied not of the probabilities but of the certainty beyond any reasonable doubt that the accused is guilty. In a case of murder by poisoning with arsenic, it was [not shown that the accused had arsenic in her possession or that she gave anything to eat to the deceased: Held, that the conviction for murder could not be maintained. Anandi v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 102 :
32 I. C. 838 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 363.

—S. 302—Conviction on circumstantial evidence, if justified—Murder—Sentence of death, whether can be passed—Sufficiency of evidence.

The accused came to the deceased village and became the guest of the deceased. A third person gave a sum of money to the deceased in the presence of the accused. The accused and the deceased slept near each other on that night. The deceased was found murdered in the morning. The accused had hurriedly disappeared before dawn and was discovered at a place some miles away. The money which belonged to the deceased was in his possession and there were blood stains on his shirt: Held, that the evidence was incompatible with any hypothesis except that the accused had murdered the deceased and the accused could be sentenced to death on this evidence. Karim Bakhsh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 780 :
125 I. C. 205 : A. I. R. 1929 Sind 179.

—S. 302—Conviction, propriety of—Murder—Identity of culprits well-known to villagers—No evidence forthcoming except that of brothers of deceased.

Where in a murder case the fact of murder was established, but in spite of the fact that a large number of villagers had come to the scene of occurrence and were well aware of the identity of the murderers, no evidence was forthcoming as to who the real culprits were except the evidence of two of the brothers of the deceased, and their evidence was unreliable: Held, that it was unsafe to base a conviction on the statement of the deceased's brothers in the circumstances of the case. Saudagar Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 971 :
126 I. C. 157 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 527.

—S. 302—Conviction under, legality of—Murder—Death, proof of—Attempt to murder.

Before a conviction of murder can be obtained, the Court must be satisfied that the person alleged to have been murdered is actually dead, and that there is no possibility of a reasonable doubt on the point. Where a man was brutally attacked with lathis by several persons and after being beaten into unconsciousness, was removed by his assailants and was never seen again: Held, that the assailants could not be convicted of murder as it was not certain that their victim was dead. Bandhu v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 900 :
81 I. C. 436 : 22 A. L. J. 340 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 662.

—S. 302—Corroboration of approver's story—Murder—Spots of blood on clothes—Motive.

The discovery of minute spots of blood on an Indian's shirt cannot be regarded as any material corroboration of the story of an approver that the person on whose shirt spots of blood have been found took part in the murder. The mere fact that there was motive for the accused to do away with the deceased, does not amount to sufficient corroboration of an approver's statement so as to justify a conviction. Jit Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 875 :
86 I. C. 811 : 26 P. L. R. 124 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 526.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Death caused by arsenic—Murder—Offence.

Accused administered arsenic to a boy of nine years of age with the object of preventing the boy's father from giving evidence against the accused in a criminal trial. The boy died from the effects of the poison: Held, that the accused was guilty of murder, inasmuch as he knew that the act committed by him was so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause to the boy such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. Gauri Shankar v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 382 :
44 I. C. 686 : 16 A. L. J. 178 :
40 All. 360 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 283.

———S. 302—Death sentence—Murder conviction for—Conviction based on circumstantial evidence.

Where an accused person is found guilty of murder, the fact that the conviction is based on circumstantial evidence is not a ground for not imposing a sentence of death, provided the Court is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the accused is guilty, and that the circumstances of the case require the imposition of the death sentence. Paramandi v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 396 :
61 I. C. 524 : 40 M. L. J. 461 :
13 L. W. 377 : 44 Mad. 443 :
A. I. R. 1921 Mad. 423.

———S. 302—Death sentence—Murder—Premeditation, absence of.

The mere absence of premeditation is not, in every case, a sufficient ground for imposing the lesser penalty for murder. Everything depends on the circumstances of the particular case. In re : Bhyri Rajayya.

22 Cr. L. J. 613 :
63 I. C. 149 : 13 L. W. 612 :
A. I. R. 1921 Mad. 303.

———S. 302—Drunkenness, when a good plea for mitigating offence.

Insanity, whether produced by drunkenness or otherwise, is a defence to the crime charged. Evidence of drunkenness falling short of a proved incapacity in the accused to form the intent necessary to constitute the crime and merely establishing that his mind was affected by drink so that he more readily gave way to some violent passion, does not rebut the presumption that a man intends the natural consequences of his acts. Ramsingh v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 72 :
172 I. C. 167 : 10 R. N. 171 :
I. L. R. 1938 Nag. 305 :
A. I. R. 1937 Nag. 386.

———S. 302—Duty of Court.

Per Kendall, A. J. C.—Where certain facts are proved on the side of the prosecution and the accused instead of explaining them denies that they are facts, the Court is bound to take notice of his attitude in arriving at its decision. Hira Lal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 225 :
84 I. C. 49 : 27 O. C. 188 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 78.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Duty of Prosecution.

The weakness of the defence in answer to a charge cannot be allowed to bolster up a weak case for the prosecution. The prosecution must not only establish the guilt of the accused, but it should be established beyond any reasonable doubt. Hira Lal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 225 :
84 I. C. 49 : 27 O. C. 188 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 78.

———S. 302—Evidence.

Absence of legal evidence based on legal testimony—Conviction for murder cannot be based on mere suspicions—No eye-witness—Confession retracted—Blood-stains found on clothes of accused—Conviction, held not proper. Ohhulkan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 246 :
153 I. C. 52 : 11 O. W. N. 1540 :
7 R. O. 281 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 33.

———S. 302—Evidence.

Arsenic poisoning—Nature of proof necessary, indicated. Happu v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 280 :
146 I. C. 1089 : 1934 A. L. J. 173 :
6 R. A. 397 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 837.

———S. 302—Evidence.

Blood-stains on clothes of accused—Failure to give explanation makes the evidence sufficient corroboration against accused. Malla Marhela v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 213 :
146 I. C. 701 : 16 N. L. J. 186 :
6 R. N. 93 : A. I. R. 1933 Nag. 352.

———S. 302—Evidence—Disposal of corpse—Circumstantial evidence of murder.

That a person has disposed of the corpse of a murdered man is strong circumstantial evidence that the person disposing of the corpse is the murderer. Andal Shah v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 909 :
88 I. C. 973 : 18 S. L. R. 185 :
A. I. R. 1925 Sind 306.

———S. 302—Evidence—Evidence Act (I of 1872), S. 32—Murder case—Vague dying declaration of accused, whether sufficient for conviction.

Where the only evidence against the accused in a case of murder was that the deceased had shortly before his death made a statement to the doctor that the accused had called him and asked him to drink some bhang and that he took a good quantity of bhang and after that he began to feel some peculiar sensation: Held, that though the statement made by the accused to the doctor was admissible in evidence as a dying declaration under S. 32, Evidence Act, the statement required corroboration in order to convict the accused of murder. Bullu Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 136 :
120 I. C. 474 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 249.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Evidence—Finding of small spots of human blood on garments of inhabitants of the Delta—Probative value of—Criminal trial.

Finding of small spots of human blood on the clothes of the inhabitants of the Delta is of very slight probative value as they can always be accounted for otherwise. If a mosquito bites a man through his clothes and it is squashed, as often happens, the victim's clothes may have a patch of blood of any size up to three quarters of an inch in diameter and it may be imagined that that blood is the blood of the victim which has been sucked into the mosquito's stomach or what corresponds to it, and if that blood is transferred to a garment, from the Imperial Serologist's point of view, it is still human blood. Its short stay in the mosquito would not greatly change its normal characteristics. Terugu v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 49 :

165 I. C. 758 : 9 R. Rang. 218 :

A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 468.

———S. 302—Evidence.

Illegitimate child—Possession of opium by mother—Death of child due to opium—Inference is mother caused its death by administering opium to it. Mst. Alam Bibi v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 448 :

137 I. C. 259 : 33 P. L. R. 223 :

I. R. 1932 Lah. 318 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 297.

———S. 302—Evidence.

In cases of alleged arsenical poisoning, the questions requiring determination are : did the deceased die of arsenic poison and had the poison been administered to the deceased by the accused. Gaya Kunwar v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 700 :

148 I. C. 600 : 11 O. W. N. 312 :

6 R. O. 421 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 62.

———S. 302—Evidence, insufficiency of—Accused found concealing in reeds when arrested—Recovery of blood-stained shirt and sua from him—No evidence as to extent of blood-stains on shirt—No evidence that sua was used by him—Such evidence is not sufficient to warrant his conviction.

Where the only evidence against an accused charged with murder is the evidence of the recovery of the blood-stained shirt and the blood-stained sua and the fact that he concealed himself in the reeds at the time of his arrest, such evidence is inconclusive. Where there is nothing on the record as to the extent of the blood-stains on the shirt, it is impossible to judge whether they were caused in committing a murder or were obtained by the accused in the course of his ordinary pursuits. The mere recovery of a blood-stained sua is not sufficient to fix the guilt upon the accused. The mere fact that he produced it does not necessarily mean that it was he who used it. His hiding to avoid arrest is by itself a circumstance which creates no more than a suspicion against him. The accused cannot, therefore, be convicted of murder upon such evidence. Buta Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 697 :

182 I. C. 694 : 41 P. L. R. 16 (2) :

12 R. L. 65 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 194.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Evidence.

Murder by poisoning—Points to be proved stated—Evidence of motive is of secondary importance—Nature of Chemical Examiner's evidence indicated—Symptoms of arsenic poisoning considered. Mst. Gajrani v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 754 :

144 I. C. 357 : 1933 A. L. J. 1617 :

I. R. 1933 All. 414 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 394.

———S. 302—Evidence—Murder—Case cannot succeed on unsatisfactory nature of defence—Evidence of one person establishing guilt—Sufficiency of, for conviction.

A charge of murder cannot succeed on the unsatisfactory nature of the defence, unless the prosecution has positively proved its case to the Court's reasonable satisfaction. In such a case, the evidence of one person is nonetheless sufficient, if that evidence establishes the appellant's guilt beyond any reasonable doubt. Nga Po Nyan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 299 :

166 I. C. 840 : 9 R. Rang. 279 :

A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 8.

———S. 302—Evidence—Murder—Circumstantial evidence—No direct evidence—Conviction, whether legal.

In a murder case, stress can be fairly laid on the absence of direct proof and the inferential nature of the prosecution case. But where the evidence points to the accused alone and admits of no reasonable doubt, the accused can rightly be convicted. Mahammad Kasim v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 195 :

27 I. C. 755 : 1914 M. W. N. 718 :

A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 627.

———S. 302—Evidence—Murder—Circumstantial evidence—Sentence.

The proof must be more cogent in criminal cases than in civil cases, but the ultimate test can only be the personal and mental attitude of the person whose duty it is to consider the evidence before him. Purely circumstantial evidence, however overwhelming and convincing it may be, has the character which must have some loophole for the contingency, however remote and infinitesimal, of possible error. Although it is wholly illogical, in cases of a trial for murder to accept facts as proved for the purpose of conviction and to throw any doubt on such proof in considering the question of sentence, yet this is an illogicality which has been fully and consistently recognised by the Court. An accused convicted of murder merely upon circumstantial evidence should not be visited with a sentence which is irrevocable. The Court is reluctant to launch a person into eternity except in a case of exceptional strength. Abdul Wahab v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 97 :

76 I. C. 97.

———S. 302—Evidence—Murder—Discrepancy in evidence of eye-witnesses—Necessity of independent evidence of factum of offence—Absconding of accused.

A person accused of murder had absconded and been in hiding for several years. There were discrepancies in the evidence of the eyewitnesses as variously recorded: Held, that though the fact of the absconding was evidence against him, the independent evidence of the factum of the offence was necessary to make out a satisfactory case; and that, as the evidence was untrustworthy, it could not justify his conviction. Emperor v. Rasavika.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 905.

—S. 302—Evidence—Murder—Possession of ornaments worn by deceased, soon after murder, whether raises presumption of complicity in murder.

The possession of stolen goods recently after the loss of them may be indicative not merely of the offence of larceny, or of receiving with guilty knowledge, but of any other more aggravated crime which has been connected with theft and this particular fact of presumption commonly forms a material element of evidence in cases of murder. This presumption would be particularly applicable where there is satisfactory proof that the article discovered was habitually worn by the deceased and was worn by the deceased shortly before the murder. Emperor v. Chintamani Shahu.

31 Cr. L. J. 1229:

127 I. C. 557: A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 379.

—S. 302—Evidence—Murder—Report made by deceased to Police concerning incident showing motive for attack, admissibility of.

The deceased was in charge of certain property on behalf of his employer. A party of men employed by a rival claimant of the property demanded the keys of the property from the deceased, and on the latter's refusal to deliver up the keys, he was assaulted by the accused. The deceased made a report of the incident to the Police. The following morning the deceased was stabbed with a knife and died as the result of the wound: Held, that the report made by the deceased to the Police of the assault upon him by the accused on the previous day in connection with the dispute relating to possession was admissible in evidence under S. 32, Cl. (1) of the Evidence Act. Chunilal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1121:

88 I. C. 353: 7 N. L. J. 144:

A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 115.

—S. 302—Evidence.

When the body of the person said to have been murdered is not forthcoming, the strongest possible evidence as to the fact of the murder should be insisted on. Fatch Mohammad v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 83:

152 I. C. 376: 28 S. L. R. 387:

7 R. S. 92: A. I. R. 1934 Sind 139.

—S. 302—Evidence.

Where during the course of a trial an objection is taken to the admissibility of a piece of evidence, it is imperative for the trial Judge to decide at once whether the evidence tendered is admissible. If he holds it to be inadmissible, he should not let it find a place on the record and the assessors should be warned that anything that was said in their hearing on the point must not be taken into consideration; should the Judge decide that the evidence is admissible, he should take and record the evidence of all the witnesses on the point. The accused made a statement during investigation by Police as to his having thrown a darri and a gandasa into the canal. In consequence of the statement, the Police recovered the darri and the gandasa from a neighbouring village, having discovered from a boy the fact that the darri and gandasa had been found in the place pointed out by the accused: Held, that there was immediate connection between the statement and the discovery and that the statement was admissible in evidence. Kapur Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 305:

50 I. C. 481: 98 P. L. R. 1918:

A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 184.

—S. 302—Evidence.

Where the only evidence against the accused is the retracted confession of the accused himself and the mention of his name in the retracted confessions of his co-accused, conviction is not justifiable. Khitoli v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 192:

146 I. C. 905: 10 O. W. N. 937:

6 R. O. 190: A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 404.

—S. 302—Extenuating circumstances, absence of—Murder—Motive—Absence of eye-witness—In absence of direct evidence, convict of murder not liable to capital sentence.

Where an accused was the only person found near his wife when she was murdered by a gunshot, and where, when the witnesses attracted by the report of the shot, told him to open the door of his compound, he refused to do so, saying he feared his money would be robbed, and in trial, could give no explanation of her death, while the fired weapon was found within the throwing distance of the compound, and there was documentary evidence showing that he had believed her to be misbehaving: Held, that the alternative theories of her being murdered by a thief or a paramour in an enclosed compound being not the least proved by the evidence on the record, it could fairly be guessed that the jealous husband, on seeing the wife go out probably to perform some natural offence, at once concluded that she was going to meet some lover, and rushing at her shot her: Held, also that, though the accused's mind was poisoned by suspicions, there were not extenuating circumstances, but that, there being no direct evidence, he should not be sentenced to death. Emperor v. Soni Naran Jiwa.

2 Cr. L. J. 359.

—S. 302—Extenuating circumstance.

Absence of personal grudge is no ground for passing lesser sentence. Asu Ram v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 372:

142 I. C. 620: 34 P. L. R. 427:

I. R. 1933 Lah. 225: A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 623.

—S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Accused overcome with passion or insult by brother—Provocation not sufficient to convert offence into culpable homicide—Existence of premeditation but period between entertaining idea to kill and killing short—Provocation held sufficient ground for not inflicting death penalty. Mominuddi Sardar v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1254 : 158 I. C. 67 : 39 C. W. N. 262 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 591.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Harsh treatment by deceased zamindar towards accused tenants would not affect nature of crime of their having killed him brutally. Emperor v. Palan. 33 Cr. L. J. 537 : 137 I. C. 817 : 9 O. W. N. 350 : I. R. 1932 Oudh 275.

———S. 302 — Extenuating circumstance—Killing by repeated blows—Husband murdering wife in suspicion of misconduct—Punishment—Transportation.

The fact that a person is killed with repeated blows conclusively negatives the plea that there was no intention to kill the deceased or that the deceased was killed by her mistake. A murdered his wife. He alleged that he caught her in the act of adultery with one S whom only he intended to kill. From the evidence it appeared that there was doubt about the immediate circumstances under which the crime was committed, and that there was indication of misconduct on the part of the deceased wife: Held, that although the accused should be convicted of murder, the Court was justified in the circumstances in not imposing the capital sentence. Rakhia v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 214 : 10 I. C. 119 : 157 P. L. R. 1911.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Murder—Accused encouraged by mischievous literature to commit crime—Motive not personal enmity—Mere youth is not an extenuating circumstance—Death sentence awarded. Hari Kishan v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 720 : 144 I. C. 294 : 34 P. L. R. 691 : I. R. 1933 Lah. 443 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 305.

———S. 302 — Extenuating circumstance—Murder—Extreme youth of accused—Lesser sentence.

Extreme youth furnishes a ground for passing the lesser sentence of transportation for life for an offence under S. 302 of the Penal Code, Sheobalak v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 400 : 108 I. C. 442 : 11 N. L. J. 7 : A. I. R. 1928 Nag. 108.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Murder of brother by brother—Sentence—Fact that accused was the only surviving son of widowed mother and that accused was filled with remorse after crime is not an extenuating circumstance. Mominuddi Sardar v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1254 : 158 I. C. 67 : 39 C. W. N. 262 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 591.

———S. 302 — Extenuating circumstances—Murder—Sentence—Murder in the heat of passion.

A sentence of death should ordinarily be passed for the crime of murder unless there are extenuating circumstances, and a mere absence of aggravating circumstances is not enough to justify a sentence of transportation for life. The fact that a murder was committed without premeditation in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel is not an extenuating circumstance. Emperor v. Nga Mayal Kaing. 18 Cr. L. J. 113 : 37 I. C. 465 : A. I. R. 1917 L. Bur. 91.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302 — Extenuating circumstances—Murder—Sentence—Youth of offender, consideration of.

Ordinarily youth is in itself an extenuating circumstance in murder cases as in other criminal cases. Cases of extreme depravity do occur in which the youth of the accused may not be a sufficient reason for imposing the lesser sentence. But the youth of the criminal is a circumstance which should always be taken into account by Sessions Courts in exercising the discretion vested in them by S. 302, I. P. C. Chit Tha v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 648 : 45 I. C. 840 : 9 L. B. R. 165 : 11 Bur. L. T. 100 : A. I. R. 1918 L. Bur. 58.

———S. 302 — Extenuating circumstances—Murder—Sex or age of murderer—Leniency—Practice—Enhancement of sentence—Revision.

The age or the sex of a murderer cannot generally of itself be sufficient reason for a leniency in sentence. If there are other reasons which very nearly justify the passing of the lesser sentence but do not quite do so, or when it is doubtful whether they do so or not, then the youth or the sex of the criminal may certainly tip the scale to the side of mercy. It is not the practice of this Court to call on an accused person proprio motu to show cause why his sentence should not be enhanced, but to leave it to the Local Government to apply in revision for an enhancement, if so advised. Kachria Mahar v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 757 : 64 I. C. 277 : A. I. R. 1922 Nag. 65.

———S. 302 — Extenuating circumstances—Murder—Youth—Punishment, principle of awarding.

Youth is a ground which a Court can properly take into consideration in determining the punishment to be awarded for murder. The framers of the Penal Code have made it discretionary with Judges, even in cases of murder, to consider mitigating circumstances in awarding punishment. Punishment should be as moderate as is consistent with the object aimed at. The law indicates the gravity of an act by the maximum penalty and the Courts have to judge whether the act committed falls short of the maximum degree of gravity, and if so, by how much. Nga Tha Kin v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 448 : 11 I. C. 792 : U. B. R. 1911 I, 87.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstance.

Refusal of deceased to let accused have unnatural intercourse with him—Accused stabbing the deceased with churri—Sentence of death—Youth of accused is not an extenuating circumstance. Bhagwan Chand v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 619 :
148 I. C. 191 : 6 R. L. 512 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 20.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances—Sudden quarrel—Accused plunging knife into heart and causing immediate death—Offence, nature of—Inference of intention to cause injury likely to cause death.

Where the accused who belonged to a peaceful trading community, in the course of a sudden quarrel, plunged a knife in the heart of the deceased, in a fit of anger, and the deceased died in a few minutes: Held, (1) that the weapon used, the part of the body aimed at and pierced, and the violence with which the blow was inflicted, led to the inference that, even if the accused did not intend to cause death, he intended to cause such bodily injury as was likely to cause death and the accused was, therefore, guilty of murder; (2) that as the assault followed a sudden quarrel without premeditation, it was not necessary to exact the extreme penalty of death. Bhana Mal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 731 :
124 I. C. 680 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 154.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

The Baluchi custom of killing for unchastity is no extenuation of the crime of murder and cannot be taken into consideration in the mitigation of sentence. Kaim v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 497 :
153 I. C. 976 : 28 S. L. R. 279 :
7 R. S. 151 : A. I. R. 1935 Sind 44.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstance.

The fact that a murder was committed when the offender was being brought to bay and in his desire to escape, is not an extenuating circumstance. Monoranjan v. Emperor. (R. B.)

33 Cr. L. J. 722 :
139 I. C. 213 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 603 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 818.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

The gravity of an offence of deliberate murder is in no way lessened because the accused was starving. Nga Ywa v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 336 :
153 I. C. 390 : 12 Rang. 616 :
7 R. Rang. 208 : A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 49.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstance—What is.

Accused belonging to peaceful community is no extenuating circumstance. Lachhmi Narain v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 497 (2) :
137 I. C. 691 : 33 P. L. R. 580 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 347 :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 500.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Where a boy of 17 committed murder without premeditation under a sudden impulse: Held, that he should be given a locus penitentiae and the irrevocable sentence of death should not be passed upon him. Yara v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

34 Cr. L. J. 375 :
142 I. C. 654 : 34 P. L. R. 414 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 233 (2) :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 229.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Whether or not a man who has committed an atrocious crime is truly penitent, is a matter which ought not to be taken into consideration in deciding the question of sentence, though it might perhaps be a circumstance which might induce the Local Government, in the exercise of its prerogative, to remit the death penalty. Mominuddi Sardar v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1254 :
158 I. C. 67 : 39 C. W. N. 262 :
A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 591.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstances.

Youth alone does not justify imposition of lesser penalty in every case. Tiri v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 941 :
132 I. C. 716 : 9 Rang. 81 :
I. R. 1931 Rang. 204 :
A. I. R. 1931 Rang. 171.

———S. 302—Extenuating circumstance—Youth of accused, if strong ground for not passing death sentence.

Youth of the accused convicted under S. 302, Penal Code, is a sufficiently strong reason for not passing a death sentence on him. Mohammad Din Mchar Din v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 488 :
174 I. C. 881 : 40 P. L. R. 401 :
10 R. L. 618 : I. L. R. 1937 Lah. 658 :
A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 200.

———S. 302—Grave provocation.

Deceased contracting criminal intimacy with accused's wife—Murder—Grave provocation is made out justifying lesser sentence. Mahadeo v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 712 :
131 I. C. 431 : 13 N. L. J. 107 :
I. R. 1931 Nag. 95.

———S. 302—Grave suspicion, if sufficient for conviction—Accused's statement not incriminating himself, whether confession—Identification when sufficient to convict.

An accused's statement which does not incriminate himself, is not a confession and cannot be used against his co-accused. Identification, unless conclusive, cannot be made the basis of a conviction specially when the identifiers are nervously upset and do not mention the striking features of the accused in their first information. The gravest suspicion against the accused will not suffice to convict them of a crime unless evidence establishes it beyond all doubt. Nga Po Thein v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 25 ;
26 I. C. 329 : 8 Bur. L. T. 35 :
A. I. R. 1915 L. Bur. 115,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Homicidal and suicidal wounds—Distinction.

The fact that the body of the deceased was found lying flat with its face downwards, having several throat wounds by razor, only one of them being severe, indicated that the wound was suicidal and not homicidal. Emperor v. Sheo Chandra Prasad.

39 Cr. L. J. 66 :
172 I. C. 171 : 18 P. L. T. 683 :
4 B. R. 113 : 10 R. P. 292 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 652.

———S. 302—Inference—Attack causing death—Motive inadequate—Injuries, majority of, simple.

Where motive for an attack resulting in death is inadequate, and there is the further fact that most of the injuries inflicted are slight, the safer inference to draw is that the accused neither intended to cause death nor knew that they were likely to cause death. Dial Singh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 547 :
93 I. C. 1043 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 419.

———S. 302—Inference of guilt, legality of—Murder of woman—Buried ornaments, disclosure of, by accused.

Where a person charged with the murder of a woman, digs up ornaments belonging to the deceased, buried in a place that does not belong to him, nor is, in his possession, the only conclusion that can be drawn from his having shown the place is that he knew that the ornaments were there and not that he had stolen the same or had actually participated in the act of concealing them there, and the fact is not sufficient to prove his guilt. Rullia Ram v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 257 :
84 I. C. 321 : 5 L. L. J. 325 :
A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 438.

———S. 302—Inference of guilt—Murder—Recovery of property belonging to deceased.

The mere recovery of property belonging to the deceased from a place pointed out by a person accused of the murder cannot be regarded as a proof that the accused was a murderer. In order to justify the guilt, from circumstantial evidence, the inculpatory facts must be incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt. Mirza v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 993 :
96 I. C. 849.

———S. 302—Inference of homicidal tendency—Murder motiveless.

The circumstance of an act of murder being apparently motiveless, is not a ground from which the existence of a powerful and irresistible influence or homicidal tendency can be safely inferred. Inayat v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 1006 :
112 I. C. 222.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Ingredient of offence under—Intention—Murder and culpable homicide—Distinction.

To constitute the offence of murder, there must be the intention to kill or to inflict such bodily injury as is known to be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. It is sufficient to constitute the offence of culpable homicide if the offender causes death by doing an act with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death. Intoxication should be taken into consideration in cases where intention on the part of the accused is necessary to constitute the offence. If the accused was so drunk as to be unable to form the intent to kill, the offence would be one of manslaughter only, i.e., culpable homicide only. Nga Hpeik v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 689 :
176 I. C. 103 : 11 R. Rang. 29 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 219.

———S. 302—Injury resulting in death—Possibility of better treatment saving life—Offence.

The mere fact that more prompt or better treatment would have saved the deceased will not exonerate a person, who intentionally inflicts a deadly injury, from liability for murder. Mammi v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 345 :
108 I. C. 164.

———S. 302—Insufficient proof—Accused pointing out place where corpse lay—Offence.

The mere circumstance of the accused pointing out the place where the corpse of the deceased was found lying, though it may create suspicion, is not sufficient to bring the guilt home to him. Ghulam Muhammad v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 375 :
114 I. C. 719 : 30 P. L. R. 269 :
I. R. 1929 Lah. 319 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 558.

———S. 302—Insufficient proof—Mere proof against accused that he knew where corpse was concealed—Whether sufficient to support charge of murder.

Where the only thing proved against the accused is that he was aware of the place where the corpse was concealed, it is quite insufficient to support a charge of murder. Abdul Jalil v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 792 :
183 I. C. 433 : 69 C. L. J. 344 :
12 R. C. 159 : A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 539.

———S. 302—Intention.

A person inflicting a violent blow on the head of his victim with a lethal weapon such as an iron-shod dang must be presumed to intend to cause such injury as he knew was likely to cause death. Bishna v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 378 :
137 I. C. 86 (1) : 33 P. L. R. 130 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 283 (1) :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 244.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Intention.

Accused firing shot gun nt close range—
Indention of intention to commit murder—
Offence falls under S. 302. *Rajendra Prasad
Singh v. Emperor.* 34 Cr. L. J. 1071 :
145 I. C. 771 : 6 R. P. 202 :
A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 147.

———S. 302—Intention.

Accused in drunken state striking deceased—
Deceased chased and struck with second weapon on breaking of the first—Intention to cause death should be presumed—But taking his drunken state and unpremeditated nature of attack, deceased was sentenced to transportation. Nga Kyin Bao v. Emperor.
34 Cr. L. J. 1245 :
146 I. C. 216 : 6 R. Rang. 79 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 278.

———S. 302—Intention.

Accused inciting others to cut deceased to death—Death of deceased as result—Accused is guilty of murder read with S. 34. *Nga Po
Kyow v. Emperor.* 35 Cr. L. J. 41 :
146 I. C. 392 : 11 Rang. 354 :
6 R. Rang. 93 : A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 236.

———S. 302—Intention.

Accused strongly suspecting fidelity of his wife—Summoning of paramour—Accused net-ing with deliberation—Confession of wife in paramour's presence—Accused stabbing paramour to death—Offence is murder and not culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Sentence awarded was transportation for life. Imbichi Koya v. Emperor.
35 Cr. L. J. 694 :
148 I. C. 590 : 1933 M. W. N. 543 :
39 L. W. 190 : 66 M. L. J. 213 :
6 R. M. 499 : A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 176.

———S. 302—Intention.

Blows by rice pounder on head: Held, deceased must be regarded to have intended to cause injury sufficient in ordinary course to cause death. Nga Mye v. Emperor.
37 Cr. L. J. 181 :
159 I. C. 902 : 8 R. Rang. 288 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 427.

———S. 302—Intention.

Blows inflicted on abdomen with heavy sharp cutting] weapon—Intention to cause such bodily injury as assailant knew was likely to cause victim's death can be inferred.
Bhikari v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1113 :
150 I. C. 819 : 1934 O. L. R. 627 :
11 O. W. N. 851 : 7 R. O. 44 :
A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 405.

———S. 302—Intention.

Causing of several wounds on the head and

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

neck with sharp cutting weapon should be presumed to be done with intention of causing death. The crime is murder. Bhojo v. Emperor.
36 Cr. L. J. 223 :
152 I. C. 1032 : 7 R. S. 106 :
A. I. R. 1934 Sind 172.

———S. 302—Intention.

Criminals who assault and kill officers of the law who interfere with them in the commission of a felony, are guilty of murder.
Balai Bauri v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 184 :
152 I. C. 636 : 7 R. P. 226 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 603.

———S. 302—Intention—Death caused by violent blow from taken—Murder.

A laska is a deadly weapon and a person who strikes a blow on the head of another with such a weapon and with such a violence as to cut through the skull does so with the intention of causing death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and if death is caused as the result of such a blow, he is guilty of the offence of murder. Tek Singh v. Emperor.
26 Cr. L. J. 1251 (b) :
88 I. C. 995 : 7 L. L. J. 175 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 373.

———S. 302—Intention.

Drunkenness—Voluntary intoxication short of proved ineptness to form intention necessary to constitute crime, does not rebut presumption that a person intends the natural consequences of his acts. Bishna v. Emperor.
33 Cr. L. J. 378 :
137 I. C. 86 (1) : 33 P. L. R. 130 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 283 (1) :
A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 244.

———S. 302—Intention, effect of—Death caused intentionally—Accused is not entitled to benefit of exceptions under S. 300.

Accused had enticed away the sister of the deceased. The deceased and the accused with his brother who were armed with a spear met at first before the house of the deceased near a mosque where abuse was exchanged and demand was made by the deceased to the accused to return his sister. At the persuasion of a relation the accused retreated being followed by the deceased and between the two mohallas where each lived at a spot at a considerable distance from the houses of each, the accused struck a blow with the spear to deceased who in no time succumbed to the fatal wound: Held, the accused did cause the death of the deceased intentionally and he is not entitled to the benefits of any exception to
S. 300, I. P. C., but under the circumstances it was not necessary to impose the capital sentence. *Muhammad, son of Shadbad v.
Emperor.* A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 195.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 302—Intention.

If one person causes the death of another, then if his intention was to cause death or to cause bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the offence would be murder, even though death resulted in a way different from that expected by the assailant. The intention to be presumed in cases of blows on the head with a stick has to be judged in the light of the common knowledge of mankind upon the dangers and results of striking a person on the head. As a general rule, when one blow only is delivered with a stick, the intention requisite for murder cannot be presumed. Baba Naya v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 487 :
109 I. C. 215 : 5 Rang. 817 :
A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 64.

—S. 302—Intention—Ingredient—Doubt as to intention of accused—Circumstances doubtful.

A question of intention is a question of fact. A state of a man's mind is as much a question of fact as the state of his digestion. In a case of murder, where 'intention' is one of the essential elements of the offence, it is always necessary that there should be a definite finding as to whether the necessary guilty intention is or is not present, and when it is reasonably doubtful upon the evidence of the prosecution whether this intention is present, then the accused is entitled to the benefit of that reasonable doubt, and he must be acquitted of the charge of murder even if he is to be convicted of the charge of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Ghulam Hyder Imam Baksh v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 460 :
174 I. C. 497 : 31 S. L. R. 480 :
10 R. S. 254 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 63.

—S. 302—Intention.

Injuries on the head which have fractured the skull are sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, and the person who inflicted them, must be presumed to have had the intention of causing injuries so sufficient. Nga Thein Maung v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 290 :
160 I. C. 459 : 8 R. Rang. 383 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 46.

—S. 302—Intention.

Intention of the accused is to be judged by the results of his acts. Nawab v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 580 :
138 I. C. 410 : 33 P. L. R. 279 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 486 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 308.

—S. 302—Intention—Joint assault—Intention of accused—Inference of intention to cause death or injuries likely to cause death—Liability of assailants.

Four persons deliberately lay in wait for another intending to beat him with lathis. One of them told the others while they were beating, to kill the person assaulted and the latter died owing to the injuries sustained :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Held, that, under the circumstances, the assailants must be held to have intended to cause the death of the deceased or to cause him such injuries as would, in the ordinary course of nature, cause death and all of them were guilty of an offence under S. 302, Penal Code. Sukhwa v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 890 :
118 I. C. 190 : I. R. 1929 All. 846 :
A. I. R. 1929 All. 707.

—S. 302—Intention—Murder by poisoning—Proof.

Before a person can be convicted of murder or hurt by means of poisoning, it must be proved that he knowingly administered poison to the deceased with at least the intention of causing him hurt, and the most natural way of doing this would be to show, that he had obtained or was in possession of poison when it was administered to the deceased. Emperor v. Sukhu Bawa.

25 Cr. L. J. 165 :
76 I. C. 389 : 38 C. L. J. 155.

—S. 302—Intention—Murder—Injury by spear resulting in death—Offence.

The use of a spear against a human being is very often attended with fatal consequences. Therefore, when a person causes an injury with a spear resulting in death, he must be deemed to have intended to cause an injury which, in the ordinary course of nature, would result in death. Banta Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 444 :
122 I. C. 491 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 457.

—S. 302—Intention—Murder—Several injuries on face—Vital part not attacked—Disfigurement.

The infliction of eight severe wounds on the face of the deceased with a hatchet is a clear indication that something more than mere disfigurement was intended by the person who inflicted the wounds, and the latter must be taken to have intended to cause the death of the deceased or to cause such bodily injuries as he knew to be likely to cause death. Kutab Ali v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 597 :
12 I. C. 973 : 14 P. R. 1911 Cr. :
42 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

—S. 302—Intention—Murder.

Three Parmar Grassias who had a long feud with the deceased, murdered him with a sword, a bludgeon, and a stick. Their examinations before the Police led to the discovery of the deceased's clothes and weapons used, both of which were blood-stained. They were identified by servants and relatives. The accused made confessions before a Magistrate, but at the trial, retracted them as extorted under fear of violence : Held, that as the confessions were corroborated by production and identification of the weapons and the clothes, the former injured by blows and the latter cut and blood-stained in a way entirely tallying with their confessions ; they might be accepted as both voluntary and genuine ; and that it was immaterial who used the sword, the other weapons being equally capable of causing death and their intention being clearly to do so. Emperor v. Shivsingji Bhimji.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 891.

———S. 302—Intention—Presumption—Whether guilty of murder.

If one deliberately administers a common poison, the effects of which are well-known, it is no defence to say that one failed to grade the exact dose correctly so as to cause some injury short of death. The question whether a person knows what he is administering and knows what its effects will be, is of course a question of fact in the particular case. Where it is proved that one person has administered poison to another causing his death by mixing it with his food, the question is whether his explanation raises a reasonable doubt as to his guilt. Minai v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 405 :

174 I. C. 386 : 10 R. N. 382 :

A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 318.

———S. 302—Intention — Several persons participating—Intention.

Where in a trial under S. 302, Penal Code, it is impossible, from the nature of the injuries inflicted, to come to any other conclusion than that the persons who committed the crime, if there were more than one, had a clear and determined intention of doing the victim to death, it is immaterial which of the participants in the crime struck the fatal blow. Baldeo Koeri v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 433 :

61 I. C. 785 : 6 P. L. J. 241 :

2 P. L. T. 565 : A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 122.

———S. 302—Intention — Severe blow by chopper on forehead of victim—Death caused—Offence.

When a person strikes a severe blow with a chopper on the forehead of another person resulting in the latter's death, the former must be held to have intended to cause death or such bodily injury as is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Chandogi v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 79 :

120 I. C. 274 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 60.

———S. 302—Intention.

Striking with formidable lathi and fracturing skull—Intention to cause injury which would be likely to cause death can be assumed—Persons giving only one blow each—Nature of their offence comes under S. 304, Part II. Langar Jhena v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 101 :

146 I. C. 496 : 6 R. L. 240 :

A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 930.

———S. 302—Intention.

The ordinary rule in criminal cases is, and must be, that intention is to be inferred from a person's acts. Where a man strikes another on the head with a sharp instrument with such force as to penetrate the brain, the only possible intention that can be inferred is an intention to cause an injury which the accused knew would be likely, and indeed bound, to cause death. Emperor v. Samat Kala.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 829 :

148 I. C. 1004 : 6 R. B. 316 :

36 Bom. L. R. 210 :

A. I. R. 1934 Bom. 156.

———S. 302—Intention to murder—Inference from nature of injuries—Presence or absence of injuries on vital parts, effect of.

If a man is killed as a result of innumerable blows, none of which in itself is sufficient to cause death, and if the assailants have deliberately avoided striking any vital part, under such circumstances, the inference may be drawn that by avoiding dealing blows upon vital parts of the body they showed that they did not intend to cause death but rather have carefully avoided causing death. On the other hand, if the circumstances show that a prolonged thrashing has been deliberately administered with knowledge of the assailants that such a thrashing must, in the ordinary course of nature, result in death, the assailants are guilty of murder. Basanta v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 763 :

103 I. C. 843 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 654.

———S. 302—Intention.

Where a widow is found to have thrown her illegitimate child in a well with the intention of destroying it and thus causing its death, the offence is murder (she was transported for life but her case was recommended for revision of sentence to Local Government). Emperor v. Bai Pani Ramji.

2 Cr. L. J. 193.

———S. 302—Intention.

Where action resulting in death continues and is impossible [of being dissolved into separate actions involving several motives, intention to cause death is presumed and accused hold guilty of murder. Emperor v. Gajjan Singh.

32 Cr. L. J. 483 :

130 I. C. 321 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 257 :

A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 27.

———S. 302—Intention.

Where out of two women, R and S (daughter and mother), R gave birth to a female child and S alone attended her and the infant, while in their custody, died of sulphate of copper poisoning soon after its birth, the presumption is that both of them have administered the poison and they are guilty of murder even in the absence of a clear motive for committing the crime. Such a circumstance is sufficient to corroborate their confession of guilt retracted by them at the time of trial. In such a case, capital sentence is not justifiable. Saidan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 717 :

8 I. C. 815 : 43 P. W. R. 1910 Cr.

———S. 302—Intention and knowledge—Culpable homicide — Statement of witness in Police investigation—Statement retracted before Committing Magistrate and Sessions Judge—Evidential value.

It is not safe to rely upon a statement made by a witness before the Police during the investigation but retracted before the Committing Magistrate and the Sessions Judge. The offence of culpable homicide presupposes an intention or knowledge of likelihood of causing death. The intention must be directed either deliberately to putting an end to human life or to some act which, to the knowledge of the accused, is likely to eventuate in the putting an end to human life. The knowledge must have reference to the particular circumstances in which the accused is placed and the intention demanded by the section must stand in some relation to the person who is alive. Ganpat v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 356 :

77 I. C. 292 : A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 281.

———S. 302—Intention and knowledge—Striking with dah—Skull divided and brain exposed—Presumption—Disease causing death, natural and probable result of injury—Person inflicting injury, responsibility of.

A man who strikes another on the head with dah with such force as to divide the skull right through and expose the brain, must be held to know that he will inflict injury that may be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, and therefore, must be held to intend the natural consequences of his act. When the disease which actually causes death is meningitis, peritonitis, tetanus, pneumonia, etc., etc., and it is natural and probable result of the injury which the person inflicting the injury has caused, the person who inflicts the injury must be held responsible for the disease arising from the injury. Nga Ba U. v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 217 :

172 I. C. 926 : 10 R. Rang. 289 :

A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 429.

———S. 302—Interference by High Court.

Where the appellant was found guilty of having murdered a child of eight years, and the Sessions Judge who tried him, imposed a sentence of transportation for life, having regard to his youth and to the fact that the evidence was purely circumstantial: Held, that in the circumstances of the case, the High Court was not prepared to interfere with the sentence. Munlandi v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 28 :

26 I. C. 332 : 1 L. W. 1007 :

16 M. L. T. 535 : 1915 M. W. N. 34 :

A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 542.

———S. 302—Intoxicated state of mind, effect of—Murder—Provocation.

The fact that the accused, who was convicted of murder, was intoxicated, does not affect the presumption as to his intention and cannot relieve him of responsibility for his action. But it may be considered in estimating the probable effect on his mind of the words or actions of others, and in determining whether provocation given was grave and sudden. Nga San v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 473 :

2 L. B. R. 204.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Knowledge.

A man, who has either hacked a fellow-creature about in a most merciless fashion or has practically pounded him to death, cannot escape conviction of murder, if in consequence of such injuries his victim succumbs, by merely urging that he was careful to avoid injuring a vital part of the latter's body. Kutab Ali v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 597 :

12 I. C. 973 : 14 P. R. 1911 Cr. :

42 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

———S. 302—Knowledge,

Accused armed with spears and lathis—Injuries sustained suggesting intention of accused—Offence under S. 302, held made out. Muzaffar v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 626 (2) :

148 I. C. 36 : 6 R. L. 528 :

A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 296.

———S. 302—Knowledge.

Death caused by strangulation—Accused, a man of thirty—Ignorance as to effect of applying pressure on neck cannot be pleaded. Jahana v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1213 :

146 I. C. 224 : 6 R. L. 189 :

A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 511.

———S. 302—Knowledge—Dhatūra administered in large quantity—Death caused—Intention not to kill.

Where dhatūra poison is administered in large quantity so as to cause immediate death, an offence under S. 302, I. P. C., is committed. The accused may not have intended to cause death, but he must be held to have known that his act in giving a dangerous substance in such a quantity was likely to cause death. Emperor v. Gutali.

9 Cr. L. J. 383 :

1 I. C. 765 : 31 All. 148 :

6 A. L. J. 129.

———S. 302—Knowledge.

Ignorance of the actual causes which may bring about another's death in consequence of a blow cannot affect the question of the striker's knowledge and intention when striking the blow. If actual knowledge and experience do not do so, instinct at least tells every man that to hit another human being any violent blow on the head may possibly result or is likely to result or will probably result in serious injury to the person struck, but knowledge, belief or expectation of the amount of injury that may be caused must depend upon what is used in inflicting the blow and the force with which the blow is delivered. Baba Naya v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 487 :

109 I. C. 215 : 5 Rang. 817 :

A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 64.

———S. 302—Knowledge—Knowledge that act is likely to cause death insufficient.

Knowledge that the act is likely to cause death is insufficient for conviction under Cl. 4 of S. 300, but is sufficient for conviction.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

tion under 2nd part of S. 304. Nga Po Sow v. Emperor.

2 Bur. L. J. 99 : A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 33.

—S. 302—Knowledge—Murder.

A man who deliberately strikes a blow with a weapon, such as a lathwa, on the head of another who is held in position, so that he can make no mistake as to what he is doing, must know that his act is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, and the circumstances are aggravated when the murderer is not one of those taking part in the original quarrel. Bantu v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 711 :

69 I. C. 439 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 68.

—S. 302—Knowledge—Offence of murder or culpable homicide, when constituted.

It is not only an intention to kill that constitutes an offence of murder or of culpable homicide. If a person does an act with the knowledge that his act is likely to cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, he can be guilty of culpable homicide or even of murder in that case also. Dildar Khan v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 330 :

173 I. C. 339 : 1938 O. W. N. 184 :

10 R. O. 220 : 1938 O. L. R. 108 :

A. I. R. 1938 Oudh 88.

—S. 302—Knowledge or intention.

The man who plunges a knife into another man's stomach, must know that it would cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and that hence death would be the probable result of his act. The man who does such an act therefore, must be held to intend to cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to result in death, for a man is presumed to intend the natural consequence of his action. If he had not that knowledge or intention in the circumstances and he did the act with some other knowledge or intention then it is for him to prove it, for that is a fact peculiarly within his own knowledge. The presumption that one must be taken to intend the natural and probable consequence of his act—a rule of English Law which, originally a rule of Evidence, has acquired the dignity of a legal axiom, is not always quite easy to apply to the Indian Criminal Law in view of the distinction that the Penal Code makes between intention and knowledge. Gul Khan v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 546 :

109 I. C. 482 : 47 C. L. J. 240 :

32 C. W. N. 345 : I. L. T. 49 Cal. 116 :

A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 430.

—S. 302—Knowledge—Persons armed with spears—Killing deceased to pulp with lathi end of spear and not using sharp end—Intention—Offence, if murder.

Where men armed with weapons like spears refrain from using the sharp end but beat to pulp the victim with the lathi end, they can be found guilty of murder. Where people, as in this case, kill a man by beating him on all parts of the body with weapons like lathis, the inevitable inference is that they intend to kill or know that such a beating is likely to cause death. Bachna Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 1077 :

171 I. C. 353 : 10 R. L. 191 :

I. L. R. 1937 Lah. 231 :

A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 632.

—S. 302—Knowledge—Sentence—Assault with lathis—Fracture of skull—Person giving fatal blow not identified.

When men use their lathis with the result that a man's skull is fractured, it must be taken in the absence of special circumstances, that they know that they were doing an act so eminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. It is wrong to think that there is any practice that in a case of an assault by several persons where the particular person who struck the fatal blow cannot be identified, the capital sentence should not be inflicted. Parshadi v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 559 :

116 I. C. 19 : 1929 A. L. J. 244 :

I. R. 1929 All. 499 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 160.

—S. 302—Knowledge—Wife administering arsenic to husband—Death of husband—Offence—Murder—Act so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death.

Where a woman administers to her husband a well-known poison like arsenic, she must be taken to know that her act is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, and if death ensues, she is guilty of murder. Emperor v. Chhallarpal Singh.

32 Cr. L. J. 126 :

128 I. C. 282 : 7 O. W. N. 980 :

I. R. 1931 Oudh 42 : A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 502.

—S. 302—Miscellaneous.

Charge under S. 306—No proof that five or more took part—Splitting up of charge into charges under Ss. 302 and 302 is illegal. Madhusingh Kaiharala v. Emperor. (S. B.).

34 Cr. L. J. 524 (2) :

143 I. C. 14 : 36 C. W. N. 880 :

I. R. 1933 Cal. 339 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 294.

—S. 302—Miscellaneous.

Conviction and sentence for offence under S. 307 still in force—Subsequent trial and conviction under S. 302 is not barred. Arsala Khan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 813 :

155 I. C. 287 : 7 R. Pesh. 101 :

A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 18.

—S. 302—Miscellaneous—Evidence—Prosecution witnesses related to murdered man—Whether reason for discarding their evidence.

In a case of murder the fact that the prosecution witnesses are relatives of the murdered man is no valid reason for discarding their evidence. What would be of importance is that the witnesses had enmity with the accused. The interests of the relatives is undoubtedly to see the true criminal prosecuted, they have no interest in accusing any one falsely unless they have enmity. Dilawar v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 751 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

163 I. C. 143 : 38 P. L. R. 695 :

8 R. L. 1023 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 233.

————S. 302—Miscellaneous.

First Information Report mentioning natural death due to a fall on a log of wood—Deceased old and infirm—Prosecution evidence vague and unreliable—Medical evidence not definite—Conviction under S. 302 not proper. Subkaran v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 992 :

149 I. C. 473 : 11 O. W. N. 722 :

6 R. O. 564 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 286.

————S. 302—Miscellaneous—Murder—Aconite poisoning—Tests—Discoloration of nails and teeth after death, significance of—Medical evidence.

Aconite poison may be extracted from organic liquids by means of the Stas's process for separation of alkaloids. It may also be detected by applying the taste and that of the physiological action on animals such as mice or frogs. Discoloration of the teeth and nails after death may be caused by intense irritation. Even in the absence of medical evidence, a conclusion of death by poisoning could be a good conclusion. Umrao v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 1118 :

119 I. C. 870 : 6 O. W. N. 681 :

I. R. 1929 Oudh 550 : A. I. R. 1929 Oudh 516.

————S. 302—Miscellaneous—Murder—Grave and sudden provocation.

Without plea or proof, the Court is precluded from assuming that the offence was committed under grave and sudden provocation. Emperor v. Thippiah. 9 Cr. L. J. 520 :

13 M. C. C. R. 40.

————S. 302—Motive.

Held (Per Mosely and Mackney, JJ.) that the accused's suspicion that the deceased's son had murdered his brother was no palliation of, or justification for, the accused's conduct in murdering the father and that the sentence of death was proper. Nga Po U v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 297 :

160 I. C. 466 : 8 R. Rang. 387 :

A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 38.

————S. 302—Motive.

Illiterate and superstitious young woman killing child of another woman, believing her to be "evil shadow" who caused death of her children—Lesser punishment awarded and recommendation under S. 401, Cr. P. C., made to Local Government for further mitigation. Sardaran v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1251 :

146 I. C. 228 : 6 R. L. 193 :

A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 718.

————S. 302—Motive—Motive for crime, necessity of proving.

It is not necessary for the prosecution in order to establish a charge of crime to prove a motive for it, much less the adequacy of that motive. Chandu v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 378 :

108 I. C. 370 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 657.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Motive—Murder—Motive, proof of, if necessary, in upholding conviction.

Where two accused T and G were convicted of murder and sentenced to death by the Sessions Judge, and the motive of one of them, T, for the murder was satisfactorily proved, while as against the other accused G, there was no satisfactory evidence of any such motive, the High Court upheld the conviction, and confirmed the sentence, holding that although if it had to rely to any great extent upon motive being proved to its satisfaction, its conclusion might have been different in the case of the accused G, still as it was satisfied upon the evidence that the Sessions Judge was right in his conclusion that G was actually present with T at the time the murder was committed, it was not necessary for the High Court to come to any definite conclusion as to what the motive was on the part of G. Torap Ali v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 386 :

35 I. C. 818 : A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 492.

————S. 302—Motive—Murder—Proof—Suspicion—Weapons, discovery of.

Suspicion cannot be a substitute for proof. The mere fact that accused dug out a weapon stained, not with human blood, but with the blood of a ruminant animal, coupled with a motive to get rid of the deceased, is not sufficient to establish that the accused was guilty of causing the death of the deceased. Sural Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 28 :

83 I. C. 508 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 42.

————S. 302—Motive.

When the facts are clear, it is immaterial that no motive has been proved by the prosecution. The motive which induces a man to act is known to him and him alone. Motive, though not a sine qua non for bringing an offence home to the accused, is relevant and important on the question of intention. Gul Khan v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 546 :

109 I. C. 482 : 47 C. L. J. 240 :

32 C. W. N. 345 : I. L. T. 40 Cal. 116 :

A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 430.

————S. 302—Murder—Accused inflicting serious injuries—Victim dying of pneumonia—Offence.

Where a person received grievous injuries and was detained in hospital, and as a result of these injuries, pneumonia supervened and the victim died: Held, that the perpetrators of the attack upon him were guilty of murder. Fazla v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 678 :

110 I. C. 230 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 851.

————S. 302—Murder—Causing death of woman under the belief that she is a witch.

The accused, a member of an aboriginal tribe, killed a woman under the impression that she was a witch and was responsible for the illness of his wife and daughter. The facts showed that he was not labouring under any hallucination, but that he knew he was killing a human being and also that he was aware of the nature of his act. The Assessors found that he was not insane and that he was guilty of murder and agreeing with this verdict, the Sessions Judge sentenced him to death: Held, that he had been rightly convicted of murder. Mato Ho v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 603 :
57 I. C. 171 : 1 P. L. T. 282 :
1921 Pat. 76 : A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 63.

—S. 302—Murder—Circumstantial evidence justifying conviction.

In a case of murder, the evidence against the accused was that the deceased was last seen alive in his company, that he disappeared immediately after the event and that instead of accounting for the disappearance, he set up a palpably false defence that he did not know the deceased and did not accompany the latter to the scene of offence: Held, that these facts and circumstances were sufficient to bring the offence of murder home to the accused. Fazal Din v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 138 :
120 I. C. 529 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 265.

—S. 302—Murder—Death avoidable by proper treatment—Whether alters nature of crime—Sentence for murder—Provocation—Lesser punishment.

A person may be guilty of murder notwithstanding that death would have been avoided if the injured person had submitted to proper treatment. A person may be guilty of murder when the immediate cause of death is the treatment administered, and the question whether the treatment was proper treatment does not arise, provided that it was administered bona fide by a competent physician or surgeon: Held, that although the provocation did not amount to provocation of a nature which would reduce the crime to one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, yet it was a factor which must be taken into consideration when considering the question of sentence and that the provocation was sufficient to justify the Court sentencing the accused to transportation for life and not to death. Emperor v. Nga San Pai.

37 Cr. L. J. 1119 :
165 I. C. 245 : 9 R. Rang. 199 :
14 Rang. 643 : A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 442.

—S. 302—Murder—Death caused as direct result of stabbing by accused—Offence.

Where an accused has stabbed the deceased on a vital part of the body and the deceased has died as a direct result of that injury and the injury is one which, in the ordinary course will cause death, the accused is guilty of murder. The mere fact that the deceased might have been saved if expert medical attention had been afforded at once, makes no difference as to the nature of the crime. In re: Mahanti Sreeramulu.

41 Cr. L. J. 491 :
187 I. C. 632 : 1939 M. W. N. 1129 :
50 L. W. 787 : 12 R. M. 748 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 293.

—S. 302—Murder—Death caused by attack with sharp-edged weapon—Offence.

In the course of an altercation, accused suddenly struck the deceased with a sharp-edged weapon causing two wounds of a penetrating nature, one of which completely perforated the heart and the other penetrating the abdomen, divided the intestines, from the effect of which the deceased died at once: Held, that having regard to the nature of the wounds inflicted, the accused must be deemed to have intended to cause death or at least such bodily injury as was likely to cause death and was, therefore, guilty of murder. Lachman Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 238 :
92 I. C. 222 : 7 L. L. J. 582 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 143.

—S. 302—Murder—Death caused by lathi blow on head—Offence.

Accused committed an unprovoked assault upon the deceased, rushing out at him by surprise and striking him upon the head with lathi. The blow fractured the skull of the deceased from temple to temple and caused his death: Held, that the accused was guilty of the offence of murder. Suraj v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 766 :
95 I. C. 286 : 3 O. W. N. 451 :
13 O. L. J. 646.

—S. 302—Murder—Death from apoplexy or epilepsy—Finger nail marks—Theory as to cause of death should succeed and not precede collection of evidence.

Where there were scratches on the throat of the deceased such as would be produced by the nails of the hands, it is necessary to be cautious in coming to a conclusion as to the cause of death, for the effects of apoplexy, epilepsy, and other like diseases might be mistaken for those of manual strangulation. A theory as to the cause of death should succeed, and not precede, the collection of evidence. otherwise it is a matter of common knowledge that the evidence may be made to fit in with the theory. Emperor v. Gaya Nath Dass.

4 I. C. 286 :
13 C. W. N. 622.

—S. 302—Murder—Dhatura poisoning, death caused by—Offence.

Though dhatura is not a deadly poison, yet if administered in a large quantity, it often proves fatal. Therefore, where a person administers a large quantity of dhatura to another person which results in the latter's death, he must be deemed to have intended to cause such bodily injury as is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, and must be held guilty of the offence of murder. Rana v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 140 :
120 I. C. 531 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 90.

—S. 302—Murder—Discovery of hatchet and dang, through the instrumentality of the accused, from a tury-heap accessible to anybody—Presence of injuries on the person of the accused—Proof cannot be said to be sufficient to hold the accused guilty.

The mere facts that the accused pointed out a heap of tury belonging to some unknown zamindar which was accessible to anybody and from which were recovered a hatchet and a dang which turned out to be blood-stained and that the accused had some injuries on his person were held to be not sufficient to prove him guilty of being concerned in the murder. Chhajju, son of Mangu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

10 L. L. J. 58 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 335.

———S. 302—Murder—Evidence—Accused carrying token—Blood on token—Agriculturists.

Many zemindars carry tokens which are used for their ordinary work as agriculturists, and there is nothing significant in the fact that the accused left his house with a token in his hand shortly after the deceased had gone out and that the latter was subsequently found to have been killed as the result of numerous wounds inflicted on him with a sharp-edged instrument. A zemindar in the use of a token might very easily cut himself and in this way get blood on it. The presence of a little blood on a token, therefore, produced by a person accused of murder is not a very suspicious circumstance. Barhati v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 426 :
77 I. C. 602 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 539.

———S. 302—Murder—Evidence—Retracted confession.

An accused was charged with a murder of a young woman. Within a short time after the murder, the accused confessed to the murder and said that he had taken the jewels from her corpse and concealed them in the cattle shed. He went to the cattle shed and produced them. The confession was subsequently retracted but it was sufficiently corroborated by other evidence. The Sessions Judge acquitted the accused on the ground of certain discrepancies in the evidence: Held, that the acquittal of the accused was a clear miscarriage of justice. The evidence proved beyond the possibility of any reasonable doubt that he was guilty of the murder. Public Prosecutor v. Raju Naicken.

39 Cr. L. J. 1006 :
178 I. C. 115 : 1938 M. W. N. 609 :
48 L. W. 150 : 11 R. M. 406 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 806.

———S. 302—Murder—Gentle tap with heavy iron rod on head of deceased—Accused must be presumed to know that death would result.

If one man hits another on the head with a heavy iron rod, even if it is only a comparatively gentle tap, he must be held to know that death would be a natural and probable result of his action, if that tap does in fact cause the death of the person injured. Nga Sil Tun v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 79 :
172 I. C. 134 : 10 R. Rang. 228 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 401.

———S. 302—Murder—Grave and sudden provocation—Husband killing wife's lover when asleep—Sentence.

Where the accused left his wife for eight months exposed to temptation, during which period, she misbehaved and became pregnant and on returning home he killed her lover when he was asleep: Held, that the accused was not entitled to a lenient treatment and must receive a capital sentence, inasmuch as the murder could not be said to have been committed on grave and sudden provocation. Pateshwari Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 465 :
109 I. C. 113 : 5 O. W. N. 160 :
A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 241.

———S. 302—Murder—Grave and sudden provocation—Improper overtures by deceased to accused—Penalty.

Where the deceased made improper overtures to the accused, who was her step-son and the latter in a fit of resentment, stabbed her with a knife to death: Held, (1) that the act of the deceased did not amount to grave and sudden provocation and the accused was guilty of murder; (2) that the act might, however, be taken into consideration in passing the sentence, and was a sufficient ground for not inflicting the penalty of death. Allah Din v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 229 :
121 I. C. 185 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 415.

———S. 302—Murder—Grievous hurt—Death caused by superinfection of pneumonia—Offence.

Where a person inflicted grievous injuries on another, and as a result of these injuries, pneumonia supervened and the latter died: Held, that the offence committed was that of murder. Nur Muhammad v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 198 :
121 I. C. 65 : I. R. 1930 Lah. 161.

———S. 302—Murder—Heavy billet of wood—Death caused by blow on head.

A person who, in the absence of grave or sudden provocation, strikes another person on the head with a heavy billet of wood, must know that he is likely to fracture that person's skull and to cause his death and is, therefore, guilty of murder. Kesar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 398 :
84 I. C. 942 : 6 L. L. J. 527 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 244.

———S. 302—Murder.

Held, on facts that though the blow might have been struck in a quarrel, yet the circumstances were such that the accused could not possibly pray in aid any of the exceptions to S. 300, I. P. C. The blows were extremely vicious and savage ones, and the person who struck them must have either intended to cause death or cause such bodily injury as would, in the ordinary course of nature, result in death. Even the most illiterate and ignorant person would realise that a savage blow with an axe in the region of the abdomen and spine was bound to cause death or injury which would result in death. The accused, therefore, was guilty of the offence of murder. Emperor v. Girdhari Teli.

41 Cr. L. J. 587 :
188 I. C. 429 : 6 B. R. 693 :
13 R. P. 9 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 605.

———S. 302—Murder—Injury caused sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death,—Offence—Intention to cause such injury, if must be proved.

To establish the offence of murder, it is not sufficient that the injury inflicted was in fact sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, it must further be proved that the assailant intended to cause an injury of this kind. Where it is doubtful whether the accused had the intention of causing injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, he must be given the benefit of this doubt, a blow inflicted with a sharp-edged weapon with such violence as to sever completely the upper arm is one which is intended to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death and constitutes an offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder under Cl. (1) of S. 304, Penal Code. Nga Aung Nyun v. The King. 39 Cr. L. J. 561 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

175 I. C. 345 : 10 R. Rang. 485 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 156.

————S. 302—Murder—Intention—Depth of wound not less than five inches—Blow delivered with great force.

Where the total depth of the injury from the point of entry into the body was not less than five inches, and it is obvious that the blow with which the wound was inflicted must have been delivered with great force and the injury was necessarily fatal, the presumption arises that the person who inflicted it intended to cause death, and, therefore, prima facie that that person is guilty of the offence of murder. Nga Po Htwe v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 183 :

166 I. C. 419 : 9 R. Rang. 253 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 474.

————S. 302—Murder.

It was found as established that the accused and the deceased left the house of the latter together on a certain evening shortly after sunset. The next morning the dead body of the deceased was discovered in a field at a short distance from his house. The medical evidence showed that death had occurred at the most within the two hours from the time when the deceased left his house. There was some slight evidence as to a motive which the accused might have for doing away with the deceased: Held, that the charge of murder against the accused had been established. Hira Lal v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 225 :

84 I. C. 49 : 27 O. C. 188 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 78.

————S. 302—Murder.

It was found that the corpse of the deceased, a boy, proved to have been murdered by a sharp-edged instrument, was found floating in a canal on the 5th April, 1917, that the accused had an unnatural intimacy with the deceased, that the deceased and the accused were seen in company on the evening of the 30th March after which the deceased was never seen alive again, that the accused pointed out a spot in the canal where he said he had thrown a darri and a gandasa and that a darri and a gandasa were actually found in the canal bed at that spot: Held, that these facts were sufficient to justify the finding that the accused murdered the deceased. Kapur Singh v. Emperor. 20 Cr. L. J. 305 :

50 I. C. 481 : 98 P. L. R. 1918 :
A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 184.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Murder—Lathi used to break every limb—Death—Offence, if murder.

If weapons like lathis or the blunt side of axes are used in order to break every limb of a man's body, it is just as surely a murder as if the head had been smashed. Dilawar v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 751 :

163 I. C. 143 : 38 P. L. R. 695 :
8 R. L. 1023 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 233.

————S. 302—Murder—Motive, inadequacy of, effect of.

Where the evidence of the accused having committed the offence of murder is clear, it is immaterial whether the motive alleged for the offence is or is not adequate. Shera v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 258 :

100 I. C. 226 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 729.

————S. 302—Murder—Murder by throttling—Absence of injuries on neck—Inference.

If the object which is employed to compress the windpipe is broad and pliable, there need be no injury to the bony structures of the neck. Pressure by the sole of the foot or by the palm of the hand placed across the neck of an unresisting victim would cause death by asphyxia without necessarily causing injury to the bones or tissues of the neck. The absence of such injury does not, therefore, indicate that the approver is not telling the truth, when he says that the deceased was throttled. In re : Velu Naicken. 40 Cr. L. J. 913 :

184 I. C. 302 : 1939 M. W. N. 611 :
1939, 2 M. L. J. 202 : 12 R. M. 431 :
50 L. W. 920 : A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 737.

————S. 302—Murder—Death caused by lathis—Blows inflicted by several accused—Offence.

Where several persons attack another with lathis and cause his death, they are all guilty of the offence of murder. Dulli v. Emperor. 20 Cr. L. J. 22 :

48 I. C. 502 : 16 A. L. J. 918 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 65.

————S. 302—Murder of one by blow aimed at another—Offence.

Where a blow aimed at one person lights upon another and kills him, the offence committed by the assailant is the same as it would have been if the blow had struck the intended victim. Suba v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 280 :

107 I. C. 764 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 344.

————S. 302—Murder, offence of.

Accused was offered a post under P. W. D. in connection with land demarcation. He accepted it and was appointed for one month to deal with encroachment cases. One of the cases handed over to him was that of the deceased. The accused perused the papers and had a talk with the deceased and attempted to persuade him to agree to the demarcation of the disputed land. The deceased refused to do so and promised to produce papers to satisfy him that his claim was just. The accused was apprehensive that he would resist the demarcation which he proposed to carry out, and to facilitate his object, he drafted a complaint under S. 107, Cr. P. C., and asked a Pleader to file it, in proper Court. When he went to the spot, he took several boundary stones with him, which were carried by a large number of coolies. He had with him his own orderly, who carried his pistol. There was also a camera with the accused to take a photograph of any incident that might occur. The deceased resisted the accused by abuse and throwing stones but the accused in his zeal to perform his duties, fired shots at the deceased and the result was that the deceased died: Held, that the accused was the aggressor and that he was not entitled to the right of private defence, full or restricted. He was guilty of murder. Z. D. Samuel v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 477 :
167 I. C. 564 : 9 R. Pesh. 92 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pesh. 23.

————S. 302—Murder—Offender raw youth—Sentence.

Where a man of seventeen years of age is engaged in a murder under the influence of people very much older than himself, he may be awarded the lesser penalty, i.e., transportation for life instead of death. Charagh Din v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 313 :
153 I. C. 228 : 7 R. L. 411 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 786.

————S. 302—Murder—Person causing fracture and killing by lathi blow—Offence held murder.

A lathi is a lethal weapon and any one who uses it on the head of another with such force as to fracture the skull, must know that he is doing an act which, in all probability, must cause death, and the offence is murder. Raja Ram v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 14 :
178 I. C. 162 : 11 R. O. 96 :
1938 O. L. R. 469 : 1938 O. W. N. 1057 :
14 Luck. 328 : A. I. R. 1938 Oudh 256.

————S. 302—Murder—Poisoning by Dhatura.

Dhatura is a common poison frequently used to cause death, and the effects of dhatura, plants of which are often to be found in villages, are well-known to the villagers. It may be that dhatura is sometimes administered in fairly large doses with the intention of stupefying the victim, but there is no doubt that if a person consciously administers dhatura and administers a fatal dose, that person is guilty of murder for the intention to cause bodily injury is clear, and knowledge of the results of the poison can safely be imputed. Therefore, once it is established that a woman with a motive to get rid of her husband in order to facilitate her intrigue with her paramour has administered in his food a fatal dose of dhatura, the conclusion to be drawn is that she has committed murder unless her explanation is such as to create some doubt in the mind of the Court. Minai v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 405 :
174 I. C. 386 : 10 R. N. 382 :
A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 318.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Murder—Premeditation, absence of—Sentence.

The absence of proof of premeditation to commit murder would be a good ground for not passing the sentence of death. A. Plet v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 449 :
161 I. C. 297 : 8 R. Rang. 465 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 28.

————S. 302—Murder—Sentence—Accused receiving provocation while drunk—Proper sentence.

Where an offence committed is undoubtedly murder, the drunkenness of the accused being drunk is not sufficient to reduce the crime to anything below that of murder. But a drunken man may be provoked by a taunt which could not, in any way, ruffle the temper of a man who is in his sober senses. Where, therefore, an accused commits murder while drunk as a result of a provocation, however slight, it is a case in which maximum punishment should not be given. Nga Po Than v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 67 :
178 I. C. 431 : 11 R. Rang. 232 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 448.

————S. 302—Murder—Sentence—Exenuating circumstances.

Where in a charge of murder it is found that although it could not be said that the accused was insane or did not know the nature of his actions, it appeared that he was in an abnormal mood when he committed the offence, there is sufficient reason for not inflicting the extreme sentence. Nga Po Sva v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 435 :
161 I. C. 250 : 8 R. Rang. 462 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 113.

————S. 302—Murder—Sentence—Extreme youth.

Though mere youth may not, in itself, be a reason for not hanging a murderer, extreme youth may be such a reason. Mohan Lal v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 682 :
131 I. C. 276 (2) : I. R. 1931 Lah. 404 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 177.

————S. 302—Murder—Sentence—Mitigating circumstances.

Where the accused had undergone protracted sufferings through the obstinacy, viciousness and flagrant immorality of the deceased, his wife, whom he pushed into the river, there is a mitigating circumstance entitling the accused to a lenient sentence. Ghulam Muhammad v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 683 :
155 I. C. 265 : 35 P. L. R. 746 :
7 R. L. 673 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 675 (2).

————S. 302—Murder—Sentence.

The extreme penalty of law should not be passed, where the attack is unpremeditated and the accused acts under the impulse of the moment. Inayat Khan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1335 :
158 I. C. 336 : 16 Lah. 589 :
37 P. L. R. 705 : A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 94.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 302—Murder—Sentence.

There is no rule of law that if there be no eye-witnesses to a murder, the accused should not be sentenced to death. Tulsi Gangota v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 395 :
142 I. C. 613 (2) : 14 P. L. T. 96 :
I. R. 1933 Pat. 165 : A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 180.

—S. 302—Murder—Sentence—Youth of accused.

Youth alone in every case is not such an extenuating circumstance as would justify the imposition of the lesser penalty in case of murder, but it should be taken into consideration with the other facts. Nga Kan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 463 :
161 I. C. 574 : 8 R. Rang. 484 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 71.

—S. 302—Murder—Severe injuries inflicted by accused—Victim dying due to gangrene caused by injuries.

Where a person is seriously injured by the accused, and as a result of the injuries, gangrene sets in and becomes the immediate cause of death of the victim, the accused is guilty of an offence under S. 302, Penal Code. Lal Singh v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 265 :
173 I. C. 30 : 10 R. L. 393 :
A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 31.

—S. 302—Murder—Single blow by rice-pounder on deceased while intervening in struggle between accused and another—Murder, if committed.

Where the deceased intervenes during the struggle between the accused and another person and is fatally struck by the accused on the head with a blow of a rice-pounder, so heavy as to require ordinarily the use of both the hands for its use, the accused can be convicted of murder, even if the death results from a single blow. Public Prosecutor v. Bandi Pedda Venkata Nari.

38 Cr. L. J. 1109 :
171 I. C. 694 : 1937 M. W. N. 456 :
45 L. W. 698 : 1937, 1 M. L. J. 743 :
I. L. R. 1937 Mad. 684 : 10 R. M. 386 :
A. I. R. 1937 Mad. 634.

—S. 302—Murder, what amounts to—Assailants engaged in a brawl—Member of one party striking member of the other side who is empty-handed and not an active participant with hatchet—Offence.

Where during a brawl in which the assailants on both sides are using sticks, a member of one side intervenes with a hatchet and strikes over the head of a member of the other side, who is empty-handed and taking no active part in the fight and kills him in consequence, he commits murder and not culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Madaru v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 230 :
107 I. C. 177 : 5 O. W. N. 29 :
A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 221.

—S. 302—Murder, what amounts to.

When a man stabs another in a vital part, such as that described in the medical evidence in this case, he must be held to have intended to cause death, and if death ensues either directly from the wound or in consequence of the wound creating conditions, which give occasion to the appearance of a fatal disease, the person inflicting the wound is guilty of murder. Nga Doe v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 909 :
10 Bur. L. R. 171.

—S. 302—Murder—When constitutes.

Accused assaulting deceased with intention of causing his death, and after rendering him unconscious, placing him on railway line where death is caused by running train—No evidence that accused carried deceased to railway line under belief that he was dead—Offence committed is murder. Nchal Mahito v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 276 :
186 I. C. 256 : 18 Pat. 485 :
6 B. R. 316 : 12 R. P. 505 :
A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 625.

—S. 302—Murder.

When several persons join in beating another with lathis and inflict such serious injuries on him that he dies shortly after the beating, all are guilty of the offence of murder, without distinction. Sikandar v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 645 :
131 I. C. 122 : 32 P. L. R. 414 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 536.

—S. 302—Murder.

Where the accused, a girl of 16, was held guilty of deliberately killing her husband by means of arsenic poison which she mixed up with the food cooked and served up by herself to the husband : Held, that in consideration of her age, she should be transported for life instead of suffering the extreme penalty of death. Emperor v. Jasha Bewa.

6 Cr. L. J. 154 :
11 C. W. N. 904.

—S. 302—Murder.

Where the accused, in a drunken state, stabbed his wife, owing to her refusal to start with him for a certain place, which resulted in her death and the injuries inflicted were such that the accused should have known that they were likely to cause death : Held, that the accused was guilty of the offence under S. 302, Penal Code, and not of the lesser offence under S. 304, Penal Code. Batcha Sahib v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 115 :
18 I. C. 675 : 1913 M. W. N. 556.

—S. 302—Murder—Whether there should be injury on head for committing murder.

It is wholly unnecessary to injure the head of a person in order to kill him. One of the methods of killing in this country with a sharp weapon is to attack the stomach. An accused inflicting no less than 44 injuries on the body of the deceased can be convicted of murder, even though there is no injury on the head. Jagar Beg Jal v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1057 :
171 I. C. 314 : 39 P. L. R. 479 :
10 R. L. 184 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 692.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Murder and theft—Evidence—Unexplained possession of stolen property—Inference.

When the charge is that an accused person committed murder and theft in a building and the unexplained possession of stolen property is the only circumstance appearing in the evidence against that accused, the accused cannot be convicted of murder unless the Court is satisfied that possession of the property could not have been transferred from the deceased to the accused except by the former being murdered. In re: Sogiamuthu Padayachi. 27 Cr. L. J. 394 : 93 I. C. 42 : A. I. R. 1926 Mad. 638.

————S. 302—Murder or culpable homicide.

A stab wound which penetrates the wall of the abdominal cavity ought to be held to be one which is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. Maung Pyan v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 214 : 159 I. C. 1058 : 8 R. Rang. 320 : A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 408.

————S. 302—Murder or culpable homicide.

Accused attempting to strangle deceased and placing her on railway line while unconscious—Decapitation by train: Held, acts were intimately connected and latter act followed immediately on former act and accused is guilty of murder. Kaliappa Goundan v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1109 : 145 I. C. 953 : 1933 M. W. N. 745 : 38 L. W. 522 : 65 M. L. J. 597 : 57 Mad. 158 : 6 R. M. 164 : A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 798.

————S. 302—Murder and culpable homicide.

Distinction pointed out. Kaliappa Goundan v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1109 : 145 I. C. 953 : 1933 M. W. N. 745 : 38 L. W. 522 : 65 M. L. J. 597 : 6 R. M. 164 : 57 Mad. 158 : A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 798.

————S. 302—Murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Husband and wife only living together—Death of wife—Cause of death not ascertained—Presumption against husband.

Where A and his wife only were living together and the death of his wife occurs at his house and the circumstances relating to her death are absolutely unknown and A does not admit that he has killed her, the dissatisfaction of A with her and his ill-treatment of her as well as his attempt to dispose of her body are not sufficient to bring home the offence of murder to him, but in the absence of exculpating circumstances, which he has to prove, he can be found guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Gopal Singh v. Emperor. 6 Cr. L. J. 260 : 2 P. W. R. Cr. 64.

————S. 302—Murder or culpable homicide.

Injury with axe on [head — Clean-Cut fracture of skull—Accused held guilty of murder. Balai Bauri v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

36 Cr. L. J. 184 :
152 I. C. 636 : 7 R. P. 226 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 603.

————S. 302—Murder or hurt.

Fight during drunken brawl—One blow given resulting in death—Offence, is under S. 326 and not under S. 302 or 306. Gokal Chand v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1407 (2) : 151 I. C. 760 : 36 P. L. R. 88 : 7 R. L. 203 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 477.

————S. 302—Murder or hurt.

Five persons beating two—Death of one five days after by grievous hurt—Conviction under S. 302—149 is not proper and it should be under S. 325—147. Mohan Singh v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1355 : 151 I. C. 391 : 7 R. L. 123 (2) : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 486.

————S. 302—Murder or hurt.

Injuries not necessarily sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature—Death due to meningitis and compression of brain—No connection between this and injuries—Offence falls under S. 326. Chanan Das v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1283 : 151 I. C. 238 : 7 R. L. 113 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 368.

————S. 302—Murder or hurt.

Stab wound puncturing liver and diaphragm—Death—Murder is committed. Nga Tin Han v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 434 : 147 I. C. 440 : 6 R. Rang. 146 : A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 423.

————S. 302—Neglect of victim.

The idea, that the victim of a murderous assault must take such great care of his health and that he does not by any neglect or omission on his part hasten the advent of his death, is not countenanced by any provision of the Penal Code. Bhikhari v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1113 : 150 I. C. 819 : 11 O. W. N. 851 : 7 R. O. 44 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 405.

————S. 302—Offence under, what amounts to—Murder or culpable homicide.

The fact that there were two assailants and only one blow was struck, and that it is not shown who struck that blow, is not sufficient to reduce an offence which otherwise amounts to murder, to one under S. 304-II or S. 325. Sher Singh v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1083 :
133 I. C. 887 : 32 P. L. R. 537 :
I. R. 1931 Lah. 855 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 538.

————S. 302—Plea of guilty, when should be accepted.

Before a plea of guilty is accepted in a case in which the accused is charged with murder, the record should clearly show that the person who is charged understands and admits such facts as would bring the offence within the definition of murder and that he does not plead any of the exceptions set out in the Penal Code. Nga Han v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 540 :
51 I. C. 780 : 3 U. B. R. 1919, 137 :
A. I. R. 1919 U. Bur. 23.

————S. 302—Poisoning—Proof of—Murder—Case of death.

Before a person can be convicted of murder by poisoning, it is essential to prove that the death of the deceased was caused by poison and that the poison was administered to him by the accused. Where the cause of death cannot be ascertained with certainty, a conviction for murder by poisoning cannot be sustained. Gurdevi v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 593 :
85 I. C. 817 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 325.

————S. 302—Power of High Court.

Where a trial has ended in the complete acquittal of the accused person, it is not open to the High Court in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction to convict him of any offence. The utmost that it can do, in the absence of an appeal against the acquittal by the properly constituted authorities, is to order a new trial. Dullit v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 22 :
48 I. C. 502 : 16 A. L. J. 918 :
A. I. R. 1918 All. 65.

————S. 302—Pre-arranged fight, effect of—Death caused in pre-arranged fight—Murder—Private defence, right of.

Where members of two rival factions armed with deadly weapons take part in a pre-arranged fight, and deaths are caused on either side, no question of the exercise of the right of private defence arises, and all those who take part in the fight are guilty of the offence of murder. Madat Khan v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 283 :
92 I. C. 659 : 7 L. L. J. 628 :
27 P. L. R. 47 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 221.

————S. 302—Presumption—Murder—Evidence—Accused pointing out spots where occurrence took place—Proof.

In a murder case, when an accused person is able successfully to point out not one spot but several connected with the occurrence, there is a presumption that he had something to do with the murder. Matu v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 6 :
36 I. C. 838 : 18 P. R. 1917 :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 3.

————S. 302—Presumptive evidence of murder—Trial for murder and robbery—Recent possession of stolen articles.

In cases in which murder and robbery have been shown to form parts of one transaction, recent and unexplained possession of stolen property in the absence of circumstances tending to show that the accused was only the receiver of the property, would not be only presumptive evidence against the prisoner on the charge of robbery but also on the charge for murder. Public Prosecutor v. Chirreddi Munayya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 589 :
12 I. C. 652 : 21 M. L. J. 1071 :
1911, 2 M. W. N. 478.

————S. 302—Private defence.

Faction A going to attack with stick members of faction B—Faction B joined by companions with spears and hatchets—One of A getting spear thrust and dying on the spot—Right of private defence is not available to B—Other members of B present at assault can be convicted under S. 302 read with S. 34. Ram Baz v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1441 :
151 I. C. 887 : 7 R. L. 213 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 11.

————S. 302—Private defence.

In a case where on a charge of murder, the plea of self-defence is rejected, the offence can only fall under S. 302, Penal Code. Faqir Mohammad v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 570 :
138 I. C. 217 : 33 P. L. R. 287 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 431.

————S. 302—Provocation.

Accused and deceased having illicit relation with same woman—Deceased not prepared to give up connection—Conduct of deceased cannot be said to give grave provocation to accused and will not mitigate his crime of brutal murder. Emperor v. Shankar.

35 Cr. L. J. 894 :
149 I. C. 69 : 11 O. W. N. 636 :
6 R. O. 514 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 222.

————S. 302—Provocation.

Accused having illicit relations with deceased for a long time with husband's connivance—Death of husband—Deceased commencing intrigue with another man—Accused killing deceased—Provocation—Sentence reduced to transportation. Sheo Baran Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 232 :
146 I. C. 929 : 6 R. A. 379 :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 533.

————S. 302—Provocation.

Grave and sudden provocation to be an effective defence must be expressly pleaded and then supported by cogent evidence. Suleman v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 404 :
142 I. C. 741 : 15 N. L. J. 129 :
I. R. 1933 Nag. 134.

————S. 302—Punishment, object of.

The object of punishment is not revenge but protection of society, and the fact that the prisoner may have considered it a meritorious act to rid the village of the deceased, ought not to have any influence upon the sentence. The plea of low intellect and unbalanced mind is not a good ground for mitigation of sentence. The policy of the law is to fix the maximum penalty, leaving it to the discretion of the Court to award such punishment as would meet the circumstances of the case; that having regard to the motive proved in this case, and to the fact that the murder was committed in the honest, though unfounded belief of saving the life and alleviating the sufferings of others, a sentence of transportation for life would meet the ends of justice.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Mato Ho v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 603 :
 57 I. C. 171 : 1 P. L. T. 282 :
 1921 Pat. 76 : A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 63.

———S. 302—Retrial, necessity of.

The statements in the inquest reports are not evidence in a case but where these inquest reports have been filed, it is incumbent upon the Sub-Inspector who reduced the statements in inquest reports to writing, immediately after the discovery of the dead bodies, to explain the difference between them and the evidence given by him. He should be cross-examined with regard to this difference. Where he is not so cross-examined, and since the statements in the inquest reports cannot be used to discredit the evidence of the Sub-Inspector unless they are put to him under the provisions of S. 145, Evidence Act, it is necessary to order a retrial. Tharhepedekayil Veeeranjutti Haji v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 947 :

177 I. C. 808 ; 1938 M. W. N. 868 :
 1938, 2 M. L. J. 618 : 48 L. W. 615 :
 11 R. M. 387.

———S. 302—Rioting and Murder.

Where a mob has murdered certain men, the only inference which can be drawn is that the common object of the mob was murder. If any of the accused did not share that common object, it is for them to prove that fact. Rambit v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 919 :

149 I. C. 210 : 4 A. W. R. 191 :
 6 R. A. 872 : A. I. R. 1934 All. 776.

———S. 302—Sentence.

According to the evidence, there was no provocation to the accused on the part of the deceased ; the actions of the former showed great ferocity and disregard of human life, and there were absolutely no extenuating circumstances : Held, that if a lesser sentence than that of death were passed in such a case, it would be an act of inercy. Emperor v. Nga Shwe Gon. 1 Cr. L. J. 665 :
 10 Bur. L. R. 123.

———S. 302—Sentence.

Accused challenging deceased to fight—First blow struck by deceased—Both drunk—Fatal injuries inflicted by accused—Though accused is guilty of murder, lesser penalty should be imposed. Nga Sein Ge v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1065 :

149 I. C. 1176 : 6 R. Rang. 376 :
 A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 10.

———S. 302—Sentence—Accused's knowledge of guilt—Conviction.

An accused can rightly be convicted under S. 302, Penal Code, if he knows what he is doing when he strikes the deceased on the head with a hatchet and also knows that his act is imminently dangerous to life. But where there is no premeditation nor any enmity between the accused and the deceased or his relation and the attack on the deceased is the result of foul language used by him, the extreme penalty of law is not called for. Indar Singh v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 815 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

125 I. C. 325 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 545.

———S. 302—Sentence—Accused not actually striking but armed to meet eventualities and accompanying his associate—Offence—Provocation grave but not sudden—Extreme penalty of law.

Where an accused did not actually inflict any injury on the deceased but accompanied his co-accused on his murderous errand and was his confederate throughout, being himself armed with a weapon to meet all eventualities : Held, that he was in the eye of law just as much responsible for the murder of the deceased as his associate whose hand had actually struck the fatal blow. Where a murder is committed on a provocation which though not sudden was grave and likely to leave its sting behind, the extreme penalty of law need not be exacted. Shera v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 637 :

116 I. C. 613 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 549 :
 A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 791.

———S. 302—Sentence—Accused sixteen years of age murdering deceased half hour after receiving provocation from deceased—Circumstances held justified lesser punishment.

Where the accused was only sixteen years old and had committed murder by a blow with a dah on the back of the neck of the deceased half an hour after the accused had received some provocation from the deceased : Held, that the circumstances afforded ample justification for the imposition of the lesser penalty. Nga Chit Tee v. The King. 41 Cr. L. J. 706 :

188 I. C. 858 : 13 R. Rang. 29 :
 A. I. R. 1940 Rang. 140.

———S. 302—Sentence.

Accused who was a raw youth of 17 or 18 years of age with no experience of the world, stabbed the deceased with a knife under unknown circumstances and caused his death : Held, that the accused was guilty of murder but that under the circumstances, the sentence of transportation for life would meet the ends of justice and that it was not necessary to pass the sentence of death upon him. Ohunilal v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1121 :

88 I. C. 353 : 7 N. L. J. 144 :
 A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 115.

———S. 302—Sentence.

Accused with spears lying in wait for deceased expecting him to come that side to carry on intrigues with a girl who was betrothed to one of them and intending to kill if he came—Accused are guilty of murder—Provocation is not sudden—Deceased persisting in intrigues with girl betrothed to accused is sufficient reason to commute death sentence to transportation. Nur Ilahi v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1476 :

151 I. C. 1012 : 7 R. L. 236 :
 A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 239.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 302—Sentence.

Age of the accused is a factor which ought to be taken into consideration in determining the sentence to be imposed. Muniandi v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 28 :
26 I. C. 332 : 1 L. W. 1007 :
16 M. L. T. 535 : 1915 M. W. N. 34 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 542.

—S. 302—Sentence—Attempt to murder—Trial by Sessions Judge, desirability of—Sentence, quantum of.

Cases of attempt to murder which vary greatly in gravity should ordinarily be tried by Sessions Judges and not by Assistant Sessions Judges whose powers are limited to inflicting a sentence of seven years' imprisonment. Where the accused attempted to murder one of his relations by giving dhatura poison, and the victim remained unconscious for two days and would have died but for the treatment received in a hospital: Held, that a sentence of five years was insufficient. Emperor v. Ghura.

30 Cr. L. J. 544 :
115 I. C. 846 : 6 O. W. N. 43 :
I. R. 1929 Oudh 286 : A. I. R. 1929 Oudh 150.

—S. 302—Sentence—Body of murdered person not discovered.

Where an offence of murder is proved, the mere fact that the body of the murdered man is not found, is not a sufficient reason for not awarding capital sentence. Ram Nath v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 460 :
93 I. C. 252 : 3 O. W. N. 204 :
1 Luck. 327 : 13 O. L. J. 484 :
A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 234.

—S. 302—Sentence—Brutal murder—Youth of accused, whether ground for lesser penalty.

When the murder committed is of a very brutal nature, the mere youth of the accused is no ground for imposing the lesser penalty of transportation. Muhammad Sultan v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 211 :
107 I. C. 99.

—S. 302—Sentence—Conviction for murder on circumstantial evidence—Whether should not be visited with extreme penalty.

The Judge is either satisfied that the accused is guilty or he is not. There can be only two positions. If he is satisfied, the accused must get the normal punishment, if he is not, the accused must be acquitted. There is no middle course at all in judging the guilt of the accused. It is wrong to say that an accused convicted of murder merely upon circumstantial evidence should not be visited with extreme penalty. Gulzaman Mirzaman v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 132 :
185 I. C. 208 : 12 R. Pesh. 33 :
A. I. R. 1939 Pesh. 47.

—S. 302—Sentence—Gr. P. C., 1898, S. 367 (5)—Murder—Drunkenness, whether extenuating circumstances.

Unless drunkenness either amounts to unsoundness of mind so as to enable insanity to be pleaded by way of defence, or the degree of drunkenness is such as to establish incapacity in the accused to form the intent necessary to constitute the crime, it is neither a defence nor a palliation, and, therefore, the fact that an accused person was drunk at the time when he committed a murder, is not a reason for inflicting upon him the lesser penalty provided by law as a punishment for that offence. Waryam Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 764 :
95 I. C. 284 : 7 Lah. 141 :
27 P. L. R. 332 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 428.

—S. 302—Sentence—Dead body not discovered—Evidence of death only retracted confession—Proper sentence whether death or transportation.

The circumstance that the body of the murdered person is not discovered, makes it necessary for the Court to proceed with care and caution, but it is no ground for changing the sentence from death to transportation for life. Where the dead body does not appear and the factum of death is established by nothing but a retracted confession, there is a suitable case where the sentence of transportation may be awarded instead of the heavier sentence. Ragha v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1431 :
89 I. C. 903 : 23 A. L. J. 821 :
A. I. R. 1925 All. 627.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Death by blow with heavy stick. No real intention to murder—Punishment of transportation for life held sufficient. Kesava Chetti v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 623 (2) :
130 I. C. 847 : 1931 M. W. N. 266 :
A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 420.

—S. 302—Sentence—Death caused by beating—Drunkenness.

Evidence of drunkenness falling short of a proved incapacity in the accused to form the intent necessary to constitute the crime, and merely establishing that his mind was affected by drink, so that he more readily gave way to some violent passion, does not rebut the presumption that a man intends the natural consequences of his acts. Where accused who have beaten a man to death had primed themselves with drink in order to wreak vengeance on the deceased and to beat him mercilessly, they cannot escape the penalty of death on the ground of drunkenness. Sheru v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 630 :
94 I. C. 406 : 27 P. L. R. 294 :
7 Lah. 50 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 232.

—S. 302—Sentence—Death caused by dangerous weapon—Murder.

Two persons who were armed with chhavis attacked the deceased, who was their enemy, and inflicted two incised wounds on his head, one of which fractured his skull and caused his death: Held, that both of them were equally responsible for the result of their joint assault, and were guilty of an offence under S. 302, Penal Code, the appropriate sentence being one of death. In a case of murder, the sentence of death should ordinarily be imposed unless there is a mitigating circumstance which would justify the Court in awarding the lesser sentence prescribed by the law. The mere facts that only one blow proved fatal, does not furnish any adequate ground for not inflicting the sentence of death. Waryam Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 935 :
75 I. C. 359 : 6 L. L. J. 62 :
A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 598.

—S. 302—Sentence—Death caused by hatchet blow by one accused—Second accused present but not taking part in assault—Murder.

G and O, two brothers, proceeded to the house of the deceased, the former being armed with a hatchet and the latter with a stick. On arriving at the house of the deceased, G gave a blow on the neck of the deceased with the hatchet as the result of which the latter died. O did not use his stick but stood near while G attacked the deceased: Held, that both G and O were guilty of the offence of murder and that while G fully deserved the punishment of death, O who appeared to be acting under the influence of his brother and had inflicted no injury upon the deceased, should be sentenced only to transportation for life. Gulab v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1133 :
88 I. C. 365 : 2 Lah. Cas. 14 :
7 L. L. J. 479 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 584.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Deceased, paramour of accused, persisting in carrying on illicit intimacy—Accused getting disgusted with deceased—Poisoning—Sentence—Extreme penalty should not be exacted. Pathani v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 217 :
152 I. C. 1077 : 35 P. L. R. 559 :
7 R. L. 361 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 673.

—S. 302—Sentence—Deliberate and brutal murder—Motive for the crime—Unfounded suspicion of the fidelity of wife—Yielding to the feeling of jealousy—Reason for not inflicting the extreme penalty of the law.

When a husband entertaining an unfounded suspicion of his wife's chastity yields to the feeling of jealousy and murders her deliberately, he is entitled to the consideration of the Court, and his case does not call for the extreme penalty of law. Emperor v. Dina Bandhu Moitra.

1 Cr. L. J. 62 :
8 C. W. N. 218.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Doubt as to guilt is no reason for lesser penalty—Accused must be given benefit of doubt and acquitted. Mosaddi Rai v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 427 :
142 I. C. 841 (2) : 13 P. L. T. 702 :
11 Pat. 807 : I. R. 1933 Pat. 180 :
A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 100.

—S. 302—Sentence—Exceeding right of private defence.

When an accused, on being severely beaten, inflicted a mortal wound in a vital portion on the deceased's body, and where he did not show that the deceased was armed: Held, that the accused was guilty of murder under S. 302; that the burden of proving that he came under any of the exceptions of S. 300 lay upon him, but that, as offence was committed in the heat of provocation, the extreme penalty should not be passed. Emperor v. Bhimji Jeram.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 491.

—S. 302—Sentence—Extenuating circumstances.

Brutal crime premeditated and carried out brutally—Youth of accused is not an extenuating circumstance. Bhikhari v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1113 :
150 I. C. 819 : 1934 O. L. R. 627 :
11 O. W. N. 851 : 7 R. O. 44 :
A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 405.

—S. 302—Sentence—Extenuating circumstances.

The mere fact that a conviction for murder is based on circumstantial evidence is no reason why the sentence of death should not be imposed. Nor is the fact that the accused originally intended to commit another offence, but finding some difficulty in carrying out that offence, changed his mind and committed murder, an extenuating circumstance justifying the imposition of the lesser penalty. On the one hand absence of ascertainable motive comes to nothing if the crime is proved to have been committed by the other evidence; on the other, to eke out a weak case by way of motive apparently tending towards possible crime, is a very unsatisfactory and dangerous process. Motive may, however, be referred to in considering the question of sentence. Though the fact that a conviction is solely based on circumstantial evidence is, by itself, no ground for not inflicting the sentence of death, it is not improper to inflict a lesser sentence where there are other circumstances demanding the exercise of such discretion; as for instance, the absence of a strong motive coupled with the possibility of the murder having been committed without premeditation and under a temporary derangement of the mind due to the fear of being prosecuted and convicted for a criminal offence. In imposing sentence in a capital case, the discretion vested in the Courts should be judicially exercised. But the exercise of such discretionary powers in any particular case must depend on its own facts considered in the light of various circumstances such as the magnitude of the mischief which the crime has a tendency to produce, the effect of the punishment in preventing similar crimes, the motive or inducement to the crime, disposition of the criminal aggravating or mitigating circumstances and the like and not on the long cherished, now exploded, theory of a tooth for a tooth and an eye for an eye. Mohammad Yusif v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1026 :
126 I. C. 449 : A. I. R. 1930 Sind 225.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Fight between two men—Weaker one calling for help to separate them—Accused coming and stabbing the stronger—Accused drunk—

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

No premeditation: Held, offence though murder, extreme penalty was uncalled for. Maung Pyan v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 214 : 159 I. C. 1058 : 8 R. Rang. 320 : A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 408.

—S. 302—Sentence—Husband killing unchaste wife on provocation—Lesser penalty.

An accused who had seen his wife taking to her paramour asked her to mind her ways. She replied that she did not like to live with him and said that she would again elope with her paramour. The accused threw a piece of cloth round her neck and twisted it till she died. He then cut her throat and threw the body into a well: Held, that the accused was clearly guilty of murder but the case was a fit one for imposing the lesser penalty. Khanun v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 759 : 125 I. C. 49 : 11 L. L. J. 461 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 171.

—S. 302—Sentence.

In every case of a conviction on a charge of murder, the law regards the sentence of death as the normal and the appropriate sentence. Where the Court sees fit to pass the lesser sentence of transportation for life, it must record its reasons for so doing. Abdullah v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 193 : 92 I. C. 145 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 233.

—S. 302—Sentence, measure of.

Accused was placed upon his trial for the murder of his child and stated to the Committing Magistrate that he thought he was the cause of the child's death, he was drunk and did not know what he did. The plea of drunkenness was repeated to the Sessions Judge, who convicted him of murder and sentenced him to death: Held, that the sentence was, in the circumstances, most undesirable, without any evidence to ascertain whether there was or was not anything to justify a conviction for a lesser offence or for passing a sentence of transportation for life upon a conviction for murder. Nga Han v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 540 : 51 I. C. 780 : 3 U. B. R. (1919) 137 : A. I. R. 1919 U. Bur. 23.

—S. 302—Sentence, measure of—Murder—Provocation, grave but not sudden, effect of.

A capital sentence is not justified where a murder is committed under provocation, very serious though not sudden. Puran v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 190 : 33 I. C. 830 : 3 O. L. J. 19 : A. I. R. 1916 Oudh 138.

—S. 302—Sentence—Murder by father of newly born illegitimate child—Mitigating circumstances.

In the murder of her newly born illegitimate child by a woman, there are mitigating circumstances sufficient to reduce the appropriate penalty of death very much below a sentence of transportation for life. Most of those circumstances apply, though certainly in a less degree, to the case of the father of such a child, more especially where the mother is his own sister. Dhanja Kunbi v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 63 : 75 I. C. 767 : A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 119.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 302—Sentence—Murder by grandmother of her grandchild—No justification—Sentence, appropriate.

Where an old woman of 50 years of age, who had long hated her daughter-in-law and resented her intrusion and had worked herself up to a frenzy of hatred against her, taking advantage of her absence from the house, entered it and murdered her five years old grandchild with horrible cruelty, and nothing was alleged by her or suggested on her behalf which could, if established, have afforded any sort of legal or moral justification, the mere fact that the case rests on circumstantial and not direct evidence should not affect the passing of the death sentence. In re : Rasammal.

16 Cr. L. J. 20 : 26 I. C. 324 : A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 821.

—S. 302—Sentence—Murder—Capital sentence, when not to be passed.

There is a certain degree of reluctance on the part of Judges to pass a capital sentence when the substantial part of the evidence which the prosecution rely upon is evidence recorded without an oath or affirmation as required by the Oaths Act. Hari Ramji Pavar v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 593 : 45 I. C. 497 : 20 Bom. L. R. 365 : A. I. R. 1918 Bom. 212.

—S. 302—Sentence—Murder committed by several accused—Person inflicting fatal blow unknown—Whether ground for giving lesser sentence—Sentence passed lesser but legal—Interference.

When once the guilt of murder is proved, the proper penalty to be is a matter for the discretion of the Judge and it is by no means true to say that merely because there is doubt as to which of several of the accused inflicted the fatal blow, this is a sufficient ground for withholding the death sentence in the case of any or all of them. But a person who has even wrongly got the benefit of a lenient sentence at his trial, may sometimes be allowed to benefit by his good fortune, provided the sentence passed is one which is legal. Tun Khine U v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 49 : 178 I. C. 298 : 11 R. Rang. 223 : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 331.

—S. 302—Sentence—Murder—Conviction on appeal against acquittal.

Though ordinarily the Courts refrain from passing the capital sentence on a person who is convicted of murder on appeal against an acquittal, capital sentence may be passed where the attack was particularly ferocious and the accused acted in a high-handed and unusually cruel manner. Niamat Khan v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 51 : 127 I. C. 850 : 31 P. L. R. 411 : I. R. 1930 Lah. 882 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 409.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Sentence—Murder—Death of infant caused by blow from heavy weapon—Accused suffering from ill-treatment of husband—Youth of accused—Sentence—Recommendation for mercy.

Accused, who was a young woman of fifteen years of age, being roused to frenzy by the ill-treatment of her husband, seized the first weapon that came to her hand and made a murderous attack on her step-son in order to avenge herself against her husband and caused the death of the infant. The weapon used by her was a very heavy one: Held, (1) that the intention of the accused was to cause death and that she was, therefore, guilty of the offence of murder; (2) that considering the age of the accused and the other circumstances of the case, the capital sentence was uncalled for and that a lesser sentence even than one of transportation for life would meet the ends of justice and that the record of the case should be forwarded to the Local Government in order that it may take action, if it deemed it suitable to do so, under S. 401 of the Cr. P. C. Daulan v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1373 : 89 I. C. 461 : 2 Lah. Cas. 57 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 144.

————S. 302—Sentence — Murder — Joint commission—Some taking minor part—Lesser sentence.

If a murder is committed by two persons, and one of them takes some minor part and is acting under the influence of the other, it may sometimes be a case for reduction of the sentence in the case of the man who was acting under the influence of the other, especially where the evidence against him depends primarily on a confession. Dur Mohammad v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 178 : 128 I. C. 684 : I. R. 1931 Sind 12 : A. I. R. 1930 Sind 305.

————S. 302—Sentence — Murder — Mere youth of accused and likelihood of reforming, whether extenuating circumstances—Duty of Court to impose capital sentence.

There is no law which justifies a Court in not passing a sentence of death on a person convicted of murder merely because he is young. The consideration that the accused may still reform, is one which should be excluded entirely in all cases, where a capital sentence can be inflicted. Emperor v. Bhagwandin.

32 Cr. L. J. 83 : 128 I. C. 80 : 7 O. W. N. 767 : I. R. 1931 Oudh 16 : A. I. R. 1931 Oudh 89.

————S. 302—Sentence—Murder — Minority of accused.

A person who has not reached the legal age of discretion, should not be made to pay the death penalty when the law allows an alternative punishment. Thakura Singh v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 65 : 113 I. C. 177 : 10 L. L. J. 463 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 138 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 64.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 302—Sentence.

Murder of husband committed by reason of and at bidding of spirit—Murder with brutality—No pretence of grief—No motive—Full confession : Held, extreme penalty uncalled for. Sukni Ohamian v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 513 : 162 I. C. 25 : 2 B. R. 410 : 8 R. P. 506 : A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 245.

————S. 302—Sentence—Murder of wife by husband—Sentence—Suspicion of unchastity, whether extenuation.

Mere suspicion of a wife's conduct is not extenuation of a deliberate murder of the wife by the husband. In such a case, the extreme penalty of law is the only proper sentence. In re ; Dasan. 30 Cr. L. J. 630 : 116 I. C. 142 : 1929 M. W. N. 269 : I. R. 1929 Mad. 526 : 30 L. W. 229 : A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 495.

————S. 302—Sentence.

Murder under belief that victim was a sorcerer. Lesser sentence is sufficient. In the matter of : Lakhna Sawra. (F. B.)

33 Cr. L. J. 663 : 139 I. C. 81 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 570 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 815.

————S. 302—Sentence—Murder — Provocation.

A person who was trusted and treated with hospitality by another, seduced the latter's wife and persisted in remaining in his house after having been requested to leave. The injured man killed the seducer. There was no evidence to indicate the circumstances which led to the commission of the murder : Held, that the conduct of the deceased was certainly provoking, and, in the absence of the evidence to indicate the circumstances of the crime, it was not a case for the infliction of the extreme penalty of the law, but for a sentence of transportation for life. Khandu v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 41 : 106 I. C. 457.

————S. 302—Sentence— Murder — Several accused—No evidence as to who struck the fatal blow—Conviction.

Where there are several persons accused of murder and there is no reliable evidence as to who struck the fatal blow, it is not safe to differentiate the guilt of the accused and sentence some of them to the extreme penalty of the law. In re ; Butari Ohinna Vorjah.

12 Cr. L. J. 48 : 9 I. C. 288 : 9 M. L. T. 103.

————S. 302— Sentence— Murder — Several persons convicted—Death sentence, imposition of.

In deciding as to whether some or all of a number of persons are to be sentenced to death after a conviction for murder, it has long been settled that prima facie all the persons convicted should be sentenced to the extreme penalty, and it is only where special circumstances are shown in favour of any individual that the Court sentences such individual to the alternative punishment of transportation for life. It is not the practice of the Court, however, save in extreme cases, to call upon the accused to show cause why the sentence should not be enhanced. Shafi Khan v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 737 :

117 I. C. 176 : 8 Pat. 181 :

I. R. 1929 Pat. 384 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 161.

———S. 302—Sentence—Murder—Several persons joining together to murder another and murdering him—Circumstances showing intention to murder—Case of each indistinguishable—Each should get death sentence.

Where several persons join together to murder another and do murder him under such circumstances that there can be no doubt that the intention was to murder, each and every one of them ought to receive the sentence of death unless there is any circumstance to distinguish one case from another. Chanan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 342 :

166 I. C. 1005 : 17 Lah. 536 :

38 P. L. R. 909 : 9 R. L. 459.

———S. 302—Sentence.

No premeditation—Sudden quarrel and abuse—Accused striking one blow—Sentence of death held not proper. Nand Lal v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 307 :

160 I. C. 606 (1) : 38 P. L. R. 111 :

16 Lah. 1098 : 8 R. L. 571.

———S. 302—Sentence—Number of accused involved in murder—Sentence of death should not be passed on all—Court should try to discriminate.

In cases where many persons are involved in a crime under S. 302, Penal Code, the Court should hesitate to pass sentence of death on all of them, and try to discriminate. Infliction of sentences of death on all accused in one and the same case, is apt to fail in the effect which such sentences would otherwise have. A number of persons were involved in a murder of a woman which was deliberate and premeditated. One of them cut the throat of the woman while others who were under his influence held the woman and facilitated the crime. There was no extenuating circumstance : Held, that the person cutting the throat shall be sentenced to death while the rest to transportation for life. Emperor v. Nibharesh Mandal Mohor Mandal.

39 Cr. L. J. 479 :

174 I. C. 803 : 66 C. L. J. 351 :

10 R. C. 726 : A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 295.

———S. 302—Sentence—Premeditated murder by person setting out to execute their own sentence of death—Absence of immediate provocation and hasty action in response : Held, sentence of death was proper.

The High Court will always set its face against private individuals, whether they be Baloochis or members of any other tribe, executing their own sentences of death. A band of armed Baloochis, setting out deliberately to execute a sentence of death which they or others had passed, committed a deliberate, audacious and premeditated murder. There was no immediate provocation and hasty action in response, but the accused set themselves as executioners : Held, that the only proper sentence was the sentence of death. But as Government had not moved, for enhancement of sentence of transportation for life and some considerable time had passed, the sentences were confirmed and not enhanced. Muhammad Murid Bnd v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 953 :

170 I. C. 605 : 30 S. L. R. 354 :

10 R. S. 63 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 239.

———S. 302—Sentence—Proper sentence—State of public feeling or fact that number of murderers exceeds number of victims, whether admissible reason for refraining from passing death sentence.

It is no part of the duty of a Judge to be influenced by public feeling. His duty is to administer the law. The law says that the proper sentence for murder is death, and whenever a person is convicted of an offence punishable with death, and the Court sentences him to any punishment other than death, the Court shall, in its judgment, state the reasons why the sentence of death was not passed. The state of public feeling is not an admissible reason for refraining from passing the sentence of death. Nor is it permissible to refrain from sentencing the murderers to death merely because their numbers exceed the numbers of their victims. When the number of persons have together planned and executed the murder of a single person, each of them must be sentenced to death unless there are some legal reasons for not doing so. In re : Sambhangi Lakshumanna.

40 Cr. L. J. 249 :

179 I. C. 682 : 48 L. W. 730 :

1938 M. W. N. 1166 : 1938, 2 M. L. J. 1028 :

11 R. M. 614 : A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 109.

———S. 302—Sentence—Extenuating circumstances.

Where there was doubt about cause of quarrel and accused was a lad of 17 or 18 : Held, extreme penalty of the law was not called for. Nga Kan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 463 :

161 I. C. 574 : 8 R. Rang. 484 :

A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 71.

———S. 302—Sentence—Mere youth of accused, whether ground for not imposing capital sentence.

The mere fact that the accused is a young man of 19 or 20 years of age, is a wholly insufficient reason for not imposing the death sentence in the case of a ruthless and brutal murder. Amir v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 1017 :

112 I. C. 345 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 531.

———S. 302—Sentence—Sudden murder.

Where the commission of murder is not deliberate but is committed suddenly on sudden provocation, a sentence of transportation may be passed in lieu of the extreme penalty of death. Gaman v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 571 : 116 I. C. 187 : 11 L. L. J. 1 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

I. R. 1929 Lah. 459 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 913.

———S. 302—Sentence—Tender age of accused, effect of—Confirmation of death sentence.

Although in cases of deliberate murder, death sentence should ordinarily be imposed, yet the tender age of the accused may, by itself, be a sufficient reason for awarding the sentence of transportation for life. A High Court may decline to confirm a death sentence when it is of opinion that it would be wrong and improper that the sentence should be carried out. Madha v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 955 :
96 I. C. 507 : 22 N. L. R. 104 :
A. I. R. 1926 Nag. 461.

———S. 302—Sentence.

The fact that a murder was caused by a single blow is not a ground for passing the lesser sentence. Sullan v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1219 :
134 I. C. 793 : 12 Lah. 442 :
32 P. L. R. 925 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 1001 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 749.

———S. 302—Sentence.

The fact that the deceased had been carrying on an illicit intrigue with the wife of the accused, is sufficient reason for not imposing the extreme penalty on the accused. Sarabjit v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 189 (2) :
146 I. C. 817 : 10 O. W. N. 771 :
6 R. O. 185 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 382.

———S. 302—Sentence.

The lesser sentence was never intended to be imposed in a case where there appears to be some doubt. If the Court at the end of a case is left in any reasonable doubt about the matter, it must acquit. Jadda Ahir v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1496 :
158 I. C. 1041 : 8 R. A. 362 :
1935 A. W. N. 806 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 919.

———S. 302—Sentence.

The question of sentence must be determined upon the gravity of the offence irrespective of the circumstance whether the body has or has not been discovered. Munda v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 493 :
130 I. C. 331 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 267 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 25.

———S. 302—Sentence.

The sentence of transportation for life is the minimum sentence that can be legally passed for an offence under S. 302. Raja Ram Tewari v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 185 :
146 I. C. 888 : 10 O. W. N. 835 :
6 R. O. 188 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 399.

———S. 302—Sentence, transportation for life.

Accused No. 1, a watchman, and the deceased, a Police Patel, slept in a watch-house on the night of the offence. They were on bad terms and a few days previously a quarrel had taken place between this accused's son (accused 2) and the deceased about the former's wife. The deceased had been occasionally firing his gun in his rounds. At 1 a.m. there was a report of a gun. The persons awakened did not see or hear any one running away out of, or passing in, the village. Accused No. 1 was then seen coming to the village gate and shouting once. This showed that unless held or gagged he would have cried and that this accused either took an active part in the offence or aided and abetted it. This accused alleged that he called the deceased on being awakened by the report and receiving no reply went to the gate and saw two men running away and that on return he found the deceased's clothes on fire which he put out. There were blood-stains on this accused's turban and also on accused 2's jacket. There was also a retracted statement of the latter's wife that he changed his blood-stained clothes that night. The fired matchlock belonged to accused 2 but was found hidden in the watch-house : Held, as to accused 1 that he was undoubtedly guilty, his story being improbable and not agreeing with evidence and that he should be transported for life, and as to accused 2 that he was not guilty, the evidence being not sufficient to prove his guilt. Emperor v. Suleman Sadhul. 1 Cr. L. J. 619.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 302—Sentence.

Where a boy of 18 is convicted almost entirely on his own confession, and according to that confession, he was acting under instructions from, and semi-compulsion by his elder brother, who was the prime mover in the affair, the extreme penalty of the law is not called for. Mi Hein v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 835 :
144 I. C. 829 : 6 R. Rang. 11 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 134.

———S. 302—Sentence.

Where a Judge finds that the murder committed was premeditated, cold-blooded and brutal in the extreme, and suggests no extenuating circumstances, he is not justified in mitigating the sentence. Amir Singh v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 576 (2) :
138 I. C. 327 : 33 P. L. R. 158 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 463 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 245.

———S. 302—Sentence.

Where an accused person is found guilty of murder, the sentence of death has been considered as the normal sentence and the sentence of transportation for life as the abnormal sentence for which reasons are required to be given by the Judge why the sentence of death is not passed. It is wrong to construe S. 307, Cr. P. C., as laying down that in a case of murder, death sentence is to be passed as a matter of course unless there is sufficient reason to the contrary. In fixing the measure of punishment, the Court is not to be guided by the said section but by various other matters, for instance, the enormity or otherwise of the crime and the particular circumstances under which the accused committed it.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Emperor v. Dukari Chandra Karmakar.

31 Cr. L. J. 817 :
125 I. C. 305 : 33 C. W. N. 1226 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 193.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Where in a murder case it is not established who inflicted the fatal blow on the deceased, the extreme penalty of law need not be exacted from the accused. Tara Singh v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 457 :
137 I. C. 282 : 33 P. L. R. 1 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 328 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 189.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Where several persons are convicted of rioting and of murder committed with a view to prosecution of the common object of the rioters, prima facie all the persons so convicted should be sentenced to the extreme penalty. Mosaddi Rai v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 427 :
142 I. C. 841 (2) : 13 P. L. T. 702 :
11 Pat. 807 : I. R. 1933 Pat. 180 :
A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 100.

—S. 302—Sentence.

Where the murder is not a premeditated one but the result of anger and passions engendered in a sudden quarrel, it is not a case where a sentence of death is necessary in the interests of justice. Girja Prasad Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 438 :
153 I. C. 999 (2) : 7 R. A. 655 :
1935 A. L. J. 54 : 1935 A. W. R. 64 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 346 (2).

—S. 302—Sentence.

When the person convicted of cold-blooded murder is a boy of 15 or 16, he should not be hanged. Remission of death sentence is proper. Ghunnai v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 448 :
147 I. C. 630 : 1934 A. L. J. 143 :
3 A. W. R. 419 : 6 R. A. 530 :
A. I. R. 1934 All. 132.

—S. 302—Sentence—Wife's murder—Evidence purely circumstantial—Extreme penalty—Enhancement.

The fact that a conviction for murder is rested on circumstantial evidence is itself no ground for not passing the death sentence. Where a husband deliberately murders his wife with a view to enter into a second marriage, death is the only appropriate remedy. The crime of wife's murder must be rigorously dealt with. Ohava Indaramma v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 971 :
118 I. C. 817 : 1929 M. W. N. 270 :
I. R. 1929 Mad. 849 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 667.

—S. 302—Sentence—Wife of accused, of loose character and conceiving from stranger when at parent's house—Giving birth to illegitimate child on return to husband's house—Accused chafed by fellow villagers—Accused feeling insulted killing her—Extreme penalty held uncalled for.

The deceased was a person of loose character, and while living in her parent's village, she conceived from a stranger and came to her husband's house in a stage of pregnancy. She then gave birth to an illegitimate child in his house, and he was chafed by his fellow villagers who "congratulated" him on the birth of a son, whereupon he murdered her: Held, that this was not a case in which the extreme penalty of the law should be imposed on him. The ends of justice would be met by imposing a sentence of transportation for life. Kartar Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

39 Cr. L. J. 769 :
176 I. C. 666 : 11 R. L. 224 :
40 P. L. R. 854 : A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 556.

—S. 302—Sentence—Young girl of 15 killing her new-born child—Transportation, held was not appropriate sentence.

Where a young girl of 15 kills her newly-born illegitimate baby, a sentence of transportation for life is wholly inappropriate. In England it is always assumed that a girl who commits such a murder at such a time is hardly responsible for her actions, it being well-known that child birth produces occasionally peculiar reactions in the mother. The Government was requested to reduce the sentence of transportation for life to a sentence for a short period. Talian v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 718 :
176 I. C. 272 (b) : 40 P. L. R. 23 :
11 R. L. 194 : A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 473.

—S. 302—Sentence—Youth how far an extenuating circumstance.

Youth alone is not such a circumstance as would justify the imposition of the lesser penalty prescribed for an offence under S. 302, Penal Code, but when there is the additional circumstance of want of motive for the crime and the probability of the accused being merely a tool in the hands of third persons, the lesser penalty may be inflicted. Harnamun v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 682 :
110 I. C. 234 : A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 855.

—S. 302—Sentence—Youth, how far factor in reducing sentence.

If an offence of murder is proved against the accused, his youth standing by itself cannot justify the Court in refraining from passing a sentence of death. Sukhwaria Chamarin v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 147 :
76 I. C. 291 : A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 29.

—S. 302—Sentence—Youth—Murder—Youth, whether ground for lesser penalty—Insanity, what constitutes.

Youth alone in every case is not such an extenuating circumstance as would justify the imposition of the lesser penalty for murder. Primarily the capital sentence is the normal punishment for the offence of murder and the Judge must give reasons for imposing the lesser penalty. Ismail v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 540 :
109 I. C. 364.

—S. 302—Sentence—Youth of accused—Murder prompted by feelings of veneration for founder of religion—Death sentence, propriety of. The mere fact that a murderer is 19 or 20 years of age and that his act was prompted by feelings of veneration for the founder of his religion and anger at one who had scurrilously attacked him, is not a sufficient reason for not imposing the sentence of death. Ilam Din v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 1125 :

120 I. C. 1 : 11 L. L. J. 533 :

I. R. 1929 Lah. 915 :

A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 157.

———S. 302—Suspicion, if good basis for conviction—Evidence regarding motive and production of corpse—Conviction for murder, propriety of—Circumstantial evidence.

It is not safe to base a conviction under S. 302, Penal Code, where the only evidence against the accused is the presence of motive and the production of the corpse by him. However suspicious the circumstances may be, suspicion alone cannot be regarded as sufficient for a conviction. Farzand Ali v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 252 :

107 I. C. 482 : 29 P. L. R. 33.

———S. 302—Suspicion.

Suspicion, however strong, furnishes no legal grounds for a conviction on a charge of wilful murder. Ratan v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 498 (2) :

143 I. C. 55 : 10 O. W. N. 7 :

8 Luck. 301 : I. R. 1933 Oudh 154 :

A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 148.

———S. 302—Transportation for life—Whether accused had completed 16 years of age, doubtful—Motive definite—Assault brutal—Held, lesser penalty would satisfy the ends of justice.

Where the accused committed murder with a definite motive, the assault being a very brutal one, and there was a doubt whether he had completed his 16 years of age : Held, that the accused was at a time of life when what will not be considered as a circumstance sufficient to upset a man of more mature years may upset him and send him off his balance quite materially, and taking into account the doubt that existed with reference to his having completed his 16th year of age, the sentence of death was unsuitable to the case and that sentence of transportation for life would adequately meet the ends of justice. Nga Saw Htun v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1022 :

171 I. C. 125 : 10 R. Rang. 131 :

A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 121.

———Ss. 302-34—Common intention—Two persons charged under Ss. 302, 34—Common intention to commit murder must be held before conviction for murder : Held, on facts, offence was culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

Where two persons charged under S. 302-34 can be held guilty of murder, it must be held that their common intention was the common intention to commit the crime of murder. Where two ordinary Burmans went to the house of the deceased with bamboo sticks and not dah : Held, that then common intention was not a common intention to commit the offence of murder. But when these two persons went together, each armed with a bamboo, it must have been within the contemplation of both of them that the result of their assault upon the deceased was likely to be his death, and hence it must be presumed that they had the common intention of causing such injury as was likely to cause the death of the deceased. Consequently, the common intention was to commit the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Nga Tike Maung v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 284 :

166 I. C. 701 : 9 R. Rang. 276 :

A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 24.

———Ss. 302, 34—Concerted attack.

Where a concerted attack is directed against the head of the victim which was smashed, attack is made with the knowledge that the injury inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death and the offence is murder, and whether the attack is an attack by a individual or a concerted attack by more than one person, each person will be presumed to know the consequences of his act. It is not necessary that the common action should be the result of a premeditated plan, but the precise intention of the assailants acting in concert is a matter of inference from their conduct. Lati v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 131 :

172 I. C. 367 : I. L. R. 1937 Nag. 388 :

10 R. N. 200 : A. I. R. 1937 Nag. 335.

———Ss. 302-34—Murder.

Where each assailant mercilessly belaboured a prostrate victim, dealing more than one blow on the head resulting in fractures of the skull and breaking of ribs with laceration of a lung and a kidney, it is murder and not culpable homicide not amounting to murder on the part of the assailants, although it cannot be ascertained which of them was actually responsible for the particular fatal blows, and the conviction for murder under S. 302 read with S. 34 of the Penal Code is correct. Lati v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 131 :

172 I. C. 367 : 10 R. N. 200 :

I. L. R. 1937 Nag. 388 :

A. I. R. 1937 Nag. 335.

———Ss. 302-34, 460—Common intention, absence of—Armed gang entering house at night to abduct woman—Scuffle—Death of one and grievous hurt to another—Offence—Sentence.

While abducting a woman, for which purpose a number of persons armed with chhavis and dangs entered a house at night, some of them attacked an inmate of the house with lathis. He died and grievous hurt was caused to another : Held, that in the circumstances, a common intention to commit culpable homicide amounting to murder, or culpable homicide not amounting to murder, could not possibly be imputed to them, and in the absence of such an intention, the charge under S. 302-34 could not possibly be sustained but as the crime was particularly heinous and the ends of justice required that the maximum sentence should be imposed on them, the conviction of the accused for the major offence must be altered from one under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Ss. 302-34 to that under S. 400, Penal Code, and the sentence of transportation for life imposed on each accused affirmed. Mohammada v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 30 :

165 I. C. 874 : 9 R. L. 315 :

38 P. L. R. 1150 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 911.

———Ss. 302, 97—Murder—Accused beginning quarrel by acting improperly towards deceased's wife—When asked by deceased to leave the place, not doing so—Fight ensuing—Accused stabbing deceased causing his death—Accused held, was guilty of murder and had no right of self-defence.

An accused began a quarrel by acting in an improper manner towards the deceased's wife, and when he was asked by the deceased and the deceased's wife to leave the scene peacefully, he declined to do so. Consequently, a fight ensued in which the accused stabbed the deceased with a knife, who died as a result: Held, that the accused had no right of self-defence and was guilty of murder. The King v. Nga Pu Gyi.

40 Cr. L. J. 59 :

178 I. C. 413 : 11 R. Rang. 231 :

A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 441.

———Ss. 302, 107, 318—Murdering a newly-born child—Throwing alive a newly-born child into an open pit.

'Where a woman, who had thrown her newly-born child naked into a pit in an open place, said in her first statement that she did give birth to it but that it died after delivery, while her second statement was that she at once threw it away there without looking at it, and where the witnesses, who said that the child was alive when thrown away, contradicted themselves and each other at every point: Held, that she was guilty under S. 318, and not under S. 302, I. P. C. Emperor v. Woman Behni Bechar.

3 Cr. L. J. 317.

———Ss. 302, 109—Abettor—Person acting as go-between and procuring murderers—Punishment of.

A person who acts as a go-between and procures murderers, is just as guilty as the actual murderers or the persons in whose interest the murder is committed and is, therefore, liable to the same punishment as the murderers. Faqir Singh Sudh Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 897 :

184 I. C. 219 : 41 P. L. R. 333 :

12 R. L. 183 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 429.

———Ss. 302, 109, 110, 111, 323—Benefit of doubt—Murder, abetment and hurt—Absence of common object—Court's order where President dissented from assessor—Proof of motive—Untrue medical certificate and witnesses tampered with.

In a case of murder A was charged with the principal offence and B with abetment. Complainant, an eye-witness, who was on inimical terms with A, adhered to his main story throughout except in several other particulars and was supported by 3 other eye-witnesses, who had, however, named B as the principal offender before the investigating Police Officers, though they mentioned A some months after to the Police Superintendent. There was no direct evidence that B knew A had the weapon. The other two bullets which had gone wide, were found out with their marks by the Police in the presence of a Panch: Held, by the President, who believed the complainant, that there being in India in murder cases no minimum limit of witnesses, a single witness, if believed, was sufficient to justify a conviction; that as regards the abettor, it was only fair to assume that he had asked A to use his cane, and that therefore he was not guilty of abetting the murder. Per assessors, that it was not possible to place any reliance on what the other witnesses subsequently stated, and that therefore it remained to consider whether the responsibility of the principal offence could be fixed on either of them, but that B dropped out of question when he was not charged by the prosecution with the principal offence and particularly when the President had thought fit to find him not guilty of abetment with which they agreed that a balance of proof was not sufficient; and that though A did not escape without suspicion, he was entitled to a benefit of doubt. Emperor v. Manubhu Umedsing.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 1027.

———Ss. 302, 120-B—Evidence—Murder of charge before Jury.

The appellant and two other persons were originally committed to the Court of Session and the Committing Magistrate charged all three of them under S. 120-B, read with S. 302, Penal Code. He also charged the appellant under S. 302, Penal Code, and the other accused, under Ss. 302-34, Penal Code. When the three accused persons were brought before the Court of Session, the Public Prosecutor withdrew the charge under S. 302 and S. 302-34, with the consent of the Court and an order was recorded acquitting the accused on these charges. The charge on which the trial actually took place was under S. 120-B-302 and the trial proceeded with the aid of assessors. The prosecution case mainly rested on the evidence of the approver: Held, that the corroborative evidence was not of any value with respect to the charge actually framed and could not be used to justify a conviction on that charge. The offence as on facts found was one of pure and simple murder and the charge of conspiracy substituted after withdrawing the main charge was misconceived. The practical effect of this alteration in the charge was that the appellant was deprived of his right to be tried by a Jury. In view of the evidence upon the record and the nature and quality of the so-called corroborative evidence and of the character of the approver himself, the case was not a fit one for directing the retrial of the appellant before a Jury upon a substantive charge of murder. Benoy Bhusan Chatterjee v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 166 :

179 I. C. 156 : 11 R. C. 481 :

A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 857.

———Ss. 302, 120-B, 109, 115, 364—Sentence—Person charged under Ss. 302, 120-B—Conspiracy to murder.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A person charged with an offence under S. 302 read with S. 120-B, Penal Code, can be convicted either under S. 302, read with S. 109, if the conspiracy to murder is established, or under S. 302, read with S. 115, if such conspiracy is not established. In either case, he cannot be sentenced to 10 years' rigorous imprisonment, and such punishment is illegal. Alimjan Bibi v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 31 : 171 I. C. 944 : I. L. R. 1937, 1 Cal. 484 : 10 R. C. 323 : A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 578.

———Ss. 302, 147, 148—Conviction, illegality of charge to Jury—Misdirection.

The death of the deceased was due to the effect of all the injuries inflicted by several accused combined. The common object specified in the charges under Ss. 148 and 147 was not to kill the deceased but merely to assault him, yet all the accused were charged with the substantive offence of murder under S. 302. The Judge explained to the Jury the provisions of Ss. 300 and 299, I. P. C., and endeavoured to make them understand the exact difference between murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The Jury ultimately convicted all the accused under S. 302 : Held, that the conviction was illegal and the whole procedure amounted to misdirection and non-direction to the Jury inasmuch as no alternative charges for lesser offences under Ss. 304, 326 or 325 were framed nor were the principles of S. 34 or S. 149, explained to the Jury. Judagi Gope v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 738 : 189 I. C. 426 : 21 P. L. T. 349 : 6 B. R. 805 : 13 R. P. 121 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 417.

———Ss. 302, 149 — Constructive multiple murder—Charge—Separate heads of charge for each murder, necessity of.

Three persons killed three others respectively in an affray with a common object and as a part of the same series of transactions. They were all convicted under S. 302 read with S. 149, Penal Code, on one charge : Held, (1) that the proper procedure would have been to have had three separate heads of charge; (2) that it was unsafe to proceed upon the basis of S. 149, Penal Code, and unless the Appellate Court could go through all the facts and make a new finding for itself, the conviction could not be upheld. Azimuddy v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 99 :

99 I. C. 227 : 44 C. L. J. 253 : 54 Cal. 237 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 17.

———Ss. 302, 149—Sentence —Illegality.

Where the Sessions Judge convicted the accused under Ss. 302 and 149, Penal Code, and sentenced them to various terms of imprisonment : Held, that the sentences were not according to law as the lowest sentence for an offence under S. 302, Penal Code, is transportation for life. In re : Duraisami Tevan. 12 Cr. L. J. 145 :

9 I. C. 885 : 9 M. L. T. 510.

———Ss. 302, 149—Sentence of 10 years' imprisonment.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A sentence of ten years' rigorous imprisonment passed upon an accused person in respect of an offence under S. 302-149 is illegal. Bishu Nath v. Emperor.

153 I. C. 978 : 1935 O. W. N. 145 : 7 R. O. 423 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 190.

———Ss. 302, 149—Sentence.

Sentence for an offence under S. 302-149, Penal Code, must be not less than transportation for life. Kuar Koeri v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1007 : 170 I. C. 785 : 18 P. L. T. 416 : 10 R. P. 170 : 3 B. R. 794 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 497.

———Ss. 302, 149, 34 — Intention — One member of unlawful assembly committing offence under S. 302 during prosecution of its common object—Responsibility of every member.

Where one of the members of an unlawful assembly who is armed with a spear commits an offence under S. 302, I. P. C., when the unlawful assembly was prosecuting its common object which was unlawful, every member of the assembly is equally responsible under the terms of S. 149. It is immaterial whether any member individually intended to commit that offence or not. "Intention" is dealt with in S. 34, and can be considered in those cases only which are governed by it. Sohna v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 348 :

186 I. C. 603 : 41 P. L. R. 802 : 12 R. L. 420 : A. I. R. 1940 Lah. 53.

———Ss. 302, 149, 34, 141, 144—Murder committed during dacoity.

Where a gang of persons making preparations to commit dacoity was discovered and pursued by a body of villagers who succeeded in arresting two members of the gang, and just about this time one of the dacoits at large fired his gun and killed one of the pursuing party : Held, that inasmuch as the separation of the two accused from the gang was prior to the murder, neither S. 149 nor S. 34, Penal Code, applied, and the accused could not be held liable for a murder committed by a member of the gang to which they no longer belonged ; that the accused assembly of about 20 persons in a field at dead of night, many of these persons being armed with deadly weapons, was undoubtedly an unlawful assembly within the meaning of S. 141, Penal Code, and since both the accused were so armed, they were liable to punishment under S. 144. Emperor v. Hari Bijal. 16 Cr. L. J. 745 :

31 I. C. 345 : 17 Bom. L. R. 906 : A. I. R. 1915 Bom. 247.

———Ss. 302, 201—Charge of murder—Accused found guilty under S. 201 also—Proper avenue of approach in such cases stated—Question of offence under S. 201, when to be considered.

Where the accused is charged with murder but he is also found guilty of an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, the proper avenue of approach is, first and foremost to consider whether the case under S. 302, Penal Code, has been made out. If so, that is an end of the matter. If, on the other hand it is thought that the case under that section was not proved, then, and only then, would it be proper to consider whether an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, has been established. Mangal Singh v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 573 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

168 I. C. 432 : 1937 O. W. N. 540 :

9 R. P. C. 284 : 3 B. R. 501 :

41 C. W. N. 805 : 39 P. L. R. 426 :

1937 O. L. R. 297 : 1937 M. W. N. 633 (2) :

46 L. W. 33 : I. L. R. 1937 Lah. 371 :

1937 A. W. R. 1014 : 31 S. L. R. 300 :

39 Bom. L. R. 960 : 64 I. A. 134 :

1937, 2 M. L. J. 684 P. C. :

A. I. R. 1937 P. C. 179.

———Ss. 302, 201—Duty of prosecution—Statements by accused to Police, relied on by prosecution to convict them under S. 201, if can be used to prove case of murder.

If the prosecution wishes to rely on the statements made by the accused to the Police to convict them of an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, then they can only do so by showing by other evidence the falsity of these statements. These statements themselves can certainly not be used as substantive evidence in proof of the truth of the prosecution case of murder and conspiracy to murder, in whole or in part. They cannot be relied on as both true and false. Shewakram Issardas v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 661 :

182 I. C. 464 : 12 R. S. 8 :

A. I. R. 1939 Sind 130.

———Ss. 302, 201—Evidence.

Where the statement made by the accused is "I have murdered the woman and buried the dead body, etc." the words 'murdered the woman' are not admissible only because the rest of the sentence makes quite good sense and is sufficient to identify the body and to lead to its discovery. The words "murdered the woman" are not sufficient to identify the woman with one murdered, and this evidence is not sufficient for convicting the accused under S. 302. The accused, however, can be convicted under S. 201, Penal Code. In re : Koria A. Venkataswami.

39 Cr. L. J. 977 :

177 I. C. 909 : 1938 M. W. N. 866 :

48 L. W. 332 : 11 R. M. 394.

———Ss. 302, 201—First Information Report by one accused, admissibility of—Accused tried for murder or for offence under S. 201 in the alternative—Admissibility to convict accused either under S. 302 or S. 201.

In a trial for offence under S. 302 or 201, a first information by the accused which clearly deeply incriminates him in the crime though intended to exculpate and being in a nature of a confessional statement made to the Police, is inadmissible in evidence at the trial either to convict him of murder or of the lesser offence under S. 201, Penal Code. Moreover, while accused persons can undoubtedly in certain cases be tried for murder and convicted of causing evidence to disappear, there is evidence usually other than the mere statements of the accused to show that they do cause evidence to disappear, though in a trial for an offence under S. 201, Penal Code, the first information can be made the basis of a conviction, but in such a case, the accused is not tried for murder and his first information is not a confession. Shewakram Issardas v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 661 .

182 I. C. 464 : 12 R. S. 8 :

A. I. R. 1939 Sind 130.

———Ss. 302, 201, 72—Joinder of charges, legality of—Trial of accused under Ss. 302 and 201 in one trial, legality.

An accused may be tried at one trial both for murder under S. 302, I. P. C., and for causing the disappearance of evidence of it under S. 201, I. P. C. It is not necessary that only a person completely innocent of the murder can be convicted under S. 201. Nebti Mandal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 910 :

190 I. C. 457 : 19 Pat. 369 : 7 B. R. 59 :

13 R. P. 220 : 22 P. L. T. 98 :

A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 1089.

———Ss. 302, 201, 72—Punishment—Charge in the alternative under S. 302 and 201—Position may arise for punishment under S. 72.

Where the charge is framed in the alternative in respect of offence under Ss. 302 and 201, the position may arise as contemplated by S. 72, I. P. C. It may be open to the Court to give judgment that a person is guilty of one of several offences specified in the judgment, but it is doubtful of which of these offences he is guilty. Such a finding is in accordance with S. 367 (3), Cr. P. C., and will have the consequence that under S. 72, I. P. C., the offender is to be punished for the offence for which the lowest punishment is provided, the same punishment not being provided for all. Nebti Mandal v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 910 :

190 I. C. 457 : 19 Pat. 369 : 7 B. R. 59 :

13 R. P. 220 : 22 P. L. T. 98 :

A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 289.

———Ss. 302, 299, 325—Grievous hurt—Death caused by beating of sticks on body—Culpable homicide and grievous hurt—Intention and knowledge.

Where some accused intentionally beat a person with sticks on the arm and body and he died from peritonitis three days afterwards, hcd, that the Court was not justified in holding their intention and knowledge to be of the kind requisite for culpable homicide, but that the injuries had come under the category of grievous hurt. And where one of several accused who was present at an offence of beating had no motive, but the witnesses said he took part in it, he was acquitted on the ground that there might be a possibility that the witnesses were mistaken in thinking so. Emperor v. Bhagu Sava.

1 Cr. L. J. 903.

———Ss. 302, 300, Excep. 1—Murder—Provocation.

Provocation given by the sight of misconduct on the part of a mistress is in the eyes of law a very different thing from provocation given by the sight of misconduct on the part of a wife. The accused and the deceased were both carrying on an intrigue with a certain widow. On the night in question, the deceased visited her, and shortly afterwards the accused arrived. While he was still outside her room the deceased went out of the room. The two men had some words, and then started struggling with each other. In the end, the accused dealt the deceased two blows on the head with his lathi and the deceased expired while he was being carried to the hospital: Held, that every case must be decided on its own facts and in the present case, although the accused was doubtless provoked by finding his rival at his mistress's house: Held, however, that in view of the fact that he received a certain amount of provocation; and acted without premeditation, there was just sufficient reason to substitute for the sentence of death the sentence of transportation for life. Sheo Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 938 :
170 I. C. 341 : 10 R. O. 37 :
1937 O. L. R. 454 : 1937 O. W. N. 917 :
A. I. R. 1937 Oudh 457.

———Ss. 302, 330, Cls. 3 and 4—Intention, absence of—No injuries on vital parts—Intention to give a thrashing only was inferred.

Where so far as the external marks of violence afford an indication, assailants had desisted from striking on any vital part of the body, and the only serious injuries above the waist were those inflicted on the two cheeks. The medical witness, however, found the soft tissues of the head and the lining of the brain congested but he did not disclose the exact cause of this congestion: Held, having regard to the nature of the injuries and in view of the fact that the assailants scrupulously avoided the vital parts of the body, they did not intend either to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as they knew was likely to cause death. Nor does the case come within the purview of clauses "thirdly" and "fourthly" of S. 300. Ramza v. Emperor.

6 L. L. J. 533 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 319.

———Ss. 302, 300, 304—Benefit of doubt—Accused held entitled to benefit of doubt and that the case came under Exception 4 to S. 300 and that the accused was guilty under S. 304, first part.

The deceased had contracted an illicit intimacy with the wife of the accused. When the accused had remonstrated with the deceased, there had been an altercation and the deceased had given him a beating. He had told the accused to desist from the intrigue with his wife and had warned him not to come near his house. Nevertheless one evening the deceased had gone past the accused's house. On his return the accused saw the deceased and with the intention of remonstrating, he took a kulhari with him and the quarrel ensued resulting in death: Held, that the facts were clearly just consistent with the hypothesis that only object of the accused was to remonstrate with the deceased for his conduct in coming past his house again. It was true that the accused took a kulhari with him, but it was also equally true that the deceased used to go about armed with a dang and had on a previous occasion, beaten the accused. Therefore, he could quite well think that the result of his remonstrating might be that he would be attacked and therefore might have taken the kulhari to protect himself in the case of attack and not necessarily as a weapon of offence. The facts were equally consistent with that there was a deliberate intention to attack. The accused, therefore, was entitled to the benefit of doubt and the case came under Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code, and the offence fell under the first part of S. 304. Bakhsha Mohammad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 928 :
184 I. C. 325 : 41 P. L. R. 315 :
12 R. L. 209 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 426.

———Ss. 302, 304—Conviction for murder—Distinction—Intending to cause injury, accused striking deceased on head with heavy wooden bar knowing it would cause death—S. 302, Part II, if applies—Conviction under S. 302, propriety of.

The second part of S. 304, Penal Code, deals with cases where the act is done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. If a person intending to cause an injury to another person strikes him on the head with a heavy wooden bar with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death, it cannot be held that he did not intend to cause the injury that he knew he was likely to cause. There is no alternative but to convict the accused of murder punishable under S. 302, Penal Code. Aung Than v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 255 :
173 I. C. 92 : 10 R. Rang. 310 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 540.

———Ss. 302, 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder, distinction between.

If an act which an accused person is said to have committed falls within any of the explanations to S. 300, Penal Code, and does not fall within any of the Exceptions, the act is murder, but if it does fall under one or other of those explanations and also falls within any of the Exceptions enacted in S. 300, the act is one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Ram Lal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 1029 :
106 I. C. 213 : 1 Luck. Cas. 579 :
A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 15.

———Ss. 302, 304—Death by accident, if offence—Shooting party.

The accused went into the jungle with his companions to shoot pig. He took up his position and waited in the jungle while his companions proceeded to beat the pig towards him. A boar was driven in his direction and the accused fired. The ball, however, missed the boar and hit one of the beaters causing his immediate death: Held, that the death was the result of an accident and was not due to any such negligence on the part of the accused as would bring his act within the purview of S. 304-A of the Penal Code and the accused was not guilty of any offence. Basant Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 487 :
109 I. C. 215 : 9 L. L. J. 482 :
29 P. L. R. 45 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 880.

———Ss. 302, 304—Duty of Magistrate—Deceased attacked and killed—Magistrate's duty to ascertain nature of offence.

Where a person is attacked and killed, it must be decided whether the assailant is guilty of culpable homicide, and if so, whether the culpable homicide does or does not amount to murder. If it is found that the offence committed is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, it must further be made clear whether the offence falls under Part I or Part II of S. 304, Penal Code. Emperor v. Manga. 30 Cr. L. J. 573 :
116 I. C. 190 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 462 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 868.

———Ss. 302, 304—Intention—Death caused by violent kick—Offence.

Accused taxed his wife with consorting and flirting with other men and she replied "what does it matter", he, thereupon, struck her on the cheek and she fell down abusing him. The accused then gave a forcible kick on the prostrate body of the woman on her side which caused her immediate death: Held, though the accused could be exonerated, from the intention or knowledge requisite for an offence falling under S. 302, Penal Code, the circumstances fully justified the inference that in kicking the deceased, accused knew he was likely to cause death so as to render him guilty of an offence under the latter part of S. 304 of the Code. In re: Marimuthu.

24 Cr. L. J. 721 :
73 I. C. 961 : 18 L. W. 188 :
1923 M. W. N. 796 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 41.

———Ss. 302, 304—Intention — Murder—Four persons deliberately thrashing one unarmed man—Death caused by beating — Offence — Precedents, criminal, value of.

Where four persons set upon an unarmed man, knocked him down and gave him a most merciless thrashing with sticks breaking his bones and ribs and causing the fracture of his skull, which resulted in his death: Held, that the assailants must be considered to have committed these acts with the intention either of causing death or of causing such injuries as they knew to be likely to cause death and that, therefore, they were guilty of murder. Previous decisions in criminal cases, proceeding as they do on their own set of facts, seldom afford any very great assistance in deciding the nature of an offence. Samand Singh v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 157 :
49 I. C. 396 : 3 P. R. 1919 Cr. :
5 P. W. R. 1919 Cr. : A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 382.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 302, 304—Intention—Sudden fight—Death caused by striking with pocket knife—Conviction for murder, legality of.

Where an accused in a sudden fight struck a blow with a pocket clasp-knife at another who was grappling with him from behind and the latter died as a result of the blow: Held, that the accused can be convicted only under S. 304 and not under S. 302 inasmuch as he cannot be held to have had the intention necessary to constitute murder. Jagat Singh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 87 :
99 I. C. 119 : 8 L. L. J. 51 :
27 P. L. R. 6.

———Ss. 302, 304—Intention.

Where four persons attacked one man, who, in consequence of the attack, died subsequently: Held, that the assailants are guilty under S. 302, Penal Code, if the common intention of the assailants was to cause death or bodily injury likely to cause death or sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death; and under S. 304 if their common intention was to make a violent assault upon the deceased and they knew that they were likely to cause his death. Their intention must be gathered from what they said and what they did at the time of the attack. Musai v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 159 :
13 I. C. 847.

———Ss. 302, 304—Murder or culpable homicide.

Murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Distinction between pointed out. Nga Po Nyein v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 43 :
146 I. C. 315 : 6 R. Rang. 91 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 338.

———Ss. 302, 304—Murder or culpable homicide—Stabbing with intention of causing injury likely to cause death resulting in death—Offence.

Where the accused stabbed a person with the intention of causing such injury as was likely to cause death and death supervened: Held, that he should be convicted under S. 304, and not under S. 302, Penal Code, Maung Aung Tun v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 544 :
36 I. C. 592 : A. I. R. 1916 L. Bur. 32.

———Ss. 302, 304—Offence, nature of—Quarrel—Provocation—Striking in sudden anger with heavy weapon—Death.

As a result of a quarrel between two women, one of whom was the wife of the accused, the accused was provoked, and in sudden anger, struck the other woman a heavy blow on the head with a very thick lathi and fractured her skull and caused her death: Held, that the circumstances did not lead to the inference of an intention to kill or of knowledge that the act was so imminently dangerous as in all probability to cause death, and consequently the accused could not be convicted of murder but only under the second part of S. 304, Penal Code. Ram Jolaha v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 541 :
102 I. C. 349 : 8 P. L. T. 594 :
A. I. R. 1927 Pat. 406.

———Ss. 302, 304—Power of High Court—Cr. P. C., Ss. 423, 439—Murder—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Death caused by wound in abdomen—Appcal—Revision.

If a person stabs another with a dagger or a knife in the abdomen, with sufficient force to penetrate the abdominal walls and the internal viscera, he must be held to have intended to cause an injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Where a person convicted under S. 304, Penal Code, appeals to the High Court and the Court also takes action under S. 439, Cr. P. C., it has power to alter the conviction into one under S. 302, Penal Code, and to set aside the implied acquittal of the appellant under that section, because in such a case, the High Court is acting both under S. 423 and S. 439, Cr. P. C. On Shree v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 247 :
76 I. C. 711 : 1 Rang. 436 :
A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 93.

———S. 302, 304—Provocation, effect of.

Among persons of class of the accused, a slight beating of the wife, such as the deceased gave to his wife, is an ordinary event which would not be likely to rouse severe resentment, but no doubt the accused did resent seeing his aunt being beaten by the deceased, and in his drunken condition his passions were probably easily aroused and he resented this occurrence more than he would have done if he had been sober. There was provocation which ought to be taken into account in deciding whether sentence of death should be passed, and in assessing this provocation, the Court was entitled to take into account the drunken condition of the accused at the time and the effect of this drunkenness upon his sensibilities: Nga Po Nyun v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 902 :
164 I. C. 206 : 9 R. Rang. 66 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 325.

———Ss. 302, 304 — Sentence — Death by strangulation—Sentence.

The accused had been appointed a rakha to watch certain crops of gram. The deceased came to the field and began to steal the stuff. Thereupon the accused and the deceased quarrelled and proceeded to fight. The accused got the deceased down and strangled him to death with his hands: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence punishable under the 2nd part of S. 304, Penal Code, and that sentence of four years' rigorous imprisonment was quite sufficient to meet the ends of justice in the case. Sundar Singh v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 478 :
15 I. C. 318 : 6 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. :
68 P. L. R. 1912.

———Ss. 302, 304—Sentence—Murder—Abuse—Grave and sudden provocation.

Accused who was 19 years of age was abused by the deceased, and in anger, killed the deceased: Held, that the accused had received some provocation and though the provocation could not be said to be grave and sudden such as to reduce his offence from murder to that of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, yet in view of the provocation and the extreme youth of the accused, the extreme penalty of death was not called for in the case. Mangal Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 217 :
99 I. C. 1017 : 27 P. L. R. 15.

———Ss. 302, 304-A—Abetment — Administering poison as a love potion—Rash and negligent act.

Where arsenic oxide was deliberately administered to a man as a love potion by his wife with the connivance of her mother who had procured the stuff in some way and given it to her daughter: Held, that as to deal in this way as a love potion with almost deadly form of poison is to act both rashly and negligently in whatever walk of life the person so doing may be, an offence under S. 304-A, Penal Code, was clearly made out against the wife, and the mother was guilty of abetment. Emperor v. Ramaya Chennappa.

16 Cr. L. J. 305 :
28 I. C. 641 : 17 Bom. L. R. 217 :
A. I. R. 1915 Bom. 297.

———Ss. 302, 304-A — Intention to cause death, absence of — Death caused by love potion.

Where death is caused by the administration to a person of a substance which is believed by the accused to be a love potion, the accused cannot be convicted of murder, unless it is shown clearly and without possible doubt that the intention of the accused was to cause death. The proper conviction in such a case is one under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Phulmani Mundain v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 449 :
77 I. C. 801 : 1924 Pat. 13 :
A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 635.

———Ss. 302, 304, Part I—Duty of prosecution — Doubt as to whether accused committed murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Held, he should be convicted for lesser offence.

It is for the prosecution to prove their case of murder, and if upon a review of all the available evidence a doubt arises as to whether appellant committed murder or whether he committed culpable homicide by reason of exceeding the right of private self-defence, he is entitled to be found guilty of the lesser offence only. Nga Pyu Thin v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1095 :
171 I. C. 586 : 10 R. Rang. 164 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 343.

———Ss. 302, 304, 1st part—Intention.

Where a person when drunk struck another on the head with a billet of wood which dazed him, and immediately after struck a third person, in consequence of which blow that person died at once: Held, that the accused must be deemed to have intended to cause an injury to deceased which he knew would be likely to cause death; but it was not necessary in the circumstances to impute to him the intention of causing an injury which in the ordinary course of nature would cause death. Nga Po Lu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 524 :
12 I. C. 292 ; 4 Bur. L. T. 253.

—Ss. 302, 304-II—Knowledge—Murder, ingredients of—Infliction of injuries sufficient to cause death to accused's knowledge—Offence.

Where there is no finding that the accused intended to cause the death of the deceased or that he intended to cause such injuries as are likely to result in death or that he intended to cause such injuries as would, in the ordinary course of nature, cause death, but all that the Judge finds is that the injuries caused by the accused were such as he must have known were quite sufficient to, and probably would cause death, the offence committed is one under S. 304-II, Penal Code, and not under S. 302. Lehna Singh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 590 :
102 I. C. 558 ; 9 L. L. J. 365 :
28 P. L. R. 631 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 526.

—Ss. 302, 304, 323—Absence of evidence, effect of—Blow struck with heavy weapon—disappearance of person struck—Offence.

Accused struck his brother's widow with a heavy moosal, felled her to the ground, and then dragged her into the house, after which no trace of her could be discovered : Held, that in the absence of definite evidence that the woman had died and that her death was due to the blow which the accused dealt her, the accused could not be convicted of an offence either under S. 302 or under S. 304, Penal Code, and that at the most, he was guilty of an offence under S. 323, Penal Code. Bhola v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 275 :
92 I. C. 451.

—Ss. 302, 304, 323, 325—Intention, absence of—Death of child caused accidentally in scuffle—Offence.

A woman who was holding a child in her arms intervened unexpectedly in a scuffle between the accused and her husband on a dark night. The accused aimed a blow at the husband with his stick, but it accidentally struck the child and caused his death : Held, that the accused was guilty only of the offence of causing simple hurt, inasmuch as he could not have intended to cause or to have known that he was likely to cause either death, or grievous hurt. Chatur Natha v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 85 :
54 I. C. 485 : 21 Bom. L. R. 1101 :
A. I. R. 1920 Bom. 224.

—Ss. 302, 304, 325—Alteration of conviction to one under S. 325, if valid—Wife severely beaten by husband—Body thrown down dry well—Offence.

Accused, a full grown man, beat his child-wife, an invalid and weak girl, so recklessly with a lathi that he thought he had killed her; he then threw her down a dry well 88 feet deep, an act which, if she was not already dead, must inevitably have killed her. He was convicted under S. 304, Penal Code : Held, (1) that the accused was probably guilty of an offence under S. 302, Penal Code; (2) that in any case, there was no justification for substituting a conviction under S. 325, Penal Code, in place of one under S. 304. Emperor v. Khubi.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 703 :
81 I. C. 191 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 545.

—Ss. 302, 304, 325—Common intention—Assault by several persons—Single blow fracturing skull—No evidence as to who struck blow.

Four persons set upon another and beat him with lathis. The latter died as the result of a single blow on the head, which fractured his skull, but he had no other grievous hurt. There was no evidence as to which of the assailants had struck the fatal blow : Held, (1) that it was impossible to hold that the assailants had any common intention to cause death, nor could it be said that each of them knew that death was likely to be caused; (2) that the common intention of the assailants was to give the deceased a good thrashing, and they must have known that grievous hurt was likely to be caused; (3) that as it was not known which of the assailants had struck the fatal blow, they could only be convicted of causing grievous hurt. Datta Ram v. Daya Ram.

26 Cr. L. J. 381 :
84 I. C. 861 : 6 L. L. J. 317 :
1 Lah. Cas. 297 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 654.

—Ss. 302, 304, 325—Culpable homicide and grievous hurt—Murder.

Where an accused poked the deceased at the suggestion of another twice in the body with a heavy brass-shod stick by which his ribs were broken and he died subsequently : Held, that, had the accused, who were committed under S. 304, I. P. C., known, according to the Magistrate's belief, that they were likely to cause death by beating him, they would also have intended to cause such bodily injury as they knew to be likely, or was, in the ordinary course of nature sufficient to cause death, and should, therefore, have been charged with murder; that, as a general rule, all cases of culpable homicide were equally cases of murder unless the accused could show that his case came under one or other of the exceptions to S. 300, I. P. C.; that in this case S. 325 applied, and not S. 302 or 304, in that the accused must have known that the fracture of the deceased's ribs was a likely consequence of two blows with a heavy stick, and that as the blows were given at the suggestion of the other accused and in pursuance of their common object, he was also guilty. Emperor v. Kanji Miha.

1 Cr. L. J. 622.

—Ss. 302, 304, 325—Intention to cause death, absence of—Death caused by blows—Offence.

Where death results from blows struck in a scuffle, not as a direct result of such blows, but owing to disease having supervened, and it is found that when the blows were struck there was no intention of causing death nor an intention of causing such bodily injury as the assailant knew to be likely to cause death, a conviction should be recorded in the alternative under S. 304 or 325, Penal Code, a conviction under S. 302 would, in such a case, not be appropriate, as the case could not be brought within the definition of murder. Rama Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 783 :
58 I. C. 463 : 18 A. L. J. 224 :
42 All. 302 : 2 U. P. L. R. All. 407 :
A. I. R. 1920 All. 110.

—Ss. 302, 304, 325, 328 and 329—Administering dhatura—Nature of offences committed—Death of a person to whom dhatura is so administered—Offence not murder, but only causing grievous hurt.

Where, for the purpose of facilitating robbery, dhatura was administered by two persons to certain travellers, in consequence of which one of the travellers died and others were made seriously ill, it was held that in respect of the traveller who died, the offence committed was that punishable under S. 325, Penal Code, viz., grievous hurt, and in respect of the travellers who did not die, the offence committed was that defined by S. 328 of the Code. Emperor v. Bhagwan Din.

8 Cr. L. J. 383 :
28 A. W. N. 243 : 30 All. 568 :
4 M. L. T. 402.

—Ss. 302, 304, 326—Procedure—Trial by Jury—Charge to Jury—Defective charge—Consideration in deciding question of intention.

In a trial under Ss. 302, 304 and 326, Penal Code, the charge to the Jury is defective in law where it does not sufficiently ask the Jury to consider the intention of the accused. The considerations that should guide the Jury in arriving at it are the accused's frame of mind, the nature of the weapon used and also the number and nature of the wounds. For the ascertainment of intention, the eye-witness should be examined at length as to how the accused at the time of inflicting the injury exactly acted. Kya Nyun v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 154 :
33 I. C. 634 : 8 L. B. R. 125 :
A. I. R. 1914 L. Bur. 216.

—Ss. 302, 304, 326—Scope of.

The deceased was not killed outright but survived for eleven days. The Assistant Surgeon was, moreover, doubtful whether the deceased would have died if erysipelas had not supervened. Had it been the intention to kill deceased, Jalal would naturally have struck him with the sharp edge of his chhavi and the other men also would have inflicted more serious injuries than they did. There was nothing to prevent them from despatching him at once: Held, taking all the circumstances into consideration, it has not been shown that any of the appellants intended to kill deceased or to cause injury as they knew to be likely to cause his death. There is, however, no doubt that they all knew that grievous hurt was likely to result from an assault of so serious a nature, as dangerous weapons were employed. Allah Ditta v. Emperor. A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 441.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 302, 307—Benefit of doubt—Murder—Evidence—Prosecution, duty of, to prove their own story—Weakness of defence, effect of—Right of private defence.

The prosecution are bound to prove their own story independently and cannot rely upon the weakness of that put forward by the defence. The tenants of a sahukar zemindar went to his house in a body to make some sort of demonstration against him and perhaps to seize their cotton crop which the zemindar had taken possession of and stored in his house. Probably some of the tenants had weapons and the zemindar, apprehending that some hurt would be caused to him, fired off his gun in the direction of the crowd of villagers without any intention of killing any one or of doing more harm than was necessary for his own protection: Held, that what the sahukar did was done in the exercise of his right of private defence and that he was, therefore, entitled to the benefit of any doubt which existed. Lachhman Das v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 152 :
27 I. C. 216 : 14 P. W. R. 1915 :
131 P. L. R. 1915 :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 95.

—Ss. 302, 307—Duty of prosecution—Murder—Motive, importance of—Gap in prosecution evidence—Duty of Court—Conviction based on speculation, impropriety of.

In a case of murder it is not necessary that the prosecution should be able to produce the dead body, but it is essential that they should be able to prove to the satisfaction of the Court that the deceased was dead and that he was murdered by the accused. Though it is not essential to prove motive, it is obviously one of the elements to be considered in determining the guilt of a person charged with murder. Courts should not, in a case of murder, leap a gap in the prosecution evidence and arrive, by a process of speculation at a conclusion which there is no evidence to justify. Azam Ali v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 230 :
121 I. C. 248 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 710.

—Ss. 302, 307—Murder due to poisoning—Attempt to commit murder—Death caused by dhatura poisoning.

The accused on the 7th June 1909, administered dhatura poison to A and B, both of whom died from the effects thereof, and on the following day, administered the same poison to C and D, the former got ill and recovered but the latter died: Held, that the accused was guilty of the offence of murdering D, for when he administered dhatura poison he committed an act which even if not committed with the intention of causing death or causing bodily injury likely to the knowledge of the offender or in the ordinary course of nature sufficient to cause death, was so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death: Held, further, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 307, Penal Code, as regards the poison administered to C. Lala v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 125:

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

9 I. C. 731: 32 P. L. R. 1911:
23 P. L. R. 1911 Cr.

—Ss. 302, 307, 149—Benefit of doubt.

Held, on facts of the case, after discussing the prosecution evidence that there was sufficient amount of doubt in the case and the accused who were charged under Ss. 302 and 307 read with S. 149, Penal Code, were entitled to the benefit of doubt. Ahman v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 435:

180 I. C. 507: 40 P. L. R. 697:
11 R. L. 697: A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 787.

—Ss. 302, 325—Benefit of doubt.

Where, in the course of the hearing, one or more of the accused got carried away and struck blows on the head which proved fatal and it is impossible to make out from the record which of the accused was responsible for the head injuries, the accused should be given the benefit of doubt, and should be convicted under S. 325, Penal Code only. Dial Singh v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 547:

93 I. C. 1043: A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 419.

—Ss. 302, 325—Intention, absence of—Murder—Hanging up unconscious body believing it to be dead—Death due to hanging—Offence—Grievous hurt.

The accused assaulted his wife, who became unconscious and was thought to be dead. Then in order to create an appearance that she had committed suicide, he took up her unconscious body and hung it up by a rope, thinking it to be a dead body, but the medical evidence showed that most probably she had died of hanging: Held, that there could be no intention to kill the woman when he thought that she was already dead and that, therefore, the offence committed was not of murder under S. 302 but only an offence under S. 325, Penal Code. Emperor v. Dalu Sardar. 15 Cr. L. J. 709:

26 I. C. 157: 18 C. W. N. 1279:
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 221.

—Ss. 302 and 325—Murder and grievous hurt—When murder changed to grievous hurt—Cattle Trespass (Act I of 1871), S. 10—Driving cattle to pond though grazing on another's land not tantamount to grave and sudden provocation.

Where some shepherds of a village, who were grazing their goats in the limits of another village, and who had a fight with some villagers of that village while the villagers were trying to drive the goats to their village pond, killed one and grievously hurt two of the villagers with sticks, held that, the plea that under S. 10, Cattle Trespass Act, the villagers were only entitled to drive to the pond, cattle found on their own fields, was a highly technical one, which would, no doubt, have weight, were the question of the accused's liability to pay a pond fine being considered; but that the mere fact that another person instead of the real owner was driving off the cattle, unquestionably trespassing, was no excuse for striking him a violent blow on the head; that the accused could have followed them to the pond and there stated their case; and that, as the shepherds wilfully brought their goats and damaged the village crops, the villagers' action could not be fairly pleaded as grave and sudden provocation: Held also, that, as there was admittedly no intention to cause death, the accused causing the death was also guilty of grievous hurt. Emperor v. Haja Naran. 3 Cr. L. J. 181.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 302, 325—Murder or grievous hurt—Sudden quarrel—Blow on head with dang—Death of victim—Offence.

The accused who was chagrined because his melons were not purchased by the deceased, lost his self-control and picking up an iron-shod dang inflicted a blow on the uncovered head of the latter which resulted in a fatal injury: Held, having regard to the circumstances of the case, that the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 302, Penal Code, but only of grievous hurt under S. 325. Kaloo Murad v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 532:

123 I. C. 538: A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 863.

—Ss. 302, 325, 109, 147—Abetment—Intention of two accused only to give beating to deceased—Third accused committing murder—Offence.

Where the intention of the two accused was to give the deceased a beating with lathis, they abetted the offence under S. 325, Penal Code, read with S. 109 and not under S. 302 read with S. 149 and though the act of murder committed by the third accused was done with their aid, it could not be said that it was the probable consequence of the abetment on their part. Ram Damodar v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 38:

178 I. C. 348: 1938 O. W. N. 1103:
11 R. O. 106: 1938 O. L. R. 483:
A. I. R. 1939 Oudh 33.

—Ss. 302, 326—Acquittal—Right over property—Accused having right over land trespassed upon by complainants—Provocation by complainants—Held, accused were entitled to acquittal.

Where both sides were prepared for battle and both sides were equally responsible for fighting, but the party of the accused had a right to turn the complainants out of the land which had been in their possession for a long time, and the complainants were the provoking party, were in the wrong and were in force and armed and it needed force and arms to turn them out, and in the course of the exercise of their right, the accused unfortunately killed a person themselves receiving serious injuries: Held, that no criminal liability could be put upon the party of the accused at all, and in these matters, it was impossible to judge exactly the right amount of force to be used. Sardara v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 807 :
169 I. C. 826 : 38 P. L. R. 131 :
10 R. L. 41.

——— Ss. 302, 326—Common intention, insufficient proof as to—Common intention of accused merely to attack person with dahi with knowledge that grievous hurt would result—Accused can be convicted under S. 326 and not under S. 302.

Where the common intention of the two accused was to effect an attack on some one with dahi, and they had knowledge that the probable result of that attack at least would be to cause grievous hurt with a deadly weapon but there was no sufficient proof to show that there was a common intention of the two accused to cause death or injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death : Held, that the accused could be convicted only under S. 326 and not under S. 302. Nga Than v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 871 :
184 I. C. 78 : 12 R. Rang. 123 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 263.

——— Ss. 302, 326—Murder or grievous hurt—Accused not proved to have injuries which were sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death—Held, accused was guilty only of causing grievous hurt.

Where there was no evidence that the accused caused the injuries which were sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the accused cannot be held to be guilty of murder, but only of causing grievous hurt. Nga Sein v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1022 (b) :
164 I. C. 967 : 9 R. Rang. 151 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 444.

——— Ss. 302, 326—Murder or grievous hurt—Accused stabbing deceased with knife on forearm during altercation between them—Death resulting due to haemorrhage—Accused held guilty under S. 326 only and not under S. 302.

The deceased was stabbed with a knife on the left forearm by the accused in the course of an altercation between them. The radial artery was pierced and the deceased died of haemorrhage soon after. The accused was convicted of murder : Held, that the forearm is not a vital part and the offence was not murder. It was not also culpable homicide not amounting to murder, and the accused was only guilty of voluntarily causing grievous hurt with a deadly weapon as the hurt caused was grievous and he must have known that by stabbing as he did, he was likely to cause grievous hurt. He could, therefore, be convicted only under S. 326, Penal Code, and not under S. 302. In re : Kottengodan Alaxi.

40 Cr. L. J. 308 (a) :
179 I. C. 982 : 1938 M. W. N. 1274 :
1939, 1 M. L. J. 123 : 11 R. M. 638 :
A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 269.

——— Ss. 302, 326, 300, III. (c)—Murder, what amounts to—Victim's leg severed close below knee—Man dying from loss of blood—Offence committed.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

If a man's leg is severed close below the knee, the man must die from loss of blood in a very short time. It is not possible for a person who inflicts an injury like this to say that he did not intend to cut the arteries or to cause the man to bleed to death. An ordinary person is not presumed to know the precise location of the arteries in the human lives. If, therefore, a stab with a knife or dagger aimed at an arm or a leg, severs an artery and the injured man dies as a result, it may be quite reasonable to argue that the offence is not one of culpable homicide and that the assailant can only be presumed to have intended to cause hurt, or grievous hurt with a dangerous weapon. The case is quite different when a weapon like the sword is used in order to chop off or to hack at a limb. The person who uses the sword or aruval chopping at an arm or a leg, and by so doing severs the arteries of the arm or the leg, must know that he is inflicting an injury which, in the ordinary course of nature, is sufficient to cause death. The offence is clearly one of murder. The Public Prosecutor v. Ramaswami Nadar.

41 Cr. L. J. 900 :
190 I. C. 360 : 52 L. W. 224 :
1940 M. W. N. 479 :
1940, 2 M. L. J. 92 : 13 R. M. 401 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 745.

——— Ss. 302, 326, 328—Miscellaneous—Dhatura administered with intention to facilitate commission of robbery—Death caused by dhatura—Offence.

Where dhatura is administered to a person with fatal results with intent to facilitate the commission of robbery, no hard and fast rule can be laid down as to the section of the Penal Code, under which the person administering dhatura should be convicted, the circumstances of each particular case must be taken into consideration. Sadhu v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 510 :
51 I. C. 670 : 19 P. R. 1919 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 420.

——— Ss. 302, 359—Evidence as to murder, absence of, effect of—Kidnapping with intent to steal—Murder—Evidence of kidnapped boy having been with the accused and of theft—Discovery of remains of boy—Absence of direct proof of murder—Conviction for murder, illegal.

The following facts were proved against the accused who was charged with kidnapping and murder under Ss. 369 and 302, Penal Code: the complainant's son who was alleged to have been kidnapped by the accused was seen in the arms of the accused just before the murder of the boy, on the very day when he was so seen or shortly afterwards, the accused was seen disposing of the jewelry which the boy was wearing, remains of the boy were seen in a bush, but there was no direct evidence as to how he came by his death : Held, on these facts, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 369, Penal Code, but could not be convicted under S. 302, Penal Code. In re : Vuppalaru Virasawmy.

13 Cr. L. J. 249 :
14 I. C. 601.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 302, 369—Sentence—Murdered child found in well indicated by accused who disclaimed all knowledge—Fact of stripping child of her ornaments established—Youth of accused.

In a case of murder, the facts clearly established were that the accused was last seen with the child alleged to have been murdered, and that he stripped her of most of her ornaments and sold them and that her body was next found in a well, and the accused disclaimed all knowledge of the matter, though he himself indicated the well: Held, that the accused was guilty of a foul murder which, in spite of his youth, called for the extreme penalty. Wadhawa Singh v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 167 :
27 I. C. 551 : 16 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 237.

———Ss. 302, 379, 411—Circumstantial evidence, if ground for conviction.

In order to justify the inference of guilt, the inculpatory facts must be incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt. Circumstances of suspicion without more conclusive evidence are not sufficient to justify conviction even though the party offers no explanation of them. Muhammad Ali v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 996 :
112 I. C. 212 : 10 L. L. J. 525 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 61.

———Ss. 302, 392—Murder and robbery—Evidence—Recent possession of stolen goods—Presumption.

In a case in which murder and robbery form part of one transaction, the recent and unexplained possession of the stolen property by the accused is not only presumptive evidence against him on the charge of robbery but is also evidence against him on the charge of murder. Ramji v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 753 :
53 I. C. 481 : A. I. R. 1918 Nag. 67.

———Ss. 302, 392—Separate sentence—Conviction under Ss. 302 and 392—Separate sentences should be passed.

When a person is convicted of murder and also of robbing the ornaments of the murdered, and a conviction under S. 392 is recorded, separate sentences should be imposed on the accused. Jamunia v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1047 :
164 I. C. 964 : I. L. R. 1936 Nag. 78 :
9 R. N. 48 : A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 200.

———Ss. 302, 392, 397—Intention of murder, when presumed—Murder with robbery—Common intention—Possession of stolen property by one of the accused—Whether sufficient to attribute to him common intention respecting guilt of accused—Held on facts that the accused was guilty of robbery.

Where it is shown that only one person is present at the scene of the theft and it is clear that the crime has been committed, it may well be that the logical conclusion to be drawn from that is that the possessor of the stolen property is the person who committed the crime; but, in a case in which there are several persons involved and the question of common intention arises, great care must be taken not to assume that a person merely found in possession of stolen property should have attributed to him, for this reason alone, a common intention respecting the guilt of murder: Held, after considering the facts and the circumstances of the case, that the accused was guilty of robbery. Nga Thein Pe v. The King.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 44 :
184 I. C. 545 : 12 R. Rang. 155 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 361.

———Ss. 302, 460—Murder while committing burglary—Punishment.

S. 460, Penal Code, is intended to provide for the punishment of persons who are jointly concerned in committing house-trespass or house-breaking quite irrespective of whether they cause or attempt to cause death or grievous hurt. It was never intended that a person who commits murder whilst committing a burglary, should be punished merely for burglary and not for murder. Chatur v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 395 :
11 I. C. 579 : 8 A. L. J. 574.

———S. 303.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 325.

———S. 303.

S. 303 has no application to the case of persons, (other than the actual murderer) who are liable to enhanced punishment for the act of one of their associates under the special provisions of S. 396. Punjab Singh Ujagar Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 322 :
147 I. C. 2 : 35 P. L. R. 51 :
15 Lah. 84 : 6 R. L. 339 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 977.

———S. 303—Under transportation for life, meaning of—Remission of such sentence conditionally—After release, accused breaking conditions and committing murder—Sentence under S. 303.

A sentence of transportation for life means a sentence of transportation for the whole of the remaining period of the convicted person's natural life. Accordingly, if the sentence of transportation for life passed on a person is conditionally remitted by the Government under S. 403, Cr. P. C., and the prisoner is released, in spite of the fact that the prisoner is not actually in prison or in a penal settlement, he must be deemed to be still "under sentence of transportation for life." Consequently where such a person after his release on remission, breaks the conditions on which remission was granted and commits an offence of murder, his case falls under S. 303 and such person must be sentenced to death. Po Kun v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 490 :
181 I. C. 144 : 1939 Rang. 44 :
11 R. Rang. 454 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 124.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

- S. 304.
- Acquittal.
- Benefit of doubt.
- Burden of proof.
- Common intention.
- Culpable homicide.
- Death caused by severe beating with lathis
- Death, not natural consequence.
- Duty of Court.
- Grave and sudden provocation.
- Injury resulting in death.
- Intention.
- Knowledge.
- Miscellaneous.
- Offence under.
- Private defence.
- Provocation.
- Rash and negligent driving.
- Scope of.
- Sentence.
- Several accused.
- Sudden provocation.
- Sudden quarrel.
- Sudden quarrel and provocation.

—S. 304.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 230, 230, 307, 423

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 80, 90, 99, 100, 103, 143, 149, 201, 300, 300 Exception I, 300 Exception 4, 302, 323, 325, 352.

(iii) Criminal trial.

(iv) Railways Act, 1890, S. 101.

—S. 304—Acquittal—Opium found in stomach of deceased—Mention in first report of deceased taking opium—Proof of culpable homicide.

Where the accused were convicted under S. 304, Part 2, Penal Code, for causing the death of the deceased by violence, and the medical evidence showed that the cause of death was either concussion of brain due to head injuries or possibly opium poisoning, and the body bore no signs of injuries except four slight superficial lacerations but no fracture of any bone, while on the other hand opium was found in the stomach and the first report did make mention of the fact that the deceased had admitted having taken opium: Held, that the prosecution had failed to prove that the death was caused by any act of the accused and that they were, therefore, entitled to an acquittal. Jahangir v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 147 :

33 I. C. 627 : 16 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 287.

—S. 304—Benefit of doubt—First report—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Grave discrepancies between first report and subsequent evidence.

Grave discrepancies between the statement of the deceased contained in the first report and the evidence of his witnesses as to the persons attacking him and giving him fatal injuries, throw a great doubt on the whole case, the benefit of which must be given to the accused. Rajwali v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

15 Cr. L. J. 530 :

24 I. C. 842 : 172 P. L. R. 1914 :

23 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 179.

—S. 304—Burden of proof—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Snake-bite—Intention.

Accused, who professed to be able by tattooing to render persons tattooed by him immune from the effect of snake-bite, tattooed a number of villagers and then allowed a poisonous snake, which he was himself handling, to bite one of them. The man who was bitten died at once: Held, that the burden of proving that the accused was justified in believing, and did really believe, that his tattooing gave immunity was on him and that having failed to discharge the burden, he was guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Nga Ba Tu v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 59 :

64 I. C. 843 : 11 L. B. R. 56 :

A. I. R. 1921 L. Bur. 26.

—S. 304—Common intention—Intention to cause injury likely to cause death.

If two or more persons are found to have had a common intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death and bodily injury is caused resulting in death, all of them are guilty of the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. It is immaterial which of those persons caused the particular injury which directly led to the death of the injured man. Kedar v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 76 :

84 I. C. 636 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 284.

—S. 304—Common intention—Sudden fight—Injuries resulting in death—Presumption.

Three persons armed with axes suddenly attacked a fourth, and in the course of the fight, injuries were inflicted on the head and shoulder of the latter which resulted in the death: Held, that although the fight was sudden, yet the nature of the weapons used, and the manner in which they were used, showed that the accused were moved by a common intention, and that, though that intention may not have been to cause death, they must be deemed to have known that they were likely to cause death. Mahomed Hassan v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 228 :

76 I. C. 692 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 336.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide amounting to murder—Culpable homicide—Murder causing injury likely to cause death—Intention and wish distinguished.

A person who inflicts injury on the person of another, which ends fatally and which the former should have known was likely to cause death, is guilty of culpable homicide amounting to murder though he had no wish to cause death or any motive to do so. The law will presume that the person inflicting the injury intended to cause death and it lies on the offender to show that such was not his intention. Batcha Sahib v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 115 :
18 I. C. 675 : 1913 M. W. N. 556.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Accused hitting deceased with lathi—Fracture of skull—Death—Offence—Use of lathis—Result.

Where the accused hit the deceased with a lathi first on the arm when he attempted to ward a blow off his head and then when his arm was disabled, gave him two blows on the head on which the deceased's skull was fractured and he died as a result of the injuries: Held, that there was no reason for supposing that the accused intended to cause death or to cause such injuries as would be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death or to do an act so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death and that the offence was one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The use of lathis is certainly dangerous but it is not so dangerous that one would suppose that anybody would in the ordinary course think that death is a probable cause of the use of a lathi. Lathis are frequently used and result in nothing more than injuries which are simple hurts or at the most, grievous hurts. Perana v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1020 :
164 I. C. 662 : 1936 A. L. J. 333 :
9 R. A. 197.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Grave and sudden provocation—Accused seeing wife in compromising position with another and immediately killing her—Offence.

If a person sees his wife in the arms of another and in the anger of the moment kills either his wife or her paramour, he is not guilty of murder. The provocation would be both grave and sudden and would, reduce the crime to culpable homicide not amounting to murder under S. 304, I. P. C. But a man who thinks over what he has seen for some hours might still act under grave provocation, but such could not be described as sudden. [Conviction under S. 324 was set aside and the accused was convicted under S. 304 and sentenced to five years' rigorous imprisonment.] Emperor v. Jate Uran.

41 Cr. L. J. 472 :
187 I. C. 586 : 6 B. R. 503 :
12 R. P. 641 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 541.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Grave and sudden provocation—Offence—Sentence.

Accused, a Bania, discovered his daughter-in-law in his house with a Mohammedan faqir. In a frenzy of rage he seized an axe and hacked the girl to death; he was convicted of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code, the Sessions Judge and Assessors being of opinion that accused's act was the result of grave and sudden provocation sufficient to provoke a person in his position of life; the High Court, in revision, called on the accused to show why he should not be convicted under

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 302 of the Code: Held, that the provocation received by the accused was sufficient to remove his act from the category of murder, but that he was liable to a term of imprisonment sufficiently severe to create a deterrent from the repetition of such cases. The High Court enhanced the sentence to one of rigorous imprisonment for five years. Emperor v. Hira Lal.

22 Cr. L. J. 341 :
61 I. C. 165 : 3 U. P. L. R. All. 41.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Husband finding wife and paramour together—Escape of paramour—Wife preventing husband from following him—Husband striking wife and causing death—Offence, nature of.

The accused, on returning to his house late one night, found his wife sleeping with another man in the same cot. When the accused tried to seize the paramour the latter struck with a knife and escaped after dropping the knife. The accused took up the knife and tried to follow the paramour but his wife caught hold of him and prevented him from doing so and the accused struck his wife and the latter died: Held, that the accused acted on grave and sudden provocation and was not guilty of murder but only of culpable homicide not amounting to murder under S. 304, Part I, Penal Code. Narainjan Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 735 :
124 I. C. 683 : 11 L. L. J. 485 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 172.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Murder—Provocation, nature of, deciding factor.

In determining whether an act amounts to murder or to culpable homicide not amounting to murder, the deciding factor is the nature of the provocation received which resulted in the act. If the provocation was both grave and sudden, the act would fall within the category of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, but where the element of suddenness is wanting, as where the doer of the act had time to think and to arm himself with a lethal weapon, the act, although the provocation was grave, would amount to murder. Gosain v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 607 :
57 I. C. 175 : 18 A. L. J. 851 :
2 U. P. L. R. All. 281 :
A. I. R. 1920 All. 199.

—S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Murder—Wife throwing dirty water in husband's face—Grave and sudden provocation.

A husband and wife were not on good terms, and on one occasion, when the husband asked for pan, the wife threw dirty rice-water in his face. The husband being enraged took up a stone and struck her on the head and the wife died: Held, that the act of the wife was a grave and sudden provocation and the husband was guilty only of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Krishna Chandra Pati v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 720 :
117 I. C. 164 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 372 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 201.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Sudden quarrel without premeditation—Death by single blow.

A and B were fighting and C, a friend of A, came up. B, believing that C was coming to support A, gave him a blow with a kasi (instrument used for scraping grass) which happened to be in his hand, and C died of the injuries sustained from this blow: Held, that, under the circumstances, the offence committed by B was punishable only under S. 304, and not under S. 302, Penal Code. Bikram Singh v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 410 : 115 I. C. 144 : 1929 A. L. J. 508 : I. R. 1929 All. 368 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 535.

———S. 304—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

Where the accused suddenly struck a blow on the head of another, with a stick weighing 62½ tolas and measuring 28 inches in length and the skull of the victim was fractured though his brain was not injured and he died after a few days on account of septic meningitis: Held, that the accused was not guilty of murder, but was guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Baba Naya v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 487 : 109 I. C. 215 : 5 Rang. 817 : A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 64.

———S. 304—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Death after fight—No evidence to connect death with injuries received—Offence, whether culpable homicide.

In a free fight, one of the persons engaged in the fight was severely beaten and died two days after the beating. The medical evidence showed that death was caused by peritonitis resulting from a rupture in the ilium but there was nothing to connect the rupture with any one of the injuries of which marks were found on the body of the deceased: Held, that on the evidence the accused were not guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder but only of grievous hurt. Iqbal Husain v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 835 : 125 I. C. 395 : 7 O. W. N. 449 : A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 252.

———S. 304—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Death not natural consequence.

Deceased taking cattle of accused to impound them asked by accused to release them, and on refusal, belaboured with lathis—Deceased dying after few days—No injury on vital parts—Accused found to be suffering from enlarged heart—Accused held guilty under S. 325 and not under S. 304. Bharat Singh v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 99 : 140 I. C. 706 : 9 O. W. N. 655 : I. R. 1933 Oudh 20 : A. I. R. 1932 Oudh 279.

———S. 304—Culpable homicide or murder.

If the accused under sudden provocation caused an injury that endangered life and the deceased died as the result of that injury, the offence committed is certainly culpable homicide. In very few cases of murder can it be said that the injury caused necessarily resulted in death, but if it is caused with the necessary intention or knowledge and death results from the injury caused, then the offence committed is murder or culpable homicide as the case may be. Public Prosecutor v. Panchaksharam. 39 Cr. L. J. 871 : 177 I. C. 432 : 1938 M. W. N. 605 : 48 L. W. 142 : 11 R. M. 323 : 1938, 2 M. L. J. 225 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 723.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304—Death caused by severe beating with lathis—Conviction under S. 304 (1), legality of.

A conviction can be recorded under S. 304 (1) Penal Code, only where one of the exceptions to S. 300 of the Code has been proved. Where death was caused by extensive beating with lathis but the injuries inflicted upon the deceased were all simple except one which fractured a finger bone, death being due to shock: Held, that it would not be safe to hold that the assailants of the deceased intended to cause death or such bodily injury as was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Bakhshish Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 890 : 86 I. C. 826 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 549.

———S. 304—Death not natural consequence.

Accused hitting one blow on deceased—No enmity—Quarrel over grazing cattle—Death after three weeks due to bad handling of wound—Deceased himself not considering wound grave: Held, conviction under S. 304, bad. Sobha v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1262 : 157 I. C. 667 : 1935 O. L. R. 504 : 1935 O. W. N. 940 : 8 R. O. 43 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 446.

———S. 304—Duty of Court—Murder—Grave and sudden provocation—Criteria—Paramour of wife boasting publicly of intention of taking her to live with him—Whether amounts to grave and sudden provocation.

On the question of grave and sudden provocation, the Court has to determine what amounts in any particular case to grave and sudden provocation, and although the circumstances have to be viewed carefully so as not to extend provocation beyond the limits which the safety of the public requires, at the same time grave and sudden provocation can be created by words. No words are more grave than a public taunting by a man whom one has suspected before of being the paramour of one's wife and boasts of the fact and expresses his intention to take her to live with him in the house of her sister to whom he is already married. Nga Mya Maung v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 144 (a) : 166 I. C. 192 : 9 R. Rang. 242 : A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 472.

———S. 304—Grave and sudden provocation.

Accused on meeting wife in love-making with paramour, killing the paramour—Held, there was grave and sudden provocation. Abdul Hamid v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 804 : 144 I. C. 160 : I. R. 1933 Pesh. 34 : A. I. R. 1933 Pesh. 38.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304—Injury resulting in death—Offence—Test of liability—Intention and knowledge of consequences, not mere result of act—Verdict—Interference.

Where a man inflicts injuries on another which result in the death of the latter, the nature of the offence committed by the former cannot be determined by any amount of reasoning from the mere fact that the injuries did in fact result in death. What one has to see is, first, what degree of injury did the man intend and, secondly, what did he know as to the consequences of such injury. A husband got into an extreme stage of rage against his wife on a trivial matter and beat her with a lathi and hit her with a water pot. Many injuries were caused to the wife and she died. The husband was tried and the Jury found him guilty only under the second clause of S. 304, Penal Code: Held, that the Jury were quite entitled to find that the accused did not know that the amount of injury which he would do when he struck the woman on the head by a water pot would be such as would be likely to cause death nor did he intend such an injury as, in the ordinary course of nature would cause death, and the verdict of the Jury could not be set aside as unreasonable. Emperor v. Damullaya Molla. 32 Cr. L. J. 187 : 128 I. C. 808 : 34 C. W. N. 1127 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 104 : A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 261.

———S. 304—Intention.

Accused giving only one blow on non-vital part of body—Intention to kill cannot be presumed—Conviction should be under S. 304, first part. Nga Tin Maung v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 473 : 161 I. C. 515 : 8 R. Rang. 482 : A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 112.

———S. 304—Intention.

Accused having no intention to murder—Offence held to fall under S. 304-II. Walia v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 445 : 137 I. C. 239 : 33 P. L. R. 474 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 305 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 372.

———S. 304—Knowledge.

Knowledge is essentially subjective, not objective, and if a man really believes that a certain result will not follow, he cannot be held to know that it is likely to follow. Nga Ba Tu v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 59 : 64 I. C. 843 : 11 L. B. R. 56 : A. I. R. 1921 L. Bur. 26.

———S. 304—Knowledge.

Where three persons attack a fourth with lathis, the blows being directed at the head of that fourth, they must be fixed with the knowledge that they were likely to cause death. Harnama v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 276 : 60 I. C. 676 : 3 U. P. L. R. Lah. 34.

———S. 304—Miscellaneous—Three injuries on head—Probable assailants.

When a man receives three injuries on the head, it is most improbable that he was attacked by more than two persons. The tradition of this country that there would be one accused person for every injury is unsound. Mohan v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 634 : 163 I. C. 58 : 1 Luck. Cas. 197 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 555.

———S. 304—Miscellaneous.

When injuries are inflicted with the intention of causing hurt, Cl. (2), S. 304, has no application at all. Nga Ni U. v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 186 : 159 I. C. 925 : 8 R. Rang. 293 : A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 391.

———S. 304—Offence under.

Affray—Death—Absence of evidence to show that persons armed with sharp-edged weapons intended to cause death—Offence committed falls under S. 304-II. Nadar Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1376 : 151 I. C. 449 : 7 R. L. 135 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 341.

———S. 304—Offence under — Fatal blow struck in course of fight—Uncertainty as to who struck the blow—Offence.

Where two parties armed with athis indulge in a fight, and one of the contesting parties receives injuries from the effects of which he dies, but it is uncertain which of the several persons composing the opposite side struck the fatal blow, these persons are guilty of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code. Emperor v. Jhamman.

21 Cr. L. J. 862 : 58 I. C. 912 : A. I. R. 1920 All. 276.

———S. 304—Offence under second part of—Beating woman to death believing her to be possessed by an evil spirit—Offence.

Accused, believing the deceased to be possessed by an evil spirit, beat her to death in the hope of curing her. The deceased protested that she was not possessed and did not consent to be beaten: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under the second part of S. 304, Penal Code. Nga Po Tha v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 375 : 44 I. C. 679 : 3 U. B. R. (1917) 54 : A. I. R. 1918 U. Bur. 24.

———S. 304—Offence under.

S. 304 must be interpreted as providing punishment for the offence of culpable homicide in all cases where the accused cannot be convicted of murder. Mohammad Gul Rohilla v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 849 : 140 I. C. 49 : 28 N. L. R. 233 : I. R. 1932 Nag. 118 : A. I. R. 1932 Nag. 121.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 304—Offence under.

Seven persons making a deliberate attack on one man and causing his death—Intention of causing such bodily injuries as were likely to cause death or knowledge that they were likely by such acts to cause his death, clear—Conviction under S. 325 should be set aside and accused convicted under S. 304. Emperor v. Sat Narain.

36 Cr. L. J. 573 :
154 I. C. 808 : 1935 O. W. N. 343 :
7 R. O. 500 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 381.

—S. 304—Offence under.

Sudden fight—Unpremeditated assault without intention to cause death—Offence falls under S. 304, Part II and not S. 302. Parmer-shri Das v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1319 :
151 I. C. 469 : 7 R. L. 141 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 332.

—S. 304—Offence under.

The mere fact that there is no specific evidence that the accused had come prepared to cause death, is no ground for not convicting him under S. 304. Mahadeo Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1302 :
151 I. C. 364 : 3 A. W. R. 835 :
7 R. A. 154 : A. I. R. 1934 All. 739.

—S. 304—Offence under, what amounts to—Drunken and armed parties - Fatal blow by accused in sudden quarrel—Accused himself injured—Offence, nature of.

Where both the prosecution and the accused parties were drunk and armed with knives, and in the course of a sudden quarrel, in the heat of passion engendered by the quarrel, one of the accused inflicted a blow on one of the prosecution party which ultimately proved fatal, and it appeared that the accused who inflicted the fatal blow had himself received injuries and could not be said to have taken undue advantage of the accused : Held, that the more appropriate section under which the said accused should be convicted was S. 304, Penal Code, and not S. 302. In re : Sennimalai Goundan.

27 Cr. L. J. 1192 :
97 I. C. 952.

—S. 304—Offence under—When constituted—Rape on young girl—Death due to shock—Death, whether natural consequence of rape.

The accused, a youth of 18, committed rape on a girl whose body was well-developed but who was probably under 12 years of age. The girl suffered an extensive rupture of the vagina but there was no other sign of any violence of any kind. The girl died soon after, and according to the medical evidence, death was due to shock caused by rupture of her vagina : Held, that under the circumstances, the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code. Shambhu Khatri v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 91 :
83 I. C. 651 : 3 Pat. 410 :
A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 553.

—S. 304—Private defence.

Accused himself being the aggressor—Beating ending in death of one of the assailants

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Accused is not entitled to right of private defence. Jokhu Ram v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 801 :
148 I. C. 804 : 11 O. W. N. 425 :
6 R. O. 445 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 207.

—S. 304—Private defence.

Attachment of crops—Resistance—Injury to zamindar—Attack by zamindar's party on assailant : Held, that zamindar's party acted in the right of private defence but was guilty as they had exceeded that right. It is desirable to punish the person responsible for initiation of violence heavily. Chhotay v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 470 :
130 I. C. 5 : I. R. 1931 All. 229 :
A. I. R. 1930 All. 596.

—S. 304—Private defence.

Both accused and deceased armed at the beginning of dual—Deceased throwing accused down but becoming disarmed—Accused striking deceased with knife—Death from shock—Right of private defence, held exceeded. Wazir Muhammad v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 639 :
148 I. C. 243 (2) : 6 R. L. 535 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 1048.

—S. 304—Provocation.

Accused's sister who had left husband living under care of accused—Sister falling under evil and immoral habits—Sister leaving for clandestine purpose—Accused questioning her on arrival—Insolent reply—Accused striking by hatehet—Death : Held, there was grave and sudden provocation—Case fell within view of S. 304, Part I. Inayat v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 74 :
146 I. C. 357 : 34 P. L. R. 935 :
6 R. L. 215 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 869 (2).

—S. 304—Provocation and effect.

Where a man sees a woman in the arms of another, and loses control over himself, the circumstance that she was his mistress and not his wife does not make any real difference for the purpose of S. 304. Kata Patharaju v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 273 :
136 I. C. 314 (1) : 1931 M. W. N. 1137 :
35 L. W. 141 : I. R. 1932 Mad. 232 (1) :
A. I. R. 1932 Mad. 25 (1).

—S. 304—Rash and negligent driving, what is not—Boy striking against back wheel of lorry—Lorry stopped within short distance—Boy found crushed—Driver held not guilty of rash and negligent act.

A boy of 6 years struck against the back wheel of a lorry which was loaded with fruit and which was being driven by the petitioner. The boy was caught in the wheel and was dragged along. The petitioner stopped the lorry at a distance of 21 feet. The boy was found crushed and died on the spot : Held, that no rash and negligent act could be ascribed to the petitioner. It was not the case of the lorry striking against the boy but was the case of the boy striking against the lorry.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Seva Singh Rattan Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 854 :
184 I. C. 157 : 12 R. Pesh. 25 :
A. I. R. 1939 Pesh. 33.

———S. 304—Scope of.

(i) The difference between the two parts of S. 304, Penal Code, is that under the first part the crime of murder is first established and the accused is then given the benefit of one of the Exceptions in S. 300, while under the second part, the crime of murder is never established at all. (ii). The general principle of law is that the accused may benefit by the prosecution evidence, and there may be cases in which the recognition of the Exceptions in S. 300, Penal Code, may precede the attempt to prove other facts. Mir Alam v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 726 :
69 I. C. 454.

———S. 304—Scope of—Reformatory Schools Act (VIII of 1897)—Offender under S. 304, Penal Code, whether can be dealt with under that Act.

As laid down in Punjab Government Notification No. 37 of 20th January 1906, a convict under S. 304, Penal Code, is not liable to be dealt with under the Reformatory Schools Act. Emperor v. Nur Mohammad.

19 Cr. L. J. 917 (a) :
47 I. C. 433 : 17 P. R. 1918 Cr. :
25 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. : 91 P. L. R. 1918 :
A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 27.

———S. 304—Sentence—Blow struck without premeditation—Sentence of 7 years is excessive.

In a scuffle, deceased received one injury on the chin and two on the head, one of which resulted in an extensive fracture of the skull. All that can be said to be proved was that G inflicted one of the injuries on deceased's head and that M inflicted the one on the jaw : Held, G had been rightly convicted of an offence under S. 304, but as he is not shown to have struck more than one blow and as it was struck without any premeditation on a sudden quarrel, the sentence of seven years' imprisonment which has been passed on him is excessive. Gandu v. Emperor.

5 L. L. J. 414 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 170.

———S. 304—Sentence—Deceased and not accused the aggressor—Severe sentence, properly of.

A severe sentence should not be passed where the aggressor was the deceased and not the accused. Fajjoo v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 24 :
99 I. C. 56 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 733 (a).

———S. 304—Sentence—Deterrent—Negligent driving—Loss of human life—Consideration in passing sentence.

Driving motor cars has become an essential part of human activities, and it is impossible to avoid a certain number of accidents. It is no part of the duty of Courts to punish with savage sentences every motorist who has the misfortune to have an accident, which results in a loss of life, even though the accident be due to an error of judgment on the part of the driver. The circumstances of each case must be considered in imposing the sentence. Emperor v. Khan Mahomed Shermahomed.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 660 :
168 I. C. 870 : 38 Bom. L. R. 1111 :
9 R. B. 411 : A. I. R. 1937 Bom. 96.

———S. 304—Sentence—Murder—Single blow—Sudden quarrel.

In a quarrel between the accused's wife and his brother's wife, the latter abused the accused's daughters, whereupon the accused hit her a single violent blow with a stick which he picked up there and then. The woman died of her injury the following day. There was no feeling of enmity between the accused and the deceased : Held, that the quarrel being unpremeditated and the blow having been struck in the heat of passion, a severe sentence was not called for, and that a sentence of three years' rigorous imprisonment would meet the ends of justice. Karam Ilahi v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 33 :
106 I. C. 449.

———S. 304—Sentence—Sentence under first or second part of S. 304, when to be passed.

Whether culpable homicide not amounting to murder is punishable under Part 1 or whether under Part 2 of S. 304 depends entirely upon whether the act by which the death was caused was done with one of the two intentions, or whether it was done with the knowledge, mentioned in S. 299. Hence unless that is first ascertained, it is not possible to pass a sentence under the second part of S. 304 rather than under the first. Nga Chil Tin v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 725 :
183 I. C. 145 : 12 R. Rang. 45 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 225.

———S. 304—Sentence.

Sister caught in the act of sexual intercourse with a stranger—Accused giving her blows and causing death—Sentence of five years is too severe. Allah Ditta v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1445 (1) :
151 I. C. 898 : 7 R. L. 224 (1) :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 428 (2).

———S. 304—Sentence—Two parties fighting—Appellants receiving injuries—Prosecution not telling the whole story—Too severe sentence not justified.

When it was found that two opposite parties were fighting out their differences and there were no independent witnesses, and one party was held by the lower Court to be exercising the right of self-defence : Held, that it should be taken into consideration that the accused who formed the other party have themselves received more or less serious injuries, that one of their party has been killed, that the complete story has not been told by the prosecution and that, therefore, there is a possibility (which nevertheless amounts to nothing more) that they may have been acting in self-defence, and therefore too severe sentence is not justified. Mehr Ali and Khan Mohammad v. Emperor. A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 313.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304—Several accused.

Accused acting without premeditation and on grave and sudden provocation—Accused beating complainant's party—Actual person causing fatal injury not known—All are liable for an offence under S. 304. Bhagwan Das v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 773 : 155 I. C. 560 : 1935 A. W. N. 210 : 1935 A. L. J. 385 : 7 R. A. 944 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 717.

———S. 304—Several accused.

Accused giving several blows knowing result of their action : Held, were guilty under S. 304. Conviction for grievous hurt is not sufficient. Mana Gendal v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 289 : 129 I. C. 351 : 32 Bom. L. R. 1143 : I. R. 1931 Bom. 159 : A. I. R. 1930 Bom. 483.

———S. 304—Several accused.

Joint assault but fatal injury inflicted by one—Common intention to kill—All are guilty of murder. In the matter of : Lakhan Sawra. (F. B.) 33 Cr. L. J. 663 : 139 I. C. 81 : I. R. 1932 Cal. 570 : A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 815.

———S. 304—Several accused.

Where four persons strike the accused together and it is not known whose lathi caused the fatal injury, still all of them can be held guilty under S. 304. Mahadeo Singh v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1302 : 151 I. C. 364 : 3 A. W. R. 835 : 7 R. A. 154 : A. I. R. 1934 All. 739.

———S. 304—Sudden provocation—Offence is one under S. 304.

On the night of the crime in question, the accused, together with Mr. Vir Bhan, his first cousin, Mst. Tulsi Bai, the wife of Vir Bhan, Lachman Das, son of Vir Bhan and the murdered man, were sleeping together on separate charpoys in a court-yard. The accused woke up in the course of the night to see Mst. Tulsi Bai and Jassu Ram lying together on the same charpoy. He thereupon reproached Jassu Ram for his conduct who retorted with an indecent gesture. The accused enraged struck Jassu Ram a blow on the neck with a hatchet which was lying near at hand and killed him. Mst. Tulsi Bai suggested to the accused to put the blame on some unknown person. The accused, however, instead of falling in with this suggestion decided to admit the crime, and he made his statement before the Committing Magistrate within two days of the murder and before he was legally represented : Held, that the theory of premeditation cannot be accepted : Held, further, that the murder was the result of sudden and grave provocation. Chandan alias Chandu Ram v. Emperor.

A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 312.

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel.

Altercation in relation to tree to which accused had right—Blow in the course of sudden quarrel and in the heat of moment though in excess of right of private defence—Sentence, reduced. Ziada v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 461 : 147 I. C. 681 : 35 P. L. R. 195 : 6 R. L. 428 (2) : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 1052,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel.

Assailants running with winnowing instruments they had in their hands and taking part in fight Death of a person during fight—Offence is culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Abbas Khan v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 535 : 142 I. C. 125 : 32 P. L. R. 513 : I. R. 1933 Lah. 310 (2) : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 3.

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Accused, Jail Superintendent, on being attacked with a shoe by a prisoner thrusting wooden substance in his rectum resulting in prisoner's death—Accused, held guilty under S. 304-II and not S. 325—Sentence of one year's rigorous, held not inadequate. Bhola Nath v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 365 : 136 I. C. 729 (2) : 33 P. L. R. 49 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 265 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 199.

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Accused killing wife in the heat of passion after his patience had been strained to the utmost by her immoral conduct—Sentence of 10 years reduced to 5 years. Hira Singh v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1159 (1) : 145 I. C. 926 : 34 P. L. R. 889 : 6 R. L. 147 (2) : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 126 (2).

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Accused seeing deceased having sexual intercourse with accused's wife, killing deceased—Accused having acted under grave and sudden provocation, sentence of transportation for life should be reduced. Muhammad Zaman v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1161 (2) :

145 I. C. 1009 : 34 P. L. R. 899 : 6 R. L. 155 (1) : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 165.

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Accused strangling deceased by his turban for having hit his dog—No enmity found—Attack found to be sudden and unpremeditated—Accused held guilty under S. 304, Part II and not under S. 302. Nanak v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 1205 : 134 I. C. 583 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 967 : A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 189.

———S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Sudden altercation, crime unpremeditated—Skewer for breaking ice picked up and plunged into stomach of victim in the heat of passion : Held, that offence was culpable homicide not amounting to murder and fell under the first part of S. 304. Bholu v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 190 : 152 I. C. 860 : 7 R. L. 339 : A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 149.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Death caused by fracture of skull—Provocation to accused—Assault not deliberate—Sentence awarded was 7 years. Sai Mohammad v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1163 (1) :
150 I. C. 656 : 7 R. L. 4 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 345.

————S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Deceased in excitement brandishing lathi and determined to use violence—Accused snatching lathi and striking deceased—Death—Conviction should be altered from S. 302 to S. 304, Part I. Indar Singh v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1160 :
145 I. C. 921 : 34 P. L. R. 886 :
6 R. L. 149 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 144.

————S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Exchange of abuses and sudden fight—Accused stabbing deceased : Held, on facts that Exception 4 to S. 300 applied and offence came under S. 304, first part. Hussain v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1165 :
150 I. C. 640 : 7 R. L. 1 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 818.

————S. 304—Sudden quarrel and provocation.

Single blow on head with lathi : Held, offence was culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Nawab v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 446 :
137 I. C. 267 : 33 P. L. R. 546 :
I. R. 1932 Lah. 317.

————S. 304.

The first part of S. 304, Penal Code, is intended to include only those cases in which the act of the accused would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder but for the fact that it was committed in circumstances which render one or other of the exceptions to S. 300 applicable. Masti v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 274 (b) :
10 I. C. 852 : 9 P. W. R. 1911 Cr. :
3 P. R. 1911 Cr. : 87 P. L. R. 1911.

————S. 304-A—Burden of proof.

A person driving a motor car is under a duty to control the car and he is prima facie guilty of negligence if the car leaves the road. It is for the person driving the car to explain the circumstances under which the car came to leave the road. In re : Ratnam Mudaliar.

35 Cr. L. J. 691 :
148 I. C. 573 : 1934 M. W. N. 102 :
66 M. L. J. 318 : 39 L. W. 344 :
6 R. M. 498 : A. I. R. 1934 Mad. 209.

————S. 304-A—Contributory negligence, if defence—Charge under S. 304-A.

Contributory negligence on the part of the person killed is no defence by itself to a charge under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Kanjuma Khoja v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 566 :
175 I. C. 116 : 10 R. S. 288 :
32 S. L. R. 663 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 100.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 304-A—Conviction, if sustained—Death by negligence—Boat, overcrowded, sinking of—Sinking due to strong wind and rough water and resulting in loss of life—Unseaworthy condition of boat not proved—Lessees of ferry not responsible—Accident.

Where owing to strong wind and rough water, a ferry-boat overturns or sinks resulting in loss of life, the lessees of the ferry cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 304-A, Penal Code, unless it is shown that the boat, although overcrowded, was in an unseaworthy condition at the time of the occurrence. Raghu v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 72 :
26 I. C. 664 : 1 O. L. J. 711 :
A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 412.

————S. 304-A—Criminal negligence, what is.

Criminal rashness is hazarding a dangerous or wanton act with the knowledge that it is so and that it may cause injury, but without intention to cause injury or knowledge that it will be probably caused. The criminality lies in running the risk of doing such an act with recklessness or indifference as to the consequences. Criminal negligence is the gross or culpable neglect of failure to exercise that reasonable and proper care and precaution to guard against injury either to the public generally or to the individual in particular which having regard to all the circumstances out of which the charge has arisen, it was the imperative duty of the accused person to have adopted. Smith v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 153 :
91 I. C. 889 : 30 C. W. N. 66 :
53 Cal. 333 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 300.

————S. 304-A—Culpable rashness, what amounts to.

Culpable rashness is acting with the consciousness that mischievous and illegal consequences may follow but with the hope that they will not and often with the belief that the actor has taken sufficient precautions to prevent their happening, the imputability arises from acting despite the consciousness. Culpable negligence is action without consciousness that the illegal and mischievous act will follow, but in circumstances which show that the actor had not exercised the action incumbent upon him, and that if he had, he would have had the consciousness. The imputability arises from the neglect of the civic duty of circumspection. Each case must be judged with reference to the precaution, which in respect to it, the ordinary experience of man has found to be sufficient, though the use of special or extraordinary precautions might have prevented the particular accident which happened. Smith v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 153 :
91 I. C. 889 : 30 C. W. N. 66 :
53 Cal. 333 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 300.

————S. 304-A—Error of judgment—Lorry loaded with wooden sleepers being driven through gateway not very fast—One projecting sleeper striking stone pillar—Pillar falling and killing person standing behind it—Lorry driven by same driver safely through same gateway previously—Held, it could not be said that death was not caused directly by act of the driver—But under the circumstances of the case, driver was guilty of error of judgment and could not be convicted under S. 304-A.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

The appellant, a lorry driver, was driving a lorry loaded with wooden sleepers through the gateway of the compound where they had been stored and from where he was removing them when one of the sleepers projecting over the side of the lorry struck one of the stone pillars of the gateway and knocked it down and the pillar fell upon a barber who was standing behind it, and inflicted injuries upon him wherefrom he died on the night of the same day. On many occasions previously the driver had driven the loaded lorry through that gate without any accident. The speed was not very fast: Held, that it could not be said that the death of the barber was not caused directly by the act of the accused. The fact that it was not the lorry itself but part of its load which struck the pillar was a matter of no consequence. The lorry and the loaded sleepers must be looked on as one vehicle under the control of the driver; nor the fact that it was not the sleeper itself which struck the deceased but a stone in a pillar which the sleeper struck made the act of the accused merely the indirect and remote cause of the deceased's death. It might well be a fact that must be taken into consideration when the question of his rashness or negligence was concerned, but it was not in itself a complete defence. But under the circumstances of the case the driver was only guilty of an error of judgment and could not be convicted under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Kanjijuma Khoja v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 566 :
175 I. C. 116 : 10 R. S. 288 :
32 S. L. R. 663 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 100.

—S. 304-A—Gross and criminal negligence—Poison, administration of, by medical man in mistake for quinine.

Accused was in charge of a dispensary which, it was found, was very carelessly and badly managed, poisonous medicines being mixed up with non-poisonous medicines and the poison cupboard being kept unlocked. He had to prepare a large quantity of quinine mixture and had to use a certain amount of quinine hydrochloride. He removed a bottle from the non-poisonous medicines cupboard, and, without looking at the wrapper on the outside of which was printed the word "poison," tore open the wrapper and without reading the label on the bottle on which was printed "strychnine hydrochloride," mixed the contents of the bottle into a mixture and administered the mixture to several persons, all but one of whom died within a very short time. He was convicted under S. 304-A, Penal Code. In revision it was contended that the act done by him, though negligent, was not so grossly negligent as to fall within the criminal law: Held, that the act of the accused amounted to gross and criminal negligence and that he had been rightly convicted under S. 304-A, Penal Code. De'Souza v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

21 Cr. L. J. 367 :
55 I. C. 735 : 18 A. L. J. 160 :
42 All. 272 : A. I. R. 1920 All. 32.

—S. 304-A—Mens rea.

Mere carelessness is not sufficient for conviction under S. 304, Penal Code. S. 304-A, Penal Code, like other sections of the Penal Code requires a mens rea or guilty mind. The rashness or negligence must be such as fairly to be described criminal. The phrase "criminal negligence" as used in ordinary conversation conveys something of the meaning. Kunjijuma Khoja v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 566 :
175 I. C. 116 : 10 R. S. 288 :
32 S. L. R. 663 : A. I. R. 1938 Sind 100.

—S. 304-A—Negligence.

A driver of a motor vehicle who is himself negligent cannot plead in his defence the negligence of a pedestrian whom he knocked unconscious and killed. Mohammad Bux v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1368 :
158 I. C. 330 : 31 N. L. R. 26 :
8 R. N. 74 : A. I. R. 1935 Nag. 200.

—S. 304-A—Negligence—Motor vehicle—Rash driving—Bus passing stationary tram car—Deviation to right—Failure to blow horn—Acceleration of speed—Duties of driver.

Where the accused, the driver of a motor bus, while passing a stationary tram car deviated to his right to pass the car, failed to blow the horn when he was about to pass, and accelerated his speed before he had actually cleared the car, and a boy who had alighted from the tram car was knocked down by the bus and killed: Held, that the accused was guilty of negligence and liable to be convicted under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Special caution must be taken by all motor vehicles while passing a stationary tram car. The driver, if he does have to go close to a stationary tram car should drive at such a pace as will allow him to stop his vehicle almost at once should some passenger suddenly alight. Bhagwandas Bakshi v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 897 :
111 I. C. 657 : 30 Bom. L. R. 655 :
A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 208.

—S. 304-A—Offence under—Administering poison believing it to be a charm—Death caused—Rashly and negligently.

The accused received a powder from an enemy of one Lal Singh and mixed it with the food of his household believing that thereby she would become rich and Lal Singh poor. She took no precaution to ascertain whether the powder was a noxious thing: Held, that her conduct was wanting in that prudence and circumspection which every human being is supposed to exercise; and that by her rash and thoughtless act she made herself responsible for the deaths that ensued. Jamna v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 522 :
2 I. C. 214 : 31 All. 290 :
6 A. L. J. 203.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 304-A—Offence under, if sustained
—Car driven slowly at night over road under repairs—Death caused of men sleeping on road.

Accused was driving in an old and noisy motor car, at night, along a road which was under repairs, at a slow pace. The car ran over two coolies who happened to be sleeping on the road and caused their death: Held, that it could not be said that the accused had been guilty of culpable rashness or negligence and that consequently he was not guilty of an offence under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Smith v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 153 : 91 I. C. 889 : 30 C. W. N. 66 : 53 Cal. 333 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 300.

—S. 304-A—Offence under, nature of.

Death should be direct result of rash and negligent act of accused, and act should be proximate and efficient cause without intervention of another's negligence. Sutnarain Pandey v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1013 : 145 I. C. 612 : 1933 A. L. J. 205 : 55 All. 263 : 6 R. A. 134 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 232.

—S. 304-A—Offence under.

Where in unloading a gun known to be loaded, it went off killing a boy, accused is guilty of offence under S. 304-A. Molan Ram v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 463 (a) : 129 I. C. 762 (2) : I. R. 1931 Lah. 234. A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 462.

—S. 304-A—'Rash act', meaning of.

The term 'rash act' within the meaning of S. 304-A connotes the want of proper care and caution. It means an overhasty act. Emperor v. Nga San Win. 35 Cr. L. J. 248 : 147 I. C. 60 : 6 R. Rang. 140 : A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 326.

—S. 304-A—Rash and negligent act—Husband, right of, to absolute enjoyment of wife's person Causing death by sexual intercourse with child wife.

Under no system of law prevalent in India has a husband an absolute right to enjoy the person of his wife without regard to the question of her personal safety. Accused had sexual intercourse with his child wife above the age of 12 years but who had not yet attained puberty, and thereby caused her death: Held, that he was guilty of an offence of causing death by a rash or negligent act, punishable under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Shahu v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 1003 : 42 I. C. 731 : 11 S. L. R. 77 : A. I. R. 1917 Sind 42.

—S. 304-A—Rash and negligent act—Murder—Administering drug without knowing its nature—Death of person to whom drug administered—Nature of offence.

The accused in this case, at the instigation of her paramour, obtained some powder, the character of which she was ignorant of, and mixed it with pumpkin curry which she knew would be eaten by her husband, her mother-in-law and her husband's brother with whom she appeared to have been on unfriendly terms. She and her child only ate plain rice. Her husband and mother-in-law partook of the curry and died: Held, that she was guilty of a rash and negligent act within the meaning of S. 304-A, Penal Code, and that if she had known that the substance that she was administering was a poisonous substance, that would have made a specific offence, and in that case, S. 304-A would not apply. Pika Beva v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 195 : 14 I. C. 195 : 15 C. L. J. 512 : 16 C. W. N. 1055 : 39 Cal. 855.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 304-A—Rash and negligent act—Station-master giving "line clear" with knowledge that another train is standing in the way of the incoming train.

An Assistant Station Master gave a "line clear" to an incoming passenger train on a foggy night with the knowledge that a goods train was standing at a particular point where the passenger train might collide with it, but hoping to remove the goods train to a siding before the arrival of the passenger train. The goods train was not removed in time and a collision occurred which was attended with loss of life: Held, that the Assistant Station Master was guilty of a rash and negligent act in giving the "line clear" and was, therefore, punishable under S. 304-A, Penal Code and S. 101, Railways Act. Tapli Prasad v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 815 : 41 I. C. 335 : 15 A. L. J. 590 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 429.

—S. 304-A—Rash and negligent act.

Though overloading a lorry may be an offence under the Motor Vehicles Act, it is not a rash and negligent act within the meaning of S. 304-A. Jaimal Singh v. Emperor. 33 Cr. L. J. 436 : 137 I. C. 262 : 33 P. L. R. 492 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 319 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 366.

—S. 304-A—Rash and negligent act, what is.

Mere velocity of the vehicle is not the only criterion of rash and negligent driving. It may consist in taking, while driving, risks which by the exercise of a little diligence could have been avoided. Muhammad Bux v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1368 : 158 I. C. 330 : 31 N. L. R. 26 : 8 R. N. 74 Sup. : A. I. R. 1935 Nag. 200.

—S. 304-A—Scope of—Injuries inflicted intentionally—Section not applicable.

S. 304-A, Penal Code, deals with the causing of death by a rash or negligent act. It does not apply to a case where injuries are inflicted neither rashly nor negligently, but intentionally and designedly. Emperor v. Istlingapa. 13 Cr. L. J. 798 : 17 I. C. 532 : 14 Bom. L. R. 887.

—S. 304-A—Sentence, measure of—Approximate and ultimate cause of death, distinction between.

It is very dangerous to attempt to distinguish cases under S. 304-A, Penal Code, between the approximate and ultimate cause of death due to a rash and negligent act. The mere fact that a human life is lost due to negligent driving of motor car, does not justify the Court in passing a deterrent sentence, if the lost life could not have been reasonably anticipated by the accused. In considering the question of enhancement of sentence, one has to consider whether the rash and negligent act of the accused which has occasioned the death, shows callousness on his part as regards the risk to which he was exposing other persons. The severity of the sentence must depend to a great extent on the degree of callousness which is present in the conduct of the accused. Emperor v. Khan Mahomed Sher Mahomed.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 660 :
168 I. C. 870 : 9 R. B. 411 :
38 Bom. L. R. 1111 :
A. I. R. 1937 Bom. 96.

———S. 304-A—Unpremeditated blow causing death, effect of—Reduction of sentence—Unpremeditated blow.

Where the accused took up a wooden pestle and gave a blow with it to the deceased killing him and the circumstances indicated that the blow was the unpremeditated outcome of a sudden quarrel, and that though a reasonable man must have known that it was likely to cause death, the probability of a fatal result was not present to the consciousness of the accused at the moment: Held, that the offence amounted to culpable homicide not amounting to murder under the later half of S. 304, Penal Code, and the sentence of 7 years' rigorous imprisonment was reduced to that of 3 years. King-Emperor v. Behram.

9 Cr. L. J. 245 :
1 S. L. R. 1.

———S. 304-A, 114—Charge under, legality of—Circumstances held did not warrant charge under Ss. 304, 114.

The mere fact that just before the accident the accused asked his driver to blow the horn and overtake the car which was going ahead, does not warrant a charge under S. 304-A read with S. 114, Penal Code. In re : V. Seetharama Chettiar.

40 Cr. L. J. 850 :
183 I. C. 740 (1) : 49 L. W. 554 :
1939 M. W. N. 416 : 12 R. M. 411 :
A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 571.

———Ss. 304-A, 279, 338—Rash or negligent act, what amounts to—Act directly causing death—Necessity of, for conviction.

The rash or negligent act referred to in S. 304-A, Penal Code, means the act which is the immediate cause of death and not any act or omission which can at best be said to be a remote cause of death. The words "not amounting to culpable homicide" clearly show that what was intended was an act which had directly caused the death of any person. Ss. 279 and 338 are co-relative with S. 304-A, which section while as general as S. 338, is restricted to cases where death has been caused. Emperor v. Akbar Ali.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

37 Cr. L. J. 975 :
164 I. C. 333 : 1936 O. W. N. 720 :
1936 O. L. R. 484 : 9 R. O. 89 :
A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 400.

———Ss. 304-A, 337, 338, 465, 471—Neglect of duty—Forgery committed by accused to screen himself from criminal liability and to continue in employment—Joinder of charges.

It was the duty of the accused to make a periodical inspection of certain boilers in order to see that the boilers were in a fit condition to be worked. One of the boilers exploded and caused loss of life and injury to a person, the accident being due to the fact that the crown stays of the boiler were badly corroded, some of them having disappeared altogether. If the accused had carried out his duty of inspecting the boiler from time to time, all possibility of the accident would have been avoided. During a departmental inquiry into the cause of the accident, the accused produced a Dak Despatch Book in order to prove that he had submitted periodical reports of his inspection of the boiler to his superior officer. He also relied on certain entries made by him in a private book to show that he had reported on the condition of the crown stays. The entries in the Dak Despatch Book and the private book produced by the accused were suspected to be forged and the accused was put on his trial on three different charges : (1) under Ss. 304-A, 337 and 338 for neglect of duty resulting in the bursting of the boiler and causing loss of life and injury to person, (2) under Ss. 465, 471 or in the alternative under S. 193, Penal Code, for having forged entries in his private book with the object of inducing the officer who was holding an inquiry to form an erroneous opinion, and (3), under S. 477-A of the Penal Code, for falsifying Dak Despatch Book. He was convicted under the first and second heads but was acquitted on the third: Held, (1) that the neglect of the accused resulting in bursting of the boiler and the subsequent forgeries with the object of screening himself from criminal liability and in order that he might be retained in his employment, were part of the same transaction within the meaning of S. 235, Cr. P. C., and that there was consequently no misjoinder of charges; (2) that the bursting of the boiler being due to the neglect of duty of the accused, and that the accused having forged the entries in the private book with the object of being retained in employment, his conviction on the first and second charges was justified. Woodward v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 257 :
92 I. C. 433 : 18 S. L. R. 199 :
A. I. R. 1925 Sind 233.

———S. 304, Part I—Benefit of doubt—Case on border line between murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Doubt as to intention—Accused should be given benefit of this doubt.

Where the injury results in death and the case is on the border line between an intention to cause injury merely likely to cause death and an intention to cause injury such as is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death and it is not free from doubt that the accused had the latter of these two intentions in attacking the deceased, he must be given the benefit of this doubt and he must be held to have intended merely to cause injury likely to cause death. The offence committed by him is, therefore, culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Emperor v. Nga Kyank Scin. 39 Cr. L. J. 114 : 172 I. C. 179 : 10 R. Rang. 230 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 443.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304, Part I—Conviction under—Accused injuring deceased's leg above ankle with dah—Bones and arteries cut—Deceased dying—Offence held one under S. 301, Part I.

Where the intention of the accused was to cut the deceased on the leg, and the cut inflicted was quite low down near the ankle, a man who directed a blow in this direction as a general result would be a man who did not intend to cause injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, because most cuts on the legs are not injuries sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Though the blow was delivered with great force, and cut the bone and arteries, and even residents in the jungle must be held to know that a violent blow of this nature with a formidable weapon was likely to cause death wherever the blow may fall, no intention higher than this could be imputed against the accused. His conviction, therefore, under S. 302, Penal Code, must be altered to one under S. 304, Part I. Abor Ahmed v. The King. 39 Cr. L. J. 244 : 173 I. C. 87 : 1937 Rang. 393 : 10 R. Rang. 305 : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 17.

———S. 304, Part I—Culpable homicide—Magistrate empowered under S. 30, Cr. P. C., if can try case.

A Magistrate empowered under S. 30, Cr. P. C., is not legally competent to try either the offence of murder or the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under the first part of S. 304, Penal Code. Emperor v. Shamira. 27 Cr. L. J. 846 : 95 I. C. 766 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 576.

———S. 304, Part I—Offence under.

Old man going about drunk causing nuisance to harar sellers—Exchange of words with accused—Accused picking up fire-wood and striking on head of the old man—Causing of death—Offence held, fell under S. 304, Part I. Nga Shwe Dun v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1182 : 146 I. C. 191 : 6 R. Rang. 76 : A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 270.

———S. 304, Part I—Sentence.

A sentence of transportation for life for an offence under S. 304, Part I, is too severe in a case where the accused had a right of self-defence and is punished only for having exceeded it. Mustafa v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 587 : 138 I. C. 418 : 33 P. L. R. 282 : I. R. 1932 Lah. 490 : A. I. R. 1932 Lah. 344.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 304, Parts I and II—Conviction under second part—Sudden blow on head with dang on provocation resulting in death.

The accused, whose sister had disappeared, went to a panchayat which was being held in the village with the object of laying his grievances before them. The person who was suspected of having abetted her disappearance happened to be present there and the accused, after asking him about the whereabouts of his sister, gave him two blows on the head with a dang that he carried, and as a result of the injuries, the victim died. The accused was convicted under the first part of S. 304, Penal Code. Held, that the circumstances of the case established only an offence under the second part of S. 304 and the conviction under the first part of the section could not be maintained. Sunder Singh v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 43 : 120 I. C. 182 : 11 L. L. J. 52 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 180.

———S. 304, Parts I and II—Culpable homicide.

Where on a sudden quarrel the accused on the spur of the moment and without premeditation struck a blow with a chhavi on the head of the complainant which resulted in the latter's death; Held, that since there was motive for causing death and the accused did not intend to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as was likely to cause death, he could not be convicted of the offence under Part I of S. 304, Penal Code, but that since he knew that a blow on the head with a chhavi was likely to cause death, his offence fell within the 2nd part of S. 304, Penal Code. Kunda Singh v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 178 : 22 I. C. 754 : 3 P. L. R. 1914 : 4 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 151.

———S. 304, Parts I and II—Scope of.

The first part of S. 304, Penal Code, applies where there is guilty intention and the second part applies where there is no such intention but there is guilty knowledge. Ifatulla v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 598 :

130 I. C. 884 : 35 C. W. N. 456 : 58 Cal. 1138 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 404 : A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 345.

———S. 304, Part II—Accused going to deceased's place and picking up quarrel—Free fight—Deceased struck on head with stick dying—Offence, held was committed under S. 304, Part II.

Where the accused went to the place of the deceased in order to pick up a quarrel, and in a free fight which took place between them, the accused struck the deceased on the head with a stick causing thereby his death; Held, that the accused had no right of private defence. Ibrahim v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 401 : 174 I. C. 137 : 10 R. Pesh. 58 : A. I. R. 1938 Pesh. 10.

———S. 304, Part II—Applicability.

The second part of S. 304, Penal Code,

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

refers only to cases in which the offender has no intention of injuring any one in particular. Nga Tun v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 335 :

35 I. C. 511 : A. I. R. 1916 L. Bur. 63.

———S. 304, Part II—Extenuating circumstances—Held, on facts that accused could be convicted under S. 301, Part II, but there being extenuating circumstances, sentence of five years was reduced to two and half years.

The deceased and the accused were neighbours. One day the accused's father began to dig a water channel close to the wall of the deceased's house. The deceased begged him to dig it a little distance away so as to avert any danger of his wall collapsing. This request led to an altercation and the father of the accused and the deceased grappled with each other. While they were doing so, the accused came up with an iron rod with which the water-course was being dug and seizing it with both hands struck a blow on the deceased's head. The deceased fell down and died: Held, that the accused must be credited with the knowledge that this heavy iron rod was likely to cause death. He could, therefore, be rightly convicted under Part II of S. 304 Penal Code. However, in the circumstances of the case, the sentence of five years' rigorous imprisonment was unnecessarily severe. There was no antecedent enmity between the parties. The quarrel arose very suddenly. The choice of weapon was fortuitous and was not one which indicates any real intention to kill or to cause serious injury and this young man saw his father grappling with another man and to that extent there was some provocation to him to commit the act he did. These were extenuating circumstances, and taking them all into consideration, the sentence of five years' rigorous imprisonment should be reduced to two and a half years. Sadhu v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 927 :

177 I. C. 642 : 40 P. L. R. 935 : 11 R. L. 350 :

A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 618.

———S. 304, Part II—Knowledge — Death caused by kicking on abdomen—Knowledge, presumption of.

Presumably everybody knows that the abdomen is a most delicate and vulnerable part of the human body, and if a man with that knowledge kicks the abdomen with such violence as to cause fracture of two ribs and rupture of the spleen which was normal, he should be presumed to have done so with the knowledge that by so kicking he was likely to cause death. Mansel Pleydell v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 977 :

96 I. C. 641 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 313.

———S. 304, Part II—Knowledge — Lethal blow—Knowledge of likelihood of causing death—Presumption.

When a person chooses to lay about with a lath, it being a lethal weapon, with all the force at his command, it must be presumed that he knew he was likely to cause death. Ghulam Muhammad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 569 :

94 I. C. 137 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 426.

———S. 304, Part II—'Knowledge'.

Only one blow with a hatchet was struck suddenly in circumstances which were in doubt. There was probably no intention in the mind of the accused either to kill or to cause a fatal injury: Held, that the act was sudden, and it was more proper under the circumstances to impute to him 'knowledge' rather than 'intention'. The offence, therefore, would fall more probably under S. 304, Part 2, Penal Code, than under S. 302 or S. 304, Part I. Ghulam Hyder Imam Baksh v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 460 :

174 I. C. 497 : 31 S. L. R. 480 : 10 R. S. 254 :

A. I. R. 1938 Sind 63.

———S. 304, Part II—Offence under.

Accused suspecting fidelity of wife, beating her in merciless manner and determined nature—Large number of injuries—No bones broken—Hands and feet only used—Wife dying—Offence held, fell under S. 304, Part II. Nur Mohammad Roshen Din v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 65 :

146 I. C. 326 : 34 P. L. R. 933 :

6 R. L. 210 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 883.

———S. 304, Part II—Offence under—Act done with knowledge that death would result—Superstitious belief, whether justification for act.

Accused, the parents of a child, offered the child to the crocodiles in a tank in the belief that, though the child would be taken away, it would be returned unharmed, and thereafter would lead a charmed life, and attain to a good old age: Held, that as the accused were possessed by a superstitious belief, there was no intention of causing death to the child, but inasmuch as what they did, they did with the knowledge that their act would result in the death of the child, they were guilty of the offence punishable under the last clause of S. 304, Penal Code. Emperor v. Bharat Bipari.

22 Cr. L. J. 526 :

62 I. C. 414 : 33 C. L. J. 179 :

25 C. W. N. 676 : A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 501.

———S. 304, Part II—Offence under—Attack on old man with lathi—Offence.

Accused attacked a weak old man violently with a lathi causing five fractures on different parts of his body as the result of which he died: Held, that the accused must have known that the injuries caused by him were likely to result in death and he was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Rajindar Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 409 :

77 I. C. 489 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 516.

———S. 304, Part II—Offence under—Common intention to cause only grievous hurt—Only one serious blow on head and other injuries of slight nature—Accused held guilty only under second part of S. 304 and not under first part.

The common intention of the assailants was only to cause grievous hurt; there was only one serious blow on the head and the other blows on the head and the other parts of the body were of a comparatively slight nature: Held, it cannot be held that the assailants intended to cause the death of their victim or to cause such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. The case, therefore, fell within the purview of the second part of S. 304 and not under the first part. Ala Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 80.

-----S. 304, Part II—Offence under—Death caused by beating.

Accused four in number, gave a severe beating to the deceased with blunt and sharp-edged weapons, as the result of which, he died. The injuries caused to the deceased were numerous, but they were nearly all bruises and abrasions, mostly on the legs and arms and none of them individually amounted to more than simple hurts: Held, that the accused were not guilty of murder but they must be deemed to have known that by giving the deceased such a beating as they did, they were likely to cause his death and that, therefore, they were guilty of an offence under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Bel v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 29:

91 I. C. 61: 2 Lah. Cas. 111:

7 L. L. J. 524: A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 621.

-----S. 304, Part II—Offence under—Injuries on non-vital parts—Death caused by septic poisoning.

Accused attacked the deceased and inflicted four injuries on him, none of which was on a vital part, and death resulted because of septic poisoning: Held, that the act of the accused fell within the definition contained in the second part of S. 304, Penal Code. Nga Po Chet v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 489:

77 I. C. 889: 2 Bur. L. J. 239:

A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 212.

-----S. 304, Part II—Offence under.

No intention to cause death or bodily injury likely to cause death—Death—Offence committed under S. 304, Part II. Chhotey Lal v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 58:

146 I. C. 452: 10 O. W. N. 482:

6 R. O. 122: A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 269.

-----S. 304, Part II—Offence under—Sudden fight—Knife stab causing death—Dangerous weapon.

A dispute having arisen between the accused and another person about drawing water from a tap, they abused each other and the accused drew out his knife and stabbed the latter with it. The knife pierced the chest and cut the heart causing death. The knife had a blade of three or four inches, and the Counsel for the accused contended that it was not a dangerous weapon: Held, (1) that a knife which actually caused the fatal injury was undoubtedly a dangerous weapon; (2) that the accused did not intend to cause death or to cause such injury as was likely to cause death; (3) that, however, he must have known that he was likely to cause death and was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Khan Mir v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1289:

82 I. C. 361: A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 148.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 304, Part II—Offence under.

Where there was a quarrel between the accused and his father and the former suddenly getting enraged struck the latter in the heat of passion and caused three or four injuries: Held, that the conviction might be altered to one under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Wali v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1173:

146 I. C. 172: 34 P. L. R. 330:

6 R. L. 180: A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 664.

-----S. 304, Part II—Sentence—Death caused by single blow—Offence.

Deceased was sitting with certain enemies of the accused watching an entertainment. The accused struck him a blow on the head with a lathi which caused his death: Held, (1) that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 304, Part II of the Penal Code; (2) that the appropriate sentence under the circumstances of the case was one of five years' rigorous imprisonment and that a fine was uncalled for. Lal Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 655:

81 I. C. 143: 5 L. L. J. 180:

A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 111.

-----Ss. 304, Part II, 325—Benefit of doubt—Culpable homicide, and grievous hurt—Evidence of identification.

Where 6 men attacked with sticks an owner of a field, who had an illegal intimacy with a woman closely related to them, and they also attacked his two companions, while the three were asleep in his field at midnight in moonlight and though the assailants were seen and recognized by one of the companions who had seized one of the assailants and only released him when struck on the head, after addressing him by name and entreating him not to beat, and though they were also seen and recognized by another person awakened by the noise of the blows, the former and the latter gave names of only four and five, respectively to the Chief Constable, and where the Police Patel, to whom they also gave the names, did not mention them in his first report nor in the second one made about the death of the owner, who died in a speechless condition in the morning, and the Police Patel also prevaricated in the Court as to whether any and what names were mentioned, while the other companion said he had not recognized the assailants: Held, that as only one assailant was fairly recognized, only that assailant was guilty of culpable homicide or of grievous hurt; and that the evidence against the rest being hardly sufficient safely to justify a conviction, they should be given the benefit of doubt and acquitted. Emperor v. Kana Gowa.

10 Cr. L. J. 344.

-----Ss. 304, Part II, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Dang blow on head causing death—Skull not fractured—Offence.

In most instances a man who strikes a person on the head with a heavy weapon such as dang, must know that such a blow is likely to cause death. But this cannot be said about the case where the blow is not a very violent one and the injured person is able to walk about for a couple of days before he succumbs to the injury. In such a case, the offence committed is one under S. 325, Penal Code. Mehr Shah v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 24 :
106 I. C. 440.

———Ss. 304, Part II, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Held on facts that offence fell under S. 325.

The deceased struck the accused a blow with a hockey stick on the thigh and then the accused struck only one blow with a stick on the head of the deceased. Up to that point the accused merely appeared to have wished to give an ordinary beating with stick to the deceased and an ordinary beating was all that seemed to have required by the motive suggested for the attack: Held, that it could not be assumed in the circumstances of the case that the accused intentionally struck a blow which he knew was likely to cause death. The offence did not, therefore, fall under S. 304, Part II, but one under S. 325. Radha Kishen v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 261 :
179 I. C. 880 : 11 R. L. 642 :
[A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 714.

———Ss. 304, Part II, 326—Intention to cause death, absence of, effect of—Death caused by one lathi blow on head—Offence.

A blow on the head with a lathi inflicted with medium violence is not, under ordinary circumstances, an act likely to cause death, and where death is caused by such blow, in the absence of intention to cause death, it is safer and sounder to convict the accused under S. 326 rather than S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Khewna v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 378 :
115 I. C. 66 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 322 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 37.

———Ss. 304, 99, 300, Excep. 2, 302, 362—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—Abduction of debtor by peon of creditor—Debtor stabbing peon—Offence—Right of private defence—Excess of right—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

The accused owed some money to a money-lender. The latter sent two peons armed with lathis and kirpans to collect the dues. They met the accused and insisted on his accompanying them to their master, and on his refusal to do so, dragged him along. On the way the accused stabbed one of the peons in the abdomen and the peon died on the next day: Held, that the seizure of the accused by the peons and their dragging him fell within the provisions of S. 362, Penal Code, and constituted abduction and the accused was consequently not guilty of murder but was guilty under S. 304, of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Daroga Lohar v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 84 :
127 I. C. 837 : 11 P. L. T. 381 :
I. R. 1930 Pat. 741 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 347.

———Ss. 304, 149—Duty of Court—Sentence—Adequacy—Ultimate consequences to be considered.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

In considering the adequacy of a sentence, a Court should take into account the ultimate consequences of the acts committed by the accused and not merely their immediate results. Bhusan Chandra Hazra v. Kanai Lal Addya.

28 Cr. L. J. 6 :
99 I. C. 38 : 44 C. L. J. 208 :
A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 73.

———Ss. 304, 300, Excep. II, 302—Offence under—Fatal wound inflicted during fight—Offence—Murder—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

A savage enmity had been growing up for some time between the two accused and the deceased and his brother who were their next door neighbours. On a certain evening, acts of aggression had been committed on both sides and after challenges to come out and fight had passed from one house to the other, an encounter took place in front of the two houses, in the course of which, injuries were inflicted and suffered on both sides. At some stage of this encounter, one of the accused ran into the ante-room of his own house and was followed there by the deceased who was armed with a lathi. A sharp struggle then occurred just inside the entrance door and in the course of that struggle, the former, with his spear, inflicted upon the deceased a wound of which the deceased expired almost immediately: Held, that the act of the accused was not completely covered by the provisions of law relating to the right of private defence, but that it fell within the second Exception to S. 300, Penal Code, and that he was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 304 of the Code. Har Sarup v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1320 :
89 I. C. 264 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 753.

———Ss. 304, 302—Culpable homicide—Fracturing skull with stone—Abuse and quarrel—Sudden impulse.

Where the accused during the progress of a quarrel between his wife and sister-in-law, on taking the part of his wife, was abused by his sister-in-law, and picking up a heavy lump of limestone struck her on the head with it, as a result of which her skull was fractured and she died: Held, that the accused acted on the impulse of the moment and had no intention of killing the deceased and was guilty of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code, and not of one under S. 302. Ganesh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 800 :
81 I. C. 320 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 4.

———Ss. 304, 304-A—Offence under Part II—Person possessed of spirit beaten to death—Beating inflicted for casting out spirit—Offence.

One Musammat Naro had a shrine in her house and people visited that house and played at being "possessed" by spirits. One Musammat Paro came there and began swaying about in front of the shrine. Haku accused asked her who she was and she replied that she was a churail from the Mathiana pond. The customary remedy applied for "possessed" persons was to beat them. The accused inflicted ed severe blows on her, and as a result of all this, Musammal Paro, a young woman of strong, stout and well-nourished body died of shock: Held, that the offence committed was one under S. 304, Part II and not one under S. 304-A, Penal Code. Haku v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 239 :
114 I. C. 438 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 278 :
10 Lah. 555 : 30 P. L. R. 611 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 917.

———Ss. 304, 323—Benefit of doubt—Hurt—Culpable homicide—Proof—Police putting pressure on witnesses.

The accused was convicted of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code, for having stabbed a person with a knife. The occurrence took place between 8 and 9 p. m. in a lane in the City of Lahore. It was dark except for a street lamp in the neighbourhood. It appeared that there were at least five men struggling with the deceased and it was difficult to be sure that the witnesses could in fact see who stabbed the deceased. It was found 'that great pressure had been brought by the Police to bear on the witnesses to make them give evidence as desired.' The Chief Court set aside the conviction under S. 304, I. P. C., and altered it to one under S. 323, Penal Code. Shib Das v. Emperor.

7 Cr. L. J. 321 :
9 P. L. R. 211 : 3 P. W. R. 3 Cr.

———Ss. 304, 323—Culpable homicide and hurt—Cattle trespass—Beating given to owners of cattle.

The party of the accused, into whose field cattle belonging to the party of the complainant's had trespassed, beat some of the owners of the cattle with the intention of chastising them. There was no intention to cause death or grievous hurt but one of the owners of the cattle was hit by one of the accused on the temple and died as a result of the injury: Held, (1) that the particular accused who hit the deceased on the temple with a lathi must be taken to have intended to cause such hurt as would, in the ordinary course of nature, cause death and that he was consequently guilty of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code; (2) that the other accused could not be held liable for the blow which had caused the death of the deceased and that they were, therefore, only guilty of an offence under S. 323, Penal Code. Har Prasad Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1160 :
88 I. C. 520 : 2 O. W. N. 465 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 482.

———Ss. 304, 323—Culpable homicide or hurt—Constant ill-treatment—Severe beating—Death due to shock—Offence.

Where the accused who subjected her daughter-in-law to a continuous ill-treatment, gave her a severe beating on the day previous to her death, and the medical evidence showed that the death was due to "shock from several blows on an un nourished girl suffering from chronic lung disease": Held, (1) that the accused did not intend or contemplate the death of the deceased as a result of the beating that was inflicted on her and was not, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 304, Penal Code; (2) that under the circumstances of the case, the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 323, Penal Code. Emperor v. Chanda.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 470 :
85 I. C. 150 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 126.

———Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide—Joint attack by several persons—Offence.

Where several persons jointly attack another with lathis fracturing his skull and inflicting a number of other injuries which result in his death, they are all equally guilty of culpable homicide even though it may be possible to prove which of them inflicted the fatal blow. Ghulam Hussain v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 673 :
73 I. C. 769 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 78.

———Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Attack by two men—Death caused by blow on head—Offence.

The accused, two in number, gave a beating to the deceased with jatras. One of the blows struck the deceased on the head, fractured his skull and killed him, but it was not possible to say which of the accused had caused the fatal injury: Held, that neither of the accused could be convicted of the offence of culpable homicide under S. 304, Penal Code, but that both of them were guilty of an offence under S. 325 of the Code. Dalip Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 757 :
86 I. C. 341 : 7 L. L. J. 44 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 318.

———Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide and grievous hurt—Attack with chhavis and sticks—Death caused by chhavi blow—Offence.

The accused, three in number, two of whom were armed with chhavis and the remaining one with a stick, on a slight provocation, attacked the deceased and caused injuries to him. One of the accused who was armed with a chhavi used the blade of the chhavi in attacking the deceased, and the other accused who had a chhavi in his hand used the blunt end of the stick and refrained from using the blade. The deceased died as a result of the chhavi blow: Held, (1) that the accused who used the blade of the chhavi was guilty of an offence under S. 304 (ii), Penal Code; (2) that the remaining two accused must be presumed to have intended at least to cause grievous hurt and were, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 325, Penal Code. Indar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 598 :
85 I. C. 822 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 326.

———Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Attack with dangs—Death caused by single blow.

Accused, three in number, attacked the deceased with dangs causing two grievous hurts and one simple hurt. One of the grievous hurts amounted to the fracture of the skull of the deceased and resulted in his death. There was no evidence as to which of the accused gave the blow upon the head of the deceased [which caused his death]: Held, that none of the accused could be convicted of an offence under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code, but that all of them were guilty of an offence under S. 325 of the Code. Jhandu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 653 :

85 I. C. 941 : 6 L. L. J. 268 :

1 Lah. Cas. 414 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 555.

—Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Blows struck by several accused—Conviction.

Where death is caused by blows struck to the deceased by several accused persons and it cannot be made certain which blow was struck by any individual accused, the conviction should be under S. 325 and not under S. 304, Part II, Penal Code. Jahana v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 451 :

36 I. C. 131 : 109 P. L. R. 1916 Cr. :

45 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 251.

—Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Exchange of words between parties—Accused attacking with intention of beating—Medical evidence connecting death with injuries wanting—Offence.

There was an exchange of words between the accused and the deceased. The accused seven in number attacked the deceased with the intention of giving him a beating. The deceased received two incised trivial wounds and three contused wounds sufficient to stun him. There was no medical evidence on the record that the death was due to the injuries: Held, that the accused could not be convicted for an offence under S. 304, but were guilty under S. 325, Penal Code, only. Sohan Singh v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 917 :

118 I. C. 433 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 769 :

A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 178.

—Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Infliction of injuries—Absence of knowledge that injuries were likely to cause death—No intention to cause death or injury likely to cause death—Death only an indirect consequence of the injuries—Conviction, whether to be under S. 304 or 325, Penal Code.

The accused who were several in number, assaulted another and though they had the latter entirely at their mercy, inflicted only a severe beating breaking the bones of his arms and hands. There was no evidence to prove that the accused had any intention to kill, but blood poisoning took place owing to toxic absorption from the blood and the victim died two months after the beating: Held, that the accused could not, under the circumstances, be convicted under S. 304, Penal Code, but were guilty only of an offence under S. 325 of the Code. Bhure Khan v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 401 :

101 I. C. 177 : 4 O. W. N. 337 :

2 Luck. 433 : A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 36.

—Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Intention to cause grievous hurt—Death—Offence.

Where in a fight, several accused attacked the deceased with lathis and killed him and it was proved that the common intention of the accused was not to cause death or such injury as was likely to cause death but only to cause grievous hurt, and the evidence left a doubt as to which of the accused struck the fatal blow: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 325, Penal Code, and not under S. 304 of the Code. Chandan Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 150 :

43 I. C. 438 : 16 A. L. J. 11 :

40 All. 103 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 209.

—Ss. 304, 325—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Unpremeditated attack—Provocation—Offence, nature of.

Where two persons on receiving provocation delivered an unpremeditated attack on the deceased but it was not known who struck the fatal blow: Held, that both were guilty of an offence under S. 325, Penal Code. Ramzan v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 3 (a) :

54 I. C. 51 : 2 P. W. R. 1920 Cr. :

9 U. P. L. R. Lah. 22 : 5 P. L. R. 1920 :

A. I. R. 1920 Lah. 91.

—Ss. 304, 325—Grievous hurt or culpable homicide—Assault by three persons armed with lathis—Intention—Culpable homicide—Grievous hurt.

Three persons attacked a fourth with lathis, and one of the assailants struck a blow which fractured the skull of the person attacked and caused his death, but the evidence left it in doubt as to which of the three assailants struck that blow: Held, that the offence of which the three assailants were guilty was grievous hurt rather than culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Emperor v. Bhola Singh.

5 Cr. L. J. 130 :

I. L. R. 29 All. 282 : 27 A. W. N. 51 :

4 A. L. J. 207.

—Ss. 304, 325, 326—Culpable homicide or simple hurt—Death caused owing to enlarged spleen.

Where a person dies as the result of simple injuries owing to the facts that his spleen is diseased and it is not shown that the accused had knowledge of this fact, he can only be convicted of causing simple hurt. Bhajan Das v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 421 :

72 I. C. 533 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 218.

—Ss. 304, 326—Culpable homicide or grievous hurt—Wound caused by accused not cause of death—No intention of causing death—Conviction should not be under S. 304.

Where the wound caused by the accused on the arm of the deceased was not an act done with the intention of causing death nor with the intention of causing such bodily injury as was likely to cause death, and death was not the natural result of the act, the post mortem examination having revealed that death was due to gangrene: Held, that conviction under S. 304, Penal Code, could not be upheld but must be altered to one under S. 326. Harnam Singh v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 1079 :

165 I. C. 146 : 38 P. L. R. 203 :

9 R. L. 218 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 833.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 304, 436—Offences under, if established—Fire to building—Conviction under S. 436—Proof, nature of—“Ordinarily used,” meaning of—Attack on village Chamars—Child deserted by Chamars in chaupal—Accused setting fire to chaupal—Death of child.

Certain villagers were convicted under Ss. 304 and 430, Penal Code, for having made an attack on the chamars of the village, resulting in the destruction by fire of their chaupal, and the death of a child therein. It appeared that on being attacked, the chamars fled from the spot and left the child inside the chaupal. There was no evidence that the chaupal was ordinarily used as a human dwelling or for one of the other purposes specified in S. 430. Nor did the accused know that the child was inside when they set fire to it: Held, that under the circumstances, no offence under S. 304 or S. 430, Penal Code, had been established. Khanjan v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1190 :
82 I. C. 54 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 781.

—S. 304, Cl. 1—Offence under—Grave and sudden provocation—Deceased striking accused's child for no cause—Accused losing self-control and striking with dah—Death as a result of gangrene—Held, offence falls under S. 304, Cl. (1).

The deceased who was accused's brother-in-law struck his child aged only one year merely because it resented its toy being taken away. On this the accused lost self-control and struck the deceased with a dah. The deceased died as the result of gangrene setting in one of the wounds caused: Held, that the act of the deceased was such as would rouse much resentment in the mind of any father as to amount to grave and sudden provocation and the offence was that of culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under the first clause of S. 304. Nga Paw v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 103 :
165 I. C. 911 : 9 R. Rang. 229 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 526.

—Ss. 304 (1), 302—Sudden and grave provocation—Held on facts that offence fell under S. 304 (1) and not under S. 302.

At about 10 o'clock at night the accused saw a man going out of the chaubara where his wife was at the time. He pursued him but the latter ran away. He enquired from his wife who he was and she instead of replying to the question, abused him, whereupon he picked the chhura which was lying close by and killed her: Held, that the accused acted under grave and sudden provocation and his offence was not murder but fell under S. 304, Part I, Penal Code, Abdul Khanan Walamir v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 868 :
184 I. C. 186 : 12 R. L. 177 :
42 P. L. R. 42 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 436.

—S. 304 (2)—Scope of—Striking blow on the head on slight provocation—Death caused—Conviction under S. 304 (2) is proper.

Being enraged at the deceased's report to the headman that the accused had stolen gram from his threshing ground, the accused attacked the deceased and dealt him several blows on the body and he died on account of the only blow received on the head: Held, the accused who dealt that blow was guilty under S. 304 (2) and under S. 325. Jawahara v. Emperor. A. I. R. 1923 Cal. 416.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 306—Abetment—Suicide—Sati.

A Hindu died leaving a widow who announced her intention of becoming a sati. The accused, some of whom were relations of her husband, dissuaded her and sent a chaukidar to the Police Thana eight miles away to inform the Police. Before the Police could arrive, the accused carried the corpse to the burning ghat, and built the pyre under the orders of the widow. They gave some ghi to the widow which she poured over the pyre and over herself. The pyre was then burnt and consumed both the corpse and the widow, but there was nothing to show who lighted the fire: Held, that the accused were guilty of abetting suicide. Ramdial v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 634 :
21 I. C. 682 : 36 All. 26 : 11 A. L. J. 997.

—S. 306—Abetment.

Widow burning herself on husband's funeral pyre—Accused desiring her to become sati and arranging for cremation of body in village—Abetment of suicide is committed. Kinder Singh v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 1069 :
145 I. C. 880 : 1933 A. L. J. 7 :
6 R. A. 181 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 160.

—S. 307.

See also (i) Evidence Act, 1872, S. 105.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 114,
140, 201, 300, Cl. (1), 302.

—S. 307—Attempt to murder—Inference of intention from surrounding circumstances.

Where the accused armed with a chhavi and a pistol set upon another when he was asleep and pursued him when he ran away and one of them fired four pistol shots at him while the other caused an injury with a chhavi which necessitated the amputation of his arm and it was only because the noise attracted the neighbours that the culprits were unable to cause greater injury and it was providential that three out of the four pistol shots missed the victim: Held, that upon the facts the intention of the accused was to cause the death of the victim and the accused were guilty under S. 307, Penal Code. Gopi Chand v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1071 :
126 I. C. 573 : 11 Lah. 460 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 491.

—S. 307—Attempt to murder—Intention—Wounding in neck with knife.

The wounding of a person with a knife in the neck only $\frac{1}{4}$ th of an inch from the carotid artery, is an act so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death. Alexander Ruffe v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 197 :
14 I. C. 197 : 24 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. :
6 P. R. 1912 Cr.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 307 — Attempt to murder—Poison administered—Small quantity of poison—Offence.

Accused sent some sweetmeats containing arsenic to A with the intention of causing her death, B and C also shared the sweetmeats with A and although all three of them became ill, none of them died; Held, (1) that the accused was guilty of an attempt to murder not only A but also B and C; (2) that the mere fact that the amount of arsenic was not sufficient to cause the death of A made no difference. Ladha Singh v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 194 :
60 I. C. 50 : 3 U. P. L. R. Lah. 12 :
A. I. R. 1921 Lah. 108.

————S. 307—Attempt to murder, what constitutes.

The act which is punishable under S. 307 of the Penal Code, must be an act which is itself capable of causing death. A person can be convicted under S. 307, Penal Code, only if he has done the last proximate act necessary to constitute the completed offence of murder and the completion of the offence is only prevented by some cause independent of his volition. Nga Waik v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 850 :
74 I. C. 1042 : 1 Rang. 209 :
2 Bur. L. J. 76 : A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 251.

————S. 307—Benefit of doubt—Attempt to murder, what constitutes.

The house of the accused who was suspected of having committed murder was surrounded by the Police and the outer door of the house was locked by them from the outside. Immediately after the door was closed, a shot was fired through a hole in the door. The accused was charged and convicted for an offence under S. 307, Penal Code, for having fired this shot while the Police were trying to secure him; Held, that the conviction under S. 307, Penal Code, was illegal inasmuch as the shot might have been fired simply to frighten the Police or by some of the other inmates of the house and the accused was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. Muhammad Khan v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 518 :
109 I. C. 342 : 9 L. L. J. 331 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 853.

————S. 307—Benefit of doubt—Infliction of many incised wounds on head—Inference—Murderous intent.

A culprit who inflicts 10 incised wounds on the body of a person, most of which are aimed at his head, must be credited with murderous intent. Where several persons profess to be eye-witnesses and standing at a short distance from the scene of the crime fail to explain satisfactorily why none of them did not come to the rescue of the injured man, the probability is that they did not see the assault. In such a case, the evidence of the complainant should be accepted with reservations and the benefit of the doubt should be given to those against whom it is not sufficiently corroborated. Gayan Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 Cr. L. J. 462 :
29 I. C. 94 : 13 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
132 P. L. R. 1915 : A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 462.

————S. 307—Burden of proof.

Accused firing off a fire-arm while Police Officer attempts to arrest him—Defence of absence of intention to shoot Police Officer—Burden of proof is on the accused. Yashpal v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 573 :
147 I. C. 1193 : 6 R. A. 629 :
55 All. 681 : A. I. R. 1933 All. 627.

————S. 307—Conviction under, propriety of.

Held, after considering evidence, that accused could not be convicted under S. 304 but conviction under S. 307 would be proper. Emperor v. Sheo Narain Singh.

37 Cr. L. J. 12 :
158 I. C. 945 : 1935 O. W. N. 1177 :
1935 O. L. R. 630 : 8 R. O. 148 :
A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 44.

————S. 307—Conviction under, when justified.

To justify a conviction under S. 307, it is not essential, that actual injury capable of causing death should have been inflicted. Rameshwar v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 534 :
154 I. C. 697 : 1935 O. W. N. 311 :
7 R. O. 488 : A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 281.

————S. 307 — Evidence — Doubt — Blood-stains on clothes—One person accused at Thana and another at the spot.

Where in a case under S. 307, Penal Code, A and B were named at the Thana as the assailants, but when the Police went to the spot, the name of C was substituted for that of B and the only eye-witness said that he saw their backs as they ran; Held, that the accused could not be convicted on such evidence; the mere fact of there being blood-stains on the clothes would not suffice the evidence of the trackers being by no means infallible. Shera v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 196 :
19 I. C. 196 : 14 P. W. R. 1913 Cr. :
67 P. L. R. 1913.

————S. 307—Ingredients of offence under—Intention, importance of—Nature of hurt committed, whether guiding consideration.

The important point to be considered in a case under S. 307, Penal Code, is the intention or knowledge of the accused and also the circumstances under which the offence was committed; the nature of the hurt committed is not necessarily a guiding consideration as to the applicability of the section to the act of the accused, and even if the act is not attended by any result so far as the person assaulted is concerned, still there may be cases in which the culprit would be liable under the said section. Mutalli v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 782 :
125 I. C. 183 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 253.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 307—Intention or knowledge—Conviction under.

In order to support a conviction under S. 307, Penal Code, it is necessary to prove that the accused did the act with such intention or knowledge that if he had caused death by that act, he would have been guilty of murder. Pir Mohammad v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 308 :
76 I. C. 1028 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 415.

—S. 307—Intention to cause murder—Presumption.

The accused in the course of a quarrel with her sister-in-law and in a fit of anger flung her child three years old, into a pond, 4 feet deep on the edge of which her house was situated and at the same time gave expression to a wish that the death of the child should rest as a curse on the woman with whom she was quarrelling : Held, that the circumstances gave rise to a presumption that the intention of the accused was to cause death of the child, and that she was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 307, although the child was picked up by a stander-by without loss of time. Emperor v. Nanni Bahu.

11 Cr. L. J. 48 :
5 I. C. 138.

—S. 307—Offence under—Discharging loaded gun from short distance—Causing injuries which might have proved fatal.

A person intentionally discharging a loaded gun at another from a short distance inflicting injuries which might have proved fatal, is guilty of an offence under S. 307, Penal Code, and not merely of causing grievous hurt. Public Prosecutor v. Kolangarai Imbichikuttam.

16 Cr. L. J. 542 :
29 I. C. 670 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 629.

—S. 307—Offence under, nature of.

The act contemplated by S. 307, Penal Code, is an act which by itself must be ordinarily capable of causing death in the natural and ordinary course of events. A blow with a hatchet is not an act ordinarily capable of causing death in the natural or ordinary course of events. Whether a blow with a hatchet is or is not capable of causing such a result, must depend on the particular nature of the blow inflicted. Marni Vithoba Prabhu v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 641 :
21 I. C. 881 : 15 Bom. L. R. 991.

—S. 307—Offence under, what amounts to.

An accused person who shoots at A and wounds B by mistake, would be guilty under S. 307. Amir Saadat Shah v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 25 :
158 I. C. 648 : 8 R. Pesh. 65 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 74.

—S. 307—Offence under, what amounts to.

Where the accused does an act with such a guilty intention and knowledge and in such circumstances that but for some intervening fact the act would have amounted to murder in the natural course of events, he is guilty of an offence under S. 307. Dasudco Balwant Gogte v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

33 Cr. L. J. 613 :
138 I. C. 503 : 56 Bom. 434 :
34 Bom. L. R. 571 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 388 :
A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 279.

—S. 307—Presumption.

Where a pistol was used by the accused with a reckless disregard to consequences against a Police Constable who was chasing him and the bullet remained lodged inside : Held, that the presumption of the accused's intention to cause death must be drawn and that he was guilty both under S. 307 and S. 10 (f), Arms Act. Dhanwantri Durga Das v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 171 :
146 I. C. 843 : 34 P. L. R. 672 :
14 Lah. 820 : 6 R. L. 278 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 852.

—S. 307—Scope of—Attempt to murder—Nature of injury caused—Means of ascertaining intention of accused.

It is not essential to justify a conviction under S. 307, Penal Code, that bodily injury capable of causing death should actually have been inflicted. Although the nature of the injury actually caused may often give considerable assistance in coming to a finding as to the intention of the accused, such intention may also be deduced from other circumstances, and may even, in some cases, be ascertained without any reference at all to actual wounds. Kyaw We v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 11 :
4 L. B. R. 311.

—S. 307—Scope of—Causing of injury, if necessary—Intention, proof of—Intention proved—Nature of act is immaterial.

S. 307, Penal Code, may apply even if no hurt is caused. The causing of hurt is merely an aggravating circumstance and it cannot, therefore, be reasonably argued that unless an injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death is inflicted on the victim, the intention contemplated by S. 307, cannot be presumed. Under this section, the intention precedes the act and is to be proved independently of the act, and not merely gathered from the consequences that ensue. All that is necessary to be established is the intention with which the act is done, and if once that intention is established, the nature of the act will be immaterial. Ghulam Qadir v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 1052 :
171 I. C. 284 : I. L. R. 1937 Lah. 111 :
10 R. L. 180 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 619.

—S. 307—Scope of.

In order to bring an offence under S. 307, the act must be done with the intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if death had occurred, the accused would be guilty of murder. Sharif v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1051 :
145 I. C. 702 : 6 R. L. 123 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 315.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 307—Scope of—Injury capable of causing death whether should have been actually inflicted—Liability of accused, limitation.

For the application of S. 307, I. P. C., it is not necessary that the injury capable of causing death should have been actually inflicted. Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder is liable to punishment under S. 307, I. P. C. If the injury is actually inflicted, the nature of such injury may be of considerable assistance in arriving at the finding whether the accused had the intention of causing the death of the victim. The liability of an accused must be limited to the act which he in fact did and should not be extended so as to embrace the consequences of another act which he might have done but did not. Wazira v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 362 :
186 I. C. 764 : 1940 A. L. J. 110 :
12 R. A. 458 : A. I. R. 1940 All. 113.

———S. 307—Scope of.

Persons pursued by Police turning round and firing—Bullets not found and nobody hit—Offence committed falls under S. 307. Sudhindra Kumar Roy v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 611 :
143 I. C. 593 : 37 C. W. N. 312 :
60 Cal. 643 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 450 :
A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 354.

———S. 307—Scope of.

The act punishable under S. 307, Penal Code, is an act which is itself capable of causing death. The section only applies when the accused has done an act, which if carried to its utmost possible limits without any interference from without, would have caused death. Jiwandas v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 1078 :
30 P. R. Cr. of 1904.

———S. 307—Sentence.

In awarding punishment under S. 307, Penal Code, the fact that the accused had contracted the morphia habit and was a very fickle-minded person, may be taken into consideration, although there is no indication of a plainly marked mental aberration. Alexander Ruffe v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 197 :
14 I. C. 197 : 24 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. :
6 P. R. 1912 Cr.

———S. 307—‘Under such circumstances’—Scope of.

The expression “under such circumstances” refers to facts which would introduce a defence to a charge of murder. Vasudeo Balwant Gogte v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 613 :
138 I. C. 503 : 56 Bom. 434 :
34 Bom. L. R. 571 : I. R. 1932 Bom. 388 :
A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 279.

———Ss. 307, 324—Alteration of conviction—Accused drunk and inflicting slight injuries on provocation—Offence.

Where the accused was drunk when he inflicted injuries and had both given and received provocation, the injuries were of a trivial nature and he himself had received beating: Held, that the conviction under S. 307 should be altered to one under S. 324, Penal Code. Khuda Bakhsh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 24 :
165 I. C. 909 : 17 Lah. 284 :
38 P. L. R. 630 : 9 R. L. 321 :
A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 914.

———Ss. 307, 324—Attempt to commit murder—Prima facie case—Commitment, necessity for.

Where the act of the accused amounted prima facie to an attempt to commit murder and the Deputy Magistrate tried it himself: Held, that the accused ought to have been committed to the Sessions. In re : Arumugam.

11 Cr. L. J. 196 :
4 I. C. 1134 : 5 M. L. T. 257.

———Ss. 307, 326—Sentence—Accused aiming gun and threatening to shoot a person—Grievous hurt to such person—Conviction under Ss. 307 and 326—Propriety of.

Where a person aimed his gun at another and tried to shoot him, but in so doing, his gun went off and the person aimed at was grievously wounded and the accused was convicted both of attempted murder and grievous hurt: Held, that conviction was not improper as there was nothing incongruous between S. 307 and S. 326, but punishment should be one. Manghan Khan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 487 :
167 I. C. 943 : 30 S. L. R. 238 :
9 R. S. 213 : A. I. R. 1937 Sind 61.

———Ss. 307, 328, 337, 109—Offences under—Administering injurious drug or potion rashly in ignorance of its nature or effect—Offence—Attempt to murder—Abolition.

The 1st accused got a potion from the 2nd accused, her lover, and administered it to her husband to make him less quarrelsome towards her. The 2nd and 3rd accused prepared the potion, knowing that it contained dhatura: Held, that the act of the 1st accused amounted to an offence under S. 387, Penal Code, and the acts of the 2nd and 3rd accused under Ss. 307 and 109 and 328 and 109, respectively. Bhagava Giriappa v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 443 :
38 I. C. 1003 : 19 Bom. L. R. 54 :
A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 98.

———Ss. 308, 325—Intention, absence of—Sudden attack suspecting innocent person to be thief—Infliction of severe injuries—No evidence of intention to kill—Conviction for attempt to commit culpable homicide—Legality of conviction—More grievous hurt.

An old sweeper went out towards the latter part of the night to ease himself and while he was passing a place where the cowdung cakes belonging to the accused's master were kept, the accused, suspecting him to be a thief rushed against him with a dang and forthwith struck violent blow on the sweeper's head and arms, and inflicted very severe injuries on him. The Magistrate convicted him of an offence under S. 308, Penal Code: Held, that the accused could not, under the circumstances, be convicted of an offence under S. 308, Penal Code, but only of an offence under S. 325, inasmuch as there was no evidence whatever to show that the accused had any intention of killing the sweeper or knew that he was likely to kill him. Natha Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 619 :

102 I. C. 907 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 801.

————S. 309—Attempt to commit suicide.

Severe sentences should not be passed in cases of attempt to commit suicide, where the accused suffers from a bodily affection which is likely to cause him acute mental depression. Emperor v. Appulsawmy.

1 Cr. L. J. 477 :

2 L. B. R. 209.

————S. 309—Attempt to commit suicide, what amounts to—Jumping into well to avoid Police.

A person, who jumps into a well in order to avoid and escape from the Police and subsequently comes out of the well himself, and there is no evidence that he jumped into the well to commit suicide, cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 309, Penal Code. Emperor v. Dwarka Poonja.

13 Cr. L. J. 240 :

14 I. C. 598 : 14 Bom. L. R. 146.

————S. 309—Sentence.

It is not necessary to inflict a sentence of imprisonment upon a person who, on account of family discord, destitution, loss of a dear relation, or other cause of a like nature, overcomes the instinct of self-preservation and decides to take his life. Musammal Barkat v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 682 :

155 I. C. 283 : 35 P. L. R. 439 :

15 Lah. 872 : 7 R. L. 678 :

A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 514.

————Ss. 309, 312, 511—Attempt to commit suicide—Attempt by woman in advanced state of pregnancy to commit suicide—Child born dead—Offence.

Where a woman driven almost frantic by pains of prolonged labour attempted to take her own life, and in so doing, her infant was born dead: Held, that she was guilty of attempting to commit suicide, but that she could not be convicted of attempting to voluntarily cause miscarriage. Emperor v. Mula.

20 Cr. L. J. 395 (b) :

50 I. C. 1003 : 17 A. L. J. 478j :

A. I. R. 1919 All. 376.

————S. 317—Abandonment of child—Having the care of such child, meaning of—Person entrusted with custody of child for abandonment, whether 'has care' of child—Offence.

Any person receiving an infant from its mother, on the distinct understanding that the mother never desired or wished to have the child back again, must in law be regarded as a person having the care of that child until he or she has transferred it to the care and custody of some other person or institution. The shortness or temporary nature of the custody is immaterial and any exposure or abandonment by the person receiving the child is an offence under S. 317, Penal Code. The mother is also guilty of an offence under Ss. 317 and 109, Penal Code, if she hands over the child so that it might be abandoned. Emperor v. Blanche Constant Cripps.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 98 :

37 I. C. 306 : 18 Bom. L. R. 934 :

41 Bom. 152 : A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 135.

————S. 317—Scope of—Abandonment of child—Facts necessary for conviction—Prosecution, duty of—Section, whether applicable to mere neglect or temporary abandonment.

In order to secure a conviction under S. 317, Penal Code, it is incumbent on the prosecution to prove, beyond all reasonable doubt, that the accused had exposed or left a child under the age of twelve years in some place with the intention of wholly abandoning it. That section will not apply to a case of mere neglect or temporary abandonment. If in any particular case there is reasonable doubt as to the intention with which the child was left, the accused is entitled to the benefit of the doubt. Gitabai v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 253 :

55 I. C. 205 : A. I. R. 1920 Nag. 181.

————S. 317—Throwing illegitimate child in bush—Mother giving birth to illegitimate child—Concealing fact—Never showing any solicitude for child—Guilty of offence.

Where a woman, immediately after giving birth to an illegitimate child and throwing it into a thorn bush, walked nearly a mile and a half, gave a false account of her condition to her companions, dispensed with an assistance even after she reached home, denied having given birth to a child when questioned by the Headman next morning and never asked after the child's welfare at any time or showed any solicitude on the subject: Held, that the woman was guilty of the offence under S. 317, Penal Code. Emperor v. Mi Mein Gale.

15 Cr. L. J. 525 :

24 I. C. 837 : 2 U. B. R. 1914, 5 :

A. I. R. 1914 U. Bur. 22.

————S. 318—Object of.

S. 318 is designed to punish a person for intentionally concealing the birth of the child though she will not escape the consequences of her act if she merely discloses the fact of the birth to some confidant. Sailabala Dasi v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1460 :

158 I. C. 961 : 39 C. W. N. 990 :

62 C. L. J. 260 : 62 Cal. 1127 :

8 R. C. 216 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 489.

————S. 318—Offence under, what constitutes.

The accused being pregnant with an illegitimate child, went to the village jungle for purposes of nature and there, in the presence of another woman, gave birth to a child which died almost immediately. The dead body was left on the spot where the birth took place and was there discovered two or three days afterwards: Held, that the mere leaving of the body where the birth took place did not constitute an offence under S. 318, Penal Code. Mst. Saraswati v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 667 : 1 N. L. R. 89.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 318—Scope of.

Birth in hospital and known to nurses and others—Case of concealment of birth, held not made out. Sailabala Dasi v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1460 :
158 I. C. 761 : 39 C. W. N. 990 :
62 C. L. J. 260 : 62 Cal. 1127 :
8 R. C. 216 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 489.

-----S. 318—Scope of.

In order to convict a woman of attempting to conceal the birth of her child, the dead body must be found and identified as that of the child of which she is alleged to have been delivered. Sailabala Dasi v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1460 :
158 I. C. 761 : 39 C. W. N. 990 :
62 C. L. J. 260 : 62 Cal. 1127 :
8 R. C. 216 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 489.

-----S. 318 — Scope of—Public place—Leaving the dead body of a child.

Where a person leaves the dead body of a child in a public place near a number of houses, there is "no secret disposition of the body" within the meaning of S. 318, Penal Code. Abbas Bi v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 562 :
12 I. C. 650 : 1911, 2 M. W. N. 379.

-----S. 318—Scope of.

The offence punished by S. 318, Penal Code, cannot be committed unless the child has reached such a stage of maturity at the time of birth that it might have been a living child. Emperor v. Mi Pyo Nyo.

3 Cr. L. J. 432 :
U. B. R. Cr. 1905.

-----S. 318—Scope of.

The placing of the dead body of a child on a batora (dung heap) quite close to a public road does not amount to a secret disposing of it within the meaning of S. 318, Penal Code. Emperor v. Bakhtawari.

14 Cr. L. J. 525 :
20 I. C. 1005 : 26 P. W. R. 1913 Cr. :
328 P. L. R. 1913.

-----S. 319—Knowledge — Dhatura, administration of as love philtre.

When dhatura is given to a young girl as a love-philtre with the intention of persuading her to fall in love with the accused and there is no intention to cause hurt to anybody, the act of the accused does not constitute an offence under S. 328, Penal Code, but the accused must be deemed to have had knowledge that the administering of the drug was likely to cause hurt within the meaning of S. 319 of the Penal Code. Anis Beg v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 413 : 84 I. C. 1053 : 21 A. L. J. 844 : 46 All. 77 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 215.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

-----S. 320—Duty of Magistrate—Cases of hurt or grievous hurt.

In cases of hurt, it is the duty of the Magistrate to come to a finding of his own as to whether the hurt was grievous or simple, and for this purpose, to examine the medical officer to ascertain whether the injuries are of any of the kinds specified in S. 320, Penal Code. It is not the business of the Medical Officer to classify a hurt as grievous or simple, but to describe facts, from which the Magistrate will decide whether the hurt is grievous or not. Po Maung v. Emperor. 4 Cr. L. J. 202 : 3 L. B. R. 196.

-----Ss. 320, 325—Grievous hurt—Sufferer dying before expiration of twenty days.

The designation in S. 320, Penal Code, of a hurt as grievous which causes the sufferer to be, during the space of twenty days, in severe bodily pain, or unable to follow his ordinary pursuits, applies only when such effect actually lasts for a period of twenty days, and not when the sufferer dies before that period has expired. Mahindra Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 294 :
84 I. C. 438 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 297.

-----S. 321.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 323.

-----S. 322.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 323.

-----S. 322—Knowledge.

A person who forcibly thrusts a lathi into the rectum of another must at least know that he is likely thereby to cause grievous hurt to the victim as the rectum is a very tender part of the human body, even if it be supposed for a moment that he did not thereby intend to cause grievous hurt. Sital v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1151 :
157 I. C. 370 : 1935 O. L. R. 467 :
1935 O. W. N. 902 : 8 R. O. 18 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 468.

-----Ss. 322, 325—Duty of Magistrate—Voluntarily causing grievous hurt.

A Magistrate or Court dealing with a charge of voluntarily causing grievous hurt must consider and decide not only whether grievous hurt has been caused, but if it has been caused, whether the accused intended or knew himself to be likely to cause grievous hurt. If he intended or knew himself to be likely to cause simple hurt only, he cannot be convicted under S. 325. Nga Tune v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 431 :
28 I. C. 1007 : U. B. R. 1914, II 35 :
A. I. R. 1914 U. Bur. 26.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 322, 325—Intention—Grievous hurt—Nature of injury and circumstances of case—Drunkenness—Question of intent or motive.

An intent to cause grievous hurt may be inferred from the circumstances of the case and the nature of the injury caused. When a man hits another over the head with a stick hard enough to fracture his skull and endanger his life, he must, in the circumstances, have either intended to cause grievous hurt or known that he was likely to cause it. Drunkenness may be taken into consideration when dealing with the intention or motive to commit an offence in a state of drunkenness. Nga Po Gyaw v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 471 ;
15 I. C. 311 : U. B. R. 1911, I 105.

———S. 323.

See also (i) Calcutta Police Act, 1866, S. 46.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 35, 222, 235, 236, 250, 260.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 90, 143, 147, 149, 201, 302, 304, 325, 332

———S. 323—Acquittal, propriety of—Hurt—Finding that there was altercation and squabble—Offence.

On an appeal from a conviction under S. 323, Penal Code, the District Magistrate found that there was probably an altercation and squabble between the parties and that only a technical offence had been committed: Held, that on this finding the accused should have been acquitted. Mansa Ram v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 303 (a) :
50 I. C. 351 : 6 P. W. R. 1919 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1919 Lah. 128.

———S. 323—Burden of proof.

The accused, who were found by the High Court in a previous suit to be in possession of two out of six plots of land claimed by the complainants as theirs, were charged by the complainants for having removed paddy from a particular plot of land belonging to them. The accused pleaded a bona fide claim of right. The Magistrate convicted the accused to prove that the onus was on the accused to prove that the paddy alleged to have been taken away was from a plot possessed by them: Held, that the burden was on the prosecution to prove that the particular plot concerned was not one of the two plots which were found to be in the accused's possession, and that in the absence of such evidence, the accused could not be convicted. Bhan Prasad Chaudhury v. Barhamdeo Chaudhury.

28 Cr. L. J. 760 :
103 I. C. 840 : A. I. R. 1927 Pat. 385.

———S. 323—Conviction.

In all ordinary cases of conviction under S. 323, Penal Code, there is a conviction for an offence involving a breach of the peace within S. 106, Cr. P. C., although the desirability of taking security must depend upon how far the circumstances indicate that such a breach of the peace is likely to recur. Mewa Lal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 686 :
116 I. C. 789 : I. R. 1929 All. 613 :
1929 A. L. J. 340 : 51 All. 540 :
A. I. R. 1929 All. 349.

———S. 323—Conviction, legality of—Hurt—Complainant's story disbelieved.

Complainant charged the accused under S. 323, Penal Code, with specific acts of assault. The Magistrate disbelieved the complainant's story but nevertheless convicted the accused under S. 323 upon the evidence of a constable, who deposed that when he arrived at the scene, he saw the complainant and the accused fighting in the street: Held, that the conviction was bad. Janakidas v. Raghunath Lal.

19 Cr. L. J. 719 :
46 I. C. 303 : A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 484.

———S. 323—Conviction, legality of—Prosecution evidence disbelieved—Conviction based on injuries on persons of accused—Whether can be upheld.

Where in a prosecution under S. 323, Penal Code, the Judge disbelieved the entire prosecution evidence and convicted the accused simply because they bore a number of injuries on their persons: Held, that the conviction could not be upheld simply because they bore injuries on their persons. If the Judge wanted to maintain the convictions of the accused, it was incumbent upon him to base the convictions on some evidence apart from the presence of injuries on the persons of the accused. Hakam Khan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 797 (a) :
169 I. C. 453 : 39 P. L. R. 7 :
10 R. L. 17 (2).

———S. 323—Conviction under, maintainability of—Criminal trespass—Assault.

The two petitioners went with a Naib-Nazir of the Civil Court and some peons to execute a decree for ejectment which they had obtained against their sister's husband. On their arrival, the delivery of possession was opposed by the complainant in the case on the ground that the house belonged to her and that she was not a party to the decree. The complainant's husband was not present and the petitioner dragged the complainant out of the house. They were convicted under Ss. 448 and 323, Penal Code: Held, (1) that the conviction under S. 448, Penal Code, was illegal inasmuch as the petitioners had entered the house not for the purpose of intimidating, insulting or annoying any person or to commit any offence but to execute a Civil Court decree which they had obtained against one of the occupants of the house; (2) but the petitioners were clearly guilty of an offence under S. 323, Penal Code, inasmuch as the complainant was not a party to the decree, and therefore, the petitioners were not entitled to forcibly remove her. Abdul Sattar v. Moli Bibi.

31 Cr. L. J. 1223 :
127 I. C. 551 : 34 C. W. N. 583 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 720.

———S. 323—Conviction under—Procedure.

Where the same complainant files a complaint under S. 107, Cr. P. C., and a separate one against the same persons under S. 323, Penal Code, the former alone should not be transferred to the Court of the Bench Magistrate. Rameshwar Datt Singh v. Bharath Singh.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 417 (2) :
147 I. C. 516 : 11 O. W. N. 75 :
6 R. O. 273 : A. I. R. 1934 Oudh 85.

—S. 323—Conviction under, when justified—Hurt endangering life Right of self-defence and exceeding that right—Knowledge and intention requisite in grievous hurt.

Where a dispute led to a fight with sticks in which both the accused and the deceased were injured but the deceased sustained a rupture of spleen from which he died and where in evidence the prosecution witnesses said the deceased was lying on the ground and the accused was striking him when they came up, while the accused and his servant said that the deceased struck him the first blow: Held that the accused's statement agreed with the probabilities of the case; that his knowledge and intention were not proved to have been such as to bring the offence in S. 299, that he exceeded his right of private defence in striking him after he had fallen; and that he was guilty under S. 323, I. P. C. Emperor v. Vasta Uka.

1 Cr. L. J. 593.

—S. 323—Husband and wife—Husband, if has general and unqualified right to beat his wife for impudence.

A husband has no general or unqualified right of punishing his wife by beating her for impudence or impertinence. No such general or unqualified right is now-a-days recognised by law, and wife-beating is not eo nomine one of the Exceptions in the Chapter of "General Exceptions" in the Penal Code. Although a Judge may be entitled to have his own views on the subject in a private capacity, yet he is not justified in laying down the law in this manner from his seat on the Bench, and declaring in general and unqualified terms that a husband has such a right. In re: Subbia Goundan.

37 Cr. L. J. 1153 :
165 I. C. 330 : 44 L. W. 348 :
1936 M. W. N. 895 : 9 R. M. 237 :
A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 788.

—S. 323—Offence under—Public servant, not acting as such, assault on.

A Tahsildar was requested to procure some camels for military purpose, he deputed some of his peons to procure the camels, and while they were persuading the owners to take their camels to the Tahsil, the accused who was unconnected with the camel owners, assaulted one of the peons. He was tried and convicted under S. 358, Penal Code: Held, that the peon was not acting in the discharge of his duty as a public servant, and that the conviction could not be sustained, but as some injury was inflicted by the accused, he was liable to conviction under S. 323, Penal Code. Gokal Chand v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 65 :
59 I. C. 321 : A. I. R. 1920 All. 301.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 323—Offence under, what amounts to.

Naib-Tahsildar going to accused's village and demanding revenue—Beating of Naib-Tahsildar by accused's sons—Court considering it not improbable that accused was roughly treated by Naib-Tahsildar—S. 332 does not apply—Offence comes under S. 323. Nuru v. Emperor.
34 Cr. L. J. 460 :
142 I. C. 897 : 33 P. L. R. 1065 :
I. R. 1933 Lah. 292 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 162.

—S. 323—Offence under, what amounts to.

When deceased had come to make a report about a murder, the accused, who was a Sub-Inspector, thinking that the deceased was concealing some facts, got angry and slapped and knocked him down. The deceased then went to the Police Station and when his report was copied down, came back without any assistance but complaining of great pain. The accused took him to his house. Where it was alleged he was killed and his body, with the aid of others was thrown in a jungle. There was absolutely no evidence at all that the Sub-Inspector at any time used any weapon which could have caused the fracture of the skull. The doctor's evidence showed that the chaukidar was a man of about 60 years of age and it might be probable that the fracture of the skull was caused by throwing the body into the ravine after death: Held, that in the absence of any direct medical evidence on the point, it was not impossible that death may have been caused by some internal injury inflicted by the Sub-Inspector when he first attacked the deceased. The accused was, therefore, only guilty under S. 323, Penal Code, and not under S. 304, or S. 325: Held, however, that an assault upon an old man of 60 made in such a way that death resulted, even if that result was in some way unexpected, was an attack of a very brutal nature calling for the severest sentence for the offence that it was possible to inflict. Zahid Beg v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 364 :
173 I. C. 838 : 1937 A. L. J. 1253 :
10 R. A. 508 : 1937 A. W. R. 1099 :
A. I. R. 1938 All. 91.

—S. 323—Prosecution under—Death of complainant—Right of prosecution, survival of.

A prosecution under S. 323, Penal Code, is a personal action and the right to carry on a prosecution under that section does not survive to the legal representatives of a deceased complainant. Rama Nand v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 688 :
40 I. C. 1008 : 96 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
31 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 403.

—S. 323—Prosecution under—Death of person hurt whether causes abatement of prosecution.

A criminal prosecution under S. 323, Penal Code, does not abate by reason of the death of the person hurt. Muhammad Ibrahim v. Shaik Dawood. 23 Cr. L. J. 117 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

65 I. C. 549 : 40 M. L. J. 351 :

13 L. W. 379 : 1921 M. W. N. 227 :

44 Mad. 417 : 30 M. L. T. 349 :

A. I. R. 1921 Mad. 278.

—S 323—Prosecution under, if abates on death — Probate and Administration Act (I of 1881), S. 89—Prosecution for causing hurt — Death of injured person—Prosecution, whether abates.

A criminal prosecution under S. 323, Penal Code, does not abate by reason of death of the person injured. The provisions of S. 89, Probate and Administration Act, are inapplicable to criminal proceedings. Musa v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1007 :

81 I. C. 719 : 22 A. L. J. 520 :

A. I. R. 1924 All. 666.

—S. 323—Simple hurt—Enlarged spleen, and its rupture by a blow.

Where accused struck the deceased on the left side with a heavy stick, by which his spleen which was very greatly enlarged—weighing 17 oz. instead of 5 or 7—was ruptured and he died, held that the offence was simple hurt. Emperor v. Jiwa Mala.

1 Cr. L. J. 298.

—S. 323 Simple hurt, what amounts to.

Where it was found that the object of the assault was not to obtain the restoration of stolen property but that the assault was committed in a fit of anger quite independent of the intention to extract a confession or cause a restoration of stolen property: Held, that the assault did not come under S. 330 but amounted to simple hurt under S. 323, Penal Code. Satya Deva Swami v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 749 :

46 I. C. 525 : 5 P. L. W. 109 :

A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 643.

—Ss. 323, 304, 325 — Simple hurt—Sudden fight between two parties—Death caused by one blow—Absence of conclusive proof.

Where in a sudden fight between certain persons blows of ordinary sticks and of fists were exchanged, and a severe blow was given which fractured the skull bone of one of the persons engaged in the fight and ultimately resulted in his death, but it was not proved conclusively as to who caused the fatal blow nor was there any indication that originally the accused or any member of his party intended or knew it to be likely that any such serious injury would be caused: Held, that the accused could not be convicted of an offence either under S. 304 or 325, but was only responsible for simple hurt, under S. 323, Penal Code. Dhani Ram v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 104 :

18 I. C. 664 : 1 P. W. R. 1913 :

162 P. L. R. 1913.

—Ss. 323, 304, 394, 114, — Hurt—Abettor present when offence committed—Identification.

Where evidence of identification and corroboration proved that the accused were in the attacking party, and that they had a common object which might have been simply to beat, and where the beating was sufficient to rupture the deceased's spleen, but there was nothing to show that they thought they were likely to cause his death: Held, that under S. 114, Penal Code, the accused were liable for the blows given to the deceased, but that they were guilty under S. 323 and not under S. 304. Emperor v. Gata Jeram. 1 Cr. L. J. 220.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 323, 325—Alteration of Conviction, legality of—Prejudice to accused.

The petitioners and one K were convicted by the Trial Court under S. 325, Penal Code, for having broken the knee-cap of the complainant. The Appellate Court found that, so far as the injury to the knee-cap was concerned, that had been caused by the accused K and it came to the conclusion that the petitioners had been guilty of the offence under S. 323, I. P. C., inasmuch as they had inflicted other injuries on the complainant: Held, that the alteration of the conviction of the petitioners from S. 325 to S. 323 by the Appellate Court was unauthorised, inasmuch as they had not been given any opportunity of answering the charge in the first instance of inflicting injuries other than the injury to the knee-cap. Patal Ghose v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 312 :

72 I. C. 72 : A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 532.

—Ss. 323, 325—Benefit of doubt—Accused not intending or knowing it to be likely that he would cause grievous hurt.

The accused, having found that a young man had approached his kept mistress for the purpose of having sexual intercourse with her, thought that he would be justified in teaching him a lesson by giving him a good thrashing. In presence of the villagers he gave him a good beating by kicks and blows, which resulted in his death. The deceased was of a weak constitution and had an enlarged spleen. The accused was thereupon charged with an offence under S. 304. The Jury found him guilty under S. 323. The Sessions Judge disagreed with the Jury and being of opinion that the accused was guilty under S. 325, referred the matter to the High Court under S. 307, Cr. P. C.: Held, that in the circumstances of the case, it was doubtful whether the accused had either intended or knew it to be likely that he would cause grievous hurt, and as the case seemed to be on the border line between Ss. 323 and 325, the accused might be given the benefit of the doubt and should be convicted of an offence under S. 323, Penal Code. Emperor v. Saberali Sarkar. 21 Cr. L. J. 666 :

57 I. C. 826 : A. I. R. 1920 Cal. 401.

—Ss. 323, 325—Jurisdiction—Attempt to commit murder—Conviction for voluntarily causing hurt without specific charge—Legality of.

The offence of hurt is included in the offence of the attempt to commit murder. The Court has jurisdiction to convict the accused of voluntarily causing hurt without a specific charge in that behalf. Gangabisan v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 442 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

167 I. C. 748 : 19 N. L. J. 18 :
9 R. N. 206.

———Ss. 323, 325—Knowledge—Knowledge to cause grievous hurt essential—Imprisonment, obligatory under S. 325.

Where a number of accused intended to beat the complainant but grievous hurt was inflicted: Held, (1) that it must be proved before any one could be convicted of causing grievous hurt that the common object was the intention to cause grievous hurt or the knowledge that any one of them might likely cause grievous hurt in the course of the beating which they intended to give to the complainant; (2) that the imposition of the punishment of imprisonment on a conviction for causing grievous hurt is obligatory. In re : Soogoor Basauna Gowd.

15 Cr. L. J. 192 :
22 I. C. 768 : A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 269.

———Ss. 323, 325—Sentence, extent of, how to be determined.

The extent of the proper sentence does not depend entirely or even mainly on the section under which it has to be passed. That had to be decided on the circumstances of the offence. An offence punishable under S. 323, may require and get a much heavier sentence than one punishable under S. 325, Penal Code. Emperor v. Akosh Kunbi.

27 Cr. L. J. 1229 :
97 I. C. 1053 : A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 49.

———Ss. 323, 326—Separate sentence, legality of.

Separate sentences cannot be passed in law under Ss. 323 and 326, Penal Code, in the case of an assault upon a single person. Davi Sahai v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 662 :
103 I. C. 198 : 1 Luck. Cas. 199 :
A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 313.

———Ss. 323, 332—Hurt—Excise Inspector searching house—Irrregularities—Hurt caused to Inspector.

An Excise Inspector, in searching the house of the applicant on the suspicion that he might find there cocaine, committed a number of irregularities in conducting this search. He brought with him only one search witness and directed a constable to scale the outer wall of the house. The accused caused hurt to the Inspector and the constables: Held, that the Inspector and the constables were not acting in the discharge of their duties as public servants and that, therefore, the accused were not guilty under S. 332, but only under S. 323, Penal Code. Mukhtar Ahmad v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 495 :
29 I. C. 335 : 13 A. L. J. 439 :
37 All. 353 : A. I. R. 1915 All. 208.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 323, 334—Provocation, if good plea—Blow, striking of, under provocation—Offence.

It is not correct to say that a person who strikes a blow under provocation commits no offence. Ghasila v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 574 :
94 I. C. 142.

———Ss. 323, 336, 39—Hurt, voluntary causing of—Stone-throwing—Rash or negligent act causing hurt—Intention—Offence.

Each case of stone-throwing should be considered on its merits, especially with reference to the knowledge and intention of the accused. S. 386, Penal Code, should not be applied where the facts constitute a graver offence. The accused, who had a quarrel with his debtor over non-discharge of a loan, pelted brick-bats at his house knowing that there were occupants in it, and hurt one of them, who was under medical treatment for 10 days: Held, that the accused should be convicted under S. 323, Penal Code, and not under S. 386, as the hurt caused was the natural and probable consequence of his act. Emperor v. Maung Po Nyan.

17 Cr. L. J. 465 (a) :
36 I. C. 145 : A. I. R. 1916 L. Bur. 398.

———Ss. 323, 354—Act in good faith—No offence.

Where under an order of a Civil Court a peon was deputed to hand over possession of a house to the decree-holder and on his going there to deliver possession, he was told by the daughter-in-law of the judgment-debtor that the latter was not there and she and her husband refused to vacate the house and they were forcibly removed from the house by the applicants: Held, that she was wrong in refusing to vacate the house and being bound by the decree, under O. XXI, R. 35, C. P. C., she could, if necessary, be forcibly removed from the house if she refused to vacate: Held, also that as for the dhoti of the woman getting loose in her struggle, that was no deliberate act on the part of the applicants but that was a direct result of her own violence during the struggle and there was no attempt to violate her modesty. Consequently, the applicants were wrongly convicted of the offences of causing simple hurt and of assaulting a woman with the intention of outraging her modesty. Baij Nath v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 892 :
164 I. C. 99 : 1936 O. W. N. 601 :
1936 O. L. R. 428 : 9 R. O. 38 :
A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 379.

———Ss. 323, 379—Defence of bona fide claim of right, nature of.

Where in a prosecution under Ss. 323 and 379, Penal Code, the accused set up the plea of a bona fide claim of right, the question whether the right which the accused allege would stand the test in a Court of a Civil Law, is a matter which does not arise at all; what is essential to consider being whether they had established their plea as to their bona fide claim of right. Bhan Prasad Ohaudhury v. Barhamdeo Chaudhury.

28 Cr. L. J. 760 :
103 I. C. 840 : A. I. R. 1927 Fa. 385.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 323, 382—Scope of—Theft after preparation for causing hurt—Hurt.

In order to sustain a conviction under S. 382, Penal Code, actual theft must have been committed. Complainant was sleeping on a bed in front of an enclosure containing his cattle and was awakened to find the accused persons round his bed, who threw him to the ground and beat him: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 323 but not of one under S. 382, Penal Code. Lal Singh v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 386 : 77 I. C. 434 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 512.

—Ss. 323, 452—Separate sentences—Conviction, both under Ss. 323 and 452 for offences committed on same occasion—Separate sentence for each offence, if legal.

An offence under S. 323, Penal Code, is not necessarily included in one punishable under S. 452. Where, therefore, an accused is convicted for offences both under Ss. 323 and 452, committed on one and the same occasion, separate sentences can be passed for each offence. Tan Aung Ba v. The King. 39 Cr. L. J. 487 : 174 I. C. 952 : 10 R. Rang. 454 : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 114.

—S. 324.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 489.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 71, 390.

—S. 324—Conviction, legality of—Evidence of attack and persons attacking doubtful—Conviction even for hurt is not justified.

Where the fact of the evidence itself being of a doubtful character, was the determining reason which led the Sessions Judge to reduce the offence to one of hurt under S. 324, I. P. C., there is really no justification for this conviction in view of the unsatisfactory evidence relating to the attack on the deceased and in particular to the persons who took part in it, In re : Mohideen Richai Rawther.

41 Cr. L. J. 337 : 186 I. C. 525 : 1939 M. W. N. 879 : 50 L. W. 557 : 12 Mad. 671 : A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 43.

—S. 324—'Fracture,' meaning of.

The primary meaning of the word "fracture" is "breaking," though it is not necessary in the case of a fracture of the skull bone that it be divided into two separate parts because it may consist merely of a crack, but if it is a crack, it must be a crack which extends from the outer surface of the skull to the inner surface. Maung Po Yi v. Ma E Tin.

38 Cr. L. J. 960 : 170 I. C. 753 : 10 R. Rang. 104 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 253.

—Ss. 324, 307—Simple hurt—Blow with hatchet—Causing simple hurt.

The accused struck his wife on her neck with an axe resulting in an incised wound which amounted in law to simple hurt only. He was convicted under S. 307, Penal Code, by the Sessions Judge: Held, that, upon the facts of the case, the accused should have been convicted under S. 324, Penal Code. Martuti Vithoba Probhu v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 641 : 21 I. C. 881 : 15 Bom. L. R. 991.

—S. 324—Weapon, nature of—Blow with bamboo stick—Offence, if under S. 324.

To bring an offence under S. 324, Penal Code, the instrument must be one, not which is "liable," but which is "likely" to cause death, the instrument used, must be one of which one can predicate that the probable result of its use will be, by virtue of its very nature, death. It must be inherent in the nature of the instrument used that death is likely to ensue. Where the injury results from a blow with a bamboo stick, the conviction should be altered to one under S. 323. Nga Po Nyan v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 299 : 166 I. C. 840 : 9 R. Rang. 279 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 8.

—S. 325.

See also (i) Cr. P. C. 1898, Ss. 35, 238 (1), 307, 345, 345 (2).
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 76, 90, 143, 147, 148, 149, 201, 302, 304, 323.

—S. 325—Causing grievous hurt.

Accused taking away boy for a 'magic worship'—Causing wound on back of neck—Subsequently apologizing and bandaging the wound—Accused held, though intended to kill, since he changed his mind, conviction should be altered to less serious offence of causing grievous hurt. Mullu v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 305 : 160 I. C. 525 : 1935 A. W. R. 812 : 8 R. A. 634 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 614.

—S. 325—Causing grievous hurt.

Where the accused struck the deceased with a lathi on the head and with a single blow caused a fracture of the skull which resulted in death: Held, that the accused was guilty at least of an offence under S. 325, Penal Code. Khidir Bux v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 139 : 49 I. C. 171 : 3 P. L. J. 636 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 404.

—S. 325—Conviction under—Accused causing grievous and simple hurts to same person on same occasion—He can be convicted and sentenced only under S. 325.

Where an accused has caused grievous and simple hurts to one and the same person on the same occasion, he can be convicted and sentenced only under S. 325, I. P. C., and not also under S. 323, separately. Permeswar v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 775 : 189 I. C. 648 : 1940 O. W. N. 659 : 1940 O. L. R. 491 : 13 R. O. 101 : A. I. R. 1940 Oudh 419.

—S. 325—Conviction under, when avails—Liability of members of defending party—Grievous hurt—Death caused by pneumonia six weeks after hurt—Offence.

Accused gave two blows to the deceased on his head which partially fractured his skull. The deceased was sent to a hospital and left it some days afterwards, when he was progressing well. A month and a half after the occurrence, he died of pneumonia but it was not shown that the pneumonia was the direct result of the injury to the head: Held, that under the circumstances, accused could not be convicted under S. 304, Penal Code, and that the offence fell under S. 325 of the Code. Accused, more than five in number, caused grievous hurt to some of the complainant's party, while attempting to defend their property against the attack of the complainant's party. It was found that the accused had exceeded the right of private defence of property, but it could not be ascertained which of them had caused the grievous hurt: Held, that all of them were guilty under S. 325, read with S. 149 of the Penal Code. Umrao v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 693 : 81 I. C. 181 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 441.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 325—Common object—Grievous hurt—Culpable homicide not amounting to murder—More than one person aggressing.

Where six persons, one of whom had an iron-shod lathi, came determined to take possession of a taur while the deceased was determined to resist them, and the person having the iron-shod lathi inflicted the fatal injury on the head of the deceased and thus fractured his skull and killed him: Held, that the members of the party were undoubtedly the aggressors and they certainly knew that grievous hurt was likely to be inflicted and came prepared in furtherance of their common object to inflict it. Further, the man who inflicted the fatal injury when he aimed the blow he did, at the deceased's head, knew that there was a likelihood of his death, seeing that he had brought with him such a lathi. Hoshnak Singh v. Emperor. 9 L. L. J. 529 : 29 P. L. R. 265 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 881.

———S. 325—Intention to cause grievous hurt—Blow aimed at woman causing death of child.

Accused attempted to enter a house in order to heat the owner of the house. The latter's wife, who was carrying her infant in her arms, tried to bar accused's passage by shutting the door. The accused forced open the door and aimed a lathi blow at the woman which struck the child and killed it. It was found that it was too dark for the accused to have perceived that the woman was carrying a child: Held, (1) that the accused could only be convicted of the offence of striking the woman; (2) that inasmuch as the accused used a lathi and struck the blow with some force, he must be held to have intended to cause grievous hurt. Dyal Singh v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 4 : 71 I. C. 52 : 5 L. L. J. 228 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 47.

———S. 325—Offence under—Attack with sticks—Death caused by beating—Offence—Murder—Culpable homicide—Grievous hurt.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

The party of the accused, eighteen in number, armed with sotas and dangs attacked the party of the deceased, four in number, and inflicted certain injuries on the deceased as the result of which he died. The deceased, sustained injuries on the head, though the skull was not fractured and two of his ribs were fractured. Death was caused by shock due to numerous injuries on the body. One of the companions of the deceased sustained simple hurt and the remaining two only trivial injuries: Held, (1) that it could not be said that the common intention of the accused was to cause the death of the deceased, but it must be held that the common intention of the accused was to cause grievous hurt, or that the accused knew that at least grievous hurt was likely to be caused; (2) that the accused were, therefore, guilty of offence under S. 325, Penal Code read with S. 149. Dadu v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 691 : 81 I. C. 179 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 43.

———S. 325—Offence under—Death caused by lathi blows in fight.

A trivial quarrel between the party of the accused and the party of the complainant led to a fight in which both sides used lathis and one of the men of the complainant's party died as a result of the numerous lathi blows received by him: Held, that the accused were guilty of offences under S. 325, Penal Code. Kedar v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 76 : 84 I. C. 636 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 284.

———S. 325—Offence under.

Where intention was only to cause grievous hurt, but on sudden impulse, accused strikes with dang lying near by, offence is only under S. 325 and not under S. 302. Gama v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1348 : 151 I. C. 390 : 36 P. L. R. 313 : 7 R. L. 122 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 335.

———S. 325—Scope of.

In order to frame a charge for grievous hurt under S. 325 there must be evidence to show also that the injured person was in severe bodily pain for 20 days or was unable to carry on his ordinary avocations. Khair Din v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 1254 : 134 I. C. 829 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 1021 : A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 280.

———S. 325—Scope of.

Where it is impossible to decide which of the two accused struck the fatal blow, the offence committed by them falls under S. 325, Penal Code, and not under S. 304. Waryam Singh v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 451 : 72 I. C. 611 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 394.

———S. 325—Sentence—Accused hitting deceased with lathi—Deceased not armed—No fighting proved—Sentence of three years held not excessive.

A sentence of rigorous imprisonment for a period of three years is not excessive for a man who has caused the death of another by hitting him with a lathi, and is held guilty under S. 325, Penal Code, especially when the deceased was not armed and that there was nothing in the nature of a fight. Ajog Narain v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 193 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

166 I. C. 369 : 9 R. A. 402 :
1936 A. L. J. 1310 : A. I. R. 1937 All. 14.

—S. 325—Sentence—Offence under—Revision—Fine paid—Interference, if proper.

For an offence under S. 325, a sentence of fine only is not sufficient. But when such is the sentence and fine has been paid, the High Court will not interfere and pass sentence of imprisonment, especially when more than five months have elapsed since the case was settled. Emperor v. Ghani Shah. 38 Cr. L. J. 180 (a) :

166 I. C. 343 : 38 P. L. R. 229 :
9 R. L. 360 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 131.

—S. 325—Sentence.

Sentence of fine only for offence under S. 325—Sentence irregular but High Court will not interfere under S. 439, Cr. P. C. Ramchander Rai v. Ram Belas Tewari. 34 Cr. L. J. 407 :

142 I. C. 624 : 14 P. L. T. 71 :
I. R. 1933 Pat. 161 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 179 (1).

—S. 325—Severe sentence.

Since the torture had resulted in the death of some of the convicts, the accused was sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment, the most severe sentence possible under S. 325, I. P. C. Chaman Lal v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 639 :

188 I. C. 440 : I. L. R. 1940 Lah. 521 :
13 R. L. 41 : A. I. R. 1940 Lah. 210.

—S. 325—Throwing stones causing death—Intention—Sentence.

Where in a fight which is sudden and unpremeditated, the accused throws a stone at the deceased and causes death, he is guilty under S. 325. But as he did not throw the stone deliberately, the sentence of seven years was reduced to four years. Shan v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 1456 :

151 I. C. 968 : 35 P. L. R. 301 :
7 R. L. 231 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 111.

—S. 325.

Held, on facts that if the accused go armed with sticks with the intention of beating, the question whether or not they are guilty of causing grievous hurt under S. 325 read with S. 34, Penal Code, is one deserving serious consideration. Ganda Datta v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 715 (b) :

162 I. C. 925 : 8 R. N. 292 :
I. L. R. 1936 Nag. 54 : A. I. R. 1936 Nag. 87.

—Ss. 325, 34—Offence under.

Held on facts that there was no unlawful assembly of five or more persons—Accused held intended to give only sound beating to deceased and that offence fell under S. 325 read with S. 34. Bhagwati v. King-Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 754 :

183 I. C. 265 : 1939 O. W. N. 662 :
1939 O. L. R. 486 : 12 R. O. 20 :
A. I. R. 1939 Oudh 254.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 325, 109—Conviction under—Offence committed murder, intention being only to give beating—Persons not actually committing murder held guilty under S. 325 read with S. 109.

Where the intention of the accused was to give the deceased a beating with lathis, but one of them actually commits murder, others in reality abet an offence under S. 325, Penal Code, and are guilty under S. 325 read with S. 109 and though the act of murder committed by one of them was done with the aid of others, it cannot be said that it was a probable consequence of the abetment on their part. Raja Ram v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 14 :

178 I. C. 162 : 11 R. O. 96 :
1938 O. L. R. 469 : 1938 O. W. N. 1057 :
14 Luck. 328 : A. I. R. 1938 Oudh 256.

—Ss. 325, 302—Grievous hurt or murder—Intention and knowledge—Common object—Provocation—Subordinate offenders liable to less punishment.

Three shepherds, on being pursued by the owner of a haystack on which they had been feeding their sheep, made a stand, and as the owner rushed at one of them intending probably to take him to the Police, the others rescued him, while that shepherd, angry at the owner's rough treatment, struck him with his stick. There being no evidence of further beating except the hearing of his voice asking for mercy, and his body having been found some days later devoured by jackals, it could not be ascertained whether he died by that blow or by other blows, if any, dealt by them, but that shepherd's stick was iron-shod and found split while those of the others were not iron-shod and found intact. They were all charged with murder: Held, that the offence was really one of grievous hurt, the shepherd having lost his temper, and in the course of the struggle, gave him a blow which probably fractured his skull; that, as the three accused were all fighting, the principal offender's act was done in furtherance of their common object; and that, therefore, they were all guilty, but that the other two, having taken a subordinate part, should be punished less. Emperor v. Dhana Pancha. 2 Cr. L. J. 196.

—Ss. 325, 304—Culpable homicide and grievous hurt—Sudden quarrel—Common stick not dangerous weapon.

Where for some cause or other a violent quarrel took place between two parties, in the course of which one's skull was fractured and the other was hurt by sticks, held, that the accused were not guilty of culpable homicide but of grievous hurt in the case of the deceased, there being no intention to cause death or any knowledge of the likelihood of death ensuing, and of simple hurt and not of hurt by dangerous weapons in the case of the other, common sticks being not dangerous weapons; but that the ringleader should be punished more severely than the rest. Emperor v. Kala Kana. 1 Cr. L. J. 627.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 325, 304, Part II—Alternative conviction, if maintainable.

A conviction cannot be made under Ss. 325 and 304, Part II in the alternative. If the evidence shows that an offence under S. 304, Part II, has been committed, it is unnecessary to mention S. 325; if the evidence does not show an offence under S. 304, Part II, this section should not be mentioned. Sadhu Singh v. Emperor, 34 Cr. L. J. 1210 :

146 I. C. 221 (1) : 6 R. L. 187 (2) :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 865.

—Ss. 325, 307—Grievous hurt—Attempt to murder—Grievous hurt.

The persons armed with lathis made a sudden attack upon a third, beat him to the ground, broke his thigh and ulna bone, struck at nine places and continued to strike after he had fallen on the ground. Only one injury was caused on the head: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 325, Penal Code, and not of an offence under S. 307 of the Code. Emperor v. Sher Singh, 28 Cr. L. J. 266 :
100 I. C. 234 : 8 Lah. 521 :
28 P. L. R. 551 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 217.

—Ss. 325, 323—Conviction under S. 325, legality of—Which of two accused caused grievous hurt, not clear—They cannot be convicted under S. 325 but only under S. 323.

Where it is not possible to say as to which of the two accused caused the grievous hurt, neither of them can be convicted under S. 325, I. P. C., but both can be convicted only under S. 323. In re : T. Palaniswami Goundan, 41 Cr. L. J. 923 :

190 I. C. 490 : 51 L. W. 590 :
1940 M. W. N. 538 : 13 R. M. 412 :
A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 586.

—S. 326.

See also (i) Criminal trial.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 4, 34,
71, 80, 96, 97, 147, 148,
300, 302, 304, 307, 320.

—S. 326—Causing grievous hurt—Right of private defence exceeded.

Where the accused were justified in defending one S from the insult and assault of the complainants but used ekhavis and caused grievous hurts: Held, that they exceeded the right of self-defence which they had by law. Giyani Singh v. Emperor, 15 Cr. L. J. 540 :

24 I. C. 948 : 182 P. L. R. 1914 :
19 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 178.

—S. 326—Conviction, propriety of.

Deceased and his son attacking accused—Accused attacking them ferociously—Absence of knowledge on accused's part that wounds inflicted would cause death—Conviction under S. 326 is proper. Teja Singh v. Emperor, 35 Cr. L. J. 90 :

146 I. C. 420 : 34 P. L. R. 961 :
6 R. L. 224 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 733.

—S. 326—Conviction under, legality of—Fight with sharp weapons—Serious injuries—

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Absence of eye-witnesses—Attempt to murder—Grievous hurt.

Two persons fought with each other with sharp weapons and were so severely wounded that their dying depositions had to be taken. They recovered, however, and each was charged with an offence under S. 307, Penal Code. There were no eye-witnesses to the fight, and each of the accused was convicted on the evidence of his opponent, the corroborative evidence of the wounds and the admission of each of the accused that he was wounded in the fight: Held, (1) that if either of the accused had died in consequence of his wounds, it would not have been permissible to convict the other of murder on the facts as established, because he would have been entitled to plead that the case came within Exception 4 to S. 300, Penal Code; (2) that, therefore, neither of the accused could legally be convicted of an attempt to murder under S. 307, Penal Code. Nga Po Thaik v. Emperor, 26 Cr. L. J. 409 :

84 I. C. 1049 : 2 Rang. 558 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 133.

—S. 326—Conviction under, maintainability of—Essentials for conviction under S. 326—Accused held could be convicted only under S. 323.

An accused cannot be convicted under S. 326, Penal Code, unless the weapon used by him was deadly and the hurt intended or known to be likely to be caused was grievous. Where the injury constituting grievous hurt caused by a stick is a simple fracture of the radius of the arm and there is no evidence as to the size or nature of the stick used, it cannot be said for certain that hurt intended or known to be likely to be caused was grievous. The conviction under S. 326, Penal Code, in such a case is, therefore, unsustainable and the accused can be convicted only under S. 323. In re : Nataraja Goundan, 40 Cr. L. J. 827 (a) :

183 I. C. 602 (1) : 49 L. W. 553 :
1939 M. W. N. 414 :

1939, 1 M. L. J. 886 : 12 R. M. 331 (1) :
A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 507.

—S. 326—Offence under.

Common intention—Acts done in furtherance of common intention—Trespassing into house for abduction—Causing grievous hurt to pursuers while escaping—Offence is under S. 326. Photo v. Emperor, 35 Cr. L. J. 357 :

147 I. C. 264 : 27 S. L. R. 269 :
6 R. S. 140 : A. I. R. 1933 Sind 407.

—S. 326—Offence under.

Devil dancers attempting to cure woman by brandishing her with consent of husband—Death of woman from injuries—Husband burying her due to panic and not for shielding devil dancers—Offence of dancers held, to be under S. 326—Sentence on husband under S. 201, held, could be reduced. Pan Singh v. Emperor, 36 Cr. L. J. 346 :

153 I. C. 425 : 7 R. A. 501 :
1935 A. W. R. 57 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 282.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 326—Offence under—Drunkenness—Intention of person drunk—Inference of intention—Deceased shot—Death after two months—Offence.

Though drunkenness is no excuse for an offence, no further intention can be ascribed to an accused person on the ground that he was drunk than would be ordinarily ascribed to a person who was sober. Intention, ordinarily speaking, is deduced from the injury actually caused. The accused fired a gun at point blank range at the upper portion of the thigh of his victim causing a serious injury. The deceased was not killed outright but dysentery and festering of wound supervened and he died after a couple of months: Held, that the offence committed was one under S. 326, Penal Code. Zora Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 44 :
120 I. C. 183 : 11 L. L. J. 44 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 433.

—S. 326—Scope of—Grievous hurt—Essence of offence—Jury—Verdict of "guilty but not voluntarily," meaning of—S. 338, conviction under—Causing grievous hurt by rash and negligent act.

To constitute an offence under S. 326, Penal Code, the act must have been done "voluntarily"—that is of the very essence of the offence. Where an accused person was charged with committing offences under Ss. 304 and 326, Penal Code, and tried before a Jury, and the latter found him not guilty under S. 304, but returned a verdict of "guilty but not voluntarily" under S. 326 and the Judge without asking the Jury to explain the verdict discharged them and then convicted and sentenced the accused under S. 338, Penal Code: Held, that the verdict on the charge under S. 326 was in effect a verdict of "not guilty" and the accused was entitled to an acquittal. Emperor v. Khudiram Das.

7 Cr. L. J. 362 :
12 C. W. N. 530.

—S. 326—Sentence—Accused cutting wife's nose without serious provocation—Sentence of nine months held inadequate and enhanced to two years.

An act of nose cutting is one which imports deliberate design of a particularly brutal and cruel character. The accused cut off the nose of his wife. There was neither a ground for suspicion of the wife's misconduct nor was there any evidence to suggest that there was anything amounting to serious provocation. The accused was sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment: Held, that the sentence was inadequate and should be enhanced. (It was enhanced to one of two years.) Ismail Umar v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 928 :
177 I. C. 647 : 11 R. B. 111 :
40 Bom. L. R. 832 :
A. I. R. 1938 Bom. 430.

—S. 326—Sentence—Nose cutting.

Where the accused cut off his wife's nose and was convicted under S. 326, Penal Code, and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for four years, but on appeal, the Sessions Judge while maintaining the conviction reduced the sentence to imprisonment for two years: Held, enhancing the sentence to the full period of four years, that nose-cutting was an offence for which leniency was, ordinarily speaking, quite out of place.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Sikandar v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 782 :

31 I. C. 382 : 20 P. R. 1915 Cr. :

39 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 395.

—S. 326—Sentence, reduction of—Fact that quarrel during which deceased gets fatal wound is sudden and arises in heat of passion is a mitigating circumstance in favour of the accused.

The fact that the quarrel which ends in the deceased getting a fatal hurt, was a sudden one, arising in the heat of passion, is a mitigating circumstance in favour of the accused and his sentence should be reduced. Bhartu v. Emperor.

30 P. L. R. 582 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 311.

—Ss. 326, 109—Grievous hurt—Motive—Abettor present when offence committed—Hurt person as only one witness.

A complainant (whose complaint was lodged without delay) alleged that he had been thrown down by both the accused and his nose cut off by accused 1 with a razor. He also assigned a probable motive. There was no other eye-witness, but the accused were seen hurrying away from the scene of the offence. The defence pleaded that the razor had not been found and that their clothes were not blood-stained: Held, that, if the complainant was lying on the ground, it was difficult to see how his blood could have flowed on to their dress; that the razor had no doubt, been thrown away before they reached home; and that, as there was, on the other hand, direct evidence of the complainant, supported by a witness, who had seen them hurrying away after the offence, and a motive, the offence was proved, but that the abettor deserved less punishment. Emperor v. Keshavji Gordhan.

2 Cr. L. J. 587.

—Ss. 326, 149—Common object—Common object of number of accused to cause hurt to person—One accused causing grievous hurt with dangerous weapon in prosecution of common object—Liability of others for such act.

Where the common object of a number of accused was not merely to beat but also to cause hurt, and if in the prosecution of that common object to cause hurt to a certain person, one of them happens to cause grievous hurt, and that too, with a dangerous weapon, the others would certainly be liable for the grievous hurt so caused by reason of S. 149, I. P. C. In re. Manikyan Kondayya. 41 Cr. L. J. 898 :

190 I. C. 313 : 1940 M. W. N. 242 :

51 L. W. 484 : 1940, 1 M. L. J. 775 :

13 R. M. 403 : A. I. R. 1940 Mad. 298.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 326, 307—Causing grievous hurt with dangerous weapon—Offence held one under S. 326 and not under S. 307—Fact that if sepsis and gangrene had intervened, it would have endangered life did not bring offence under S. 307.

Only one stab was given, and there was nothing to show that the injury inflicted was likely, in the ordinary course of nature, to cause death. The medical evidence was only to the effect that if sepsis and gangrene had intervened, it would have endangered life, but this could be said of most injuries caused with sharp weapons: Held, that the offence committed by the accused was one of causing grievous hurt by a dangerous weapon and not attempt to murder. In re : Guruswami Tevan. 40 Cr. L. J. 922 :

184 I. C. 336 : 1939 M. W. N. 513 :

12 R. M. 435 : A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 780.

—Ss. 326, 320—Grievous hurt, "dangerous to life"—Wound on neck, whether dangerous—Sentence—Accused young—Blow struck on impulse.

A wound on the neck inflicted with a sharp-edged weapon must be considered to be "dangerous to life" within the meaning of Cl. 8 of S. 320, Penal Code, and, therefore, 'grievous.' Where the accused was a young-man of 20 and the injury was inflicted on a sudden impulse as a result of a quarrel: Held, that a severe sentence of seven years' imprisonment was not called for. Muhammad Rafi v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 77 :

120 I. C. 431 : 11 L. L. J. 519 :

31 P. L. R. 289 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 305.

—Ss. 326, 457, 458—Offences under—House-breaking followed by stabbing—Offences, separate.

The accused broke into the house of one T. S. at night with intent to commit theft, armed with deadly weapons. On an alarm being raised, they left the house and in the courtyard stabbed one R. S., who tried to seize them, injuring him so that he died later on: Held, that as the stabbing was done after the house-breaking was complete, S. 460, Penal Code, did not apply, but that the accused were guilty of offences under Ss. 457, 458 and 326, Penal Code. Sed Rasul v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 350 :

38 I. C. 734 : 27 P. R. 1916 Cr.

A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 349.

—Ss. 326, 511—Offences under, to cause grievous hurt—Preparation.

Where the accused pursued the complainant with an axe on his shoulders, and on approaching the complainant actually raised the axe above his shoulder and was rushing at the complainant with the axe so raised and ready for striking when he was seized and disarmed by other persons: Held, that the act of the accused was done in the course of an attempt to cause grievous hurt towards the commission of such offence and the accused committed an offence punishable under Ss. 326, 511, Penal Code. Jiwandas v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 1078 :

30 P. R. Cr. of 1904.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 328.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 179.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.

—S. 328—Attempt to commit offence under—Attempt to administer poison—Quantity of poison not known—No evidence to prove probable effects of poison—Intention to cause hurt.

Where the accused was proved to put some powder in the food, which was found by the Chemical Examiner to contain poison, but there was no statement or evidence of the quantity of poison found in the food, or of the probable effects on any one who might have eaten it: Held, that the accused could not be held, under the circumstances, to have intended to cause anything more than hurt and could only be convicted of attempt to commit an offence punishable under S. 328, Penal Code. Mi Pu v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 363 :

3 I. C. 721 : 5 L. B. R. 79.

—S. 328—Duty of prosecution—Poisoning—Circumstantial evidence.

In a case of poisoning, where the only evidence against the accused is circumstantial, it is the duty of the prosecution to eliminate all reasonable possibility that the poison was administered otherwise than by the appellant. Ram Gopal v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 517 :

77 I. C. 981 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 687.

—S. 328—Offence under, nature of—Offence—Mere administration of drug is not enough—Intent must be proved.

In order to convict a person of an offence under S. 318, Penal Code, mere administration of the drug will not do. There must also be evidence to show that such administration was with the intent specified in the section and to cause injury to the person to whom it was administered. Muruga Goundan v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 599 :

25 I. C. 351 : A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 56.

—S. 329.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.

—S. 330.

See also (i) Criminal trial.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 114, 380.

—S. 330—Conviction, legality of—Direct evidence disbelieved, effect of—Conviction, legality of.

It is a dangerous precedent to convict a man on evidence of people who are found to be untruthful without any corroboration. Hare Krishna v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 411 :

28 I. C. 795 : 19 C. W. N. 330 :

42 Cal. 784 : A. I. R. 1916 Cal. 98.

—S. 330—Extortion of confession by causing hurt—Sentence to be deterrent.

The law clearly draws a very great distinction between simple hurt caused in the ordinary way and simple hurt caused for the purpose of extorting a confession or making an accused person recover any property. The conduct of causing hurt under S. 330, Penal Code, by a responsible Police Officer engaged in the investigation of a crime is one of the most serious offences known to the law. The result of third degree methods or of actual torture or beating must be that innocent persons might well be convicted, confessions being forced from them which are false. In almost every case in which a confession is recorded in Criminal Courts, it is alleged by the defence that the Police have resorted to methods such as these. It is seldom, however, that an offence of this nature is or can be proved. It clearly is the duty of the Courts when a case of this kind is proved to pass sentences which may have a deterrent effect. Lal Muhammad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

37 Cr. L. J. 811 :
163 I. C. 145 : 38 P. L. R. 689 :
8 R. L. 1025 (2) ; A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 471.

———S. 330—Offence under, what amounts to—Torture applied to suspects to extort information at the orders of Police Officers, when suspects are in their custody.

A Policeman who stands by acquiescing in an assault on a prisoner committed by another Policeman for the purpose of extorting confession or information leading to the detection of the crime, is guilty of the offence punishable under S. 330 I. P. C. The maxim "Respondent Superior" has no application in such a case. Law does not tolerate the achievement of a lawful purpose by unlawful means, i. e., those which it positively prohibits. The defence of good faith is expressly excluded by S. 79, I. P. C., in regard to a mistake on a point of law. That the Police, in the strenuous task of investigation do, in exceptional cases, succumb to the momentary temptation of employing coercive methods, may well be set down to innate human frailty but it must not be overlooked that it is to restrain such impulses that S. 330, I. P. C., came to be enacted. That section is manifestly directed against Police Officers who, while engaged in the detection of crimes, are prone to subordinate their detective skill to the alluring but treacherous means of torturing the suspects to extract clues to guide their course of investigation. Dina Nath v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 757 :
189 I. C. 591 : I. L. R. 1940 Nag. 232 :
1940 N. L. J. 667 : 13 R. N. 58 :
A. I. R. 1940 Nag. 186.

———S. 330—Scope of—Assault with object of obtaining confession or restoration of stolen property.

S. 330, Penal Code, contemplates that there must be immediate connection between the assault and the restoration of the property, i. e., the intention of the person causing the assault must be proved to be to obtain from the person assaulted a confession or restoration of stolen property and there must be no reasonable ground for explaining the assault otherwise than upon that foundation. Satya Deva Swami v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 749 :
46 I. C. 525 : 5 P. L. W. 109 :
A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 643.

———S. 331—Offence under — Voluntarily causing grievous hurt to extort confession.

Where the deceased, who was suspected of having taken part in a theft and was in Police custody, was beaten by the accused Police Officers and the beating resulted in his death: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 331, Penal Code. Emperor v. Mian Bakhsh.

18 Cr. L. J. 710 :
40 I. C. 710 : 12 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1917 Lah. 342.

———S. 331—Scope of—Causing grievous hurt to extort confession—Promise to restore abducted woman—"Demand," meaning of.

The accused compelled the complainant by causing grievous hurt to him to execute an agreement to restore a woman whom he was alleged to have abducted: Held, that the accused could not be said to have committed an offence under S. 331, Penal Code, inasmuch as the extortion of the promise for the restoration of the woman did not amount to the extortion of a confession or information which might lead to the detection of an offence within the meaning of the section. The "demand" referred to in S. 331, Penal Code, must be with respect to property. Maula Bakhsh v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 576 :
73 I. C. 272 : 5 L. L. J. 375 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 167.

———S. 332.

See also (i) Calcutta Police Act, 1860, S. 46.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 108.

(iii) Income Tax Act, 1922, S. 86.

(iv) Penal Code, 1860, S. 99, 147, 225 (b).

———S. 332—Acting in discharge of duty — Police refusing occupant of house to be present at search—Resistance—Offence.

Where the Police refuse to allow the occupant to enter the house which is being searched and be present at the time of the search, the Police cannot be said to be acting in the discharge of their duty, and if the occupant causes hurt to a Police Officer in attempting to enter into his house on physical resistance being offered by the latter, the occupant is not guilty of an offence under S. 332, Penal Code, or under any other section of the Code. Bhikugir v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 439 :
142 I. C. 790 : 1932 A. L. J. 530 :
I. R. 1933 All. 147 :
A. I. R. 1932 All. 449.

———S. 332—Applicability.

That S. 332, Penal Code, had no application to the case inasmuch as the cattle were the private property of the canal officials, who in attempting their rescue, were acting as private individuals. Hardit Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 236 :

10 I. C. 278 : 161 P. L. R. 1911.

———S. 332—Assault in attempt to arrest—Offence—Police Officer—Powers of constable to arrest—Assault in the attempt to arrest.

A constable, investigating a charge of burglary, punishable under S. 457, Penal Code, is empowered to arrest, without an order from a Magistrate or a warrant, persons against whom a reasonable suspicion of having been concerned in the burglary exists. Consequently, a person assaulting the constable in his attempt to arrest suspected persons, is guilty of an offence under S. 332, Penal Code. Emperor v. Yusuf. 11 Cr. L. J. 423 :

6 I. C. 956 : 48 P. R. 1910 Cr.

———S. 332—Assault on constable—Discharge of duty.

Where a constable, whose duty was only to watch the accused, was assaulted in the discharge of that duty, the accused knowing at the time that such was the constable's duty : Held, that an offence was committed under S. 332, Penal Code. In re : Mahomed Yakoob.

11 Cr. L. J. 221 (b) :

6 I. C. 12 : 7 M. L. T. 386.

———S. 332—Assault on constable not acting in discharge of his duties, whether offence.

A constable, purporting to act under an order of the District Magistrate which had ceased to have force, asked the accused to give up their lathis. The accused refused to do this and assaulted the constable : Held, that the accused could not be convicted under S. 332, Penal Code, inasmuch as the constable was not acting in the discharge of the duty as a public servant. Madho v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 5.

42 I. C. 917 : 15 A. L. J. 813 :
40 All. 28 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 238.

———S. 332—Conviction, illegality of—Conviction for offence under S. 332 by Second Class Magistrate—Alteration of conviction into one for offence under S. 323, legality of.

A conviction by a Second Class Magistrate of an accused person for an offence under S. 332, Penal Code, which is triable only by a First Class Magistrate, is illegal and without jurisdiction. In such a case, when the facts make out an offence under S. 332, Penal Code, it cannot be altered into one for an offence under S. 323. In re : Arokianadhan.

29 Cr. L. J. 798 :

111 I. C. 126 : 1928 M. W. N. 465.

———S. 332—Conviction under, legality of—Causing hurt to deter public servant from his duty—Assault with intent to dishonour—Assault on police witness while giving evidence.

An accused person while under trial, struck a Sub-Inspector of Police who was in the witness-box giving evidence against him : Held, that the offence of which the accused was guilty in this respect was rather that provided for by S. 355, Penal

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Code, than that punishable under S. 332 of the Code. Emperor v. Altaf Mian.

6 Cr. L. J. 22 :

27 A. W. N. 186.

———S. 332—Discharge of duty—Meaning of—Discharge of duty, meaning of.

The words "in the discharge of his duty as such public servant" in S. 332, Penal Code, mean in the discharge of a duty imposed by a law on such public servant in the particular case. Madho v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 5 :

42 I. C. 917 : 15 A. L. J. 813 :

40 All. 28 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 238.

———S. 332—Grave and sudden provocation.

Special pass obtained for liquor—Illiterate constable seizing it suspecting absence of certificate—Assault—Provocation held grave and sudden. Sentence reduced. Nathoo Vijairam Gaoli v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 317 :

153 I. C. 211 (2) : 17 N. L. J. 78 :

7 R. N. 126 : A. I. R. 1934 Nag. 247.

———S. 332—Miscellaneous—Police Act (V of 1861), S. 34—Playing cards in street—Offence—Prohibition by constable—Discharge of duty.

Playing cards in the street is no offence under S. 34, Police Act, and therefore, a constable prohibiting people from doing so cannot be said to be acting in discharge of his duty. Mul Chund v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 377 (a) :

92 I. C. 889 : 27 P. L. R. 74 :

A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 250.

———S. 332—Offence under.

Constable assaulted at Ramlila performance—Constable not there in pursuance of duty but only as a spectator—Offence is one under S. 323 and not under S. 332. Meghraj v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 375 :

161 I. C. 12 : 18 N. L. J. 188 :

8 R. N. 205.

———S. 332—Requirements of.

In order to establish a charge under S. 332, Penal Code, it must be established that the Public Officer was acting in the discharge of his duty as a public servant. Ranjha Mal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 993 :

105 I. C. 817 : 9 L. J. 424 :

29 P. L. R. 284 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 706.

———S. 332—Resistance to police making illegal search.

Accused offering resistance to Police making illegal search under S. 165, Cr. P. C., is not guilty of an offence under S. 332, Penal Code. Emperor v. Brikhbhan Singh. 16 Cr. L. J. 819 :

31 I. C. 995 : 13 A. L. J. 979 :

38 All. 14 : A. I. R. 1915 All. 430.

———S. 332—Scope of—Non-specification of the particular duty.

To constitute an offence under S. 332, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the duty in which the public servant is employed should be a particular duty imposed expressly by the law on the particular occasion. In re: Mahomed Yakoub.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 221 (b) :
6 I. C. 12 : 7 M. L. T. 386.

———Ss. 332, 323—Minor offences—Accused chasing Police Constable—Attack not concerned with actual rescue of arrested person—Offence committed.

Where the accused chased the Police Constable and beat him very severely, but this attack was not concerned with the actual rescue of the arrested person, they were guilty of the minor offence punishable under S. 323, I. P. C., and not of the offence under S. 332. Raja Ram v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 744 :
189 I. C. 480 : 44 C. W. N. 502 :
13 R. C. 106 : A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 321.

———Ss. 332, 333—Arresting Police Officers as dacoits.

Where the accused believed certain Police Officers to be dacoits, who had, in the attempt to escape arrest, used a revolver and thus committed a non-bailable and cognizable offence: Held, that they were entitled to arrest the men and keep them in confinement so long as it was necessary for making them over to the custody of Police Officers. Kishen Lal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 501 :
85 I. C. 245 : 22 A. L. J. 501 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 645.

———Ss. 332, 333—Offences under—Intention, importance of.

Both Ss. 332 and 333, Penal Code, require as an ingredient of the offence the presence of an intention on the part of the accused person, namely, to prevent or deter a public servant from discharging his duty. Where, therefore, the accused persons are unaware of the fact that the persons whom they have confined are public servants, they are not guilty of an offence. Kishen Lal v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 501 :
85 I. C. 245 : 22 A. L. J. 501 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 645.

———S. 333.

See also (i) Bombay District Police Act, 1890, S. 11.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 165.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 99.

———S. 333—Assault on Police—Police Officer aiding another officer outside his jurisdiction—Assault on—Offence.

A person assaulting a Police Officer engaged in discharge of his duty, is guilty under S. 333, even if such Police Officer may be outside the area of his jurisdiction, aiding another officer. Khaitro v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1071 :
88 I. C. 15 : 18 S. L. R. 221 :
A. I. R. 1925 Sind 280.

———S. 333—Injury to constable in self-defence—Constable firing upon rioters in fight.

A constable, pursuing a number of rioters in order to arrest them after the riot was over, fired upon them, whereupon, some of them turned round and caused him serious injury in order to snatch away his gun. These were charged with an offence under S. 333, Penal Code: Held, that, as the constable exceeded his lawful rights in firing upon the men, the accused exercised only their right of self-defence in snatching away the gun from him and were not guilty of the offence with which they were charged. Khanun v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 201 :
71 I. C. 665 : A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 75.

———S. 333—Resistance to Police conducting unauthorized search—No offence.

A person, who resists a Police Officer conducting an unauthorised search outside the limits of his station, is not guilty of an offence under S. 333, Penal Code. Krishna Ayyar v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 145 (b) :
49 I. C. 337 : 24 M. L. T. 96 :
1918 M. W. N. 526 : 8 L. W. 225 :
A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 353.

———S. 334—Provocation—Crying of counter-slogans held likely to cause provocation, though not grave and sudden.

The crying of a counter-slogan, that is to say, in praise of the leader of one's own party and not in dispraise of the leader of the other party, in reply to the slogans cried by that party, is likely to cause provocation to its members though not grave and sudden. Ashraf, Israr-ud-Din v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 831 :
182 I. C. 643 : 12 R. Pesh. 8 :
A. I. R. 1939 Pesh. 20.

———Ss. 334, 323—Grave and sudden provocation—Dangerous weapon—Lathi—Walking cane-stick four feet long and one inch thick, whether dangerous weapon.

Use of the abusive word 'bugger' in regard to the petitioner who belonged to bhadralog class itself, constituted grave and sudden provocation; that the blows that were struck by the petitioner so long as the two were facing each other, were clearly within the exercise of the petitioner's right of private defence against the act of the complainant in raising his fist at the petitioner and taking a step forward with the threat of striking him, which was clearly an assault; that in dealing the blows, which were given when the complainant was running away, the petitioner exceeded his right; that an ordinary walking cane four feet long and one inch thick, was not a dangerous weapon and that the punishment ought to have been a light one; that the petitioner made an untrue statement to his master, the complainant; that the petitioner did not understand the meaning of the offensive word used by the complainant; that the provocation in the present case was neither grave nor sudden; and that provocation could, in every case, be taken into consideration in the matter of sentence. Banku Behari Dutta v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 442 :
10 I. C. 602.

———S. 335—Deliberate design, what imports—Nose-cutting—Grave and sudden provocation.

When the particular act, such as nose-cutting, of which the accused is found guilty, is one which imports deliberate design, the plea of grave and sudden provocation or the excuse it implies, will not have, by any means, the same effect as in the case of a man who in sudden and provoked anger strikes a blow, however serious that blow may be. Emperor v. Bhagwan Chhogan. 16 Cr. L. J. 168 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 I. C. 552 : 17 Bom. L. R. 68 :
A. I. R. 1915 Bom. 120.

———S. 335 — Plea of self-defence, if available—Sudden provocation.

Where there is a free fight between the accused and the deceased, the accused must accept responsibility for the act done by him and he cannot claim a right of self-defence. Public Prosecutor v. Panchaksharm. 39 Cr. L. J. 871 : 177 I. C. 432 : 1938 M. W. N. 605 : 48 L. W. 142 : 1938, 2 M. L. J. 225 : 11 R. M. 323 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 723.

———S. 336.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 153.

———S. 336—Conviction under, if justified—Stone throwing at back of unoccupied house—Endangering human life or personal safety of others—Mischief.

The accused threw large pieces of brick at the back of the complainant's house. There was no one in the house at the time, the complainant being on the ground in front of the house.

The accused were convicted of an offence punishable under S. 336, Penal Code : Held, that there being no evidence in the case that human life or the personal safety of others was endangered by the accused's act, the conviction under S. 336 was not justified. The only defined offence which was applicable to the case was mischief under S. 426. Roof and walls of dwelling-houses are not put up to be pelted with brickbats, and owners have a right to be protected from even dents and marks being made in and on them without their consent. Ma Nyein Gale v. Nga Sein.

10 Cr. L. J. 552 :
4 I. C. 293 : 5 L. B. R. 100.

———S. 336—Conviction under, legality of—Temple—Place of public resort.

On the occasion of a festival, a temple becomes a place of public resort, and it is the bounden duty of the person in charge to take all reasonable precautions. Therefore, if he omits to enclose a well in the courtyard standing by the path, which the pilgrims must necessarily take in order to reach the shrine, omits not only to indicate at night its position by lights, but also removes the light placed near the well at the instance of the officers on duty, and consequently a man falls into the well, his conviction under S. 336, Penal Code, will be upheld. Narsing Charan Mahapatra v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 131 :
27 I. C. 195 : 18 C. W. N. 1176 :
A. I. R. 1915 Cal. 295.

———S. 336—Firing gun in air, if offence—Firing gun in air—Rash and negligent act—Attempt to murder or cause grievous hurt.

When riots are taking place in different parts of a town, a man possessing a gun may very well fire shots just to indicate to would-be mischief-makers that there are arms of defence in the house and that anybody who might be mischievously inclined, might take care of his safety. Such an act would not amount to an offence under S. 336, Penal Code. Merely firing a shot is not punishable as an offence in itself. Babu Ram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 987 :
87 I. C. 523 : 23 A. L. J. 356 :
47 All. 606 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 396.

———S. 336—Ingredients of offence under—Accused's house stoned by people in neighbourhood—Accused firing shots to frighten them—Held, conviction under S. 336 was wrong.

The accused's house was being stoned and he fired his gun in all directions merely to frighten off and prevent persons who were throwing stones and to prevent their continuing to do so. He was convicted under S. 336, Penal Code : Held, that the conviction must be set aside for three reasons : (i) that the firing of the gun was not a rash and negligent act but a deliberate act, and, therefore, S. 336, Penal Code, had no application ; (ii) there was no proof that human life was actually endangered ; and (iii) that prima facie no offence was committed because the gun was fired merely to warn the people who were throwing stones and not with the object of hitting them. Maung Ba Kyi v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 897 : 170 I. C. 278 : 10 R. Rang. 74 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 273.

———S. 336—Scope of—Rash or negligent act endangering human life—Driving motor car without spectacles—Offence.

It is a rash or negligent act for a person to drive a motor car without wearing spectacles if his eyesight is really defective. But an omission to wear spectacles at the time of driving the car in every case where a driver may properly use spectacles, would not necessarily render the driver liable under S. 336, Penal Code. It must depend upon the nature of the defect in the eyesight and the necessity for using spectacles in each case. Abas Mirza v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 605 :
45 I. C. 509 : 20 Bom. L. R. 376 :
42 Bom. 396 : A. I. R. 1918 Bom. 230.

———S. 336—Scope of.

S. 336, Penal Code, contemplates a lawful act, but it punishes the same act which is otherwise lawful only if it is done in a rash or negligent manner. A person who deliberately throws brickbats at passers-by and wants to shoot them, and for that purpose, aims a gun and fires shots, is guilty of an attempt at murder or of an attempt to cause grievous hurt with a dangerous weapon of shooting and not merely of an offence under S. 336, Penal Code. Babu Ram v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 987 :
87 I. C. 523 : 23 A. L. J. 356 :
47 All. 606 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 396.

———S. 336—Speedy trial, necessity of—Accident through rash driving.

Cases relating to motor car accidents must be tried without delay. It is improper to try such a case mouths after the incident when the accused and his witnesses might be entirely unable to reconstruct their recollection as to what had happened. Sirajuddin Kazi v. Sergeant H. Jenner. 31 Cr. L. J. 614 : 124 I. C. 70 : A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 776.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 336—What constitutes offence.

The pujari of a temple left the temple at night in charge of third person, and while away from the temple, deliberately threw bricks at the temple hoping that the Hindus would believe that the bricks came from the Mussalmans and that thereby the Hindus would be enraged against the Mussalmans and there would be a riot amongst them. He was convicted of an offence under S. 336, Penal Code : Held, (1) that the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 336, Penal Code, inasmuch as his act was neither rash nor negligent but a deliberate one. Gaya Prosad v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 1088 : 112 I. C. 592 : 1929 A. L. J. 175 : A. I. R. 1928 All. 745.

———S. 337.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 80, 107.

———S. 337—Applicability of—Causing hurt by act endangering life or personal safety of others—Rashness—Negligence—Intent.

S. 337, Penal Code, applies only to acts done without any criminal intent. Personal injury intentionally caused is neither a rash nor a negligent act. Emperor v. Nga Shwe Lu.

1 Cr. L. J. 557 : 6 U. B. R. 1904 : 1st Qr. P. C. 6.

———S. 337—Conviction under, effect of.

Where the driver is convicted under S. 387 as he actually caused hurt to some of the occupants of the bus, it is not necessary that he should be convicted under S. 279 also even if that section is applicable. Ejaz Ahmed v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1352 : 158 I. C. 305 : 1935 O. W. N. 1026 : 1935 O. L. R. 573 : 8 R. O. 86 : A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 148.

———S. 337—Conviction under—Hakim performing operation on eyelids—Ordinary precautions not taken—Acting rashly and negligently—Hurt—Offence.

The accused, a hakim, performed an operation on the outer side of the upper lid of the right eye of the complainant. The instruments used were a pair of scissors and a needle, which would be ordinarily used by a tailor and not by an eye-surgeon. The wound was sutured with an ordinary thread : Held, that as there was not the permanent privation of the sight of either eye in consequence of the negligent and rash operation, the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 337, Penal Code, and not under S. 338, Penal Code. Gulam Hyder Punjabi v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 437 : 29 I. C. 69 : 39 Bom. 523 : 17 Bom. L. R. 384 : A. I. R. 1915 Bom. 101.

———S. 337—Conviction under—Shooting blindly with shot gun in dark in direction of sound heard—Offence, if one under S. 337 or S. 307.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

If a man fires blindly in the dark with a shot gun in the direction from which he has heard sounds coming from a distance away, it cannot be held that his act must, in all probability, cause death or such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. Such a person cannot possibly be convicted under S. 307, Penal Code, but he should be convicted under S. 337 thereof. Mohammad Cassim v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 692 : 176 I. C. 150 : 11 R. Rang. 31 (2) : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 220.

———S. 337—Offence under, what amounts to.

The administering of an injurious drug or potion to a person to induce love in ignorance of its nature or effect and without care and caution and inquiry as to its properties, which causes serious illness to such person, amounts to an offence under S. 337, Penal Code, and not under S. 307. Bhagya Giriappa v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 443 : 38 I. C. 1003 : 19 Bom. L. R. 54 : A. I. R. 1916 Bom. 98.

———Ss. 337 and 286—Evidence of negligence—Definition—Causing hurt by means of a gun.

The causing of hurt by negligence in the use of a gun would fall within the purview of S. 337 rather than of S. 286, Penal Code. But where all the evidence against the accused was that he went out shooting in the month of July when people were likely to be about in the fields and that a single pellet from his gun struck a man who was sitting in a field, it was held, that this was not sufficient evidence of rashness or negligence to support a conviction under S. 337 of the Code. Emperor v. Abdus Sattar. 3 Cr. L. J. 363 : 26 A. W. N. 91 : 3 A. L. J. 332 : I. L. R. 28 All. 464.

———S. 338.

See also (i) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 279, 428.

(ii) Railways Act, 1890, S. 107.

———S. 338—Act done in good faith—Unsuccessful operation for cataract resulting in loss of sight.

One Suraj Bali operated upon a patient for cataract, with the result that the patient lost the sight of her left eye. It was found, however, that the operation was performed with the consent of the patient, and in good faith and for her benefit, and that it was performed in accordance with the recognized Indian method of treatment for cataract. Held, that Suraj Bali had not, on the facts found, committed any offence punishable under the Penal Code. Emperor v. Suraj Bali.

7 Cr. L. J. 306 : 28 A. W. N. 91 : 5 A. L. J. 155.

———S. 338—Contributory negligence, effect of—Rash driving of motor car—Motor driving—Driver's duty—Sentence.

In a prosecution for rash and negligent driving, though contributory negligence is no defence entitling the accused to an acquittal, it is yet a factor which should be taken into consideration in determining the sentence. A person driving a car should always keep it in a state of control sufficient to enable him to avoid running into any passenger who may fail to step off the road, however annoying the dilatoriness of the foot passenger may be to him. Kanshi v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 351 :
100 I. C. 831 : 28 P. L. R. 99 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 165.

—S. 338—Conviction, illegality of—Rash driving—Motor lorry injuring boy while crossing road—Driver's liability.

The accused was driving a motor lorry when a little boy apparently in crossing the road, came in contact with the lorry and his left foot was fractured. It was found that the speed was moderate and that the accused was driving on the right side of the road: Held, that the accused could not, under the circumstances, be convicted of an offence under S. 338, Penal Code. Pulin Behari Nandi v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 402 :
115 I. C. 96 : 32 C. W. N. 612 :
I. R. 1929 Cal. 320.

—S. 338—Culpable negligence—Causing grievous hurt by an act which endangers life—Discharging a gun in place where persons were expected to pass.

Accused, who owned a paddy field in a jungly tract, discharged a gun in the direction of a foot-path, close to his field, through which complainant was passing. The complainant was wounded in his leg and had to be treated in the hospital and his leg amputated. The accused knew that the foot-path was generally used by the public: Held, that the accused was guilty of culpable negligence and was rightly convicted under S. 338, Penal Code. Chandu v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 703 :
16 I. C. 511.

—S. 338—Negligence, what amounts to.

From the mere fact that a motorist strikes a person walking on the road, the presumption cannot be drawn that the accident was caused by the motorist's carelessness. Such a presumption is ill-founded as a great many such occurrences are due to accidents. If the car was being driven at an excessive speed, that in itself would be evidence to show that there was negligence. But where the car was being driven at about 20-25 miles an hour, such a speed cannot be said to argue ipso facto that there was negligence. Nga Ohn Saing v. The King.

40 Cr. L. J. 701 :
182 I. C. 509 : 12 R. Rang. 16 :
A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 209.

—S. 338—Sentence.

Accident due mainly to rashness of accused in driving while drunk—Sentence of three months with fine of Rs. 150 was reduced to fine of Rs. 100 or in default, three months' rigorous imprisonment. Chaudhri v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 296 :
147 I. C. 122 : 10 O. W. N. 1211 :
6 R. O. 232 (1) : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 568.

—S. 339—Conviction under, when justified.

To justify a conviction under S. 339, Penal Code, a Court should find that the complainant had a right to proceed along the path and that he was obstructed by the accused from walking over it. In re : Rama Reddi.

16 Cr. L. J. 701 :
30 I. C. 749 : 2 L. W. 1035 :
A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 696.

—S. 339—Obstruction in good faith—Exception—Belief of the accused of his having lawful right to obstruct—Accused is not guilty.

The defence that the accused is entitled to the exception to S. 339, Penal Code, must be clearly raised. Where the obstruction put up by the accused was put up in good faith because the accused believed himself to have a lawful right to obstruct the complainant from going along the passage: Held, that the accused was not guilty of wrongful restraint. Kali Das Raha v. Deodbari Mistri.

41 C. L. J. 633 :
30 C. W. N. 192 : A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 1214.

—S. 339—'Obstruction', what is not—Wrongful restraint—Causing pariahs to stand near a temple—No obstruction under S. 339.

Causing pariahs to stand in public street in the vicinity of a temple, with the object of preventing the complainant from conducting a religious procession from fear of pollution, does not amount to an obstruction within the meaning of S. 339, Penal Code. In re : Venkata Subba Reddy.

11 Cr. L. J. 263 :
5 I. C. 851 : 1 M. W. N. 72,

—S. 339—Offence under, nature of.

Where the complainant, his wife and daughter occupied a house, and during their temporary absence, the accused put a lock on the outer door and thereby obstructed them from getting into the house: Held, that the accused was guilty of wrongful restraint. Physical presence of the obstructed is not necessary as an ingredient of the offence of wrongful confinement or of wrongful restraint. To constitute the offence, the obstructor must intend or know or have reason to believe it to be likely that the means adopted would cause the obstruction of the complainant. Arumuga Nadar v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 708 :
8 I. C. 757 : 1 M. W. N. 727.

—S. 339—Scope of—Licences of boatmen taken away by accused—Boatmen in consequence, not permitted to go beyond a certain stage in the channel by the authorities—Whether accused guilty of wrongful restraint—Intention of Legislature.

Where the accused took away the licences

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

from boatmen with the result that the boatmen were not permitted by the authorities to ply their boats beyond a certain stage in the channel: Held, that it did not amount to the offence of wrongful restraint under S. 339, Penal Code. S. 339, Penal Code, contemplates obstructions attributable directly to the person charged. The legislature did not intend to include, within the scope of the section an act which, in its remote and indirect consequence, might obstruct the free movement of a person. In re : Venketaramiah.

11 Cr. L. J. 192 (a) :
4 I. C. 1117 : 5 M. L. T. 207.

———S. 339—Scope of—Wrongful restraint—Obstruction to passage of cart—No obstruction to person passing.

S. 339, Penal Code, requires that the obstruction should be so complete and successful as to prevent the person obstructed from proceeding in any direction in which he has a right to proceed. The wrong defined by the section is a wrong against the person and is not completed where the person is at liberty to go in any direction he pleases. Therefore, a person cannot be said to be wrongfully restrained, when, though himself unobstructed, he is hindered from driving a bullock-cart through a passage. Emperor v. Rama Lala.

14 Cr. L. J. 177 :
19 I. C. 177 : 15 Bom. L. R. 103.

———S. 339—Scope of—Wrongful restraint, what constitutes.

The physical presence of the person obstructed at the moment of obstruction is not necessary for the commission of an offence under S. 339, Penal Code. S. 339, Penal Code, covers the case of obstruction to a person who reasonably wants to go in any direction, even vertically upwards if he has a right to do so. But the section does not cover cases where there is no ordinary or special reason for a person to proceed in the direction which is obstructed. Chhagan Vithal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 1023 :
105 I. C. 111 : 29 Bom. L. R. 494 :
A. I. R. 1927 Bom. 369.

———S. 339—'Voluntary obstruction,' if wrongful restraint.

The voluntary obstruction of a vehicle cannot be held to amount to wrongful restraint within the meaning of S. 339. Durga Pada Chatterjee v. Nilmani Ghose.

36 Cr. L. J. 740 (1) :
155 I. C. 444 (a) : 39 C. W. N. 143 :
60 C. L. J. 472 : 7 R. C. 586 :
A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 252.

———S. 339—Wrongful restraint—Landlord and tenant—Tenant holding over, position of—Landlord preventing tenant from entering premises.

A tenant holding over has a position recognised by the law, and has a right to retain possession of the premises he occupies even against the landlord himself until dispossessed in due course of law. Therefore, where a landlord blocked up the entrance to a tenant's rooms who was holding over and thus prevented him from entering the rooms: Held, that the landlord was guilty of wrongful restraint. Ghulam Mahomed v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 417 :
51 I. C. 193 : 21 Bom. L. R. 261 :
43 Bom. 531 : A. I. R. 1919 Bom. 97.

———S. 339—'Wrongful restraint,' what amounts to.

All that S. 339, Penal Code, protects is the obstruction of any person. The section does not cover a case where a person is himself left free to proceed in a direction to which he has a right to proceed, but without any impediment that he may have with him. The circumstances of each case must, however, be considered and if the obstruction to a person's taking a thing with him amounts to obstructing the person himself from going in a manner he has a right to go, there is "wrongful restraint" within the meaning of S. 339, Penal Code. Lahanu Manaji v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 139 :
91 I. C. 811 : 27 Bom. L. R. 1419 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 118.

———S. 339—Wrongful restraint, what amounts to—Restraining horse on which person riding.

Restraining a horse on which a person is riding as to prevent him from proceeding at the moment of restraint, is wrongful restraint within the meaning of S. 339, Penal Code. In re : Peria Ponnuswami Goundan.

28 Cr. L. J. 320 :
100 I. C. 544 : A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 506.

———Ss. 339, 341—Exception—Wrongful restraint.

The complainants charged the accused with the offence of wrongful restraint inasmuch as they had restrained the complainants from passing through certain fields on their way to their well. The fields belonged to the father of some of the accused, the other accused cultivating one of them, as tenants: Held, that the case was more properly one for the Civil Court to adjudicate upon, and that the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 341, Penal Code, because, (1) complainants' right of way was not sufficiently established, and (2) it was not shown that the accused acted otherwise than bona fide in obstructing them. Natha Singh v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 495 :
7 I. C. 493 : 22 P. R. 1910 Cr.

———Ss. 339, 341—Wrongful restraint.

The accused stopped a cart in which the complainant was travelling, on the ground that the cartman had engaged himself for carrying Government Forest produce, and were charged with wrongful restraint under S. 341, Penal Code: Held, that the stopping of the cart did not amount to wrongful restraint since the person going in the cart was not prevented from going in any direction he pleased and since he voluntarily stayed with the cart. In re : Narana Iyengar.

10 Cr. L. J. 266 :
12 M. C. C. R. 208.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 341.

Sec also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 133, 345.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 143, 283, 448.

—S. 341—Conviction under, legality of—Restraining tenant from using passage as urinal.

Where a landlord restrained his tenant from using a certain passage as urinal and was charged under S. 341, Penal Code: Held, that the landlord could not be convicted under S. 341 in the absence of a finding that the tenant had a right to use the passage as a urinal. Ghuraram Kahar v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1226 :
127 I. C. 554 : 34 C. W. N. 582 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 760.

—S. 341—Conviction under, maintainability of.

The petitioner who was employed as a passport issuing officer near Coonoor, under the Plague Regulations, was applied to for a passport by one A. For some reason or other the petitioner kept him waiting and there was unreasonable delay in the issue of a passport to A. The Sessions Judge was of opinion that this unreasonable delay amounted to wrongful restraint of A, and convicted the petitioner under S. 341, Penal Code: Held, that assuming that a notification issued under the Statutory Plague Regulations made it illegal on the part of A to enter Coonoor without obtaining a passport from the petitioner, and that the petitioner wrongfully refused to issue one, as the petitioner did not object to A proceeding without a passport, he did not commit the offence of wrongful restraint as defined in S. 339, Penal Code. In re: Chokalinga.

5 Cr. L. J. 357 :
2 M. L. T. 159.

—S. 341—Obstruction in good faith—Obstruction under bona fide colour of title, etc.

The voluntary obstruction of any person from entering upon the land under bona fide colour of title and possession is not such an obstruction as can be made the subject of a criminal prosecution under S. 341, Penal Code. Sheo Nath v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 532 :
14 I. C. 844 : 5 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. :
34 P. L. R. 1914 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 292.

—S. 341—Obstruction in good faith—Persons assisting Police must not interfere with rights of other people—Held, that in the circumstances persons assisting Police in finding out a kidnapped girl were not guilty under S. 341.

Persons assisting the Police must be careful not to interfere with the rights of other people. Where, however, Police are searching for a girl who is alleged to have been kidnapped and the persons assisting the Police come across a covered bullock cart and stop the cart and accuse the owner of it, of having kidnapped the girl, and upon his denial, insist upon sending for the Police and when the Police arrive the girl is not found in the cart on a search being made, it cannot be said that such persons intended any harm to the owner of the cart; their action is a bona fide attempt to prevent what they genuinely believed to be the taking away of the girl whom the Police were looking for. They are not, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 341, Penal Code. Lalbhari Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 720 :
182 I. C. 979 : 20 P. L. T. 467 :
5 B. R. 863 : 12 R. P. 94 (1) :
A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 256.

—S. 341—Offence under.

Accused prevented the complainant from using a mot to which he had yoked his bullocks on the slope of a well which existed for that purpose: Held, that the accused having obstructed the complainant from proceeding with his bullocks in a direction in which he had a right to proceed with his bullocks, were guilty of an offence under S. 341, Penal Code. Lahanu Manaji v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 139 :
91 I. C. 811 : 27 Bom. L. R. 1419 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 118.

—S. 341—Offence under—Emigration—Agent refusing to permit intending emigrant to leave emigration depot—Offence.

Prosecution Witness No. 1 was presented as an emigrant at Messrs. Binny & Co.'s Emigration Depot, and he was treated as such, receiving meals and an advance of money. When he desired to leave the depot, the accused, a watchman in the employ of Messrs. Binny & Co., prevented him from leaving: Held, that the accused was guilty of wrongful restraint under S. 341, Penal Code. Public Prosecutor v. Sheikh Ahmad.

12 Cr. L. J. 212 :
10 I. C. 107 : 21 M. L. J. 439 :
1911, 2 M. W. N. 369.

—S. 341—Public street—Equal rights of members of all communities—Member of one community obstructing member of another community—Offence.

When a street is a public street vested in a Municipality, all members of the public have equal rights in it. Every member of the public has got a right to use a public street in any lawful manner and one section of a community has no right to interdict any section of the community from the lawful use of the public streets. Sundareswara Srouthigal v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 545 :
102 I. C. 481 : 1927 M. W. N. 279 :
25 L. W. 667 : 52 M. L. J. 602 :
38 M. L. T. 307 : 50 Mad. 673 :
A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 938.

—S. 341—Restraint, when, amounts to offence.

A restraint, to amount to an offence under S. 341, I. P. C., must be directed to a person and not to anything else. Kumbola Guravadu v. Yeragatipalli Kristna.

16 Cr. L. J. 176 :
27 I. C. 860 : 1915 M. W. N. 203 :
2 L. W. 185 : A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 1055.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 341—Right of private individual, offence, to restrain commission of offence.

Any private individual has the right to place a restraint upon a person who not only threatens to commit a breach of the peace, but is a danger to other inhabitants. In re : Ramasami Iyar. 22 Cr. L. J. 412 (b) : 61 I. C. 652 : 14 L. W. 189 : 44 Mad. 913 : A. I. R. 1921 Mad. 458.

———S. 341—Wrongful restraint, if committed—Joint owner locking up shop—Civil dispute—Procedure.

One of two joint owners of a shop leased it to the complainant without the consent of the other joint owner, whereupon the latter put her lock on the shop. The complainant accused her of wrongful restraint : Held, that the accused had committed no offence. Even if the action of the accused could be construed as coming within any of the penal provisions of the Penal Code, yet the matter in dispute was so plainly a civil dispute that a Magistrate would not only be justified, but would be acting in a very desirable way, if he dismissed the complaint as being an abuse of the process of a Criminal Court. Bai Samrath v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 351 (a) : 44 I. C. 463 : 20 Bom. L. R. 106 : A. I. R. 1918 Bom. 256.

———Ss. 341, 339—Scope of—Wrongful restraint—A person building upon his own land—Temporary orders in an urgent case.

S. 339, Penal Code, relates to the voluntary obstruction by a person and not obviously at least to obstructions which are not voluntarily continued by the persons accused of the obstruction throughout the time obstruction lasts. Emperor v. Abdul Salar.

5 Cr. L. J. 97 : 9 Bom. L. R. 30.

———Ss. 341, 447—Wrongful restraint and insult in Court compound—Criminal trespass, conviction for, whether justified—Intent, necessary.

Accused was convicted of an offence under Ss. 341, 447 and 504, Penal Code, for having wrongfully restrained and abused a person in a Court compound in order to prevent him from bidding at an auction : Held, (1) that the convictions under Ss. 341 and 504 were justified ; (2) that having regard to the facts :—(a) that the Court compound was open to the public ; (b) that there was no suggestion that the accused entered the compound with the intention of intimidating, insulting or annoying the Magistrate ; the conviction under S. 447 of the Code was not justified. In re : Avadayappa Mudaliar.

24 Cr. L. J. 824 : 74 I. C. 856 : 18 L. W. 181 : 1923 M. W. N. 451 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 40.

———S. 342.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 100, 285, 280, 345, 428 (1) (b).

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 71, 79, 95, 109, 147.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 342—Offence under—Abduction and confinement in broad daylight.

Offence under S. 305, Penal Code, consists of kidnapping or abducting any person with intent to cause that person to be secretly and wrongfully confined. Where the accused took away a woman from the house to their haveli where she was confined in broad daylight : Held, that the offence committed was one under S. 342, and not under S. 305, Penal Code. Indar Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 597 : 109 I. C. 677.

———S. 342—Offence under.

Civil Court peon arresting judgment-debtor under valid warrant in discharge of duty—Subsequent release of judgment-debtor by Court on ground of his being exempted from arrest under S. 135 (2), C. P. C. Peon is not guilty under S. 342. Kadamali v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1252 : 157 I. C. 1004 : 39 C. W. N. 318 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 551.

———S. 342—Scope of.

Police Officer taking person to Sub-Inspector for examination and compelling him to wait in Police Station—No offence—Wrongful confinement is not constituted. Abdul Karim v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 635 : 131 I. C. 74 : 7 O. W. N. 957 : I. R. 1931 Oudh 186 : A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 505.

———S. 342—Wrongful confinement—Confinement by Nazir of judgment-debtor—Nazir's right and liabilities.

A warrant was issued on the 15th April 1905, addressed to the Nazir, directing him to arrest the judgment-debtor and to bring him before the Court with all convenient speed. The warrant was made returnable on or before the 14th June, 1905. The Nazir entrusted the warrant to the Amin and the Amin arrested the judgment-debtor at 9 a. m. on the 22nd of April, during the Easter holidays. The Court opened after the holidays, only on the 25th April. The Nazir was found to have taken the judgment-debtor to the decree-holder's house and confined him there from 9 a. m. to 7-30 p. m. on the 22nd and again from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. on the following morning, when he was taken before the Nazir : Held, (1) that the Nazir was not guilty of any offence under S. 342 of the P. C. (2) that the legal duty of the Nazir was to produce the judgment-debtor at the next sitting of the Court, and in the meantime, he was responsible for his safe custody. Emperor v. Samuel.

5 Cr. L. J. 102 : 16 M. L. J. 530 : 2 M. L. T. 28 : I. L. R. 30 Mad. 179.

———S. 342—Wrongful confinement—Railways Act (IX of 1890), Ss. 113, 122—Trespass on Railway premises.

A person cannot be arrested without a warrant by Railway Authorities merely because he is a trespasser or has travelled without a ticket. In order to justify such an arrest in the case of trespass, it will have to be shown that there was reason to believe that the person to be arrested would abscond, or that his name and address were unknown, and he refused to give his name and address or that there was reason to believe that the name or address given by him was incorrect. The compelling of a person to go in a particular direction by force of an exterior will overpowering or suppressing in any way his own voluntary action, is an imprisonment on the part of him who exercises that exterior will. S. A. Hamid v. Sudhir Mohan Ghose.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 855 :
125 I. C. 593 : 33 C. W. N. 751 :
57 Cal. 102 : A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 730.

—S. 342—Wrongful confinement, what amounts to—C. P. O., S. 135—Execution of decree—Arrest of judgment-debtor—Protection while returning from Court—Liability of Court Officer to punishment.

A decree-holder is guilty of an offence under S. 342, Penal Code, if he causes arrest of the judgment-debtor while he is returning from Court under circumstances mentioned in S. 135 of the C. P. C. and the Court officer who arrests or makes over the warrant of arrest to his subordinate for compliance, is also guilty of the offence. The fact that the judgment-debtor when returning from Court stopped in the way to get a petition written for him by a petition-writer, does not deprive him of the protection afforded to him by law. Ram Lal v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 525 :
36 I. C. 493 : 121 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 318.

—Ss. 342, 365—Wrongful confinement—Whereabouts of person confined not concealed—Offence.

The intent to cause the person abducted to be secretly and wrongfully confined is an essential element of an offence under S. 365, Penal Code. Accused wrongfully confined their sister, but her whereabouts were not concealed from her other relatives and persons interested in her : Held, that the accused were not guilty of an offence under S. 365 of the Code. Akbar Ali v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 229 :
92 I. C. 213 : 7 L. L. J. 520 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 614.

—Ss. 342 and 504—Trial as summary cases, illegality of.

Offences under Ss. 342 and 504, Penal Code, are not triable as summary cases and the acquittal for such offences by a Magistrate under S. 245, Cr. P. C., is illegal and must be set aside. Subapathi Mundali v. Kupasami Mundali.

2 Cr. L. J. 382 :
15 M. L. J. 225.

—S. 343—Wrongful confinement—Prostitute kept in brothel house—Offence.

Accused No. 1 brought the complainant, his mistress, to Bombay and after living with her for a few days in a brothel house, left her in charge of accused No. 2, the brothel-keeper, who kept guard over the complainant and allowed her to go out only on rare occasions under proper control. Accused No. 1 was aware of the conditions under which the complainant would have to live in the house : Held, that both the accused were guilty of the offence of wrongful confinement. Bandu Ebrahim v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

19 Cr. L. J. 258 :
44 I. C. 114 : 20 Bom. L. R. 79 :
42 Bom. 181 : A. I. R. 1917 Bom. 2.

—S. 344.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 78.

—S. 346.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 366.

—S. 347.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 517.

—S. 347—Abetment—Wrongful confinement.

A Head Constable in charge of an outpost having agreed with one Krupa Sahu—arrested on a certain charge—to drop proceedings against him on his paying Rs. 30, sent him in charge of two chowkidars to procure the money. On his failure to raise the promised sum, he was ducked in a pond and beaten by the chowkidars : Held, that it would be impossible to hold the Head Constable guilty of abetting the specific acts of the chowkidars in the absence of proof that he gave definite orders to that end. Emperor v. Lachhman Singh.

1 Cr. L. J. 797 :
I. L. R. 31 Cal. 710.

—S. 348—Scope of.

“To satisfy a claim or demand” is not limited to claim or demand to property—Claim to restitution of conjugal rights is included. Haji Khan v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 344 :
160 I. C. 668 : 8 R. Pesh. 123 :
A. I. R. 1936 Pesh. 19.

—S. 349.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 522.

—S. 349—Criminal force, use of—Cr. P. O., S. 522—Order of restoration, power of Court to pass.

The finding of a Magistrate in an order of conviction under S. 349, Penal Code, that the accused broke open the lock of the complainant's house and threw out all the property of the complainant therefrom and put a lock of his own on the house thereafter, is sufficient to show that the element of criminal force within the definition contained in S. 349 was present, and to justify an order of restoration of possession under S. 522, Cr. P. C. An order for restoration of possession under S. 522, Cr. P. C., may be passed by a Court of Revision within one month of the date of the dismissal of a criminal revision petition. Usmanmiya v. Amirmiya.

28 Cr. L. J. 191 :
99 I. C. 863 : A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 131.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 349—Criminal force, use of—Raising lathi to strike.

Where the accused raised their lathi to strike a particular person with the result that he had to flee to save himself: Held, that they were guilty of using criminal force as defined in S. 349, Penal Code. Jai Ram v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 231 :
22 I. C. 183 : 12 A. L. J. 154 :
A. I. R. 1914 All. 175.

———S. 349—'Force', scope of.

"Force" as defined in S. 349 contemplates the presence of the person using the force and of the person to whom the force is used. Behari Lal v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 59 :
152 I. C. 162 : 36 P. L. R. 91 :
15 Lah. 786 : 7 R. L. 255 :
A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 454.

———Ss. 349, 350—Criminal force, use of—Criminal force, offence attended by—Cr. P. C., S. 522.

Where a person is obliged to run away by reason of some others rushing at him with sticks and lathis, and using threats towards him, the act of the latter amounts to a resort to criminal force as defined in Ss. 349 and 350, Penal Code, and if by such act the person attacked is deprived of property, an order under S. 522, Cr. P. C., restoring the property to him is justified. Ashiq Husain Khan v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 857 :
74 I. C. 1049 : 45 All. 25 :
A. I. R. 1923 All. 333.

———S. 350.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 522.

———S. 351—Assault, ingredient of.

According to the definition of assault under S. 351, Penal Code, the apprehension of the use of force must be from the person making the gesture or preparation, and if that apprehension arises not from that person but from somebody else, it does not amount, to assault on the part of that person. As under S. 47, Penal Code, the word 'animal' does not include a human being, it follows that according to S. 349, force cannot be said to be used by one person to another by causing change in the position of another human being. Muneshwar Bux Singh v. King-Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 221 :
179 I. C. 498 : 1939 O. W. N. 63 :
1939 O. L. R. 52 : 11 R. O. 181 :
14 Luck. 409 : A. I. R. 1939 Oudh 81.

———S. 351—Assault, what constitutes—Throwing missiles at human beings.

To throw a bottle into a house, among the inmates, with the intention of hurting or frightening them, constitutes the offence of assault and not an offence under S. 336. Emperor v. Po Taw.

4 Cr. L. J. 201 :
3 L. B. R. 194.

———S. 351—Conviction, propriety of—Assault—Surrounding—Constable in a threatening manner—Assault by one not constructively offence of all.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where one of the accused hit a constable and the others surrounded the constable in a threatening manner: Held, that this finding was not sufficient to convict the others of assault. Munisami v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 483 :
7 I. C. 416 : 8 M. L. T. 118.

———S. 352.

See also (i) Madras City Police Act, 1888, S. 75.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 71, 140, 426.

———S. 352, 307—Assault—Presenting unloaded gun and pulling trigger.

Accused levelled a gun at the complainant and pulled the trigger, but the gun being unloaded, there was no report or discharge: Held, that the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 307 inasmuch as his act could not per se possibly cause death and that he was only guilty of an assault under S. 352 of the Code. Nga Waik v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 850 :
74 I. C. 1042 : I. R. 209 : 2 Bur. L. J. 76 :
A. I. R. 1923 Rang. 251.

———S. 352—Charge.

The fact that the offence under S. 352, Penal Code, is punishable with less than six months' imprisonment and ordinarily triable as a summons case, will not avail to support the proposition that no charge is required to be framed in respect of the offence under S. 352, Penal Code, if an accused is tried for it along with other offences under the provisions of S. 235, Cr. P. C. Mallu Gope v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 891 :
118 I. C. 323 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 515 :
10 P. L. T. 875 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 712.

———S. 352—Conviction.

Accused were holding certain celebrations at night on the occasion of a recognised festival, and the noise happening to disturb R, the latter took away one of their drums, and threatened them. The accused, thereupon, assaulted R and broke one of his arms: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 352, Penal Code, but not of riot, inasmuch as they were engaged in a lawful occupation at the time when they were provoked to assault R, nor of causing grievous hurt as there was no intention of causing such hurt. Ram Parshad v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 543 :
39 I. C. 687 : A. I. R. 1917 All. 30.

———S. 352—Obstruction to illegal search, if assault.

A Sub-Inspector of Police with a constable raided the house of a person upon receiving information that the latter was in possession of illicit liquor. The Sub-Inspector was not armed with a search warrant nor had he recorded his reason for believing that the house contained illicit liquor. The owner of the house pushed the constable away and was convicted under S. 352, Penal Code: Held, the Sub-Inspector and the constable working under him were technically guilty of house trespass ; and the accused was not guilty under S. 352, Penal Code. Faqira v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 1145 :
120 I. C. 113 : I. R. 1930 All. 1.
A. I. R. 1929 All. 903.

—S. 352—Obstruction to illegal search—
Search of house by Police Officer outside his Circle—Assault to prevent search, whether offence.

Inasmuch as a Sub-Inspector of the Police has no right to enter or attempt to search a house, which is situate outside his Circle, if he does so, no offence is committed if the inmates assault him in order to prevent him from entering the house. Pitam Lal v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 276 :
71 I. C. 996 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 433.

—S. 352—Offence under.

Warrant of Civil Court—Judgment-debtor absent from his house—Pardanashin wife of judgment-debtor in the house—Judgment-creditor pushing open door regardless of warning—Physical and mental pain caused to lady—Offence under S. 352 is committed. Kaluram Nenuram v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 963 :
145 I. C. 259 : 6 R. S. 30 :
A. I. R. 1934 Sind 52.

—S. 352—Criminal force—Warrant technically defective—Offence.

The use of criminal force towards a Police Constable, acting honestly within the scope of his authority, to prevent the execution of a warrant containing a technical defect, but of which neither he, nor the person using such force, had knowledge, is an offence punishable under S. 352, Penal Code. Gokal v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 151 :
71 I. C. 503 : 20 A. L. J. 921 :
45 All. 142 : A. I. R. 1923 All. 87.

—Ss. 352, 379, 447—Conviction, illegality of—Conviction by Magistrate under Ss. 447, 352—Conviction under S. 379 by Appellate Court.

Where a Sub-Magistrate convicted the accused under Ss. 447 and 352, Penal Code, and the Appellate Court altered the conviction into one under S. 379, Penal Code, to which there was no reference in the judgment of the Sub-Magistrate : Held, that the conviction was illegal and should be set aside. The charge of theft is a distinct and separate charge and should be separately made. In re : Bommarreddi.

11 Cr. L. J. 340 (a) :
5 I. C. 974 : 7 M. L. T. 202.

—Ss. 352, 447—Offences under, if committed—Purchase of land from ostensible owner—Possession under bona fide claim of right—Obstruction—Assault—Offences.

Where a person who had an ostensible title to a piece of land, sold it to another and the latter under a bona fide claim of right took possession of the land and ploughed it and in maintaining possession against a rival claimant assaulted the obstructor : Held, that there being no certainty that the obstructor was the owner of the land, and the accused having acted under a bona fide claim of right, no offence either of trespass or assault was committed by him. Abdul Ali Saheb v. Amiruddin.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 88 :
91 I. C. 392 : 23 L. W. 426 :
A. I. R. 1926 Mad. 349.

—S. 353.

See also (i) C. P. Land Revenue Act, 1917, S. 219.

(ii) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 54, 165.

(iii) Forest Act, 1878, S. 78.

(iv) Opium Act, 1878, S. 4.

(v) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 21, 71, 95, 96, 99, 142, 225-B, 323.

(vi) United Provinces Land Revenue Act, 1901, S. 147.

—S. 353—Assault—Assault on Police Officer conducting search—Offence—Cr. P. C., Ss. 94, 165—Search of house of person suspected of theft, legality of.

Accused's brother was suspected of having committed a theft of some property from his master. The complainant, an Inspector of Police, went to search his quarters, whereupon the accused assaulted the complainant : Held, that the accused's brother being a mere suspect at the time of the attempted search, the search was not illegal and was justified under Ss. 94 and 165, Cr. P. C., and that the accused was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code. Bhim Singh v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 174 :
49 I. C. 494 : 17 A. L. J. 115 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 207.

—S. 353—Assault, if committed—Cr. P. C., S. 160—Police Constable acting without written order, whether acting in discharge of duty—Assault—Offence.

The accused, on being asked by a Police constable to accompany him to the Sub-Inspector without a written order from the latter under S. 160, Cr. P. C., assaulted the constable : Held, that the constable was not acting as a public servant engaged in the discharge of his duty, and that, therefore, the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code. Tukaram v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 48 :
48 I. C. 688 : A. I. R. 1918 Nag. 137.

—S. 353—Assault on constable on duty at judicial lock-up—Person in custody, whether prisoner.

A person who communicates or attempts to communicate with a prisoner commits an offence under S. 42, Prisons Act. A constable who is employed to guard a lock-up is authorised to prevent the commission of such an offence, and an assault on such a constable by a person who attempts to communicate with a prisoner in the lock-up, therefore, falls under S. 353 of the Penal Code. Emperor v. Khanun.

25 Cr. L. J. 93 :
76 I. C. 29 : 4 Lah. 448 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 257.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 353—Assault on public servant seeking to distrain—Distrain warrant not addressed by personal name of officer—Seizure by servant of distraining officer at his direction—Legality of distrain—Objections to legality of distrain, when to be taken.

A warrant of distress addressed to a person as "Warrant Officer, Third Division" and not by personal name is not illegal on that account inasmuch as the description is sufficient to disclose identity. Where a distraining officer does not seize the article with his own hands but directs his peon to take it, the procedure is not irregular. An objection that an article is exempted from distrain as coming under the exception in S. 60, C. P. C., must be raised at an early stage in the case and cannot be raised for the first time in revision. In re : Rappa Balusawmy Ayyar. 29 Cr. L. J. 1062 : 112 I. C. 566 : A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 188.

———S. 353—Assault, what amounts to.

Court intending to exercise powers under O. 521, r. 22 (2), C. P. C., issuing simultaneously notice under O. 521, r. 22, notice to show cause against arrest, and warrant of arrest—Warrant of arrest is not illegal and resistance amounts to an offence under S. 353. Rajani Kanta Saha v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 886 :
132 I. C. 244 : 35 C. W. N. 228 :
58 Cal. 940 : I. R. 1931 Cal. 564 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 443.

———S. 353—Conviction, legality of—Using criminal force to deter a public servant from discharge of his duty—Assault.

The petitioner was a registered suspicious character whose movements were watched by the Police. A Police Constable, who was ordered to check his presence, entered upon his premises about midnight, and knocked at his door to see if he was in. Upon this the petitioner came out, abused and pushed the constable, whose turban fell to the ground. Afterwards the petitioner brought a stick from inside and lifted it up as if he was going to heat the Constable with it. Upon these facts the petitioner was convicted and sentenced under S. 353, Penal Code: Held, (reversing the conviction and sentence) that the offence under S. 353, Penal Code, had not been committed. Dorasamy Pillay v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 274 :
I. L. R. 27 Mad. 52.

———S. 353—Conviction, maintainability of—Distrain of property unauthorised—Assault on public servant.

Where a warrant authorised the distrain of the property of a person for unpaid water-tax, and the Village Munsif attempted to execute the warrant against the defaulter's lessee and was assaulted by the latter: Held, that a conviction of the lessee for assaulting a public servant in the discharge of his duty could not stand. Mallampatti v. Sub-Inspector, Police, Prattipad.

26 Cr. L. J. 223 (a) :
83 I. C. 1007 : 47 M. L. J. 447 :
20 L. W. 669 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 895.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 353—Conviction, maintainability of—House search by Police Officer within limits of another Police Station.

A Police Officer conducted a search in the house of the accused, who did not reside within the limits of his jurisdiction, accompanied by a Constable of the Police Station which had jurisdiction, but the constable had no order, either written or verbal, from his own Sub-Inspector. While engaged in the search, they were assaulted by the accused who was convicted under S. 353, Penal Code: Held, that as the provisions of S. 166, Cr. P. C., were not complied with, conviction under S. 353, Penal Code, could not be maintained. Madho Sonar v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 589 :
30 I. C. 141 : 13 A. L. J. 691 :
A. I. R. 1915 All. 442.

———S. 353—Evidence—Assaulting process-server when executing a warrant—Production of warrant in evidence—Evidence Act, 1872, S. 91.

The accused were convicted of assaulting a process-server while executing a warrant issued by a Civil Court. The warrant was not produced before the Magistrate, and the Magistrate did not require its production: Held, that the contents of the warrant were an essential part of the case for the prosecution and that those contents can only be proved in the manner prescribed in S. 91, Evidence Act. Shwe Ko v. Emperor.

3 Cr. L. J. 361 :
3 L. B. R. 128.

———S. 353—Obstruction to defective warrant.

If in an execution warrant sought to be executed, the date on or before which it is to be executed and the date on or before which it is to be returned to the Court is not specified, the warrant is bad, and a person resisting its execution by the Amin commits no offence under S. 353. Kishori Lal v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 295 :
153 I. C. 157 : 7 R. A. 450 (2) :
A. I. R. 1934 All. 1016.

———S. 353—Obstruction to vaccinator, if offence—Criminal force—Vaccinator attempting to vaccinate child—Vaccination not compulsory in the place—"In the execution of his duty"—Deterring vaccinator from vaccinating.

A vaccinator who vaccinates a child against the will of its parents in a place where vaccination has not been made compulsory, is not discharging any duty under the law when attempting to vaccinate the child. Therefore, a person, who prevents him from so doing, cannot be said to have committed any offence under S. 353, Penal Code. In re : Bozagellaya.

11 Cr. L. J. 200 :
4 I. C. 1166 : 19 M. L. J. 238.

———S. 353—Offence under—Arrest by constable without warrant on information of cognizable offence—Obstruction.

A warrant of arrest was issued against A on a charge of cognizable offence. The Sub-Inspector of the Thana, in which A resided, ordered his subordinate constable to be on the look out for A and to arrest him wherever found. A constable with a chaukidar came across A and proceeded to arrest him informing him at the same time that a warrant had been issued against him but no warrant was produced. B, a third person, interfered and prevented A's arrest; Held, that B was guilty of an offence under S. 353. Gopal Singh v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 179 : 22 I. C. 755 : 11 A. L. J. 957 : 36 All. 6 ; A. I. R. 1914 All. 205.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 353—Offence under—Obstructing a public servant in the discharge of his duty—Search of accused's house by Head Constable under orders from the Sub-Inspector—Assault by accused on the Head Constable—Cr. P. C., S. 165 (3).

Where at the search of accused's house by a Head Constable under orders of the Sub-Inspector, the accused assaulted the constable and prevented his entering the house: Held, that accused was guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code, as the Head Constable, in conducting the search was obeying the orders of his superior officer, and that S. 165 (3), Cr. P. C., did not apply to the case. In re : Parasurama Asari. 11 Cr. L. J. 727 : 18 I. C. 881 : 9 M. L. T. 168.

—S. 353—Offence under.

Public Gambling Act, S. 13—Police constable informed by some constables that gambling was going on, can apprehend gamblers without warrant—Accused preventing him from proceeding in that direction by use of criminal force—Offence under S. 353 is committed. Ramdeo v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 558 : 154 I. C. 740 : 1935 A. W. R. 469 : 7 R. A. 789 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 516.

—S. 353—Offence under Public servant carrying out order of Court made under repealed Act—Assault—Offence.

Where a Court has jurisdiction to order delivery of possession of certain property, the mere fact that it purports to do so under the authority of a repealed Act will not take away its jurisdiction, nor deprive the process-server of the protection which the law gives to a public servant acting under the orders of a Court of competent jurisdiction. A process-server who was not wearing his official badge was, while carrying out the orders of a Court of competent jurisdiction, assaulted by the accused. He had announced that he was carrying out Government orders: Held, that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code. Lava v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 689 (b) : 40 I. C. 689 : 13 N. L. R. 87 : A. I. R. 1917 Nag. 231.

—S. 353—Offence under—Public servant executing orders of his superiors—Orders right or wrong—Assault.

An assault made on a public servant acting in obedience to the orders of his superiors is punishable under S. 353, Penal Code, the question whether those orders were right or wrong being immaterial in the case. A Tahsil chaprasi was sent by the Tahsildar to seize camels for transport. The camel-men assaulted the chaprasi while he was in the act of seizing their camel: Held, that the camel-men were guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code. Emperor v. Amir Khan. 14 Cr. L. J. 141 : 18 I. C. 893 : 183 P. L. R. 1913 : 19 P. W. R. 1913 Cr.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 353—Offence under—Sub-Inspector attacked while executing it—Offence under S. 353, if committed.

When a warrant under S. 88, Cr. P. C., is issued, it is presumed that a proclamation under S. 87 has already been issued, the presumption of law being that the acts of a Court must be presumed to have been duly performed. Even if it were presumed that a proclamation had not been issued under S. 87, Cr. P. C., it would not justify the conclusion that the Sub-Inspector and the constables were not in execution of their duty as public servants when they went to execute the warrant which was not illegal and if he is attacked while executing the warrant, the person attacking can be convicted under S. 353, Penal Code. Shib Charan v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 570 : 174 I. C. 861 : 1938 A. L. J. 137 : 10 R. A. 634 : I. L. R. 1938 All. 386 : 1938 A. W. R. 124 : A. I. R. 1938 All. 220.

—S. 353—Offence under—Using criminal force towards public servant—Bailiff assisting another Bailiff in execution of warrant, assault on.

A warrant of attachment was endorsed to a Bailiff for execution and another Bailiff was directed to act with the former in the execution of the warrant. The accused whose property was to be attached under the warrant, assaulted the latter Bailiff and prevented him from attaching his property: Held, that the second Bailiff was acting in good faith as a public servant and the accused was, therefore, guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code. Abdul Ghani v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 122 : 76 I. C. 186 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 632.

—S. 353—Offence under, what amounts to—Distrain to Revenue Inspector, resistance to—Warrant to Village Headman and not to Revenue Inspector—Offence.

Resistance to the authority of a Revenue Inspector distraining property for arrears of revenue, amounts to an offence under S. 353, Penal Code, though the warrant of distraint is addressed to the Village Headman and not to Revenue Inspector, where the latter is supervising the work of the headman and has been specially enjoined by the Tahsildar to attend to the work of distraint. In re : Kandaswami Goundan. 25 Cr. L. J. 290 : 76 I. C. 962 : 46 M. L. J. 45 : 1924 M. W. N. 50 : A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 539.

—S. 353—Proper discharge of duty—Execution of warrant after expiry of time fixed by Nazir—Obstruction to Amin—Offence.

An Amin who executes a warrant before the expiry of the time fixed by the Munsif for its return but after the time given by the Nazir, acts in the proper discharge of his duty within the meaning of S. 353, Penal Code, since he derives his authority to execute the warrant in virtue of his office from the Court and the fact that the Nazir directs an earlier return, as a matter of office routine, does not affect the Amin's authority. In re : Garapati Kotayya.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 64 :
75 I. C. 768 : 32 M. L. T. 248 :
1923 M. W. N. 444 : 45 M. L. J. 74 :
A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 687.

————S. 353—Protection under—Duty of Police Officers.

It is of great importance that Police Officers in the discharge of their duty should receive the protection of such Sections as 353 and 382, Penal Code, but in order to entitle them to protection of those sections, Police Officers must comply scrupulously with the provisions of the law, particularly when they undertake an act such as searching the house against the will of the accused. Madho Sonar v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 589 :
30 I. C. 141 : 13 A. L. J. 691 :
A. I. R. 1915 All. 442.

————S. 353—Public servant, what is.

Where an officer exercises his official duties in a grossly illegal and outrageous manner, he cannot be deemed to be a public servant in the execution of his duty, so as to bring an assault against such officer within the purview of S. 353. Nagwe Yon v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 939 :
132 I. C. 711 : I. R. 1931 Rang. 199.
A. I. R. 1931 Rang. 169.

————S. 353—Resistance to execution of expired warrant—C. P. Land Revenue Act (II of 1917), S. 131—Attachment by Revenue Court—C. P. C., O. XXI, r. 24, applicability of, to Revenue Courts.

Order XXI, r. 24, C. P. C., applies to attachments and sales of movable property under Chap. X of C. P. Land Revenue Act. Therefore, an offence under S. 353, Penal Code, is not committed, if a Revenue peon is assaulted while executing an expired warrant of attachment. Nand Lal v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 223 :
76 I. C. 655 : 19 N. L. R. 183 :
A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 68.

————S. 353—Resistance to execution of illegal warrant—Income Tax Act, S. 46—Jurisdiction of Income-tax Collector to issue distress warrant.

A Collector, acting under S. 46, Income Tax Act, has no authority to issue a distress warrant to a Police Officer, and a Police Officer executing such a warrant cannot be said to be acting in the execution of his duty as a Police Officer within the meaning of S. 353, Penal Code. Jairam Sahu v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 490 :
72 I. C. 954 : 4 P. L. T. 171 :
1 P. L. R. 68 Cr. : 1923 Pat. 111 :
A. I. R. 1923 Pat. 338.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 353—Scope of.

Act of public servant not strictly justifiable under law—Assault committed on such servant does not fall under S. 353 but falls under S. 352—Irregularity of such servant does not save assault under S. 99. Emperor v. Bohpo.

34 Cr. L. J. 1147 :
146 I. C. 43 : 27 S. L. R. 209 :
6 R. S. 53 : A. I. R. 1933 Sind 174.

————S. 353—Scope of—Assault on public servant while not acting as such—Offence.

The expression “in consequence of” as used in S. 353, Penal Code, includes the motives which actuate an assault as well as the cause of such assault. A person who assaults a public servant, while the latter is not acting as such, the assault being the result of disappointment experienced by the offender in having failed to induce the public servant to pass a particular order in his favour, is guilty of an offence under S. 353, Penal Code. Mehr Din v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 199 :
99 I. C. 935 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 162.

————S. 353—Scope of.

Sanitation and chawkidari tax—No writ of demand issued—Tax collector assaulted—No offence is committed under S. 353 but accused were punishable for assault. Mohammad Ibrahim v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 853 :
132 I. C. 214 : I. R. 1931 Lah. 550 :
A. I. R. 1931 Lah. 524.

————S. 353—Scope of—Search under S. 74, Bihar and Orissa Excise Act (II of 1915.)

The recording of reason before search is provided for both under the Cr. P. C. and under the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act, and is intended to protect the liberty of citizens and avoid useless and unjustified searches. Where no reasons are recorded as required by S. 74, Bihar and Orissa Excise Act, and the Excise Sub-Inspector searching the house is assaulted by the accused, the accused cannot be convicted under S. 353, Penal Code, since the Sub-Inspector cannot be said to be acting in exercise of his powers. Search under S. 74, can be made during day or night. Chander Prasad v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 982 :
170 I. C. 784 : 18 P. L. T. 398 :
3 B. R. 786 : 10 R. P. 156 (1) :
A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 501.

————S. 353—Scope of.

The words “duty as such public servant,” in S. 353, Penal Code, mean duty imposed by law on such public servant and do not include acts done in good faith under colour of his office by such public servant. The law imposes no duty on any Revenue Official to seize animals belonging to private individuals for purposes of camp transport and gives them no power to forcibly seize such animals. Executive Officers are not entitled to require owners of such transport to supply it, nor are the owners declining to supply such transport guilty of an offence by the mere fact of refusal. And if in protecting his property against an illegal seizure the owner assaults the official making such seizure, he is protected by law provided he does not exceed the limits laid down in Chap. IV, Penal Code. Asa v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 512 :
20 I. C. 992 : 38 P. W. R. 1913 Cr. :
325 P. L. R. 1913.

—S. 353—Sentence—Resistance to process server—Deterrent sentence, when necessary.

Even though a deterrent sentence is necessary for the offence of resisting a process-server, even while the accused is not sure that the attachment is illegal, a deterrent sentence is not called for, if the action is taken by the accused in the most open manner and he has made an endorsement on the warrant that he resisted the process-server. Bapuji v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 896 :
111 I. C. 576 : A. I. R. 1928 Nag. 135.

—S. 353—Threatening attitude—Assault.

Medical Officer and Sanitary Inspector ordering accused to remove ice kept for sale as unfit for use—Accused adopting threatening attitude towards them—Assault, held committed within Penal Code—S. 314, U. P. Municipal Act, had no application—Executive Officer having with Chairman's sanction delegated power under S. 244 (1), U. P. Municipal Act to Medical Officer—Legal powers held not exceeded by Medical Officer ordering removal of ice. Kallu v. Dr. H. S. Dube.

36 Cr. L. J. 1386 :
158 I. C. 481 : 1935 O. W. N. 1124 :
1935 O. L. R. 591 : 8 R. O. 104 :
A. I. R. 1936 Oudh 20.

—S. 353—Trivial offence—U. P. Municipalities Act (II of 1916), S. 155.

A person introduced a parcel into a Municipality without payment of octroi duty and obstructed and assaulted the persons when they demanded examination of the parcel. He was prosecuted under S. 155 of the U. P. Municipalities Act, for evasion of octroi duty and acquitted. He was also prosecuted by the Police under Ss. 186 and 353, Penal Code, but charge was framed under Ss. 186 alone and he was convicted under S. 186, but the conviction was set aside on appeal on the ground that no sanction under S. 195 had been obtained. A third prosecution was started against him for having obstructed the peons: Held, (1) that the previous acquittal under S. 155, U. P. Municipalities Act, did not operate as a bar to the third prosecution as the two offences were entirely distinct; (2) that there was no acquittal under S. 353, Penal Code, but only a discharge; (3) that the acquittal under S. 186, Penal Code, on the ground that sanction had not been obtained was no bar to the third prosecution. Abdul Rashid v. Sahu Harish Chandra.

30 Cr. L. J. 1153 :
120 I. C. 121 : I. R. 1929 All. 9 :
1930 A. L. J. 218 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 940.

—Ss. 353, 224—Conviction under, if maintainable.

While a certain fair was going on, the accused with his followers armed with lathis

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

had completely blocked up one of the lanes of the mela and there was danger of breach of peace. On information being received, a Magistrate together with a Sub-Inspector of Police went to the place. The accused being asked to remove his men by the Magistrate retorted "who are you to threaten me"? Each time the accused replied, he beckoned to his men and they advanced a little, brandishing their lathis. The Magistrate apprehending an immediate breach of the peace, directed the Sub-Inspector to arrest the accused whereupon the Sub-Inspector immediately laid his hand upon the accused's shoulder and also seized him by the wrist but the accused wrenched himself free and being surrounded by his followers, escaped from the mela. The accused was convicted under Ss. 353 and 224, Penal Code: Held, that the accused was not guilty of any offence under S. 353, Penal Code: Held, further that an offence under S. 224, Penal Code, too, had not been committed because in the first place, the mere fact that the Sub-Inspector of Police caught hold of his wrist did not amount to the accused being "charged" with any offence. In the second place, the only offence which was said to have been committed by the accused in the presence of the Magistrate was one under S. 353, Penal Code, and as no offence under that section was committed by him, the Magistrate could not be said to have had power to arrest the accused or cause him to be arrested. Muneshawar Bux Singh v. King-Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 221 :
179 I. C. 498 : 1939 O. W. N. 63 :
1939 O. L. R. 52 : 11 R. O. 181 :
14 Luck. 409 : A. I. R. 1939 Oudh 81.

—Ss. 353, 358—Scope of—Madras Local Boards Act (V of 1884), S. 82, Cl. (2)—Illegal distraint of doors of house—Assault while distraining—Offence.

The act of a bill collector in distraining the doors of a house under S. 82, Cl. (2), Madras Local Boards Act (V of 1884) is illegal, and if while so distraining, he is assaulted, an offence under S. 358, and not under S. 353, Penal Code, is committed. Chinnaswami Pillai v. Chairman of the Arkonam Union.

15 Cr. L. J. 637 :
25 I. C. 837 : 16 M. L. T. 429 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 501.

—S. 354.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 436, 437.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 323, 342, 376.

—S. 354—Evidence of intention, necessity of—Outraging modesty.

The accused caught hold of a woman by her arm and began dragging her. The woman raised a hue and cry and some neighbours came and released her and secured the accused. There was no evidence as to what the intention of the accused was: Held, that the accused could not be convicted under S. 366 of the Penal Code, but was guilty of an offence under S. 354 of the Code. Fakir v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 479 : 109 I. C. 127 : 29 P. L. R. 444 : 10 L. L. J. 325.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 354—Indecent assault—Outraging modesty.

An offence of indecent assault on a woman cannot be complete unless there is intention or knowledge that the woman's modesty will be outraged. Fatima v. Captain McCormick. 14 Cr. L. J. 149 : 19 I. C. 149 : 6 Bur. L. T. 21.

————S. 354—Offence under—Assault upon a girl—Rape—Attempt.

The accused took off a girl's clothes, threw her on to the ground and then sat down beside her. He said nothing to her nor did he do anything more to her: Held, that the accused committed an offence under S. 354, Penal Code, and was not guilty of an attempt to commit rape. Nuna v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 469 : 15 I. C. 309 : 16 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. : 116 P. L. R. 1912.

————S. 354—Offence under.

The fact that A is in love with B and is jealous of C, does not authorise him to pull B's hair and hand. An assault of this kind made in the presence of several persons is calculated to outrage the woman's modesty and is punishable under S. 354, Penal Code. An erroneous interpretation of law to the effect that a man claiming to be the lover of a woman is entitled to pull her by the hair and hand is alone sufficient to justify interference with an order of acquittal. Mi Hla So v. Nga Than. 13 Cr. L. J. 53 : 13 I. C. 389 : 4 Bur. L. T. 268.

————S. 354—Offence under—When constituted—Girl six years old—Assault with intent to outrage modesty—Woman.

The accused took a girl six years old to his room; he made her lie down and he lay on her. The girl screamed and ran away. Held, (1) that the girl, though young was a "woman" for the purpose of S. 354, Penal Code; (2) that the facts amounted to an offence under S. 354, and that the accused should be convicted of that offence. Emperor v. Tatia Mahadev. 13 Cr. L. J. 858 : 17 I. C. 794 : 14 Bom. L. R. 961.

————S. 354—Offence when constituted.

In order to constitute an offence under S. 354, Penal Code, it is necessary that the assault or use of criminal force to the woman must be with intent to outrage or with the knowledge that it was likely to outrage her modesty. Government of Assam v. Kantila Chutia. 28 Cr. L. J. 697 : 103 I. C. 553 : 31 C. W. N. 583 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 505.

————S. 354—Scope of—Outraging modesty—Intention to outrage modesty, necessity of—Overture to woman lacking in modesty—Offence.

An offence under S. 354, Penal Code, is committed only where a person assaults or uses criminal force to a woman intending to outrage or knowing it to be likely that he will thereby outrage her modesty. The accused cannot be convicted of this offence where the woman had either no modesty to mention or it was not such as would be outraged by the acts attributed to him. Champa Pasin v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 325 : 108 I. C. 81 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 326.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————Ss. 354, 342—Separate sentences—Legality of.

Separate sentences cannot be imposed for offences under Ss. 354 and 342, Penal Code, and for abetment of rape where the acts constituting the former offences form part of the same transaction as constituted the abetment of rape alleged against the same accused. Champa Pasin v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 325 : 108 I. C. 81 : A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 326.

————Ss. 354, 376, 511—Assault and rape—Hymen, rupture of, whether necessary to constitute rape.

A female child aged 5½ years was discovered seated on the naked thighs of the accused who was a lad of eighteen years. The accused had taken of his own trousers and that of the girl. On medical examination of the girl it was found that with the exception of fresh redness at the entrance to the vagina, the girl bore no other mark of injury and her hymen was intact. There were no marks of blood or semen on her person and she did not complain of having felt any pain as the result of the accused's assault upon her: Held, that under the circumstances the accused was guilty of an attempt to commit rape and not merely of an indecent assault. Mehraj Din v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 244 : 100 I. C. 116 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 222.

————S. 355.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 332.

————S. 355—Grave and sudden provocation—Assault with intent to dishonour.

In order to bring a case under S. 355, Penal Code, it is for the prosecution to establish that the accused did not receive grave and sudden provocation from the person assaulted. Pollution caused by the stream water splashed by a low caste woman on the body of an orthodox Brahmin while he was performing his sundhyawandan and reciting prayers and interruption thus caused in the continuity of the prayers are sufficient to cause grave and sudden provocation so as to justify use of force such as catching her hand, in order to express his resentment at her conduct and there can be no inference from the action that there was an intention on the part of the Brahmin to dishonour the woman. Sheodin Hari Prasad v. Jawani. 27 Cr. L. J. 1003 : 96 I. C. 859 : 9 N. L. J. 157 : A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 47.

————S. 359.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 79.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 360.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 496.

———S. 360—Offence under, what amounts to—Kidnapping from British India—Consent of person kidnapped—Offence.

A person who kidnaps a girl over twelve years of age from British India with her consent, is not guilty of an offence under S. 360, Penal Code. Haribhai Dada v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 602 :
45 I. C. 506 : 20 Bom. L. R. 372 :
42 Bom. 391 : A. I. R. 1918 Bom. 205.

———S. 361.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 76.

———S. 361—Conviction under, legality of—Lawful guardian—Paternal uncles, selling up adverse title, kidnapping by.

Where an orphan minor Hindu girl, who was entrusted to the care of her maternal uncles and had obtained mutation in her favour of certain property which was claimed by her paternal uncles, after having lived for 18 months with the maternal uncles, was forcibly carried away by her paternal uncles and was caused to be married : Held, that the paternal uncles were rightly convicted under S. 361, Penal Code : Held, further, that the order of the Deputy Magistrate making over the girl to the maternal uncles on certain conditions and entrusting the girl to a trustee until those conditions were fulfilled, was ultra vires, and it was open to them to take such legal steps for the minor's custody as they thought fit. Baij Nath v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 640 :
25 I. C. 840 : 1 O. L. J. 416 :
A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 329.

———S. 361—Entrustment, proof of.

The entrustment required by the explanation to S. 361, Penal Code, may be proved not only by oral evidence but also by surrounding circumstances and the conduct of the parties concerned. Samarendra Kumar Chakravarty v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 673 :
169 I. C. 48 : 15 Pat. 817 :
9 R. P. 526 : 3 B. R. 514 :
18 P. L. T. 535 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 263.

———S. 361—Essentials—Kidnapping, essence of—Minor's consent immaterial—Consent given on misrepresentation of fact, effect of—Misrepresentation as to intention.

The essence of the offence of kidnapping is the taking of the minor out of the keeping of the guardian without the guardian's consent. If the other elements of the offence are present, [the mere fact that the minor is a consenting party is quite immaterial. A consent given on a misrepresentation of fact is one given under a misconception of fact within the meaning of S. 90, Penal Code. Emperor v. Soma.

18 Cr. L. J. 18 :
36 I. C. 850 : 17 P. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 414.

———S. 361—Karta of joint Hindu family, position of.

The position of a karta in a Hindu family is a unique one and even though one need not go so far as to say that a person would necessarily be the lawful guardian of a minor within the meaning of S. 361, Penal Code, by the mere fact of his being a karta, it is safe to say that very slight evidence of the consent of the natural guardian would be required to hold that the karta of the family was in fact the guardian of a minor who is being brought up under his care. Samarendra Kumar Chakravarty v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 673 :
169 I. C. 48 : 15 Pat. 817 :
9 R. P. 526 : 3 B. R. 514 :
18 P. L. T. 535 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 263.

———S. 361—'Lawful guardian'—Kidnapping—Purchaser of a minor girl from her husband is a lawful guardian.

The husband of a minor girl, under 16 years of age, sold her to one S; while she was living with S she was persuaded by the petitioner to leave his house : Held, that for the purposes of S. 361, Penal Code, S was the lawful guardian of the minor girl and that the petitioner was consequently guilty of kidnapping her from lawful guardianship. The term "lawful guardian" does not include a person who has himself gained possession of the minor by an offence under S. 361, Penal Code. But it does include not only the parents or relations, in whose house the minor lives and is brought up, but any other person with whom the minor resides by the consent, express or implied, of those who have the higher legal right. Fatti v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 24 :
10 I. C. 97 : 7 P. R. 1911 Cr. :
31 P. W. R. 1911 Cr. : 154 P. L. R. 1911.

———S. 361—'Lawful guardian'—Person below 18 years, whether can be 'lawful guardian.'

There is no rule of law that a person below 18 years of age cannot be a 'lawful guardian' of a minor for the purposes of S. 361, Penal Code. Mehr Hussain Shah v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 530 :
123 I. C. 532 : 31 P. L. R. 554 :
A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 835.

———S. 361—Lawful guardian, who is—Person in temporary charge, whether lawful guardian.

For the purposes of the First Explanation to S. 361, Penal Code, a person in temporary charge of a minor cannot be regarded as the lawful guardian, as against the guardian at civil law. Sital Prasad v. Emperor.

21 Cr. L. J. 50 :
54 I. C. 402 : 2 U. P. L. R. All. 76 :
42 All. 146 : 18 A. L. J. 64 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 36.

———S. 361—Lawful guardianship—Dual guardianship, conception of—Declaration of trust, necessity of.

The conception of a dual guardianship is by itself not repugnant to law and it is not difficult to conceive of cases where there may be more than one guardian. The guardianship of the father does not cease while a minor is in the possession of another person who had been lawfully entrusted with the care and custody of such minor by the father. Again there is nothing in law to prevent the father or the mother of a minor, who may be his or her lawful guardian for the time being, from entrusting lawfully the care and custody of such minor to more than one person at a time. A person should be regarded in the eye of the law as having been lawfully entrusted with the care and custody of a minor, if he has acquired control over the minor lawfully, and in such circumstances, as would imply trust even though he may not have been formally entrusted with the care and custody of the minor by a third person. Samarendra Kumar Chakravarty v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

38 Cr. L. J. 673 :

169 I. C. 48 : 15 Pat. 817 :

9 R. P. 526 : 3 B. R. 514 :

18 P. L. T. 535 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 263.

—S. 361—Lawfully entrusted, meaning of.

It must be clearly shown to bring a case within the purview of the expression "lawfully entrusted" the explanation to S. 361 that not only the mother of the girl requested the alleged guardian to take the girl under his protection but that the trust was accepted. Mohan Singh v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 949 :

126 I. C. 55 : A. I. R. 1930 Sind 164.

—S. 361—Minor brother, if guardian—Complaint for kidnapping of sister.

A minor brother cannot be the guardian of his sister, and consequently, cannot lodge a complaint for kidnapping under S. 361, Penal Code. Karusa v. Mamraj.

23 Cr. L. J. 479 :

67 I. C. 831 : 3 L. L. J. 588 :

A. I. R. 1921 Lah. 316 (1).

—S. 361—Offence under.

A girl of 14 years, who was married at the age of 3 and had lost her husband before attaining puberty, was living with her mother and putative father. All the time she was living with her parents. According to the custom, a married girl could not leave her parents' house before attaining puberty and the husband was not entitled to her custody until she attained maturity. The father-in-law of the girl never cared to exercise his right and was not willing to undertake the responsibility of a guardian. The girl was kidnapped by the accused while thus living with her parents: Held, that the parents never lost their guardianship as the girl did not attain puberty and even if they had lost it by her marriage, that was revived in consequence of the failure of the father-in-law to take up the responsibility of a guardian. At all events the father-in-law must be deemed to have "entrusted" the guardianship to the parents as was clear from his course of conduct. The accused was, therefore, guilty under S. 361. Nathu Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 356 :

186 I. C. 660 : 1940 N. L. J. 203 :

12 R. N. 256 : A. I. R. 1941 Nag. 66.

—S. 361—Offence under, what constitutes—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Girl driven out of house—Custody of father.

A minor girl was driven from her parental roof and was found some days afterwards in the company of the accused: Held, that the offence of kidnapping was not committed. To constitute that offence, the girl must have been taken by the accused from the keeping of her father: in this case, she was not under her father's keeping, as he had driven her away from the house. Pandayaram Sas-trulu v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 598 :

16 I. C. 166 : 1912 M. W. N. 538.

—S. 361—Pledge of girl by natural guardian—Pledge by pledgee—Pledgee and sub-pledgee, whether guilty of kidnapping.

A pledged his girl with B to secure a loan. A did not pay the loan and B pledged her with C to secure a loan raised by him from C. A, without demanding the custody of the girl from B or C, instituted a complaint against B and C under S. 361, Penal Code: Held, that B and C were not guilty of kidnapping under S. 361, Penal Code. Though the pledging of a girl to secure a loan is not a legal contract and cannot be enforced in law, the pledgee does not by retaining the girl commit the offence of kidnapping under S. 361, Penal Code, inasmuch as the said section has no application where the guardian has consented to the taking away or keeping of the girl. Gildar Kaiyer v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 980 :

119 I. C. 72 : 10 P. L. T. 326 :

I. R. 1929 Pat. 568 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 316.

—S. 361—Scope of—Abduction—Offence, ingredients of—Lawful guardianship—"Person lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of a minor."

The intention of the Legislature was, by virtue of the explanation appended to S. 361, Penal Code, to extend the application of the term lawful guardian so as to include and embrace within the accepted meaning of this legal term "a person lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of a minor." S. 361 and the explanation appended thereto are express and exhaustive in their terms, and in order to constitute the offence of kidnapping or abduction, there must be in fact duly, properly and legally proved a taking or enticing away of a minor from the custody of the following persons; (a) the natural guardian: (b) the legal guardian, if the natural guardian be dead or (c) a person lawfully entrusted with the care and custody of a minor. What the law contemplates by the explanation to S. 361 is a declaration of trust, by one competent to make such a declaration, conveying, handing over and confiding a minor to the care and custody of another in whom a confidence and trust is imposed, and it is necessary for the person accepting the trust to do so either by express assent or by necessary implication arising from tacit acquiescence in the performance of the trust. Kesar v. Emperor. (F. B.).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 161 :
49 I. C. 481 : 1919 Pat. 33 :
4 P. L. J. 74 : A. I. R. 1919 Pat. 27.

———S. 361—Scope of—Removal by Christian mother of children from father's house, whether amounts to kidnapping.

There is no law under which among Christians a father has a preferential right to the custody of his children to the mother, and therefore, the removal of her children by the mother from the house occupied by their father does not amount to an offence under S. 361, Penal Code. Mrs. Peter v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 513 :
102 I. C. 209 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 496.

———S. 361—'Taking', scope of.

The word "taking" in S. 361, Penal Code, is nothing but physical taking. Jagan Nath v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 630 :
25 I. C. 638 : 1 O. L. J. 330 :
A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 126.

———S. 361—Transfer of guardianship by temporary guardian, if amounts to offence.

If after having obtained custody of a minor in a lawful manner with the consent of its guardian, the minor is married or disposed of in such a manner as to make it impossible for the lawful guardian to get back the custody of the minor, an offence under S. 361, Penal Code, would be committed and the temporary guardian doing any such act would be liable under the section but so long as nothing is done which would render the restoration or exercise of the custody of the child by the lawful guardian impossible, the mere fact of transferring the guardianship by the temporary guardian would not constitute an offence. Jildar Kaiyer v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 980 :
119 I. C. 72 : 10 P. L. T. 326 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 568 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 316.

———S. 361—Transfer of guardianship.

Where a girl is made over by its natural guardian to another, the latter becomes temporarily the lawful guardian of the girl with all the rights and liabilities of a natural guardian including the right to transfer his guardianship. Jildar Kaiyer v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 980 :
119 I. C. 72 : 10 P. L. T. 326 :
I. R. 1929 Pat. 568 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 316.

———S. 361, Exception—Scope of—Question of authority to remove girl from control of lawful guardian, if arises.

The exception to S. 361 simply is that the section does not extend to the act of any person who in good faith believes himself or herself to be entitled to the lawful custody of the child. There is no question whatever of any authority to remove the girl from the control of her lawful guardian. Kat-yoyani Dasi v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 751 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

176 I. C. 456 : 11 R. C. 139 :
A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 475.

———S. 361, Exception—Duty of Judge—Kidnapping married minor girl—'Lawful guardianship'—Father 'entrusted with care or custody of the minor'.

In a case of kidnapping from lawful guardianship under S. 363, Penal Code, the Judge dealt with the question of guardianship, in his charge to the Jury, as follows :—"Now, the lawful guardian of a married woman is, no doubt, her husband. But there is the evidence before you that she came with the consent of the husband into the house of her father, if you believe such evidence. Therefore, the father of the girl was her de facto lawful guardian for the time that the girl was residing in her father's house." Held, that in matters of this kind, a Judge should adhere to the words of the particular section of the Penal Code with which he has to deal, and not substitute phraseology of his own, and what should have been left to the Jury was whether or not the father had been lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of the girl, instead of the form adopted by the Judge. Emperor v. Nakul Kabiraj.

11 Cr. L. J. 9 :
4 I. C. 543 : 13 C. W. N. 754.

———S. 361, Explanation—Interpretation of—"Lawfully entrusted" and "lawful guardian," meanings of—Entrustment, if can be presumed from course of conduct.

The reasonable and proper construction of the Explanation to S. 361, I. P. C., should be to regard the expression "lawfully entrusted" as signifying that the care and custody of a minor should have arisen in some lawful manner so as to show as if the person having the custody of the minor had been entrusted with the care and custody of the minor. The entrustment may be by a legal guardian, it may be written, oral, express or implied. In the absence of a legal guardian the entrustment may be presumed from the course of conduct of the person actually taking upon himself the duties of the care or custody of a minor. Guardianship connotes maintenance, protection and control of a minor. The word used in the explanation is "lawful" and that must be distinguished from the term "legal". A guardian may be lawful without being a legal guardian. The expression "lawful guardian" must be liberally construed. Nathu Singh v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 356 :
186 I. C. 660 : 1940 N. L. J. 203 :
12 R. N. 256 : A. I. R. 1941 Nag. 66.

———Ss. 361, Expl. 366—Kidnapping and marrying minor without her consent—Guardianship, lawful, kidnapping from—Kidnapping minor while under temporary custody of servant or friend—Consent of custodian, whether material—"Include," meaning of.

The fact, that a mother allows her minor girl to be in the custody of a servant or friend for a limited purpose and for a limited time, does not determine the mother's rights as guardian or her legal possession for the purposes of the criminal law, and if an accused kidnaps her from the possession of such servant or friend and marries her without the consent of her mother, he is guilty of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. The consent of the servant or friend is immaterial. The word "include" in the Explanation to S. 361, Penal Code, is not intended to limit the protection which the section gives to parents and minors but rather to extend that protection by including in the term "lawful guardian" any person lawfully entrusted with the care and custody of the minor. Baz v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

23 Cr. L. J. 588 :
68 I. C. 620 : 3 Lah. 213 :
A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 380.

———Ss. 361, Expl. 366—Kidnapping—Passing out of keeping of natural guardian—Offence, whether committed—Confinement, what constitutes.

Where a little girl, who has no intention of starting life independently, leaves her house for the purpose of seeking refuge with another relation, she cannot be considered to have passed out of the keeping of her natural guardians within the meaning of the explanation to S. 361, Penal Code, until she has, by some overt act, passed into the keeping of some one else. Therefore, a person who induces her to accompany him shortly after she leaves her house, is guilty of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. Where a child of 12 is removed a very great distance from her home and has been deprived of all independent judgment or will power by threats and inducements, she is confined because she is not conscious of the desire to escape. Mulo v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 117 :
27 I. C. 181 : 8 S. L. R. 182 :
A. I. R. 1914 Sind 112.

———Ss. 361, 34—Age of girl, determination of—Ossification, whether indispensable test.

Although it may be recognized that ossification is an important test for determining the age, yet having regard to the practical difficulties which would attend the application of this test, it cannot be said that ossification is an indispensable test for determining the age of a girl. Samarendra Kumar Chakravarti v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 673 :
169 I. C. 48 : 15 Pat. 817 :
9 R. P. 526 : 3 B. R. 514 :
18 P. L. T. 535 : A. I. R. 1937 Pat. 263.

———Ss. 361, 362, 363—Essentials of offence under—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship not a continuing offence.

In order to make out an offence under S. 363, Penal Code, as defined in S. 361, where the minor is a girl, the prosecution has to establish the following facts : (1) a taking or enticing away of the girl; (2) that the girl's age was less than 16; (3) that she was in the keeping of a lawful guardian; and (4) that the lawful guardian did not consent to her removal. An offence under this section is not a continuing offence. It is complete as soon as the minor is enticed or taken out of the keeping of his or her lawful guardian. Habibullah v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 93 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 I. C. 653 : 15 O. C. 351.

———Ss. 361, 362, 366—Scope of—Minor girl leaving her husband's house of her free will—Abduction or kidnapping.

A girl under sixteen years of age left the guardianship of her husband and her father-in-law out of her own free will. On the way she met the accused and stayed with him for a few days quite voluntarily, without any force or fraud having been practised upon her: Held, that the accused was neither guilty of abduction nor of kidnapping. Emperor v. Ramchander.

15 Cr. L. J. 265 :
23 I. C. 473 : 12 A. L. J. 336 :
A. I. R. 1914 All. 376.

———Ss. 361, 363—Consent of guardian—Kidnapping—Motive—Punishment.

To constitute an offence under S. 363, it is sufficient to show that the minor was taken away without the consent of her lawful guardian. The consent of the guardian given subsequent to the commission of the offence would not cure it. Motive has nothing to say to the offence of kidnapping, though it may, of course, have much to say to the punishment. Even if the accused thought that the lawful guardian, had he known of the taking away of the ward, would have no objection to his taking him, yet, if in fact there was no consent to the going, the offence would be committed. Where the temporary guardian is proved to have been in collusion with the other party, and the taking away accomplished in consequence of such collusion, there can be no consent of the lawful guardian. Ganesh v. Emperor.

10 Cr. L. J. 295 :
3 I. C. 480 : 6 A. L. J. 682.

———Ss. 361, 363—Conviction, if proper—Father deceitfully enticing his own child from custody of his mother—Conviction under S. 363, held not proper.

If a person who in good faith believes himself to be entitled to the lawful custody of a child, cannot commit an offence under S. 361, Penal Code, a fortiori a person who is in fact the father of the child, and therefore in law, entitled to the lawful custody of the child, cannot come within the scope of S. 361, Penal Code. In this case it can be said that he did not merely in good faith believe himself to be entitled to the lawful custody of his child, but that he was beyond the possibility of any challenge entitled to the lawful custody of the child, and that therefore his act in taking the child from the keeping of his mother by deceitful means, and who was deserted by him and in whose keeping the child was since its birth, could not amount to an offence of kidnapping from lawful guardianship. He does not commit any offence under S. 361 and therefore he cannot be convicted under S. 363, Penal Code. In re : Kan-negati Chowdhryya.

39 Cr. L. J. 993 :
178 I. C. 67 : 47 L. W. 568 :
1938, 1 M. L. J. 670 : 1938 M. W. N. 385 :
11 R. M. 400 : I. L. R. 1938 Mad. 805 :
A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 656.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 361, 363—Kidnapping, what amounts to.

In a divorce case instituted by the husband, the District Court made an ex parte decree that the marriage be dissolved, that the wife do deliver up to the husband the son born of the marriage and that the decree be forwarded under S. 17 of Act IV of 1860 to the High Court for confirmation. Subsequent to the decree, the husband obtained the custody of the boy without the assistance of the Court. Sometime thereafter but before the decree nisi was confirmed by the High Court the wife removed the child from the husband's house and she was charged under S. 363, Penal Code, with kidnapping the child from the lawful guardianship of the husband: Held, (1) that the decree meant that the order as to the custody of the boy was not to be of effect until confirmed by the High Court, that the order was not an ad interim order; (2) that the District Court could not have intended to make such an order absolute without notice to the wife; (3) that the decree not having been confirmed yet by the High Court, the parties were still husband and wife; (3) that, therefore, the wife committed no offence when she removed the boy from the husband's custody. Anne Elizabeth Borthwick v. Mr. Herbert Charles Borthwick. 15 Cr. L. J. 72: 22 I. C. 424: 18 C. W. N. 484: 41 Cal. 714: A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 609.

—Ss. 361, 363—Lawful guardian—Kidnapping—Lawful guardianship—Lawful guardianship of Hindu minor widow—Deceased husband's mother, whether lawful guardian—Hindu Law.

The husband's relations, if any exist within the degree of a sapinda, are the guardians of a minor widow in preference to her father and his relations. Where a minor Hindu widow takes up her residence with her deceased husband's mother with the consent, express or implied, of her husband's brother, the husband's mother is the lawful guardian of the girl for the purpose of S. 361, Penal Code. Emperor v. Tek Chand. 16 Cr. L. J. 780: 31 I. C. 380: 27 P. R. 1915 Cr.: A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 390.

—Ss. 361 and 363—Lawful guardian—Kidnapping of son's wife—Hindu Law.

B was convicted of kidnapping his own son's wife under Ss. 361 and 363, Penal Code, and sentenced to a fine of Rs. 50. On revision the Chief Court set aside the conviction, holding that under Hindu Law a major husband is the lawful guardian of his wife under 16 years of age, and that as no complaint in the present case was brought by the husband against B, the charge against him was not sustainable. Also pointed out that Guna and Chappi ceremonies in this case are no part of the marriage—they are concerned with communication. Behari Maharaj v. Emperor. 4 Cr. L. J. 361: 1 P. W. R. 14.

—Ss. 361 and 363—Offence, if committed Lawful guardian of a married Muhammadan girl before puberty—Mother's right preferential to husband's.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where a Muhammadan girl of eleven or twelve was taken from the guardianship of her mother-in-law—the lawfully authorised agent of the girl's husband—at the instance of and at the instigation of her mother: Held, that the offence of kidnapping was not committed. Under Muhammadan Law, the mother is entitled to the custody of her daughter in preference to the husband, until the girl attains the age of puberty. Korban v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 328: I. L. R. 32 Cal. 444.

—Ss. 361, 363—Offence under.

Where a female minor, by preconcerted arrangement with the accused, left the house of her parents of her own accord, intending not to return, and met the accused at a place appointed and eloped with him willingly: Held, that the accused was an active participator in the minor's leaving her parents' house, and therefore was rightly convicted of kidnapping from lawful guardianship. Nga Te Hla v. Emperor. 7 Cr. L. J. 210: U. B. R. Cr. 1907—09 Penal Code 11.

—Ss. 361, 366—Completion of offence—Kidnapping, whether continuing offence—Abetment.

The offence of kidnapping is complete the moment a minor is actually taken out of the keeping of the lawful guardian, and does not continue as long as the minor is kept out of such keeping. There can be no abetment of 'taking' by conduct, which commences only after the minor has been completely taken out of the keeping of the guardian and the guardian's keeping of the minor is completely at an end. Abdur Rahman v. Emperor. 17 Cr. L. J. 498: 36 I. C. 466: 14 A. L. J. 765: A. I. R. 1916 All. 210.

—Ss. 361, 366—'Unsound mind'—Unconscious person, whether can be said to be of unsound mind within meaning of S. 361.

It may be that S. 361, Penal Code, ought to include persons who have been made unconscious, but an unconscious person cannot be said to be of unsound mind within the meaning of S. 361. Where an accused is charged under S. 366, Penal Code, for having kidnapped a girl of twenty years of age, while she was unconscious as a result of poisoning, the girl cannot be regarded as being of unsound mind so as to bring the offence under S. 366. Din Mohammad v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 706: 182 I. C. 919: 41 P. L. R. 526: 12 R. L. 79: I. L. R. 1939 Lah. 517: A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 224.

—Ss. 361, 366, 107, 109—Continuing offence—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Kidnapping not continuing offence—Abetment.

One Mussammat Chunia went to the house of the mother of a minor married girl, 11 years of age, and made false representations to her, telling her that she was the family priestess of the husband of the girl, that the husband was seriously ill and that she had been sent to fetch the girl to her husband's house. She took the girl to a neighbouring village where one Tika, with whom she had a preconcert in the matter, was awaiting their arrival. The two immediately took the girl away from that village and from place to place making various attempts to dispose of her in marriage against her consent: Held, that the act of taking is completed as soon as the minor is actually taken out of the custody of his or her guardian. That Tika could not be convicted of abetment on the hypothesis that the offence of kidnapping was a continuing one. But as in this case there was evidence on the record that kidnapping was the result of the previous concert between him and Mussammal Chunia, his conviction for abetting kidnapping should stand. Emperor v. Tika. 1 Cr. L. J. 561 : I. L. R. 26 All. 197.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 362.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 437, 503.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 99.

———S. 362—Deceiving a woman, what is.

Where a man by a promise of marriage induces a woman to leave her house but does not marry her or get her married, he is guilty of deceiving her within the meaning of S. 362, Penal Code. Mahabub v. Emperor. 6 Cr. L. J. 9 : 4 A. L. J. 482 : 27 A. W. N. 199.

———Ss. 362, 366—Abduction—Abducting with intent to cause defilement.

A person who compels a girl to go with him with intent to have sexual intercourse with her, commits an offence punishable under Ss. 366 and 362, Penal Code. Emperor v. Kali Udayan. 12 Cr. L. J. 241 : 10 I. C. 290 : 9 M. L. T. 406.

———Ss. 362, 366—Scope of—Abduction when becomes offence—Abetment, when can take place.

B, aged 25, left her husband's house of her own free will and to all intents and purposes, took up the life of a prostitute. Later on, she lived with the accused to whom she had been handed over by N on payment of Rs. 300. The accused was proceeded against under Ss. 366-109, Penal Code: Held, that inasmuch as B had left her husband's house of her own free will and no force or inducement had been used to seduce her, no offence of any kind had been proved against the accused. Ghulam Yusuf v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 921 : 75 I. C. 297.

———Ss. 362, 356, 511—Attempt to abduct—Abduction, what amounts to—Woman lifted up from bed and dropped on to roof.

Accused came on to the roof of a house and awakening a woman who was sleeping, asked her to accompany them. She refused and they lifted her up in order to carry her away, whereupon she raised an alarm, and the accused dropped her on the roof and made good their escape: Held, that having regard to the definition of abduction contained in S. 362, Penal Code, the accused were not guilty of the offence of abduction, inasmuch as the woman was not compelled to go from the place where she was, but was merely lifted up and was dropped down again, but that the action of the accused amounted to an attempt to abduct and that they were therefore, guilty of an offence under Ss. 366-511, Penal Code. Alla v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 943 :
86 I. C. 1007 : 26 P. L. R. 119 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 512.

———Ss. 362 and 395.

R. J., a young woman, was abducted and taken to D. K. from where she, after a few days made her escape, and was proceeding to a Police Station; on her way she met accused who represented himself to be a Police Constable and offered to take her to the Police Station, but instead of doing this he took her to his house where he confined her and negotiated with her relatives who agreed to pay him for her release: Held, that the action of the accused in falsely representing himself to be a Police constable and the inducement held out by him that he would take the woman to the Police Station amounted to abduction as defined in S. 362, Penal Code: Held, further, that in wrongfully confining the woman while he negotiated with her relatives for the payment of a sum of money which was practically her ransom, his act fell under S. 395, Penal Code. Bahadar Ali v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 622 :
73 I. C. 510 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 158.

———S. 363.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1891, S. 227, 403.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 114, 361, 363, 366.

———S. 363—Benefit of doubt—Kidnapping—Enticing Muhammadan girl from guardianship of mother after mother's re-marriage with outsider—Offence—Loss of guardianship on re-marriage.

Where the accused was charged under S. 363, Penal Code, for having kidnapped a Muhammadan girl from the guardianship of her mother and it was found that the mother had married an outsider: Held, that the accused must be given the benefit of the doubt as the mother had lost her right to be the guardian of the minor. Harbhorsha Mahommed v. Jhapuran Bibi.

32 Cr. L. J. 90 :
128 I. C. 181 : 51 C. L. J. 476 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 37 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 665 (2).

———S. 363—Completion of offence.

Kidnapping is not a continuing offence and the act of kidnapping is complete as soon as the minor is taken out of the keeping of the lawful guardianship. But where the finding is that the accused took part in the actual removal of the girl immediately after she was taken out of the house of her guardian, it cannot be said that he was a mere accessory after the crime. Nanhak Sao v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 793 :
95 I. C. 392 : 1926 Pat. 176 :
5 Pat. 536 : 7 P. L. T. 812 ;
A. I. R. 1926 Pat. 493.

———S. 363—Completion of offence—Kidnapping, when completed—Question of fact, to be determined by circumstances of each case—'Keeping'—Interpretation.

The accused took a minor girl from her husband in a Native State and detained her for a month in a friend's house in the same city, and from there she was taken by train to another city; Held, (1) that the kidnapping was completed when the girl was put into the train. The question as to when an act of kidnapping is complete is a question of fact to be determined according to the circumstances of each case. The relation between the minor and the guardian implied by the word 'keeping' is not dissolved so long as the minor can, at will, take advantage of the guardian's protection and place herself within the sphere of its operation. Emperor v. Koochri.

14 Cr. L. J. 439 :
20 I. C. 599 : 7 S. L. R. 17.

———S. 363 — Consent — Kidnapping—Absence of consent of guardian, essential element.

Absence of the consent of the guardian is an essential element of the offence of kidnapping. The Magistrate found that the grandmother of the children agreed, or rather was made to agree, to their being taken away for four days: Held, that the conviction of the appellants for kidnapping was inconsistent with this finding. As the evidence seemed to point to the accused having committed the offence of removing and exporting the children as slaves under S. 370, Penal Code, the convictions and sentence passed on all the appellants were set aside and they were committed to the Court of Session on charges of offences under that section, or of abetment of such offences. Kauk Saing v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 66 :
14 Bom. L. R. 335.

———S. 363 — Consent of minor—Sentence.

The consent of the minor is no defence to a charge under S. 363, Penal Code. But where the accused, a young man and the girl were neighbours and for this reason became fond of each other and when her marriage was about to take place, the accused decided to take her away and she agreed, the accused should be leniently dealt with. Wali Mohammad v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1018 :
96 I. C. 874 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 677.

———S. 363—Continuing offence—Kidnapping—Abetment—Mother can be guilty of kidnapping her own child.

That the mere fact that after the woman's departure from her father-in-law's house the petitioner had something to do with her and that he had knowledge of her whereabouts, did not render the petitioner an abettor of the offence under S. 363, Penal Code, because kidnapping is not a continuing offence and there could be no abetment of it after the minor (aged two years) had been taken completely out of the keeping of the guardian. Ganesh Das v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

12 Cr. L. J. 94 :
9 I. C. 551 : 56 P. L. R. 1911.

———S. 363—Conviction under—Parent—Legal keeping of—Intention to make unlawful use of the minor.

The evidence for the prosecution proved that on a certain day the minor daughter of the complainant was dressed up in her best clothes and ornaments, that in the morning the mother of the child saw her go to the house of the accused, that in the afternoon the accused and the child were seen going together, that in the evening the child could not be found though a search was made for her and the accused questioned about her, and that a few days thereafter the body of the child was found from some bushes near the accused's dwelling in a decomposed state covered up in sack, with all her ornaments on her body except one small silver necklace: Held, that the accused had been rightly convicted of an offence under S. 363, I. P. C., but that there was no sufficient evidence to support the conviction of murder under S. 302, I. P. C. Imperator v. Vilaitalishah.

8 Cr. L. J. 361 :
1 S. L. R. 104.

———S. 363—Evidence—Kidnapping.

To establish kidnapping, there must be evidence that the minor was taken out of the keeping of the lawful guardian without her consent. Fatima v. Captain Mc Cormick.

14 Cr. L. J. 149 :
19 I. C. 149 : 6 Bur. L. T. 21.

———S. 363—Intention—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Minor running away of his own accord—Liability of persons giving refuge—Minor induced by grown-up person to leave guardian—Offence.

Intention is not a necessary ingredient of the offence under S. 363, Penal Code, but it is material with regard to the sentence. Where a minor runs away from lawful guardianship, the person with whom he takes refuge is not "taking him" within the meaning of S. 363 and the law does not oblige him to return the minor to lawful guardianship. But if a grown-up person induces a minor to accompany him to a place without the consent of the minor's guardian and the guardian is thereby deprived for a period of the lawful guardianship of the minor, it is immaterial that the grown-up person had no guilty intention. Jafar Shah v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 716 :
69 I. C. 444.

———S. 363—'Keeping,' meaning of.

In S. 363, Penal Code, the Legislature has advisedly preferred the phrase "keeping of the lawful guardian" to the word "possession," which frequently recurs in the Code in connection with inanimate objects. The word "keeping" connotes the facts that it is compatible with independence of action and movement in the object kept. It implies neither apprehension nor detention but rather maintenance, protection and control, manifested not by continual action but as available on necessity arising. And this relation between the minor and guardian is certainly not dissolved so long as the minor can at will take advantage of it and place herself within the sphere of its operation. Emperor v. Jelha Nathoo.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

1 Cr. L. J. 931 :
6 Bom. L. R. 785.

———S. 363—'Keeping,' meaning of.

The word "keeping" in S. 363, Penal Code, connotes the fact that it is compatible with independence of action and movement in the object kept. It implies neither apprehension nor detention, but rather maintenance, protection and control, manifested not by continual action but as available on necessity arising. Emperor v. Manshomal.

13 Cr. L. J. 736 :
16 I. C. 768 : 6 S. L. R. 71.

———S. 363—Kidnapping—"Keeping of lawful guardian," meaning of.

A married woman, under sixteen years of age, who leaves her husband's house of her own accord and is proceeding to the house of her maternal uncle, does not cease to be in the keeping of her lawful guardian. Therefore, a person who induces her to go with him is guilty of kidnapping her. Karan Singh v. Emperor.
17 Cr. L. J. 532 :
36 I. C. 580 : 14 A. L. J. 792 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 272.

———S. 363—Kidnapping.

The protection and control of the guardian is not put an end to by the fact that the minor has temporarily left the guardian's house. In this case a minor girl, who lived with her husband, left her house in consequence of a beating and was wandering about in the fish market, where she was met by the accused who took her away: Held, that the accused was guilty of kidnapping the girl from lawful guardianship. Emperor v. Manshomal.

13 Cr. L. J. 736 :
16 I. C. 768 : 6 S. L. R. 71.

———S. 363—Kidnapping, what constitutes—Kidnapping a minor girl—Lawful guardianship—Intention of the minor to return to her parent's house.

The offence of kidnapping from lawful guardianship is committed if the accused takes away a minor girl who leaves her parent's house for her infatuation for the accused and asks him to go with her, provided that the girl had no intention of not returning to her parents. Emperor v. Asgar Ali.

11 Cr. L. J. 81 :
4 I. C. 901 : U. B. R. 1907—09, III,
Penal Code, p. 27.

———S. 363—Kidnapping, what constitutes—Minor leaving guardian's protection—Intention—Offence.

In order to support a conviction for kidnapping from lawful guardianship, the following are the points which require proof:—(1)

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

That the person kidnapped was then a minor under sixteen years of age, if a female; (2) That such person was in the keeping of a lawful guardian; (3) That the accused took or enticed such person out of such keeping; (4) That he did so without the consent of the lawful guardian. The mere fact that the minor leaves the protection of her guardian, does not put her out of the guardian's keeping, but if she abandons her guardian with no intention of returning, she cannot be held to continue in the guardian's keeping. The decision of the question in each case depends upon the facts of the case. R. W. Valliant v. Mrs. N. Eleazer.
26 Cr. L. J. 977 :
87 I. C. 513 : 30 C. W. N. 215 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 467.

———S. 363—Lawful guardian—Kidnapping—Complaint by de facto guardian.

A de facto guardian of a minor, whose guardianship is not against the wishes of the de jure guardian, is a lawful guardian within the meaning of S. 363, Penal Code. Therefore, a charge of kidnapping is sustainable on the complaint of the father of a minor, alleged to have been kidnapped, the father acting as the minor's de facto guardian and such guardianship not having been proved to be against the wishes of the husband of the minor. Vclagupudi Appayya v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 239 (a) :
10 I. C. 281.

———S. 363—Lawful guardian—Kidnapping—Muhammadan minor wife—Custody of husband—Removal of wife.

The husband of a Muhammadan girl who has not attained puberty, is not the lawful guardian of her person under the Muhammadan Law, and in the absence of proof that he was lawfully entrusted with the care and custody of the minor so as to make the explanation to S. 361, Penal Code, applicable, the forcible removal of such a girl from his custody is not an offence punishable under S. 363. Darajuddin Akanda v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 712 :
73 I. C. 936 : 37 C. L. J. 329 :
27 C. W. N. 531 : A. I. R. 1923 Cal. 672.

———S. 363—Lawful guardianship—Unmarried Muhammadan girl—Father not living—Mother, whether lawful guardian—Kidnapping, offence of, when completed, question of, whether can be raised in revision for first time.

According to Muhammadan Law, the occurrence of puberty determines minority and the mother's right to custody, but for the purpose of S. 363, Penal Code, regard must be had only to the definition of minority in S. 3, Act IX of 1875. Where the girl alleged to have been kidnapped was unmarried, and her father was not living, there could be no question of guardianship other than her mother's as lawful. The question at what stage the offence of kidnapping was completed is one of fact, and cannot be raised in the High Court for the first time. In re : Mutuu Ibrahim.

16 Cr. L. J. 169 :
27 I. C. 553 : 37 Mad. 567 :
A. I. R. 1915 Mad. 236.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 363—Liability.

Where, a young girl of 10 years of age was kidnapped from the lawful guardianship of her uncle by one G and taken to his gurial and subsequently to his threshing floor and was on the following day removed from the village by G and his two co-accused: Held, that the time that elapsed between her leaving her uncle's house in company with G and her removal from the village by three accused was so short and the liberty of movement which she enjoyed between these two points of time was so complete that until she left the village, she must be considered to have remained in the custody of her guardian, and therefore, the taking of the girl was not complete until after she had been removed from the village by all the three accused and that consequently they were all liable. Gurdit Singh v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 236 :
34 I. C. 552 : 55 P. L. R. 1916 Cr. :
25 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 230.

—S. 363—Minor voluntarily leaving home—Kidnapping.

If a minor girl leaves her husband's home without any persuasion, inducement or blandishment held out to her, so that she gets fairly away from home and then goes to a man, the latter cannot be deemed to have infringed the law even if he does not restore her to her lawful guardian. Lachhi Ram v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 564 :
73 I. C. 260 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 330.

—S. 363—Offence, if committed—Father, when not liable for kidnapping his own child—Kumhar, whether bound by strict Hindu Law.

M, a Kumhar, betrothed his minor daughter to a minor son of B. Later on B objected to the marriage when arranged and in consequence M married the girl to C, a minor. The girl returned almost immediately to the house of her father and was made over to B. On this B was convicted under S. 363, Penal Code, and M under S. 363-109, Penal Code: Held, that strict Hindu Law on the subject could not be applied to the parties and that neither B nor M had committed any offence. In such a case, even if it be supposed that a technical offence has been committed, only a nominal sentence is appropriate. Ballia v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 639 :
25 I. C. 839 : 161 P. L. R. 1914 :
24 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 32.

—S. 363—Offence under—Kidnapping from British India—Consent of person kidnapped obtained by false representation.

Where the accused induced certain women to leave British India for Ceylon on the misrepresentation that they were to be married to his sons, and after arriving at Ceylon, made them work as coolies on Tea Estate: Held, that the women must be held to have been taken without their consent and that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 363, Penal Code. In re : Periasawmi Kangani.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

11 Cr. L. J. 368 :
6 I. C. 503 : 8 M. L. T. 91 :
1910 M. W. N. 262.

—S. 363—Offence under, what constitutes—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Taking with connivance of guardian.

The accused previous to the alleged offence had seduced a girl on more than one occasion in her mother's house, and even in the mother's presence. The girl left her mother's house of her own accord, and did not go to the accused's house, but to the house of a mutual friend, where she had been before on two occasions. The accused went and had connection with the girl at the friend's house and she stayed there, and when her brother came to look for her, the girl hid and the accused denied her being there and eventually the girl returned to her mother's house: Held, (1) that there was no taking of the girl; (2) that the denial as to her being there made by the accused could not be construed into a prevention of the girl's returning. Abdul Rahman v. Emperor.

14 Cr. L. J. 109 :
18 I. C. 669 : U. B. R. 1912, 136.

—S. 363—Scope of—Girl going to institution with guardian's consent—Subsequent change of guardian's mind—Detention of girl, whether amounts to kidnapping.

Where a girl originally goes to an institution with the consent of her mother who is her guardian but the mother subsequently changes her mind, the detention of the girl by the institution does not constitute an offence of kidnapping. Om Radhe v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 698 :
182 I. C. 710 : 12 R. S. 28 :
1939 Kar. 760 : A. I. R. 1939 Sind 152.

—S. 363—Scope of—Kidnapping not continuing offence—Keeping kidnapped girl.

Kidnapping is not a continuing offence. A minor girl was kidnapped from lawful guardianship and was, thereafter, taken by the kidnapper to the house of the accused, who kept the girl: Held, that the accused was not guilty of an offence under S. 363, or under S. 363-109, Penal Code. Emperor v. Gokaran.

23 Cr. L. J. 58 :
64 I. C. 842 : 24 O. C. 329.

—S. 363—Scope of—Kidnapping girl over 16 years of age—Offence—First Information Report, delay in making, effect of.

Accused were charged under S. 363, Penal Code, with having kidnapped a minor girl from the guardianship of her parents. It appeared that although according to the prosecution the accused were seen taking the girl away at about midnight and the girl's father at once proceeded to the Thana where he reached before sunrise, no report was recorded till 12 noon. It appeared further that the girl was over 16 at the time when she disappeared: Held, (1) that as the girl was not a minor under 16 years of age, the accused were not guilty of an offence under S. 363, Penal Code; (2) that the extraordinary delay in making the First Information Report was very suspicious and the fact that the girl was over 16, strengthened the belief that she went off of her own accord and that consequently the accused could not be convicted under S. 303 or 306, Penal Code. Mirza v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 1011 : 48 I. C. 351 : A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 37.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 363—'Taking away out of lawful guardian's keeping,' what is—Accused put in charge of minor boy for teaching Quran.

When the accused who was put in charge of a boy below the age of 14, by his father, for the purpose of teaching the Holy Quran, took away the boy to another place during the absence of the father : Held, that the removal of the boy amounted to taking him out of the keeping of the lawful guardian within the meaning of S. 303, Penal Code. Muhammad Husain v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 796 : 86 I. C. 428 : 23 A. L. J. 10 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 295.

———Ss. 363, 355—Jurisdiction—Kidnapping committed in British territory and offence of shoe-beating committed in Nepal territory.

K was kidnapped in British India and shoe-beaten within the territory of Nepal. The Political Officer in Nepal granted a certificate under S. 188, Cr. P. C., to the effect that a charge under S. 363, Penal Code, ought to be inquired into against the accused in British India. The Magistrate who tried the case acquitted the accused under S. 303 but convicted him of shoe-beating under S. 355 : Held, the Magistrate had jurisdiction to convict the accused under S. 355, I. P. C. Krishnanath Tewari v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 359 : 10 I. C. 959 : 8 A. L. J. 525.

———Ss. 363, 364, 365—Separate sentences—Kidnapping in order to hold kidnapped person to ransom—Offence—Two persons kidnapped in course of same transaction—Separate offences.

S. 304, Penal Code, provides for the case of a kidnapper whose object is that the person kidnapped may be murdered or may be so disposed of as to be put in danger of being murdered. The section is not applicable where the object of the kidnapper is to hold the kidnapped person to ransom. In such a case, the kidnapper can be convicted properly either under S. 303 or S. 305, Penal Code. Where two persons are kidnapped in the course of the same transaction, there are two distinct offences of kidnapping and it is lawful to award separate sentences for each offence although it is not necessary that the sentences should run consecutively. Samundar v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 64 : 91 I. C. 240 : 1 Lah. Cas. 17.

———Ss. 363, 366—Duty of Magistrate—Kidnapping, charge of—Girl found to be over sixteen.

Where in a case under S. 303, Penal Code, the Magistrate finds that there is prima facie sufficient evidence to show that the girl was enticed away as alleged, he should not discharge the accused merely because the girl is not under age, but should examine and decide the question whether the accused can be charged with an offence under S. 306 or some other cognate offence against a female of over sixteen. Gokal v. Phuman Singh.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 420 : 85 I. C. 36 : 6 L. L. J. 318 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 718.

———Ss. 363, 366—Intention—Kidnapping, offence of—Material ingredient.

S. 306, Penal Code, is only an aggravated form of the offence created by S. 363 and where the girl kidnapped from lawful guardianship is under 16 years of age, the intention of the accused in kidnapping her is the material matter and not the consent or willingness of the kidnapped girl. Hussainbibi v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 456 : 93 I. C. 248 : 20 S. L. R. 74 : A. I. R. 1926 Sind 151.

———Ss. 363, 368—Kidnapping—Lawful custody, what is—Wife turned out by husband—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship, if can be committed.

Where a minor is living with a lawful guardian, but is taken or enticed away from a street or some other place of resort, the position is that the guardian retains the care and custody of the minor, even though the latter is not actually in the house. But, where the guardian abandons the care and custody of the minor and allows her to go anywhere she likes, she cannot be considered to be in his care or custody. Where, therefore, a person takes away a minor girl who has been turned out by her husband and allowed to be free to go anywhere, there is no case of kidnapping from lawful guardianship. Francis Hector v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 401 : 167 I. C. 676 : 9 R. A. 567 : 1936 A. W. R. 1065 : A. I. R. 1937 All. 182.

———S. 364.

See also Penal Code, 1800, S. 302.

———S. 364—Essentials.

For a conviction under S. 364, Penal Code, it is necessary to show that there was a pre-conceived plan for committing the murder. Goloke Bhari Takal v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 161 : 173 I. C. 65 : 66 C. L. J. 225 : 42 C. W. N. 129 : 10 R. C. 441 : I. L. R. 1938, 1 Cal. 290 : A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 51.

———S. 364—Evidence—Absence of.

An accused was convicted under S. 304, Penal Code. There was no evidence of the commission of this offence except the statement made by the accused to the Sub-Inspector of Police. Moreover, the whole of this statement was not admissible under S. 27, Evidence Act. The sole evidence relevant under S. 304 was that of the mother of abducted person who merely said that the accused accompanied her son just before his abduction : Held, that there was no legal evidence for conviction under S. 364. In re : Vecrana Kone. 40 Cr. L. J. 849 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

184 I. C. 99 : 1939 M. W. N. 519 :
1939, 2 M. L. J. 487 : 50 L. W. 518 :
12 R. M. 410 : A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 593.

———S. 364—Inference of guilt—Accused and deceased last seen together.

In a prosecution for an offence under S. 364, Penal Code, the only evidence against the accused was that he and the deceased left the village together and were last seen together and that the one returned without the other : Held, that the accused could not be safely convicted of an offence under S. 364, Penal Code, upon this evidence inasmuch as it was not inconsistent with any reasonable theory other than that the accused lured him away for the purpose of being murdered or being exposed to the danger of being murdered. Alla Rakha v. Empcror.

28 Cr. L. J. 758 :
103 I. C. 338 : 9 L. L. J. 396 :
29 P. L. R. 227 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 658.

———S. 364—Scope of.

S. 364, Penal Code, provides for the punishment of a specific offence and is not intended as an indirect method of punishing persons who are suspected but not proved to have committed a murder. Alim Jan Bibi v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 31 :
171 I. C. 944 : 10 R. C. 323 :
I. L. R. 1937 Cal. 484 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 578.

———Ss. 364, 302, 201—Motive of crime—Kidnapping, murder and causing disappearance of evidence—Supposed religious belief of Khojas—Uncorroborated confession retracted on ground of ill-treatment, and its inadmissibility—Confession and evidence at variance with each other—Uncorroborated approver or accomplice.

In a case of murder, the deceased boy was seen by his companion, also a boy, going into a Khojakhana at the call of a Khoja at about 11-30 a.m. In the evening the Police were informed of the missing boy and a crier sent through the town and search made, but the companion did not come forward to give the information. Next day the grandfather of the deceased hearing a rumour that the boy must have been murdered by the Khojas to cook rice in human blood and distribute it as dedicated food, communicated his suspicions to the Chief Constable, who sealed some houses of Khojas that evening and searched them next morning. In one Khoja's house were found a cloth smelling foul and damp and judged to be blood-stained and a bloodstained quilt, and in another's a scarf, vest and quilt considered to be blood-stained. Meanwhile the dead body was found in the river bed in a mutilated condition. The death was found to be due to suffocation, while the Panch inclined to the opinion that it was due to the injuries found on the body. The companion of the deceased was also present in the crowd collected at this place. He there told a boy that the deceased was taken into the Khojakhana, but none of them informed the Police there and then. The two Khojas were arrested, and one of them made a detailed confession 4 days later as to gagging and mutilating the deceased, implicating the other but retracted it alleging ill-treatment. A witness who was alleged to have been made to carry the dead body for disposal was summoned 8 days later and his coat was inspected by a Panch who observed dim stains, the dimness being due in their opinion to recent washing : Held, (1) that any public rumour or mere allegation as to a religious belief or the conviction of a particular sect, would never serve to establish motive in a judicial Court; that the present charge must be approached just as if not Khojas but any other caste were concerned as accused; and that the case must be considered and decided on the well-established principles of judicial evidence alone; (2) that as the ill-treatment had been alleged before the confession was retracted and as the Medical Officer, though he found no marks of injury on the accused confessing, did not examine him till 18 days later, and also stated that some accused complained of the same kind of torture, his confession could not be considered voluntary under the circumstances established; that the confession and the evidence regarding enticement being very considerably at variance on material points, the confession was not admissible; (3) that there being no proof that Khojas mutilate certain parts, it could not be considered that there were necessarily any signs of mutilation which would tend to show that they were the murderers; (4) that a conviction for a criminal offence could not be had on the deposition of the witness made to carry the dead body who was in reality an approver; (5) that blood-stains hardly visible and insignificant were useless without any chemical analysis. Emperor v. Nanji Jelha.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

8 Cr. L. J. 90.

———S. 365.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 342.

———S. 365—Ingredients.

To support a conviction under S. 365, it must be clearly proved that at the time of the abduction, it was the intention of the accused to secretly and wrongfully confine the girl. Bakar-ud-Din Mandal v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 43 (b) :
22 I. C. 187 : 18 C. L. J. 578 :
A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 589.

———S. 365—Intention—Intention of accused at time of abduction—How to be gathered—Husband, if can use force to compel his wife to leave her parents' home and join him.

The intention of persons, charged under S. 365, Penal Code, at the time of abduction can be deduced only from what they subsequently did. Under the Indian Law, a woman is not a slave and there is no justification for the suggestion that a husband is entitled to use force to compel his wife to leave her parents' house and join him. Ghungru v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 827 :

PENAL CODE-ACT (XLV OF 1860)

163 I. C. 301 : 1936 A. L. J. 340 :

1936 A. W. R. 441 : 9 R. A. 11 :

A. I. R. 1936 All. 360.

———S. 365—Sentence—Abducting woman with the object of putting pressure on her friends—Subsequent release.

Where the accused abducted a woman merely with the object of putting pressure on her friends to restore a young girl whom they had abducted and let her go as soon as the girl was restored, no harm having been done to her in the meantime : Held, that under the circumstances, heavy sentence of imprisonment was not necessary. Waris v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 472 :

36 I. C. 152 : 89 P. L. R. 1916 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 269.

———Ss. 365, 376—Separate sentences—Rape committed after abduction.

Where rape is committed after abducting a girl, the real offence is rape and abduction is only an aggravating circumstance. In a case of this kind, separate sentences under Ss. 365, 376, Penal Code, should not be given. Buta Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1440 :

89 I. C. 912 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 114.

———S. 366.

———Abduction.

———Applicability of.

———Burden of proof as to age.

———Carrying of a woman by force, if offence.

———Charge.

———Completion of offence of kidnapping.

———Consent of girl.

———Conviction under.

———Duty of prosecution.

———Enticing, meaning of.

———Essentials.

———Evidence.

———Evidence and age.

———Illicit intercourse.

———Inference.

———Ingredients of offence under.

———Intention.

———Kidnapping.

———Knowledge.

———Object of.

———Offence under.

———Presumption as to intention.

———Procedure.

———Retrial.

———Scope of.

———'Seduced to intercourse,' meaning of.

———Seduction.

———Sentence.

———Separate charges. .

———'Taking out of keeping of lawful guardian,' significance of.

———S. 366.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 177, 190 (1) (b) and (c), 211, 227, 297, 354, 403, 423, 436, 437.

(ii) Criminal trial.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

(iii) Evidence Act, 1872, Ss. 26, 27.

(iv) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 71, 79, 107, 109, 147, 361, 362, 366, 498.

———S. 366—Abduction by near relatives—Sentence.

Accused who were near paternal relations of a girl over sixteen years of age, and were admittedly entitled to her custody as against her mother with whom she was living, carried her away forcibly in order to marry her to one of themselves. The mother admitted their superior right to have the custody of the girl but complained that she should have been paid compensation before she was deprived of her daughter's custody : Held, (1) that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code ; (2) that having regard to the relationship of the accused with the abducted girl and the view which her mother took of the incident, the offence was only a technical one and a nominal sentence would meet the ends of justice. Sher v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 430 :

77 I. C. 606 : 5 L. L. J. 377 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 110.

———S. 366 — Abduction, essentials of, Mere taking of girl to Immigration Recruiter's house, whether offence.

The offence of abduction is a continuing offence, and a girl is being abducted not only when she is first taken away from any place but also when she is subsequently removed from one place to another. Chap. XIV of the Penal Code makes abduction an offence only when it is committed with certain intents. The mere taking of a girl to the house of an immigration recruiter is no offence within the meaning of S. 366, Penal Code. Ganga Dei v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 154 :
22 I. C. 730 : 12 A. L. J. 91 ;
A. I. R. 1914 All. 17.

———S. 366 — Abduction — Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Offence, essentials of.

A girl, under 26 years of age, was sent by her father to take food to the bullocks, when on her way she was persuaded by the accused to accompany him. The latter cut off her hair and dressed her up in boy's clothes and lived with her for some time : Held, that the accused was guilty of abduction under S. 366, Penal Code, with the intent that the girl might be compelled to marry against her will or forced or seduced to illicit intercourse. Har Kesh v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 645 :

45 I. C. 837 : 16 A. L. J. 445 :
40 All. 507 : A. I. R. 1918 All. 134.

———S. 366—Abduction of girl with intent to marry—First offence—Application of S. 562, Cr. P. C.

A young man of 18 years wanted to marry a widowed girl of 16. He told her that her aunt was unwell and that he would escort her to her aunt's house but took her to his sister's house where she was detained for some days. She was not in any way ill-treated. The father of the girl discovered her and brought a charge against the young man for abduction: Held, that the case was a proper one for applying S. 562, Cr. P. C., and releasing the accused on probation of good conduct. Makhram v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 25 :
120 I. C. 257 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 930.

—S. 366—Abduction, what constitutes—Abduction, whether continuing offence—Fresh removal, whether abduction.

Abduction is a continuing offence and is not completed when the person abducted is removed from his or her home. Every fresh removal of such person constitutes the offence of abduction. Sundar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 695 :
86 I. C. 71 : 12 O. L. J. 27 :
2 O. W. N. 17 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 328.

—S. 366—Abduction, what constitutes.

In order to sustain a charge under S. 366, Penal Code, it is not necessary for the prosecution to establish that after the woman had been by force compelled to leave her house, she was by force compelled to go to various places. Keramat Mandal v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 263 :
92 I. C. 439 : 42 C. L. J. 524 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 320.

—S. 366—Applicability of.

S. 366 cannot be applied to a case where the accused is carrying on an intrigue with a girl under 16 while she is in the custody of her lawful guardian, and goes away with her because obstacles are thrown in the way of that intrigue. Emperor v. Baij Nath.

33 Cr. L. J. 669 :
138 I. C. 609 : 1932 A. L. J. 483 :
54 All. 756 : I. R. 1932 All. 488 :
A. I. R. 1932 All. 409.

—S. 366—Applicability of.

S. 366, Penal Code, is not applicable where a girl at the time of the kidnapping from lawful guardianship intends to cohabit of her own free will with the kidnapper. Emperor v. Nga Nge.

2 Cr. L. J. 476 :
U. B. R. 1905 : I. P. C. 17 :
11 Bur. L. R. 326.

—S. 366—Burden of proof as to age—Age of girl.

In a prosecution for abduction, the onus of proving the girl's age is on the prosecution and no conviction can be sustained if the evidence is inconclusive. Emperor v. Jagannath Gir.

38 Cr. L. J. 621 :
168 I. C. 833 : 1937 A. L. J. 547 :
1937 A. W. R. 203 : 9 R. A. 676 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 353.

—S. 366—Carrying off woman by force, if offence.

Carrying off a woman by force is not an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, when there is no evidence of intention to marry her against her will or to force her to illicit intercourse. Naba v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 393 :
11 I. C. 577 : 12 P. W. R. 1911 Cr. :
193 P. L. R. 1911.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 366—Charge.

If there is no mention of abduction, before the accused is convicted of the offence of kidnapping, it is necessary to prove that the person kidnapped, if a female, is under 16 years of age. Sultan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 62 (2) :
151 I. C. 984 : 28 S. L. R. 285 :
7 R. S. 74 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 119.

—S. 366—Completion of offence of kidnapping—Absence of definite knowledge on the part of accused as to who was guardian, effect of.

It is not necessary for a conviction under S. 366, Penal Code, that the accused should know definitely who the guardian of the minor girl was, whom he found wandering about and made use of for his own purpose. The offence of kidnapping is complete the moment a girl under 16 years of age is taken out of the custody of her lawful guardian and is not an offence continuing so long as the minor is kept out of such guardianship. Burnha v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1023 :
126 I. C. 510 : 7 O. W. N. 499 :
A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 289.

—S. 366—Consent of girl.

The consent of the girl makes no difference to the offence under S. 366, but when she is not altogether a child though legally a minor, it has a bearing on the question of sentence. Khem Das v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 851 :
95 I. C. 931 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 547.

—S. 366—Conviction under, illegality of—Abduction—Girl accompanying accused without compulsion—Offence.

A married girl, 16 years of age, accompanied the accused from place to place under circumstances which did not show that she was acting under compulsion: Held, that the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, inasmuch as the conduct of the girl showed that there was no abduction. Kartar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1500 :
90 I. C. 156 : 7 L. L. J. 217 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 406.

—S. 366—Conviction under, illegality of—Intention to commit illicit intercourse—Burden of proof—Intention, whether can be presumed.

The accused in broad daylight assaulted a woman and endeavoured to take her away from her husband who was accompanying her. The lower Courts raised a presumption that the intention of the accused was to cause the woman to commit illicit intercourse and convicted them under S. 366, Penal Code: Held, that intention has to be proved like any other fact though it may be deduced from the conduct of the parties; that the lower Courts were not justified in raising a presumption as to the intention of the accused; and that the conviction of the accused under S. 366, Penal Code, was, therefore, illegal. Hazara Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 89 :
99 I. C. 121 : 8 L. L. J. 512 :
27 P. L. R. 867.

—S. 366—Conviction under, impropriety of—Probability of girl eloping with accused.

Where it was not unlikely that the girl herself eloped with some of the accused, and on missing her, her parents got up the story to recover her and to bring her paramours into trouble : Held, that a conviction under S. 366 was improper. Hardilla v. Emperor.

6 L. L. J. 622 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 274.

—S. 366—Conviction under—Kidnapping—Concealment of kidnapped person—Kidnapper, whether can be convicted under S. 368 also.

A person who has been found guilty of the offence of kidnapping and convicted under S. 366, Penal Code, cannot be convicted under S. 368 also for concealing the person kidnapped ; S. 368 refers to persons other than the kidnapper. Bannumal v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1200 :
97 I. C. 960 : 3 O. W. N. 687 :
13 O. L. J. 739 : A. I. R. 1926 Oudh 560.

—S. 366—Conviction under, legality of—Kidnapping and abduction—Charge for kidnapping.

Notice of a charge of kidnapping for defilement is not a fair, proper or sufficient notice of a charge of abduction. Where an accused is charged with kidnapping only, the Judge cannot leave it to the Jury to convict the accused of the offence of abduction as distinct from kidnapping. Isu Sheikh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 201 :
99 I. C. 937 : 31 C. W. N. 171 :
45 C. L. J. 584 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 200.

—S. 366—Conviction under—Maintainability.

Abduction by itself is not an offence, and in the absence of some evidence that the accused abducted the woman with the intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be seduced or forced to illicit intercourse or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, a conviction under S. 366, Penal Code, cannot stand. Fakir v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 479 :
109 I. C. 127 : 29 P. L. R. 444 :
10 L. L. J. 325.

—S. 366—Duty of prosecution—Kidnapping—Prosecution must prove girl to be below 16.

In order to prove the charge of kidnapping, it is incumbent on the prosecution to prove that the person kidnapped was under 16 years of age. Emperor v. Qudrat.

41 Cr. L. J. 142 :
185 I. C. 271 : 1939 A. L. J. 980 :
I. L. R. 1939 All. 871 : 12 R. A. 310 :
1939 A. W. R. 693 : A. I. R. 1939 All. 708.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 366—'Enticing', meaning of.

The expression "enticing" in the section involves that, while the person kidnapped might have left the keeping of the lawful guardian willingly, still the state of mind that brought about that willingness must have been induced or brought about in some way by the accused. Abdul Sathar v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 635 :
109 I. C. 907 : 54 M. L. J. 456 : 27 L. W. 683 :
A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 585.

—S. 366—Essentials—Force and deceitful inducement.

In order to sustain a conviction under S. 366, Penal Code, it must be shown that the girl was either by force compelled or by deceitful means induced to leave her lawful guardian's house. Emperor v. Jagannath Gir.

38 Cr. L. J. 621 :
168 I. C. 833 : 1937 A. L. J. 547 :
1937 A. W. R. 203 : 9 R. A. 676 :
A. I. R. 1937 All. 353.

—S. 366—Essentials and offence under.

To constitute an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, it is necessary that the kidnapping should have been with intent that the girl kidnapped may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse. In the absence of any element of forcing or seducing for the purpose of illicit intercourse, no offence under S. 366, Penal Code, could be regarded as possible. Abdul Sathar v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 635 :
109 I. C. 907 : 54 M. L. J. 456 :
27 L. W. 683 : A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 585.

—S. 366—Essentials of.

The expression 'seduced to illicit intercourse' in S. 366, is not to be intended to be restricted to an inducement to a woman to surrender her chastity for the first time but it cannot be deemed to include a case where a man takes back a woman with whom he had been living until very recently for a period of several months during which he had been indulging in illicit intercourse with her. Jangli Mian v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 814 :
148 I. C. 791 : 15 P. L. T. 228 : 6 R. P. 507 :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 170.

—S. 366—Evidence—Abduction—Woman abducted, a material witness.

The most important witness in an abduction case is generally the abducted woman herself and where she is not forthcoming and the other witnesses are not of a very reliable type, the prosecution evidence must be carefully scrutinised and weighed. Ghulam v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 277 :
100 I. C. 357 : 27 P. L. R. 747.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 366—Evidence—Offence of abduction—Sentence—First Information Report, evidentiary value of.

A severe sentence should be passed in the case of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. A First Information Report cannot be used as primary evidence of any fact in dispute but may be treated as corroborative evidence of facts which have to be established in the case. Imrat v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 7 : 120 I. C. 199 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 916.

———S. 366—Evidence and proof.

The law presumes against vice and immorality, and on this ground, the presumption is strongly in favour of marriage; so under S. 366 it is the duty of the prosecution to prove the negative. Sultan v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 62 (2) : 151 I. C. 984 : 28 S. L. R. 285 : 7 R. S. 74 : A. I. R. 1934 Sind 119.

———S. 366—Illicit intercourse—Lawful marriage between accused and kidnapped girl not possible under law—Accused held to have contemplated illicit intercourse.

Where an accused charged under S. 366, Penal Code, suggested that his intention was to lawfully marry the girl, and it was admitted that the parties being of different castes, could not marry according to Hindu Law, and also that the girl being below 21 years of age, they could not marry under Special Marriage Act, without the consent of her lawful guardian, i. e. her father : Held, that the marriage not being practicable, the accused must have contemplated illicit intercourse. Nirmal Kumar Bhowmik v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 835 : 171 I. C. 29 : 42 C. W. N. 896 : 11 R. C. 209 : A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 551.

———S. 366—'Illicit intercourse,' what is.

The words "illicit intercourse" in S. 366, Penal Code, mean sexual intercourse between a man and a woman who are not husband and wife. It is not necessary that the woman should be a married woman. Mahbub v. Emperor.

6 Cr. L. J. 9 : 4 A. L. J. 482 : 27 A. W. N. 199.

———S. 366—Inference.

Where a married minor girl was desperately calling for the accused to come and take her away and she was soon after discovered to be with the accused or under his control : Held, it was legitimately open to a Court of Law to assume that the accused finally yielded to the solicitations and made it possible for her to get away. Abdul Sathar v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 635 : 109 I. C. 907 : 54 M. L. J. 456 : 27 L. W. 683 : A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 585.

———S. 366—Ingredients of offence under—Abduction.

To establish an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, it is not necessary to show that after the first act of abduction or kidnapping of the girl, there was another act of seduction of the girl to illicit intercourse where from the proximity of events, the Court is satisfied that the effect of the inducement which was the cause of abduction continued till the time of illicit intercourse. Tufail v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 413 : 101 I. C. 189 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 370.

———S. 366—Ingredients of offence under—Abducting woman to compel marriage.

In order to fall under S. 366, Penal Code, an abduction must be accompanied by the intention or knowledge specified in the section. Where a woman was abducted by a man whom she had not married but with whom she had lived willingly for a couple of months as his wife before the abduction and whom she probably intended to marry : Held, that an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, had not been established. Bhajan Das v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 421 : 72 I. C. 533 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 218.

———S. 366—Intention—Abduction—Intention may be inferred from circumstances.

Though in a case under S. 366, Penal Code, it is the duty of the prosecution to prove that the abduction took place with the intention mentioned in that section, the intention can also be inferred from the conduct of the accused and the circumstances of the case, and ordinarily it is not possible for the prosecution to establish the intention except by proving the conduct of the accused. Haidar Shah v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 529 : 123 I. C. 528 : 31 P. L. R. 388 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 52.

———S. 366—Intention.

Abduction is in itself no offence. It is only when the intention of either marrying the woman against her will or forcing her to subject herself to illicit intercourse is proved that abduction becomes an offence under S. 366. Gharib Shah v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 1273 : 151 I. C. 103 : 7 R. Pesh. 12 : A. I. R. 1934 Pesh. 69.

———S. 366—Intention, inference of—Abduction.

In a case under S. 366, Penal Code, intention is a matter of inference from the circumstances of the case and the subsequent conduct of the accused after the abduction has taken place. Banta Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 643 : 110 I. C. 99.

———S. 366—Intention—Kidnapping or abduction.

It is a fair and justifiable presumption that when any woman is kidnapped or abducted, it is with one or other of the intents specified in S. 366, Penal Code, particularly where there was an intimacy between the abducted and the abductor. The intent with which a woman is abducted or kidnapped is more or less a matter of inference. Though there may be cases where the matter is capable of direct proof, yet very generally one has to infer from the circumstances of the case and the subsequent conduct of the accused as to what was the intention with which the kidnapping or abduction had been brought about. Jawaya v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

31 Cr. L. J. 131 :
120 I. C. 606 : 11 L. L. J. 523 :
A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 295.

—S. 366—Intention of accused—Offence under—Consent of woman, effect of.

In a prosecution under S. 366, Penal Code, the fact that the girl concerned, at the time she was enticed away from her home by the accused, had the intention of having illicit intercourse with him, is no defence to the charge under that section. The intention of the accused (and not that of the girl) is the material matter in the case. Emperor v. Safdar Reza.

24 Cr. L. J. 379 :
72 I. C. 379 : 49 Cal. 905.
A. I. R. 1922 Cal. 508.

—S. 366—Kidnapping—Honest belief that girl was over sixteen years—Previous illicit intercourse—Consent of girl—Offence.

Honest belief on the part of the accused that the woman was over 16 years of age is no defence to a charge under S. 366, Penal Code. If the intention to kidnap a girl in order to seduce her to illicit intercourse is present, the fact that the accused had illicit intercourse with the girl before she was kidnapped is wholly immaterial. No question of consent arises with regard to the offence under S. 366, Penal Code. Prem Narain v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 218 :
113 I. C. 765 : 1929 A. L. J. 114 :
I. R. 1929 All. 189 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 82.

—S. 366—Kidnapping, what amounts to.

The offence of kidnapping consists in taking or enticing a minor out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor without the consent of the guardian. If a minor is removed with the consent of the guardian and subsequently married improperly without the consent of the guardian, such improper marriage would itself not amount to kidnapping. In re : N. Jaladu.

15 Cr. L. J. 24 :
22 I. C. 168 : 36 Mad. 453 :
A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 49.

—S. 366—Kidnapping and abduction—'Seduced', whether includes subsequent acts of seduction.

Even though a girl may have by the first act of seduction surrendered her chastity, subsequent seduction for further acts of illicit intercourse is also meant to be included in the term 'seduced' in S. 366, Penal Code. If a girl is sixteen or over, she could only be abducted and not kidnapped, but if she is under sixteen, she could be kidnapped as well as abducted if the taking is by force or the taking or enticing is by deceitful means. Profulla Kumar Bose v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 903 :
125 I. C. 656 : 50 C. L. J. 593 :
57 Cal. 1074 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 209.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 366—Knowledge—Abduction—Special intent or knowledge necessary—Whether it can be presumed in a girl of 13.

In order to establish an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, a special intent or knowledge is necessary and such an intent or knowledge cannot be presumed in a child of immature age. Where, therefore, the accused, brother and sister, were convicted of abducting a certain girl and it appeared that the sister was only 13 years of age : Held, that she could not be said to have the special intent or knowledge referred to in S. 366 and was not, therefore, liable to conviction. Mehran v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 283 :
34 I. C. 1003 : 28 P. W. R. 1916 Cr :
53 P. L. R. 1916 Cr. : 13 P. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 352.

—S. 366—Knowledge.

In a case under S. 366, if the object of the accused was to bring pressure to bear on the husband of the woman, it cannot be said that they knew it to be likely that she would be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse. Narain v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 826 :
155 I. C. 662 : 1935 A. W. R. 695 :
1935 A. L. J. 670 : 7 R. A. 969 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 665.

—S. 366—Object of—Abduction—Consent of girl, effect of.

S. 366, Penal Code, is an aggravated form of S. 363 of the Code and consent of the girl is no defence to a charge under the former section. The underlying policy of S. 366 is (1) to uphold the lawful authority of parents or guardians over their minor wards, (2) to throw a ring of protection round the girls themselves, and (3) to penalise sexual commerce on the part of persons who corrupt or attempt to corrupt the morals of the minor girls by taking improper advantage of their youth and inexperience. Sultan v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 85 :
120 I. C. 433 : A. I. R. 1930 All. 19.

—S. 366—Object of.

The aim of the provisions of S. 366-A, Penal Code, is to prevent immorality, and the provisions are framed more with the desire of safeguarding the public interest of morality than the chastity of one particular woman. Bhagwati Prasad v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 985 :
119 I. C. 14 : I. R. 1929 All. 974 :
A. I. R. 1929 All. 709.

—S. 366—Offence under—Abduction—Abducted woman passed from man to man—Liability of all concerned—Charge of rape not made during Police investigation, truth of.

A woman in order to avoid living with her deceased husband's brother F, whom she had been forced to marry, asked another brother of his, D to take her to her own brother. D took her away. Outside the village they were joined by M and proceeded to a taktya, when D left her with M for the night and returned home. The following day D rejoined them and they all proceeded to a village Tibri where the woman was entrusted to B, who took her to another village and placed her in the charge of one N. Ultimately she escaped and being pursued, she put herself under the protection of a Policeman. D, M and B were convicted under S. 366, Penal Code, M and B having been sentenced to heavier punishment as the woman stated in cross-examination that they had intercourse with her: Held, (1) that the under circumstances of the case, the conviction of all three accused under S. 366, was quite justified, (2) but that inasmuch as the woman did not make any statement about rape during Police investigation, it could not be believed and M and B were not liable to a heavier punishment than D. Bela Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

17 Cr. L. J. 284 :

34 I. C. 1004 : 54 P. L. R. 1916 Cr. :

A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 361.

———S. 366—Offence under—De facto guardian, whether can be guilty of abduction—Sale of Brahmin widow by her mother-in-law to Jat for marriage—Liability of mother-in-law.

A Brahmin child widow was living under de facto guardianship of her mother-in-law. Sant Ram, a jat, wanted to marry her and Durga arranged a bargain between the mother-in-law and Sant Ram for the sale of the girl to the latter for a certain sum of money. Durga and Sant Ram gave some pieces of paper to the mother-in-law telling her that they were currency notes. The mother-in-law told the girl that she must go to her sister's house and that she had asked two men to take her there. The girl accompanied the mother-in-law till she was handed over to Durga and Sant Ram. She was kept in Sant Ram's house confined against her will for a fortnight when the Police rescued her. The mother-in-law, Durga and Sant Ram were charged for abduction: Held, (1) that the act of the mother-in-law fell within S. 366, Penal Code, though she was the de facto guardian of the girl, and she was not protected by S. 79, Penal Code, as she had no authority under the Hindu Law or under the Hindu Widow's Remarriage Act to give the girl in marriage. Sant Ram v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 648 :

124 I. C. 310 : 30 P. L. R. 573 :

11 Lah. 178 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 713.

———S. 366—Offence under—Kidnapping for purposes of marriage—Minor incapable of giving consent—Consent of guardian not obtained.

A Muhammadan girl of 10 or 11 years of age was handed over by her mother to the accused and the mother consented to the marriage of the accused with her daughter. The marriage was performed but the girl did not consent to it, as she was not capable of giving her consent, nor had the consent of her brother been obtained who was her guardian for marriage under the Muhammadan Law: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. Ahmed Bepari v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 290 :

84 I. C. 434 : A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 578.

———S. 366—Offence under—Kidnapping girl from lawful guardianship—Child temporarily in custody of maternal uncle—Mother resuming custody—Taking with mother's consent, whether amounts to offence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where the accused was charged with kidnapping a girl from the lawful guardianship of her maternal uncle, and it appeared that the mother of the girl was present with the accused when he was leading the girl to a railway station, and consented to the girl's being so taken: Held, (1) that the maternal uncle had ceased to have the girl under his guardianship and the mother had again taken custody of the girl as her guardian; (2) that taking with her consent did not amount to an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. In re : Natesa Padayachi.

16 Cr. L. J. 237 :

27 I. C. 909 : A. I. R. 1915 Mad 1143.

———S. 366—Offence under—Kidnapping—Girl remaining at the house of a naikin.

Two girls below the age of 16 ran away from their houses. They remained for about two days in the house of the accused, who was a woman belonging to a well-known caste of naikins in Kumaun. The accused made no report of it to the Padhan or Patwari: Held, that she was guilty of an offence under S. 366. Jasauli v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 300 :

14 I. C. 764 : 9 A. L. J. 307 : 34 All. 340.

———S. 366—Offence under—Seduction, meaning of, whether refers to first connection only.

The word 'seduction' as used in S. 366, Penal Code, is not to be confined to the first connection with an unmarried girl. When a man has induced a girl while in the custody of her parents to surrender her chastity to him, and thereafter induces her to leave the protection of her parents and live with him in a condition of concubinage not sanctioned by law, he commits an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. Pcsumal v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1292 :

98 I. C. 188 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 97.

———S. 366—Offence under.

There can be seduction even in the case of a woman who had at one time surrendered her chastity provided that at the time of the abduction she had returned to a life of chastity. Local Government v. Baliram.

37 Cr. L. J. 270 :

160 I. C. 255 : 18 N. L. J. 49 :

8 R. N. 169.

———S. 366—Offence under, when complete—Evidence.

L enticed a girl to come out of a gaehhi to the road and then to a motor car which the accused had brought to kidnap her and in which the accused was sitting and the accused drove away with her: Held, that the offence of kidnapping was completed only by the petitioner driving her off in the car and the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code. Whether kidnapping is complete or not, it is a question of fact and must be decided upon the particular evidence of each particular case. Rekha Rai v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 820 :

104 I. C. 436 : 6 Pat. 471

A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 159.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 366—Presumption as to intention—Evidence of girl abducted—Value of—Girl of Marriageable age abducted by young man—Duty of prosecution—Burden of proof as to intention.

In cases of offences under S. 366, Penal Code, the evidence of the girl is to be taken with a great amount of caution. Even a forcible abduction does not amount to an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, unless there are other ingredients, namely the intention either that the girl should be seduced or forced to illicit intercourse or that she should be compelled to marry against her will. In a case under S. 366, there can seldom be direct evidence as to the actual intention of the abductor, and that intention must be inferred from the circumstances. Human nature being what it is, whenever one finds a young man abducting a girl of marriageable age, the first and natural presumption must be that he has abducted her with the intention of having sexual intercourse with her, either forcibly or with her consent after seduction or after marrying her. If he has any intention other than that which is suggested by the natural circumstances of the case, the burden lies upon him under S. 106, Evidence Act, to prove that intention. Mohammad Sadiq v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 844 :

177 I. C. 97 : 40 P. L. R. 730 :

11 R. L. 265 (2) : A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 474.

—S. 366—Procedure—Age of girl—Question to Jury.

In cases under S. 366, Penal Code, it is the duty of Judges with Jury to adopt in part the system which is prevalent in England, and that is to put a specific question to the Jury as to the conclusion they have come to in relation to the age of the girl whose maltreatment has been the subject of the charge. It is very doubtful that the Jury, unless it is specifically put to them ever really understand what their duty is under S. 366. Samarali v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 176 :

166 I. C. 323 : 9 R. C. 494 :

A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 675.

—S. 366—Procedure.

Though the offence of kidnapping and abduction are referred to in the same section of the Penal Code, they are distinct offences and separate charges should be drawn up if it is intended to charge the accused with both the offences. Mozam Dafadar v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 682 :

144 I. C. 93 : I. R. 1933 Cal. 499 :

A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 563.

—S. 366—Retrial—Charge for kidnapping—Conviction for abduction—Legality of conviction—Prejudice to accused.

Notice of a charge of kidnapping under S. 366, Penal Code, is not a fair, proper or sufficient notice of a charge of abduction. Where the charge against the accused was one of kidnapping under S. 366, Penal Code, but the Judge told the Jury that it was open to them to convict the accused of abduction under the same section and the Jury convicted the accused of abduction : Held, that it was impossible to say under the circumstances that the accused had not been prejudiced, and the accused were, therefore, entitled to ask for a retrial. Fedu Sheikh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 857 :

117 I. C. 862 : 32 C. W. N. 1245 :

I. R. 1929 Cal. 622.

—S. 366—Scope of—Abduction of married woman—"Marry," meaning of.

S. 366, Penal Code, applies to the case of the abduction of a married woman. The word "marry" in this section has the same meaning as it has in S. 494 of the Code, i. e., the going through a form of marriage, whether the marriage should prove in fact legal and valid or illegal and invalid. Taher Khan v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 640 :

45 I. C. 688 : 27 C. L. J. 436 :

22 C. W. N. 695 : 45 Cal. 641 :

A. I. R. 1918 Cal. 136.

—S. 366—Scope of—Kidnapping—Guardian, knowledge of, whether necessary.

It is not necessary for a conviction under S. 366, Penal Code, that the accused should know definitely who the guardian of a minor girl is whom he finds wandering about and makes use of for his own ends. Idu v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 913 :

81 I. C. 529 : 27 O. C. 32 :

A. I. R. 1924 Oudh 335.

—S. 366—Scope of.

Where a father sent his daughter to live in a house with certain of his relations and one of those relations married in that house the daughter without the consent of the father : Held, that no offence under S. 366, Penal Code, was committed by the relative, because there was not taking out of lawful guardianship, inasmuch as the daughter never left the house where she was residing with the consent of her father. Jagan Nath v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 630 :

25 I. C. 638 : 1 O. L. J. 330 :

A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 126.

—S. 366—'Seduced to intercourse,' meaning of.

The phrase 'seduced to illicit intercourse' implies two distinct stages in the act of the accused, the seduction and the illicit intercourse. They must be two distinct acts, though they may follow in immediate sequence. Emperor v. Baij Nath.

33 Cr. L. J. 669 :

138 I. C. 609 : 1932 A. L. J. 483 :

54 All. 756 : I. R. 1932 All. 488 :

A. I. R. 1932 All. 409.

—S. 366—Seduction—Each illicit intercourse, whether seduction.

On each occasion that a woman is persuaded to indulge in illicit intercourse, she is being seduced within the meaning of the term "seduction" in S. 366, Penal Code, and it is not a correct proposition that once a girl has lost her chastity, she cannot be seduced. Emperor v. Saran.

28 Cr. L. J. 66 :

99 I. C. 98 : A. I. R. 1927 Sind 104.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 366—'Seduction,' meaning of.

For the purposes of S. 366, Penal Code, seduction does not mean surrender or loss of chastity for the first time, and an accused may be convicted under the said section even if the woman had illicit intercourse with him before she was kidnapped. Suppiah v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 357 :

129 I. C. 463 (1) : I. R. 1931 Mad. 271 :
A. I. R. 1930 Mad. 980.

———S. 366—Seduction—Nature of offence—Charge to Jury, essentials of.

Seduction is a comprehensive expression and does not exclude the possibility of deceitful means being used in order that seduction may be practised with effect. Where the prosecution case was such as to indicate that the case was one of the girl being compelled by force to leave her father's house, and the Judge put the entire case before the Jury explaining the section comprehensively and fully presenting the facts before them : Held, that the charge could not be objected to merely because the Judge did not suggest to the Jury that if they found that the girl had not been compelled by force to leave her father's house, then they should never proceed to consider whether deceitful means had been practised upon her by the accused, and whether by such means, she had been induced to leave her parent's house. Mohammad Jalaluddin v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1092 :

126 I. C. 762 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 433.

———S. 366—Sentence—Abduction—Parties related—Act committed to bring about marriage—No excessive violence.

In a prosecution for abduction it was found that the abducted and the accused were relations, that the accused was not actuated by any evil desire to disgrace the girl but only to bring about a marriage, and that the act of abduction was not attended by any unnecessary or excessive violence : Held, that under the circumstances, a heavy sentence was not called for. Nga San Min v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 424 :

101 I. C. 456 : 6 Bur. L. J. 25 ;
A. I. R. 1927 Rang. 336.

———S. 366—Separate charges—Kidnaping and abduction.

Although kidnapping and abduction are referred to in the same section of the Penal Code, they are distinct offences and separate charges should be drawn up against an accused if it is desired to charge him with both the offences. Mafizaddi v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 805 :

104 I. C. 245 : 45 C. L. J. 561 :
31 C. W. N. 940 : A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 644.

———S. 366—Taking out of keeping of lawful guardian, significance of.

The expression "taking out of the keeping of the lawful guardian" must signify some act done by the accused which may be regarded as the proximate cause of the person going out of the keeping of the guardian or, in other words, an act but for which the person would not have gone out of the keeping of the guardian as he or she did. Abdul Sathar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 635 :

109 I. C. 907 : 54 M. L. J. 456 :

27 L. W. 683 : A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 585.

———S. 366-A—Absence of force or fraud—No offence.

Under S. 366-A the person who induces a girl of an age between the years 16 and 18 without force or fraud to go from any place with the intention that she will have illicit intercourse with himself does not commit any offence. Abbas Behara v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 341 :

142 I. C. 308 : 37 C. W. N. 317 :

I. R. 1933 Cal. 261 : A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 362.

———S. 366-A—Burden of proof as to age—Traffic in women—Father inducing daughter to leave her husband's house to live with another, whether guilty—'Inducement,' meaning of—Benefit of doubt.

Where A and B went to the house of C who had married A's daughter and took A's daughter from C's house and left her at B's house in the position of B's wife : Held, that A was guilty of an offence under S. 366-A, Penal Code ; (2) that A's telling his daughter to come away from C's house amounted to an 'inducement' ; (3) that B was not, however, guilty under the said section. In a prosecution under S. 366-A, Penal Code, the burden is on the prosecution to prove that the woman was over 18 years of age and the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused. Ram Saran v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 861 :

125 I. C. 577 : 1930 A. L. J. 1113 :

A. I. R. 1930 All. 497.

———S. 366-A—Continuing offence.

The offence under S. 366-A, Penal Code, is a continuing offence. The differences between S. 366 and S. 366-A merely concern the manner of the inducement and the age of the girl and are irrelevant for the question of continuing offence. Chiragh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 474 :

167 I. C. 847 : 9 R. L. 561 :

39 P. L. R. 365 : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 850.

———S. 366-A—Conviction under—Girl already seduced but left alone—Accused taking her with a view to profit by her sex by conveying her to other persons—Accused, whether guilty.

Where a girl who is already seduced by some, but left alone, is taken away by the accused, with a view to profit from her sex and her youth by conveying her to some man other than her original seducer, he cannot claim immunity from a conviction under S. 366 in respect to this young and helpless girl on the ground that other men had previously taken advantage of her. Emperor v. Jagannath Gir.

38 Cr. L. J. 621 :

168 I. C. 833 : 1937 A. L. J. 547 :

1937 A. W. R. 203 : 9 R. A. 676 :

A. I. R. 1937 All. 353.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 366-A—Conviction under—Kidnaping—Consent of girl kidnapped, effect of—Consent induced by accused—Girl following accused even after knowledge of his bad intention.

The fact that the minor is a consenting party would not prevent the commission of an offence under S. 366-A, Penal Code. Where in a prosecution for an offence under S. 366-A, Penal Code, it appeared that the accused first put forward the story that the girl was to be taken to her sister, but even after the girl discovered that she was not being so taken, she fell in with the plan of the accused: Held, that the offence of inducement had been committed and the girl's subsequent willingness neither prevented the offence nor reduced its gravity and the accused was, therefore, guilty under S. 366-A, Penal Code. Bhagwati Prasad v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 985 : 119 I. C. 14 : I. R. 1929 All. 974 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 709.

———S. 366-A—Duty of Judge—Evidence of age—Value of—No evidence that age of girl was under sixteen—Charge depends on proof of force or deceit.

In a case of offence under S. 366-A, Penal Code, the question of age is the crucial one and strict and exact evidence of age is essential. Where, however, there is no exact evidence of age, the Judge should strongly emphasise this feature of the case and clearly direct the Jury that if they are not completely satisfied that it had been established that the girl was under eighteen, they are bound to acquit upon that charge. Where, as in cases of this nature, the law is somewhat complicated and liable to be misunderstood by Jury, it is essential for the Judge to say exactly how he has explained it to the Jury, so that the Appellate Court may be in a position to judge whether he has done so correctly and fully. Where there is no evidence that the girl is under sixteen, the charge under S. 366 depends entirely on the proof of force or deceit. The Judge should explain this to the Jury and ask them to consider carefully whether any deceit had really been shown to have been practised upon the girl. Lachminder Rai v. Emperor. 41 Cr. L. J. 1 : 184 I. C. 354 : 18 Pat. 698 : 6 M. R. 41 : 20 P. L. T. 898 : 12 R. P. 238 : A. I. R. 1939 Pat. 536.

———S. 366-A—Essentials of—Mere fact that accused tried to sell girl for immoral purposes, whether sufficient to establish offence under S. 366-A.

The mere circumstance that the accused accompanied a person who was alleged to have raped the girl or that he was trying to sell the girl, possibly for immoral purposes, may be suspicious but is not sufficient to establish the essential ingredients of the offence under S. 366-A, Penal Code. Hardial v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 967 : 177 I. C. 938 : 40 P. L. R. 903 : 11 R. L. 380 : A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 684.

———S. 366-A—Offence under—Ingredients

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

of the offence—Sheltering girl and taking from place to place—Intention or knowledge of illicit intercourse absent.

Merely giving shelter to a girl or carrying her from place to place without knowing that she was married and without any intention or knowledge that she was likely to be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, does not amount to an offence under S. 366-A. Rati Ram v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 584 : 102 I. C. 552 : 28 P. L. R. 260 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 727.

———S. 366-A—Separate trials, legality of—Seduction of girl—Offer to several persons for sale.

An offence under S. 366, Penal Code, is one of inducement with a particular object and when after inducement the offender offers the girl to several persons, a fresh offence is not committed at every fresh offer for sale. Several offers for sale evidence the criminal intention of the offender just as much as one offer for sale. Sis Ram v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 904 : 118 I. C. 384 : 1929 A. L. J. 800 : I. R. 1929 All. 864 : 51 All. 888 : A. I. R. 1929 All. 585.

———S. 366-A—Trial under—Fact that girl is handsome, if shows that accused intended to make her inmate of brothel—Held there was misdirection to Jury on this point.

In a trial under S. 366-A, Penal Code, the fact that a girl is handsome is no evidence at all to show that the persons with whom she goes away had any intention that she should become an inmate of a brothel. Where the Judge in dealing with the evidence regarding the intention under S. 366-A told the Jury to look at the surrounding circumstances, and he then pointed out that the girl was handsome: Held, that it amounted to a serious misdirection. Ekkari Das v. Emperor. 40 Cr. L. J. 660 : 182 I. C. 447 : 43 C. W. N. 668 : 12 R. C. 65 : A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 290.

———Ss. 366 and 343—Acquittal—Evidence showing abduction improbable—Accused must be acquitted.

Where the circumstances rendered it more probable that the girl had eloped with the accused rather than that she was abducted, held, that the accused should be acquitted. Mohabbat Singh v. Emperor. 5 L. L. J. 38 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 274.

———Ss. 366, 346—Separate charges—Accused charged with both kidnapping and abduction—Held, on facts that occurrence though single transaction, separate charges should have been framed for separate offences.

A married girl whom the Jury found to be under 16 years of age, was due to return to her husband's house after a visit to her father in a village. On the way she passed the house of the accused. He asked her to come inside on the pretext that his wife wanted her. When she went in, he bolted the door and demanded that she should remain with him.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

In the night he ravished her. Later on, he took her out and was joined by the other three appellants. They took her away, and according to her story, her ornaments were taken off. All were jointly charged both with kidnapping and abduction: Held, that the whole incident could not be regarded as constituting a single offence and though it may be said that the whole occurrence was one single transaction, even in that case, separate charges should have been framed for separate offences which went to make up that transaction. Nanda Ghosh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 649 :
182 I. C. 322 : 12 R. C. 40 :
A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 321.

———Ss. 366, 366-A—Absence of force or deceit, effect of—Abduction of girl under 18 years of age—Procuration—Offence.

Accused took a girl of less than 18 years of age from place to place with the intention of compelling her to marry against her will or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse. There was no evidence that the girl was compelled to accompany the accused by force or by deceitful means: Held, that the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 366, Penal Code, but that he was guilty of an offence under S. 366-A. Saadat Khan v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1151 :
88 I. C. 463 : 2 O. W. N. 445 :
A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 454.

———Ss. 366, 368—Lawful guardianship—Kidnapping from lawful guardianship—Muhammadan Law—Girl having attained the age of 15 years.

A Mohammadan girl after having attained the age of 15 years does not cease to be under the lawful guardianship of her mother with whom she is actually residing within the meaning of Ss. 366 and 368, Penal Code. Emperor v. Miran Baksh. 3 Cr. L. J. 296 :
60 P. R. Cr. 1905 : 7 P. L. R. 74.

———Ss. 366, 372—Offence under.

Where a female minor met a person in the street and went away voluntarily with that person, she was just as much in the possession of her legal guardians when she was walking in the street, unless she had given up the intention of returning home, as if she had actually been in her guardian's house when taken off. Letting a female minor for a single act of sexual intercourse is not an offence under S. 372, Penal Code. Nga Shwe Thwe v. Emperor. 6 Cr. L. J. 30 :
U. B. R. 1907 Penal Code 1 :
13 Bur. L. R. 30.

———S. 366—Minor voluntarily leaving her guardian—Kidnapping—Selling minor for purpose of prostitution.

A chamar girl between the age of 18 and 14 voluntarily left the house of her husband and parents, met E on a public road and stayed with him for a month. Afterwards E made over the girl to certain other persons who bored her nose and made her appear a Jal girl. Subsequently the girl passed several hands until she was made over to a person to be married to his brother: Held, that E was neither guilty of the offence of taking or enticing the girl out of the keeping of her lawful guardian nor of the offence of selling the minor with the intent that she might be employed or used for the purpose of prostitution. Ewaz Ali v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

16 Cr. L. J. 663 :
30 I. C. 647 : 13 A. L. J. 854 : 37 All. 624 :
A. I. R. 1915 All. 390.

———Ss. 366, 376—Consent of minor.

On a charge under Ss. 366 and 376, Penal Code, the question of the age of the woman abducted is material inasmuch as if she was less than 14 years of age, her consent to the acts referred to in Ss. 366 and 376, is in law immaterial. Mohiuddin v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 455 :
129 I. C. 834 : 51 C. L. J. 352 :
I. R. 1931 Cal. 274 :
A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 437.

———Ss. 366, 376—Conviction under S. 366 propriety of—Accused charged under Ss. 366 and 376—Acquittal under S. 376 but conviction under S. 366.

There is no necessary inconsistency in Jury's acquitting the accused of the main charge of rape under S. 376 and convicting him of abduction under S. 366. The offence of abduction under S. 366 of the Code is made out as soon as the accused person takes away a woman. But when he has committed the offence of abduction under S. 366 of the Code, the further question to be decided is whether, when he has had illicit intercourse with the woman, that fact amounts to rape as defined by S. 375, Penal Code. Where a man has illicit intercourse with an adult woman with her consent, it is not rape, under the law. In such a case, the accused person will be held guilty under S. 366 of the Code, but not guilty under S. 376 of the Code. Ebadi Khan v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 674 :
176 I. C. 10 : 11 R. C. 36 :
A. I. R. 1938 Cal. 460.

———Ss. 366, 376—Separate convictions—Acts disclosing offences of kidnapping and rape—Conviction for both, legality of.

Where the series of acts proved against the accused, establish two distinct offences falling under Ss. 366 and 376, Penal Code, the accused can be convicted separately for both the offences. Tek Singh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 248 :
107 I. C. 388.

———Ss. 366, 376—Separate convictions—Kidnapping and rape—Separate sentences, legality of.

The ingredients of the offences under Ss. 366 and 376, Penal Code, are essentially distinct from each other and separate convictions under the two sections are perfectly legal. Baga v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 485 :
109 I. C. 213.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 366, 376, 392—Sentence—Marriage by forcible seizure—Gonds in Berar and Betul—Offences of rape, robbery, how far mitigated.

The rakshasa form of marriage, viz., the seizure of a maiden by force from her house against her consent or that of her parents is prevalent amongst Gonds in Betul District as also those in Berar. Subsequent consent cannot prevent the acts technically constituting wrongful confinement and rape when they are committed and it does not reduce their culpability. Carrying of a Gond maiden by force and having a sexual intercourse with her against her will and taking away her bracelet with the intention of detaining her are, no doubt, sufficient to convict a Gond for wrongful confinement, rape and robbery but the sentence should not be so heavy in view of the fact that the marriage by seizure is customary among the Gonds. Garab Singh v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 659 :
103 I. C. 195 : A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 279.

———Ss. 366, 376, 498—Miscellaneous—Offence under Ss. 366 and 376 not established—Conviction under S. 498, propriety of.

A person who is prosecuted under Ss. 366 and 376, I. P. C., cannot be held to be guilty of having committed an offence under S. 498, I. P. C., if the offences with which he was charged are not established. Haidarali v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 499 :
187 I. C. 690 : 12 R. A. 579 :
1940 A. L. J. 97 : A. I. R. 1940 All. 201.

———Ss. 366, 394—Miscellaneous—Abduction—Intention—Inference—Robbery and abduction—Separate convictions.

The intent with which a woman is abducted or kidnapped, is more or less a matter of inference. There may be some cases in which the matter is capable of direct proof, but very generally one has to infer from the circumstances of the case and the subsequent conduct of the accused as to what was the intention with which the kidnapping or the abduction had been brought about. In such cases, it is for the accused to explain away the incriminating circumstances and to prove that he had no improper or sinister object in view. Where a woman is first robbed of her ornaments and is then carried off, the abduction although immediately following the robbery is no part of that offence, it not being necessary to complete the offence of robbery that the woman should also be abducted. In such a case, separate convictions and sentences of the accused under the two offences are right and proper. Chanda Singh v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 459 :
67 I. C. 731 : 3 L. L. J. 574 :
A. I. R. 1921 Lah. 323.

———Ss. 366 and 420—Offence, nature of—Conspiracy to bring girl in order to sell—Girl not kidnapped from lawful guardianship—Offence committed is one under Ss. 420 and 511 read with S. 120-B and not under S. 366 read with S. 120-B.

If a conspiracy exists between certain persons that a girl should be brought to Sind and sold

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

there to some persons who might be willing to buy her and that to such person it should be stated that the girl was a relation of one of the party of the conspirators and it is not proved that the girl is kidnapped from lawful guardianship, the offence committed falls under Ss. 420 and 511 read with S. 120-B. Mohan-singh v. Emperor.
31 Cr. L. J. 949 :
126 I. C. 55 : A. I. R. 1930 Sind 164.

———Ss. 366, 498—Evidence—Abducting woman to compel marriage.

An abduction was supported by a letter received by the complainant from his wife stating that she had been abducted to a brothel in Bombay by the accused, and also by her statement that she had been persuaded that if she went to Bombay she would be well off and be married to a rich husband. The alleged writer and the cover of the letter were not produced. The accused had once been seen talking with the woman. He had then disappeared and was arrested on his return. He, in examination, incidentally admitted having been to Bombay. The woman was rescued by the Bombay Police, but the policeman was not summoned : Held, that as abductions were secretly carried out, the substance of the letter was a sufficient indication of its genuineness ; that it would have been satisfactory if the alleged writer of the letter had been produced but that what might have been a mere practical difficulty, must not be allowed to vitiate what, from a general aspect of the case, appeared to be good evidence. Emperor v. Marwada Gholio Rughnath.

1 Cr. L. J. 701.

———S. 367—'Lawful guardianship,' test of.

The test of lawful guardianship is that the infant or minor should be in a position to apply to his guardian for protection. It is not necessary and the law does not require that the Crown should prove that a minor has been taken actually from the actual custody of his guardian. Mohammad Salleh, son of Ghulam Mohammad v. Emperor.

A. I. R. 1929 Sind 249 (2).

———S. 368.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 207.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 109, 303, 306.

———S. 368—Benefit of doubt.

Prosecution story disbelieved—Possibility of truth in story of accused as to the presence of the girl in his house—Accused, held entitled to benefit of doubt. Khazari Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1089 :
157 I. C. 168 : 8 R. A. 126.

———S. 368—'Concealment,' meaning of—Kidnapped girl taken to a well where she is allowed to move in neighbouring fields—Whether concealment.

'Concealment' means a withdrawal from the actual observation of others of the person kidnapped or abducted and not merely taking her away to a long distance so that her father or guardian would not know where she was.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where a kidnapped girl is taken to a well where she is allowed to move in the neighbouring fields, it cannot be said that she is concealed. Shiv Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 277 :
179 I. C. 874 : 11 R. L. 648 :
41 P. L. R. 162 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 26.

———S. 368—Conviction, essentials of.

A conviction under S. 368, Penal Code, can only be maintained if the accused could be charged with the knowledge of the fact that an offence under S. 368, Penal Code, had been committed in respect of the girl abducted. Suhan Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 684 :
182 I. C. 520 : 41 P. L. R. 45 :
12 R. L. 53 : A. I. R. 1939 Lah. 180.

———S. 368—Ingredients—Offence under.

A conviction under S. 368, Penal Code, cannot be maintained on the evidence that the accused said that they wanted to sell the girl. It must be proved that the accused concealed the girl or kept her in wrongful confinement. Amar Ali v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 554 :
93 I. C. 1050 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 384.

———S. 368—Jurisdiction.

The venue for the trial of a case under S. 368 is the Court within whose jurisdiction the kidnapped or abducted person has been wrongfully concealed or confined. Nanhua Dhimar v. Emperor.

32 Cr. L. J. 690 (b) :
131 I. C. 246 : 1930 A. L. J. 1485 :
53 All. 140 : I. R. 1931 All. 358 :
A. I. R. 1931 All. 55.

———S. 368—Procedure.

It is the duty of the prosecution in a case under S. 368 to place the first information report before the Court, and if the prosecution does not do so and as the accused does not come to know of this report at an earlier stage, it is necessary, that on application under S. 428, Cr. P. C., made to the Sessions Judge, additional evidence should be taken by him. Sarnam Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 117 :
152 I. C. 550 : 1934 A. L. J. 1234 :
4 A. W. R. 949 : 7 R. A. 360 :
A. I. R. 1935 All. 63.

———S. 368—Scope of—No proof of kidnapping—Offence, if made out.

S. 368, Penal Code, pre-supposes that the offence of kidnapping or abduction has taken place, so that any one wrongfully concealing or confining the person kidnapped or abducted, is guilty of an offence under S. 368, Penal Code. But where kidnapping is not proved, wrongfully confining or concealing does not constitute an offence under S. 368. Francis Hector v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 401 :
167 I. C. 676 : 9 R. A. 567 :
1936 A. W. R. 1065 : A. I. R. 1937 All. 182.

———S. 368—Scope of.

S. 368, Penal Code, requires "knowledge" on the part of the accused and not merely suspicion or belief. Gadadhar Sarkar v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1021 :
87 I. C. 845 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 226.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 368—Wrongful concealment, what amounts to.

A person who is not a party to the conspiracy of kidnapping a woman, and in whose house she lives as a free agent, other people having free access to her, cannot be convicted of an offence under S. 368, Penal Code. Karan Singh v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 532 :
36 I. C. 580 : 14 A. L. J. 792 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 272.

———S. 368—Wrongfully concealing kidnapped minor.

A girl under sixteen years of age was going to a vegetable market in search of work. On her way she met another woman, who asked the girl to accompany her under a promise of obtaining work for her. The woman took the girl to her house and kept her there till evening, when she was removed by the accused in a closed carriage to a solitary bungalow far away from the town. The accused kept the girl there for two days and two nights, after which she was permitted to return to her home: Held, that the accused were guilty, under S. 368, Penal Code, of the offence of wrongfully concealing a minor knowing that she had been kidnapped. Emperor v. Jettha Nathoo.

1 Cr. L. J. 931 :
6 Bom. L. R. 785.

———S. 370—Scope of.

In order to come within the scope of S. 370, Penal Code, the control sought to be established over the liberty of the person purported to be dealt with as a slave must be of an absolute character. A large class of domestic servants in this country adhere to the same master throughout their lives and their offspring also continue as domestic servants in the same family. It would be an outrage on one's common sense to suppose that domestic servants of this class occupy the position of slaves. Nothing more was intended by the document in this case than to transfer the supposed right of the transferor to the personal services of the Pulayan. Koroth Mammad v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 17 :
42 I. C. 977 : 33 M. L. J. 430 :
22 M. L. T. 262 : 6 L. W. 600 :
1917 M. W. N. 894 : 41 Mad. 334 :
A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 647.

———S. 370—'Slave', meaning of—Pulayan of North Malabar, sale of—Offence.

Slavery within the meaning of S. 370, Penal Code, includes not only the most extreme degree of subjection wherein the master has absolute and unlimited power over the life, fortune and liberty of the slave, but also such a condition of subjection as is inconsistent with the idea of the person so treated being free as to his property, services or conduct in any substantial respect. Where a Pulayan of North Malabar, aged 25, was with his own consent sold by a Mappilla to another under a document called a jenmam deed "giving" Pulayan Vellan with "his heirs" and stating that "for this sum of Rs. 10 you should get work done for you by the said Vellan and his offspring that may come into being as your jenmam and act as you please," and the evidence showed that among this class of people the belief was that a Pulayan could not serve any one except his master without the latter's consent and that a Pulayan could be sold, though only with his own consent, to a new master; Held, that the transaction amounted to disposing of a person as a slave within the meaning of S. 370. Koroth Mammad v Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 17 : 42 I. C. 977 : 33 M. L. J. 430 : 22 M. L. T. 262 : 6 L. W. 600 : 1917 M. W. N. 894 : 41 Mad. 337 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 647.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 372.

See also (i) Cr. P. C. 1898, S. 161.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 360, 373, 420.

———S. 372—Completion of offence—Minor—Disposing of for the purposes of prostitution.

The offence made punishable by S. 372, Penal Code, is complete when the person intending that a minor should be employed or used for the purpose of prostitution or for any unlawful or immoral purpose or knowing it to be likely that such minor will be employed or used for any such purpose, intentionally places the minor in a position calculated to bring about the result intended or known to be likely. If such a change in the position or circumstances of the minor has been effected with such knowledge or intention, it is quite immaterial whether third persons have or have not observed any ceremonies recognised by custom as necessary to give prostitutes a particular status. The offence consists in the intentional or conscious exposure of the minor to the danger of degradation. Emperor v. Bhinde Pandu Doli. 2 Cr. L. J. 500 : 7 Bom. L. R. 562.

———S. 372—'Disposal', meaning of—Recommendation to minor to go to brothel—Offence.

The word "disposal" in S. 372, Penal Code, necessarily connotes some control by the person disposing over the minor disposed of. The mere direction of the minor or recommendation to her to go to a brothel does not constitute a "disposal" of the minor within the meaning of S. 372. In re : Nari. 26 Cr. L. J. 868 :

86 I. C. 804 : 21 L. W. 472 : 48 M. L. J. 594 : A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 716.

———S. 372—'Disposal', what amounts to—Disposal of minor girl for purposes of prostitution—Gejee ceremony, performance of—Offence.

The mere performance of what is known as the gejee ceremony in respect of a minor girl does not amount to a disposal of the girl with the intent that she shall be employed or used for the purpose of prostitution, within the meaning of S. 372 of the Penal Code. Parmeshwari Subbi v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 721 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

58 I. C. 145 : 22 Bom. L. R. 894 : A. I. R. 1920 Bom. 63.

———S. 372—Presumption of guilt—Taking or employing minor for purposes of prostitution—Nature of proof—Adoption by temple dasi—Receipt of prasadam in temple by adoptee minor—Minor made to sing and dance in temple.

The taking of a minor girl by a temple dasi, though actually unattended with the forms and ceremonies of adoption, making the minor to accept prasadam in the temple and sing and dance there, is enough to raise a presumption of guilt under S. 372, Penal Code, on the part of the acquirer of the minor and to throw on her the burden of showing the absence of guilty intention or knowledge. Public Prosecutor v. Kannanmal. 14 Cr. L. J. 33 :

18 I. C. 257 : 13 M. L. T. 131 : 24 M. L. J. 211 : 1913 M. W. N. 207.

———S. 372—Scope of—Disposing of minor for purposes of prostitution—Preliminary ceremony—Offence.

In the absence of a finding that the accused has sold or let out a minor to hire or otherwise disposed of her with the intent that she should be used for the purpose of prostitution, the mere fact that a certain ceremony was performed by the accused in respect of a female minor which was a preliminary step before the selling, letting 'or disposing of the girl for the purpose of prostitution' does not make the accused's act an offence under S. 372, Penal Code. Emperor v. Sahebava Birappa. 26 Cr. L. J. 1482 :

89 I. C. 1050 : 27 Bom. L. R. 1022 : A. I. R. 1925 Bom. 478.

———Ss. 372, 373—Offence under, test of—'Possession' of minor girl, what constitutes—Brothel-keeper permitting minor girl to be brought to brothel for a few hours.

The law does not specify the nature of possession required to constitute an offence under S. 373, Penal Code, nor its duration, nor intensity. The only test which in law is necessary and sufficient is whether, in each case the possession is such as to be consistent with the purpose or intention or knowledge of prostitution or illicit intercourse. A brothel-keeper who avails herself of the supply of a procuress, can be convicted of abetment of an offence under S. 6, Bombay Prevention of Prostitution Act, 1928. S. 6, Bombay Prevention of Prostitution Act, 1928, is directed not only against procuresses but also against brothel-keepers. Emperor v. Vithabai Sukha. 29 Cr. L. J. 993 :

112 I. C. 209 : 30 Bom. L. R. 613 : 52 Bom. 403 : A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 336.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 372, 373—Scope of—“Letting to hire,” “obtaining possession”, meaning of—“Kanyarikam” ceremony, performance of, whether within the section.

Under Ss. 372 and 373, Penal Code, there must be making over of possession of the minor girl either by sale or by hire or by some similar arrangement in order that a case may come without the mischief of the law. Where the only evidence against the accused was that he performed the kanyarikam ceremony, i. e., the nuptials of a minor girl and had sexual intercourse with her for 8 days successively, but the girl continued to live with her parents who never parted with possession of her to the accused: Held, that these facts were not sufficient to support the conviction of the accused under S. 373 and the conviction of the girl's parents under S. 372. Public Prosecutor v. Maddila Mutayalu.

19 Cr. L. J. 965 :
47 I. C. 865 : 1918 M. W. N. 484 :
35 M. L. J. 157 : 24 M. L. T. 77 :
8 L. W. 253 : A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 892.

———Ss. 372, 420—Selling married girl as virgin—Cheating.

Accused sold a minor married girl to the complainant representing her to be a virgin: Held, that the accused were guilty of cheating. Raj Bahadur v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 931 :
47 I. C. 447 : 28 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. :
23 P. R. 1918 Cr. : A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 49.

———S. 373.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 372.

———S. 373—Intention.

A prostitute received into her house two girls, one of them being of mature age and promised to give the elder girl good clothes and ornaments if she lived with her: Held, that from these facts it might be reasonably inferred that the accused obtained possession of the girl with intent that one or both of them should be employed for the purpose of prostitution or knowing it to be likely that they would be so employed and that the accused were guilty of an offence under S. 373, I. P. C. Emperor v. Musammal Sunder.

1 Cr. L. J. 972 :
1 A. L. J. 559.

———S. 373—Intention—Inference from circumstances—Burden of proof.

Proof of intention or knowledge, such as are mentioned in S. 373, Penal Code, must be almost entirely a matter of inference from circumstances. Where in a prosecution under S. 373 against a woman, all the circumstances go to show that the intention of the accused was to employ a girl as a prostitute as soon as she was physically ready for the purpose, the burden lies upon the woman of proving that she intended to wait until the girl had reached the age of majority. Khetermani Dasi v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 104 :
71 I. C. 232 : 35 C. L. J. 451 :
A. I. R. 1922 Cal. 539.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 373—Misdirection.

Prosecution evidence unsatisfactory on question of age of girl—Judge points it out and telling jury to appeal to their experience and apply that experience to impression formed on seeing the girl—No caution given that such impression was not a sure guide—There is a material misdirection within S. 297, Cr. P. C. Bhala Sardar v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 553 :
138 I. C. 111 : 35 C. W. N. 316 :
I. R. 1932 Cal. 414 :
A. I. R. 1932 Cal. 417.

———S. 373—Offence, where completed—Bringing minor girl from Kashmir to Bombay—Prostitution of girl in Bombay—Enhancement of sentence, application for—Accused's right to question, legality of conviction.

A married girl who was living in Kashmir was brought to Bombay by accused No. 2, a relation of hers, at the instance of accused No. 1 for the purpose of prostitution, the fare being paid by accused No. 1. She was kept in the brothel of accused No. 1 in Bombay and the two accused shared her earnings. In a prosecution of the accused under Ss. 373 and 114, it was argued that the offence was committed in Kashmir: Held, that what took place at Kashmir was only a preparation for committing the offence, and that the offence was completed only in Bombay when the girl was put in the brothel of accused No. 1. An accused who has had his appeal dismissed, cannot have his case reheard on the merits of his conviction upon an application for enhancement of sentence. Emperor v. Butubai Geneshu.

28 Cr. L. J. 465 :
101 I. C. 593 : 29 Bom. L. R. 490 :
A. I. R. 1927 Bom. 666.

———S. 373 — ‘Possession’ — Obtaining possession of girl for prostitution — Offence, ingredients of — Obtaining possession without intervention of third person, whether offence.

It is not essential for an offence under S. 373, Penal Code, that the accused should have obtained possession of the minor from or through the intervention of a third person. It is enough if it is established that the accused in fact obtained possession of the minor with intent that the minor shall be used for the purpose of prostitution. Sham Sunder Prusti v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 800 :
125 I. C. 154 : 11 P. L. T. 311 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 219.

———S. 373—Presumption as to intention — Possession of minor girl by brothel-keeper.

When the accused is proved to have obtained possession of a female under the age of 18 years and is proved to be a person who occupies or manages a brothel, then he is to be presumed to have obtained possession of that girl with the intent that he shall use her for the purpose of prostitution. Emperor v. Chiragh.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 376 :
115 I. C. 65 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 321 :
30 P. L. R. 414.

—S. 373—Scope of—Obtaining possession of minor for purpose of prostitution—Possession, whether must be obtained from third person.

It is not requisite for the purpose of S. 373, Penal Code, that the possession of the minor should be obtained from a third person. It is enough if it is established that the accused, in fact, obtained possession of the minor with intent that the minor shall be used for the purpose of prostitution. Emperor v. Shamsunderbai.

22 Cr. L. J. 29 :
59 I. C. 141 : 22 Bom. L. R. 1234 :
45 Bom. 529 ; A. I. R. 1921 Bom. 323.

—S. 373—Scope of.

S. 373, Penal Code, does not require that a minor taken possession of by an accused person would necessarily be employed or used for the purpose of prostitution. It is quite enough that such employment or use would be the probable result of the detention of the girl by the accused, even though she might not have intended the result. S. 373 does not require that the intention with respect to the employment or use of the minor for the purpose of prostitution should relate to her employment or use during her minority. The expression "such minor" is intended to designate the person intended to be employed or used for immoral purposes and not the time when such employment or use is to take place. Public Prosecutor v. Kannammal.

14 Cr. L. J. 33 :
18 I. C. 257 : 13 M. L. T. 131 :
24 M. L. J. 211 : 1913 M. W. N. 207.

—Ss. 373, 372—Scope of—S. 373 should be read with reference to S. 372—'Possession' implies some sort of control by accused—Conviction under S. 373, legality of.

S. 373, Penal Code, is not self-contained and should not be read as a self-contained whole without any reference to S. 372. They are correlative of each other being aimed against what may be broadly described as trafficking in girls under the age of eighteen. On this view the words "otherwise obtains possession" must be construed ejusdem generis with "buying" and "hiring". The word "possession" implies some sort of control. A girl ran away with the accused of her own accord. In spite of the fact that she was taken home by her father-in-law, she ran away again and re-joined the accused. There was nothing to show that he had possession of her in any sense of the term or that he attempted to control her movements in any way and there was nothing to prevent her from leaving him at any moment she chose : Held, that under the circumstances, the accused could not be convicted under S. 373. Jatindra Mohan Das v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 696 :
169 I. C. 76 : 41 C. W. N. 447 :
9 R. C. 891 : I. L. R. 1937, 2 Cal. 187 :
A. I. R. 1937 Cal. 250.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 374.

See also, Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.

—S. 375.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 100 (1) (b) and (c).
(ii) Evidence Act, 1872, S. 6.

—S. 376.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 30, 177, 199, 250.
(ii) Evidence Act, 1872, Ss. 6, 8.
(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 71, 342, 354, 366, 376, 392, 511.

—S. 376—Attempt to commit rape.

A boy of ten who has attained sufficient maturity of understanding to judge the nature and consequences of his conduct, can be convicted of an attempt to commit rape. Emperor v. Nga Nyun.

37 Cr. L. J. 94 :
159 I. C. 450 : 8 R. Rang. 267 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 393.

—S. 376—Attempt to commit rape, what constitutes.

From the moment when the intention is formed to commit an offence, every act done which facilitates the commission of the offence and which is done with that object in view, is in one sense an act done towards the commission of the offence, but the doing of every such act does not constitute an attempt to commit the offence. It must, in every case, be a question depending upon the circumstances whether a particular act done with the requisite intention towards the commission of an offence is sufficiently proximate to its commission to constitute an attempt or is so remote as merely to constitute preparation for its commission. Act which amounts to an attempt to commit rape does not lose that character merely because the offender does not display a determination to effect his object at all costs. Jones v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 916 :
96 I. C. 260 : 4 Bur. L. J. 83 :
A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 247.

—S. 376—Benefit of doubt—Charge of rape—Delay in First Information Report—Doubt as to guilt of accused.

Where in a charge of rape it appeared that there was no direct reliable evidence as to the commission of the offence and no semen or blood was found on the person of the prosecutrix, and further that there had been great delay in making the First Information Report which had not been satisfactorily explained, and that the family of the accused and the prosecutrix were at enmity with each other : Held, that all these circumstances combined to raise a doubt in favour of the accused and that he was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. Abdul Rahman v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 150 :
33 I. C. 630 : 17 P. W. R. 1916 Cr.
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 292.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 376—Consent of woman—Effect of—Copulating with a woman with her consent does not amount to rape.

Where the accused was convicted of committing rape on a woman aged 20, but there were circumstances to show that the accused was copulating with her with her consent, and when she was caught in the act of copulation, she naturally concocted a story to save her face that the accused had carried her into the room by force: Held, that the offence of rape was not made out. Beli Singh v. Emperor.

9 L. L. J. 337 :
A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 858.

———S. 376—Consent—Presumption—Rape—Girl virgin.

In a case of rape, the fact that the girl was virgo intacta up to the date of the occurrence, is very strong proof against the intercourse having taken place with the consent of the girl. Sultan v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1488 :
89 I. C. 1056 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 613.

———S. 376—Consent—Rape—Complainant, uncorroborated testimony of, value of—Struggle, evidence of.

Where a person is charged with the offence of having committed rape, the question for determination is, whether the woman was or was not a consenting party, and in this connection, her testimony without any independent evidence in support thereof that she was not a consenting party, is insufficient. The first and foremost circumstance that can be looked for in cases of this kind is the evidence of resistance which one would naturally expect from a woman unwilling to yield to sexual intercourse forced upon her. Such a resistance may lead to the tearing of clothes, the infliction of personal injuries and even injuries on her private parts. Mahla Ram v. Crown.

25 Cr. L. J. 74 :
75 I. C. 986 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 669.

———S. 376—Consent—Rape—Court's duty where accused denied guilt—Confession and contradiction in evidence.

Though the accused may not have advanced the plea of having sexual intercourse with the complainant with her consent and may have alleged absolute ignorance of the matter, the Court should look at all the circumstances and decide as to their conduct and intention, apart from their own explanation and is never, and should not consider itself, bound by the explanations, because the accused may well be too ashamed to confess to their lust, and even if they were not too ashamed to do so, the Court must at least realize that the accused probably think that such a grave admission would be fatal to their own case and therefore refuse to risk telling the actual truth. Where there were no satisfactory indications of unwillingness or of resistance by the ravished woman, whilst there was confusion and contradictions in her evidence such as would only arise if she then consented and afterwards attempted to protest innocence, and certain circumstances showed that she had consented, the accused were acquitted. Emperor v. Prabhatsang. 5 Cr. L. J. 465.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 376—Conviction based on uncorroborated testimony of woman raped.

In a charge for rape, in the absence of any corroboration, it is not proper to convict the accused on the bare testimony of the woman alleged to be the victim. Amar Singh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 428 :
153 I. C. 894 : 35 P. L. R. 638 :
7 R. L. 470 : A. I. R. 1935 Lah. 8.

———S. 376—Conviction, illegality of.

The solitary statement of the complainant that the offence of rape has been committed upon her by the accused is not sufficient to convict him of the offence, in the absence of other independent evidence. Baji v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 496 :
143 I. C. 73 : 10 O. W. N. 107 :
I. R. 1933 Oudh 153 : A. I. R. 1933 Oudh 163.

———S. 376—Conviction, legality of—Rape—Absence of evidence of penetration except complainant's statement—Chemical Examiner's report, value of.

Where in a rape case, there was evidence to show that the accused had entered the house of the complainant and had assaulted her but apart from the statement of the complainant herself there was no evidence that penetration was effected and the complainant was not examined by any medical expert; Held, that the evidence was not sufficient for convicting the accused of rape. The report of the Chemical Examiner regarding the presence of semen on the complainant's clothing is not sufficient to prove that the complainant was actually raped. Jalal v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 784 :

125 I. C. 185 : 11 L. L. J. 391 :
30 P. L. R. 662 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 193.

———S. 376—Conviction on uncorroborated testimony of woman, legality of.

It is very unsafe to convict a person for rape on the testimony of the woman alone without substantial corroboration. Maung Ba Tin v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1284 :

98 I. C. 180 : 5 Bur. L. J. 112 :
A. I. R. 1927 Rang 67.

———S. 376—Conviction, propriety of.

Girl, mother and eye-witnesses deposing for prosecution—Medical examination after four or five days—Absence of injuries and hymen—Blood-stains on dhoti of accused and cloth of girl—Conviction, held proper. Hari Har v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1095 (2) :
157 I. C. 147 : 1935 A. W. R. 597 :
8 R. A. 111 : A. I. R. 1935 All. 590.

———S. 376—Duty of prosecution—Charge under S. 376—Prosecution to prove girl to be under 14.

To prove the charge under S. 376, Penal Code, the prosecution is bound to prove that the girl is below the age of 14. Emperor v. Qudrat.

41 Cr. L. J. 142 :
185 I. C. 271 : 1939 A. L. J. 980 :
I. L. R. 1939 All. 871 : 1939 A. W. R. 693 :
12 R. A. 310 : A. I. R. 1939 All. 708.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 376—Evidence, insufficiency of—
Accused should be acquitted.

Where there was no physical proof of the rape, the inference from the medical evidence was that at the time of the alleged offence, the girl was not a virgin, no trace of semen was found on her clothes and the girl of 17 was said to have been forced through a low arch only 3 feet high: Held, the evidence is not sufficient to support conviction for rape. Khuda Bux v. Emperor. A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 238.

—S. 376 — Evidence — Rape — Statement by complainant immediately after occurrence, admissibility of—Sentence—Suicide of complainant, whether can be taken into consideration.

In a case of rape, the statement made by the complainant immediately after the occurrence to another woman is admissible, not as evidence of the truth of the charge alleged, but as corroborating the credibility of the complainant and as evidence of the consistency of her conduct. An inference adverse to the accused cannot be drawn from the fact that the complainant was very much ashamed and even committed suicide owing to the shame brought on her. The fact of the complainant's suicide should not be taken into consideration in passing sentence in a case of rape, because that is neither the natural nor ordinary nor probable consequence of the accused's act. Nga San Pu v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 155 : 43 I. C. 443 : A. I. R. 1918 L. Bur. 81.

—S. 376—Inference as to innocence of accused—Girl under 10 years—Consent, effect of—Assailant suffering from gonorrhoea — Gonococci not found on girl.

In the case of a conviction for rape, where the girl is 10 years of age, no question of consent arises. The fact that a person accused of having committed rape is found to be suffering from gonorrhoea but the injured girl is not infected with the disease, is by no means conclusive of the innocence of the accused. Emperor v. Asadali. 29 Cr. L. J. 12 : 106 I. C. 348 : 9 P. L. T. 186.

—S. 376—Inference of rape, if justified—Existence of injury to vagina.

The mere existence of the injury to the vagina does not necessarily and inevitably justify the inference that there had been rape. Maung Ba Yin v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 944 : 177 I. C. 710 : 11 R. Rang. 160 : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 298.

—S. 376—Insufficient evidence.

The accused was charged with ravishing a child of 4 who was unable to give evidence. The injuries received by the child might have been caused by any accident. Evidence was offered of statements made by the child (1) to her grandmother immediately after receiving the injuries, (2) to the headman, later when examined by him: Held, that the statement to the grandmother was the only statement that could possibly be proved (under S. 8, Evidence Act), and that the grandmother's evidence as to that statement was insufficient to support a conviction. Nga Hlwa v. Emperor. 4 Cr. L. J. 288 : U. B. R. Cr. 1906.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 376 — Medical examination — Charge of rape brought by woman that she did not offer herself for medical examination cannot weigh against her—Criminal trial.

In a charge of rape brought by a woman, the fact that she did not offer herself for medical examination cannot weigh against her. It is the duty of the Police Officer before whom she is produced to ask her whether she was willing to submit to a medical examination in order to substantiate her charge. Whether any such examination would have any value several days after the alleged act in the case of a woman who bore several children, is doubtful. Local Government v. Mst. Gaji. 17 N. L. J. 189 : A. I. R. 1935 Nag. 69.

—S. 376—Punishment, measure of—Rape.

The measure of punishment for an offence of rape, under S. 376, Penal Code, should be proportioned to the greater or less atrocity of the crime, to the conduct of the criminal and to the defenceless and unprotected state of the injured female. The fact that the family of the injured girl have condoned the offence on being paid a sum of money, should not be taken into consideration in determining the heinousness of the offence, or of the punishment to be inflicted. Local Government v. Pearce Lal. 20 Cr. L. J. 647 : 52 I. C. 423 : A. I. R. 1918 Nag. 50.

—S. 376—Rape, what constitutes.

It is not necessary that the hymen should be ruptured in every case. In order to constitute rape, the Statute merely requires medical evidence of penetration, and this may occur and the hymen remain intact. Jantan v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 310 : 153 I. C. 218 : 36 P. L. R. 35 : 7 R. L. 404 : A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 797.

—S. 376—Rape, when serious offence—Subsequent conduct and demeanour of complainant—Absence of immoral intimacy.

In a case of rape, witnesses having been attracted by the cries of the ravished woman, and she having shortly afterwards thrown herself into a well, out of shame, and her demeanour in the Court being truthful and no immoral intimacy suggested, held, that the accused was guilty, her cries followed by her falling into the well, strongly showing her unwillingness: Held, also that, as the complainant was higher in the social or caste scale than the accused, and was at the same time unmarried, the offence was serious. Emperor v. Patha Kala. 1 Cr. L. J. 900.

—S. 376—Scope of—Rape—Penetration, partial—Offence.

Under S. 376, Penal Code, vulvar penetration only is sufficient to constitute rape. Natha v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1185 : 88 I. C. 705 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 536

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 376—Scope of—Rape, proof of—Probabilities of case.

Accused was charged with rape of a girl of seventeen in a place where the girl could not easily have been forced to go against her will. There was no physical proof of the rape, and the inference from the medical evidence was that at the time of the alleged offence the girl was not a virgin: Held, that the offence had not been established against the accused. Amir-ud-Din v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1200 : 82 I. C. 64 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 238.

—S. 376—Sentence—Rape—Unchastity of girl.

Where in a case of rape it is found that the girl is of unchaste character, a very severe sentence is not called for. Ibrahim v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 256 : 100 I. C. 128 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 772.

—S. 367—Sentence—Rape—Violence on defenceless woman.

Crimes of violence upon women who are not in a position to defend themselves, must be put down with a strong hand and it would be a very sad state of affairs, if criminals were to carry an impression that to criminally assault a woman or to rape her was not a very serious matter, and that they could always satisfy their unholy passions if only they were prepared to undergo a comparatively short term of imprisonment. Kala v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 699 : 116 I. C. 883 : 30 P. L. R. 437 : I. R. 1929 Lah. 595 : A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 584.

—S. 376—Uncorroborated evidence of girl—Acceptance of—Nature of corroborative evidence—What girl said after rape, whether corroborative evidence.

Corroboration is not essential even in a case of an offence of rape. The Court is entitled to accept the uncorroborated evidence of a girl but it should be slow in its acceptance of it. In other words, it must be evidence which implicates him, that is which confirms in some material particular not only the evidence that the crime has been committed, but also that the prisoner committed it. What the girl said after the occurrence is really no corroboration at all. U Toe Sein v. The King. 40 Cr. L. J. 525 : 180 I. C. 936 : 11 R. Rang. 443 : A. I. R. 1939 Rang. 128.

—Ss. 376, 354—Rape or indecent assault.

Accused entered a carriage occupied by a lady who was asleep therein and sat down on the berth on which she was sleeping. She woke up and the accused threatened to strangle her if she screamed. He then began to unbutton his trousers and had unfastened the button when the lady began to struggle with him, whereupon the accused released her and asked her name. On discovering her identity, he ceased to molest her explaining that he had mistaken her for another lady: Held, that the accused was not guilty of an attempt to commit rape but was guilty of indecent assault under S. 354, Penal Code. Jones v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 916 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

96 I. C. 260 : 4 Bur. L. J. 83 : A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 247.

—Ss. 376 and 377—Insufficient evidence—No evidence except statement of girl ravished—Enmity between parties proved—Delay in making report—Guilt was not established.

Where in a case of rape and sodomy, there was no evidence to implicate the accused except the statement of the girl ravished, and there was enmity between the parties and there was much delay in making the report to Police even though the police post was very near: Held, that guilt of the accused had not been established. Mullani Ram v. Emperor. 9 L. L. J. 111 : 28 P. L. R. 235 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 236.

—Ss. 376, 458—Separate sentences, legality of—Conviction under.

The conviction of an accused person under Ss. 458 and 376, Penal Code, and the awarding of a separate sentence for each offence is not illegal, as the two offences are not portions of the same transaction, the offence under S. 458 being complete as soon as a man breaks into a house at night after making the necessary preparations as specified in the section, irrespective of his committing any other offence. Labh Singh v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 877 : 75 I. C. 77 : 6 L. L. J. 111 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 291.

—Ss. 376, 511—Attempt to commit rape—Attempt to commit rape, what constitutes.

An attempt consists in the intent to commit a crime combined with the doing of some act adapted to, but falling short of, its actual commission. It may consequently be defined at that which, if not prevented, would have resulted in the full consummation of the act attempted. Where the accused caught hold of a girl, got on to the charpoy with her, undid the string of her pyjama and was seen struggling with her, when on the arrival of a person, he ran away: Held, that he was guilty of an attempt to commit rape. Kishen Singh v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 663 : 103 I. C. 199 : 28 P. L. R. 575 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 580.

—Ss. 376, 511—Attempt to commit rape—Boy of 12 years, whether can be guilty of an offence.

A person physically incapable of committing the offence of rape, e. g., a boy of twelve years, can yet be held guilty of an attempt to commit it. Emperor v. Nga Tun Kaing. 18 Cr. L. J. 943 : 42 I. C. 175 : A. I. R. 1918 L. Bur. 96.

—Ss. 376, 511—Conviction based on woman's allegations, legality of—Attempted rape.

In no cases is it more difficult to arrive at a confident verdict as to whether evidence is false or true than in cases in which women allege that they have been outraged or that outrage has been attempted upon them. Emperor v. Panna Lal.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

25 Cr. L. J. 981 :
81 I. C. 629 : 22 A. L. J. 162 : 46 All. 265 :
A. I. R. 1924 All. 411.

—Ss. 376, 511—Rape, what constitutes—Rape—Partial penetration—Hymen not injured.

Partial penetration which does not result in any injury to the hymen, is sufficient to constitute the offence of rape. Abdul Majid v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 241 :
110 I. C. 113 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 735 (2).

—S. 377.

See also Whipping Act, 1900, S. 4 (b).

—S. 377—Corroboration—Complainant's evidence—Corroboration of, if necessary for conviction—Criminal trial—Accomplice.

In a complaint for unnatural offence, especially where it is found as a fact that the complainant was a perfectly willing party, it is not safe to convict the accused unless the complainant's evidence is corroborated in material particulars implicating the accused. It is true that in law such corroboration is not required, but as a matter of prudence, there ought to be no conviction without such corroboration, except in very exceptional cases. Bal Mukund Singh v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 70 :
[165 I. C. 707 : 39 C. W. N. 1051 :
61 C. L. J. 583 : 9 R. C. 452.]

—S. 377—Evidence—Evidence to substantiate charge.

Evidence to support a charge under S. 377, Penal Code, must be very convincing as it is very easy to bring such a charge but extremely difficult to refute it. Emperor v. Sain Dass.

27 Cr. L. J. 593 :
94 I. C. 257 : 8 L. L. J. 180 : 27 P. L. R. 353 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 375.

—S. 377—Proof—Unnatural offence—Proof—Evidence, uncorroborated, of person on whom offence committed, whether sufficient.

In cases under S. 377, Penal Code, it is, as a rule, unsafe to convict on the uncorroborated testimony of the person on whom the offence is said to have been committed, unless for any reasons that testimony is entitled to special weight. Ganpal v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 946 :
47 I. C. 670 : 73 P. L. R. 1918 :
38 P. W. R. 1918 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 322.

—S. 377—Sentence—Sentence for offence under—Whipping—Propriety of.

The punishment of whipping in case of bestiality, e. g., sodomy on a boy of eight years, is useful as a deterrent. Sona Khan v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 429 :
167 I. C. 655 : 9 R. Pesh. 90 :
A. I. R. 1937 Pesh. 22.

—S. 377—Sentence.

Where an offence under S. 377 is committed after using violence, a sentence of whipping in addition to rigorous imprisonment is eminently right and proper. Emperor v. SHERA.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

37 Cr. L. J. 474 (1) :
161 I. C. 591 (a) : 38 P. L. R. 437 :
8 R. L. 774 (1) : A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 256.

—S. 377—Sodomy—Sentence.

The offence of sodomy is one of those offences for which there can hardly be extenuating circumstances, and a sentence of four months' rigorous imprisonment is an over-lenient one. Emperor v. Mahomed Yousif.

34 Cr. L. J. 618 :
143 I. C. 605 : I. R. 1933 Sind 131 :
A. I. R. 1933 Sind 87.

—S. 378.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 235.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 382.

—S. 378—Bona fide claim—Theft—Defence—Legal right—Dishonest action.

It is not a sufficient defence to a charge of theft for the accused merely to assert, that he thought that he was acting within his legal rights. But if a Court finds that a person charged with theft was bona fide acting on what he supposed to be his legal rights, and was not acting dishonestly, the Court should not convict him. Bhagwat Saran Misir v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 295 :
35 I. C. 167 : 14 A. L. J. 399 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 196,

—S. 378—Consent under misconception—Theft.

A consent is not such consent as is meant by S. 378, Penal Code, where it is given under a misconception of fact and the person removing the property knows that the consent was given in consequence of such misconception. Where a licensee who was allowed to remove dead or fallen trees from a Government forest, dishonestly cut green trees and pass for the removal of the timber was given by the Forest authorities under the misconception that it was dead timber : Held, that there was no consent within the meaning of S. 378, Penal Code, and the licensee was guilty of theft. Maung Ba Chit v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 387 :
122 I. C. 273 : 7 Rang. 821 :
A. I. R. 1930 Rang. 114.

—S. 378—Dishonest intention, absence of—No offence of theft.

Where it was quite impossible to find dishonest intention on the part of the accused in removing the crop of the Pahnai land and there was a likelihood of his having a right to do so : Held, that it was for the Civil Court to determine the rights of the parties and that the accused had not committed the offence of theft within the meaning of S. 378, Penal Code. Paklu Bhagat v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 223 :
166 I. C. 490 : 3 B. R. 174 :
9 R. P. 301 (2).

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 378—Dishonest intention, absence of—Theft of one's own property from custody of another—Wrongful loss to person in charge—Removal with implied consent.

The accused was charged with theft of his own box from the premises of a railway station where he had alighted from an incoming train. His luggage was weighed at the station and he paid the excess fare demanded by the Station Master after weighing. He had a hot altercation with the Station Master at the time and it was alleged that he removed the box and took away the Railway receipt with him. On being requisitioned to deliver the receipt, the accused denied having removed the box. He was convicted of theft with the intention of falsely denying that he had ever received the box and so causing wrongful loss to the Station Master or to the Railway Company and wrongful gain to himself in the shape of compensation for the alleged loss of the box: Held, that the offence was not made out as the accused, after satisfying the demand made on him for excess luggage, must be deemed to have removed the box with the implied consent of the Station Master. Abdul Karim v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 468 :
36 I. C. 148 : 14 A. L. J. 417 :
A. I. R. 1916 All. 89.

—S. 378—'Taking', meaning of.

The word "taking" in S. 378, Penal Code, means "reducing to possession," that is, the moving of property should be effected with a view to obtain the possession or custody of the property. Unless the intention of an accused person is to reduce the property into his own possession, he cannot be guilty of theft. In re : Chockalingam Pillay.

13 Cr. L. J. 131 :
13 I. C. 819 : 11 M. L. T. 162 :
1912 M. W. N. 119.

—S. 378—Offence under — Trees in possession of landlord cut by tenant—Offence.

Where trees standing on a demised land are in the possession of the landlord, it is theft on the part of the tenant to sever them from the ground, apart from any question of the possession of the land itself. A clause in a kabuliyat provided that if the tenant cut any trees, he would pay to the landlord compensation at a certain rate. The tenant, knowing this clause, mala fide cut the trees in order to injure the landlord : Held, that the tenant was guilty of theft. Abdul Ali Fakir v. Netali Fakir.

19 Cr. L. J. 334 :
44 I. C. 350 : 27 C. L. J. 228.

—S. 378—Offence under — Water when can be subject of theft.

Water when conveyed in pipes and so reduced into possession, can be the subject of theft. Where a person takes a water connection from a Municipal water pipe into his house contrary to law and without the permission or knowledge of the Municipal Board, he is guilty of an offence under S. 378, Penal Code. Mahadeo Prasad v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

24 Cr. L. J. 911 :
75 I. C. 159 : 21 A. L. J. 654 :
45 All. 680 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 131.

—S. 378—Offence under.

Where the owner of a buffalo which was impounded in an open plot with a mere boundary fence rescued it after opening a door of the pound by slipping the chain over the lock: Held, that he committed an offence under S. 24, Cattle Trespass Act, and under Ss. 378 and 441, Penal Code, but that he cannot be convicted either under S. 380 or S. 454, Penal Code. In re : Lakshmana Goundan.

28 Cr. L. J. 248 :
100 I. C. 120 : 52 M. L. J. 143 :
38 M. L. T. 163 :
A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 343.

—S. 378—Possession.

Ownership of jalkar right in a running stream does not give such possession of the fishes in it as to make the taking away of the fish, theft within the meaning of S. 378 and no theft can be committed in respect of such fish. Elahi Bux v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 452 :
161 I. C. 477 : 17 P. L. T. 189 :
2 B. R. 333 (1) : 8 R. P. 454 (1) :
A. I. R. 1936 Pat. 152.

—S. 378—Subject of theft — Fish in ponds, whether can be subject of theft.

Fish in ponds which cannot escape from the ponds and go elsewhere can legally be the subject of theft. Nokole Behara v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 1002 :
105 I. C. 826 : 1927 M. W. N. 788 :
26 L. W. 651 : 53 M. L. J. 759 :
39 M. L. T. 588 : A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 20.

—S. 378—Subject of theft—Theft—Fish in open water—Ferae naturae—Incapable of possession.

Fish in open and unenclosed water are ferae naturae. They are not capable of possession and hence cannot form the subject of theft. Only such movable property which is capable of possession can be the subject of theft. Changal Halapoto v. Basarmal.

13 Cr. L. J. 22 :
13 I. C. 214 : 5 S. L. R. 122.

—S. 378—Subject of theft.

Where the fish are able to go in or out of a private fishery, the act of fishing though followed by removal of the fish, does not amount to theft. Kaloo Khan v. Aaya Nath Haldar.

32 Cr. L. J. 572 (1) :
130 I. C. 503 (2) : 35 C. W. N. 455 :
A. I. R. 1931 Cal. 358 (1).

—S. 378—Theft—Cutting string of hass and forcing its ends slightly apart in order to remove it, whether constitutes sufficient moving of hass—Enhanced punishment—Charge, previous convictions not specified in, effect of.

Where the accused cut the string with which a hass was fastened round the complainant's neck forcing the ends of the hass slightly apart, intending to remove the same from her neck, but on account of the struggle that ensued between him and the complainant, the hass fell from the latter's neck and was found on the bed later on: Held, that the act of cutting the string and forcing the ends apart constituted a sufficient moving of the hass to bring the act within the purview of S. 378, Penal Code. Bisakhi v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 875 :
41 I. C. 987 : 29 P. R. 1917 Cr. :
37 P. W. R. 1917 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1918 Lah. 397.

———S. 378—Theft, essentials of.

The essence of the offence of theft consists in the dishonest taking of property out of the possession of the owner, rather than in the taking of it into the thief's own possession, that is, it is only necessary that the thief should "intend to take," it is not necessary that he should succeed in taking. A person who diverts more water to his lands than he is entitled to by lowering the door of the sluice of a Government canal without the permission of the officers of Government, commits theft in respect of water under S. 378, I. P. C. In re : Chockalingam Pillay. 13 Cr. L. J. 131 : 13 I. C. 819 : 11 M. L. T. 162 : 1912 M. W. N. 119.

———S. 378—Theft, what constitutes—Forcible removal of property to compel payment of amount due, whether theft.

It is essential for theft as defined in S. 378, Penal Code, that property should be removed with the intention to take it dishonestly; in other words, there must be an intent to cause wrongful gain to one person or wrongful loss to another person. The forcible removal of property with the intention of compelling the owner to make a payment which he is legally bound to make, does not amount to theft, inasmuch as there is no dishonest intention. Daulat Shaw v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 673 : 63 I. C. 609 : 2 P. L. T. 583 : A. I. R. 1921 Pat. 390.

———S. 378—Theft, what constitutes—Joint property—Theft by co-owner.

If a jointly-owned animal is actually in the possession of one co-owner and is taken away by another co-owner, this circumstance alone would not be sufficient to bring the act of the latter within S. 478, Penal Code. To constitute theft, the act must be done dishonestly as defined in the Penal Code. Hassni v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 767 : 103 I. C. 847 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 650.

———S. 378—Wrongful loss—Theft—Taking an animal without owner's consent—Motive immaterial—Refund of price to owner, effect of.

R purchased a buffalo from a person, the sale was completed, the price paid, and the animal was in the lawful possession of R. P, who interested himself in the protection of cattle, took away the buffalo from R without the latter's consent and made the vendor to refund the price to R. The motive of P's action was to save the animal from being killed and eaten;

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Held, that P caused wrongful loss to R and was guilty of theft. The respectability of motive was immaterial except as to the question of punishment: Held, also that the subsequent conduct of R in taking back his money under protest did not affect the character of the offence. Parichat v. Emperor.

9 Cr. L. J. 389 :
1 I. C. 800 : 5 N. L. R. 17.

———Ss. 378, Illustration (A), 425—Theft or mischief—Trees, cutting of, to annoy.

Theft of trees will be committed only when they were cut to remove them from the possession of the owner, and not when the cutting was merely to annoy him. The act will amount only to mischief. In re : Kuttiah Odayoth Vettil Komar Nambiar.

16 Cr. L. J. 544 :
29 I. C. 672 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1071.

———Ss. 378, 379—Subject of theft—Possession.

Whether in the case of any particular river, channel or reservoir, Government can be said to be in possession of water must depend on circumstances and the question must be regarded as one of fact to be decided on the evidence in each case. Waters in rivers are presumably vested in Government. And when the Government has taken elaborate steps and employed a large establishment to control the use of water in a river or channel and to prevent any person, not having the right to do so, from using it, the water in the river or channel should be regarded as being in possession of Government so as to be the subject of theft. In re : Chockalingam Pillay.

13 Cr. L. J. 131 :
13 I. C. 819 : 11 M. L. T. 162 :
1912 M. W. N. 119.

———S. 378, 379—Subject of theft—Quarrying and carrying away stones from land in the possession of another—Movable property—Theft—Dishonest intention.

Any part of "the earth," whether it be stones or sand or clay or any other component, when severed from "the earth" is movable property and is capable of being the subject of theft. When the accused quarried and carried away stones, dishonestly from land, the property of another: Held, that it amounted to the offence of theft. Suri Venkatappaya Sastri v. Madula Venkanna.

1 Cr. L. J. 429 :
14 M. L. J. 155.

———Ss. 378, 380, 454—"Building" meaning of.

An open plot of land with a mere boundary fence, even with a masonry wall, cannot, for purposes of either S. 380 or S. 454, Penal Code, be regarded as a building or a building or a house. The expression 'building' more especially having regard to the expressions 'tent' and 'vessel' that follow, must be regarded as indicating some structure intended for affording some sort of protection to the persons dwelling inside it or for the property placed there for custody. A structure which does not afford any such protection by itself but merely serves as a fencing or other means of merely preventing ingress or egress cannot make the place a building or a house within the meaning of either of those two sections. In re : Lakshmana Goundan.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 248 :

100 I. C. 120 : 52 M. L. J. 143 :

38 M. L. T. 163 : A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 343.

—Ss. 378 and 395—Theft.

The accused who were alleged to have committed theft of straw, were charged and convicted of the offences of dacoity and grievous hurt under Ss. 395 and 325, Penal Code : Held, on the evidence adduced, that the act of the accused did not amount to robbery and dacoity, since they did not cause hurt or wrongful restraint or fear of hurt or wrongful restraint in carrying away the stolen property and that, therefore, they were guilty of theft only. Bore Gowda v. Government of Mysore.

9 Cr. L. J. 386 :

12 M. C. C. R. 282.

—Ss. 378, 403, 425—Theft and mischief.

The causing of wrongful loss or wrongful gain to some person is a common element in both the offences of theft and mischief. But it cannot be said that simply because the accused has caused wrongful loss to another person by taking away his property without his consent, the subsequent act of destruction of that property would not be an offence because the wrongful loss is already caused by taking it away from its possessor. Wrongful loss to a person can be caused in a variety of ways. The nature of the loss in both cases is different and falls under the definitions of distinct offences. It is, therefore, possible to commit the offence of mischief in respect of the stolen property even though some loss has already been caused to its possessor by the offence of theft. Nga Paw Din v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 607 :

175 I. C. 515 : 1938 Rang. 63 :

10 R. Rang. 503 : A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 138.

—Ss. 378, 424 — Dishonest removal—Movable property in possession of accused—Bombay Land Revenue Code, Ss. 86, 141, 142—Watchman appointed to prevent removal of crop by lessee—Lessee removing crop.

The removal of movable property which is already in the physical possession of another, does not amount to theft under S. 378, Penal Code. If the removal is dishonest, it might amount to an offence under S. 424. Where a watchman has been appointed under Ss. 86 and 141 Bombay Land Revenue Code, to prevent the removal of the crop by the lessee, and the latter removes the crop, the offence would be one punishable under S. 142, Bombay Land Revenue Code. Lekhraj v. Imambur.

12 Cr. L. J. 611 :

12 I. C. 987 : 5 S. L. R. 130.

—S. 379.

—Benefit of doubt.

—Bona fide belief.

—Bona fide claim.

—Conviction.

—Dishonest intention.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Duty of prosecution.

—Essential of.

—Intention.

—Joint-ownership.

—Master and servant.

—Miscellaneous.

—Movable property.

—Offence under.

—Possession.

—Procedure.

—Proof.

—Right of occupancy raiylats.

—Scope of.

—Sentence.

—Subject of theft.

—Theft.

—Wrongful loss.

—S. 379.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 4, Cl. (b), 145, 145 (2), 179, 237, 576 (a).

(ii) Electricity Act, 1910, S. 39.

(iii) Evidence Act, 1872, S. 114, Illus. (a).

(iv) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 24, 75, 114, 143, 145, 145 (2), 147, 186, 215, 302, 323, 378, 379, 382, 406, 419.

—S. 379—Benefit of doubt—Accused found in possession of skin of missing goat—Charge of theft.

When the accused was found in possession of two freshly flayed skins of a goat and kid within 24 hours of the theft and was charged under S. 379, Penal Code : Held, (1) that it was absolutely necessary for the prosecution to establish that the skins with the accused were those of the goats recently stolen; (2) that as the prosecution witness had not seen the skins for more than three weeks after the theft, the Jury were not wrong in holding that the identification was suspicious; (3) that the accused was entitled to the benefit of the doubt and ought to be acquitted. In re : Irula Sadayan.

16 Cr. L. J. 440 :

29 I. C. 72 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 783.

—S. 379—Bona fide belief—Offence.

Accused and complainant owned adjoining fields. Accused removed certain crops from the field belonging to the complainant under the bona fide belief that the crops had been sown by him and belonged to him : Held, that the accused could not be convicted of theft. Bodh Kishen Goala v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 454 :

72 I. C. 614 : 4 P. L. T. 608 :

A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 125.

—S. 379—Bona fide belief—Theft—Removal of property pending civil dispute.

Complainant sued the raiylat of a holding and the accused for possession of the holding on the allegation that the raiylat had transferred the holding to the accused in the absence of a custom of transferability of occupancy holdings. The suit was decreed but an appeal against the decision was filed by the raiylat and it was after the filing of this appeal that the complainants obtained delivery of possession of the holding. Three days thereafter the accused were alleged to have cut and removed the crops growing on the holding. They were thereupon prosecuted and convicted of an offence under S. 379 of the Penal Code. A few days later the appeal filed by the raiyat was decreed: Hdd, that under the circumstances of the case the conviction could not be upheld inasmuch as the accused had no idea of causing wrongful gain to the raiyat or wrongful loss to the complainant, they having cut and removed the crops under the bona fide belief that they belonged to the raiyat. Sobha Mahlon v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

28 Cr. L. J. 72 :

99 I. C. 104 : 8 P. L. T. 79 :

A. I. R. 1927 Pat. 130.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

A criminal charge of theft depends not on the question of title but on the question of intention. Consequently, an acquittal of a charge under S. 379 will be proper on a finding that the accused believed the stolen property to be theirs. Ramchander Rai v. Ram Bidas Tewari.

34 Cr. L. J. 407 :

142 I. C. 624 : 14 P. L. T. 71 :

I. R. 1933 Pat. 161 (1) :

A. I. R. 1933 Pat. 179 (1).

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

A person may be guilty of theft even if he be asserting a right to property which he believes to be a valid right, if in the assertion of such right he does something which he knows he has no right to do. Jiandaishah v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 366 :

142 I. C. 584 : I. R. 1933 Sind 106 :

A. I. R. 1933 Sind 90.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Conviction for theft, whether legal.

Seizure and removal of a thing in the assertion of a bona fide claim of right will not make the person liable for an offence of theft under S. 379, Penal Code, as the seizure and removal though proved to be illegal, cannot be said to be dishonest. Zeba v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 949 :

105 I. C. 661 : A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 404.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Dispute as to right—Act whether amounts to theft.

Where there is a dispute between a landlord and his tenant about the right to trees standing on the holding, and the landlord determines to exercise his right and cut trees from the holding, the person cutting the trees on behalf of the landlord under a bona fide claim of right cannot be convicted of theft under S. 379, Penal Code. Madhusudan Das v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 546 :

81 I. C. 34 : A. I. R. 1922 Pat. 12.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Removal of standing crops raised by another—Bona fide claim of title to land, whether valid defence.

It may be safely laid down as a general proposition though not as a universal rule that in cases where the alleged theft consists in the removal of crops grown on land, the most vital question to be investigated is as to which of the parties had grown the crops, and a decision on this point will, in the majority of cases, enable the Court to come to a definite conclusion, as to whether the claim of the accused is made in good faith or is a mere pretence. A person who removes crops from land which is in the possession of another, knowing that the crops have been raised by the latter, cannot escape liability for theft by merely proving that he has a bona fide claim of title to the land upon which the crops were grown. Abdul v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

30 Cr. L. J. 511:

115 I. C. 684 : 10 P. L. T. 57 :

I. R. 1929 Pat. 236 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 86.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

The accused, as tenants of one person, had grown crops on certain land, which was taken possession of by another person under a Civil Court decree. The accused asked the latter to let them continue as his tenants, but he refused and sent his own men to reap the crops. The accused thereupon took away the crops. It appeared probable that the accused took away the crops under the impression that the decree referred to the land and not to the crops: Held, that the accused not having acted dishonestly, were not guilty of theft. Sit Pein v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 809 :

81 I. C. 345 : 2 Bur. L. J. 160 :

A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 72.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

The Criminal Court should not convict of theft any person who asserts a claim of right unless it is in a position to say that claim is a mere pretence. A person cannot be said to act dishonestly, that is, with an intention of causing gain to himself or his master or wrongful loss to another when he takes movable property which he believes to belong to himself or his master. In short, if the person taking any movable property does it under a bona fide claim of right, then he cannot be found guilty of the offence of theft unless the claim is a mere pretence. The Advocate-General, Orissa v. Bhikhari Charan Mahanti.

41 Cr. L. J. 509 :

187 I. C. 825 : 6 B. R. 550 :

12 R. P. 655 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 588.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

The removal of property under a bona fide assertion of right does not constitute theft, even though the claim be one which is not valid in law. Where such a claim is raised, the Court has no right to convict unless upon the whole of the evidence, it comes to the conclusion that the claim set up is not a genuine one. Ismail v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1023 :

96 I. C. 879 : 2 Lah. Cas. 341 :

27 P. L. R. 635 : A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 683.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Theft—Jurisdiction—Removal of property under belief of title—Offence.

If a claim of title to property is honestly made and is not merely colourable, the jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts is ousted and a man who honestly believes that he is taking away property from his own land, cannot and ought not to be convicted of theft. Sadasiv Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

18 Cr. L. J. 507 :
39 I. C. 475 : 1 P. L. W. 155 : 1918 Pat. 47 :
A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 40.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Minor's property held by others—Guardian's duty.

A removal of property in the assertion of bona fide claim of right, though unfounded in law and fact, does not constitute theft. But a mere colourable pretence to obtain or keep possession of property does not avail as a defence. Though it is the duty of a guardian of a minor's property to get into his own hands all the property of the minor, it is not his duty to take forcible possession of it but to resort to the Law Courts if it is held against him by others. Tukaram v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 349 :
77 I. C. 237 : A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 311.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Theft.

One who asserts a claim should not be convicted of theft, unless the Court is in a position to say that the claim is a mere pretence. Dhirendra Mohan v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 248 :
5 I. C. 794 : 14 C. W. N. 408.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Theft, removal of property in assertion of bona fide claim of right, whether constitutes.

Where property is removed in the assertion of a bona fide claim of right, the removal does not constitute theft. Lakanaw v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 355 :
38 I. C. 739 : U. B. R. 1916, II 124 :
10 Bur. L. T. 167 : A. I. R. 1917 U. Bur. 2.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Theft—Removal of trees to establish or create evidence of title—Defence of bona fide claim of right.

The proprietor of a jungle, in whose name the jungle was recorded, issued a proclamation forbidding villagers from cutting trees from the jungle. The *raiya*s announced their intention of cutting and set up a right to do so, and on a concerted plan, started cutting operations on a large scale. The petitioners who were the leaders of the *raiya*s were charged with theft; Held, that the petitioners did not, under the circumstances, cut the trees in exercise of a bona fide claim of right, and were guilty of theft. Jaigi Uraon v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 1100 :
119 I. C. 887 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 615 :
A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 502.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim—Theft, what constitutes.

A certain kind of long grass growing in a village tank used to be divided among the proprietors. One of the latter sold his land to accused. The latter asserted his right to a share in the grass but his vendor and the other proprietors denied this right.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

When the grass was being cut, accused removed a portion of it, and it was not found that the portion removed was in excess of the share claimed by him: Held, that the removal being under a bona fide claim, the accused could not be held to have been guilty of theft. Srinivasulu Reddiar v. Govinda Goundan. 24 Cr. L. J. 254 :
71 I. C. 798 : 17 L. W. 104 : 44 M. L. J. 138 :
1923 M. W. N. 182 : 32 M. L. T. 153 :
A. I. R. 1923 Mad. 239.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

When the petitioner cut and took away some bamboos from a piece of land which he claimed as his, and the Government claimed as theirs: Held, that the act of the petitioner was not dishonest if he bona fide believed that the land was his even though, in fact, it was not his. If Government officers take summary possession of a man's land otherwise than under the Land Acquisition Act or other legal authority, his rights are no more affected by such illegal action than they would be by the illegal seizure of his land by a private person. In such a case, the Revenue Officers are mere trespassers, and there is nothing dishonest in the owner retaking possession of his property. Algarasawmi Tevan v. Emperor.

2 Cr. L. J. 754 :
I. L. R. 28 Mad. 304.

———S. 379—Bona fide claim.

Where it is found that the accused had no bona fide claim of right but it is not found that they did not bona fide believe that they had such a bona fide claim, the accused cannot be held to be guilty of theft. Mali Lal De v. Emperor. 37 Cr. L. J. 1 :
159 I. C. 36 : 8 R. C. 256 :
A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 675.

———S. 379—Conviction, illegality of—Carrying away of crops of a tamarind tree—Absence of finding as to possession of tree—Right to crops also not determined—Proof of sale of tree to the accused—Dishonesty cannot be imputed to the accused.

Where the accused was convicted of having dishonestly carried away the produce of a tamarind tree which the accused contended was sold to him: Held, that the conviction was bad in the absence of a finding upon either of the questions, whether the accused was or was not the owner of the produce, or whether the complainant had or had not a right to possession of the tree. Ohinna Garala v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 484 :
7 I. C. 416 : 8 M. L. T. 119.

———S. 379—Conviction—Maintainability—Attachment of property without warrant—Property removed by owner—Offence, whether committed.

Accused having failed to repay a takawi advance, his property was attached, but the attaching officer had not with him, at the time of the attachment, a warrant of attachment, the property was subsequently ordered to be sold when it was discovered that the accused had removed it, he accordingly was placed on his trial and convicted under S. 379, Penal Code: Held, that as the attaching officer had not with him a warrant of attachment at the time he attached the property, there was no valid attachment, and consequently, the conviction of the accused could not be sustained. Molai v. Emperor. 22 Cr. L. J. 107 : 59 I. C. 411 : 2 U. P. L. R. All. 335.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 379—Dishonest intention, absence of—Theft.

Accused who was an "illiterate low caste cultivator" applied for Letters of Administration with the Will annexed to the estate of a deceased person who had made a registered Will in favour of the accused. Before Letters of Administration were granted but at a time when he had no suspicion that a caveat was likely to be entered, he removed a certain safe which was in the possession of the widow of the deceased, but which had been bequeathed to the accused under the Will. Subsequently, the widow entered a caveat, and charged the accused with the theft of the safe: Held, that the conduct of the accused did not disclose the presence of a guilty intention on the part of the accused and that, therefore, he could not be convicted of theft. Dulal Bachar v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 652 : 85 I. C. 940 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 241.

————S. 379—Dishonest intention, absence of—Theft.

Before an accused can be found to be guilty of the offence of theft, it must be found that he dishonestly took some property out of the possession of another person. Where a tenant, believing that a legal distraint had been made by his landlord of the crops of his holding which had been previously attached in execution of a decree against him, cut and removed the crops: Held, that the tenant was not guilty of theft inasmuch as he could not be said to have dishonestly taken the property out of the possession of any other person. Emperor v. Ram Dayal. 16 Cr. L. J. 812 : 31 I. C. 828 : 13 A. L. J. 1058 : 38 All. 40 : A. I. R. 1915 All. 418.

————S. 379—Dishonest intention, absence of—Theft—Wrongful gain or loss.

In order to constitute theft, there must be dishonesty. Certain articles belonging to the accused were attached and secured in his own shop, but possession was transferred to the decree-holder under a bond in Form No. 15-A, Appendix E to O. XLI, r. 3 of the C. P. C. The accused preferred a claim to the articles which was allowed. The accused thereupon took forcible possession of the articles in the absence of decree-holder: Held, that the act of the accused did not amount to theft inasmuch as there was no intention to cause wrongful loss to the complainant or wrongful gain to the accused. In re : Lakshminarayana Chettiar. 24 Cr. L. J. 414 : 72 I. C. 526 : 42 M. L. J. 490 : 16 L. W. 15 : A. I. R. 1922 Mad. 405.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

————S. 379—Dishonest intention.

In order to constitute "theft" the factor of dishonest intention must be present. Intention is the gist of the offence of theft. Bhurasing v. Emperor. 36 Cr. L. J. 1310 : 158 I. C. 282 : 29 S. L. R. 121 : A. I. R. 1935 Sind 115.

————S. 379—Dishonest intention—Person allowed to remove certain number of beams, removing more—Conviction for theft is proper—Cartman engaged by him—No proof of conspiracy—Conviction, if proper.

Where a man is trusted by another to go to a place where some of his property is stored, and help himself to a given quantity of material and the other taking advantage of the confidence thus reposed in him takes away something in addition as well, it is more than a merely technical offence. There is an abuse of confidence, and the intention with respect to the property removed in excess is obviously dishonest and a conviction for theft is proper. Ganpat Rao v. Emperor. 38 Cr. L. J. 440 : 167 I. C. 722 : 19 N. L. J. 187 : 9 R. N. 205.

————S. 379—Dishonest intention—Theft—Acts done under bona fide claim of right, when culpable.

The dictum that a person who takes property in the assertion of a bona fide claim of right, cannot be convicted of theft is true only in this sense that where the accused has a claim of right which he believes to be good and has attempted to assert that right by doing an act in good faith, then the person is innocent of theft. It does not mean that the accused cannot be convicted of theft where, knowing that his claim is disputed and that his proper course is to have recourse to the Courts of Law, he removes the property from the possession of his opponent. In such cases, the act would be dishonest and the accused would be guilty of theft. Rangaswami v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 603 : 109 I. C. 683 : 6 Rang. 54 : I. L. T. 40 Rang. 54 : A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 113.

————S. 379—Dishonest intention—Theft—Taking passenger's umbrella to compel him to pay fare.

The accused was in the employ of a steamer company and it was his business to see the tickets of the passengers. The complainant, a passenger, had not got a ticket, and therefore, the accused took possession of his umbrella as security that the complainant might be compelled to pay his fare: Held, that the accused cannot be convicted of theft as he did not intend either to get any wrongful gain to himself by compelling payment of the fare or to cause any wrongful loss to the complainant who was bound to pay his fare. Matabbar Saekh v. Emperor. 11 Cr. L. J. 444 : 7 I. C. 257 : 14 C. W. N. 936.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 379—Dishonest intention—Theft—Trivial charge.

Dishonest intention cannot be assumed where the charge is of theft of clods of earth worth 6 pies from a public channel-bed belonging to Government, unless it is shown that the accused knew that the public officers in charge of the bed had notified that the removal of earth would injure the pecuniary or other interests of Government or from the clandestine nature of the act, such knowledge could be inferred. Public Prosecutor v. Tsandra Ramaswami. 18 Cr. L. J. 632 :

39 I. C. 1000 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 540.

———S. 379—Duty of prosecution—Dishonest intention—Burden of proof—Assertion of bona fide claim of right.

When a person is prosecuted for the offence of theft, it is for the prosecution to show that he was acting dishonestly. If the circumstances show that he was acting in the assertion of a bona fide claim of right, a dishonest intention cannot be attributed to him. Lunidoma v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 715 :

30 I. C. 1003 : 9 S. L. R. 75 :
A. I. R. 1915 Sind 25.

———S. 379—Essential of—Debtor giving property to creditor—Subsequent knowledge—Debt time-barred.

An essential ingredient of theft is the taking of the property out of the owner's possession and without the owner's consent. Hence, where a debtor gave certain property to his creditor, and subsequently found that the debt was time-barred: Held, that the charge of theft could not be sustained against the creditor, inasmuch as there was a full and unqualified consent on the part of the debtor at the time of his giving away the property. Mst. Piari Dulaiya v. Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 803 :
1 A. L. J. 508.

———S. 379—Intention—Theft—Snatching goods from a person—No intention of depriving the owner of property permanently—"Wrongful gain"—"Wrongful loss."

Under the Indian Law, theft may be committed even where there is no intention to deprive the owner of the property permanently. The accused snatched some books from a boy as he was coming out of school and told the boy that he would return the books if he came to his house. It was found that the object of the accused was to get the boy into his house and commit an unnatural offence upon him: Held, that the accused committed the offence of theft under S. 379, Penal Code. There was "wrongful gain" to the accused and "wrongful loss" to the school boy within the definition of those terms in the Code. Naushe Ali v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 580 :

12 I. C. 844 : 8 A. L. J. 1037 : 34 All. 89.

———S. 379—Joint ownership.

Accused purchasing share in land and structures jointly owned by co-sharers in execution of decree against one of them—Accused utilizing material of old huts and building new huts on same land—No offence under S. 379 or S. 447. Nityananda Poddar v. Rupai Bepari. 37 Cr. L. J. 747 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

162 I. C. 660 : 8 R. C. 632 (2) :
A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 261.

———S. 379—Master and servant.

A servant may well be in a stronger position than his master, because a servant might, in certain circumstances, honestly believe that his master was the owner of certain property, whereas the master might well know that he was not. A servant should not be held guilty of the offence of theft when what he did was at his master's bidding, unless it should have been shown that he participated in his master's knowledge of the dishonest nature of the acts. Advocate-General, Orissa v. Bhikhari Charan Mohanti. 41 Cr. L. J. 509 :

187 I. C. 825 : 6 B. R. 550 :
12 R. P. 655 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 588.

———S. 379—Master and servant—Servant removing property to enforce payment of wages, whether offence.

Where a servant to whom wages are due from his master remove, removable property belonging to his master out of the control of the master and refuses to give it up until his wages are paid, he is guilty of theft. Mata Prasad v. Jokhu. 28 Cr. L. J. 531 :

102 I. C. 339 : A. I. R. 1927 All. 470,

———S. 379—Master and servant—Theft—Claim of title—Bona fides.

One must be careful to see that the criminal Law is not put in motion with a view to assist in the prosecution of a civil claim. A criminal Court should not convict of theft a person who arrests a claim of right unless the claim is a mere pretence. A servant is not guilty of the offence of theft when he acts at his master's bidding, unless it can be shown that he participated in his master's knowledge of dishonesty. There must be some evidence from which such knowledge on the part of the servant can be inferred. Hari Bhumali v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 836 :
9 C. W. N. 974.

———S. 379—Master and servant—Theft—Servant assisting master in removing goods, guilt of.

Where a servant knowing perfectly well that his master is removing the goods of another without even a pretence of right, assists him in doing so, he acts dishonestly and is equally guilty along with his master of the offence of theft. Barhamdeorai v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1559 :
90 I. C. 439 : 7 P. L. T. 272 :
A. I. R. 1926 Pat. 36.

———S. 379—Miscellaneous.

Conviction on charge of theft from a plot in a patti—Acquittal in appeal merely on ground of absence of evidence to show that the plot is in the particular patti—Error of law is committed—Acquittal, should be set aside.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Kesho Prasad v. Nandji Singh.

35 Cr. L. J. 537 :
147 I. C. 1017 : 6 R. P. 386 (2) :
A. I. R. 1934 Pat. 302.

———S. 379—Miscellaneous.

Gang of persons going to land of another with intention of removing paddy by force—Some of them committing theft—All held responsible for both violence and theft. Emperor v. Basa Meah.

37 Cr. L. J. 416 :
161 I. C. 90 : 8 R. Rang. 451 :
A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 70.

———S. 379—Movable property.

So long as the person owns movable properties, his property-mark which has been or may be impressed upon them remains his, though any particular article out of it may, after such impression, pass out of his hands and cease to be his. The term “movable property” in S. 379, Penal Code, is intended by the Legislature to include a class or category of properties falling under one ownership, not merely the parts of it which may pass from the hands of the owner into other hands. The class is stable, though the unit is ambulatory. The term is intended to include collective class nouns, i. e., nouns that express a number of objects of the same class collected together. The function of a property-mark to denote certain ownership is not destroyed or exhausted merely because any particular property on which it was impressed has ceased at any moment to be of that ownership. Emperor v. Dayabhai Chakasha.

1 Cr. L. J. 581 :
6 Bom. L. R. 512.

———S. 379—Offence under, if made out—Theft.

Where the cattle belonged to and were throughout in the possession of the owners, but they had been taken to the pound not by the persons whose crop had been damaged but by one who did not have any connection with the crop, said to have been damaged, and the owners of the cattle came to the pound and drove away the cattle to their home, and were subsequently convicted under S. 379, Penal Code: Held, the seizure by the person who had no connection with the affair was itself not legal, and it certainly conferred no right of possession either on himself or on persons whose crop had been damaged. The persons who removed the cattle from the pound were the owners who were in possession, and there could be no theft by an owner of goods belonging to him from his possession. Chitti-boyina v. Danduboyina Narappa.

40 Cr. L. J. 908 :
184 I. C. 280 : 1939 M. W. N. 470 :
12 R. M. 430 : A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 775.

———S. 379—Offence under—Land attached under S. 88, Cr. P. C.—Person removing crop from it is guilty under S. 379.

Where land is attached under S. 88, Cr. P. C. and actual possession is taken by posting a constable on the spot, a person removing standing crop from such land is guilty under S. 379, I. P. C. Emperor v. Bande Ali Sheikh.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

41 Cr. L. J. 396 :
187 I. C. 125 : I. L. R. 1939, 2 Cal. 429 :
12 R. C. 549 : A. I. R. 1940 Cal. 163.

———S. 379—Offence under—Order to remove crop—Offence.

Where a crop was dishonestly cut and removed by the order of the accused, he himself being present. Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 379, Penal Code. Bhavant Sahu v. Prem Mashi Christian.

19 Cr. L. J. 116 :
43 I. C. 404 : A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 145.

———S. 379—Offence under—Property under attachment, removal of—Claim of right.

Accused forcibly took away a buffalo which was under attachment but which was claimed by him as his own: Held, that the accused could not be said to have acted under a bona fide claim of right because he must have known that whatever his rights may be, he had no right to forcibly remove the animal so long as it was under attachment and that, therefore, the accused was guilty of theft. Lal Behari v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 905 :
86 I. C. 969 : 2 O. W. N. 202 :
12 O. L. J. 159 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 464.

———S. 379—Offence under—Receiver in insolvency—Property, removal of, from possession—Bona fide claim, offence.

A person who removes from the possession of a Receiver in insolvency property attached by the latter even though he does it under assertion of a bona fide claim of title, is guilty of an offence under S. 379, Penal Code. Kamla-pat v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 860 :
95 I. C. 940 : 24 A. L. J. 364 :
48 All. 368 : A. I. R. 1926 All. 382.

———S. 379—Possession.

Delivery of symbolical possession is only effective against the judgment-debtor. It is of no effect as against a third person, and his possession is not disturbed or affected in the least by delivery of such possession to a purchaser at a Court sale. By the delivery of symbolical possession, he is not dispossessed at all, and unless dispossessed physically, no proceedings under O. XXI, r. 100, C. P. C., would be maintainable at his instance. Banka Nath v. Abdul Kadir.

37 Cr. L. J. 1098 :
165 I. C. 154 (2) : 39 C. W. N. 1306 :
9 R. C. 349.

———S. 379—Possession—Loss of property—Theft of, if can take place.

Where bullocks follow a cow and disappear and are not found on search by the owner, the owner must be held to have lost possession of the animals and no theft of them can take place. Nga Shwe Zan v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 300 :
38 I. C. 332 : 10 Bur. L. T. 261 :
A. I. R. 1917 L. Bur. 15.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 379—Possession—Theft—Landlord and tenant jointly cultivating crop—Removal by landlord.

Where a landlord cut and removed the crops cultivated jointly by himself and non-occupancy tenant: Held, that the landlord could not be convicted of theft as he must be deemed to have been in possession of the property. Phul Singh v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 3 : 18 I. C. 146 : 10 A. L. J. 527.

———S. 379—Possession—Theft of crops—Land, actual possession of, by complainant necessary—Order directing complainant to be put in possession, whether sufficient.

An accused was convicted for having stolen crops growing on a certain land alleged to be the property of the complainant. In a previous case between the parties concerning the same land, an order directing that the complainant be put in possession of the land was passed but it was never executed: Held, that before conviction, it must be found who was actually in possession of the land on the date of the offence and that because there was that order in the previous case, it could not be presumed as a matter of law that the complainant continued to be in possession and sowed the crops. In re: Kota Appadu. 17 Cr. L. J. 81 : 32 I. C. 673 : A. I. R. 1917 Mad. 898.

———S. 379—Possession, what is—Theft—Distrain of chattels, how effected—Removal of attached goods—Bombay Land Revenue Code, S. 154.

A seizure for distraint of chattels may be either actual or constructive. It is not necessary that the goods must actually be touched or handled. Physical contact is not necessary to complete physical possession, and possession depends upon the physical possibility of the possessor dealing with the thing exclusively. Accused having made default in the payment of land revenue, the Mamlatdar proceeded to their house and under S. 154, Bombay Land Revenue Code, made panchnama declaring their buffaloes to be under attachment. Subsequently the accused removed the buffalo: Held, that the Mamlatdar must be deemed to have been in possession of the buffaloes and that their removal constituted the offence of theft. Emperor v. Lallu Waghji. 20 Cr. L. J. 391 : 50 I. C. 999 : 21 Bom. L. R. 251 : 43 Bom. 550 : A. I. R. 1919 Bom. 39.

———S. 379—Procedure—Theft of grass—Dispute as to ownership of land.

A conviction for theft of grass under S. 379, Penal Code, cannot stand where there is a dispute between the complainant and the accused as to the ownership of the land on which the grass grew and the Court has failed to find definitely from what spot the grass was cut and whether the spot belonged to the complainant. In case of doubt, the complainant should be left to resort to the Civil Court. Shib Das v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 659 : 21 I. C. 899 : 40 P. W. R. 1913 Cr. : 335 P. L. R. 1913.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 379—Proof—Theft of cash—Stolen money found secreted and separated from other cash—Its evidentiary value.

Where the accused being the only inmate of the complainant's compartment was found to have secreted and separated exactly the lost amount in his trouser pocket: Held, it was a strong circumstantial evidence showing the guilt of the accused. The Public Prosecutor v. Saddayan. 7 Cr. L. J. 218 : 2 M. L. T. 498.

———S. 379—Right of occupancy raiyats—Occupancy raiyat seizing by force fish captured by trespasser from his holding—No offence—Fisheries.

Prima facie, the raiyat of an occupancy holding has a right to the fish that may come on his land when it is flooded, and he does not commit an offence by seizing the fish by force from a trespasser who has captured them from the water covering his land provided he does not exercise undue violence. Ramji Rai v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 4 : 127 I. C. 565 : 12 P. L. T. 286 : I. R. 1930 Pat. 709 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 508.

———S. 379—Scope of—Sale of trees by Chairman.

The Municipal Board passed a resolution authorising its Chairman to sell certain trees. The trees were sold by auction and were purchased by the accused. Before the sale was confirmed by the Board, the accused being apprehensive that the Board may be moved to rescind the sale, commenced to cut down and remove the trees: Held, that the accused not having been notified at the time of the auction that the sale was subject to confirmation by the Board, could not be presumed to have known that he had no title to the trees till such confirmation, and that therefore, could not be said to have been guilty of theft in cutting down and removing the trees. Faruq Hussain v. Emperor. 27 Cr. L. J. 1313 : 98 I. C. 385.

———S. 379—Scope of.

The accused were charged with having committed theft of fish from a tank. It was found that they had been in possession of the plot and of the tank for several years and had been selling fish to various persons. It was also in the evidence that this tank was connected with river and that the fish and water came from the river to this tank and vice versa: Held, that the fish were ferae naturae and not in "the possession of the complainant." Where fish would get into or out of a private fishery, taking away fish from such a fishery did not constitute theft. The present case was still stronger inasmuch as the land in which the tank was situated was in tenancy and possession of the accused. Jokhan Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 22 : 178 I. C. 256 : 1938 O. W. N. 1096 : 11 R. O. 99 : 1938 O. L. R. 477 : 14 Luck. 322 : A. I. R. 1939 Oudh 14.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 379—Scope of—Theft—Catching fish in poromboke tank in assertion of bona fide right—Offence.

Catching fish in a poromboke tank in the assertion of a bona fide right does not amount to the offence of theft. Vailhi Matharan v. Narayanaswami Iyer. 27 Cr. L. J. 343 (a) : 92 I. C. 855 : 22 L. W. 673 : A. I. R. 1926 Mad. 210.

———S. 379—Scope of—Theft—Identity of stolen property.

From the mere fact that a common article of clothing similar in pattern and texture to one lost by the complainant is found in the possession of the accused it cannot be presumed that the article was stolen by the accused. Maung E Gyi v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 618 : 81 I. C. 106 : 1 Rang. 520 : A. I. R. 1924 Rang. 91.

———S. 379—Scope of—Theft—Irrigation tank—Removal of fish—Facts of each case to be looked into.

Whether the removal of fish from an irrigation tank amounts to theft depends upon the facts of each case. When the water is so low that the fish could not escape, the removal may be theft. In re : Subbiah Serrai.

13 Cr. L. J. 38 : 13 I. C. 278 : 11 M. L. T. 23 : 1912 M. W. N. 42 : 22 M. L. J. 184.

———S. 379—Sentence—Cattle theft.

Offences of cattle theft are particularly mean and despicable offences in a community where so much depends upon cattle. They are inspired by no other motive than the ordinary motive of gain which, in many other cases, prompts a thief to steal, and it must be made plain to young men who steal cattle that if they are not going to prison, they will have at least to pay a heavy fine. The fine must be such as to make it clear that cattle-lifting is not profitable. Emperor v. Mirol Ghulam Hussain.

41 Cr. L. J. 187 : 185 I. C. 428 : 1940 Kar. 88 : 12 R. S. 168 : A. I. R. 1939 Sind 339.

———S. 379—Sentence—Deliberate thefts of motor wheels—Plea of being first offender—Substantive punishment, if called for—Criminal trial—First offender.

In the case of three deliberate thefts of motor wheels, the mere fact that thief is a first offender is not a sufficient reason for imposing a sentence of fine only, especially when his crime, if undetected, might well have caused considerable financial profit to him. In such a case, a substantive term of imprisonment should be imposed. Emperor v. Faqir Mohammad.

37 Cr. L. J. 1024 : 164 I. C. 822 : 9 R. Pesh. 25 : A. I. R. 1936 Pesh. 170.

———S. 379—Sentence—Theft from Railway train—Accused previously convicted of theft and bound over for good behaviour—Deterrent sentence.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

When a Magistrate is satisfied that an accused had committed the offence of theft from a Railway train, the sentence should be of a deterrent nature, especially where the accused had already been convicted of theft and had been repeatedly bound over for good behaviour. Emperor v. Ananda Lawman Babaji.

13 Cr. L. J. 531 : 15 I. C. 803 : 5 S. L. R. 265.

———S. 379—Sentence—Theft of articles worth Rs. 30—Fine of Rs. 100 should be reduced.

Where no conspiracy between the cartman engaged by the person removing the goods and such person is established, no dishonest intention can be imputed to the cartman who would be entitled to an acquittal: Held, that where the property removed in excess was only worth Rs. 15, a fine of Rs. 100 was very heavy and should be reduced. Ganpal Rao v. Emperor.

38 Cr. L. J. 440 : 167 I. C. 722 : 19 N. L. J. 187 : 9 R. N. 205.

———S. 379—Subject of theft—Fish in enclosed tank—Sluice closed—Inability to escape.

Where the sluice of a private enclosed tank remains closed, and the fish in it cannot escape, such fish are in possession of the owner of the tank and are liable to become the subject of theft. Manchu Paidugadu v. Kadim-selhi Tammayya.

15 Cr. L. J. 77 : 22 I. C. 429 : 1914 M. W. N. 63 : A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 453.

———S. 379—Subject of theft—Palk's Bay—Gulf of Mannar—Property in Chank-beds.

Palk's Bay being an arm of the sea landlocked by his Majesty's Dominions and the islands in it also forming part of his territories, is not to be regarded as an open sea outside the territorial jurisdiction of His Majesty, but is an integral part of His Majesty's Dominions. The Raja of Rumnad has the monopoly of taking chanks in Palk's Bay, and he or the person claiming under him must, in law, be regarded as being in possession of the chank-bed propter impotentiam. A person taking chanks out of the chank-bed in the possession of the Raja removes movable property out of the possession of the Raja and will be guilty of theft under S. 379, Penal Code. Annakumar Pillai v. Muthupayal.

1 Cr. L. J. 809 : 14 M. L. J. 248 : I. L. R. 27 Mad. 551.

———S. 379—Subject of theft—Res nullius—Abandonment.

A currency note cancelled by Currency Officer by tearing off certain significant parts as a step towards its destruction by the further process of cutting it into pieces and then burning it, is not a res nullius, though in itself it has no value, and can form the subject of theft. Moti v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 189 : 83 I. C. 893 : 17 S. L. R. 260 : A. I. R. 1925 Sind 21.

———S. 379—Theft—Crops grown by trespasser—Trespasser ejected by owner—Crops cut and taken away by landlord of trespasser—Offence.

Complainant obtained a decree of ejectment against a trespasser and got into actual possession of the land. The trespasser had grown paddy on the land and when the crop was ready, the accused, acting on behalf of the trespasser, cut and removed the paddy : Held, that after the complainant had obtained actual possession of the land, the trespasser or his representatives had no right to enter upon the land and to remove the paddy, and that, therefore, the accused were guilty of theft. Abinash Ohandra Sarkar v. Atul Krishna Bose.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

20 Cr. L. J. 38 :
48 I. C. 678 : 28 C. L. J. 120 :
23 C. W. N. 385 : A. I. R. 1919 Cal. 588.

—S. 379—Theft—Crops sown in another's field—Removal by latter.

A person who cuts and takes away crops sown by another, is guilty of theft. The fact that the crops in question stood upon fields in the cultivatory possession of the person removing them and were sown there without any right is of no consequence. Muhammad Ata v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 402 :
67 I. C. 498 : 19 A. L. J. 961 :
A. I. R. 1921 All. 158 (1).

—S. 379—Theft—Decision of claim to property necessary before conviction—Charge.

Where a person alleges his right to a property, he cannot be convicted of theft for removing it unless it has been found as a matter of fact that he is not entitled to it. Harendra Narayan Das v. Ramjan Khan.

15 Cr. L. J. 298 :
23 I. C. 506 : 18 C. W. N. 397 :
41 Cal. 433 : A. I. R. 1914 Cal. 476.

—S. 379—Theft, essence of—Possession of accused, effect of.

An offence under S. 379, Penal Code, is an offence against possession, and a person cannot, therefore, be convicted of stealing something of which he was already in possession. Shaikh Garib Haji v. Muchiram Sahu.

27 Cr. L. J. 133 :
91 I. C. 805 : 30 C. W. N. 359 :
A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 1020.

—S. 379—Theft—Tenant's right to cut standing crop—Ejection—Tenant not paid price of crop.

A tenant was ejected from his holding under the provisions of the Agra Tenancy Act. Formal possession was delivered to the zemindar, but as he failed to tender the price of the standing crops, the tenant cut and removed them : Held, that the tenant was not guilty of theft. Jodha Singh v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 298 :
14 I. C. 762 : 11 A. L. J. 270.

—S. 379—Theft, what amounts to—Bona fide belief of legal right.

The essence of the offence of theft is the dishonest taking of movable property out of the possession of some person. In the absence of dishonest intention, a charge of theft cannot be sustained. Where a person removes property under a mistaken notion of law that the property is his and that he is entitled to retain it, he cannot be held to have committed theft of the property. Hamid Ali Bepari v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 80 :
91 I. C. 256 : 52 Cal. 1015 :
A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 149.

—S. 379—Theft, what amounts to—Creditor taking goods of debtor to compel payment of debt, whether commits theft.

A creditor by taking any movable property of his debtor from the debtor's possession without his consent with the intention of coercing him to pay his debt, commits the offence of theft as defined in S. 378, Penal Code. Emperor v. Ganpat Krishnaji Parit.

31 Cr. L. J. 975 :
125 I. C. 911 : 32 Bom. L. R. 351 :
A. I. R. 1930 Bom. 167.

—S. 379—Theft, what amounts to—Crops sown and cut down by accused—Cr. P. C., S. 145.

Where an order under S. 145, Cr. P. C., was made in favour of the complainant, but as a matter of fact the crops had been sown by the accused : Held, that the crops being the property of the accused, the cutting down of these crops by them could not constitute the offence of theft. Sarju v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 75 :
32 I. C. 667 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 314.

—S. 379—Theft, what amounts to—Mortgagee in possession of trees under terms of deed without having right to cut and appropriate them, cutting and appropriating them—If commits theft.

Where a mortgagee who is in possession of trees under the terms of mortgage-deed without having right to cut and appropriate them, cuts and appropriates the trees, he does not commit theft. Tarachand Sah v. Emperor.

41 Cr. L. J. 795 :
189 I. C. 737 : 6 B. R. 854 :
13 R. P. 138 : A. I. R. 1940 Pat. 701.

—S. 379—Theft, what amounts to—Removal of crops by tenant—No delivery to the landlord—Landlord's seal—Possession—Actual delivery essential.

The removal by a tenant of the heaps of grain, in his possession and control, does not amount to theft, unless there was actual delivery to the landlord of his share of the grain, although the landlord may have put a seal on the heaps. In re : Annamalai Oddayar.

15 Cr. L. J. 186 :
22 I. C. 762 : 1914 M. W. N. 106 :
1 L. W. 178 : A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 286.

—S. 379—Theft, what constitutes—Bona fide claim of right, how far a defence.

Where property is removed in the assertion of a bona fide claim of right, the removal does not constitute theft. But the claim of right must be an honest one, though it may be unfounded in law or in fact. If the claim is not made in good faith, but is a mere colourable pretence to obtain or keep possession, it avails not as a defence. Whether the claim is honest must be decided by the Court from all the circumstances of the case and it should not convict unless it is in a position to say that the claim is a mere pretence. Suraj Ali v. Arfan Ali.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

17 Cr. L. J. 456 :
36 I. C. 136 : 20 C. W. N. 1270 :
A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 648.

S. 379—Theft, what constitutes.

It may be the intention of the owner of a movable property to destroy it, yet as long as the destruction or abandonment is not fulfilled, and as long as it is still in the hand of the owner to countermand such destruction or abandonment, the property is still the property of the owner, and the taking it out of his possession is theft, and improper use of it is breach of trust. Moti v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 189 :
83 I. C. 893 : 17 S. L. R. 260 :
A. I. R. 1925 Sind 21.

S. 379—Theft, what constitutes—Removal under bona fide claim of right is not theft.

To constitute an offence under S. 379, Penal Code, the determining factor is the intention of the taker and where articles have been removed in the bona fide exercise of a right of ownership which is believed to exist, the act does not amount to theft. The Criminal Court should not be used as a lever to harass an inconvenient adversary. Madan Lal v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 1222 :
127 I. C. 528 : 1930 A. L. J. 457 :
I. R. 1930 All. 928.

S. 379—Wrongful loss—Theft—Tenant removing trees belonging to landlord—Custom set up by tenant—Burden of proof.

The accused, tenants of a village, removed certain trees which had been uprooted in a duststorm. The trees were the property of the zemindar, and the accused admitted having removed them, but alleged that under a custom in the village, they had the right to do so, and produced certain extracts from the wajib-ul-arz in support of their allegation. The Court held that the removal of the trees amounted to the offence of theft, and convicted the accused accordingly : Held, that the extracts from the wajib-ul-arz did not evidence a custom authorising the removal of fallen trees by tenants without the consent of the landlord, as the removal caused loss to the landlord, which was wrongful to him and caused wrongful gain to the accused, the case fell within illustration (a) of S. 378, Penal Code, and the conviction was justified. Dunyapat v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 710 :
52 I. C. 790 : 17 A. L. J. 974 :
1 U. P. L. R. All. 133 : 42 All. 53 :
A. I. R. 1919 All. 90.

S. 379—Removal of calf without consent of owner to prevent its being sacrificed, whether theft.

The Hindus of a locality apprehended that A, a Muhammadan who owned a calf was going to sacrifice that calf. An agreement was come to by which A consented that the calf might be tied up in B's house, which was close by.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

C, a Hindu, who arrived on the scene subsequently carried away the calf without the consent of A or B, to prevent all chances of its being sacrificed. C was convicted of theft : Held, (1) that the calf, though it was tied up in B's house was still in the possession of A when C removed it ; (2) C's removal of the calf was 'dishonest,' though his motive was only to save it from being killed ; (3) that the act of C, therefore, amounted to theft and the conviction was not illegal. Jagannath Misra v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 546 :
115 I. C. 895 : I. R. 1929 Pat. 271 :
10 P. L. T. 483 : A. I. R. 1929 Pat. 429.

Ss. 379, 392—Evidence—Accused previously acquitted of dacoity—Evidence of association with dacoits, admissibility of—Evidence of bad character, admissibility of.

Once a man has been acquitted on a charge of dacoity, it is not open in a subsequent criminal prosecution to prove that he actually committed that offence. But even if a person has been acquitted on a charge of dacoity, it is open to the Crown in a subsequent case to prove that he was seen in the neighbourhood of the place of dacoity in order to prove his habit and association with dacoits. Under S. 54, Evidence Act, in criminal proceedings evidence of bad character is inadmissible unless evidence has been given that he has a good character. But this section does not apply to cases where the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue and evidence of bad character is admissible to prove a relevant fact, e. g., habit and association of the accused which cannot be proved aliunde. Lale v. Emperor.

30 Cr. L. J. 922 :
118 I. C. 423 : 6 O. W. N. 441 :
I. R. 1929 Oudh 439 : A. I. R. 1929 Oudh 321.

Ss. 379 and 403—Dishonest intention, absence of, proof of—Theft—Criminal misappropriation—Finding property in crowded place and retaining it for a short time, no proof of dishonest intention—Previous conviction.

Where a person in a crowded gathering picks up from the floor of a temple a purse containing articles of appreciable value, places it in his waist cloth, has not taken action to discover its owner and is arrested a short while after by the Police, is neither guilty of theft under S. 379, I. P. C., in the absence of any clear proof to that effect, nor of criminal misappropriation under S. 403, I. P. C., as these circumstances alone cannot establish that the person intended to appropriate or convert the property to his own use. When determining whether a person has committed an offence, his previous convictions should altogether be out of consideration and he should be supposed of unblemished character. Phuman v. Emperor.

8 Cr. L. J. 250 :
3 P. W. R. Cr. 72 : 11 P. R. Cr. 1908.

Ss. 379, 403—Intention—Theft—Criminal misappropriation.

The accused, finding the complainant's pony at large which had broken loose from its tether to which it had been tied the previous night, mounted it and took a ride on it returning home on the following day in the evening : Held, that he had not committed the offence of theft, to constitute which there must be an intention on the part of the person who takes a thing to steal it, and that he might have been proceeded against under S. 408 instead of S. 379, Penal Code. Rup Lal Singh v. Durga Prasad Dubey. 18 Cr. L. J. 564 : 39 I. C. 804 : 1 P. L. W. 416 : A. I. R. 1917 Pat. 459.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 379, 403, 424—Miscellaneous—Trees in possession of tenants—Landlord jointly entitled—Removal by tenant—Theft—Conviction for theft, whether can be converted into one under S. 403 or S. 424.

Removal of trees by a tenant when in his actual possession does not amount to theft even if his landlord is jointly interested in them. Where the necessary ingredients for an offence under S. 403 or 424 have not been considered in trial under S. 379, it is prejudicial to the accused to convert his conviction under S. 379, to one under S. 403 or S. 424. Thoppulan v. Sankaranarayana Iyer. 15 Cr. L. J. 440 : 24 I. C. 176 : 1914 M. W. N. 483 : A. I. R. 1914 Mad. 61.

———Ss. 379, 405—Theft or criminal breach of trust—Land with standing paddy entrusted to accused—Cutting of paddy by accused—What offence.

Certain land on which was standing a crop of paddy was entrusted to the accused to take care of and watch until the paddy was ripe, when they were to give notice to the complainant who would cut it. When the paddy was ripe, the accused themselves cut the crops and disposed of the same : Held, that the accused were guilty of either criminal breach of trust or theft. Durga Tewari v. Emperor. 10 Cr. L. J. 253 : 3 I. C. 189 : 36 Cal. 758.

———Ss. 379, 406—Theft or misappropriation—Property in possession of shahna—Appropriation of property by judgment-debtor.

In execution of a decree against the applicant, his movable property was attached and placed in the custody of one Khemraj. Khemraj died. The applicant took his property and appropriated it to his own use : Held, that the applicant was guilty not of misappropriation under S. 406 but of theft under S. 379, Penal Code. Chunnoo v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 374 : 11 I. C. 142 : 8 A. L. J. 656.

———Ss. 379, 409, 417, 420, 511—Distinction between offences under—Theft, criminal breach of trust, criminal misappropriation and cheating.

The distinction between theft, criminal breach of trust, criminal misappropriation and cheating is that in theft, the original taking is without honesty and without the consent of the owner, and in criminal breach of trust, it is with both. In obtaining property by cheating, the taking is dishonest but with the consent of the owner. and in criminal misappropriation, it is honest but without the consent of the owner. Narsinghdas Marwari v. Emperor. 29 Cr. L. J. 86 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

106 I. C. 678 : A. I. R. 1928 Nag. 113.

———Ss. 379, 411—Evidence—Theft—Receiving stolen property—Accused pointing out place of concealment.

The mere pointing out by an accused person of the place where stolen property is concealed, which place is not in his possession, is not of itself sufficient evidence to maintain a conviction for theft, or for dishonestly receiving stolen property. Indar Singh v. Emperor. 24 Cr. L. J. 587 :

73 I. C. 331 : 5 L. L. J. 87 : A. I. R. 1921 Lah. 385.

———Ss. 379, 411—Inference of guilt, legality of—Theft—Receipt of stolen property—Property found at a place in the possession of several persons.

When stolen property is found at a place in the possession of several persons, the mere giving of information to the Police that it would be found there, is not conclusive of the guilt of the informer, as it is consistent with his not being the thief or the guilty receiver of it. Hakiman v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 230 : 6 P. L. R. 196 : 20 P. R. 1905 Cr.

———Ss. 379, 411—Possession—Presumption of guilty knowledge—Property belonging to two different owners—Evidence Act, S. 114, illus. (a).

The possession after recent theft raises ordinarily a presumption either that the person in possession is the thief or had dishonestly received the property knowing it to be stolen. The possession of the property stolen from two different owners is a circumstance which, under S. 114, illus. (a), Evidence Act, must be borne in mind in estimating the probability of guilty knowledge in the accused. Emperor v. Hari Ramji. 5 Cr. L. J. 63 : 9 Bom. L. R. 27.

———Ss. 379, 411—Presumption—Theft—Receiving stolen property—Possession of stolen property—Conviction for theft.

As to which of the two presumptions should be drawn in any particular case, whether of theft or of receipt of stolen property, would depend on the circumstances, the length of time that has elapsed after the theft, how much of the stolen property is found in possession of the person in question, the circumstances which led to the discovery, and other facts connected with the discovery of the property. It is not necessary to raise a presumption in favour of the possessor of the stolen property being the receiver, that there should be evidence that he knew it to be stolen. In re : Gorle Kandungadu. 13 Cr. L. J. 140 : 13 I. C. 828 : 1912 M. W. N. 97.

———Ss. 379, 411, 380, 454—Sentence—Procedure.

The mere fact that an accused person points out the place in which the stolen property is concealed, does not give rise to any presumption under S. 114, Evidence Act, or justify his conviction for the offence of receiving stolen property, still less for the offence of theft. Theft and house-breaking are offences for which separate punishments can be given. If the accused is convicted under S. 379, theft, or S. 380, theft in a building, he may, in a proper case, be released on probation of good conduct. If he is convicted of house-breaking with intent to commit theft, a sentence of imprisonment is obligatory. When, therefore, the accused is convicted under both these sections and the Magistrate considers that it is not desirable to inflict a substantial sentence of imprisonment, his proper course is to direct the accused to execute a bond under S. 562 (1) for the offence of the theft and to sentence him to imprisonment until the rising of the Court for the offence of house-breaking. Emperor v. Yeshaba Sakhoba Patil.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

40 Cr. L. J. 48 :

178 I. C. 330 : 40 Bom. L. R. 927 :

11 R. B. 155 : A. I. R. 1938 Bom. 463.

———Ss. 379, 426—Legality of conviction under S. 426—Charge under S. 379.

Where the accused were tried under S. 379, Penal Code, in respect of the cutting and removal of some unripe kalai, but were convicted under S. 426, Penal Code : Held, that the conviction under S. 426, Penal Code, was not illegal as the accused were not in any way prejudiced. Kalachand Ghose v. Tatu (Tahir) Shaik.

31 Cr. L. J. 474 :

123 I. C. 243 : 50 C. L. J. 285 :

A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 773.

———Ss. 379, 429—Enhancement of sentence, illegality of—Appeal against two convictions—Setting aside of the conviction on confirming the sentences in both.

Where in an appeal against two sentences, the Appellate Court set aside the conviction in one but confirmed the sentences in both as being not severe : Held, that the Appellate Court's order was illegal as it amounted to an enhancement of the sentence. Emperor v. Varadan.

11 Cr. L. J. 483 (a) :

7 I. C. 415 : 8 M. L. T. 117.

———Ss. 379, 429—Theft—Subsequent killing—Double conviction, whether legal—Assisting in skinning carcass, whether offence.

Where theft of an animal has been committed, the mere killing of it afterwards by the person who stole it for the purpose of eating it himself, cannot add another offence. A person assisting others in skinning an animal stolen and killed by them, is not guilty either under S. 379 or under S. 429, Penal Code. Husain Buksh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 277 :

84 I. C. 341 : 3 Pat. 804 :

A. I. R. 1925 Pat. 34.

———Ss. 379, 429—Theft or mischief—Theft of animal—Subsequent destruction—Separate convictions for theft and mischief, whether legal.

A person cannot be convicted separately under Ss. 379 and 429, Penal Code, for stealing an animal and afterwards killing it. The wrongful loss to complainant is complete with the theft and the subsequent destruction of the animal, though it may benefit the offender, does not amount to mischief. Jairo v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

17 Cr. L. J. 239 :

34 I. C. 655 : 9 S. L. R. 204 :

A. I. R. 1916 Sind 77.

———Ss. 379, 442, 457, 511—Attempt to commit theft—Trespass in cattle enclosure—'Building,' meaning of.

The mere surrounding of an open space of ground by a wall or a fence of any kind cannot be deemed to convert the open space into a "building" within the meaning of S. 442, Penal Code, and a person entering such an enclosure with intent to commit theft of cattle cannot be convicted under S. 457 of the Code. But he is guilty of an offence under Ss. 379/511, as the attempt to commit theft may be said to have begun when he entered the enclosure. Kohmi v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 1 :

26 I. C. 305 : 24 P. R. 1914 Cr. :

208 P. L. R. 1915 : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 584.

———Ss. 379, 447—Dishonest intention, absence of.

Where certain persons, purchasing a share in the land and structures jointly owned by some co-sharers, in execution of a decree against one of them, took out possession through Court and utilized some of the old materials of huts belonging to the co-sharers which had been blown away and built a hut on the same land : Held, that they were not guilty under S. 379, Penal Code, there being no dishonesty on their part or any wrongful loss to other co-sharers. Nor could they be convicted under S. 447 as being part owners of the land. They entered upon it for the purpose of exercising their rights of ownership. Nityananda Poddar v. Rupai Bepari.

37 Cr. L. J. 747 :

162 I. C. 660 : 8 R. C. 632 (2) :

A. I. R. 1936 Cal. 261.

———Ss. 379, 447, 511—Inference of intention, validity of—Trespass—Attempt.

Accused was caught at night in the vicinity of some cattle which were tethered on complainant's land and near which complainant and his brother were sleeping : Held, that it could reasonably be inferred that accused intended to commit theft and he was, therefore, guilty of the offence of criminal trespass, but that he could not be held guilty of an attempt to commit theft. Nauranga v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 248 :

71 I. C. 792 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 223.

———Ss. 379, 511—Intention—Attempt, meaning of—Entry into cattle enclosure—Theft, prevented by owner of cattle—Attempt to commit theft.

When a man does an intentional act with a view to attain a certain end and fails in his object through circumstances independent of his own will, then he has attempted to effect the object at which he aimed. Accused entered a thorned enclosure at the well of the complainant and was about to enter a smaller enclosure in which complainant's cattle were tethered when he was interrupted by the complainant : Held, that the intention of the accused was to steal the cattle and that he could not carry out his intention on account of the intervention of the complainant and that, therefore, the accused was guilty of the offence of attempting to commit theft. Jaimal v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 1424 :
89 I. C. 848 : 1 Lah. Cases 331 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 147.

———S. 380.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 35, 106, 236, 303, 412.

(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 23, 378, 380, 441, 447, 454.

(iii) Whipping Act, 1900, S. 3.

———S. 380—Dealing with property after theft, if offence.

The accused restored to the owners jewellery, which, there was some ground for suspecting, had been stolen by his son. The accused was sent for trial as he would not explain from whom he got the property so returned. The Magistrate's finding was that the motive of the accused was to save his son from being punished and that his conduct in returning the property and then denying it with this object amounted to 'assisting the act done by his son.' The accused was convicted under S. 414/380, Penal Code: Held, that the accused had committed no offence. Dealing with the stolen property after the theft was committed, would not amount either to theft or to abetment of theft. Nga Yan E v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 493 :
7 I. C. 465 : U. B. R. 1910 Cr. P. C. 8.

———S. 380—Dishonest removal—Theft—Offence.

Accused entered into an agreement with the complainant that the latter should advance him money up to a certain sum on the hypothecation of goods to be deposited by him as security. The goods were deposited in a godown, and under the agreement, accused was entitled to take advance up to 70 per cent of the value of the goods. Some time afterwards the accused removed some of the hypothecated goods from the godown: Held, that under the agreement all goods placed in the godown were hypothecated to the complainant: that the removal of the goods not having been proved to be honest, the accused was guilty of theft. Kartikeswar Roy v. Bansidhar Byas.

25 Cr. L. J. 222 :
76 I. C. 654 : A. I. R. 1923 Cal 594.

———S. 380—Inference of guilt, if justified—Knowledge of place of concealment of goods stolen, whether justifies inference of guilt.

The mere fact that a person points out a place not his own nor within his control but accessible to the public in general as the place where stolen goods are concealed, does not justify an inference of guilt of theft or house-breaking in the absence of any direct evidence to establish the complicity of the person. Public Prosecutor v. Pakkiriswami.

31 Cr. L. J. 449 :
122 I. C. 648 : 57 M. L. J. 548 :
1929 M. W. N. 785 : 30 L. W. 791 :
A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 846.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 380—Offence of theft under, when constituted.

The owner of a kettle gave it to a workman for repairing it within 6 or 7 days for Rs. 6. After 11 or 12 days when the owner demanded return of the kettle, the workman said that he had not completed repairs but that he would return the kettle if he was paid Rs. 5 for the part of the work he had already done. The owner refused to pay the amount, took away the kettle from the almirah and walked out of the shop: Held, (1) that S. 170 of the Contract Act had no application to the case and that the workman had no lien over the kettle; (2) that even if the owner acted improperly in demanding and taking back the kettle, he was not guilty of an offence under S. 380, Penal Code, as his object was not to cause wrongful loss to the workman or wrongful gain to himself but to recover his kettle after the lapse of reasonable time. Judah v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1505 :
90 I. C. 289 : 29 C. W. N. 1011 :
53 Cal. 174 : A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 464.

———S. 380—Offence under — Creditor removing debtor's goods to enforce payment of debt—Theft.

A creditor, who by force takes the goods of his debtor out of his possession against his will in order to compel him to discharge his debt, is guilty of theft within the meaning of S. 380, Penal Code. Bakhtawar v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 650 :
81 I. C. 138 : 1 Lah. Cases 56 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 131.

———S. 380—Possession—Recent possession of stolen property—Possession of stolen article on the person of accused's sister 12 days after theft—Accused and his sister occupying same house—Property traced to accused's possession.

Where stolen property was found in the neck of accused's sister 12 days after the theft, and accused and his sister were living in the same house and the Jury found accused guilty of being in possession of stolen property: Held, that possession was rightly traced to the accused and that the High Court could not interfere with the Jury's verdict. In re : Lal Singh.

12 Cr. L. J. 48 :
9 I. C. 288 : 9 M. L. T. 291.

———S. 380—Sentence of whipping—First offender—Young boy.

A young man may be given a fresh start in life and should not, unless it is imperatively necessary, be sent to prison, but that because a young man has well-to-do parents or because no particular reason can be assigned for his breach of the law, is no reason why he should escape punishment altogether. Maung Sein Hlaing v. The King.

39 Cr. L. J. 478 :
174 I. C. 842 : 10 R. Rang. 436 :
A. I. R. 1938 Rang. 112.

———S. 380—Theft—Constituents of.

In order to constitute the offence of theft, the prosecution must establish (a) that there was dishonest intention to take property, (b) that the property was movable property, (c) that it was taken out of the possession of another, (d) that it was taken without the consent of that other, and (e) that there was removal of the property in order to accomplish the taking of it. Ajodhya Nath Parbi v. Emperor. 21 Cr. L. J. 208 : 54 I. C. 992 : A. I. R. 1920 Pat. 582.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

S. 380—Theft from Railway godown.

The accused went to a Railway godown with a carter. The latter removed a bag from the godown and the accused accompanied the carter to his house and there took delivery of the bag. The bag consisted of pilferings from a number of bags consigned to different persons: Held, that the bag being in the possession of the Railway as bailee until it left the ground, the actually taking it out of the godown was theft and that the accused and the cartman were jointly guilty of theft. Soukhi Chand v. Emperor. 19 Cr. L. J. 884 : 47 I. C. 80 : 3 P. L. J. 354 : A. I. R. 1918 Pat. 314.

S. 380—Theft in house—Personation—Former and subsequent conduct.

Accused, a Charan, became a guest of the complainant, passing himself as a Kathi, a high casteman. After a few days he disappeared, and, shortly afterwards, the box lying in the room where he stayed, was found broken into, and its contents rifled. The complainant told this only to his friends, one of whom, after several months, happened to see the accused in a foreign country, where a complaint was lodged, but no stolen property found: Held, that to establish the guilt there was: (1) his previous conduct in passing himself off as another, and thereby obtaining a footing in the complainant's house; (2) the lying of the box in his room, and (3) his disappearance just before the theft was found, without giving any explanation of his conduct: Held, also that the plea of no stolen property having been found in his possession, was of no avail, he having had several months to dispose of it. Pingalsht Mansur v. Emperor. 2 Cr. L. J. 306.

S. 380—Theft, what amounts to—Materials of a house taken away dishonestly—Ownership and possession of immovable property.

If the materials of a house are taken away dishonestly, the act is theft even though the house is left uncared for. Ownership and possession of immovable property are not so easily separated as ownership and possession of movable property. Emperor v. Nawlara Singh. 1 Cr. L. J. 558 : 4 B. R. 1904 : 1st Qr. P. C. 7 : 10 Bur. L. R. 356.

Ss. 380, 109—Sentence—Sentence of whipping for offence under—Legality of—Criminal trial—Sentence—Double sentences of whipping, if legal—'Concurrent' sentences, significance of.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

The sentence of whipping passed for the offence under S. 380, read with S. 100, Penal Code, is not legal. Double sentences of whipping are illegal, and the position is no better if they are ordered to run concurrently because sentences of whipping cannot run concurrently. The word "concurrent" properly applies only to sentences of imprisonment. If it were applied to sentences of whipping, the literal meaning would be that the prisoner was to be flogged by two operators simultaneously. Emperor v. Veerappa. 38 Cr. L. J. 1013 : 171 I. C. 71 : 10 R. Rang. 127 : A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 310.

Ss. 380, 201, 511—Attempt to cause disappearance of document—Theft.

The accused brought a civil suit in the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Monghyr on the basis of a forged promissory note. The file of the case was sent for and kept in the Court of the Additional Munsif of Jaunpur being required in connection with a suit pending in the Court, and it somehow found its way to the house of an official of the Court. The accused got into the inner verandah of the house and removed the forged promissory note from the file. From that place, on being pursued, they tore it to pieces: Held, that they were guilty of an offence under S. 380, Penal Code: Held, further, that they were also guilty under S. 201/511, Penal Code. Sheonandan v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 791 : 31 I. C. 647 : A. I. R. 1915 All. 385.

Ss. 380, 411—Removal of Chaukidar's Birth Register for producing in Court, if offence.

The removal of a Chaukidar's Birth Register from his possession without his consent for producing it in Court to prove the date of birth of a certain person, does not amount to an offence either under S. 411 or any other section of the I. P. C. Chima v. Emperor. 15 Cr. L. J. 522 : 24 I. C. 834 : 37 P. L. R. 1914 Cr. : 19 P. W. R. 1914 Cr. : A. I. R. 1914 Lah. 174.

Ss. 380 and 457—Jurisdiction—Property seized outside jurisdiction of Mysore Courts—Burden of proof.

When property alleged to be stolen is seized in a place beyond the jurisdiction of the Mysore Courts the burden of proving that it was received within the jurisdiction lies on the prosecution. In the absence of such proof, the Court has no jurisdiction to try the case. Thimmareddy v. Government of Mysore. 9 Cr. L. J. 334 : 12 M. C. C. R. 96.

Ss. 380, 457—Separate sentences—Separate consecutive sentences, legality of.

Separate consecutive sentence under Ss. 457 and 380, Penal Code, cannot be passed. Khalir Jama Khan v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 492 : 123 I. C. 393 : A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 385.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 380, 463, 466, 467, 474—Removal of documents from judicial records—Offence—Theft—Forgery—Falsification—Fabrication of false evidence.

Accused while inspecting a judicial record, removed a certain document from the record with the intention of substituting another document in its place with a view to weaken a criminal charge brought against him. Before, however, the substitution was effected the clerk in charge of the record detected the action of the accused and stopped him from effecting the substitution: Held, (1) that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 380, Penal Code; (2) that the document which the accused had attempted to substitute in place of the one removed by him, having been made without any of the intents mentioned in S. 463, Penal Code, he could not be convicted of forgery; (3) that the document attempted to be substituted by the accused not being a document of the description mentioned in S. 466 or S. 467, Penal Code, the accused could not be convicted of an offence under S. 474 of the Code; (4) that the accused was guilty of attempting to fabricate false evidence but he could not be convicted of that offence inasmuch as it had been committed in relation to a proceeding in Court and no complaint in respect of such an offence had been made by the Court as required by S. 195, Cr. P. C. Radha Kishan v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 847 :
86 I. C. 671 : 7 L. L. J. 118 :
26 P. L. R. 95 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 327.

—S. 381.

See also Calcutta Police Act, 1860,
S. 54-A.

—S. 381—Aggravation of offence.

A servant accused of an offence under S. 381 aggravates his offence by making imputations on the chastity of the complainant's wife. Emperor v. Brij Lal. 14 Cr. L. J. 113 :
18 I. C. 673 : 13 P. L. R. 1913 :
27 P. W. R. 1913 Cr.

—S. 381—Bona fide claim—Theft by servant—Removal in assertion of bona fide claim of right—Offence.

Removal of property from the possession of another in the assertion of a bona fide claim of right, though unfounded in law and fact, does not constitute theft, but a mere colourable pretence to obtain or keep possession of property does not avail as a defence. Accused who was an employee in a press, removed certain type from the press, which he alleged belonged to him, on the ground that his employers had failed to carry out an agreement to take the accused into partnership or to purchase the type. It was not proved that the type belonged to the press: Held, that the accused was not guilty of theft inasmuch as he had removed the type in the assertion of the bona fide claim of right. Harnam Singh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 697 :
81 I. C. 185 : 5 Lah. 56 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 453.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 381—Clerk or servant, what is—Unpaid apprentice.

An unpaid apprentice is a "clerk or servant" within the terms of S. 381, Penal Code. Sohan Lal v. Emperor. 3 Cr. L. J. 70 :
6 P. L. R. 556 : 50 P. R. 1905 Cr.

—S. 381—Evidence—Evidence Act, Ss. 11, 32—Ownership of alleged stolen property—Witness stating what a deceased person had said to him—Admissibility of such statement.

A witness's statement as to what a deceased person had said to him regarding the ownership of the property alleged to be stolen, is not admissible in evidence either under S. 11, or under S. 32, Evidence Act. In the absence of evidence as to the ownership of stolen property, a conviction under S. 381, Penal Code, cannot stand. In re : Dorasami Aiyar, 16 Cr. L. J. 640 :
30 I. C. 464 : A. I. R. 1916 Mad. 1103.

—Ss. 381, 34, 193, 466—Dishonest intention—Removing official file from proper custody—Theft—Abetment—Destruction and mutilation of documents.

A correspondence file belonging to Government was in the custody of a Mamlatdar who handed it over for safe custody to a clerk. The latter kept the file at his house, but while he was away, accused No. 1, karkun in the Mamlatdar's office, obtained the key of the house from the person with whom it had been left, and removed the file. Accused No. 1 then accompanied accused Nos. 2 and 3, who were interested in the property to which the file related, to the house of their Pleader who had been retained to prepare an appeal, and for that purpose, wanted to inspect the file. Accused No. 1 handed over the file to accused Nos. 2 and 3 at the Pleader's house and himself went away. He returned in the evening and having obtained the file from accused Nos. 2 and 3 replaced it in the house of the clerk. It was subsequently discovered that during the interval that the file had been in the possession of accused Nos. 2 and 3, one document had been abstracted and some others had been mutilated. The file contained documents of which accused Nos. 2 and 3 were not entitled to have inspection: Held, (1) that accused No. 1 having removed the file from the possession of the clerk who had the custody of it on behalf of the Mamlatdar, without the consent of the Mamlatdar with intent to cause wrongful gain to accused Nos. 2 and 3, he was guilty of an offence under S. 381, Penal Code, (2) that accused Nos. 2 and 3 were guilty of an offence under Ss. 381-109 of the Penal Code. Vallabhram Ganpatram v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 689 :
94 I. C. 881 : 27 Bom. L. R. 1391 :
A. I. R. 1926 Bom. 122.

—S. 382.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 323, 390.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 382—Applicability of—No proof of any preparation on part of accused to commit any act mentioned in section—Mere possession of dagger, if enough justification for conviction under S. 382.

The accused entered the betel plantation with intention to commit theft and was surprised there by the owner and the latter's wife. The accused had with him a dagger of the kind used for cutting palm stems by toddy extractors. The owner of the plantation was a man of 65. The accused inflicted no injury with the dagger and although thus armed, was actually over-powered and tied up by the old gentleman and his wife: Held, that S. 382, Penal Code, had no application in this case. The mere possession of a dagger did not justify a conviction under this section, in the absence of any proof of any preparation to cause any of the acts mentioned in the section. Nga Shwe Bra v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 277 (b) :
173 I. C. 144 : 10 R. Rang. 313 :
A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 542.

———S. 382—Miscellaneous.

The charges of criminal breach of trust and extortion, in respect of the same moneys, are incompatible. Consequently a conviction both for criminal breach of trust and extortion is not proper when they are in respect of the same moneys. Shamu Mal v. R. A. Gordon.

37 Cr. L. J. 457 :
161 I. C. 295 : 8 R. S. 135 :
A. I. R. 1936 Sind 29.

———S. 382, 378, 379—Proof—Knife or other weapon which, if used on human being, might cause death or hurt—Possession by thief at the time of committing theft of.

The possession by a thief at the time of his committing a theft of a knife or other weapon, which, if used on a human being, might cause death or hurt, would not of itself justify a conviction under S. 382, Penal Code. There must be something to show or from which it may properly be inferred that the offender made preparation for causing one or more of the results mentioned in the section. Nga Shan v. Crown.

1 Cr. L. J. 378 :
10 Bur. L. R. 87.

———S. 383.

See also Penal Code, 1860 Ss. 54, 220, 420.

———S. 383—Demand of heavy fee—Nikah khawan, whether bound to perform Nikah—Demand of the heavy fee, whether an offence.

A nikah khawan is not bound to read a nikah for a person unless he chooses to do so, and it is no offence for him to demand any fee he likes for doing so. Nizam Din v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 958 :
75 I. C. 542 : 4 Lah. 179 :
A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 162.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 383—Extortion, essentials of—Injury, meaning of—Promise to recommend—Promise to return property.

Before a person can be said to put another person into fear of an injury for the purpose of S. 383, Penal Code, it must appear that he has held out some threat to do or to omit to do what he is legally bound to do in the future. On the other hand, if all that a man does is to promise to do a thing which he is not legally bound to do and says if money is not paid to him he would not do that thing, he cannot be said to have committed the offence of extortion. If a person promises to speak favourably to a person in authority and to do his best to induce him to do something, and in consideration of this promise, receives money, he cannot be said to have threatened to cause injury to the person who gives the money and thereby committed extortion. Habibul Razzaq v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 961 :
81 I. C. 609 : 21 A. L. J. 850 :
46 All. 81 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 197.

———S. 383—Extortion, what amounts to—Picketing shops and realising fines—Offence.

The realisation of fines by means of picketing for the purpose of preventing the sale of foreign cloth, is extortion within the meaning of S. 383, Penal Code. Local Government v. Hanmant Rao.

25 Cr. L. J. 60 :
75 I. C. 764 : A. I. R. 1924 Nag. 19.

———Ss. 383, 192—Non-compoundable offences—Offences under, if private disputes.

Charges of extortion and fabricating false evidence are not private disputes as neither of these offences is compoundable. Virumal Manghanmal v. Muhammad Khan.

37 Cr. L. J. 1086 :
164 I. C. 1020 : 30 S. L. R. 217 :
9 R. S. 85 : A. I. R. 1936 Sind 146.

———S. 384.

See also Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 120-B, 220, 423 (1) (b).

———S. 384—Extortion—Dishonest intention.

Where the accused forcibly removed certain property from the possession of the complainant, claiming that the same belonged to himself, and placed it in trust with a shopkeeper, and it appeared that there was some evidence to show that the property did in fact belong to the accused: Held, that it was clear that the accused had no dishonest intention in removing the property, and no offence under S. 384, Penal Code, was established against him. Ujagar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 794 :
86 I. C. 426 : 26 P. L. R. 97 :
7 L. L. J. 121.

———S. 384—Fear of injury—What amounts to.

The terror of a criminal charge, whether true or false, amounts to a fear of injury, and though to threaten to use the process of law is lawful, to do so for the purpose of enforcing payment of money not legally due is unlawful, and such a threat made with such an object, is a threat of injury sufficient to constitute the offence of extortion. Emperor v. Nga Kan Tha.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

14 Cr. L. J. 413 :
20 I. C. 237 : 6 Bur. L. T. 82.

———S. 384—Irregularity, effect of—Extortion—Charge, accurate statement of, necessity of—Cr. P. C., Ss. 22, 222, 223.

Where an offence charged involves consequences which may be stated in a general form, such as may arise in a case of arson where a man may by one act of arson set fire and destroy several stacks of several persons, no particular is required, the nature of the offence being sufficiently stated by the date, time and place of the setting of fire; but extortion or obtaining money from persons by unlawful means involves stating with some approach to accuracy the approximate amounts alleged to have been obtained from each person and the nature of the extortion used against each person. It is not sufficient to say that at the close of the evidence the accused knows what is alleged against him. Such an irregularity is fatal to the trial. Ram Chandar Sahai v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 411 :
35 I. C. 971 : A. I. R. 1916 All. 60.

———Ss. 384, 379—Conviction for extortion, legality of—Charge for theft.

Accused cannot be convicted for an offence of extortion on a charge of theft. Amanullah v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 597 :
16 I. C. 165.

———Ss. 384, 385—Picketing of shop, if offence—Levy of fine—Loss in trade and profits—Offence.

Where a person causes loss in trade and profits to a trade by picketing his shop and forces him to pay a fine for persisting in the sale of foreign goods, he is guilty of extortion and may be convicted under Ss. 384 or 385, Penal Code. Picketing is not only harmless but even laudable where certain number of well-intentioned and law-abiding persons wish to argue in a legitimate and peaceful manner with a man pointing out to him that in his own advantage he should not follow a certain course, and the fear of it, would not be fear of injury within the meaning of the law. But when the word "picketing" is associated with another word "boycotting" and when the boycotting is apt to proceed from ostracism to active annoyance, and when the active annoyance has been known, in many instances, to culminate in bodily injury, a man who is threatened with picketing is put in fear of injury within the meaning of S. 385, Penal Code. Chaturbhuj v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 62 :
71 I. C. 110 : 20 A. L. J. 877 : 45 All. 137 :
A. I. R. 1922 All. 529.

———S. 385.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 239.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 511.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 385—Circumstantial evidence—Dacoity—Pointing out place where stolen property found.

Where the sole evidence against a person charged with an offence under S. 385, Penal Code, consisted of the fact that the accused had pointed out the place where some remains of the stolen property were found: Held, that the above circumstantial evidence was not sufficient to show that the accused had committed the offence, inasmuch as it did not exclude other theories compatible with his innocence. Surat Singh v. Emperor.

15 Cr. L. J. 404 :
23 I. C. 1004 : 1 O. L. J. 74 :
A. I. R. 1914 Oudh 185.

———S. 385—Essentials of.

For the purpose of S. 385, Penal Code, it is necessary that the accused should have put some person in fear of injury in order to extort some property from him. In re : Mantripragadu Mallapalli Narasimha Rao.

19 Cr. L. J. 445 :
44 I. C. 973 : A. I. R. 1919 Mad. 954.

———S. 385—'Illegal', meaning of.

The word 'illegal' in S. 385, Penal Code, has the same meaning as 'unlawful'. Emperor v. Fazlur Rahman.

32 Cr. L. J. 87 :
128 I. C. 141 : 9 Pat. 725 :
I. R. 1931 Pat. 29 : 12 P. L. T. 97 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 593.

———S. 385—Offence under—Legal practitioner threatening to put scandalous questions to witness with intent to extort money—Offence—'Illegal', meaning of.

Where a Mukhtar who appeared on behalf of the accused in a criminal case, threatened a prosecution witness that unless the latter paid him a certain sum of money, he would put questions to the witness and to the ladies of his household, which were entirely irrelevant to the matters at issue and which were scandalous and indecent: Held, that the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 385, Penal Code. Emperor v. Fazlur Rahman.

32 Cr. L. J. 87 :
128 I. C. 141 : 9 Pat. 725 :
I. R. 1931 Pat. 29 : 12 P. L. T. 97 :
A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 593.

———Ss. 385, 507, 508, 511—Offence under—Cheating—Threat of Divine displeasure in case complainant failed to make payment—Payment made—Offence, what is.

Accused sent anonymous letters to the complainant purporting to come from God and directing the complainant to pay certain sums of money to the accused and threatening him with ruin and death if he failed to do so. A reference was also made in the letters to the recent death of the complainant's father as being the result of disobeying similar previous warnings. The complainant sought out the accused and paid the money to him: Held, (1) that the accused was not guilty of any offence under Ss. 385, 507 or 508 of the Penal Code; (2) that if the complainant was deceived by the accused, the accused was guilty of an offence under S. 420 of the Penal Code : (3) that if the complainant was not deceived by the accused, the accused was guilty of an offence of attempting to cheat under Ss. 420-511 of the Penal Code. In re : Doraswami Iyer.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

26 Cr. L. J. 755 :
86 I. C. 339 : 21 L. W. 174 :
48 M. L. J. 190 : 1925 M. W. N. 113 :
48 Mad. 774 : A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 480.

—S. 387—Offence under.

A went up into B's house having a dah in one hand. He called out to B that if B did not give him money, he would cut B and his wife. B and his wife were in an inner room, the door of which was closed against A. A kicked at it and slashed it with his dah but the door did not give way. A then went to the door of another room ; he kicked at it and slashed it but when the door opened, A fell down. Meanwhile B and his wife had fled through the back part of the house. B assembled a number of villagers, but when they approached the house, A fled away. He was, subsequently, found in his father's house in a drowsy condition. A was charged with having attempted to commit robbery armed with a deadly weapon. It was ascertained that A had been drinking toddy before the commission of the offence. His offence was that he was drunk and did not know what he did. He was convicted under S. 308, Penal Code : Held, (1) that A was not so drunk as to be incapable of forming in his mind the dishonest intention necessary to constitute the offence of extortion in case his demands had been acceded to ; (2) that A was guilty of an offence under S. 387, Penal Code ; (3) that at the time A uttered his threat to B and his wife, the latter were inside a room, the door of which was shut against A, who could not get at them, it was doubtful whether the conditions necessary to constitute the offence of an attempt at robbery were fulfilled in the case, and that A should have the benefit of this doubt. Nga Tun Baw v. Emperor. (F. B.)

13 Cr. L. J. 864 :
17 I. C. 800 : 5 Bur. L. T. 193.

—S. 389—Dishonest intent, absence of—Taking fruit from trees standing on joint property—Theft—Assertion of right—Criminal intent—Offence.

Where the petitioners, by the orders of their employer, plucked and took fruit from trees standing on a plot in which their employer was entitled to a share, such fruit having been taken in assertion of the employer's right to share in the proceeds of the plot : Held, that the petitioners could not be convicted for theft, as no criminal dishonesty could be imputed to them. Imam v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 286 :
38 I. C. 318 : A. I. R. 1917 Cal. 98.

—S. 390.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 305.

—S. 390—Robbery—Theft—Causing hurt to effect escape.

A stole some rice from a house. While carrying it away, he was seized by B. He thereupon dropped the rice and then stahhed B with a knife. He was convicted of voluntarily causing hurt in robbery, under S. 394, Penal Code, and appealed to the Chief Court : Held, that as A dropped the rice before stabbing B, he could not have caused the hurt for the purpose of carrying away the rice, and his offence was, therefore, not robbery. The conviction was altered to one of theft after making preparation for causing hurt under S. 382, Penal Code, and of voluntarily causing hurt with a knife under S. 324, Penal Code. Nga Paing v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

7 Cr. L. J. 446 :
4 L. B. R. 147.

—S. 390—Robbery, what constitutes—Robbery—Extortion, when amounts to robbery.

In order to constitute the offence of robbery under S. 390, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the extortion should follow immediately upon the restraint provided there is fear or restraint at the time. Kalluva Rowther v. Suppan Asari.

28 Cr. L. J. 164 :
99 I. C. 596 : 25 L. W. 86 :
A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 307.

—Ss. 390, 381—Robbery and theft—Violence used for escape, whether converts theft into robbery.

The essence of the offence of robbery is that the offender, for the end of committing theft or of carrying away or attempting to carry away property, obtained by theft, commits one or the other of the wrongful acts mentioned in S. 390, Penal Code. Where a thief after abandoning the stolen property uses violence against his pursuers in order to avoid capture, the theft is not thereby converted into robbery. Nga Po Thei v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 27 :
42 I. C. 987 : A. I. R. 1917 L. Bur. 1.

—Ss. 390, 392—Whipping when should be inflicted—Robbery—Sentence of fine only illegal—Imprisonment essential.

Where a charge under S. 393, Penal Code, is proved against an accused person, a sentence of fine only which may or not be accompanied with a sentence of whipping is illegal, as under S. 392 of that Code, a sentence of imprisonment is essential and ought to be imposed. Although in such a case whipping may also be inflicted, yet under the Whipping Act, as amended, a sentence of whipping should be imposed only where there is a certain amount of aggravation in the commission of the original offence; where the degree of injury is extremely slight, the penalty of whipping should not be added to the sentence of imprisonment. Badri Prasad v. Emperor.

23 Cr. L. J. 274 :
66 I. C. 418 : 20 A. L. J. 388 :
4 U. P. L. R. All. 67 : 44 All. 538 :
A. I. R. 1922 All. 245.

—Ss. 390, 396—Sentence—Dacoity—Murder committed during retreat—Offence—Liability of members of gang.

A murder committed by a member of a gang of dacoits while carrying away the stolen property is murder committed in the commission of dacoity within the meaning of S. 396, Penal Code, and all members of the gang are liable to the punishment provided by that section. Lashkar v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

22 Cr. L. J. 687 :
63 I. C. 623 : 2 Lah. 275 :
A. I. R. 1921 Lah. 115.

—Ss. 396, 397—Dacoity, what constitutes—'For that end,' meaning of.

To constitute the offence of dacoity, it is necessary that death or hurt or wrongful restraint or fear of such instant evils should be caused by the offenders not only in order to the committing of theft or in committing theft, or in carrying away property obtained by theft, but also for that end, and that five or more persons should be acting conjointly. The words "for that end" in S. 390, Penal Code, cannot be read as meaning "in those circumstances." Karuppa Gaundan v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 346 :
38 I. C. 730 : A. I. R. 1918 Mad. 821.

—S. 391—Dacoity—Robbery with violence.

Taking the words of S. 391, Penal Code, in the most literal sense and strongly in favour of the Crown, they point to a robbery with violence by five or more persons. In re : Naramban.

24 Cr. L. J. 269 :
71 I. C. 877 : 15 L. W. 552 :
1922 M. W. N. 326 :
A. I. R. 1922 Mad. 195.

—S. 391—Trial by Jury—Duty of Court.

Three known and named persons were charged with dacoity along with two other unknown men. The Jury acquitted one of the three accused and convicted the other two of the offence with which they had been charged: Held, (1) that it was quite open to the Jury, while holding that one of the accused who was supposed to have been known to the witnesses had not been properly identified, to find that the total number of dacoits was five; (2) but that the Judge should have asked the Jury definitely whether they had considered the possible result of the acquittal and whether they still found that the number of robbers was five, since it was possible that if the questions had been put, the remaining two accused would have been found guilty only of robbery and received lighter sentences. In re : Abbas Ali Sahib.

29 Cr. L. J. 5 :
106 I. C. 341 : 55 M. L. J. 732 :
1927 M. W. N. 853 :
I. L. T. 40 Mad. 126 :
A. I. R. 1928 Mad. 144.

—Ss. 391 and 392—Conviction for dacoity, maintainability of—Six persons charged—Three acquitted—Conviction altered into one for robbery.

Where the evidence showed that there were six robbers and three were acquitted, the conviction of the rest under S. 391 was not sustainable and was altered into one for robbery under S. 392. Pidda Enumundugaru v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 249 :
5 I. C. 797 : 1 M. W. N. 52.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 392.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 260.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 94,
302, 366, 376, 379, 392.

—S. 392—Conviction under, legality of—Dacoity alleged to be committed by five persons—Acquittal of two—Conviction of others, legality of.

The case for the prosecution was that a robbery was committed by five persons. The Sessions Judge acquitted two of them, on the ground that there was no evidence to connect them with the commission of the offence: Held, that under the circumstances it could not be held that five persons took part in the commission of the robbery and the remaining accused could not be convicted under S. 395, Penal Code, but only under S. 392. Girdhar v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 547 :
102 I. C. 483 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 519.

—S. 392—Miscellaneous.

Hurt must be proved to be caused in order to the committing of theft or in committing it or in carrying away property. Hurt must be conscious and voluntary act separate and distinct from theft. Karmun v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 297 :
147 I. C. 99 : 35 P. L. R. 186 :
6 R. L. 333 : A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 407.

—S. 392—Scope of.

S. 392 contemplates that the accused should have, from the very start, the intention to deprive the complainant of the property and should, for that purpose, either hurt him or place him under wrongful restraint. Mir Baz v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 894 :
155 I. C. 952 : 7 R. Pesh. 105 :
A. I. R. 1935 Pesh. 49.

—Ss. 392, 395—Approver's testimony, value of.

An approver's testimony is not sufficiently corroborated so as to base a conviction thereon by; (a) the accused's producing stolen property from a place not in his possession, as such an evidence can be easily fabricated. (b) the evidence of the witnesses alleging to have recognized the culprit at the time of committing the crime where his name does not find a place in the first report to the Police made by a person who had ample time before doing so to discuss the matter with them (witnesses). Uda v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 634 :
30 I. C. 458 : 26 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 244.

—Ss. 392, 395—Offence of robbery—Conversion of to one of dacoity, legality of.

An offence of robbery cannot be converted into an offence of dacoity where there is a simple allegation but not adequate proof on behalf of the prosecution that five or more persons have taken part in committing or attempting to commit the crime. Uda v. Emperor.

16 Cr. L. J. 634 :
30 I. C. 458 : 26 P. W. R. 1915 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1915 Lah. 244.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 392, 397—Direction to convict under S. 397—Misdirection to Jury—Absence of evidence that accused caused grievous hurt—Hurt caused by some of the robbers.

Where, on a charge against the accused under Ss. 392 and 397, Penal Code, the Sessions Judge, while pointing out to the Jury that there was no evidence that the accused caused grievous hurt or used deadly weapons, directed them to convict under S. 397, Penal Code, because grievous hurt was caused by some of the robbers, some of whom used knives: Held, it was misdirection to Jury. In re: Arumachella Thevan. 13 Cr. L. J. 42 :

13 I. C. 282 : 11 M. L. T. 20 :
1912 M. W. N. 35 : 22 M. L. J. 186.

———Ss. 392, 397, 398—Sentence—“Uses a deadly weapon”—Carrying dagger for overawing—“Armed with a deadly weapon”—Intention of Legislature to be considered.

The words “uses a deadly weapon” in S. 397, Penal Code, include the carrying of a weapon for the purpose of overawing the person robbed. S. 398 provides a minimum punishment for those who attempt to commit robbery “armed with a deadly weapon” and the Legislature cannot have intended that a criminal should be urged to complete his purpose by the reflection that if he stops short of an attempt, the minimum imprisonment that can be inflicted on him under S. 398 is seven years, while if he completes the offence, he will not come within the provisions of S. 397, but may be sentenced to two or three years’ imprisonment under S. 392. Ngai v. Emperor.

13 Cr. L. J. 267 :
14 I. C. 651 : 5 Bur. L. T. 9 :
6 L. B. R. 41.

———S. 393.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 233.

———S. 394.

See also (i) Penal Code, 1860, S. 323.

(ii) Whipping Act, 1900, S. 4.

———Ss. 394, 397—Identification evidence.

A conviction should not be under S. 397 alone, which merely provides a minimum sentence, but under one of the preceding sections read with S. 397. It is seldom safe to convict on the evidence of a single witness as to identification, when the identification has been made after dark and the witness has at first professed to be unable to identify any one. Tha Hmu v. King-Emperor.

1 Cr. L. J. 475 :
2 L. B. R. 206.

———S. 395.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, Ss. 164, 207.

(ii) Evidence Act, 1872, S. 133.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 147,
140, 325, 392, 395, 400.

———S. 395—Conviction under—Less than five persons, whether can be convicted.

Less than five persons cannot be convicted of dacoity unless it is proved that at least five persons took part in its commission. Ikrumuddin v. Emperor. 18 Cr. L. J. 491 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

39 I. C. 331 : 15 A. L. J. 206 : 39 All. 348 :
A. I. R. 1917 All. 173.

———S. 395—Dacoity—Charge—Particulars of.

To constitute the offence of dacoity, it is necessary to prove that five or more persons joined in a robbery. To justify a conviction for dacoity by the application of Ss. 34 or 140, Penal Code, it is necessary to charge and prove that the unlawful assembly as a whole had the common intention of committing dacoity or that each accused knew that dacoity was likely to be committed in prosecution of the common object of the unlawful assembly. Where the accused were charged with being members of an unlawful assembly, whose common object was to commit mischief and cause hurt, but there was no count in the charge that the common object of the unlawful assembly was to commit dacoity or to cause hurt for the purpose of committing theft, no conviction for dacoity by force of Ss. 34 or 140, Penal Code, can be sustained. In re: P. Kottoora Thevan. 25 Cr. L. J. 396 :

77 I. C. 444 : 19 L. W. 211 :
46 M. L. J. 311 : 1924 M. W. N. 238 :
A. I. R. 1924 Mad. 584.

———S. 395—Dacoity.

No resistance from inmates of house. Consequent absence of use of force or show of force—Offence committed held was dacoity. Ram Chand v. Emperor. 34 Cr. L. J. 448 :

146 I. C. 790 : 1932 A. L. J. 1078 :
55 All. 117 : I. R. 1933 All. 142 (1) :
A. I. R. 1933 All. 114.

———S. 395—Dacoity—Transportation instead of imprisonment—Period of.

Where, therefore, an accused, on conviction for an offence under S. 395, Penal Code, was sentenced to transportation for 15 years, the High Court reduced the sentence to transportation for a term to ten years, that being the period of imprisonment provided for the offence. Ala-ud-Din v. Emperor.

20 Cr. L. J. 561 :
52 I. C. 49 : A. I. R. 1919 All. 327.

———S. 395—Essence of robbery.

The essence of the offence of robbery is the inflicting of hurt in order to the committing of theft. Hurt, independent of theft, does not amount to robbery. Daulat v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 153 :
120 I. C. 721 : A. I. R. 1930 Nag. 97.

———S. 395—Essentials of dacoity.

The essentials of the offence of dacoity are that the theft should be perpetrated by means either of actual violence or of threatened violence. The threatened violence may be implied in the conduct and character of the mob. It is not necessary that the force or menace should be displayed by any overt act. It cannot assist the accused or reduce the gravity of their offence that no actual hurt was caused for the reason that no one dared to resist the overwhelming show of force, which was sufficient to terrify, and, did, in fact, terrify those whose business it was to protect the property. Emperor v. Chaudra.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

8 Cr. L. J. 143 ;
10 Bom. L. R. 632,

—S. 395—Evidence—Dacoity cases—Identification of dacoits.

In dacoity cases evidence adduced as to the identification of dacoits ought not to be accepted too readily, but should be looked at with great caution. Kallu v. Emperor.

18 Cr. L. J. 456 :
39 I. C. 296 : 4 O. L. J. 83 :
A. I. R. 1917 Oudh 118.

—S. 395—Evidence—Dacoity—Proof—Identification of accused—Tracker, evidence of—Benefit of doubt.

The accused were convicted of the offence of dacoity on the statements of the complainants as to their identification and of the trackers as to the identification of their tracks. The dacoits had issued from the roadside jungle, made a sudden attack on the complainants and put dust into their mouths. The night was a dark one and each complainant was separately assaulted and overpowered so that he did not and could not see what the dacoits did with the other. Two trackers were originally mentioned in the chalan, but only one was examined by the prosecution, the other was examined by the defence. Their evidence was found to be extremely suspicious: Held, that though there were suspicious circumstances against the accused, they could not be convicted of the offence charged as the evidence was not shown to be reliable. The Court observed that the tracker examined by the defence must be regarded for all practical purposes as a witness for the prosecution. Jahana v. Emperor.

11 Cr. L. J. 598 :
8 I. C. 239 : 71 P. L. R. 1910.

—S. 395—Identification—Identification doubtful—Accused should be acquitted.

Complainant who said he followed the dacoits on a dark night to Railway station, came to the station later on and accused the appellants on suspicion without being certain that they were the men who had been at his village for dacoity: Held, the identity of the appellants with persons who might have trespassed in complainant's house had not been established beyond the possibility of reasonable doubt and it was not possible to support the conviction. Hazura v. Emperor.

5 L. L. J. 82 :
A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 161.

—S. 395—Jurisdiction.

A Judge who is empowered by the Local Government to try cases under Ss. 121-A, 122, 121 and 396, Penal Code, is not competent to try an offence under S. 395 when no murder is involved. Nga Aung Pa v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 929 :
145 I. C. 251 : 6 R. Rang. 32 :
A. I. R. 1933 Rang. 161.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 395—Miscellaneous—Dacoity committed in Lucknow District—Trial by jury and not by Assessors—Government Notification No. 1692, VI, 545-A-9.

Under Government Notification No. 1692, VI 545-A-9, dated 10th December, 1884, which is in force, no person can be tried on a charge under S. 395, Penal Code, by the Court of Session in Lucknow, when such person has been committed to that Court by a Magistrate exercising jurisdiction in Lucknow District with respect to an offence of dacoity alleged to have been committed in Lucknow District except by a jury. Rama Dhin v. Emperor. 16 Cr. L. J. 169 (a) : 27 I. C. 553 (a) : A. I. R. 1915 Oudh 120 (a).

—S. 395—Offence under—Dacoity, simple and that with deadly weapons—Ordinary plain sticks not deadly weapons.

Where accused caused simple hurt to the complainant in a dacoity probably by sticks, held that they were guilty under S. 395 and not under S. 397, ordinary plain sticks not being deadly weapons. Emperor v. Sukha Dana.

1 Cr. L. J. 901.

—S. 395—Proof—Dacoity—Dacoits, association with, whether evidence of guilt.

Mere association with persons who are afterwards proved to have participated in a dacoity may create suspicion, but is not proof of the fact that the person so associating took part in the dacoity. Salam v. Emperor.

19 Cr. L. J. 79 :
43 I. C. 111 : 14 N. L. R. 192 :
A. I. R. 1917 Nag. 81.

—S. 395—Proof—Dacoity, participation in proof of—Harbouring dacoits—Failure to give information.

Accused admitted that a gang of thirteen persons assembled at his hut at night before a certain dacoity was committed, that he was aware of their purpose, that he did not give any information to the authorities, and that after the dacoity was over, the dacoits, or some of them, once more came to his hut and told him what had happened. He informed the mukhia the next morning and some property proved to have been stolen in the dacoity was found in lathi crop surrounding his hut, which he alleged was thrown away by the dacoits when they left him as he began to raise an alarm: Held, that these facts were not sufficient to prove that the accused actually took part in the dacoity. Umrao Singh v. Emperor,

25 Cr. L. J. 949 :
81 I. C. 597 : 11 O. L. J. 356 :
A. I. R. 1924 Oudh 367.

—S. 395—Scope of.

Detention of produce under bona fide belief of right to do so—Assault—Criminal intention absent—Offence under S. 395 held not established. Nura v. Emperor.

34 Cr. L. J. 1258 :
146 I. C. 295 : 34 P. L. R. 956 :
6 R. L. 204.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 395—Sentence.

Dacoity—Gunners having lightness to spot out persons—Shot fired only on lower part of body—Injury on stomach—Death: Held, there was no intention to kill—Dacoity of the worst description—Deterrent punishment is called for. Pran Krishna Chakravarty v. Emperor. (S. B.) 36 Cr. L. J. 1322 :

158 I. C. 176 : 39 C. W. N. 188 :
8 R. C. 166 : A. I. R. 1935 Cal. 580.

—S. 395—Sentence.

Where the accused was sentenced to transportation for life having committed an offence under S. 395, Penal Code, the Chief Court reduced the term of transportation to ten years, the maximum term allowed under the section. Arura v. Emperor. 1 Cr. L. J. 89 :

5 P. L. L. 41 : 31 P. R. Cr. of 1903.

—S. 395—Sentence of transportation.

A sentence of twelve years' transportation is not legal, and that though under S. 395, Penal Code, a sentence of transportation for life can be given, or, by applying S. 59, a sentence of transportation from seven to ten years can also be given, a term of transportation under S. 395, Penal Code, cannot be given between ten years and life. Nga Shue Sin v. Emperor. 4 Cr. L. J. 385 :

12 Bur. L. R. 237.

—S. 395—Separate offences—Dispute between two communities—Looting of shops.

In consequence of a dispute between the members of two communities, the members of one community raided and looted a large number of shops in the bazar belonging to the other community: Held, that the looting of each shop was a separate offence, and that in respect of each such offence, the Court must come to a finding what the offence amounted to. Dargahi v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1213 :

88 I. C. 733 : 52 Cal. 499 :
A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 831.

—Ss. 395, 396—Dacoity, when begins—Shot fired to keep off rescue party—Dacoity with murder.

A dacoity begins as soon as there is an attempt to commit robbery and a shot fired thereafter in order to keep off a rescue party and to allow the theft to be committed, is an act committed in committing the dacoity within the meaning of S. 396, Penal Code. Sita Ram v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1364 :

89 I. C. 452 : 12 O. L. J. 421 :
2 O. W. N. 550 : A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 723.

—Ss. 395, 396—Dacoity with murder—Number of persons, finding as to, whether necessary—Dacoity with murder—Charge, form of.

An offence under S. 395, Penal Code, can be committed only if the number of persons concerned in the robbery is not less than five. Where murder is committed during the course of a dacoity, it is proper to charge the accused persons with an offence under S. 396 rather than with two offences of murder and dacoity separately. Labh Singh v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 1153 :

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

88 I. C. 513 : 6 Lah. 24 :
A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 337.

—Ss. 395, 396—Sentence.

Murder, committed by dacoits while carrying off the stolen property, is murder committed "in the commission" of dacoity or robbery, as the case may be, and is punishable under S. 306 of the Penal Code. Villi Thevan v. Villi Thevan. 5 Cr. L. J. 201 :

17 M. L. J. 118.

—Ss. 395, 396, 400—Joint trial, impropriety of—Dacoity—Habitual association for purposes of committing dacoity.

Fourteen persons were tried at one trial and convicted of an offence under S. 400, Penal Code, for having formed a gang for the purpose of habitually committing dacoity. Between the 7th March 1908 and 15th December 1909, four serious dacoities were committed at four different places, and in two of these, dacoity was accompanied by murder. The accused, it was alleged by the prosecution and found proved, took part in one or more of these dacoities: Held, that the joint trial of all the accused for the offence under S. 400, Penal Code, though not illegal, was improper. It would have been better to try separately the accused persons for having committed offences under Ss. 396 and 397, in respect of dacoities in which it was alleged they took part. Ghulam Mustafa v. Emperor. 12 Cr. L. J. 260 :

10 I. C. 833 : 68 P. L. R. 1911 :
45 P. W. R. 1911 Cr.

—Ss. 395, 397—Duty of Court—Dacoity with torture—Sentence—Leniency, whether should be shown—Jail identification—Magistrate superintending, evidence of, whether necessary.

A person found guilty of the offence of dacoity with torture, ought not, in the matter of sentence, to be treated with any considerations of leniency. Where a jail identification is held in the presence of a Magistrate, the Magistrate should be produced at the trial as a witness, and it is the duty of the Court to call him before the conclusion of the trial. Emperor v. Sundar. 21 Cr. L. J. 515 :

56 I. C. 77 : 2 U. P. L. R. All. 115 :
A. I. R. 1920 All. 60,

—Ss. 395, 403—Irregularity, effect of—Charge of dacoity—Conviction for misappropriation—No reference to Assessors regarding latter—Validity of conviction.

It is permissible to convict a person, who is accused of the offence of dacoity under S. 395, Penal Code, for the offence of criminal misappropriation under S. 403 of the said Code, and the fact that the Sessions Judge did not expressly invite the Assessors' opinion on a charge under the latter section, is a mere irregularity and does not vitiate the conviction under that section, especially when no prejudice has been caused to the accused thereby. Haron v. Emperor. 30 Cr. L. J. 875 :

118 I. C. 193 : I. R. 1929 Sind 161 :
A. I. R. 1929 Sind 147.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—Ss. 395, 411—Robbery, when complete—Fear caused by one band—Theft by another—Offence.

In order that the offence of robbery be committed, it is not necessary that fear should be caused to the owner of the house after the robbers have entered the house. If the robbers scare away the owner on account of the fear caused in his mind before they are able to make an entry into the house, the offence of robbery would be quite complete. On the other hand, where the owner of a house is scared away by one crowd of persons and the house is subsequently robbed by another crowd, acting independently of the first crowd, the offence cannot be said to be one of robbery. Yamin v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 145 : 83 I. C. 705 : A. I. R. 1924 All. 701.

—Ss. 395, 412—Conviction under S. 412, legality of—Charge under S. 395.

A person who has been charged with dacoity under S. 395, Penal Code, may be convicted under S. 412, Penal Code, if the facts establish the commission of the latter offence, even though he was not charged under S. 412. Hazari v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 1210 : 127 I. C. 247 : 7 O. W. N. 527 : A. I. R. 1930 Oudh 353.

—Ss. 395, 457—Alternative charges under, legality of.

Alternative charges under Ss. 395 and 457, Penal Code, are not bad in law. Bikram Ali v. Emperor. 31 Cr. L. J. 610 : 124 I. C. 66 : 50 C. L. J. 467 : 57 Cal. 801 : A. I. R. 1930 Cal. 139.

—Ss. 395, 457—Conviction under S. 457, legality of—Charge under S. 395.

The circumstances of a case were such that it was open to the Crown to have charged the accused under Ss. 457, 395 or 302, Penal Code. The accused were charged under S. 395 but convicted under S. 457 although there was no fresh charge under the latter section : Held, that the conviction was not illegal in view of the provisions of Ss. 236 and 237. Mathura v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 460 : 101 I. C. 492 : 4 O. W. N. 442 : 2 Luck. 444 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 196.

—S. 396.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 221.
(ii) Penal Code, 1860, S. 302.
(iii) Sentence.

—S. 396—Common object—Dacoity—Liability of each and all dacoits.

Where the common object of dacoits is to resist all opposition even to the point of committing murder, it is clear under S. 396, Penal Code, even if there be no circumstances in the case to point to that conclusion, that if one of the dacoits commits murder, all of them are responsible for that one's act, and it is not necessary for the prosecution to prove that the others expected that murder would be committed. Emperor v. Giryappa Lawmappa.

1 Cr. L. J. 258 : 6 Bom. L. R. 248.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

—S. 396—Conviction under—Robbery with murder—Existence of five persons proved—Some of them not identified—Liability of others.

Where a burglary was committed by a party of five persons, one of whom committed murder in the commission of burglary, and four of them were identified but the fifth was not traced out : Held, that the four persons who were identified could be convicted under S. 396, Penal Code. Mohammad Ahsan v. Emperor.

31 Cr. L. J. 112 :

120 I. C. 490 : A. I. R. 1930 Lah. 263.

—S. 396—Dacoity—Charge against eight persons—Four of whom acquitted—Whether charge sustainable.

When a certain number of persons are charged with having committed a dacoity and half of them are acquitted, the charge of dacoity does not necessarily fail. The charge need not specify that there were other persons accused of the offence besides those convicted and acquitted. The mere fact that the evidence is not sufficient to convict all those actually charged would not, in any way, affect the question of the number of persons engaged. Nashidazzaman v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 193 :

10 I. C. 684 : 15 C. W. N. 434.

—S. 396—Dacoity with murder.

Murder by one of the dacoits in attempting to carry away stolen property—All are punishable for murder. All will be liable if murder is committed by one of the members of the gang "in the commission of the dacoity" though murder is not within contemplation of all. Punjab Singh Ujagar Singh v. Emperor.

35 Cr. L. J. 322 :

147 I. C. 2 : 35 P. L. R. 51 :

15 Lah. 84 : 6 R. L. 339 :

A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 977.

—S. 396—Enhanced punishment—Dacoity with murder—Murder committed by dacoits while retreating.

Murder committed by the dacoits while retreating or carrying away stolen property in order to facilitate their escape, is "murder committed, in the commission of dacoity" within the meaning of S. 396, Penal Code, and renders all of them liable to the enhanced punishment prescribed by that section. Sunda v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 700 :

81 I. C. 188 : A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 142.

—S. 396—Extreme penalty.

Normally extreme penalty is called for in case of wanton murder in dacoity. But where accused made confession without inducement and rendered service to Police, death sentence should not be passed. Nga San Ba v. Emperor.

37 Cr. L. J. 414 :

161 I. C. 14 : 8 R. Rang. 449 :

A. I. R. 1936 Rang. 75.

—S. 396—Jurisdiction.

Jurisdiction to try the offence primarily vests in the Courts of the place where the dacoity was committed, though the offenders may also be liable to be tried for one or other of the offences by the Court within whose jurisdiction the previous hurt or death was caused. Punjab Singh Ujagar Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

35 Cr. L. J. 322 :
147 I. C. 2 : 35 P. L. R. 51 :
15 Lah. 84 : 6 R. L. 339 :
A. I. R. 1933 Lah. 977.

———S. 396—Murder in the commission of dacoity—Murder by dacoits while escaping.

A murder committed in the compound of a house raided by dacoits when they were making good their escape is murder committed in the commission of dacoity within the purview of S. 396, Penal Code. Karim Bakhsh v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 319 :
76 I. C. 1039 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 329.

———S. 396—Scope of—Definition—Dacoity with murder—Murder committed while dacoits were escaping.

Where after the commission of a dacoity, in which, however, the dacoits being interrupted by the villagers, did not get any plunder, the dacoits were attempting to escape, and one or more of them in order to facilitate the escape attacked and killed one of the pursuing party, it was held that S. 396, Penal Code, did not apply, but only the person or persons actually taking part in the killing were liable therefor. Emperor v. Chandar.

3 Cr. L. J. 294 :
26 A. W. N. 47.

———Ss. 396, 302—Sentence—Distinction between in matter of sentence—Sentence of death, if a rule in case of conviction under S. 396, where death has been caused.

As a general rule, a sentence of death should not necessarily follow a conviction under S. 396, Penal Code, where death has been caused, and this section differs from S. 302, Penal Code, in that respect; The rule under S. 302 is that a sentence of death should follow unless reasons are shown for giving a lesser sentence. Lal Singh v. Emperor.

40 Cr. L. J. 132 :
178 I. C. 694 : 1938 A. L. J. 943 :
1938 A. W. N. 642 : 11 R. A. 327 :
I. L. R. 1938 All. 875 :
A. I. R. 1938 All. 625.

———Ss. 396, 412—Miscellaneous—Cr. P. C., S. 110—Result of proceeding under S. 110, whether admissible in prosecution for dacoity.

Where an accused person is on his trial for an offence under S. 396, Penal Code, the fact that in proceedings under S. 110, Cr. P. C., he had been required to give security and had been unable to give it, is not admissible. Asimuddin Sardar v. Emperor.

22 Cr. L. J. 60 :
59 I. C. 204 : 32 C. L. J. 89 :
A. I. R. 1920 Cal. 698.

———S. 397.

See also (i) Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 162.

(ii) Criminal trial.

(iii) Penal Code, 1860, Ss. 34, 44, 805, 894, 897.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 397—Applicability of—Dacoity—One of several dacoits causing grievous hurt—Others, if can be convicted under S. 397.

When a number of persons jointly commit robbery or dacoity, S. 397, Penal Code, applies only to such of them as actually use any deadly weapon or cause grievous hurt or attempt to cause death or grievous hurt to any person. Fazal v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1098 :
97 I. C. 362.

———S. 397—Applicability of—Dacoity with use of deadly weapons—Applicability of section.

S. 397, Penal Code, applies only to the actual person or persons who at the time of committing robbery or dacoity may use any deadly weapon, or may cause grievous hurt to any person or may attempt to cause death or grievous hurt to any person. Emperor v. Nageshwar.

3 Cr. L. J. 322 :
26 A. W. N. 61 : I. L. R. 28 All. 404.

———S. 397—Applicability of—Dacoity with use of deadly weapon.

S. 397, Penal Code, applies only to the persons who actually cause grievous hurt or are themselves armed with deadly weapons. Mohar Singh v. Emperor.

26 Cr. L. J. 1144 :
88 I. C. 456 : 2 Lah. Cas. 5 : 7 L. L. J. 537 :
A. I. R. 1926 Lah. 48.

———S. 397—Applicability of.

S. 397, Penal Code, applies only to those persons who come within the four corners of the enactment and to no other. This section does not create an offence but merely regulates the measure of punishment and is, therefore, applicable only to the individual whose case is covered by it. Maru v. Emperor.

39 Cr. L. J. 119 :
172 I. C. 351 : 10 R. L. 301 :
A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 561.

———S. 397—Conviction under—Dacoity—Deadly weapon used by some alone—Constructive liability of others.

It is only the offender who actually uses the deadly weapon that can be convicted under S. 397, Penal Code, and the constructive liability of his companions does not arise under the section. Khuda Dad v. Emperor.

28 Cr. L. J. 156 :
99 I. C. 412 : A. I. R. 1927 Lah. 791 (2).

———S. 397—Deadly weapons—What are.

Obiter.—Sticks are deadly weapons within the meaning of S. 397, Penal Code, in a country where many, if not most, murders are committed with sticks. Ghassu v. Emperor.

25 Cr. L. J. 1181 :
82 I. C. 45 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 136.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 397—Interpretation.

The words of S. 397, Penal Code, do not exclude the operation of the provisions of Ss. 114 and 34 of the Code. Ghassu v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1181 : 82 I. C. 45 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 136.

———S. 397—Lathi, if deadly weapon.

A lathi cannot be rightly described as a deadly weapon within the meaning and for the purposes of S. 397, Penal Code. Lal Khan v. Emperor. 13 Cr. L. J. 182 : 13 I. C. 998 : 19 P. W. R. 1912 Cr. : 11 P. L. R. 1912.

———S. 397—Miscellaneous.

Though the mere omission to tell the Jury that a finding that each individual accused used deadly weapon is necessary in order to convict him under S. 397, is not misdirection or non-direction, yet it is safer for the Judge to do so. Sahadev Sain v. Emperor. 32 Cr. L. J. 476 : 130 I. C. 267 : I. R. 1931 Pat. 171 : A. I. R. 1931 Pat. 49.

———S. 397—Offence of—Dacoity, when established—Dangerous weapons used—Offence—Sticks, whether “dangerous weapons”—Ss. 34, 114, operation of.

S. 397 and not S. 398, Penal Code, applies to a case in which a dacoity has been committed and not merely attempted, and weapons were not merely carried by the dacoits but were actually used by them, if only by being shown or brandished, even without verbal threats of using them. Ghassu v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 1181 : 82 I. C. 45 : A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 136.

———S. 397—Scope of—Dacoity—Accused not proved to have used deadly weapon or caused grievous hurt—Conviction under S. 397, whether illegal.

S. 397, Penal Code, only applies to a person who himself uses a deadly weapon or causes grievous hurt. An accused who is not proved to have used any deadly weapon or caused grievous hurt cannot, therefore, be convicted under S. 397, Penal Code. Abdul Karim v. Emperor. 28 Cr. L. J. 520 : 102 I. C. 216 : 4 O. W. N. 459 : A. I. R. 1927 Oudh 193.

———S. 397—Scope of—Dacoity—One of a band of dacoits using deadly weapon.

The fact that one of a band of dacoits uses a spear, does not necessarily bring the other dacoits within the provisions as to punishment in S. 397, Penal Code. Nga Sein v. Emperor. 3 Cr. L. J. 354 : 3 L. B. R. 121.

———S. 397—Scope of—Deadly weapon carried by one of the robbers.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

A robber cannot be convicted under S. 397, Penal Code, merely because one of his associates carried a deadly weapon. Po Win v. Emperor. 14 Cr. L. J. 432 : 20 I. C. 416 : 6 Bur. L. T. 88 : 7 L. B. R. 26.

———S. 397—Scope of—Dacoity with grievous hurt—Conviction, form of—Enhanced punishment liability of.

S. 397, Penal Code, does not contain any substantive offence but merely prescribes the minimum punishment which can be awarded if robbery or dacoity is attended with certain circumstances mentioned in the section. A conviction merely under S. 397 has no meaning. A conviction in the case of a dacoity should be under S. 395 read with S. 397, Penal Code, in cases where the latter section applies. S. 397 applies only to the case of persons taking part in a dacoity, who themselves used deadly weapons, or themselves caused grievous hurt, or attempted to cause death or grievous hurt, and does not apply to the case of persons taking part in a dacoity who may be liable for substantive offences committed by some of the parties only by virtue of S. 34 of the Code. Dulli v. Emperor. 26 Cr. L. J. 570 : 85 I. C. 714 : 47 All. 59 : A. I. R. 1925 All. 305.

———S. 397—Scope of.

S. 397 can only be applied to persons who actually used deadly weapons at the time of the commission of the dacoity or caused or attempted to cause death or grievous hurt at the time. Bala Huddar v. Emperor. 35 Cr. L. J. 594 : 148 I. C. 157 : 6 R. N. 167 : A. I. R. 1933 Nag. 252.

———S. 397—Scope of.

S. 397, Penal Code, does not constitute a separate offence; it merely provides for a minimum sentence in cases where in the course of committing a dacoity any offender causes grievous hurt. Wadhawa Singh v. Emperor. 25 Cr. L. J. 259 : 76 I. C. 819 : A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 389.

———S. 397—Scope of—Stolen property recovered from accused—Accused identified by prosecution witnesses—No allegation that he was armed with deadly weapon or that he caused grievous hurt or death—S. 397, whether applies.

Where apart from the fact that a part of the stolen property is recovered from the accused, he has been identified by most of the prosecution witnesses who had come into contact with him at the time the robbery was committed but no witness has alleged that he was armed with any deadly weapon at the time of committing robbery or that he had caused grievous hurt or attempted to cause death or grievous hurt to any of his victims, S. 397, is not applicable. Maru v. Emperor. 39 Cr. L. J. 119 : 172 I. C. 351 : 10 R. L. 301 : A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 561.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———S. 397 — Sentence — Seven years' rigorous imprisonment.

A person convicted under S. 397, Penal Code, cannot be sentenced for a period of imprisonment less than seven years. Emperor v. Radhia.

29 Cr. L. J. 35 :
106 I. C. 451 : 9 P. L. T. 572.

———S. 397—Sentence under — Robbers exhibiting weapons but not inflicting blows with them if can be punished under section.

If robbers so exhibit dangerous weapons as to intend that by their exhibition of them, the persons robbed or sought to be robbed are likely to be further intimidated and that the commission of robbery might be facilitated, the robbers can be punished under S. 397, Penal Code, although they do not actually inflict blows with these weapons. In re : Thevar Servai.

39 Cr. L. J. 323 :
173 I. C. 450 : 1938 M. W. N. 215 :
10 R. N. 587 : A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 477.

———S. 397—'Such offender', meaning of—Grievous hurt caused by one of several offenders—Others, whether liable to enhanced punishment.

The words "such offender" in S. 397, Penal Code, refer to the offender who uses a deadly weapon or causes grievous hurt to any person and do not include those who jointly commit robbery or dacoity with him. Ilahia v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 405 :
72 I. C. 517 : A. I. R. 1924 Lah. 409.

———S. 397—'Uses any deadly weapon', scope of.

The words "uses any deadly weapon" in S. 397, include a case in which a person levels a revolver in the hands of another person to overawe him. Chandra Nath v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 926 :
139 I. C. 742 : 9 O. W. N. 152 :
7 Luck. 543 : I. R. 1932 Oudh 387 :
A. I. R. 1932 Oudh 103.

———S. 397—'Uses,' meaning of—Use of handle of axe, whether use of deadly weapon.

The word "uses" in S. 397, Penal Code, should be construed in a wide sense so as to include not merely cutting, stabbing or shooting (as the case may be) but also carrying the weapon for the purpose of overawing the person robbed. A hatchet being a deadly weapon, it will be deemed to have been used as a deadly weapon whether it is its head or handle that is used. Nazar Shuh v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 334 (b) :
92 I. C. 750 : 20 S. L. R. 46 :
A. I. R. 1926 Sind 150.

———Ss. 397, 326—Power of Judge—Robbery—Robbery not proved—Conviction for grievous hurt under S. 326.

A Jury, in a Sessions case, is competent, where a charge under S. 397, Penal Code, is not established, to convict the accused of an offence under S. 326, Penal Code, where the facts proved establish the commission of that offence. In re : Adabala Abdul Muthiyalu.

13 Cr. L. J. 739 :
17 I. C. 51 : 37 Mad. 236.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

———Ss. 397, 398—Scope of—Companions of actual offender, liability of—Abetment of offence under S. 398.

S. 398, Penal Code, does not by itself create an offence but merely lays down a minimum punishment for attempted robbery or for dacoity of a certain kind. Ss. 397 and 398, Penal Code, apply only to the person actually armed and cannot be utilised as against the companions of the actual offender who themselves are not armed with deadly weapons at the time when the substantive offence is committed. Neither can a man be convicted of abetting an offence under S. 398, Penal Code. Nga Pu v. Emperor.

27 Cr. L. J. 1285 (b) :
98 I. C. 181 : 5 Bur. L. J. 103 :
A. I. R. 1926 Rang. 207.

———Ss. 397, 398—Scope of—Dacoity—Dacoits armed with deadly weapons—"Offender" and "such offender," meaning of—S. 34, applicability of.

Neither S. 397, nor S. 398, Penal Code, creates an offence. The effect of these sections is merely to limit the minimum of punishment which may be awarded if certain facts are proved. The intention of the Legislature in framing Ss. 397 and 398, was that while all persons who combine to commit robbery or dacoity are liable in respect of the substantive offence, any particular offender who is proved to have used or carried a deadly weapon shall receive a punishment not less than that specified in those two sections. The terms "offender" and "such offender" in S. 397 and 398, denote those persons only who have personally committed the acts therein described, and do not refer to other persons who in combination with such persons have committed the offences of robbery or dacoity. S. 34 Penal Code, has no materiality when the Court is considering the meaning of Ss. 397 and 398. Emperor v. Ali Mirza.

25 Cr. L. J. 1024 :
81 I. C. 800 : 51 Cal. 265 :
A. I. R. 1924 Cal. 643.

———S. 398.

See also Penal Code, 1860, S. 34.

———S. 398—Applicability of.

S. 398 is applicable only to a case of an attempt to commit robbery and has no application to a case in which the robbery has actually been committed. Chandra Nath v. Emperor.

33 Cr. L. J. 926 :
139 I. C. 742 : 9 O. W. N. 152 :
7 Luck. 543 : I. R. 1932 Oudh 387 :
A. I. R. 1932 Oudh 103.

———S. 398—Charges for abetment of offence under S. 398, legality of.

Where the accused were charged under two heads, viz. (1) that they committed the offence of robbery and aided and abetted each other in that offence, and (2) that they committed the robbery, and at the time of committing such offence, were armed with a deadly weapon and aided and abetted each other in the commission of the said offence: Held, that that part of the second charge which fell under S. 114 of the Penal Code read with S. 398, was illegal and should be withdrawn from the Jury. Emperor v. Nabibux Karimbux Mulla.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

29 Cr. L. J. 383 :
107 I. C. 705 : 30 Bom. L. R. 88 :
52 Bom. 168 : 1 L. T. 40 Bom. 92 :
A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 52.

———S. 398—Scope.

S. 398, Penal Code, does not create any substantive offence, but only regulates the punishment when certain facts are found to exist in the commission of the substantive offence of robbery. Emperor v. Nabibux Karimbux Mulla.

29 Cr. L. J. 383 :
107 I. C. 705 : 30 Bom. L. R. 88 :
52 Bom. 168 : 1 L. T. 40 Bom. 92 :
A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 52.

———S. 398 — Scope of—Section does not create substantive offence.

S. 398 does not create a substantive offence. It merely provides that if any member of gang of dacoits is armed with lethal weapon during the commission of a dacoity, such member is to suffer a minimum punishment of 7 years. Bakhtawar Singh v. Emperor.

A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 66.

———Ss. 398, 393 — Miscellaneous—Charge and finding under S. 398—S. 393, should also be mentioned—Omission curable under S. 537, Cr. P. C.

In a charge and finding under S. 398, Penal Code, the substantive S. 393, should be mentioned as well as the supplementary S. 398. The omission to specify the section would, however, be covered by S. 537, Cr. P. C. Chan Hok v. Emperor.

12 Cr. L. J. 468 :
11 I. C. 1004 : 4 Bur. L. T. 198.

———S. 399.

See also Cr. P. C., 1898, S. 230 (d).

———S. 399 — Conviction under, legality of.

Group of persons sitting round fire—Some of them having fire-arms—No evidence of intention to commit dacoity—On seeing headman, running away: Held, conviction under S. 399 could not be sustained. Nga Lim v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1384 (2) :
158 I. C. 500 : 8 R. Rang. 173 :
A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 294.

———S. 399—Evidence.

Accused found with gun, lathis, etc., in a room—Prosecution proving offence under S. 399—Accused offering no explanation of incriminating circumstances: Held, prosecution evidence must be accepted. Bhagwan Bakhsh v. Emperor.

36 Cr. L. J. 1003 :
156 I. C. 815 : 8 R. O. 4 :
1935 O. W. N. 770 :
A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 471.

———S. 399—Evidence—Evidence of previous conduct of accused, admissibility of.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

Where in a trial upon a charge under S. 399, Penal Code, the accused plead that their presence at the particular spot, armed and in company was accidental and innocent, it is open to the prosecution to rebut the plea, and S. 15, Evidence Act, admits the production of any evidence which would determine the construction to be placed upon the acts of the accused which in themselves might or might not be preparation for dacoity, and evidence that one or more members of the gang had been concerned in previous and similar offences committed at the same place is admissible for the purpose. Khwaja Hassan v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 136 :
71 I. C. 360.

———S. 399—Offence under—Preparation to commit dacoity—Assembling armed near scene of contemplated dacoity, whether amounts to preparation.

Though the mere assemblage to commit dacoity does not amount to preparation within the meaning of S. 399, Penal Code, yet where the members of the gang have taken into their possession instruments of house-breaking and arms for the purpose of offence and defence, and have actually proceeded to a place near the scene of the contemplated dacoity, they are guilty of an offence under the section. Karim Bakhsh v. Emperor.

29 Cr. L. J. 575 :
109 I. C. 593 : 9 Lah. 550 :
A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 193.

———S. 399 — Preparation for committing dacoity, what constitutes—Mere assemblage not enough—Overt act towards commission of dacoity necessary.

In order to constitute the offence of "preparation for committing dacoity" within the purview of S. 399, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the accused should have done an overt act towards the commission of dacoity. The law requires that they should have done some act to get ready for a dacoity. A mere assemblage to commit dacoity does not amount to preparation; but where it is found that the members of a gang had taken in their possession instruments for house-breaking, the Court is justified in holding that there was not a mere assemblage but that the members of the assembly had got ready for the actual commission of a dacoity. Karmun v. Emperor.

17 Cr. L. J. 280 :
34 I. C. 1000 : 6 P. R. 1916 Cr. :
37 P. W. R. 1916 Cr. :
A. I. R. 1916 Lah. 334.

———S. 399—Preparation to commit dacoity.

Six persons joined together and went to a village with the object of committing dacoity armed with fire-arms. On being suspected by villagers, some of them fired at the villagers and wounded them: Held, that the conduct of the accused amounted to preparation to commit dacoity within the meaning of S. 399, Penal Code, and they can be convicted of an offence under that section. Indar Singh v. Emperor.

PENAL CODE ACT (XLV OF 1860)

27 Cr. L. J. 1161 :
97 I. C. 745 : 8 L. L. J. 406 :
27 P. L. R. 752.

———S. 399—Scope of.

In order to establish an offence under S. 399, Penal Code, it is not necessary that the persons, to be making the preparation, should be five or more in number. But it is necessary to prove that the raid for which they were making preparation, was to be committed by five or more persons. Otherwise, it would not be dacoity but merely robbery, and mere preparation for committing robbery, unless it ends in an actual attempt, is not punishable by law. Khwaja Hassan v. Emperor.

24 Cr. L. J. 136 :
71 I. C. 360.

———Ss. 399, 400, 402—Alternative charges.

